To the furtherance of Persons well-affected herein, I have (according to the poverty of my Talent) drawn up A Compendious Analytical Exposition of every Book of the Holy Scriptures, (which from my youth up hitherto have been my most endeared delights:) And have entituled it, THE KEY OF THE BIBLE, because it tends to Unlock and open the Richest Treasury of the Holy Scriptures, to such as desire to be well acquainted with the whole Counsel of God [q].

This small Mite of mine cast into the Temple-Treasury, I now humbly Present and Dedicate to your Honour, my Right Noble LORD, as a publique Testimony of mine abundant thankfulness for your ample and un-merited Favours devolved upon me, in vouchsafing me the First of all your Presentations [r]; And, after your Honours Access unto your Earldome, your First Chaplain-Nomination [s]: And both, most nobly and Gratuitously. Now He that hath the KEY of David, opening and no man shutteth, shutting and no man openeth [t], Open his hand wide, and poure upon your Honour, and your Noble Family, All the Blessings of the Book of God, the HOLY SCRIPTURES, in this and the World to come. So Prayeth,

AN INTRODUCTORY ADVERTISEMENT TO THE READER

Containing 1. The Worth of Scripture-Knowledge. 2. Some General Directions or Rules for the Right Understanding the Holy Scriptures: And how this present Treatise is to be Improved most advantageously to that end.

CHAP. I.

The Scope of this Key of the BIBLE.

THE Holy Scriptures are the [a] lively Oracles of the living God, unfolding the secrets of his Will to man; The Epistle of Jesus Christ, Revealing from Heaven the saving mysteries of his sweetest love unto his Church: and the Blessed Charter of the Saints, which no Tract of time shall reverse; whereby they hold of God all their present enjoyments, in the life that now is, and all their future hopes of that life which is to come. [b] Chrysostome prefers Scripture before Angels; and saith, [c] Get ye Bibles, the medicines of the soule. [d] Job esteemed them more then his necessary food. Paul [e] delighted therein touching the inward man. David preferred them before [f] the honey and the honey-combe; before [g] great spoil, [h] thousands of gold and silver, [i] all riches, and therefore accounted them his [k] heritage, his [l] Counsellors, his [m] comfort, &c. Yea, professeth [n] his heart did break for longing to Gods judgements at all times. And every godly and truly blessed man should make the Scripture, his [o] delight, and meditate therein night and day.

Notwithstanding, how many gracious soules are there, whose delight it is to repair often to this Sanctuary of the Scriptures, (as [p] Augustine stiles them) but cannot tell what they see there, of the Lord, and of his glory; who frequently reade in this blessed Book, but (like the [q] Ethiopian Eunuch) understand not, or not to purpose, what they reade? And this comes to pass, 1 Partly, through the sublimity of those supernatural and heavenly mysteries therein revealed, whereby [r] some things are hard to be understood. 2 Partly through the obscure and mysterious manner of Scriptures revealing many things, whereby the Lord would exercise the sharpest and deepest apprehensions of men. 3 Partly through the defect of some familiar Manu-duction into the whole Bible, and the several Books of Old and New Testament therein contained, which might like a Clew of thread conduct into these Sacred Treasuries, and like a Key unlock this Cabinet of Christs richest Jewels. Wherupon, after much deliberation how this might be best effected, apprehending that som brief and solid Discovery of the 1 Order, 2 Names, 3 Times, 4 Penmen, 5 Occasion, 6 Scope, And 7 Principal Parts of the Books in the Bible would much conduce to ri, en Christians in Bible knowledge, spreading before their eyes in A general view the Current of the whole Scriptures: I entred upon this Task, and drew up this Treatise at first more compendiously in order to all these seven several ends. But in the Second Edition more fully and largely, in all the forementioned * particulars, especially specially in the Principal-parts of the Books; Adding (by way of Appendix to several Books) the Sacred Songs, dispersed here and there up and down the Old and New Testament: And now at last in this third Edition, I have Added the whole Book of Psalms, Analytically Explained, and Metrically Translated, and that immediately out of the Hebrew Original. And I doubt not but the judicious Reader will reape much satisfaction in, and advantage by this Edition.

By way of Preface, be pleased to pause a little with me upon the serious consideration of 1. The great worth of Scripture-knowledge. 2. The ready way how to attain to it. That will quicken Christians to Scripture-study. This will help them to Scripture-understanding.

CHAP. II.

The Great Worth of Scripture-knowledge.

SCripture-knowledge is of great worth and consequence to every Christian. Or, The Holy Scriptures are most worthy of all Christians constant study, and utmost endeavours to understand them. For,

I. The Author inventing and inditing the Holy Scriptures is God blessed for ever, Father, Sonne, and Holy Ghost; [f] All Scripture is divinely inspired. Hence called the [t] Oracles of God; [u] The Word of Christ. And the [x] Saying of the Holy Ghost; [y] For the Prophecy came not at any time by the Will of man, but holy men of God spake as they were moved by the Holy Ghost. We are apt to value, desire to study and understand the Books of godly, learned, and judicious mens making: How much more should we endeavour to the utmost to understand the Scriptures, which are the only Books of Gods making? Mens Writings are too much mingled with vanity, ignorance, folly, mistakes, imperfections, infirmities and corruptions, savouring much of a carnal spirit, when most spiritual: But Gods Word is satisfactorily [z] full, without all vanity; most wise, [a] faithful and true, without all falshood or folly; Compleatly [a] perfect, beyond all imperfection; [b] most pure, and [c] exceedingly refined, without all corruption, and without all carnal mixtures; wholly spiritual, sweetly resembling that most spiritual Spirit that did indite them.

II. The Amanuenses or Penmen of the Holy Ghost for the Scriptures, were not contemptible or ordinary, but incomparable and extraordinary persons. As Moses the [d] meekest man on earth, the peculiar Favourite of God, with whom [e] God talked face to face; the [f] None-such of all the Prophets in Israel. Samuel, [g] that mighty man in prayer. David the King, that [h] man after Gods own heart. King Solomon, that [i] wisest of all the Kings, whom God honoured with the [k] building of the Temple. Daniel, in whom was found [l] an excellent spirit, and great dexterity in [m] expounding secrets and mysteries. John [n] the Disciple whom Jesus loved above all the rest, [o] who leaned on Jesus breast. Paul [p] who was caught up into the third Heavens, whose writings (saith [q] Chrysostom) like a wall of adamant, compass about, or surround all the Churches. In a word, [r] all of them holy men of God, moved by the Holy Ghost. These being the Penmen, how incomparable and extraordinary must their Writings needs be? who would not study them, and earnestly pry into them?

III. The matter of the Scriptures is most inviting, able to allure the hearts of men and Angels to the study of them, yea to transport and ravish their spirits in the understanding of them. [s] Herein are revealed most profound and inexplicable mysteries, The Nature of the blessed GOD, simple, without composition; [t] All-sufficient, without any external Addition; [t] Immutable, without all shadow of alteration; [u] Eternal, [x] Immense, Incomprehensible, [y] Omnipresent, and wholly [z] Infinite, without all limitation, &c. The [a] Unity of Essence, The [b] Trinity of Persons; The Father not being the Sonne, nor either of them the Holy Ghost; yet all of them the Holy God. The Secrets of Gods eternal counsels, especially touching the the [c] Electing of his own in Christ, Predestinating them to the Adoption of children, when all others are passed by. The curious Order of the Creation, to bring his purposes to pass. The Permission of mans fall from the Pinacle of his natural integrity, that thereby he might take occasion to glorifie the height of justice and mercy in raising him up by Christ to a far higher pitch of supernatural felicity. The person and office of Jesus Christ the Mediatour, and both altogether [d] wonderful, [e] God and man united in one person, to unite God and man in one Covenant; The Son of God became the Son of man, to make the sons of men sons of God. A King, to subdue all our enemies to us, and us to himself. A Prophet, to unveile the bosome-secrets of his Father unto us. A Priest, offering up himself, upon himself, by himself; offering up himself, the Sacrifice, as man; upon himself, the Altar, as God; by himself, the Priest, as God-man. Christ was humbled, and thereby we exalted, Christ wounded, we healed; Christ accused, we cleared; Christ condemned, we justified and acquitted; Christ accursed, we blessed; Christ slain, and we live; and Christ conquered, that so we might be more then Conquerors through Christ that loves us. What shall I say? In Scripture is revealed, how Enemies are reconciled, Sinners justified, Aliens adopted, Beggars made Heirs and coheirs with Christ, and how dust and ashes shall be glorified for evermore.

Here are unfolded the [f] Covenant of grace, wholly made up of heavenly cordials. The [g] Promises of the life that now is, and that which is to come, [h] exceeding great and precious. The [i] Comforts of God, able to counterpoise the deepest disconsolations. And [k] Commands, surpassing all the Laws in the World, in holiness, justice, and goodness.

Here are discovered, The miseries of all that are in the first Adam, The felicities of all that are in the second Adam; and the way how poor souls are translated from those miseries, to these felicities.

Here you shall find 1. God descending to man, In preparing all spiritual priviledges for sinners in Jesus Christ our Saviour, In tendring richest Grace by Covenant-Promises and Ordinances, and In applying these preparations and tenders actually to the soul by the Spirit. 2. Man ascending unto God, by the Spiritualizing of his Nature, Acting of his Faith, Aspiring of his desires, Fervency of his Prayers, and Holy Tendency of his conversation, yea, both God and man sweetly closing together in a most intimate Communion in Jesus Christ, which is as another Paradise, and Heaven on Earth.

In a word, what is there not in Holy Scriptures? Are we poor? Here's a Treasury of riches. Are we sick? Here's a Shop of Soul-Medicines. Are we fainting? Here's a Cabinet of Cordials. Are we Christless? Here's the star that leads to Christ. Are we Christians? Here's the bands that keep in Christ. Are we afflicted? Here's our solace. Are we persecuted? Here's our Protection. Are we deserted? Here's our Recovery. Are we tempted? Heres [m] our sword and victory. Are we young? Here's our beauty. Are we old? Here's our wisdome. While we live, here's the Rule of our Conversation; when we dye, heres the hope of our Glorification. So that I may say with Tertullian; [n] I adore the fulness of the Scripture. Oh blessed Scriptures! Who can know them, and not love them? Who can love them, and not delight to meditate in them night and day? Who can meditate in them, and not desire to love them, love to desire them, and both desire and love to understand them? This is the Book of books; (as David said of Goliahs Sword) there's none like that.

Said one,

Reject the chaff; and spend thy pains
In gleaning up these Golden grains.

Take away our Papers (said p Auguſtine) and bring amongſt us the Book of God; hear Chriſt ſaying, hear Truth ſpeaking, &c. I may cloſe up this Paragraph with his words, who thus emphatically expreſſeth himſelf, * The ſacred Scripture is the Book of life, whoſe Original is eternal, whoſe eſſence is incorporeal, whoſe knowledge is life, whoſe writing is indelible, whoſe inſpect is deſireable, whoſe Doctrine is eaſie, whoſe knowledge is ſweet, whoſe depth is unſearchable, whoſe words are innumerable; and onely one word All.

V. The forme of the Scripture, both Inward and Outward, if well conſidered, commands all poſſible endeavours and induſtry for the underſtanding thereof.

1. The Inward form, is, That accurate conformity of the things laid down in Scripture, to that infallible and eternal truth of Gods own underſtanding, that indited and revealed them. Writings compiled by men carry in them a conformity to the idea in their underſtanding, which being ſubject to ignorance, error and corruption; through the imperfection that is in them, muſt needs produce writings ſemblably imperfect, ignorant, erroneous and corrupt: but no ſuch thing can be incident unto the Scriptures, which are conforme to the Divine underſtanding of q the only wiſe God, which is r infinite, ſ unſearchable, and wholly admirable, which is all t Light without any darkneſs at all; all u Truth, without the leaſt errour; All perfect, without any ſhadow of imperfection; all pure, without any colour of Corruption. So that the Scriptures of themſelves cannot lead us unto errour, but the more we truly underſtand them the more our minds ſhall be enriched with truth, and elevated to a conformity to the ſupream truth of God.

2. The Outward forme of the Scriptures, or manner how things are therein revealed, is not onely plain and eaſie, nor onely dark or difficult, but rather x mixt of both; ſome things being facile, y ſome things being hard to be underſtood; ſome places are ſuch ſhallowes, wherein Lambs need not be afraid to wade, ſome again ſuch deeps as Elephants may be enforced to ſwim. z By plainneſs God nouriſheth the weakeſt, by obſcureneſs he exerciſes the acuteſt, (As Auguſtine hath intimated) That facility occaſion not our contempt of Scriptures, there are interwoven ſome difficulties; that difficulties deterre not from the ſtudy of Scripture, there are intermingled ſome facilities. For as a Auguſtine notes, If all were ſhut up, how ſhould obſcure things be revealed? If all things were hid, whence ſhould the ſoule have ability to knock for the opening of things ſhut up? Is therefore our Capacity weaker? Here's relief for our infirmity: Is our apprehenſion deeper? Here's work enough for the ſharpeſt perſpicacity. So that the moſt ignorant need not be afraid, the moſt intelligent need not be aſhamed of endeavours after Scripture-underſtanding.

V. The end is manifold and excellent, for which God committed his word to writing, and that writing to us. viz. b For Doctrine, that Faith and Truth may be aſſerted; For reproofe or conviction, that errour may be confuted: As Athanaſius ſaid, Hereticks are to be ſtoned with Scripture c Arguments; For correction of manners enormous or offenſive; For inſtruction in the paths of righteouſneſs; and for d Conſolation that drooping dejected diſtreſſed ſpirits may not be overwhelmed.

This

This ſweet Conſolatory vertue, and Soul-ſupporting property of the Scriptures is very evident, and demonſtrated by the happy experience and ſenſe of comfort which divers precious ſervants of the Lord have found in the Holy Scriptures in their dolours, anxieties and troubles of conſciences deepeſt afflictions; and ſtraights of death it ſelf.

David was wont to comfort himſelf with the Word of God eſpecially in all his ſaddeſt afflictions. c This is my comfort in my affliction; for thy Word hath quickned me. The proud have had me greatly in deriſion; yet have I not declined from thy Lawes. I remembred thy judgements of old, O LORD, and have comforted my ſelf; yea he elſewhere profeſſeth, unleſs thy Law had been my delights, f I had then periſhed in mine afflictions. Paul comforting the Theſſalonians in the death of their Chriſtian friends, writes to them of the future Reſurrection, Judgement, and glory of the Saints, and concludes, g Wherefore comfort one another with theſe words. And the love-ſick Church of Chriſt her ſelf, being ready to fall into a ſpiritual ſwoon, through ſenſe of her own infirmities, and Chriſts eſtrangements from her, cries to the Miniſters and her other friends, h O ſtay me with flagons, and comfort me with Apples, for I am ſick of love! Wine and Apples are pleaſant refreſhing Cordials to feeble fainting ſpirits: ſo the precious Promiſes and Goſpel-doctrines of Chriſt are to his love-wounded ſoules.

Auguſtine, and his dear companion Alipius, how were they in their great ſoul-afflictions, comforted and raiſed up with two ſentences of Scripture? Auguſtine deeply laying to heart all his miſery, ſuch a mighty ſtorm aroſe in his ſoul, as brought a ſhower of tears; he roſe from Alipius, where they ſate together, and withdrew from him a good diſtance, that he might more freely and fully poure out himſelf into teares. I laid me down (ſaith i Auguſtine) under a certain fig-tree, I know not how, and I opened ſluce to tears, and the floods of mine eyes burſt out, thy acceptable ſacrifice. And not in theſe words, but to this ſenſe, I ſpake many things to thee, k But thou, O Lord, how long? l How long, wilt thou be angry for ever! m O remember not former iniquities! For I felt my ſelf held by them, and I caſt forth miſerable expreſſions. How long, how long! To morrow, and to morrow! Why not now? why not this houre an end of my filthineſs? Theſe things I ſpake, and wept in the bitter contrition of mine heart. And behold I heard a voice (as of a boy or girle, I know not whether) from a neighbouring houſe, ſaying with ſinging, and oft repeating, n TAKE UP AND READE, TAKE UP AND READE. And preſently with changed countenance I intentively began to think, whether Boyes in playing were wont to ſing any ſuch thing; nor could I remember that I ever heard it. The violence of my teares being repreſſed, I roſe up; interpreting nothing elſe to be divinely commanded me, then that I ſhould open the book, and reade what chapter I firſt found. For I had heard of Antonius, that by reading of the Goſpel which he happily light upon, he was admoniſhed, as if what he had read had been ſpoken to him; Go and ſell all that thou haſt, and give to the poor, and thou ſhalt have treaſure in Heaven, and come follow me: And that by this Oracle he was preſently converted to thee. Therefore being thus incited, I returned to the ſame place where Alipius ſate; for there I had laid the Apoſtles book, when I thence aroſe. I ſnatcht it up, opened, and ſilently read that Chapter on which mine eyes were firſt caſt. o Not in rioting and drunkenneſs; not in chambering and wantonneſs, not in ſtrife and envying; But put ye on the Lord Jeſus Chriſt, and make no proviſion for the fleſh to fulfil the luſts therof. Nor would I reade further; nor was there need. For preſently with the cloſe of this Sentence, as it were with the light of ſecurity infuſ'd into mine heart, all my darkſom doubtings fled away. Then either putting my finger in the place, or what other ſign I know not, I ſhut the Book, and with a chearful countenance I told it to Alipius. But what was done in himſelf, which I knew not, he thus declared: He asks to ſee what I read, I ſhewed it; and he attended further then I read, I not knowing what followed. But it followed, p him that is weak in the faith receive ye, which he applied to himſelf, and opened unto me. But by this admonition he was confirmed, & without all turbulent delay was conjoined in a good pleaſure and purpoſe, moſt congruous to his maners, wherin he long ago excelled me. Therupon we go in to my mother, tell her, ſhe rejoyceth; we declare how it was don, ſhe exalts and triumphs, and bleſſeth thee, who art able to do above all that we are able to ask or think, because she saw that thou hadst granted her far more concerning me, then she was wont with her miserable and lamentable groans to ask of thee. Thus far Augustine. Who would not now delight to reade, and understand the Scriptures, whereby Augustine and Alipius were thus converted and comforted.

Father Latymer, standing at the stake ready to shed his hearts blood for the truth, lifting up his eyes to heaven, with an amiable and chearful countenance, comforted himself with that Scripture; q Faithful is God, who will not suffer us to be tempted above what we are able, 1 Cor. 10. 13.

Alice Benden Martyr, being kept in prison nine weeks, fed with bread and water, sequestred from her companions, was in great heavinesse; till on a night, as she was in her sorrowful supplications, rehearsing, r Why art thou cast down O my soul, &c. And again, the right hand of the most High can change all this,---She received comfort.

Mr. Midgeley Minister at Ratchdale in Lancashire; oppressed with Melancholy and sad temptations to self-murder, and going down to the waterside to drown himself (as is credibly reported) having the New Testament in his pocket, it came into his thoughts, before he flung himself in, to reade a little in his Testament, and opening it, happily first cast his eye upon that cordial Promise, Come unto me all ye that labour, and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest, &c. Mat. 11. 28, 29. Wherupon he was so supported, that he inferred; Sayst thou so? then I will not drown my self, &c.

Touching this one Scripture; s one said, We had better want meat, drink, light of the Sun, Aire, Earth, all the Elements, yea, life it self, then that one sweet sentence of our Saviour, Come unto me, &c.

Mrs. Kath. Brettergh of Bretterghoult in Lancashire (who was wont to task her self to t reade of the Scripture 8. Chap. day at least) in her sickness before her death fell into great distress of soul, through apprehensions of the severity of Gods Justice, the greatnesse of her sins, want of faith, love to God, &c. Sometimes she would cast her Bible from her, and say, u It was indeed the Book of life; but she had read the same unprofitably, and therefore feared it was become to her the Book of death. Sometime she would say, Her sins had made her x A Prey to Satan, a Spectacle to the World, a disgrace to Religion, and a shame to her husband, kindred, and all true Christians: And here she would weep bitterly. She wished she had never been born, or that she had been any other creature rather then a woman. She cried out oftentimes, Woe, woe, woe, &c. a weak, a woful, a wretched, a forsaken woman: and such like pitiful complaints against her self, with tears continually trickling down her cheeks.

But at last she was before her death restored to joyes and comforts unspeakable by means of the Scriptures. y Oh (said she) my soule hath been compassed about with terrors of death, feare within, and fear without; the sorrows of hell were upon me, knots and knors were upon my soul, (which twice or thrice she repeated) and a roaring wilderness of woe was within me: but blessed, blessed, blessed, be the Lord my God, who hath not left me comfortless, &c.—z One time she took her Bible in her hand, and joyfully kissing it, and looking up towards Heaven, she said, O Lord, it is good for me that I have been afflicted, that I might learn thy Statutes. The law of thy mouth is better to me then thousands of gold and silver, Ps. 119. 71, 72. ——a She desired her husband to reade some part of Scripture. He read the 17. of John, as he read vers. 9. I pray not for the world, but for them which thou hast given me, for they are thine, she interrupted him, saying, O Lord Jesus, dost thou pray for me? O blessed and sweet Saviour, how wonderful! how wonderful! how wonderful are thy mercies! Reade on (said she) the blessedst reading that ever I heard, the comfort whereof doth sweeten my soul ——. When he came to ver. 24. Father, I will that they whom thou hast given me, be with me, &c. Stay (said she) and let me meditate on the goodness of the Lord; for now I perceive and feel the countenance of Christ my Redeemer is turned towards me, and the bright shining beames of his mercy are spread over me: Oh happy am I that ever I was born to see this blessed day! Praise, praise, oh praise the Lord for his mercies, for he hath brought me out of darkness and the shadow of death, &c. ——*O my sweet Saviour, shall I be one with thee, as thou art one with thy Father? Father before the World was? And dost thou so love me (which am but dust and ashes) to make me Partaker of glory with Christ? What am I poor wretch, that thou art so mindful of me? Oh how wonderful! how wonderful! how wonderful is thy love, &c. ——— To a Christian friend that came in to see her, wondring at her joyes, she said; O the joyes! the joyes! the joyes that I feel in my soul! they be wonderful! they be wonderful! they be wonderful! and thus she continued ravisht in spirit, and triumphing in Gods praises till her last. [c] At last with a sweet countenance and still voice she said, My warfare is accomplished, and mine iniquities are pardoned. Lord, whom have I in Heaven but thee, and I have none on earth but thee. My flesh faileth, and my heart also; but God is the strength of mine heart, and my portion for ever. He that preserveth Jacob, and defendeth his Israel, he is my God, and will guide me unto death. Guide me O Lord my God, and suffer me not to faint, but keep my soul in safety. And with that she presently fell asleep in the Lord.

Mr. John Holland B.D. a memorable Saint, and rarely qualified Preacher, how did he comfort himself with the holy Scriptures, in the valley of the shadow of death? The day before he died, it pleased him, as formerly often, so then more eagerly, to call for the holy Bible, with these very words: [d] Come, O come; Death approacheth; let us gather some flowers to comfort this hour. And turning with his own hands to the 8. ch. of Pauls Epistle to the Romans, he gave me the book (saith Mr. William Leigh, Pastor of Standish) and bade me reade: At the end of every verse he made a Selah, or pause; and gave the sense in such sort and feeling, as was much (we saw) to his own comfort, but more to our joy and wonder. ——— Having thus continued his meditation and Exposition for the space of two houres or more, on the sudden he said; O stay your reading, what brightnesse is this I see? Have you light up any Candles? To which I answered, no: it is the sun-shine; for it was about five a clock in a clear Summers Evening. Sun-shine (saith he) nay, my Saviours shine: Now farewel World, welcom Heaven; The day-star from on high hath visited mine heart. O speak it when I am gone, and preach it at my Funeral: God dealeth familiarly with man, I feel his mercy, I see his majesty; whether in the body, or out of the body, I cannot tell, God he knoweth; but I see things that are unutterable. So ravished in spirit, he roamed towards Heaven, with a cheerful look, and soft sweet voice; but what he said, we could not conceive. At last shrinking down again, he gave a sigh with these words. Ah, yet it will not be! my sins keep me from my God. Thus that evening, twice rising, and twice falling, with the Sun in the morning following, he rose never to fall; when again raising himself, as Jacob did upon his staffe, he shut up his blessed life with these blessed words. O what an happy change shall I make? from night, to day; from darknes, to light; from death, to life; from sorrow to solace; from a factious World, to an heavenly being. O my dear brethren, sisters and friends! it pitieth me to leave you behinde, yet remember my death when I am gone; and what I now feel, I hope you shall find ere you die, that God doth and will deal familiarly with men. And now thou fiery charet that came down to fetch up Elijah, carry me to my happy hold; And all ye blessed Angels who attended the soul of Lazarus, to bring it up to Heaven; beare me, O beare me into the bosome of my best beloved, Amen. Amen. Come Lord Jesus, Come quickly. And so he fell asleep.

Take all the rarest Writings now in the World; none of them all can thus raise up a drooping and disconsolate soul from the depth of wo and horrour; none of them can fill the heart thus brim-full of sweetest peace; none of them all can thus enlarge and entranse the spirit to extasies of heavenly joy, and ravishments through apprehensions of Gods love and mercy, above grief, above temptation, above sin, above all fear of death, that King of Terrours &c. as this blessed Word of God can. Who would not now labour to understand the Scriptures? Who would not treasure up, and kisse, and embrace, and greedily swallow down these soul-reviving Cordials?

Now then how exceedingly do we frustrate and make void, as to our selves the chief ends and scope of the LORD in imparting his Holy Scriptures to us, if we sturdy not to understand Scriptures; How in Doctrinals, They 1. Assert the Truth.

2. Confute errour; How in Practicals. They 1 Direct in well-doing, 2 Correct for ill-doing; And 3 How they comfort fainting ſouls in all their ſaddeſt perplexities.

VI. How acceptable is our ſtudy & underſtanding of the Scripture unto God! For,

1. He commands us this way to beſtow our ſelves e Search the Scriptures. f Let the Word of Chriſt indwell in you richly in all wiſdom. Not be, but dwell with you; not dwell with you, but dwell in you, yea indwell in you, Greek: Not dwell in you, but dwell in you richly: nor only dwell in you richly, but in all wiſdome.

2. He Commends them that have induſtriouſly acquainted themſelves with the Scripture. g Timothy, that from a child he had known the Holy Scripture, able to make him wiſe unto Salvation. h Apollos, That he was an eloquent man, and mighty in the Scriptures. The i Bereans, that they were more noble then thoſe of Theſſalonica, in that they received the word with all readineſſe of mind, and ſearched the Scriptures dayly, whether thoſe things were ſo. And he makes it one Character of the godly bleſſed man k that His delight is in the Law of the Lord, and therin he meditates day and night.

3. He Condemns the contrary unskilfulneſſe in the Scriptures, as the l infirmity of Babes. Yea as the root of all errour in ſpirituals; do ye not erre becauſe ye know not the Scriptures?

Appoſitely ſaith Chryſoſtome to this purpoſe; n Ignorance of the Scriptures hath brought forth Hereſies, hath brought in corruption of life, hath turned all things upſide down. ——— Ignorance of the Scriptures is a very Hell. And elſewhere he ſaith, o It is the cauſe of all evils to be ignorant of the Scriptures. p Hierom alſo to like purpoſe; He that knowes not the Scriptures, knowes not the power of God, and his wiſdome. The ignorance of Scriptures is the ignorance of Chriſt.

4. In a word, He promiſes happineſs to the right underſtanding of the Scriptures. q If ye know theſe things, happy are yee, if ye do them. And ſometimes notably rewards them that endeavour to underſtand them. While the r Ethiopian Eunuch read the Prophet Iſaiah, that he might underſtand it, the Lord ſent Philip to inſtruct him and to convert him; The Eunuch was Baptized, and went on his way rejoycing.

VII. Finally, The true and ſolid underſtanding of the Scripture, is the foundation of all poſſible benefit or advantage by the Scripture. For how ſhould we forſake ſin, s deny ungodlineſſe and worldly luſts, and labour to get out of our carnal condition, till by Scripture we be convinced of the ſinfulneſſe of ſinne, and danger of our naturall condition? How ſhould we deſire Chriſt earneſtly, or accept Chriſt delightfully, till we underſtand by the Scripture what want we have of Chriſt, what worth there is in Chriſt? Till we underſtand Scripture Principles, how ſhall we receive them? Till we underſtand Scripture-Promiſes, how ſhall we believe them? Till we underſtand Scripture-commands, how ſhall we obey them? Till we underſtand Scripture-directions, how ſhould we follow them? And till we underſtand Scripture-comforts, what ſupporting ſweetneſſe can we expect from them? O therefore labour diligently to underſtand the Counſels of God, then you will be in more immediate capacity of reaping all ſpirituall benefits by the word of God, t The underſtanding of the Scriptures (ſaith Hierome) is the true meat and drink which we have from the word of God. Therefore (as he ſaith elſewhere) u Let's fetch fit timber out of the Scriptures, to build in our ſelves an houſe of wiſdome.

Certain RULES or DIRECTIONS for Effectual gaining of Scripture-Knowledge.

HItherto of the great worth of Scripture-Knowledge; Now of the way how to attain it. That Holy Scriptures may be more profitably and clearly underſtood, certain Rules or Directions are to be obſerved and followed. Theſe Directions might be digeſted into two Ranks, viz.

I. Some more ſpecial and peculiar, more particularly concerning Scholers. As, 1 The competent underſtanding of the Original Languages, Hebrew, Chaldee, and Greek; wherein wherein the Scriptures were written; whereby (as x Hier. intimates) all translations are to be examin'd. 2. The prudent use of Logick, for orderly & methodical resolution of the text, &c. 3. The subservient helps of other Arts, as Rhetorick, Natural Philosophy, &c. without which it is impossible satisfactorily to interpret the Scriptures. For as y Ambrose well observes, Though Penmen of Scripture wrote not according to Art, but according to Grace, which is above all Art (for they wrote what the spirit did Dictate to them,) yet they that have written of Art, have found an Art in their writings, &c. 4. The benefit of Humane Histories to illustrate and clear the Divine. 5. The conferring of ancient Translations with the Originals, especially the Greek version of the Old Testament by the Lxxii. much followed in the Allegations of the New-Testament, and the Syriack version of the New-Testament. 6. The prudent use of the most Orthodox learned and judicious Commentators. 7. Constant caution, that all Tongues, Arts, Histories, Translations, and Comments be duly ranked in their proper places in a subserviency under, not a Regency or Predominancy over the Holy Scriptures, which are to controule them all. For when Hagar shall once usurp over her Mistress, its high time to cast her out of doors, till she submit her self. Many such things ought to be insisted upon, but that is besides my present intention.

II. Some more general and common directions, which may be of use to all sorts of Christians learned or unlearned: especially unto the people, for promoting whose understanding in this blessed Book of God, these ensuing RULES faithfully followed, may (through divine blessing) prove abundantly advantagious, viz.

x Sicut in N. Test. quando apud Latinos Quæstio exoritur, & est inter exemplaria varietas, recurrimus ad fontem Græci Sermonis, quo Novum scriptum est instrumentum: ita in veteri Testamento si quando inter Græcos Latinosque diversitas est, ad Hebraicam recurrimus veritatem, ut quicquid de fonte proficiscitur, hoc quæramus in rivulis. Hieronym. Epist. 135. y Negant plerique nostros secundum Artem scripsisse. Nec nos obstitimur. Non enim secundum Artem scripserunt sed secundum gratiam, quæ super omnem Artem est (Scripserunt enim quæ spiritus iis loqui dabat.) Sed tamen ii qui de arte scripserunt, de eorum Scriptis artem invenerunt; & condiderunt Commenta Artis & Magisteria, &c. Ambr. Ep. 18. Edit. Lxiii.

I. Rule.

Beg z wisedome of the onely wise God, who gives liberally and upbraids not. That by Gods Wisedome you may know Gods mind; by the assistance of that spirit which indited the Scripture, you may discern the true sense and meaning of the Scriptures. For what the woman said of Jacobs Well, may much more be affirmed of these Wells of Salvation, * Thou hast nothing to draw with, and the Well is deep. Scripture mysteries are profound, Our capacities very shallow; when we know most, a we know but in part; therefore pray with Hierome, b I desire to enter into thy House the Church, by thy way the Scriptures; O direct my way, lest I fall in thy Scriptures by which I desire to enter. Intreat the Lord to anoint thine eyes with eye-salve, c that thou mayest see; to d open thine understanding, as sometimes he did the Apostles, to understand the Scriptures. When thou settest thy self to peruse the Scripture from day to day, forget not to dart up Davids sweet petition unto God, e Open thou mine eyes, that I may behold wondrous things out of thy Law. Luther professed that he got more understanding by Prayer, then by all his study besides.

II. Rule.

Labour sincerely after a truly gracious spirit, then thou shalt be peculiarly able to penetrate into the inward marrow and mysteries of the Holy Scriptures. He will best comprehend Scripture-meaning in his head, that hath got the Scripture-Law written in his heart; f Thou wilt never (saith Bernard) understand Pauls meaning, unless thou drinkest of Pauls spirit. Gracious persons are g illuminated persons: h they have the anointing that teacheth them all things, viz. necessary to salvation; The Lord delights to impart his secrets to them that fear him, i What man is he that feareth the Lord? him shall he teach in the way that he shall chuse. ——The Secret of the Lord is with them that fear him, and he will shew them his Covenant. Christ hath promised peculiarly to k manifest himself to them that love him, so as not unto the world; and where Christ is so manifested, the sense of Scripture is singularly manifested; for Christ is the kernel of the Scripture. The graceless Man, though by light of Nature, and accomplishments of Art, he may may know much of Scripture theoretically and ſpeculatively; yet his light is but darkneſs, he reaches not to the life of underſtanding; knows Gods mind in Scripture, only as we know far Countreys by Maps: But the gracious perſon underſtands the Scriptures experimentally, feelingly, as a traveller knows remote Countreyes in which he hath actually been. l The natural man receiveth not the things of the Spirit of God, for they are fooliſhneſs unto him: neither can he know them becauſe they are ſpiritually diſcerned. But he that is ſpiritual judgeth all things. —— We have the mind of Chriſt.

III. Rule.

Peruſe the Scripture ſtill with an humble ſelf-denying heart. Be not puffed up, or conceited with thine own knowledge, or other perfections: m He that thinks he knows any thing, knows nothing yet as he ought to know. Empty veſſels are moſt receptive; ſo are ſelf-emptying minds. It is a great help to knowledge, n not to be ignorant of our ignorance: for ſenſe of want ſpurs on endeavours after enjoyment. The fructifying ſhowers quickly glide away from the lofty hils, but they ſtay and ſoak into the low Valleys. God that o reſiſts the proud, yet gives to the humble and lowly; And among other graces, the grace of Knowledge and Underſtanding: For p With the lowly is wiſdome. q The meek, (or humble) will he guide in judgement; and the meek will he teach his way. Thus Chriſt ſaith, r I thank thee O Father, Lord of Heaven and Earth, becauſe thou haſt hid theſe things from the wiſe and prudent, but haſt revealed them unto Babes. Whence Becanus notes, that ſuch as are proud, and attribute to their own wiſedome, attain not to the true ſenſe of Scripture. Be therefore clothed with humility in uſe of Scripture, that true Scripture-Knowledge may increaſe.

IV. Rule.

Familiarize the Scripture to thy ſelf, by conſtant and methodical exerciſe therein. Method and Order, as it is the Mother of memory, ſo it is a ſingular friend to a clear underſtanding. The generality of the Scripture, hath ſuch a contexture and coherence one part with another, that ſmall inſight into it will be gained, by reading it confuſedly, diſorderly; therefore reade the whole in Order. Divers have publiſhed Directions, how to read over the whole Scripture methodically, once a year, &c. conſult them.

But be conſtant in peruſal and ſtudying of the Scriptures; hereby Scripture phraſe and ſenſe will become familiar and facile. How hard at firſt to write, to play on an inſtrument, &c. but by multiplying acts, men get habits, and write, play, &c. with facility and dexterity. Uſe not Scripture only by fits and ſtarts, in ſome good pangs or moods, &c. but habitually converſe with Scripture, trade in them, t meditate therein night and day. u Let the word of Chriſt (not onely lodge or ſojourn in you, but even) dwell in you. Hence thoſe commands of God to his people of old: x This Book of the Law ſhall not depart out of thy mouth, but thou ſhalt meditate therein day and night. —— y *Theſe words ſhall be in thine heart, and thou ſhalt whet them diligently upon thy children, and ſhalt talk of them, when thou ſitteſt in thine houſe, and when thou walkeſt by the way, and when thou lieſt down, and when thou riſeſt up. Underſtand Scripture according to the Theological z Analogy, or Certain rule of faith and love. Anomaly, i. e. Irregularity, is ſome deviation from the rule, or exception againſt the rule: To this, here, Analogy is oppoſed. [Delineation, Draught, Platform, Pattern, or,] forme of ſound words, which thou haſt heard of me in faith and love, which is in Chriſt Jeſus. Where ſeems to be intimated, a Syſteme, or forme of Doctrine, communicated from Paul to Timothy, according to which Timothy was to ſteere as by a Compaſs. This forme of Doctrine is deſcribed here 1. By the general nature of it, A forme of ſound words, A draught or model of wholſome Doctrine. 2. By the principal parts of it, into which it is branched, viz. 1. Faith, 2. Love. Faith compriſeth credenda, All things to be believed, as in the Creed taken out of Scripture. Love contains facienda, All things to be done, as in the Decalogue, Lords Prayer, and Sacramental Inſtitutions, which are Scripture; into theſe two, the whole Body of Divinity is uſually diſtributed. 3. By the primary foundation upon which this forme of ſound words is built, viz. Chriſt Jeſus. Compare herewith 1 Cor. 3. 11. Eph. 2 20. So that if in any place of Scripture the word, or Letter of the Text be repugnant to the Analogy of faith and love, it is not to be underſtood properly and literally, but improperly and figuratively. As for inſtance, [b] This is my body, — This is my blood, &c. This cannot be underſtood properly, that the bread and wine are Chriſts body and blood, for that is contrary to the Analogy or rule of faith, which tells us that Chriſts humane nature is aſcended into heaven, [c] whom the Heavens muſt contain till the reſtitution of all things; therefore it is to be underſtood figuratively, and in a ſacramental ſenſe. The ſign being put for the thing ſignified, by a Metonymie: So we are commanded, [d] To eate Chriſts fleſh, — [e] to pluck out our right eye, cut off our right hand, if they offend us. We cannot read any of theſe literally and properly; for that were againſt the analogy or rule of love, [f] Thou ſhalt not kill; therefore we muſt ſeek for a ſpiritual and improper ſence, viz. eating Chriſts fleſh, not carnally with our teeth, but ſpiritually by faith, i. e. believing in Chriſt crucified, &c. As alſo denying all corruptions, corrupt affections, inclinations or occaſions, though as deare and uſeful, as right hand or right eye unto us. Thus this rule faithfully followed, will clear many hard and intricate paſſages in Scripture. It is therefore of ſingular conſequence to every one that deſires ſolidly to underſtand the Scriptures, to be well grounded in the Fundamentals and Principles of Chriſtian Religion, without which like a ſhip without ballaſt a man [g] ſhall be carried away with every winde of vain doctrine, perverting or miſtaking the Scriptures.

VI. Rule.

Be well acquainted with the 1 Order, 2 Titles, 3 Times, 4 Penmen, 5 Occaſion, 6 Scope, and 7 Principal Parts of the books, both of the Old and New Teſtament. Theſe will much promote the ſolid and judicious underſtanding of the whole Bible in a ſhort ſpace. For, 1. Hereby you ſhall have the very Idea or Character of every Book lively deſcribing the nature and Contents of it before your eyes, as in a Map, before you begin to peruſe them. 2 Hereby you ſhall have a Clew to conduct you, a Compaſs to ſaile and ſteere by, in the peruſal of any book. 3. Hereby alſo you ſhall have a ſummary Recapitulation or Recollection of the chief Aime, and ſubject-matter of every book, much tending both to help judgement, and ſtrengthen memory, after the peruſal of any book of Old or New Teſtament. And therefore this courſe muſt needs be an uſeful Key, to unlock the rich Cabinet of the Holy Scriptures, and to diſcover the precious Treaſures thereof unto you.

Now this is the Intent and Scope of this Treatiſe; viz. ſo familiarly to open and unfold, The 1. Order, 2. Titles, 3. Times, 4. Penmen, 5. Occaſion, 6. Scope, and 7. Principal Parts of the Books of the Old and New Teſtament. That the whole Tenour of the Bible, might be ſpread open in a General view, to the meaneſt capacity. For,

1. The Order of the Books, eſpecially of the Hiſtorical Books (obſerved all along, and compendiouſly repreſented in the two Tables, before the Old, and New Teſtament,) more evidently helps to diſcover the Order of Hiſtories and matters handled therein, and the Order of Gods governing his Church in ſeveral conditions.

2. The Titles, 1. Some of them ſummarily ſignifie to us the chief matter of the Book, as Geneſis, The Generations of the heaven and earth; Exodus Iſrael's departure out of Egypt, &c. 2. Some of them declare the inſtrumental Authors, or Penmen of them, as the Titles of Prophets Books, Iſaiah, &c. who being extraordinary men of God, guided by the Spirit, their books are of Divine Authority. 3. Some denote the Churches or particular perſons for whoſe ſakes immediately ſome parts of Scripture were penned, which affords light to divers paſſages therein.

3. The Times of the Books ſet forth, Partly, the length or ſpace of time, in which things related were done, as in Hiſtorical Books, which ſerve to diſcloſe the connexion and continuance of the Hiſtory, and Chronology. Partly the time or ſeaſon, when the Books were written, which ſerves to clear the underſtanding of divers particular paſſages, which otherwiſe would be very difficult, both in the Prophets, and in the Apoſtles. See therefore thoſe two Tables, viz. 1. For the timing of the PROPHETS Books; immediately before the Prophecy of ISAIAH. 2. For the timing of the Apoſtles EPISTLES; immediately before the Epiſtle to the ROMANES. Diſtinguiſh well betwixt times and times and you diſſolve many knots.

4. Penmen, being holy men of God extraordinarily inſpired, intimate to us the divine Authority of their writings. This incites faith, love, and awful reverence to their Books.

5. The Occaſion upon which the Books were written, together with

6. The Scope, drift, or end of the book, being well conſidered, give great light to the whole book; the whole frame, diſpoſition and chief Arguments handled in the book, having a ſingular tendency to the Scope. Therefore as the Archer fixeth his eye ſteadily on the mark, when he would ſhoot accurately; ſo ſtill fix your thought upon the * Occaſion and Scope of every Book, when you would peruſe them underſtandingly.

* Simpliciſſima & certiſſima explicatio dictorum eſt, qua ex cauſis ſeu occaſione dicendi ſumitur. Hilar.

7. The Principal parts of the Book, here Analytically laid down, exhibite clearly to your view, both the chief Subject, or matters inſiſted upon in every Book; as alſo the Methodical and orderly coherence of all the parts of the Book with one another. Books look't upon confuſedly, are but darkly and confuſedly apprehended: But conſidered diſtinctly, as in theſe diſtinct Analyſes or Reſolutions into their Principal parts, muſt needs be diſtinctly and much more clearly diſcerned.

This is the chief Purpoſe and Aime of this Book: By theſe particulars to familiarize the Scriptures unto Chriſtians, that delight to controverſe with God in his own book; To whom I earneſtly commend this direction, for the more profitable uſe of this Book, viz. That 1. Before they read any Book of Scripture, they would firſt read what is in this Key ſaid of that Book. 2. In reading, they would ſtill remember the Occaſion and Scope of the book, and diligently compare the Principal parts here, with the Text: whereby the whole ſeries and current of Scripture is clearly and familiarly laid open to the meaneſt capacity. And 3 After the peruſal of the Book, they would read again what this Key ſpeaks of it. Hereby the underſtanding will be cleared, and the Memory confirmed.

VII. Rule.

Heedfully and judiciouſly obſerve the accurate Concord and harmony of the holy Scriptures: though written by ſeveral perſons, at ſeveral times, in ſeveral places, yet one and the ſame Spirit inditing all, is ſtill like himſelf, conſonant to himſelf in all. The Diſcord is in our minds, rather then in Gods word. Hence 2 Auguſtine, Let us be at concord in our own heart and the Scripture will have no diſcord in it. There are principally Five notable reſpects, in which Scripture ſometimes ſeem moſt contrary, repugnant, and oppoſite one to another; when yet they are not diſſonant, but conſonant, and ſweetly concording one with another. As, 1. When the Word or Phraſe is uſed in ſeverall Places, not in the ſame, but in ſeveral ſences and Acceptations. 2. When they treat not of the ſame, but of ſeveral ſubjects. 3. When they ſpeak not of the ſame, but ſeveral parts of a thing. 4. When they ſpeak not in ſeveral places, according to the ſame, but ſeveral reſpects. 5. When they intend not the ſame, but ſeveral times. Theſe things well considered, will lay a notable foundation for reconciling all places of Scripture that seem to be any way opposite one to another. Take the illustrations of them severally.

I. Scriptures seem opposite, but are not, when the same a word or phrase in several places is used not in the same, but in several senses and acceptations: for the same words have oft-times several significations. In such case, distinguish the several Acceptations, and the Scriptures agree.

As Paul saith, [b] Work out your own salvation with fear and trembling. But John saith, [c] There is no fear in love, but perfect love casteth out fear, &c. These places are not opposite: because the word [Fear] in John, signifies a base servile slavish fear; in Paul, a filial childlike Religious fear. In this sense it is said of the [d] Samaritanes, they feared the Lord: and again, they feared not the Lord, i. e. they feared the Lord servilely and hypocritically for his Lyons, but they feared him not religiously, filially, sincerely. Not to fear God aright, is not to fear him at all.

Again, Christ saith, [e] If a man keep my saying, he shall never see death. But Paul saith, [f] It is appointed to all men once to dye; yet here's no opposition; for Christ speaks of death Spiritual and Eternal: Paul, of death temporal or corporal.

Further Jeremiah saith, [g] Cursed be the man that trusteth in man. Christ saith, [h] except ye eat the flesh of the Son of man —— ye have no life in you: by eating understand believing, v. 47. yet here's no opposition. [Man] signifies either meer man, who is vain, deceitful, &c. Of him Jeremiah speaks: Or man subsisting in the second Person of God; of him Christ speaks.

Moses saith, God [i] rested on the seventh day from all his work: But [k] Christ saith, My Father worketh hitherto, and I work; yet here's no opposition: For the works of God are either works of Creation, whereby new kinds of Creatures are made; so Moses intended that God rested from his work; or works of Conservation and Providence, sustaining and governing his works created, so Christ meant, the Father and he wrought still.

Adde hereunto: Christ saith, [l] If any man come to me, and hate not his Father, and Mother, and Wife and Children, and Brethren and Sisters, yea and his own life also, he cannot be my Disciple. But Paul saith, [m] Husbands love your Wives, [n] No man ever yet hated his own flesh: Yet no opposition: For Hatred is taken either properly and absolutely; so understand Paul: or comparatively, a less love being counted hatred; of that understand Christ.

Moreover Paul saith, [o] Therefore we conclude that a man is justified by Faith without the deeds of the Law. But [p] James saith, Ye see then how that by works a man is justified, and not by Faith only: yet no real opposition: For Justification in Pauls sence, signifies an instrumental Application of Gods righteousness, viz. Jesus Christ to our selves, and so Faith alone justifies before God: but Justification in James his sense signifies a Declarative Manifestation of the truth of that Faith whereby we are justified by the fruits and works of it. Paul speaks of our justification before God; James of our justification before men: Paul, of the justification of our persons by Faith; James, of the justification of our Faith it self, by works.

II. Holy Scriptures seem opposite, but are not; when they treat not of the same but of several subjects or several matters. As, Christ promised the Apostles, [q] When the Spirit of Truth should come, he should guide them into all truth. But Paul testifieth, that Peter erred, and [r] was to be blamed. Here are several subjects, viz. Doctrine and Practice: As to Doctrine, the Apostles erred not therein, because they had it immediately from God: But as to matter of Practice, Peter there erred, dissembling fellowship with the Gentiles for fear of the Jews. Nor were any of the Apostles exempted from sin and errour in Practice.

Again, It is said in one place, That [s] Elijah went up by a Whirlewind into Heaven. And in another, [t] Behold I will send you Elijah the Prophet, before the coming of the great and dreadful day of the Lord. Yet these places oppose not one another, because here are several subjects spoken of: the former being Elijah the Tishbite; the latter John the Baptist, the New-Testament-Elijah, so called because he came [u] in the spirit and power of Elijah.

III. Scriptures seem opposite, but are not, when though they speak of the same matter or subject, yet they intend not the same, but several parts thereof. As Paul saith, z In me dwels no good thing. And yet he saith, a I delight in the Law of God; which doubtlesse is good. Yet these oppose not, because in the former Paul speaks of his carnal unregenerate part, in me, that is in my flesh, dwels no good thing: in the latter of his spiritual regenerate part, I delight in the Law of God, after the inner man.

a Rom. 7. 22.

Again, Christ saith, b My Father is greater then I. But Paul saith, c Christ Jesus being in the forme of God, thought it no robbery to be equal with God. Yet no opposition, for in Christs person are two natures, viz. of d God and man: Now as Christ is God, so he is equal to the Father, as Paul meant: as Christ is man, so the Father is greater then he, as himself said.

IV. Scriptures seem opposite and contrary, but are not, when they speak of things, not in the same, but in several respects, notions or considerations. For the several respect, removes all contradiction or opposition.

As Christ saith, e If I beare witnesse of my self, my witnesse is not true. But elsewhere he saith, f Though I bear record of my self, yet my record is true. Yet here's no opposition indeed, because Christ speaks of bearing witnesse of himself in several respects; In the former place, of bearing witnesse to himself disjunctly and solely without the Father, so his witnesse were not true: In the latter, of bearing witnesse of himself, conjunctly or joyntly with the Father; so his witnesse of himself is true.

f John 8. 14.

Again John saith, g He that is born of God, committeth not sin, nor can sin. And yet elsewhere, h If we say that we have no sin, we deceive our selves, and the truth is not in us. If we say that we have not sinned, we make him a lyar &c. Yet here's no real opposition; for in som respects they that are born of God, may be said to sin, in some respects they sin not. They have sin original in them, and actual sin, through infirmity, &c. is done by them, while they are in this world: But they sin not as unregenerate men sin, viz. i 1 Not against the Gospel-Remedy, Jesus Christ. 2 Not as under the Reign of Sin; 3 Not with a full will; 4 Not presumptuously; 5 Not habitually; 6 Not with allowance of themselves in any bosome corruption; 7 Not totally and Finally.

g 1 John 3. 9.
h John 1. 8, 10.
i See all these particulars largly opened in my Select-vers Evidences for eternal life. Chap. 2. p. 38, &c.

Furthermore, God saith, k I am the Lord, I change not: And elsewhere saith l I will repent of the evil that I thought to do unto them.—And I will repent of the good wherewith I said, I would benefit them. Yet no real contradiction; for in some sense God cannot repent, viz. Affectively, in respect of his essence, no nor in respect of his eternal Decree: In some sense, after the manner of men he is said to repent, viz. Effectively, in respect of his works which he effecteth, when he doth something crosse to what he had formerly done, as when he drowned the world, which he had made, dethroned Saul, whom he had annointed King, &c.

l Jer. 18. 8, 10.

Adde to these; it is said of Christs Kingdome m It shall have no end, but be established for ever. But Paul saith, n Christ at the end shall deliver up the Kingdom to God even the Father. Yet no real opposition, For, Christs Kingdom may be considered in divers respects, viz. 1 As it is Essential belonging to Christ as God: So he shall never deliver up his Kingdom. 2 As Oeconomical, Dispensatory, or Mediatory; The Mediatory Kingdom of Christ is considerable in respect of, The substance of it; so Christ our Mediatour shall be head of his Church, and mystical body for ever; The Circumstance of it, or manner of administration of it, by Word, Sacraments, Effusion of the spirit, &c. And thus at last Christ shall deliver up the Kingdom to the Father, for then God in Christ, face to face, shall be an endlesse Sabbath, Sermon, Sacrament, All in all.

V. Finally, Scriptures may seem but are not really opposite, when they intend not the same, but several times. Or at least when they spake of the same times in several respects. Distinguish wisely the times, and respects, and the opposition ceaseth.

As o Jotham the son of Uzziah is said to Reign sixteen years in Jerusalem; And yet mention is made of the p twentieth year of Jotham son of Uzziah. r Luk. 9.28.

Furthermore the time of the Government by Judges, s in the Book of Judges, is computed to be about two hundred ninety and nine years: But Paul in his Sermon at Antioch, saith, t And when he had destroyed seven Nations in the Land of Canaan, he divided their Land unto them by Lot, And after that, he gave unto them Judges, about the space of four hundred and fifty years, until Samuel the Prophet. Here seems to be a great opposition; but if things be well examined, there is none at all. Yet it may not be dissembled that this is so hard a knot, that it much puzzles writers satisfactorily to unty it. 1 Partly, because this computation of 450 years, is so punctually confuted by this text, viz. to begin after Canaan was divided by Lot, and to end at Samuel exclusively. 2 Partly, because that noted Chronology mentioned in 1 Kings 6.1. assures us expressly, That the time from Israels coming out of Egypt till the beginning of the building of the Temple in the fourth year of Solomon, was precisely but 480 years, but if we allow for the time of the Judges 450 years in this account; we shall find the whole time from going out of Egypt till the Temples founding, will arise to 591 years in all, viz. From Their departure out of Egypt, till their entrance into Canaan 40 years

t Act. 13.19, 20

Thence to Joshuahs death about——17 y.
Thence to Elies death, (for Samuels time is included in Sauls Reign, Acts 13.21.) according to this supposition——450 y.
Thence to the death of David——80 y.
Thence to the founding of the Temple in Solomons fourth year——4 y.
In all——591 years.

So that in these regards, it is no easie matter clearely and undoubtedly to reconcile these times. Many opinions are offered in Writers to this end, yet most of them, if not all, labour under some inconvenience or other. To omit the variety of opinions. Let it suffice to mention onely two, which learned men seeme most to incline unto. u Some thinke, that here Paul intended not to reckon up the time while the Judges ruled, (because so it were impossible to reconcile these foure hundred and fifty years with those foure hundred and eighty years, in 1 King, 6.1. as hath been intimated): but to point out at what time God gave Israel Judges, viz. after these things which were declared, v. 17, 18, 19. viz. from the birth of Isaac, (which seems to be noted in that phrase, God chose our Fathers, v. 17. among all people God choosing Abraham, among all Abrahams children choosing Isaac, and making a Covenant with him,) till the beginning of Judges, which is computed to be four hundred fourty seven years, that's about four hundred and fifty years, wants but three years: and its usual in Scripture to put the round number, for the punctual number. This Computation they make thus. From Isaac's birth, to Jacob's birth,——years——60.
From Jacob's birth, to the going down into Egypt——130.
Thence to the Coming forth of Egypt——210.
Thence to the Entring into the Land of Canaan——40.
Thence to the Dividing of the Land by Lot——7.
Which make up in all——447

u Bez. Annot. in Act. 13,20. Ludovic. De Dieu. Animad. vers. in Act. Apost. c. 13. v. 20

But this Opinion is attended with these two inconveniences. 1. The present Text in the Acts seems plainly to confine us for these four hundred and fifty years, between the dividing of the Land of Canaan by Lot, and the beginning of Samuels Rule; which limits this computation transgresseth. 2. The number computed doth not exactly amount to four hundred and fifty, wants three. x Others therefore to avoid these inconveniences, confine and abound their computation according to this Text, to the space of time betwixt the dividing Canaan by Lot, and Samuels Rule. And they think Paul reckoned up all the years mentioned in the Judges, and so they compute both the years of the Judges, and the years of Israels oppressours, distinctly and severally, (though the years of the Oppressours are indeed comprized under the years of the Judges) and both together do punctually make up the four hundred and fifty years here mentioned in the Acts. As followeth:

x Beroaldus, with others.

The Judges mentioned in the Book of Judges, governed in all ——— 299 years.
To these add the fourty years of Ely, who so long judged Israel, 1 *Sam.*4.18. ——— 40.
So the whole time of the Judges rule, till Samuel, was ——— 339

Israels Oppressours were,

1. Cushan who oppressed them, Judg. 3. 8. ——— 8 years.
2. Moab, Judg. 3. 14. ——— 18.
3. Jabin, Judg. 4. 3. ——— 20.
4. Midian, Judg. 6. 1. ——— 7.
5. Ammon, Judg. 10. 8. ——— 18.
6. Philistims, Judg. 13 1. ——— 40.

So the whole time of their Oppressours, was ——— 111.

Now adde these together, viz. the years of their Judges, and the years of their Oppressours, three hundred thirty and nine, and one hundred and eleven, and the total resulting is four hundred and fifty years exactly: (only this inconvenience remains, the same years are reckoned twice over, yet it is not in the same, but several respects). Now if out of the number of years, from departure out of Egypt, till the Founding of the Temple, as first computed, viz. 591, You subduct the years of the Oppressours of Israel under their Judges, which seems to be twice reckoned up, viz. one hundred and eleven years. The remain is just four hundred and eighty years, according to that of 1 Kin. 6. 1. And so the Scripture on all sides are reconciled accurately; And therefore this opinion seems most to be embraced.

VIII. Rule.

Learn that excellent Art of explaining and understanding the Scriptures, by the Scriptures. The Scriptures in some places speak more darkly and dubiously: in other places they express the same things more clearly and certainly: y the doubtful are to be explained by the certain, as dark places by those that are clear. As Aug. noteth; As Peter being to prove to the Jews Christs resurrection by Scripture, viz. z Thou wilt not leave my soul in hell, nor suffer thine holy one to see corruption: he alledgeth for clearing this another Scripture to evince that this promise was made to David concerning Christ, and could not properly be intended of David himself, a Men and brethren let me speak freely to you, of the Patriarch David, that he is both dead and buried, and his Sepulchre is with us unto this day. Therefore he being a Prophet, and knowing that God had sworn with an Oath, &c. Certainly Scripture is the best Expounder of it self. Scripture-exposition of it self, (as b Augustine, and before him c Irenæus observed) is most regular and safe. Let us (saith d Chrysostom) attend to the Scope of Scripture, which interprets it self and suffers not his hearer to erre. The Gold was not sanctified (saith e Origen) without the Temple; no more any sense but what is drawn out of the Scripture. And most excellently f Hilary, He is the best Reader, who interprets sayings by sayings; who brings not an interpretation to Scripture, nor imposeth a sense upon Scripture, but findeth a sense in Scripture, and draws it from Scripture, &c.

Now that we may more successfully and clearly understand Scripture by Scripture, these ensuing particulars are to be observed.

1. That Jesus Christ our Mediator, & the salvation of sinners by him, is the very ſubſtance, marrow, ſoul, and ſcope of the whole Scriptures. As many [e] paſſages not obſcurely intimate unto us. What are the whole Scriptures, but as it were the Spiritual Swadling cloathes of the Holy Child Jeſus? 1 Chriſt is the Truth and Subſtance of all the Types and Shadows. 2 Chriſt is the Matter and Subſtance of the Covenant of Grace under all Adminiſtrations thereof; under the Old-Teſtament Chriſt is veyled, under the New Covenant Revealed. 3 Chriſt is the Center and meeting place of all the Promiſes, for [h] in him all the Promiſes of God are yea, and they are Amen. 4 Chriſt is the thing ſignified, ſealed, and exhibited in all the Sacraments of Old to New Teſtament, whether ordinary or extraordinary. 5 Scripture-Genealogies are to lead us on to the true Line of Chriſt. 6 Scripture-Chronologies, are to diſcover to us the times and ſeaſons of Chriſt. 7 Scripture-Laws, are [i] our School-maſter to bring us unto Chriſt; the Moral by correcting, the Ceremonial by directing. And 8 Scripture-Goſpel is Chriſts Light, whereby we know him; [k] Chriſts voice, whereby we hear and follow him; Chriſts Cords of Love, whereby we are drawn into ſweet union and communion with him; yea it is the [l] power of God unto ſalvation unto all them that believe in Chriſt Jeſus. Keep therefore ſtill Jeſus Chriſt in your eye, in the peruſal of the Scripture, as the End, Scope, and Subſtance thereof. For as the Sun gives light to all the Heavenly Bodies, ſo Jeſus Chriſt [m] the Sun of Righteouſneſs gives light to all the holy Scriptures.

2. Still remember how Jeſus Chriſt is revealed in Scripture, gradually in Promiſes and Covenants, till the noon-day of the Goſpel ſhined moſt clearly. Eſpecially in theſe more remarkable Periods of time: 1 To Adam immediately upon his fall, moſt obſcurely and imperfectly. 2. To Noah, more clearly then to Adam. 3. To Abraham, Iſaac, and Jacob, more clearly then to Noah. 4. To Moſes and Iſrael at Mount Sinai, more clearly then to Abraham. 5. To David and his Seed more clearly then to Moſes. 6. To Iſrael after the Babyloniſh Captivity, more clearly then to David. 7. To the Church under the N. Teſtament, the N. Covenant is laid open more clearly then to all others. For; 1 God is a God of Order, and he makes known his gracious contrivances orderly. 2 Chriſt, and Salvation by him are Treaſures too high and precious to be diſcloſed all at once to the Church. 3 The ſtate of the Church is various; ſhe hath her infancy, her youth, and all the degrees of her minority, as alſo her riper age; and therefore God revealed Chriſt not according to his own ability of revealing, but according to his Churches capacity of receiving. 4 This gradual revealing of Chriſt ſuits well with our condition in this world, which is not perfect, but growing on to perfection, fully attainable in Heaven only. Now this gradual unveiling of the Covenant and Promiſes in Chriſt, is to be much conſidered throughout the whole Scripture; that we may ſee the wiſdome of Gods diſpenſations, the imperfection of the Churches condition here, eſpecially in her minority; and the uſefulneſs of comparing the more dark and imperfect, with the more clear and compleat manifeſtations of the Myſteries of Gods grace in Chriſt.

3. Well compare the Texts you would underſtand, with the Context; and note the [n] coherence. For (though ſome Scriptures are laid down in certain independing Aphoriſmes, like an heap of Gold-rings or diſtinct Jewels, or like a rich Cabinet of Pearls, as moſt part of the Proverbs; yet) the generality of the Scriptures is concatenated or linked together part with part like a golden Chain, intwiſted or woven together like a curious ſilken web, one thing ſo depending upon another, as [o] that they mutually help to the interpreting of one another. Conſider therefore ſtill the coherence and dependance, otherwiſe you will run into a thouſand miſunderſtandings. As where it is ſaid, [p] If the Righteous ſcarcely be ſaved, where, &c. A weak Chriſtian perhaps is diſcouraged hereby, thinks he ſhall ſcarce ever come to heaven: Now the Context clears it; for the Apoſtle ſpeaks [q] that judgment [or affliction] muſt begin at the houſe of God, Gods people; and thence argues to the certainty of wicked mens greater puniſhments: ſo that here, [ſcarcely be ſaved] is to be underſtood not of ſpiritual and eternal ſalvation from hell, but of temporal ſalvation from temporal afflictions and perſecutions, from which the righteous ſhall not be free.

4. Compare dark places with clearer: what is in one place veyled, is in another oft-oft-times unveyled. As with Parables r confer the Expoſition; with Viſions ſ the interpretation; with Lawes, the t Explication thereof, &c. For as Auguſtine hath obſerved. u In thoſe things that are plainly laid down in Scripture, are found all things containing faith and manners: and places obſcure, are to be illuſtrated by thoſe that are manifeſt.

5. Explain thoſe places wherein any matter or ſubject of Divinity is touched only occaſionally or accidentally, with ſundry other places wherein it is handled and inſiſted upon purpoſely and profeſſedly, which are the very ſeat and chief fountain of the Argument. As if you would underſtand James, c. 2. touching Juſtification by works as well as faith, where Juſtification is ſpoken of more accidentally; compare it with the Epiſtle to the Romans, c. 2, 3, 4. &c. wherein Juſtification is purpoſely and fully handled. So if you would truly underſtand any Text about the matter of Creation, conſult with places where the Creation is profeſſedly handled, as in Gen. c. 1. and c. 2. and Pſal. 104.

6. Parallel Types with Anti-types, or things typified. The Types more familiarly lead us to the underſtanding and apprehending of things typified, and conſequently more firmly fix them in our memories. The Anti-types more evidently unfold and unveyl the Types unto us. As the Type of the b brazen Serpent, x parallel'd with Chriſt the Truth. The Type of Mannah, y and water out of the Rock, with the Anti-typ Chriſt, whoſe body and blood are meat and drink indeed, &c.

7. Carefully ponder what Prophecies and Promiſes are already actually fulfilled, and what remain further, to be fulfilled in their ſeaſon. For ſo far as any Scripture clearly teſtifies the fulfilling of any of them, ſo far we have a clear and undoubted Commentary upon them, As Iſa. 7. 14. fulfilled and ſo cleared, Matth. 1. 22, 23. So Exod. 12. 46. fulfilled and ſo cleared, John 19. 26. So Iſa. 61. 1, 2. fulfilled and cleared, Luke 4 18, 19, 21. with many ſuch like; And where Prophecies or Promiſes are found to be yet unfulfilled, we ſhall thereby be incited to ſtudy them, and the intended time of their Accompliſhment, exerciſing faith and prayer thereupon.

8. Finally, Parallel heedfully the Old and New Teſtament together; and ſpecially all thoſe places in the Old Teſtament which are in any reſpect alledged in the New-Teſtament, whether 1 the phraſe and words only, or 2 the ſenſe and matter only, or 3 both words and matter, be cited. This would give wonderful light to many hundreds of paſſages in the Bible. And for this end I have with much care and diligence compiled, a Parallel of the places of the Old Teſtament, any way alledged in the New; and had once reſolved to have inſerted it in this place; But to avoid prolixity, I muſt now forbear it, leaſt the Foreh prove too big for the building.

IX. Rule.

The laſt Direction I ſhall commend to the Reader for the improvement of Heavenly dexterity in, and underſtanding of the holy Scriptures, is; Endeavour ſincerely to practiſe Scripture, and you ſhall ſolidly underſtand Scripture. z Bernard ſaid truly, he rightly reads the Scriptures that turns words into works; Knowing into Doing. The mightieſt man in practiſe, will in the end prove the mightieſt man in Scripture. Theory is the guide of Practice, Practice the Life of Theory. Where Scripture contemplation and experience meet both together in the ſame perſon, true Scripture underſtanding muſt needs be heightned and doubled. To this effect is Chriſts promiſe a My Doctrine is not mine, but his that ſent me; if any man will do his will, he ſhall know of the doctrine whether it be of God. To like purpoſe ſubſcribes the experience of David. b Thou through thy commandments haſt made me wiſer then mine enemies: for they are ever with me. I have more underſtanding then all my teachers: for thy teſtimonies are my meditation. I underſtand more then the Ancients, becauſe I keep thy Precepts.

Theſe things (Chriſtian Reader) I thought fit to commend to thee by way of Preface; but ſhall detain thee no longer from the peruſal of the Book it ſelf, the Lord that c teacheth his people to profit, advance thy ſpiritual profiting abundantly by both: So prayeth

TO THE

WORTHY, AND MY MUCH HONOURED FRIEND, FRANCIS VAUGHAN Esq; And one of his MAJESTIES Justices of Peace for the County of SOMERSET, Grace, Mercy, and Peace.

SIR,

IT is well observed by Bernard; That there are two great evils which extreamly militate against the Soul, viz. The superfluous Love of a mans self, and the vain Love of the World. The two first Books of Solomon do obviate these two Pests: The PROVERBS, by the weeding-hook of Discipline, paring off the superfluities of corrupt and sinful Manners: and ECCLESIASTES, by the Light of Reason, demonstrating the vanity of all earthly things, and preferring the fear of God with keeping his Commandments, before all[a]. And I may further add, When the Dotage of self-love is subdued, whereunto THE PROVERBS tend; and when the Idolizing of the vain vexing World is suppressed, and in stead thereof the Fearing of God with Keeping his Commandments embraced, which in ECCLESIASTES is intended: then a man shall be notably prepared for that Holy Communion with JESUS CHRIST, which in the choicest SONG OF SONGS is described.

Sharp and learned Hierome in his Golden Epistle to Paulinus gives this brief character of Solomon and his three Books contained in Gods sacred Volume: Solomon Pacificus, & amabilis Domini, Mores corrigit, Naturam Docet, Ecclesiam jungit & Christum, sanctarumq; nuptiarum dulce canit Epithalmium[b]. Surely the Book of Proverbs, which is most sententious, is an Holy bundle of wise moral Adages or Aphorismes: Ecclesiastes, which is most Argumentative, is a clear Discovery of this worlds vanity and vexation: The Song of Songs, which is most mysterious and therefore not permitted among the Jews to be read of any under thirtie years of age[c], is a most sweet Allegorical adumbration of the spiritual endearments and mutual loves betwixt Christ and his Church.

a Cum enim duo sint mala, quæ vel sola vel maxime militant adversus animam, vanus, sc. Amor mundi, & superfluus sui: Pesti utrique duo illi libri obviare noscuntur, alter sæculo disciplinæ prava quæque in moribus & carnis superflua resecans, alter luce Rationis in omni gloria mundi rectum vanitatis sagaciter deprehendens, veraciterque distinguens à solido veritatis. Denique Universis humanis studiis ac mundanis desideriis præstulit Deum timere, atque observare mandata. Bern. ser. Cantica Germ. 1. b Hier. Paulino. p. 9. Tom. 3. Basil. 1553.

c Aggrediar Ezechiel Prophetam: cujus difficultatem Hebræorum probat traditio. Nam nisi quis apud eos ætatem Sacerdotalis Ministerii, id est, tricesimum annum impleverit, nec Principia Geneseos, nec Cantica Canticorum, nec hujus voluminis exordium & finem legere permittitur: ut ad perfectam scientiam & mysticos intellectus plenum humanæ Naturæ Tempus accedat. D. Hier. Prolog. in 1. lib. Com in Ezech. Tom. 5.

In

In the Song of Songs, Solomon is eminently Typical: In the Proverbs, Solomon is admirably Prudential: In Ecclesiastes, Solomon is exemplarily Penitential. In the Song, he discovers the ardent vehemency of his spiritual Affections: In Proverbs, the transcendency of his heavenly wisdome: In Ecclesiastes, the integritie of his Penitential Retractations. The Proverbs tend, to make us wise; Ecclesiastes, to render us good; The Song of Songs, to represent us Blessed. The Proverbs are as the Outer Court of the Temple: Ecclesiastes as the Sanctuary or Holy-place: But the Song of Songs as the Holie of Holies. In acts of Moralitie, men of all sorts meet, as in the Outer Court: In truth of Repentance onely Gods spiritual Priesthood appears, as in the Holy-place: In perfection of love to Jesus Christ they onely are swallow'd up who inhabit the true Holy of Holies, Heaven it self.

These three Excellent Books, Penned by the wisest of Kings [d], and beloved of the LORD [e], are most worthy of your serious and frequent perusal. And to my concise Lucubrations thereupon, which possibly may adde some light thereunto, I make bold to prefix your Name, and present them to your service; That so I may thankfully express both to your self and others, in what high account I have your Courteous [f] Deportment and Civilities towards me and mine. And I heartily do wish the choice influences of these three sacred Books may abundantly fall upon you and yours: From Proverbs, A Conflux of spiritual Wisedome [g]; From Ecclesiastes, an utter contempt of all these vain vexing sublunaries, in comparison of the Fear of God and keeping of his Commandments [h]; and From the Song of Songs, An heavenly frame of spirit enflamed with the sincere love of JESUS CHRIST. So shall you learn on Earth, what you shall not unlearn in Heaven, which is the earnest Desire,

CLAVIS BIBLIORUM.

THE KEY OF THE BIBLE:

Unlocking the richeſt Treaſury of the Holy Scriptures.

THE [a] HOLY SCRIPTURES were written by [b] Moſes, the Prophets, the Apoſtles, and other holy men of God. The Covenant of God with man in Chriſt the Mediatour, that Subſtantial or begotten [c] WORD, is the principal Subject revealed and explained in the whole Scriptural or written WORD.

God's COVENANT with man in Chriſt is repreſented to us in holy Scripture principally two waies; (the Covenant being for ſubſtance but one and the ſame) viz. [d] As Promiſed, As Performed.

a Rom. 1. 2.
b Luk. 16. 29. 31. Eph. 2. 20. Act. 3. 21. 2 Pet. 1. 21. c John 1. 1.

d Tempus enim conſtituit Deus promiſſis ſuis; & tempus eis quæ promiſit implendi. Promiſſionum tempus erat tempore Prophetarum uſque ad Joannem Baptiſtam: ab illo autem & deinceps uſque ad finem, tempus eſt implendi ea quæ promiſſa ſunt. Fidelis Deus qui ſe noſtrum debitorem fecit; non aliquid à nobis accipiendo, ſed tanta nobis promittendo. Parum erat promiſſio, etiam ſcripto ſe teneri voluit, veluti faciens nobiſcum chirographum promiſſionum ſuarum: ut cum ea quæ promiſit ſolvere inciperet, in Scriptura promiſſorum conſideraremus ordinem ſolvendorum. Auguſt. Enarrat. in Pſ. 109 tom. 8.

1. As promised fore-prophecied and typified in Christ to be manifested afterwards in the flesh. Hence called [e] Covenants of Promise; Covenants, not Covenant: because of the several Publications of the Covenant with more and more Augmentations in several points or periods of time. Thus the Covenant is made known in all the Books of Scripture written before Christs coming, which are therefore called the [f] OLD-COVENANT, or the [g] OLD-TESTAMENT.

2. As performed, fulfilled and actually accomplished in Christ already come, and manifested in our flesh [h] in fulnesse of time. Thus the Covenant is most clearly and fully unvailed to us in all the Books of Scripture written since Christs coming; which are therefore stiled the [i] NEW-COVENANT, or the [k] NEW-TESTAMENT.

Thus the whole BIBLE is distributed into the [l] Old, [m] New Testament; which yet are not divers, but the same for substance, as * Lactantius hath observed; the Old being fulfilled in the New, and Christ Testator in both.

The OLD TESTAMENT, and the Order of the Books therein.

THE OLD TESTAMENT (revealing the Covenants of Promise) in respect of the Penmen whom the Holy Ghost imployed to write the Books thereof, is distinguished by the Holy Ghost himself into two general heads, viz. [l] Moses, and [l] the Prophets; or [m] the Law of Moses, and the Prophets. The subdivisions and more particular distributions of these Books of the Old Testament, as ordered in our Bibles, see in the Table here annexed.

I. MOSES.

MOSES [the n man of God, The first Penman of Scripture] was an Ebrew borne in Egypt, after the worlds creation about 2432 years, before Christ about 1496 years: The o seventh from Abraham the father of the faithful; as Enoch was the p seventh from Adam the father of the world. Moses (saith q one) is the seventh from Abraham, a New Henoch, who was the seventh from Adam. So was Eber the seventh from Enoch, and Isaac the seventh from Eber. All excellent among ordinary men, as the Sabbath in regard of the six other dayes. When Moses was borne, r he was very fair. He was marvellously saved from death, being drawn out of the water; whence his name s Mωυσῆς, i. e. Drawn-forth, was given to him. t Augustine thinks, in Moses his name is intimated not only Moses his deliverance and salvation from waters, but also Pharaohs destruction by waters. He was nourished by King Pharaohs daughter for u her own sonne; x Learned in all the wisdome of the Egyptians, and mighty in words and deeds. He lived in Pharaohs Court 40 years, and then left the Court, y choosing rather to suffer affliction with the People of God, &c. z He was a stranger, a shepheard in the land of Madian 40 years. Thence God called him to feed Jacob his people, and Israel his inheritance. He fed Israel most faithfully a 40 years, being in b the Church in the wilderneſſe, with the Angel that spoke to him on Mount Sinai, and with our fathers, where he received the lively Oracles to give unto us, and commanded us a law c which is the inheritance of the Church of Jacob. d Of all the Prophets that arose in Israel, there was none like Moses whom God knew face to face. He dyed 120 years old, e his eye not being dimme, nor his natural strength abated, and was buried of God, no man knowing of his sepulchre to this day.

MOSES wrote the Law of God in the five first Books, called in Greek the Pentateuch, i. e. The fivefold-volume. At first it seems to be written in one volume or Roll, there being such a continued f connection of Book with Book; but was afterwards according to the several subject-matters therein contained, divided into five several Books, containing 1 An History of things past: 2 A Covenant between God and his Church then present: 3 And a Prophesie of further g Grace to come, now exhibited by Jesus Christ. In propounding of which things (h Ainsworth observes) Moses hath a veile upon his glorious face: for in the Histories are implyed i Allegories, and in the Lawes are types and shadowes of k good things to come; the body whereof is of Christ. In Genesis (which History endeth with Israels going down into Egypt) we have the image of a natural man fallen from God into the bondage of sin. In Exodus, is the type of our Regeneration, and state renewed by Jesus Christ. In Leviticus, the shadow of our mortification, whilst we are made Sacrifices unto God. In Numbers, our spiritual warfare, whereunto we are mustered and armed to fight the good fight of faith. In Deuteronomie, the Doctrine of our sanctification, and preparation to enter into our heavenly Canaan, after Moses death, by the conduct of Jesus the Son of God.

GENESIS.

Geneſis.

§. I. Name.

GENESIS, i. e. Generation, ſo called by the Greek; [1] Partly becauſe it ſets forth the [a] Generations of the heavens and of the earth, in their firſt creation: [2] Partly becauſe it deſcribes the [b] Genealogie of the Patriarchs. The Hebrews name their Books of the Old Teſtament, either [1] From the Prophets, the Penmen of them; Or [2] from the principal ſubject or Argument handled in them: Or [3] From the firſt Hebrew word wherewith they begin, as the five Books of Moſes, and the Lamentations of Jeremiah. Hence Geneſis is called in Hebrew בראשית Bereſchith, i. e. In the beginning.

b As Gen 5. and elſewhere.

§. II. Penman.

It is not probable this Book was written by Moſes, whilſt a Private man and a ſhepheard in Madian in the deſert: but rather after he was a Publick perſon, and furniſhed with a Prophetick ſpirit. For, 1. How could Moſes by a private, without a Prophetick ſpirit, ſo accurately relate the worlds creation, and things paſt? 2. How could he foretell things to come as touching [c] Chriſt and others? 3. Otherwiſe the credit and authority of this Hiſtory would be too much enfeebled. 4. Nor is it abſurd which ſome Hebrew writers think, who referre this writing to that of Exod. 24. 12. Come up to me into the Mount, and be thou there, and I will give thee the Tables of Stone, and the Law, and the Precepts, which I have written to teach them. Underſtanding by the Tables, the Decalogue; By the Precepts all the Ceremonial, and Judicial Ordinances: and by the Law, all other writings of Moſes, whether Hiſtorical or Dogmatical, as [d] Parens hath obſerved.

d D. Parens in Prolegom. in Gen. p. 9, 10. Francof. 1647.

§. III. Time and Chronologie.

This Book as it is abſolutely the ancienteſt writing extant in the world, ſo it is moſt compendious, being an Hiſtory of 2369 years, as [e] ſome think, or rather of 2368, as [f] others compute. This may appear in three eminent Intervals or Periods of time recorded in Geneſis, viz.

I. From the Creation to the beginning of the flood, in Noahs 600th year, through ten Generations, 1656 [g] years, viz. From Adams creation to Seth's nativity, 130 years. From Seth to Enos, 105. From Enos to Cainan, 90. From Cainan to Mahaleel, 70. From Mahaleel to Jared, 65. From Jared to Enoch 162. From Enoch to Mathuſalah, 65. From Mathuſalah to Lamech, 187. From Lamech to Noah's birth, 182. From Noah's birth to the beginning of the flood, 600. In all 1656.

II. The ſecond Period of time is, From the beginning of the flood through other ten Generations to Abrams birth, 352 [h] years, viz. From the Flood to Arphaxad, 2 years. From Arphaxad to Selah, 35 years. From Selah to Heber, 30 years. From Heber to Peleg, 34 years. From Peleg to Reu, 30 years. From Reu to Se-

rug, 32 years, From Serug to Nachor, 30 years. From Nachor to Terah, 29 years. From Terah to Abraham, 130 years. In all 352 years. So that Abraham was borne in the 2008th year from the Creation: which is accurately to be observed, leſt we puzzle the whole ſacred Chronologie, as [i] learned men have advertiſed.

III. The third Period, is, From Abrahams birth to Joſephs death through foure Generations, 360 years, viz. From the birth of Abraham to the birth of Iſaac, [k] 100 years. From Iſaacs birth to Jacobs birth, [l] 60 years. From Jacobs birth to his going down into Egypt, [m] 130 years. From Jacobs deſcent into Egypt to his death, [n] 17 years. From the death of Jacob to the death of Joſeph, 53 years, which may be thus gathered. Joſeph dyed when he was [o] 110 years old. He ſtood before Pharaoh when he was [p] 30 years old. After the ſeven years of plenty, in the third year of famine, Jacob came into Egypt, in the [q] one hundred and thirtieth year of Jacob, and fourtieth year of Joſeph. Joſeph lived with his father in Egypt [r] ſeventeen years. Therefore when his father dyed, Joſeph was 57 years old: conſequently he lived after his fathers death [ſ] 53 yeats. So that the total of this third Interval amounts to 360 years. And therefore, 1656. and 352. and 360. the particulars of all theſe three Intervals being added together, This Hiſtory of Geneſis is evidently an Hiſtory of 2368 years continuance.

§. IV. The Scope.

The ſcope of Geneſis, is to ſet forth, The Generation of the world; The corruption thereof by ſin; The reſtauration thereof by Chriſt the ſeed of the woman; Together with the government of the old world before the flood, and the following world after the flood, eſpecially of the Church of God in particular families in both, under the Patriarchs.

The reaſons why Moſes began his writings with the Hiſtory of the Creation, the Fall of Man, &c. are conceived to be theſe, viz. 1. To procure the greater authority to his writings, by his ſetting forth thoſe things which could not certainly be known but by Divine revelation, as [t] Auguſtine intimates. 2. To aſſure the Church (contrary to the opinions of the Heathen) of the nature of the true God, and the works of God, as alſo that the world was not eternal. 3. To convince the world of the ſinful ſtate of all mankinde, Adam the root of mankinde being corrupted. 4. To diſplay the riches of Divine grace to man, in [u] promiſing preſently a ſecond Adam to repair what the firſt Adam had deſtroyed. 5. By the Majeſty of the Creator deſcribed, to provoke the people of Iſrael to more awful and dutiful obedience. 6. To deterre Iſrael from impiety, and incite them to godlyneſſe, by propounding the examples of different rewards of the pious and impious, as [x] Euſebius hath noted. 7. Finally, to teach us that He is the only true God to be worſhipped and ſerved, who created the world out of nothing, reſtored the world corrupted, and in the beginning hath made known himſelf to mankind by his infallible Word.

§. V. Principal Parts.

This Book of GENESIS (which is of ſo admirable worth and uſe, that [y] ſome ſtile it the Compendium of all Divinity, as Moſes the Father of all Divines) might, for memory ſake, be diſtributed after the manner of the Hebrews into 6 Sections, according to the Hiſtory of the ſix Fathers therein deſcribed, viz. Of

I. ADAM; whoſe Creation, Mariage, Dominion, Fall, Puniſhment, Promiſe of Recovery, and Generations, are laid down Chap. I. to V. ver. 6.

II. NOAH; who was a Preacher of righteouſneſſe, Parent of the new world. Ch. V. to X.

III. ABRAHAM; whoſe Calling, excellent Faith, Conference and Covenant with God, Poſterity, y D. Pareus in Gen. prolegom. p. 14. 1647.

Posterity, Peregrinations, and other singular acts, are recorded Chap. X. to XXV.

IV. ISAAC; whose History is described Chap. XXV. to XXVIII.

V. JACOB; whose various conditions and distresses are described, Chap. XXVIII. to XXXVII.

VI. JOSEPH; who by the envy and emulation of his brethren was sold into Egypt, and there by singular providence advanced to the second place of Government in the Kingdome, whereby his Fathers family was afterwards preserved from perishing in an extream Famine, and the knowledge of the true God was brought into Egypt. Chap. XXXVII. to the end.

But here I shall rather follow the ensuing Distribution, which is conceived to be more exact and methodical.

GENESIS describes unto us, the first Originals of things, And the following Progresse and Administrations of things.

The first originals of things; as of the World, the Church, and Sin. I.

1. The original of the whole World in common, by Divine Creation out of nothing, is Described, and that description Amplified.

I. The worlds [z] creation is Described here, Chap. I. and this either, CHAP. I.

1. More generally, ver. 1, 2.

2. More particularly, according to Gods orderly proceedings in six distinct daies-works, viz. 1. The first day, Light, ver. 3, 4, 5. 2. The second day, the Firmament, called Heaven, dividing betwixt waters above and below, ver. 6, 7, 8. 3. The third day, The waters gathered into a Sea, the appearing of Dry-land, And the Earth bringing forth grasse, herbs and fruit-trees. ver. 9, 10, 11, 12, 13. 4. The fourth day, Lights in the Heavens, and two great Lights, Sun and Moon. ver. 14 to 20. 5 The fifth day, Of the Waters, All Fish and Fowles, ver. 20. to 24. 6. Finally, the sixth day, Of the earth were created all Cattle, creeping things, and Beasts, ver. 24, 25. And last of all was created [a] Man, male and female, (as his choicest work, and an Epitome of the world, and abstract of heaven and earth). Touching mans creation, consider 1. The Divine consultation about it. 2. The Divine platform according to which he was framed, Gods own Image. 3. Gods benediction upon man created, in point of fructification, dominion over the Creatures, and sustentation by them. ver. 26. to the end of the Chap.

[z] The Creation of the World.

[a] ADAM.

II. The Description of the worlds creation is Amplified,

1. By a narration of Gods rest from his works the seventh day, and [b] sanctification thereof. Chap. II. ver. 1, 2, 3.

[b] Seventh day sanctified. CHAP. II.

2. By further explanation of the manner of the Creation, ver. 4, 5, 6. especially of mans creation, viz. 1. How Adam was made, ver. 7. 2. How placed in the garden of Eden to dresse and keep it, ver 8. to 18. 3. How Adam named the creatures, ver. 18, 19, 20. 4. How the woman was made of one of the ribs of Adam sleeping, ver. 21, 22. 5. How God joyned the man and woman together in marriage, ver. 22, 23, 24, 25.

II. The original of the Church, for which the world was made, is intermingled, intimated variously, 1. In the man and womans creation after Gods Image. 2. In the sanctification of the Sabbath for them. 3. In the Tree of life, and Tree of knowledge of good and evil. And 4. Afterwards in the promised seed of the woman. 5. And the sacrifices which God taught Adam to offer of those beasts with whose skins Adam was cloathed.

III. The original of [c] Sin and Corruption, how it entred into the world, Chap. III. described by 1. The cause of it, viz. The Devil in the Serpent seducing the woman to eat of the forbidden fruit, ver. 1. to 6. 2. The acting of it, ver. 6. 3. The effects or consequents thereof, viz. 1. Their immediate guilt and shame, and flying from God at his voice, ver. 7, 8. 2. Gods conventing and convicting of them, ver. 9. to 14. 3. Gods punishments partly Denounced, partly inflicted. On the Serpent (where the first fundamental Gospel-promise of the [d] SEED OF THE WOMAN TO BRUISE THE SERPENTS HEAD, is most sweetly inserted) ver. 14, 15. On the woman, ver. 16. On Adam. ver 17, 18, 19. (Here also is inserted the womans comfortable name [e] CHAVAH, because she is the mother of all Living; naturally by the first Adam, supernaturally by Christ the seed of the woman the second Adam, ver. 20. And Gods cloathing the man and woman with beasts skins, whose bodies they were taught to sacrifice, ver. 21.) On both man and woman, driving them out of the garden of Eden, ver. 22. to the end of the Chap.

[c] The Fall. CHAP. III.

[e] CHAVAH or Eve.

The Progresse and following Administration of things after the Creation; either II.

Exodus.

§. I. The Name.

EXODUS, i. e. Going-out, or Departure; so called by the Greek, because it declares Israels miraculous departure out of Egypt, after they had been long oppressed there under tyrannical servitude. In Hebrew it's called שמות Veelle shemoth, i. e. [1] And these are the names. Because these are the first words of the Book.

[1] Exod. 1. 1.

§. II.

§. II. The Time and Chronologie.

Exodus is an Hiſtory, from the death of Joſeph till the erecting of the Tabernacle, for about 142 years, viz. From death of Joſeph to the birth of Moſes 60 years, [b] as ſome compute. From Moſes birth to the departure out of Egypt, 80 years. From the departure out of Egypt, to the erecting of the Tabernacle, [d] 2 years: The Tabernacle was erected in the ſecond year, viz. [e] the ſecond year after their coming out of Egypt: yet this Hiſtory is not finiſhed in this Book, till Num. 9. 29.

§. III. Penman.

That Moſes was PENMAN of this Book is generally acknowledged: but when it was written, cannot ſo preciſely be determined (yet it being an Hiſtory of matters of fact) doubtleſſe it was written after the Giving of the Law on Mount Sinai, and the erecting of the Tabernacle. For things cannot hiſtorically be related, till they be acted; as that learned [f] Rivet hath noted.

f And. Riv. com. in Exo. Prolog. p. 2. col. 2.

§. IV. Occaſion and Subject-matter.

Moſes having deſcribed the Creation of the World the Propagation of the Nations, and ſome Primordial beginnings of the Church in ſeveral families in the book of GENESIS; now comes in this book of EXODUS to deſcribe the ſtate and condition eſpecially of the Church as collected out of ſeveral families, and united in one politique body or ſociety, ſeparated from all other people, partaker of the [g] precious promiſes of God, and in due ſeaſon expecting their accompliſhment. This is the [h] Church in the wilderneſſe.

g Gen. 15. 13. and 17. 5, 8.
h Act. 7. 38.

In this Book eſpecially are declared: [1] Gods wonderful deliverance of Iſrael out of Egypt, and from the Egyptians at the Red-ſea. [2] His miraculous ſuſtaining of them in the wilderneſſe; [3] His giving them the Law, therein renewing Covenant with them on Mount Sinai; And [4] How he cauſed his Tabernacle to be erected among them. So that (as [i] one obſerves) If there be any Book wherein the ſingular Providence of God appears in preſerving, propagating, and delivering his Church? If there be any Book wherein the truth and fidelity of Gods promiſes ſhines forth in their accompliſhment? If any Book wherein the infinite wiſdome and juſtice of God appears in making of Lawes, and erecting of Divine worſhip? (And I may add, If there be any Book wherein we have a lively embleme of the afflicted Church of God in the wilderneſſe of this world) certainly this is the Book.

i And. Riv. Prolog. in Exod. p. 1.

§. V. Scope.

The SCOPE or drift of this Hiſtory is, In general to ſet forth Gods tender, faithful, wiſe, juſt, and happy government of his Church now collected out of all the ſeveral families of Iſrael, and united in one politique body.

In particular, 1. To demonſtrate clearly Gods ancient faithfulneſſe in keeping covenant and promiſe with his people: As in [k] bringing them out of Egypt after their long affliction; In multiplying Abrahams ſeed, from [l] 70 ſouls that went into Egypt, to ſix hundred thouſand, and three thouſand and five hundred and fifty warriours, that came out of Egypt, beſides women and children. 2. To magnifie Gods power in their miraculous deliverances and preſervations; not only before his own people, but in ſight alſo of the very Heathen. 3. To encourage his people to depend upon him in deepeſt ſtraits of afflictions, ſeeing he ſo tenders them in afflicti-

§. VI. Principal Parts.

EXODUS contains an hiſtorical narration, 1 Of Gods Actions in reference to Iſraels deliverance out of Egypt; And 2 Of Gods Inſtructions of Iſrael.

Gods actions in relation to Iſraels deliverance out of Egypt, were either 1 Before, 2 In, or 3 After Iſraels deliverance.

I. Before Iſraels deliverance are conſiderable,

I. Gods permiſſion of the Egyptian tyranny over them, which gave occaſion for their deliverance, Ch. I. This tyranny is deſcribed, 1. By the Antecedents occaſioning it, which are three, viz. 1. The death of Joſeph, and his brethren, and all that Generation, whereby their oppreſſions might have been prevented, ver. 1. to 7. 2. The abundant increaſe of the Iſraelites afterwards; ſo that the Egyptians began to fear their multitudes, ver. 7. 3. Their new King (which knew not Joſeph) with his politick Conſultations againſt Iſrael, ver. 8. to 11. II. By the Particulars of it, viz. 1. Exacting rigorous ſervice in brick, &c. by cruel task-maſters, ver. 11. to 15. 2. Charging the Hebrew Midwives to kill all the Males of the Hebrews when they were born; (but the Midwives obeyed not this bloody command) ver. 15. to 22. 3. By commanding all the Egyptians to drown the Hebrew male-children in the river, ver. 22. Upon this is related the ſtory of Moſes his birth, and being brought by his Siſter in an Ark of bulruſhes, to the River ſide among the flags, his Parents being unable to conceal him any longer, Ch. II. 1, &c.

2, Gods Preparation both of Inſtruments and Actions, for their deliverance out of Egypt.

1. Inſtruments prepared, were o MOSES and AARON.

1. MOSES. Touching him are declared 1. His Nativity and deſcent, Ch. II. ver. 1. to 5. 2. His ſingular Preſervation from being drowned, even by means of Pharaohs own daughter, ver. 5. to 21. 3. His acts whilſt a private perſon, viz. Relieving ſome of his brethren the Iſraelites wronged by the Egyptians, ver. 11. to 15. Flying into the Land of Midian, and keeping the flock of Jethro, Prieſt of Midian, &c. ver. 15. to 23. 4. His divine call to be a publick deliverer of the oppreſſed Iſraelites from Egypts tyranny; deſcribed, By the impulſive cauſe of their deliverance, Gods Commiſerations to their ſorrows, and remembring of his Covenant, ver. 23, 24, 25. By Gods appearing to Moſes in a burning buſh on Mt. Horeb, Ch. III. 1, to 7. By Gods declaring his pleaſure preſently to deliver Iſrael, and that by Moſes, ver. 7. to 11. By Gods encouragements and directions to Moſes for the managing of this great work againſt all Moſes diſcouragements, ver. 11. to the end of the chap. and Ch. IV. 1. to 14.

2. AARON, whom God joyns in Commiſſion with Moſes as his aſſiſtant, ver. 14. to 18. This Preparation of Moſes and Aaron is amplified, 1. By Moſes returne from Midian into Egypt, at Gods command to viſit his brethren; and how by the way the LORD ſought to kill him, for not having circumciſed his ſonne, ver. 18. to 27. 2. By Aarons coming to meet Moſes at Gods appointment, ver. 27, 28.

Hitherto of Gods Actions for Israel.

Gods Institutions, or Instructions of Israel, follow. Where consider, 1. Gods Prescriptions. 2. Israels Performances.

I. Gods Prescriptions. Here note,

1. Gods Preparation of the people by Moses for the renewing of the Covenant with God at Mount Sinai, Chap. XIX. Here are declared, 1. Israels encamping in the wilderness of Sinai by the Mount, ver. 1,2. 2. The Covenant betwixt God and Israel in general, ver. 3. to 10. 3. The sanctification of Israel against the third day, with directions how to behave themselves, ver. 10. to 16. 4. Gods terrible appearing on Mount Sinai, ver. 16. to the end of the chap.

2. Gods Promulgation of his Lawes, 1 Moral, 2 Judicial, and 3 Ceremonial.

1. MORAL. Here you have,

I. The y ten Commandments, regulating all inward and outward acts of obedience, 1. To God, and 2. To men.

1. Towards GOD, in the first Table; In an holy worship of him, which is stiled RELIGION and PIETY.

This Piety is exercised

1. In the having and worshipping of the true God, and him alone as our God in Christ, which is the scope of the I. Commandment, ch. XX. 1,2,3.

2. In the true worship of this one only true God. And herein are contained,

1. The true and pure worship it self, which is to be performed to God meerly according to his own will. II. Command. ver. 4,5,6.

2. The Adjuncts of this Worship, viz.

1. The true manner how this true God will always be worshipped, viz. Soreverently, holily, sincerely, &c. as may be most honorable to his great and holy Name. III. Command. ver. 7.

2. The special time when God will be more solemnly and publiquely worshipped, viz. On his Day of Sabbath, both under the Old and New Testament; which Sabbath is sanctified by him authoritatively and is to be sanctified by us obediencially. IV. Command. ver. 8,9,10,11.

2. Towards Men, in the second Table; in Righteousness, brotherly love, and sobriety; which are to be performed,

1. In Deed, Word, and Thought, towards our neighbour, considered either

1. Relatively, in reference to that relation, order or degree of his condition, wherein God hath set him amongst men; by giving respective Honour to him, V. Com.

2. Absolutely, in regard of

1. His person preserving { 1. His life and health, by offices of humanity, VI. Com. ver. 13. 2. His Purity, by offices of Chastity, VII. Com. ver. 14.

2. His Goods and possessions, by acts of Justice and Commutation VIII. Com. ver. 15.

2. His Good Name, by acts of Truth and veracity, IX. Com. ver. 16.

3. In the very first motions of the heart, (even those motions that go before a compleat and deliberate assent) towards our Neighbour, in reference to all and every one of the foregoing Commandments of the second Table, X. Com. ver. 17.

II. The Event of this Publication, viz. The peoples fear of God, and desire that he would speak to them by Moses, ver. 18. to 22.

III. Gods appendix to his second Commandment, 1. Forbidding Idols, 2. Directing about Altars and Sacrifices, ver. 22. to the end of the chapt.

2. JUDICIAL, about things Civil and Sacred. These are 1. Expressed in very many particulars, Ch. XXI. XXII. and XXIII. to ver. 12. 2. Applyed: Partly by some Morals repeated, ver. 12, 13. Partly by some Ceremonials appointed, ver. 14. to 20. Partly by divers sweet Promises annexed upon condition of their sincere obedience, ver. 20. to the end of the chapt. — CHAP. XXI. XXII. XXIII.

3. CEREMONIAL. Touching the Ceremonial Lawes here are laid down,

I. The Preparation to them, Chap. XXIV. Here are, 1. Gods calling Moses to him again into the Mount; Aaron, his sons and the Elders of Israel worshipping afar off, ver. 1, 2. 2. Moses his confirmation of the Covenant betwixt God and the people, by a threefold signe, viz. 12 Pillars under the hill. Sacrifices and Sprinkling of blood, ver. 3. to 9. 3. Moses his Ascent into the Mount to God to receive the Tables, &c. Where he was 40 dayes, ver. 9. to the end of the chapt. — CHAP. XXIV.

II. The parts of them. The parts or particulars of Lawes Ceremonial, are

1. Touching the Tabernacle, with the utensils and appurtenances thereof, at large described, Chap. XXV. XXVI. and XXVII. — CHAP. XXV. XXVI. XXVII.
2. Touching the Priests, Together with their Ornaments and Vestments for publique Ministration in the Sanctuary, Ch. XXVIII. as also touching the Consecration of Aaron and his sons, Ch. XXIX. 1. to 38. — CH. XXVIII. — CH. XXIX.
3. Touching Sacrifices, ver. 38. to the end of the chapt. And — CHAP. XXX.
4. Touching divers other sacred things, Ch. XXX. throughout.

III. The close of Ceremonial directions, declaring 1. Gods calling and qualifying Bezaliel for this Tabernacle-work; Ch. XXXI. ver. 1. to 12. 2. Gods renewed command about the Sabbaths, ver. 12. to 18. 3. Gods giving to Moses the two Tables of Stone written with the finger of God, ver. 18. — CHAP. XXXI.

Thus of Gods Prescriptions.

II. Israels Performances of Gods prescriptions, follow. Here consider what Israel performed, 1 About Morals, 2 About Ceremonials.

1. About Morals. Here consider,

1. How Morals were violated by the Idolatrous [z] Calf made by Aaron, Ch. XXXII. Amplyfied, 1. By the occasion, Moses long absence in the Mount, ver. 1. 2. The making and worshipping the Calf, ver. 2. to 7. 3. Gods displeasure hereat, ver. 7. to 11. 4. Moses intercession for Israel, and his prevailing, ver. 11. to 15. 5. Moses [a] breaking the Tables, in token of their breach of Covenant, ver. 15. to 20. 6. Moses demolishing the Calf, ver. 20. 7. Moses sharp rebuke of Aaron for it, ver. 21. to 25. 8. Moses destroying 3000 of the Idolaters by the Levites, ver. 25. to 30. 9. Moses intercession again to the Lord for the people, ver. 30. to the end. — CH. XXXII. [z] Idolatry of Aarons Calf. [a] Moses breaketh the two TABLES.

2. How Morals were repaired and restored again.

1. Partly by the peoples reconciliation with God at Moses intreaty, Ch. XXXIII. described 1. By the Antecedents of it, viz. Gods threatning to withdraw his presence from the people, ver. 1, 2, 3. The peoples mourning for it, ver. 4. to 7. Moses removing the Tabernacle out of the Camp, ver. 7. to 12. 2. By the Lords grant and promise of his presence, at Moses prayer, ver. 12. to 18. 3. By the Consequent, viz. Gods promise to shew Moses his glory, his Back-parts, ver. 18. to the end of the chapt. — CH. XXXIII.

2. Partly by [b] renewing the Tables of the Covenant, Ch. XXXIV. 1, 2, 3. Amplyfied 1. By Gods proclaiming his glorious back-parts before Moses, ver. 4. to 10. 2. By Gods renewing the Covenant about the promised Land, (the repetition of divers Morals and Ceremonials being annexed) ver. 10. to 29. 3. By the glorious shining of Moses face at his coming down, ver. 29. to the end of the chapt. and Ch. XXXV. 1, 2, 3. — CH. XXXIV. [b] The TABLES renewed. — CH. XXXV.

2. About Ceremonials. Here are described, 1. The peoples offerings for the Tabernacle, ver. 4. to 30. 2. The workmen to frame the Tabernacle, ver. 30. to the end of the chapt. 3. Their fashioning the Tabernacle, Ch. XXXVI. throughout. 4. Their making of the Ark, with many other sacred utensils for the Tabernacle, Ch. XXXVII. and XXXVIII. 5. Their making Ornaments and Vestments for Aaron and the Priests, all being brought for Moses to view, Ch. XXXIX. 6. The total disposing, ordering and erecting of the [c] Tabernacle, Ch. XL. 1. to 34. 7. Thereupon finally, the Cloud covered the Tent of the Congregation, and the Glory of the Lord filled the Tabernacle, ver. 34. to the end. — CH. XXXVI. — CH. XXXVII. and XXXVIII. — CH. XXXIX. — CHAP. XL. [c] The Tabernacle is erected.

AN APPENDIX TO EXODUS.

The SONG of MOSES and the Israelites at the Red-Sea, contained in Exod. 15. 1. to 22.

Metrically Translated out of the Hebrew, and Analytically Explained.

§. I.

THis famous Song both for Antiquity and other Excellencies, far surpasseth all Songs whatsoever left upon record by Heathenish Antiquity; Yea, is the most ancient of all Scripture-Psalmes or Songs. Moses penned it (as [a] Josephus and [b] Hierom think, in Hexameter verse). Moses and the Israelites sung it at the Red-Sea, in the two thousand foure hundred fifty third year from the Worlds Creation, or thereabouts, (as Scripture-Chronology intimateth). Most probably this is that Song of Moses, alluded to in the [c] Revelation.

a Joseph Antiquit. Jud. lib. 2. cap. 7.
b Hieron. in Præf. Chronol. Eusebii ad Vincem Gallicon.
c Rev. 15. 3. &c.

§. II.

Occasion. Gods wonderful [d] drowning of persecuting Pharaoh and all his Egyptian Host in the same Red-sea, by which he delivered his people Israel, and this immediately after their departure out of Egypt. To this purpose, saith [e] Augustine; As every creature is angry with them whom God will punish: so every creature is serviceable to them whom God will help. For the Red-sea divideth both these People; becoming to the one an end of all their Tyranny, to the other the beginning of all their Felicity; to the one a Refuge, to the other a Snare.

d Exod. 14. 17. to the end, and 15. 1. e Sicut autem iis quos Deus punire voluit, omnis creatura iratscitur, hic & illis quibus auxilium præbuit, omnis creatura suffragatur. Etenim hos ambos populos Mare Rubrum divisit: ubi eorum alteri socius auxilium præbuit, omnis creatura suffragatur. Etenim hos ambos populos Mare Rubrum divisit: ubi eorum alteri socius auxilium alteri cunctæ felicitatis fuit. —— Nam & Pharaonis exercitus mare post Israel intravit: sed uni refugium, alteri laqueus fuit. August. de Mirabilib. Script. l. 1. c. 19. & 20. p. 722, 723. Tom. 3. 1569.

§. III.

Scope. 1 Thankfully to praise the LORD both for the Egyptians utter overthrow, and the Israelites Preservation at the Red-sea; and 2 Prophetically to assure the Israelites of their like victory over the Canaanites, and Possession of the Promised Land.

So the Song is partly Historical, partly Prophetical.

§. IV.

Principal parts. Herein therefore are,

1. Most elegant Praises of God, for his admirable destruction of the Egyptians, but salvation of the Israelites, ver. 1. to 13. these Praises and the matter of them are,

1. Summarily

1. Summarily propounded, both 1. In general, The Lord excelleth gloriously. And 2. In special, The Horse and his Rider, &c. ver. 1.

2. More fully expounded and amplified

1. By a grateful Attribution, or Ascribing such names and titles unto God, as conduce most peculiarly to praise God for his exploits at the Red Sea, ver. 2, 3.

2. By a triumphing narration of Gods judgments upon his own and his peoples enemies. Herein are most emphatically declared to us, 1. Gods Impartiality in his judgments. Pharaoh his chariots, his host, his chief Captains were all drowned, ver. 4. II. Gods irresistible Severity against the Egyptians, illustrated by many similitudes: He made them sink to the bottom as a stone, ver. 5. He dashed them in pieces with his right hand, ver. 6. He pulled them down like a falling building. He devoured them as stubble with his flaming wrath, ver. 7. III. Gods notable method in bringing them into the snare. 1. Partly by dividing the Red sea miraculously, that it stood like walls of congealed Ice for Israel to passe through, ver. 8. 2. Partly by hardening Pharaoh to follow them into the sea, whose pride and insolencie is lively personated, I will pursue, I will overtake, &c. Climax. ver. 9. 3. Partly Gods utter overwhelming both them, their pride, and their cruelty in the sea at the very blast of his winde, ver. 10. IV. Gods matchless excellency, beyond all mighty ones whatsoever, displayed at the Red sea, even to admiration, ver. 11, 12.

II. Most sweet Prophecies, (laid down not only in the future, but often in the Preter-tense for the more certainty) of future blessings assured to Israel, upon these rare experiences, viz. 1. That God would in might and mercy guide them to the holy Land, where they should dwell, ver. 13. 2. That God by the noise of the overthrow of Pharaoh, would so amaze and astonish the inhabitants of Palestina, Edom, Moab and Canaan, that they should be as still as a stone, ver. 14, 15, 16. 3. That Israel should pass over Jordan into Canaan without opposition, ver. 16. 4. That Israel should be brought into, and planted in the place prepared for them, ver. 17.

III. A Conclusion of the Song, ascribing everlasting dominion to God, ver. 18.

After this Song, the Principal Subject-matter of it is briefly recited again, ver. 19. And how Mary and the women with timbrels and dances answered the men in this Song, singing the first clause, altering only one word, ver. 20, 21. Perhaps she repeated this at every Period; as [for his mercy endureth for ever,] is [f] elsewhere repeated.

With this Song of Moses, for victory over the typical Pharaoh, the Holy Ghost compares the [g] Song of them that got the victory over the spiritual Pharaoh, the Beast and Antichrist.

f Ps. 136. throughout. See 2 Chron. 5. 13.

g Rev. 15. 1, 2, 3, 4.

h Song of Moses, and the Song of them that got the victory over the BEAST Paralleled.

Thus take the [h] Parallel.

1. In the typical Egypt, Israel's oppressed under a cruel persecuting Pharaoh.

2. Israel's deliverance from Egypt, and victory over Pharaoh and Egypt, Exod. 14.

3. For Israel the Lord conquered, Exod. 15. 4.

4. King Pharaoh his Captains, Host and Horses were all drowned, Exod. 15. 4.

5. Pharaoh and the Egyptians sunk like a stone, like lead in the midst of the waters, Exod. 15. 5, 10.

6. Pharaoh was consumed by the blast of Gods wind, Exod. 15. 10.

7. After Pharaoh and the Egyptians overthrow the everlasting Kingdom is ascribed to the Lord, Exod. 15. 18.

8. Israel for victory over Pharaoh, sung the Song of Moses the Servant of the Lord, by the Red Sea, Exod. 15. 1.

9. The Israelitish women sang with timbrels, Exod. 15. 20.

10. This Song of Moses for victory over the typical Pharaoh, is the very first Song recorded in the Old Testament.

1. In the spiritual Egypt the Saints, Rev. 11. 8. under a most cruel persecuting Anti-christ.

2. The Saints deliverance from, and victory over the beast and Anti-christ, Rev. 15. 2.

3. The Lord Christ for his Saints, Rev. 19. 11.

4 Kings, Captains, Mighty-men, Horses and their Riders slain by Christ, Rev. 19. 18, 20.

5. Babylon shall be flung down like a millstone into the sea, Rev. 18. 21.

6. Anti-christ consumed by the breath or spirit of the Lords mouth, 2 Thes. 2. 8.

7. After Antichrists overthrow, voices in Heaven say, The Kingdoms of this world are become our Lords and his Christs, and he shall reign for ever and ever, Rev. 11. 15, 16, 17.

8. Saints at their victory over Anti-christ, sing the Song of the Lamb, the Son of God standing by the Sea of glass mixed with fire, Rev. 15. 2, 3.

9. The conquering Saints sang, having the Harps of God, Rev. 15. 2, 3.

10. The song of the Lamb for victory over Anti-christ, is the very last Song mentioned in the whole New Testament, Rev. 15. 3, &c. Rev. 16. 5, 6, 7. Rev. 19. 1. 18.

(*Sing this as Pſal.*113.)

1. Then ſang Moſes and the Sons of Iſrael this Song unto the LORD; and they ſpake, ſaying:

Sing praiſes to the LORD will I,
For he [i] excelleth glorioufly:
The horſe [k] and him-that-rode-thereon,
He down into the ſea hath flung.
2. The LORD's mine only ſtrength and ſong,
And [l] he was my ſalvation:
This is my God, and for [m] his ſake
An habitation I-will-make;
Yea, He my fathers God became,
And [n] I will-highly-him preferre.
3. The LORD's the onely man of warre:
The LORD is his renowned name.

4 Proud Pharaoh's charets, and his hoſt
He down into the ſea hath caſt:
Likewiſe [o] the very-principall
Of his commanding Captaines there
Within the Red-ſea drowned are.
5. The Deeps have [p] overwhelm'd them all,
They headlieſſe [q] ſunk-down every one
Into the bottoms as a ſtone.
6. LORD, thy-right hand out-ſtretched ſo,
Full glorious-is become in ſtrength:
O LORD, with thy right-hand at length
In-pieces-thou-haſt-daſht the foe.

7. And in the [r] greatneſſe eminent
Of that thine Highneſſe excellent,
Them that againſt thee up aroſe
Thou utterly didſt [ſ] overthrow:
Thy-fervent-wrath ſent-out-haſt-thou,
As ſtubble [t] it devoured thoſe.
8. The waters alſo with the breath
Of thine-exaſperated-wrath
Together gathered-they were;
The floods did ſtand-up-right as heapes,
In [u] middle of the ſea the deeps
Were like to yce congealed there.

9. The vaunting foe then proudly ſpake,
I will purſue, I'le overtake,
I will divide the ſpoile with joy:
My ſoul of them-ſhall-have-its fill;
[x] Unſheath my glittering ſword I will;
This hand of mine ſhall them deſtroy.
10. Then with thy winde thou didſt but blow,
The ſea did [y] them quite-over-flow;

(i) Heb. In excelling excelleth.
(k) Heb. and his Rider.
(l) Heb. he hath been to me for ſalvation.
(m) Heb. Him.
(n) Heb. I will highly exalt him.
(o) Heb. The choice, or The election of his, &c.
(p) Heb. Covered them.
(q) Heb. Deſcended.
(r) Heb. multitude.
(ſ) Or, Heb. pull down.
(t) Heb. It did eat them up.
(u) Heb. Heart of the ſea.
(x) Heb. I will empty out my ſword.
(y) Heb. Covered them.

As

As lead they speedily [z] ſank-down
In mighty waters, at thy word.
11. O who is like-to-thee, O LORD,
Among the [a] Mighties in renown!

Who can be found like unto thee,
So glorious in ſanctitie,
In praiſes fearfull, [b] wonders acting!
12. Thou thy right-hand haſt ſtretched-forth;
Them all up-ſwallow did the earth.
13. Thou in thy mercy [c] art-conducting
This people which thou didſt redeem:
And in thy ſtrength thou guideſt them
Unto [d] thine holy manſion.
14. The Peoples ſhall this heare, and quake:
Sharp-ſorrows [e] hold on them ſhall take,
That Paleſtina dwell upon.

15. Then Edom's Dukes on every ſide
Extreamely ſhall-be-terrifide;
The mighty-men that Moab ſway,
Lay-hold-upon-them trembling ſhall:
Yea, Canaan's indwellers all
Quite ſpiritleſſe ſhall melt-away.
16. On them ſhall dread and terrour fall;
Through greatneſſe of thine arm [f] they ſhall
Remain-as-ſtill as any ſtone:
Untill thy people, LORD, paſſe-over,
Untill this people ſhall paſſe-over,
Which thou haſt purchaſed alone.

17. Them thou'lt bring in, and them implant
In thine inheritance's Mount,
The place, O LORD, which thou haſt made
For thy ſelf to inhabit there:
O LORD, the Sanctuary faire,
The which thine hands have [g] firmly-laid.
18. The LORD as King ſhall reign and ſway
For ever and perpetuall-ay.

19. For the horſe of Pharaoh went in, with his chariots and with his horſemen, into the ſea; and the LORD brought again the waters of the ſea upon them: But the ſons of Iſrael went on dry land in the midſt of the ſea.
20. And Mary the Propheteſſe, the ſiſter of Aaron, took a Timbrel in her hand, and all the women went out after her with timbrels and with dances.
21. And Mary anſwered them:

O ſing ye to the LORD's renown,
For [h] he excelleth glorioufly;
Horſe and his Rider, lifted high,
He down into the Sea hath thrown.

[z] Heb. properly, were overſhadowed. The word ſignifies, to be overpiunged in the waters

[a] Heb. Strongones. Or Potentates, &c. not Gods. For in no other place in O. Teſt. in the word אֵלִים Elim uſed for Gods.

[b] Heb. A wonder.

Leviticus.

§. I. Name.

LEVITICUS. So denominated by the Greek, from the chief ſubject or matter of the Book, which principally deſcribes the lawes, ſacrifices, and ſervices of the LEVITICAL Prieſthood. It is ſtiled among the Hebrews ויקרא Vajicra, i.e. And he called. This being the firſt Hebrew word in the Hebrew text, beginning this Book.

§. II. Penman, and Occaſion.

PENMAN of this Book was (by general conſent) Moſes, who after he had deſcribed Gods reducing of the people of Iſrael into one viſible Eccleſiaſtical body, and the erecting of the Tabernacle, in Exodus: comes now in this Book to treat of the whole Platform of the Levitical worſhip.

§. III. Time or Chronologie.

So that this Book relates the memorable words, acts, and Levitical Ceremonial Laws made known from God to Iſrael, for [a] one Moneths ſpace, viz. from about the beginning of the ſecond year after Iſraels departure out of Egypt, the Tabernacle being already reared, till the beginning of the ſecond moneth of the ſame year, which was in the [b] 2514. year from the worlds Creation.

[a] See Jun. Annotat. Compare alſo Exod. 40. 17. with Num. 1. 1.
[b] H. Ainſw. Annot. before Levit.

§. IV. Scope.

More generally, the SCOPE of this Book, to make known Levitical Lawes, Sacrifices and Ordinances; and by thoſe ſhadows to lead Iſrael by the hand to [c] Jeſus Chriſt the true Prieſt and Sacrifice of the Church; inſomuch that Hierome ſaid, [d] That almoſt every ſyllable in this Book breathes out a celeſtial Sacrament; the Figures theref, leading us to Jeſus Chriſt the only High-Prieſt of the New Teſtament.

More particularly, 1. To keep Iſrael from Idolatry, (to which they were very prone) by inſtituting ſuch a coſtly, laborious, viſible and glorious worſhip. 2. To lead them by Sacrifices expiatory, to Chriſt the only [e] true Propitiation for our ſins able perfectly to purge the Conſcience. By Sacrifices Euchariſtical or Gratulatory, to ſpiritual thankfulneſſe to God for all his benefits. And by the Holy Prieſthood, to Chriſt the only eternal allſufficient Prieſt [f] able to ſave to the uttermoſt all that come unto God by him. 3. To inſtruct them, by meats forbidden as unclean, to avoid what God prohibits. By many ſorts of uncleannеſſes, and their expiations; That the holieſt Saints on earth are not without their ſinnes and infirmities, and therefore need conſtant expiation by Chriſt, &c.

§. I. Name.

NUMBERS, Gr. Ἀριθμοὶ, so called, because a great part of the Book, especially at the beginning, is spent in Numbring of the Tribes and Families of Israel, and of their Journeys from Egypt to Canaan. This is now the first Muster or Numbring of the People, (the same with that Exod. 38. 26. see Numb. 1. 46.) described here in the four first Chapters. At this Muster they were 603550. This Account is taken of the Peoples Number, 1. Partly that they might orderly be ranked in their Tents about the Tabernacle. 2. Partly to evidence the fidelity of Gods Promises in bringing such multitudes into the promised Land (which shortly they were to enter) notwithstanding so many wicked ones were destroyed from among them in the wilderness. The second Muster or Numbring of them, was in the a fortieth and last year of their Travels, when (all this Generation being dead save Moses, Caleb, and Joshuah) their sons were numbred numbered for to receive the inheritance of the Land of Promise, A Type of Heaven, And they were in all 601730. almoſt as many as at the firſt Muſter. In Heb. its called במדבר Bemidbar, i.e. In the Deſert. Sometimes וידבר Vajedabber, that is, Then ſpake. That Being the fifth, this the firſt word of this Book in the Hebrew text.

§. II. Penman.

Moſes (queſtionleſſe) was PENMAN alſo of this Hiſtory, which is ſo continued in one ſeries with the [b] former.

b See Num. 1. 1, &c.

§. III. Time or Chronologie.

Numbers contains an Hiſtory from the beginning of the ſecond moneth of the ſecond year after Iſraels coming out of Egypt, to the beginning of the eleventh moneth of the fortieth year, viz.[c] 38 years and upwards, about 9 or 10 moneths, as ſome [d] obſerve. And this may remarkably be evinced, by comparing Num. 1.1. and 36. 13, diligently with Deut. 1.3. which, as above, demonſtrate both the beginning and ending of this Hiſtory of Numbers. For, the things mentioned from the beginning of the Book to c. 10. 29. belong to the firſt moneth of the ſecond year of their departure out of Egypt; ſo doth alſo the whole Book of Leviticus Thence to Deut. 1.3. are recorded things done for the ſpace of 38 years, and 9 or 10 moneths.

Deuteronomie.

§. I. Name.

DEUTERONOMIE, i. e. The second Law, or Law repeated. Thus denominated by the Greek, because this book containeth a Repetition of Gods Law given by Moses to Israel. This Repetition of the Law the Lord was pleased to make, 1 Partly because all that Generation then living when the Law was first promulged on M. Sinai, except Moses, Caleb and Joshuah, were now dead in the wildernesse. 2 Partly because their children either heard not that first Promulgation, or, being very young, had in great part forgot it. 3 Partly that God might help their dulnesse and incapacity, in not only affording them the Repetition of the Law, but the Explanation also. So that this Book seemes to be as it were an Abridgment or Epitome of the three former Books, containing the summe of all Gods Laws; and a Compendium of the principal Histories, all being closed up with the memorable death of Moses. Moses brought them from Egypt, through the wildernesse, to the borders of Canaan, and then dyed, could bring them no further: but Joshuah brought them into it, and possessed them of it. Thus, the [a] Law is our Schoolmaster to bring us to Christ: but only Jesus the true Joshuah brings us into Gods promised Rest. In Hebrew it is sometimes from the same ground called משנה Mischneh, i.e. Repetition of the Law. But most usually, from the first words of the Book it is called אלה הדברים Elleh haddebarim, i.e. These are the words; or only דברים Debarim, i. e. The words.

[a] Gal. 3. 24.

§. II. Penman.

PENMAN of this Book as of all the four former Books, was Moses; who also (as is thought by [b] some) wrote the History of his own death aforehand in the last chapter by a Prophetick spirit; or Joshuah wrote it for him.

[b] H. Alsted. Pretog. l. 2. c. 118.

§. III. Time or Chronologie.

This Book contains the History of but a few days, viz. From the beginning of the eleventh moneth, to about the seventh day of the twelfth moneth of the fourtieth year after Israels departure out of Egypt: for Moses began to speak these words in the [c] first day of the eleventh moneth of the said fourtieth year, which was a little before his death: He [d] died when he was one hundred and twenty years old, after which Israel mourned for Moses in the land of Moab [e] thirty dayes. This determines the time of the History, as Junius well observes.

[c] Deut. 1. 3.
[e] Deut. 34. 8.

The Chronologie of this History is thus computed by some: viz.

1. The first part of this Book containes the History of the [f] first day of the eleventh venth moneth of the fourtieth year, after their coming out of Egypt. 2. The second part, contains the History of the [g] second day. 3. The third part contains the History (as is probable) of [h] four dayes at most. 4. The fourth part contains the History of [i] one day. 5. The fifth containes the History also of [k] one day. 6. The sixth containes the History of [l] one day. 7. The seventh part containes the History of their mourning for Moses [m] thirty dayes.

Proof hereof may be drawn from the History of Joshuah, by computing backwards from the day of the Passeover. For in the Land of Canaan the first Passeover was celebrated [n] in the one and fourtieth year after Israels coming out of Egypt, on the fourteenth day of the moneth Nisan. Before which they were [o] circumcised, which probably took up four dayes. One day they were passing through Jordan; [p] two dayes in preparation for it: These three dayes seem to be the time [q] of searching out the Land; and lastly the thirty [r] dayes mourning. And thus going backwards, we shall find that Deuteronomie contains an History of but a very few dayes.

§. IV. Scope.

SCOPE. 1. That the Law formerly given of God, may by this new Repetition of it be more declared, confirmed, and applyed to the present condition of Israel; most of them having not heard it formerly, or having forgot it, and they thereby fitted and better prepared for the promised Canaan, upon which they were entring. 2. That by commemoration of Gods wonderful benefits to them and their fathers, they might be incited to all true thankfulnesse, love and obedience. 3. And also that, by recalling to memory their and their fathers sinnes and punishments, they might be brought to an awfull fear of the Divine Majesty.

§. V. Principal Parts.

The Chief Parts of this Book of DEUTERONOMIE, are 1 The Preface. 2 The Narration. 3 The Conclusion of the Book.

I. The PREFACE, or Prologue to the main body of the Book, containing A Repetition, An Exhortation, And a Narration.

CHAP. I. 1. A Repetition, declaring by way of Rehearsal (to fit Israel for their promised inheritance) some chief remarkable occurrents and passages of Providence that befell Israel in their 40 years marching through the wilderness. Particularly, 1 Of Gods calling Israel from Horeb towards Canaan, Ch. I. 1. to 9. 2 Of Officers given them, ver. 9. to 19. 3 Of the Spies sent to search out the Land, ver. 19. to 34. 4 Of Gods displeasure for the peoples unbelief and disobedience thereupon, ver. 34. to the end of the chapt. 5 Of their passing by Edom, Ch. II. 1. to 9. DEUTERONOMIE.

VIZ.

Moſes SONG for a WITNESSE againſt ISRAEL.

In Deut. 32. 1. to 44.

Metrically Tranſlated out of the Hebrew, and Analytically Explained.

§. I.

THis SONG is full of Divine Majeſty; moſt elegant and emphatical; and in the Original laid down with extraordinary variety of ſeveral ſorts of words. The important matter of it was the rather digeſted into the form of a Song, that it might be both more familiarly known, and firmly remembred of all Iſrael. From the Matter and Scope of it, it may fitly be ſtiled, The SONG of MOSES for a witneſſe againſt Iſrael.

§. II.

Penman of it was Moſes, and that a little before his death, [c] c Deut. 31. 16, 19, 22, 30.

§. III.

Occaſion; God foreſaw that when Iſrael ſhould poſſeſſe the promiſed Land, [d] they would forſake God, break his Covenant, and ſerve other gods; whereupon the Lord would forſake them, hide his face and bring many evils and troubles upon them: Therefore God charged Moſes before his death, when Iſrael was now ready to enter upon the promiſed Land, to write this Song and teach it to the people, That it might be a witneſſe for the Lord againſt Iſrael, and all their cauſeleſſe and inexcuſable rebellions againſt God.

d Deut. 31. 16, to 23.

§. IV.

Scope, To [e] teſtifie as a witheſſe againſt Iſrael, when they ſhould forſake God, break Covenant with him, and ſerve Idols in the land of Canaan, and ſo bring upon themſelves many woful judgments; To the condemning and aggravating of their cauſleſſe rebellions, and to the clearing and juſtifying of Gods ſevereſt proceedings againſt them.

e Deut. 31. 22. compared with verſes foregoing.

§. V.

Principal Parts. In reference to this end, In this Song are conſiderable, 1 The Preface. 2 The Subſtance of the Song. 3 The Concluſion.

THE PREFACE, or Exordium of the Song, containing 1 An emphatical Exclamation to Heaven and Earth, as witneſſes againſt Iſrael, ver. 1. 2 A Promiſſory Option or wiſh, that the words of this Song may have like efficacie upon Iſrael, as the fruitful Dew, and timely Rain upon the herbs and graſs, ver. 2. 3 A pious Reſolution to praiſe God. 4 An incitation of others to do the like, ver. 3.

The

II.

The SUBSTANCE of the SONG. Which is, 1 Narratory, 2 Minatory, 3 Promissory.

I. NARRATORY, v.4. to 19. Herein is a Narration

1. Of the glorious name and excellent greatnesse of Israels God, (against whom backsliding Israel could have no exception) laid down in several Attributes ascribed to him, *ver.*1,4.

2. Of Israels corruption in general, Amplified 1 By the cause of it, themselves. 2 By the grievousnesse of it, not like the spot of Gods People. 3 By the nature of it, *crookednesse, frowardnesse, &c. ver.*5. 4 By the unkindnesse manifested therein against the Lord, *ver.*6.

3. Of Gods goodnesse and mercies to Israel, Described

1. More generally, *ver.*6.

2. More particularly. Gods favours singularly appeared towards Israel.

1. In preparing habitations for Israel (before Israel was) By proportioning the bounds of the Canaanites of old (when God divided inheritances to the Nations) to the number of Israel that should afterwards succeed them in Canaan, *ver.*7,8. Amplified by the ground of this mercy, viz. Gods gracious Acceptance of Israel as his portion and inheritance, ver. 9.

2. In conducting and leading Israel himself alone through the wildernesse with singular care, tenderness and safetie, *ver.*10,11,12.

3. In enabling Israel to conquer Canaan, and to possess that rich, fat, and fruitful Land, flowing with milk and honey, &c. *ver.*13,14.

4. Of Israels great ingratitude and rebellion against God, forsaking the only true God that had done so much for them, embracing and serving idols, strange gods, new up-start gods, Devils, &c. pathetically aggravated, ver. 15. to 19.

II. MINATORY, ver. 19. to 36. Herein the Lord observing and abhorring them for their provocations, terribly threatens them for the future, when they shall thus apostatize in Canaan.

1. To hide his face and withdraw his favour from them, *ver.*19,20.

2. To provoke the Jewes to Jealousie with them that were no people, a foolish Nation, viz. Gentiles, [f] where the Calling of the Gentiles is promised, ver. 21.

3. To heap variety of judgments upon them, *ver.*22. to 27.

4. To blot out even Israels memory from among men, *ver.*27. Amplified, 1 By a Correction; God would thus punish Israel, were it not for their Adversaries pride and insolencie that thereupon would be occasioned, *ver.*28. 2 By the Reason of this threat, Israels bruitishnesse, *ver.*29. 3 By Gods gracious wishes of good to them notwithstanding, *ver.*30,31. 4 By a metaphorical aggravation of their sinnes in several similitudes, *ver.*32,33,34.

5. To take his opportune time for inflicting these judgments upon Israel, *v.*35.

III. PROMISSORY and Consolatory; wherein after all these threatned judgments, mercy is promised in Christ unto them, ver. 36. to 43. This consolation promised, is described, 1 By the Season when it shall be bestowed, viz. in Israels lowest condition, *v.*36. 2 By the Helplesnesse of all their idols in whom Israel would trust, *ver.*37,38. 3 By the Allsufficiencie of God alone to save or destroy, ver. 39. 4 By the Lords Oath and peremptory Resolution to be avenged to the uttermost of all his, and his peoples adversaries from the very beginning, ver. 40,41,42.

The CONCLUSION of the Song, inciting the g Gentiles to triumph with Gods people the Jews, 1 For Gods avenging his servants blood upon their enemies. 2 For Gods reconcilement to his people both Jews and Gentiles in Christ, making Atonement for them, ver. 43.

f Calling of the GENTILES foretold. As this place is interpreted in the New Testament. compare Rom.10.19, &c. 1 Pet. 2. 10. with Hos. 1.10.

III.

g Calling of the GENTILES. See Rom. 15. 9, 10.

(This may be sung as Psal. 51.)

1 GIve ear, O Heavens, and speak I will:
h Let Earth to my mouth's words attend.
2. My speech shall as the Dew distill,
As Rain my Doctrine i shall descend,
As small rain on the tender herb,
And as the showers on grasse abroad.
3. For I'le proclaim JEHOVAH'S Name;
k Ascribe ye Greatnesse to our God.

4. ¶ The ROCK, His work perfection is;
For all his wayes pure judgment be;

h Heb. And let earth hear, &c.

i Heb. shall drop.

k Heb. Give ye.

God's

God's Truth,[l] without unrighteousnesse;
Exactly just, and right is he.
5. Themselves corrupted-they alone;
Their spot is not his children's staine:
A vexing Generation,
Perverse and crooked they remaine.

6. ¶ O foolish people and[m] untaught,
Thus recompence the LORD do yee?
Not he thy father[n] that thee bought;
Who made thee and establish't thee?
7. Thy dayes[o] of old remember thou,
Thy yeares[p] of age ponder well:
Thy father ask, and he'l-thee-show;
Thine Elders, and they will thee tell.

8. When God most high to nations
Inheritance once distributed,
When he did sever Adam's sonnes;
The Peoples bounds[q] he constituted,
According to the number of his Deare Israel's sonnes. O love divine!
9. For, the LORD'S Part, his people is Jacob is[r] his possession's line.

10. Him in a land of wildernesse
(Encompassed with wants) he found,
And in the dismall emptinesse,
And howling of the desart ground,
Him-he-conducted-round-about,
Him-he-instructed-prudently;
He-kept-him, going in and out,
Ev'n as the apple of his eye.

11. As th' Eagle doth stirre-up her nest,
Doth flutter o're her tender young,
Doth spread-abroad her wings; (as prest
To fly, to draw her brood along,) Doth softly take them one by one,
And them upon her wings doth beare;
12. So, Him the LORD did leade alone:
Nor did strange god with him appeare,

13. He made him ride with glory great,
On Earth's High places; He did yeeld,
And plentifully he did eate
The fruitfulnesses of the field:
Likewise out of the rock so hard
The Honey-comb he made him-suck,
And suppling Oyle for him prepar'd
To flow out of the[t] flinty Rock.

With fat of Lambs surpassing fine,
And of the Rams [u] of Bashan a stock,
And of Goat-bucks both rich and good,
With fat of Kidneys of the Wheat,
And of the Grape the pleasant blood,
Thou didst drink wine both pure and neate.

15. ¶ But Jesurun did wax fat, and kick;
[x] With fat are thou art replenished,
Exceedingly thou art grown thick,
With fatness thou art covered:
Then God [y] that had created him
Forsook he, through temptation,
And very lightly did esteem
The Rock of his salvation.

16. With strange gods of the Nations
They him provok'd to jealousie,
They with Abominations
To wrath provok'd him grievously.
17. To Devils [z] they offered, not to God;
To gods not known to them, or heed;
To new gods [a] fairly come abroad,
Of whom your fathers had no dreed.

18. Thou God forgot'st that formed thee;
Nor Rock, that thee begat, didst minde.
19. ¶ Then God saw, and them [b] abhorred:
[b] His children him provok'd, unkinde.
20. [c] He said, from them my face I'le hide,
I'le see what their last end shall prove
For they [d] most-froward folk abide,
Sons in whom is no faith, nor love.

21. They me-to-jealousie provok't
With that which is not God, but lies;
They-mee-to-anger-have-provok't
With their vile idol-vanities:
And I'le move-them-to-jealousie
With Gentiles not a people yet,
Them with a foolish Nation I
Will move to anger, and them fret.

22. For Fire is kindled in my wrath,
And to the lowest Hell shall burne;
And shall [e] consume the Land he hath,
And her increase to ruine turne,

II. THE PROPHETS.

Hitherto of Moſes, or the Law of Moſes, contained in the Pentateuch, or Five-fold Volume. Next in order follow the PROPHETS.

THE PROPHETS wrote all the Books of the Old Teſtament, beſides the Pentateuch of Moſes. Theſe Prophets inſpired infallibly by the Holy Spirit of Prophecie, wrote Books of three ſeveral ſorts, viz. 1 Hiſtorical, 2 Dogmatical or Doctrinal, and 3 Prophetical.

The [b] Hebrews thus diſtinguiſh the Books of the Old Teſtament:

1. תורה Thorah. The Law, viz. the five Books of Moſes.

2. נביאים Nebiim, viz. The Prophets. The Prophets they ſub-diſtinguiſh into two ſorts, viz. 1. נביאים ראשונים Nebiim Riſhonim, that is, The former Prophets; perhaps ſo called becauſe they treat of the firſt Prophets. Theſe are four, viz. Joſhuah, Judges, Samuel, and Kings. And 2. נביאים אחרונים Nebiim Acharonim, i. e. the later Prophets; which they reckon up in four Books alſo, viz. Iſaiah, Jeremiah, Ezekiel, and the Twelve minor Prophets, which were anciently joyned all in one Volume, leſt they through their ſmalneſſe ſhould be loſt. That phraſe ſeems to favour this, [c] Is is written in the Book of the Prophets; the Prophet Amos being cited, which is one of the Minor, or leſſer Prophets.

3. כתובים Chethubim, i. e. The writings, by way of emphaſis. They were written by the Spirit's inſpiration, not by Propheſie; ſaith [d] Rivet out of Elias Levita. The Greek calls theſe Books Ἁγιόγραφα, Hagiographa, i.e. the Holy writings; upon ſome ſuch ground. Of this ſort are eleven, in this order in Hebrew, Ruth, Pſalms, Job, Proverbs, Eccleſiaſtes, Song of Songs, Lamentations, Daniel, Eſther, Ezra, Chronicles; under Ezra comprehending Nehemiah, which ſometimes is called the ſecond of Ezra; and the two Books of the Chronicles being reckoned as but one Book.

But the former Diſtribution of the PROPHETS Books into 1 Hiſtorical, 2 Doctrinal, and 3 Prophetical, (being both more conſonant to the matter of theſe Books, and to the method of our Bibles) ſhall here be followed.

I. HISTORICAL BOOKS.

THE HISTORICAL BOOKS of the Prophets relate the Hiſtory of the Jews, and of the Church of God among them, from the death of Moſes, which was [e] when he was one hundred and twenty years old in [f] 2493 year of the world; untill the period of the Perſian Monarchy, poſſeſſed by Alexander the Macedonian, call'd Alexander the Great, who conquered the Perſians, and got dominion of Aſia, about [g] Ann. 3614. after the worlds Creation. So that theſe books contain an Hiſtory of about 1121 years continuance.

Of this Hiſtory of the Jews, and of the Church of God, there are two principal Parts or Periods, viz. 1. Of the Iſraelites Entrance into the promiſed Land. 2. Of their Government and Condition, after that Entrance.

Joshuah.

§. I. The Order and Name.

THe History of Israels Entrance into the promised Land, is described in the Book of JOSHUAH. So called, Partly from Joshuah the instrumental Author of this Book, as some think; Partly from the chief Subject handled therein, viz. the Acts of Joshuah, the Successor of Moses, the Governour and chief Captain of Israel, under whose conduct they conquered the Land, divided it by Line and Lot among the Tribes, and possessed it according to all Gods faithfull [h] promises in that behalfe unto their Fathers.

h Josh. 21.43. 44,45. & 23. 14,15.

§. II. Penman.

Some ascribe this History to Ezra, or to some Prophet. Some think [i] Joshuah was PENMAN of it; partly because it bears his Name; partly because it is said in the close of this Book, [k] And Joshuah wrote these words in the Book of the Law of God. But these Reasons are scarce cogent: 1. Because the Books of Judges, Ruth, and Kings, bear their Names, yet not penned by them. 2. Because those words which Joshuah is said to write in the Book of the Law of God, intend not this whole History of Joshuah, but only the [l] words of the Covenant which Joshuah made betwixt God and the people at Shechem, a little before his death. [m] Calvin rather thinks their conjecture to be more probable who referre the writing of this Book, or at least the collecting of the summe of this History, to Eleazer the High-Priest (whose [n] death is recorded in the end of this Book) It being the High-Priests office not only by lively voice to teach the living, but also by writing to instruct posterity in the ways of God. And before the Levites (saith he) degenerated, they were Actuaries to repose to perpetual memory all memorable occurrents in the Church. But yet both [o] Calvin and others suspend their determinate judgement herein, because at most it seemes but conjectural and uncertain.

§. III. Time or Chronologie.

This Book (according to the common opinion of [p] Writers) recording the affairs of Israel from the death of Moses to the death of Joshuah, contains an History of 17 or almost 18. years. [q] Mr. H. Broughton saith; Hosea, Joshuah, or Jesus of Ephraim, ruleth 17 years, and executeth the curse Gen. 9. making Canaan a servant to Sem. But among them all I find none that make out and demonstrate convincingly and clearly these 17 years, the time of this History: nor doth it appear (that I can yet find) particularly in this history of Joshuah. Take therefore this particular demonstration of it, which seemes evident, viz.

It is said positively, That [r] Solomon in the 4th year of his reign began to build the House of the LORD, in the four hundred and fourscore year after the children of Israel were come out of the Land of Egypt. This place is one of the great Boundaries for Scripture Chronologie, by which we are to regulate lesser Computations. According to this therefore let us reckon up particulars, and we shall find that all other ther particular periods of time betwixt Israels coming out of Egypt, and Solomons beginning to build the Temple, are expresse and clear in Scripture, and make up in the whole 463 years: To which if wee adde 17 years, the time of Joshuah's History, the total in all amounts to 480 years exact, according to that place in 1 *King.*6,1.

As followeth.

Israel wandered in the wilderness, [f] after they came out of Egypt, as is evident ——40 years

Joshuah governed, Suppose——17

From Joshuah to Eli, the time of the Judges, and of their History, as in the Book of Judges is particularly demonstrated hereafter——299

Elies time of judging [t] Israel——40

King Sauls Reign ([u] Samuels time being included therein)——40

As for the 111 years of Israels oppressions by their enemies in the times of the Judges, they (as hath been [z] formerly shewed) are indeed comprehended under the years of the Judges, and therefore in this Computation are not distinctly to be counted.

[z] Introduct. Advertis. Rule 7.

§. IV. Scope.

SCOPE of this Book (which seems annexed as an Appendix to the V. Books of Moses) is Excellent. As,

1. To demonstrate Gods exact faithfulnesse in performing [a] all his Promises most punctually, made to the Patriarks and people of Israel, especially touching his bringing them in to possesse the land of Canaan; and this notwithstanding all intervening difficulties and impediments, viz, Jordan, High walled Cities, Anakims, Warlike Nations, especially their own sins. That so all the Israel of God may hence learn to trust the Lord and his promises in all ages for ever.

[a] Josh.21.45. & 23.14,15.

2. By Israels being brought through the wilderness and Jordan, not by Moses, but by Joshuah, conquering all the Canaanites, and putting them into the peaceable possession of Canaan the promised typical Rest; the absolute triumph over all the remainder of the Canaanites (left among the people for their trial and exercise) being reserved for the time of the absolute and triumphant reign of K. David: lively to adumbrate the spiritual conduct of the true Israel of God, through all the wilderness-tribulations and floods of afflictions in this world; not by Moses and his Law (which only prepares and directs, but makes nothing perfect) but by the true Joshuah Jesus Christ, conquering all our spiritual enemies, Sinne and Death, World, Flesh, and Devil; and so putting them into the actual and peaceable possession of Gods true promised Spiritual rest in this life; reserving only some remains of sinne and spiritual enemies, to try and exercise the graces of Gods people, till the time come of Christs full and absolute reign in Heaven, our true David, when the elect shall have full victory and triumph, being brought into the true eternall rest of Heaven, there to keep an endlesse Sabbath unto God.

And this is not an Allusion or Allegory feigned or devised by man, but an apposite Accommodation of the Type and Anti-type appointed and so interpreted by God himself in his Word. For as the Apostle hath observed to the Hebrews, [b] Canaans rest was a type of Heavens rest; otherwise God would not have promised to his people, *Psal.*95. another rest after their entring into Canaans rest: And Joshuah that brought them into the Typical rest, a Type of Jesus that brings the faithfull faithfull into the true rest. Hence Auguſtine. [c] Let the Iew if he will be a Iew inwardly, in the ſpirit, not in the letter; if he will be reputed an Iſraelite indeed in whom is no guile, remember in the figure that dead Ieſus, who brought into the land of the dying; and let him acknowledge in the Truth the live Jeſus by whoſe conduct he may enter into the Land of the living. The [d] Prophets alſo declare Chriſt to be the true King David, whoſe Government is more abſolute then that of Judges. Whereto elegantly the ſame Auguſtin alludes, [e] Firſt the times of the Judges; then of the Kings; At thereſhall be firſt the judgement, then the Kingdom, &c.

c Supereſt ut Judæus ille, ſi vult & in abſcondito Judæus eſſe, non litera ſed ſpiritu: ſi vult reputari verus Iſraelita in quo dolus non eſt, recordetur in figura illum mortuum Jeſum qui introduxit in terram morientium; & agnoſcat in veritate vivum Jeſum, quo duce intret in terram viventium. *Aug. contra Fauſtum Manichæum l. 16. c. 20. 1. Obstructed by the trespasse in the accursed thing, Ch. VII. here are described 1. The sin of Achan, ver. 1. 2. The punishment of this sin, the people being smitten by the men of Ai, ver. 2. to 6. 3. Joshuahs complaint hereupon before the Lord, ver. 6. to 10. 4. The cause of this judgment discovered by the Lord, viz. Israels trespasse in the accursed thing, with directions how to find it out, ver. 10. to 16. 5. Joshuahs discovering of [m] Achan who confesseth the fact, ver. 16. to 24. 6. His stoning of Achan to death in the valley of Achor, whereby the Lords wrath was appeased, ver. 24. to the end of the chapt.

CHAP. VII.

m Achan:

2. Effected, Ch. VIII. Their victory obtained over Ai is described, 1. By the stratagem they used in taking of it, according to Gods direction, ver. 1. to 22. 2. The destruction of the inhabitants of Ai, the burning of the Citie, (Israel only reserving the cattell and spoile for themselves) and the hanging of the King of Ai, ver. 22. to 30. 3. The gratitude of Joshuah after this victory discovered, By building an Altar in M. Ebal; By writing the Law on stones as Moses commanded; By [n] publishing the Blessings and Curses on M. Ebal, and *M. Of this standing still of Sun and Moon, notably said Augustine; Jesus filius Nun Princeps populi Israel Soli in medio die præcipit ne se moveret; & Luna ubi fuerat, staret; donec se Dei populus de inimicis vindicaret. Quod & factum est. Nam Sol duos dies in unum conclusit, & Luna diei spacio non occurrit. In qua jussione non humani imperii authoritate Luminaria requiescunt; Sed Dominum imperantis ut starent, jussui obediunt. Nihil enim propter jubentis hominis verbum Dei creatura faciunt, sed quod Dominum servi sui Orationi obediens præcepit, hoc faciunt. Sic enim perhibetur, Sol stetit contra Gabaon, & Luna ad Vallem Hailon, Obediente Domino voci hominis. Ex quo intelligitur Deum servorum suorum precibus obedire, & ad eorum necessitatem creaturam opportune gubernare. —— D. Augustin. de Mirabil. S. Script. l. 2. c. 4 Tom. 3.

IV. His victory over Makkedah, described

1. By the occasion inviting Joshuah so speedily to march thither, viz. the flight of the five Kings forementioned into a Cave at Makkedah: 1. They are mured up in the Cave with great stones, ver. 15. to 21. 2. They are brought forth, and after the Captains had set their feet upon their necks, they were hanged on five trees, ver. 21. to 28.

§. I. Order of the Books.

HItherto of the Hiſtory of Iſraels Entrance into the land of Canaan, deſcribed in the Book of JOSHUAH. Now followeth the Hiſtory of Iſraels condition and Government after their Entrance into the promiſed Land. Which is deſcribed, what it was. 1. Before their Carrying away into Babylon. 2. During the Captivity. 3. After the Captivity.

I. Before their carrying away into Babylon, and that either under 1 Judges, or under 2 Kings.

I. Under Judges.

And here wee have two Hiſtories, viz. One Common or Generall touching all Iſrael. Another Particular, only concerning ſome particular perſons.

§. II. Name.

The Common or Generall Hiſtory under the Government of Judges, is the Book of JUDGES, in Heb. שופטים Shophtim, that is, Judges: ſo called, not from the Authors of it, but from the Subject matter of it, viz. The Government of Iſrael by Judges.

Judges were certain Heroick perſons raiſed up out of divers Tribes by the extraordinary motion and inſtinct of the Spirit of God, who governed, defended, and oftimes delivered Iſrael (upon their return to God) from many enemies and extremities of troubles, which by their ſinnes againſt God they had brought upon themſelves. This Government by Judges was in the nature of it Ariſtocratical; managed Ordinarily by the [a] Elders, or a Senate in the ſeverall Cities, as ſeems intimated in the Song of Deborah and Barak: Extraordinarily, in perillous times, by ſome one extraordinarily raiſed up and acted by Gods Spirit preſiding over the reſt.

§. III. Penman.

Penman of this Book the [b] Hebrews think to be Samuel: Some, that this Book was [c] collected by some Prophet out of publique Registers or Records, which (as [d] Calvin thinks) were wont to be kept by the Priests and Levites. Others think that every Judge recorded the things acted in his own dayes respectively: and that Samuel, or Ezra, or Jeremiah, or King Hezekiah, (whose [e] men copied out some of Solomons Proverbs) [f] collected and digested them into one volume.

§. IV. Time or Chronologie.

This Book contains an History of Israels Politie and the state thereof, from the death of Joshuah till the Priesthood of Eli, viz. for the space of 299 years, which may be thus computed and demonstrated.

From Joshuah's death, to the death of [g] Othniel ——— 40 years
From Othniels death to the death of [h] Ehud and Shamgar: For as [i] H. Broughton hath noted, Ehud himselfe could not rule so long, since God hath shortned mans life in Moses dayes to 70 or 80 years. After Joseph who ruled 80 years in Egypt, none ruled so long as 80 years. But understand, from the death of Othniel to the end of Ehuds affairs [wherein Shamgar's rule is contained] to be in the whole 80 years. } 80

u Act. 13. 19, 20

Doubt. But how then can this computation be reconciled with that passage in Pauls Sermon at Antioch, viz. [u] And when he had destroyed seven Nations in the land of Canaan, he divided their land to them by lot. And after that, he gave them JUDGES, about the space of 450 years, until Samuel the Prophet. Here seems a vast odds (viz. of 151 years) betwixt these two accounts.

Answ. Here is no difference amongst these Scripture-computations, though there seem much. The reconcilement of this seeming discord, see before at large in the [x] Introductory Advertisement to the Reader.

Augustine makes another computation of the time of the JUDGES History, viz. for 329 years, saying, [y] In the time when Rome was built, the people of Israel dwelt in the land of Promisse 718 years. Whereof 27 (it should rather be 17 years, as on the B. of Joshuah hath been evidenced) belong to Iesus Nave, then 329 to the time of the Iudges. But herein alſo his computation hath failed, as before appears.

§. V. Scope:

The Scope, or End of this Hiſtory of IUDGES, is

1. Immediately, To declare the ſtate and condition of the Commonwealth of Iſrael under the Government of IUDGES. And how Iſrael behaved themſelves towards God after all the great and wonderful mercies which he had ſhewed them ever ſince they came from Egypt, till (according to his promiſe) he had given them reſt in the peaceable poſſeſſion of the land of Canaan. And how God did deale with them. Viz. How they permitted many of the Canaanites, that accurſed Nation, to dwell among them, yea, to contract and marry with them, &c. to the enſnaring and defiling of Gods people with Idolatry and corruptions in Gods worſhip, and depravation in their lives and converſations. For which pollutions and apoſtaſies, God made theſe Canaanites and other Nations oft-times grievous ſcourges to Iſrael, oppreſſing them with cruel tyranny: yet when Iſrael repented and returned to the LORD, He raiſed them up Saviours, Iudges, which wonderfully delivered them. Though the Philiſtines were not totally extirpated under the Iudges, till the Kingly reign of David.

2. Mediately, To ſhew what happy Halcyonian dayes Gods Church enjoyes under pious Magiſtrates. How ſevere God is againſt the ſins, eſpecially the idolatry of his own people: and yet how he remembers mercy in midſt of ſevereſt judgments, to his repenting and reforming people.

§. VI. Principal Parts.

This Book (being as a clear looking-Glaſſe or Map, diſcovering [illegible]h Iſraels Carriage towards God, and Gods towards Iſrael in the Promiſed Land, during the G[illegible]ment of IUDGES) deſcribes Iſraels ſin; 1. As General. 2. As Special.

Iſraels ſin, as General, univerſal or common to all the Tribes. Thus their ſin is deſcribed 1 By the Kinds of it, 2 By the Effects of it.

I. Kinds or ſorts of their ſinnes, were primarily 1 Negligence, 2 Perfidiouſneſſe.

1. Negligence, in [z] not fully driving the curſed Canaanites out of the Land, Ch. I. Here are declared, 1. How far, and with what ſucceſſe, they proceeded to drive out the Canaanites, eſpecially Iudah and Simeon, ver. 1. to 19. 2. Wherein the Tribes failed, in not driving them out; whoſe failings are particularly mentioned, ver. 19. to the end. 3. How Gods Angel reproved this great ſin in the Tribes, Ch. II. 1, 2, 3. 4. How Iſrael mourned upon this reproof, ver. 4, 5.

2. Perfidiouſneſſe, in Apoſtatizing from the true God to [a] Idols. This ſin is amplified, 1. By the occaſion of it, viz. death of Joſhuah and the Elders, that had ſeen the Lords works for Iſrael, ver. 6. to 14. 2. By their incorrigib'neſſe in it, ver. 14. to 20. 3. By Gods threatning and puniſhing them for it, in not driving out the Nations, ver. 20. to the end. Which proved a ſnare to Iſrael, Ch. III. 1. to 8.

II. Effects or fruits of their ſinnes in particular, viz. [b] Five cruel Oppreſſions under five ſorts of tyrannical enemies, Syrians, Canaanites, Midianites, Ammonites and Philiſtines, Iſraels evil-doing being ſtill recited as the cauſe of all.

1. Under Syrians. 1. By Cuſhan-riſhathaim, King of Meſopotamia, eight years; ſubdued by [c] Othniel, Calebs Nephew, ver. 8. to 12. 2. By Eglon, King of Moab, eighteen years, ſubdued by Ehud, ver. 12. to 31. And by the Philiſtines, ſubdued by Shamgar, ver. 31.

2. Under Canaanites by Jabin King of Canaan, (who had nine hundred chariots of iron) And Siſera the Captain of his Hoſt, they were mightily oppreſſed twenty years, Ch. IV. 1, 2, 3. whom Deborah the Propheteſſe and Barak ſubdued; Their victory is laid down, ver. 4. to the end of the chapt. whoſe triumph is contained in their pathetical Gratulatory Song, Ch. V. throughout.

3. Under Midianites, Amalekites and Children of the East ſeven years from whoſe tyranny they were delivered by Gideon, Ch. 6 to 10. Where note 1. Iſraels ſinne. Ch. VI. 1. 2. Midians oppreſſion for their ſinne, ver. 1 to 7. 3. Iſraels cry under their Oppreſſion to the Lord, ver. 6. 4. The Lords anſwer to their cry by a Prophet, ver. 7. to 11. viz. By ſending a deliverer, GIDEON, ver. 11, &c. Touching GIDEON are declared divers things, viz. 1. His extraordinary call to deliver Iſrael, ver 11. to 33. 2. His notable victorious Acts againſt the Midianites, &c. ver. 33. to Ch. VIII. ver. 22, 28. 3. Things falling out after his ſubduing of Midian, viz. Gideons refuſing Rule over Iſrael, His idolatrous [d] Ephod, His ſeventy one ſons, His death, Iſraels e Jephthahs VOW.

Jephthah seems not to have Sacrificed his daughter as a Burnt-offering, notwithstanding his Vow, for these reasons following,

1. Because he vowed not peremptorily [I will offer it up for a Burnt-offering, ver. 31.] but [It shall surely be the Lords, Or I will offer it up for a Burnt-offering.] For the Hebr. particle (ו) signifieth both [And] & [Or] as also the Margin of our Bibles noteth. So that this might be the scope and sense of his Vow; That whatsoever he first met out of his doors he would either dedicate it to the Lord; Or (if it were fit to be Sacrificed) he would offer it up for a Burnt-offering. And thus Pagnine Translateth it, Erit Jehovæ, aut offeram illud in Holocaustum.

2. Because, There's an intimation of her being devoted to perpetual virginity, And she knew no man, ver. 31. Pagnine renders it, Itaque ea non cognoverat virum, i. e. Therefore she knew no man; For the Conjunction (ו) signifies, And, Or, Therefore, &c. [Therefore] viz. Because her Father had devoted her to perpetual virginity. Lest she should be anothers then Gods, he would not have her to marry; This shewes his ignorance of the Law of Vowes, Levit. 27. 5. &c. Where provision is made for redemption of the persons of man or woman, at such or such a price.

3. Because the Hebrew word [לחנות Letannoth] derived from [תנה Tanah] signifies in the Conjugation Pihel, not one'y [To Lament] as it is translated in our Bibles; But also [To talk with; To conferre with] As Buxtorf in his Lexicon hath noted out of Kimchi, Ad confabulandum, juxta Kimchium, ut scilicet amicis colloquiis tam de virginitate, & statu vitæ solitariæ consolarentur, i. e. To talk with her, viz. That by friendly conferences they might comfort her both touching her virginity, and touching her solitary state of life. *For this end the daughters of Israel went four times a year to comfort her by talking with her. Israels sins as special or peculiar to some particular Family or Tribe only among the rest. And here are recorded chiefly two great sins, viz. 1. Idolatry; and 2. Uncleanneſſe.

I. Idolatry, 1. Of one Family, 2. Of one Tribe.

1. Of one Family only, viz. i Micah's; who had an house of Gods, Ch. XVII. His idolatry is set forth by 1. The Idols which he had, ver. 1. to 5. 2. More immediate, viz. Their sending five men to spy out the Land for a Possession, who accidentally lodging at Micah's House, after they had spied out Laish, informed the six hundred Danites of Micah's Image, Ephod and Teraphim, (as they went to fight with Laish) and they took them all away, ver. 1. to 30. 2. Consequents hereupon, viz. Israel bewails the desolation of the Tribe of Benjamin; and for supply of the 600 remaining Benjamites with wives, they slay all the males and wives of Jabesh-Gilead, because they came not up to fight against Benjamin, and gave them thence 400. AN

AN APPENDIX To the Book of JUDGES.

VIZ.

The SONG of DEBORAH and BARAK,

Contained in JUDG. 5.

Metrically Translated out of the Hebrew, and Analytically Explained.

§. I.

THis Song is a Triumphant [n] Victorial Song, or Song for Victory that Israel had over Sisera's Host. Of like nature to [o] Moses his Song upon the drowning of Pharaoh and the Egyptians in the Red-sea. As that, so this Song is full of most eloquent rhetorical strains, and emphatical Elegancies, that may even passionately affect the Readers or Hearers. It seems to be at first Penned by Deborah [p] the Prophetesse, the wife of Lapidoth, that judged Israel at that time: And afterwards digested into this History, by the Penman or Penmen of this Book. It was Sung by [q] Deborah and Barak, as the chief Singers, (Deborah being the Prophetesse and Judge, and Barak the chief Captain of Israels Host in that Expedition) yet it's likely, Barak's whole Army that obtained the Victory joyned in singing this Song, on the self-same day that God gave this glorious victory to them. An excellent and imitable Example of speedy Thankfulnesse for received Mercies.

§. II.

Dvration of this Song is largely described in the [r] foregoing Chapter, and in summe amounts to thus much: viz. After Ehud's death, Deborah the Prophetesse succeeding him as Judge, Jabin King of Canaan that reigned in Hazor (who had 900 charets of iron, Sisera being Captain of his Host) mightily oppressed Israel for twenty yeares together; after which Deborah the Prophetesse (by command from God) directs Barak son of Abinoam to take with him ten thousand men of Zabulon and Naphtali, and to draw towards M. Tabor, God promising to draw unto him Sisera with his Army to the River Kishon, and to deliver them into his hand. Accordingly Barak did, and Deborah went up with him: And Sisera with his 900 charets of iron and all his Host marched towards them; Where by the waters of [s] Megiddo the whole Host of Sisera fell upon the edg of the sword, not a man left; only Sisera lighted out of his charet, and fled away on his feet to the Tent of Jael the wife of Heber the Kenite (which was of the children of Hobab the Father-in-law of Moses) for there was peace betwixt Jabin and Heber: But Sisera being weary and fast asleep, Jael struck a naile of the Tent quite through both his Temples, and fastned it to the ground. So Jabin was utterly subdued. And thereupon the same day this Victorial Song was sung.

§ III.

§. III.

Scope. 1. Thankfully and triumphantly to describe the singular goodnesse of God to Israel in delivering them from the grievous and long oppression of Iabin King of Canaan, for 20 years together; utterly destroying his whole Army, by Barak and his Army of 10000 out of Zabulun and Naphtali, with some few others. 2. To commend all that offered themselves willingly in that Battaile; but discommend those that assisted not. 3. To encourage Gods people in after-times to expect from God glorious victories over their enemies, when God calls them forth to battail, though they be fewer and worse armed then their enemies.

§. IV.

Principal Parts. To this end in this Song are considerable: 1. The Exordium or Preface. 2. The Body of the Song. 3. The Conclusion.

The Exordium or Preface of the Song contains 1. An Exhortation to the praising of the Lord; Partly, for his avenging Israel upon their enemies; Partly, for the Peoples voluntarinesse to the Battel, ver. 2. 2. An Invitation of Kings and Princes to attend these praises of the Lord, ver. 3. I.

The Body of the Song, most elegantly describes Things 1 Before, 2 In, 3 After the Battel by the waters of Megiddo, ver. 4. to 31. II.

I. Before Megiddo's Battel, are declared

1. The Awful Presence and Majesty of God, when he marched out of the fields of Edom, to lead his people on to Canaan: Heaven and Earth was moved at it, ver. 4, 5.
2. The deep misery and pressures on Israel in the dayes of Shamgar and Jael, till Deborah the Prophetesse arose to deliver them. High-wayes not used, Unwalled villages deserted, Israel generally destitute of weapons for their defence. Amplified by the ground of all, Their choosing new gods, ver. 6, 7, 8.
3. Israels deliverance from these Oppressions and misery, in general described, as matter of praise to the Lord, ver. 9. to 14. Where note, 1. The forwardnesse of Israels Governours to hazard themselves commended, ver. 9. 2. The praises of divers sorts of persons for Israels deliverance, is commanded and encouraged, ver. 10. to 14.
4. The Instruments out of several Tribes which God used for Israels deliverance, are particularly commended; and contrariwise, those that followed their private affairs, neglecting the publique, and Gods call to appear for it, are condemned, ver. 14. to 19.

II. At the Battel; here are described

1. The Enemies that fought with Israel, Canaans Kings, ver. 19.
2. The Place of the Battel, in Taanach by the waters of Megiddo, ver. 19.
3. Their ill successe, set forth Negatively and Positively. 1 Negatively, They got no prey nor captives, &c. no gain of money; ver. 19. 2. Positively, They were quite overthrown, Starres fighting against them, The river Kishon sweeping them away, And Israels prancing pursuit breaking the enemies horse hoofs that they could not fly, ver. 20, 21, 22.

III. After the Narration of the Battel, things mentioned are,

1. The Curse of Meroz, for not helping in this Battel, ver. 23.
2. The Blessing of Jael, Heber's wife, for killing Sisera who fled to her Tent for succour; most elegantly described, ver. 24. to 28.
3. The Ironical taunting of Sisera's Mother, for her vainglorious expectations of his Conquest &c. that was now dead, ver. 28. to 31.

The Conclusion of the Song. Wherein are, 1. An Execration to Gods enemies, 2. A Benediction to his lovers, ver. 31. III.

(This may be sung as Psal. 113.)

JUDGES V.

1. Then sang Deborah and Barak, the son of Abinoam, on that Day, saying,

2. BLesse ye the LORD in thankful song, t For his revenging Israels wrong,
For Peoples free self-tendering.
3. Ye Kings (that sway the Scepter) heare,
Ye potent Princes lend an eare;
Unto the LORD, I, I will sing,
I will sing Psalm unto the LORD
The God of Israel ador'd.
4. O LORD, from Seir when thou didst go,
When thou didst march from Edom's field,
Earth trembled, yea the Heavens distill'd,
The clouds their waters dropt also.

5. u Before the LORD the mountains thaw'd
This Sinai was quite overaw'd
Before the LORD, Israel's high God.
6. In dayes of Shamger, Anath's sonne,

And y travellers then By-wayes trod.
7. In Israel village-dwellers ceas'd,
Ceas'd till I Deborah rose, increas'd,
I rose a Mother in Israel.
8. He chose new Gods; then war i'th' gates:
Was shield or speare seen in these straites,
With fourty thousand in Israel?

9. Mine heart to Israels Rulers steers;
And to z the people's voluntiers:
Blesse ye the Lord from day to day.
10. Speak, ye that on white asses ride;
Ye that in judgment a do decide;
Ye that do travell by the way.
11. They that from Archers voice are freed b In watering-places (which they need)
Shall there the LORD's c just-acts relate,
Just-acts his d villagers record

RUTH.

Ruth.

§. I. Order.

THus far of the General Hiſtory of the affairs of all Iſrael in the time of the Judges. Next follows the particular Hiſtory of ſome particular Perſons affairs under the Judges, which are deſcribed in the Book of RUTH.

Many [a] Writers annex this Book of Ruth as an Appendix to the Book of Judges; as they do the Lamentations to the Prophecie of Jeremiah.

a Andr. Rivet. Iſag. ad Sacr. Script. c. 29. p. 501. §. 16.

§. II. Name.

This Book of RUTH is ſo ſtiled from Ruth the Moabiteſſe, a Gentile, (Moab being one of the [b] inceſtuous ſons of Lot) concerning whom this Book treats, eſpecially of her marriage with Boaz, whoſe Pedigree, by a Prophetick ſpirit, is brought down to [c] King David; Ruth bearing to Boaz, Obed the Grandfather of David, of whom according to the fleſh [d] Chriſt came. Hence Ruth is reckoned among Gods people, and in Chriſts line.

b Gen. 19. 36, 37.
c Ruth 4. 18. to the end.
d Mat. 1. 5, 6.

The Chald. Paraphraſt thinks that Ruth was the daughter of Eglon King of Moab. But ſaith [e] Gerhard, that is not proved by any Scripture, nor is it likely that a Kings daughter would marry a ſtranger, and leave her native country to ſeek bread in another land.

e Gerh. loc. com. in Exegeſ. c. 7. ſec. 127.

§. III. Time.

[f] Auguſtine refers the time of this Hiſtory to the beginning of the Kings. [g] Others refer it to the time of Eli the Prieſt. [h] D. Kimchi in c. 1. Ruth, and other of the Rabbines conceive, That Boaz who married Ruth was that Judge which is called [i] Ibzan; who immediately ſucceeded Jepthah. [k] Junius comparing this Hiſtory of Ruth with Mat. 1. 5. is of opinion that this Hiſtory fell out in the daies of Deborah, ſaying—— By comparing Mat. 1. 5. with the end of this Hiſtory, it is collected that theſe things fell out about the time of Deborah. And firſt, As for Boaz born of Rachab, it may be that ſhe brought him forth when ſhe was fifty years old, if we aſcribe 15 years to her when ſhe received the Spies, Joſh. 2. So as in the 23. year of Othniel ſhe bare Boaz; whence to the beginning of Deborah are 97 years: to which if you adde Deborah's firſt 20 years, Boaz was 117 years old when he had Obed of Ruth. And [that the time of Davids Hiſtory may agree with this] neceſſarily Obed and Jeſſe begat Children at 100 years old.

k Jun Annotat. in Ruth 1. 1. Noſtri, interpretes referunt ad tempora Deboræ, idque quia Boaz fuit Filius Rahab. D. Pareus in Adverſ. in Ruth 1. 1.

There ſeem to be two impediments to this conjecture, which have led others into this opinion, as to think that the names of ſome perſons are omitted in this Genealogy. 1. One is Rachab's age, which we conjecture her to be of at her bringing forth. Therefore I ſhall not gainſay, if a little leſſe age be aſcribed to her, a little more to others. Yet to me that time of Child-bearing ſeems not incredible, knowing the ſtrong conſtitution of bodies in thoſe times. And here in the Palatinate, a few years ago, I ſaw with mine own eyes, and being called was preſent at the Child-bearing of a certain woman above 56 years old, who had two males at one birth. 2. The old age of the men after mentioned. But this need not move any, who shall consider the singular benediction of God in this kind, and other things now mentioned in the case of Rachab. Seeing there appears no footstep at all of any man emitted in this [l] Genealogie wheresoever it is read, I had rather abstain from such a guesse, then open a door to such a new Genealogie-omission. So he.

[l] See D. Drakes Sacred Chronol. p. 52. 6.

Some think that Naomies sojourning fell out in the dayes and government of Othniel, and that Obed was born in the dayes of Deborah, and Jesse about the beginning of Jepthah's government. Certain, it fell out in the time of the [m] Judges, though the particular time perhaps cannot so punctually be demonstrated.

§. IV. Penman.

PENMAN of this History is not certainly known. Hebrews think [n] Samuel penned it.

[n] H. Alsted in Præcog. Theol. l. 2. c. 119.

§. V. Scope.

SCOPE of this Book is principally,

1. To delineate part of Christs [o] Genealogie in Davids time; that the Church may know he is the only true Messiah promised. Which without the help of this Book, could not be evidenced by all the Old Testament.

[o] Ruth 4. 18. &c. compared with Mat. 1. 5, 6.

2. To shew that salvation by Jesus Christ belongs not only to Jewes, but also to sinners of the Gentiles; Christ deriving his line from Gentiles as well as Jewes, [p] Ruth the afflicted Moabitesse widow being inserted in his Genealogie, as a first-fruits of the Gentiles, that should afterward more fully be embraced by Jesus Christ.

[p] A great Famine in Israel maketh Elimelech and Naomi go to Moab with their two sons, who married there and dyed there also. Elimelech dyed. Widow Naomi after ten years returneth to Bethlehem-Judah; and Ruth with her, a Moabite, widow to Machlon. This daughter of Lot that blessed Abraham and left his Country for him, Gen. 12. leaveth Parents and Country, to be covered under the Lords wings. The LORD was her recompence, Christ coming of her, Mat. 1. O Depth of wisdome, that Lots wine, or this want, should be a means that Christ should come of him. H. Brought. Concent. of Script.

3. To evidence how Gods blessings are upon the Godly; Ruth this pious woman being raised from such deep Adversity to so great Prosperity.

§. VI. Principal Parts.

In this History RUTH of Moab, (the chief subject-matter of it,) is described divers ways, viz.

CHAP. I.

1. By her first marriage to one of the two sons of Elimelech, and Naomi of Bethlehem-Judah, coming by reason of a famine in the land of Judah, to sojourne in the land of Moab, Ch. 1. 1. to 5.

2. By her widow-hood. Elimelech and his two sons dying in Moab, Naomi, Ruth, and Orpha are left three afflicted widows, ver. 5. In Ruths state of widow-hood are laid down, CHAP. III.

1. Ruths great love and respect to Naomi her mother in law, in coming with her, (the famine being over) into Judah, and this though Naomi had dissuaded her, and though her sister Orpha went back to her People in Moab, ver. 6. to 19. Their journey is amplified 1. By the place whither they came, viz. Bethlehem, ver. 19. 2. By their entertainment, Naomi bewailing her afflictions to her friends, ver. 19, 20, 21, 22. 3. By the time of their coming thither, in beginning of Barley-harvest, ver. 22.

2. Ruths gleaning by accident in the field of Boaz, (a mighty man of wealth, and of the family of Elimelech,) and that with his approbation; relieving her mother with what she gleaned, Ch. II. throughout.

3. Ruths desire of marriage to Boaz as her Kinsman, to whom the Redemption of her morgaged land appertained; set forth 1. By her mothers instruction of her to lodge at Boaz his feet, Ch. III. ver. 1. to 5. 2. By Ruths obedience to her mother, ver. 5, 6, 7. 3. By the

§. I. Order of Books.

HItherto of the condition of Iſrael under the Government of JUDGES: Next conſider their ſtate as under the Government of KINGS.

And here we have III. Hiſtories compiled in VI. Books, viz. The two Books of Samuel, the two Books of Kings, and the two Books of Chronicles. Which Hiſtories, as [a] ſome obſerve, ſet forth the State of the Kingdome of Iſrael three wayes, viz. 1. As the Kingdome was United; of which the two Books of Samuel. 2. As the Kingdom was Divided; of which the two Books of Kings. 3. As the Kingdom was both United and divided; of which the two Books of Chronicles. As the ſubject matter of theſe Hiſtories doth clearly evince.

a Trelcat. in Oeconomia Bibliorum.

I. The United State of the Kingdome of Iſrael, is deſcribed what it was under the Kings. 1. by Election, and 2. by Succeſſion. And how it increaſed and flouriſhed whilſt ſo united.

1. Under Kings by ELECTION, The Kingdomes condition is recorded in the I. Book of SAMUEL.

§. II. Name and Penman.

This and the following Books are thus called, either 1. From the [b] matter or ſubject therein handled, viz. The Hiſtory of SAMUEL, (which takes up a great part of this Book) and of the two Kings anointed by Samuel. Or alſo, 2. From the Inſtrumental efficient cauſe, or Penman of this book; [c] Samuel being ſuppoſed to have Penned this Book till *c.*25. David the reſt. [d] Junius is of opinion, that Samuel had a great ſhare in Penning of theſe two books that beare his name; and that Nathan the Prophet, and Gad the Seer penned part thereof; from that intimation, [e] Now the acts of David the King, firſt and laſt, behold they are written in the book of Samuel the Seer, and in the Book of Nathan the Prophet, and in the Book of Gad the Seer. Which words of Samuel, Nathan, and Gad, ſeem to be the two Books of Samuel, penned by them three.

only the History of several Kings in one Kingdome of Israel divided into 12 Tribes. This Book is also called the 1. Book of Kings, because the latter part of it contains the history of Saul the first King of Israel.

§. III. Subject-matter, and Chronologie.

This History treats of the last Judges, viz. Eli and Samuel; and of the first King, viz. Saul. Declaring when and upon what occasion the LORD changed the Aristocratical government by Judges, into a Monarchical government by Kings, viz. in dayes of Samuel; [g] And upon occasion of the extreme wickedness of both Elie's and Samuel's Sons. As also how Saul carried himself both in life and death: and how God prepared David for the Throne, Saul being rejected.

g 1 Sam. c. 1. to c. 9.

It is an History of about 80 years continuance, viz. Under [h] Eli 40 years; and under [i] Samuel and Saul, 40 years.

§. IV. Scope

Scope of this book is,

1. More immediately to declare the state of Israels affairs under the last Judges, Eli and Samuel; and the first King, Saul. How the Government of the Kingdome was changed from an Aristocracy to a Monarchy, especially in Davids person and posterity, who was a singular Type of Jesus Christ the true spiritual [k] King David, [l] King of Kings, &c. who shall utterly subdue all his Israels enemies, and at last settle them in perfect peace and rest. This change came to passe by Occasion of Elies indulgence to his sons in his later dayes, by whose wickednesses the Sacrifices and Worship of GOD was brought into contempt with the people: which God severely punished by the Philistines conquering Israel, killing Elies sons, taking the Ark; at which newes Eli fell backward off his seat, and his neck brake. But God mindfull of his Covenant to Israel, raised them up [m] Samuel, a wonderfull Deliverer of them from their enemies, a faithfull Judge or Governour, and a singular restorer of Gods worship and religion from corruption: Whose sons being in his old age appointed by him to succeed him, they through their wickednesse and injustice provoked the people to desire a King, before Gods time was fully come to set up David: God therefore gave them Saul, [n] a King in anger, and took him away in wrath. For Saul, through disobedience to God, and other sins, forfeited his Crown: whereupon God commanded Samuel to Anoint David King; whom therefore Saul persecuted till his dying day, notwithstanding all Davids innocency, usefulnesse to Saul, and Heroick exploites in war for the good of Israel.

m Samuel is another Moses, and in many respects comparable to him. Both of them Levites; Both Governours 40 yeares; Both fought, killed Kings, and interceded with God for Israel: The Birth, Education, and Confirmation of them both was very eminent, to foresignifie the Restauration of the state by them. H. Brought. Concent. of Script.
n Hos. 13.10, 12.

2. More mediately, to discover Gods Immutability in his love and Covenant to his people, in midst of all the mutability, revolutions and alterations of Persons, Families, Common-wealths, and the Governments thereof.

§. V. Principal Parts.

This Book treats of the state and affairs of Israel under two kinds of Civil Government, viz. 1 Aristocratical, by JUDGES. 2 Monarchical, by KINGS.

The Aristocratical Government of Israel under JUDGES is described what it was, 1 Partly under Eli the Priest. 2 Partly under SAMUEL the Prophet, both of them judging Israel.

I. Under ELI the Priest, and his Government, are declared

1. Samuels Descent, where are described 1. His Parents and their Piety, Ch. I. ver. 1. to 4. 2. His mother Hannah's Barrenness, and her great affliction of spirit about it, Peninnah (her Corrival,) provoking her, ver. 4. to 9. 3. Her Prayer in the Temple for a son, and her Vow to dedicate him as a Nazarite to the Lord; Amplified by Elies observing her, mistaking her as drunk, and reproving her, with her Apologie to Eli, clearing her self; whereupon he blesseth

II. The great wickedneſs of Elies ſonnes, 1 Deſcribed, and 2 Aggravated.

1. Deſcribed by the Particulars thereof, viz. Their 1. Diſſoluteneſs, ſons of Belial. 2. Prophaneneſs and ignorance, they knew not the Lord, ver. 12. 3. Their Rapine in the ſacrifices, whereby the ſacrifices were brought into contempt, ver. 13. to 18. 4. Adultery with the women that came to the Tabernacle to worſhip, ver. 22.

2. Aggravated three wayes, viz.

1. By Elies Indulgence, Reproving theſe horrid ſinnes of his ſonnes with ſoft words, ver. 22. to 27.

2. The Lords ſevere Threatnings both againſt Eli and his houſe, for theſe iniquities, both of himſelf and of his ſonnes. Theſe threatnings are denounced againſt them, 1. By a man of God at large, ver. 27. to the end of the chapt. 2. By Samuel, Ch. III. Where note, 1 Samuels p extraordinary Call by God, giving him a ſad meſſage againſt Eli, ver. 1, to 15. 2 Samuels delivering of his meſſage to Eli, ver. 15. to 19. 3. Samuels eſtabliſhment in the Propherick Office, known from Dan to Beer-ſheba, ver. 19. to the end of the chapt.

3. By Gods heavy Judgments inflicted both upon Elies houſe, and all Iſrael (for theſe ſins,) by the Philiſtines ſmiting Iſrael in battel twice, killing Elies two ſons, and q taking Captive the Ark of God; at tidings whereof Eli fell backward, and his neck brake, and his daughter in law falling in Travel died, Ch. IV. throughout.

q Ark of God taken by the Philiſtines.

CHAP. IV.

II. Under SAMUEL the Prophet ſucceeding Eli. Under his Government are related divers things.

1. Touching the Ark of God taken captive by the Philiſtines. 1. How being brought into the houſe of Dagon their god, it deſtroyed r Dagon, Ch. V. 1. to 6. 2. How God ſmote all the men with f Emrods in their ſecret parts, whitherſoever the Ark came, viz. In Aſhdod, Gath and Ekron, ver. 6. to the end of the chapt. 3. How the Philiſtines hereupon, after the Ark had been amongſt them ſeven moneths, according to the Advice of their Prieſts and diviners, ſent back the Ark in a new Cart with two milch-kine to Beth-ſhemeſh, ſending with it as a treſpaſſe-offering five golden Emerods, images of their Emerods; and five golden Mice, images of the Mice that marred their land, Ch. VI. 1. to 14. 4. Quod FUGERE IDOLOLATRIÆ IN ADVENTU DOMINICÆ LEGIS CULTUM monſtrabat. Qui enim fugiunt, perſequenti dorſum dant. Præterea quoque tota Philiſtæa fœda admodum plaga percutitur: nam & extales eorum prominebant, & ingens ſoricum & inſolvens copia per totam Provinciam diffundebatur. Convenienter quippe dominus illis utramque pœnam paraverat, qualem rerum ipſarum conveniens ratio exigebat: Quatenus qui miſera Animalia divino cultu venerebantur, per miſerrima animalia in adventu Dominicæ legis caſtigarentur; Et qui Tabernaculi Domini interiora, i. e. Arcam extra limites ſuos protraxêre, Hi interiorum ſuorum foras prominentium fœda affligirentur clade.* Auguſt. de Mirab. ſac. Script. l. 2. c. 7. Tom. 3.

2. Touching the Acts and Adminiſtrations of Samuel, viz. 1. How he drew Iſrael to reform Gods worſhip, and to t Repent at Mizpeh, ver. 3. to 7. 2. How the Philiſtines, (who came againſt Iſrael, hearing they were aſſembled at Mizpeh,) upon Samuels Sacrificing and Praying, were diſcomfited by Iſrael, God alſo thundering upon the Philiſtines, ver. 7. to 13. 3. How the Philiſtines were kept under all the dayes of Samuel, ver. 13, 14. 4. How religiouſly Samuel judged Iſrael all his dayes, ver. 15, 16, 17. 5. How in Samuels old age, his ſons (appointed Judges by him) degenerated from his integrity, whereupon the people took occaſion to u aſk for a King to govern them, Ch. VIII. 1. to 6. This deſire of the People is amplified 1 By the Diſpleaſure both of Samuel and of the LORD hereat, ver. 7, 8. 2 By Samuels ſolemne proteſting to them, and ſhewing them (at the Lords appointment) what the manner of the King would be, how Tyrannical, &c. ver. 9. to 19. 3 By the Peoples importunity for a King notwithſtanding all this, ver. 19, 20. 4 By Samuels condeſcending to them, (at Gods direction) to ſet a King over them, ver. 21, 22.

u Iſrael aſks for a King.

CHAP. VIII.

Hitherto the Hiſtory of the Ariſtocratical Government, under the two laſt Judges, viz. Eli and Samuel, muel, is continued. Next follows the Hiſtory of the change of this Ariſtocratical, into a Monarchical Government by Kings, viz. Saul, David, &c.

II. The Monarchical Government of the people Iſrael, under KINGS is deſcribed in this Book, what it was 1. Under SAUL, the Peoples King. 2. Under DAVID, the LORD's King.

I. Under SAUL. Touching x SAUL here are deſcribed, 1 His Election. 2 His Rejection.

x King Saul elected.

CHAP. IX.

I. SAUL's Election is ſet forth by ſeveral Occurrents, 1. Before, 2. In, 3. After his Election.

1. Before Sauls Election, are deſcribed 1. Saul's Parentage and Perſon, Ch. IX. ver. 1, 2. 2. The accidental occaſion of Sauls being brought to Samuel, who was to anoint him King, viz. ſeeking his fathers loſt aſſes, ver. 3, 4, 5. 3. The conference of Saul with his ſervant, and of both of them with certain young Maidens, about their conſulting Samuel the Prophet touching their journey, ver. 5. to 15. 4. Gods Oracle to Samuel touching Saul the day before he came to him, ver. 15. to 18. 5. Samuels courteous and prudent entertaining of Saul, ver. 18. to the end of the chapt. 6. Samuels Anointing of Saul, Ch. X. 1. 7 Samuels Confirmation of this Unction to Saul, by foure Signes foretold, which accordingly were fulfilled, ver. 2. to 14. 8. Sauls conference with his Uncle about the affairs of his journey, yet not mentioning the matter of the Kingdome, ver. 14. to 17. 9. Samuels ſpeech unto the People, called togethet at Mizpeh, reproving their ſin in deſiring a King, and directing them how to chuſe their King by Lot, ver. 17. to 20.

CHAP. X.

2. At Sauls Election is declared 1 How Saul was choſen by the People at Mizpeh by Lot. 2 How Saul hid himſelf. 3 How the People, when he was brought forth to them, entertained him with Acclamations. 4 How Samuel told and wrote the manner of the Kingdome. And 5 Then diſmiſſed the People, ver. 20. to 26.

3. After Sauls Election, are declared

1. The different affections of the People to him, ver. 26, 27.

2. Sauls victory over Nahaſh the Ammonite, out of whoſe hand he reſcued Jabeſh-Gilead, whereupon Saul was confirmed in his Kingdom. Ch. XI. 1. to 14.

CHAP. XI.

3. Samuels renewing of the Kingdom, to Saul in Gilgal, ver. 14, 15.

4. Samuels ſpeech unto the people at Gilgal, exhorting them to the true feare and Worſhip of God, wherein he declares, 1. How at their requeſt he had ſet a King over them, Ch. XII. 1, 2. 2. How uprightly and juſtly he himſelf had judged and governed them all his dayes, herein appealing to God and their conſciences, ver. 2. to 6. 3. How ingratefully and wickedly they dealt with God in asking a King, when the LORD was their King that had done ſo much for them, ver. 6. to 16. Of this great ſin of theirs Samuel further convinceth them, by bringing upon them on that day, Thunder and Rain at his Prayer, ver. 16. to 20. 4. How mercifully notwithſtanding God will deal with them and their King, if they truly fear and ſerve him; but otherwiſe if they do wickedly, he would deſtroy them both. ver. 20. to the end of the chapt.

CHAP. XII.

II. Saul's y Rejection is deſcribed chiefly, by 1. The Antecedent Cauſes. 2. The Conſequent Events.

y King Saul rejected, for his three great ſins.

1. The Antecedent Cauſes of Sauls Rejection, namely Sauls three great ſins after he came to his Regal Government, viz.

CHAP. XIII.

1. His unbelief in ſtraits, by reaſon of the Philiſtines, whereupon he obtrudes himſelf upon Sacrificing, (an Act not belonging to the Kingly Office,) before Samuel came, Ch. XIII. Herein are mentioned 1. The Occaſion of this ſin, viz. The diſtreſſe that Saul and the People were in, by reaſon of the provoked Philiſtines, Samuel alſo not coming at the time appointed, ver. 1. to 8. 2. The ſinne it ſelf, Sauls offering a burnt-offering, ver. 8, 9, 10. 3. Sauls Apologie for his fact to Samuel, ver. 11, 12. 4. Samuels threatning him with the loſſe of the Kingdom for it, ver. 13, 14, 15. 5. The Band of Saul how few, (viz. ſix hundred men) and how unarmed through the Philiſtines ſubtilty, ver. 15. to the end of the chapt.

CHAP. XIV.

2. His Rash Adjuration of the People, hindering the Proſecution of the Victory over the Philiſtines, Ch. XIV. Touching this Adjuration, note I. The Antecedent of it, viz. Partly Jonathans and his Armour-bearers miraculous victory over the Philiſtines, through terrour falling upon them, ver. 1. to 18. Partly, Sauls coming in with his men upon the battel, deſtroying and diſperſing the enemy, ver. 18. to 24. II. The Adjuration it ſelf, He adjured the people that none ſhould eat food till even, that they might purſue the enemy, ver. 24. III. The Conſequents hereupon, viz. 1 The Peoples diſtreſs through want of food, ver. 24, 25, 26. 2 The impediment to the peoples Proſecution of their Victory, they being faint for food; evidenced by the reviving that Jonathan had by eating a little honey, ver. 26. to 32. 3 Their eating of blood with the ſpoil, ver. 32. to 36. 4 The hazard of Jonathans life, for his taſting a little honey in the wood, contrary to the Oath, ver. 36. to 47. Theſe things are cloſed up with a brief Narration of Sauls Warres and Kindred, ver. 47. to the end of the chapt.

CHAP. XV.

3. His great Diſobedience in ſparing ſome of the Perſons and ſpoil of the Amalekites, Ch. XV. Here note, 1. Gods ſending and commanding Saul to deſtroy the Amalekites, and all they had utterly, and why, ver. 1, 2, 3. 2. Sauls ſparing of Agag their King, and the beſt beſt of the ſpoile, contrary to Gods Command, ver. 3. to 10. 3. Samuels ſharp reproof of Saul from the Lord, (notwithſtanding all Sauls hypocritical pretences for his ſparing them,) declaring that as he had rejected the Word of the Lord, ſo the Lord had rejected him from being King, ver. 10. to 24. 4. Sauls counterfeit repentance for fear of the loſs of the Kingdom, and Samuels carriage to him therein, ver. 24. to 32. 5. Samuels hewing King Agag in pieces, ver. 32. 33.

2. The Conſequent Events upon Sauls rejection; viz. 1. Samuels deſerting of Saul, and mourning for him, ver. 34, 35. 2. Samuels anointing [z] David the ſonne of Jeſſe King in Sauls ſtead, according to the Lords Command, Ch. XVI. 1. to 14. 3. The departure of the Lords ſpirit from Saul, [a] an evil ſpirit from the Lord troubling him, which evil ſpirit was in ſome ſort driven away by Davids [b] kilful muſick, ver. 14. to the end of the chapt.

II. Under DAVID, the man after Gods own heart, the Kingly Government over Iſrael is further deſcribed, Ch. 16. to the end of the Book.

More particularly here are declared

I. Davids Unction by Samuel upon Sauls rejection, Ch. XVI. 1. to 14.

II. Davids appeaſing of Saul, and repelling his evil ſpirit by Muſick, playing curiouſly on the Harp before him, ver. 14. to the end of the chapt.

III. David's Preparatory and Renowned Conqueſt of that proud bragging Gyant [b] Goliah with a ſling and a ſtone, and thereby diſcomfiting the whole Army of the Philiſtines; at large deſcribed, Ch. XVII. throughout.

IV. The Events or Conſequents upon this Conqueſt, viz.

1. Jonathan's endeared love to David, Ch. XVIII. 1.

2. Davids advancement by K. Saul, ver. 2.

3. The Covenant betwixt Jonathan and David, and Jonathan's kindneſſe to David, ver. 3, 4.

4. Saul's hatred and envy at David, occaſioned by the Iſraelitiſh womens ſongs upon Davids killing of Goliah, aſcribing ſlaying of thouſands to Saul, ten thouſands to David, ver. 5. to 10.

5. Sauls [c] perfidiouſneſſe (the fruit of his hatred) to David, diſcovered, 1. By caſting his Javelin at David, ver. 10, 11. 2. Removing him from his preſence, ver. 12, 13. 3. By propounding to David an enſnaring Marriage with one of his own daughters, only upon condition that David would bring to Saul an hundred foreskins of the Philiſtines; that thus by the Philiſtines David might be deſtroyed, which yet David effected and proſpered, ver. 13. to the end of the chapt. 4. By commanding Jonathan and all his ſervants to kill David; Amplified, by Jonathans Compact with David, and his reconciling of David to his father Saul, Ch. XIX. v. 1. to 8. 5. By his ſecond attempt to kill David with his javelin, ver. 8, 9, 10. 6. By ſending meſſengers afterwards to Davids houſe to ſlay him; but David being let down through a window, eſcaped to Naioth in Ramah, ver. 11. to 18. 7. By purſuing him to Naioth in Ramah, where both Sauls meſſengers and himſelf prophecyed, ver. 18. to the end of the chapt. This is further amplified, by Davids flight from Naioth and Ramah, ſecretly to Jonathan, with whom he expoſtulates about his Fathers hatred of him; Renewes covenant; Conſults about his ſafety, how to diſcover Sauls evil mind ſtill againſt David; which being done, David takes his leave of Jonathan, reciting the Covenant betwixt them, Ch. XX. throughout.

6. Davids [d] flight through Sauls malice; and this from place to place, viz. I. To Nob: Here note, 1. His paſſage thither by the City of Nob, where David, obtained of Abimelech the Prieſt hallowed bread for himſelf and his men in their neceſſity, and Goliahs ſword (Doeg the Edomite, Sauls herdman being there, and obſerving it.) Ch. XXI. ver. 1, to 10. 2. His entertainment there; where conſider, Their jealouſie of David; Davids changing his behaviour through feare; King Achiſh his deſpiſing of him, ver. 10. to the end of the chapt. II. Thence to the Cave Adullam, where diſtreſſed and diſcontented perſons reſorted to him, Ch. XXII. 1, 2. III. Thence to Mizpeh of Moab, ver. 3, 4. IV. Thence to the Forreſt of Hareth, at the Prophet Gads command, ver. 5. Whilſt David was there, 1. Tidings is brought to David of Sauls killing Ahimelech and the Lords Prieſts (for pretended conſpiracy with David againſt him) upon Doegs information, ver. 6. to the end of the chapt. 2. God ſends him to ſave Keilah from the Philiſtines, Ch. XXIII. 1. to 6. V. From Keilah, David (having firſt conſulted Gods Oracle) departed to the wilderneſſe of Ziph. Here 1. Jonathan comes to David, comforting him, and renewing the Covenant with him, ver. 6. to 19. 2. This Battel betwixt Iſrael and the Philiſtines, is deſcribed by paſſages, 1 Before, 2 At, and 3 After the Battel.

1, Before the Battel, are laid down

1. The encamping of both the Armies againſt each other, ver. 4.
2. Sauls conſulting with a Woman that had a Familiar ſpirit, (though he had formerly put away out of the land Wizards, and thoſe that had familiar ſpirits) and by the woman with † the Devil himſelf in the likeneſſe of Samuel, to know the event of that warre. This Conſultation is deſcribed by the 1 Occaſions, 2 Manner, and 3 Events of it, ver. 5. to the end of the chapt.
3. The remanding or ſending back David and his men home to Ziklag, out of the Hoſt of the Philiſtines, upon the jealouſie that the Princes of the Philiſtines had of him, leſt he ſhould prove falſe in the Battel, Ch. XXIX. throughout.
4. Davids recovery of all the ſpoile of Ziklag out of the hands of the Amalekites, deſcribed, Ch. XXX. 1. David returning, found Ziklag ſacked, and burnt by the Amalekites, ver. 1, 2, 3. 2. The great grief of his men; and his own diſtreſſe by the mutinouſneſſe of his Army hereat, ver. 4, 5, 6. 3. David having conſulted with the Oracle of God by the Prieſt, purſueth the Amalekites, ſurprizeth them, kills all ſave 400 that fled on Camels, and recovers all the ſpoile, ver. 7. to 21. 4. Davids dividing the ſpoile betwixt them that went to the Battel, and them that tarried by the ſtuff, ver. 21. to 26. 5. Davids Preſents of the ſpoile, when he came to Ziklag, ſent to all his friends round about, ver. 26. to the end of the chapt.

How ſingularly remarkeable was Gods Providence in ſending back David out of the Philiſtines Hoſt, whereby his own Town Ziklag was recovered, and his guilt of Sauls blood, (who fell in that Battel) and of fighting againſt Gods people, was prevented.]

3. After the Battel, the events

1. The Iſraellites on the other ſide the valley, and beyond Jordan, fled from their Tents for feare, and the Philiſtines poſſeſſed them, ver. 7.
2. The Philiſtines inſulting over the dead bodies of Saul and his ſons, faſtening them to the wall of Beth-ſhan, and publiſhing the victory in all their Idols-houſes, ver. 8, 9, 10.
3. The men of Jabeſh-Gilead hearing of this fact, go and take down their bodies, Burn them, Bury them, and Faſt ſeven dayes, ver. 11, 12, 13.

Thus the LORD delivered David his ſervant from the hand of all his enemies, and from the hand of Saul.

Other Events of this Battel, are laid down in the next Hiſtory, viz. II. Samuel.

AN

AN APPENDIX TO I. SAMUEL.

VIZ.

HANNAH'S Thankfull-Prayer,

When she presented her Son SAMUEL in the House of the LORD, at Shiloh.

1 Sam. 2. 1. to 11.

Metrically Translated out of the Hebrew, and Analytically Explained.

THis excellent, pithy, and pathetical Prayer was uttered by Hannah (the pious wife of Elkanah, the Mother of Samuel the Prophet) in the House of God, at Shiloh, in the presence of Eli the Priest. Occasion of it, was as followeth: Elkanah having [h] two wives, viz. Hannah whom he loved, who had no children; and Peninnah, who had children. Peninnah [i] provoked Hannah, because of her barrennesse; whereupon Hannah being in great bitternesse of soule, when she was in the House of the Lord at Shiloh, she wept, and prayed for a Son, and [k] vowed a vow, if the Lord should give her a son, she would dedicate him as a Nazarite to the Lord all the dayes of his Life. The Lord heard her prayer, gave her a son, whom she named SAMUEL, i.e. [l] Asked-of-the-strong-God, because she begged him of the LORD; obtained him by Prayer. And as soon as she had weaned him, she [m] brought him up to the House of the Lord in Shiloh to Eli the Priest, and there devoted him to the Lord; making this Thankfull Prayer there, for the Lords giving her a son according to her desire in her distresse. So that it may hence well be called, Hannah's Thankfull Prayer.

Obj. But how can it be called a Prayer, when it seems wholly to be spent in Praises, Instructions and Prophecies, no one Petition being mentioned in it?

Ans. 1. Prayer and Praise are neer of kin: For, Prayer hath two branches: viz. One Petitory, consisting of Requests, Petitions or Supplications; this is most properly stiled Prayer: The other Gratulatory, consisting of Praises, Thanksgivings, &c. This is that which is here only laid down, and called Prayer per Synecdochen partis. 2. Praises and thanks for blessings received are tacite requests, virtuall and implicite Petitions for continuance of those blessings; and do as it were incite and move the Lord to superadd more favours upon such thankful hearts. So that Thanksgiving may well be called Prayer. 3. In Prayers, Petition usually accompanies Thanksgiving: And though no Petition of Hannah's be here plainly expresst, yet (as [n] P. Martyr noteth) it is likely that Hannah in her thanksgiving for her son did also desire and petition (at least in heart and will) that Samuel might long live, and faithfully minister before the LORD many yeares.

n Cum Hannah Deo gratias egerit, attamen orasse dicitur: quoniam hæc duo sunt inter se quam conjunctissima; & qui de accepto beneficio gratias agit, Deum provocat, ut sibi rursus beneficia conferat: ita ut Gratiarum Actio nomine precum jure possit censeri. Nec dubium est, Hannam gratias agendo pro Samuele sibi concesso, desiderasse vel & petiisse, animo saltem & voluntate, ut superstes diu esset, & coram Domino inserviret multos annos. Pet. Mart. Com. in 1 Sam. 2. 1.

Object. But how could Hannah utter this Prayer in the Houſe of God, in preſence of the Prieſt, and perhaps others; when women o are forbidden upon divers grounds and reaſons to ſpeak in the Church?

o Compare 1 Cor. 14, 34, 35. with 1 Tim. 2. 11, to 15.

Anſw. 1. Perhaps Hannah (though ſhe ſpake in prayer, yet) ſpake ſo low, that none could hear what ſhe ſaid; or, only ſpake in her heart, as ſhe did formerly when ſhe prayed for a childe: p But Hannah, ſhe ſpake in her heart, onely her lips moved, but her voyce was not heard. And ſo to ſpeak in the Church is not only lawful for, but the duty of women in the Church. 2. Paul forbids womens teaching or ſpeaking in the Church, as an Ordinary habituall received cuſtome or practice; and this by divers Arguments: But this hinders not but that Godly women Extraordinarily furniſhed with a gift of Prophecie, as q Deborah in dayes of Judges, r Huldah in dayes of K. Joſiah, The s four daughters of Philip the Evangeliſt in the Apoſtles dayes, &c. might inſtruct and teach even in publike Aſſemblies, according to the Direction of the Spirit of Prophefie: And this was Hannahs caſe here. But this extraordinary Action cannot now be drawn by Women into imitation in our dayes, This extraordinary gift of Prophecy being long ſince ceaſed.

Penman. Though Hannah uttered this prayer, yet we find not that ſhe penned this Prayer, Rather probable, that the Penman of this Book was directed to pen this Prayer by the ſame ſpirit of God, who indited it for Hannah, and knew every word of it. For, 1. The Preface to this Prayer implies thus much, expreſſing in the third perſon, And Hannah prayed, and ſaid; As recorded of her by another: And not in the firſt perſon, And I prayed, and ſaid; as recorded by her ſelf. 2. It will be hard to evidence any part of Holy Writ to be penned by a Woman, as part of Holy Writ.

§. III.

Scope of it is, 1. Partly to praiſe and magnifie God with enlarged thankfullneſſe, for giving her a ſon according to her earneſt Prayer. And this is the thing that herein ſhe firſt and immediately intended. 2. Partly to warne thoſe that are in high and proſperous ſtate, not to walk proudly and arrogantly contemning others; for God can quickly pull them down to the duſt. And to encourage thoſe that are in loweſt ebbes of diſtreſſes, not to deſpond but to truſt in God alone, and cry to him who can eaſily lift them up, even beyond expectation. 3. Partly, Prophetically to foretel Gods guidance and preſervation of his Saints in their motions and enterprizes; But his deſtruction of all his wicked Adverſaries, when he ſhall come to judge; and his high exaltation of the Dominion and Kingdom of Jeſus Chriſt himſelf.

The Chaldee Paraphraſt, and David Kimchi, (as t Pet. Martyr hath obſerved) judge this to be an excellent Prophecy. Hannah in a ſort ſuſtaining the Perſon of the Church, which wonderfully rejoiceth, when ſhe ſees holy men Divinely raiſed up, for purging out of Errors and abuſes in Gods worſhip; So here, Hannah exults and triumphs at the birth of Samuel, by whom ſhe foreſaw that Baal, Aſhtoreth, and other baſe Idols ſhould be deſtroyed. She propheſies alſo (as Hebrew writers think) that the Kingdoms and Tyrants (Oppreſſours of Gods people) ſhould be broken and deſtroyed, the Aſſyrians, Nebuchadnezzar, Grecians, alſo Gog and Magog; yea, ſhe touches the Kingdome of the Meſſiah, and the laſt Judgement, and reward of the Godly and the wicked. u Auguſtine himſelf alſo obſerving, 1. That herein are u Irane verò verba hæc unius putabuntur eſſe mulierculæ, de nato ſibi filio gratulantis? Tantumne mens hominum à luce veritatis averſa eſt, ut non ſentiat ſupergredi modum fœminæ hujus dicta quæ fudit? Porro qui rebus ipſis quæ jam cæperunt etiam & in hac terrena peregrinatione compleri, convenienter movetur: nonne intendit, & aſpicit, & agnoſcit per hanc mulierem, cujus etiam nomen, i. e. Anna, quæ [Gratia ejus] interpretatur, ipſam religireligionem Christianam, ipsam civitatem Dei, cujus rex est & conditor Christus; ipsam postremo Dei gratiam prophetico spiritu sic locutam, à qua superbi alienantur, ut cadant; qua humiles implentur, ut surgant; quod maximè hymnus iste personuit? Nisi quisquam forte dicturus est, nihil istam prophetasse mulierem, sed Deum tantummodo propter filium quem precata impetravit, exultanti prædicatione laudasse.—— Deinde, in illo populo cum adhuc nemo regnaret, quod in extremo posuit (dat virtutem Regibus nostris, & exaltavit cornu Christi sui) unde dicebat, si non prophetabat? &c. *Aug. de Civ. things spoke beyond the sphere and reach of a weak woman. 2. That the matter of this Song cannot be all of it applicable to the gift of her sonne Samuel, 3. That here's mention of Gods King, when as yet the Kingly office was not at all erected in Israel; concludes it to be a singular Prophecy, and so interprets and applies it. Thus Peter Martyr in his Comment, Junius in his Annot. x Diodate, and other modern Writers, account it partly Prophetical. Hannah begins her prayer upon the particular occasion of her son, yet she rests not there in her own particular, but by the impulse of the Spirit of God raises up her expressions higher, both to the Church, and to Christ himself.

x In this Canticle, as in many others, Gods Spirit doth not rest upon the first motion, or upon the occasion of the singular and temporal benefit; but ravisheth Hannah into contemplation of the universal, spiritual, and eternal benefits of the Church, which are here set down by her, and whose person Hannah doth in this place represent. Died. Annot. on 1 Sam. 2. 1.

§. IV.

The Excellencie of this Prayer appears in divers regards, viz. 1. In that the subject-matter of it is so sublime and heavenly, namely, Of the Nature and Acts of God; The Saints, Church, and Kingdom of Christ. 2. In that the Person uttering this Prayer, a feeble woman, was rapt up and y inspired with such a Prophetical spirit, whilest she prayed it. 3. In that the Expressions in it are so elegant, stately, lofty. 4. In that the B. Virgin Mary (inspired by the same Spirit of God) framed her Song of Praise for the Conception of Jesus Christ our only Lord and Saviour, in imitation of this Prayer of Hannah: yea, borrowed many words and phrases hence, As may appear by this ensuing Parallel.

y Hannah was a Prophetesse, and spake of Christ, 1 Sam. 2. whom Anna Phanuels daughter saw face to face. Mary imitateth Hannahs Song, which helpeth much to know her meaning. H. Broughton in his Concent. of Script.

A Parallel betwixt Hannah's Thankful Prayer, 1 Sam. 2. 1. to 11. And the Virgin Mary's Song of Praise, Luke 1. 46. to 56.

Hannah said;

1. Mine heart rejoyceth in the LORD,—— I rejoice in thy salvation.

2. There is none besides thee, nor any Rock like our God.

3. There is none holy as the LORD

4. The bowes of the mighty men are broken, and the feeble ones are girt with strength.

5. The full have hired out themselves for bread: and the hungry ceased.

6. Talk no more so exceeding proudly.

7. Hannah* a barren wife blesseth God for her son Samuel, a Typical Prophet, and deliverer of the old Israel according to the flesh.

Virgin Mary said;

1. My soul doth magnifie the LORD, and my spirit hath rejoyced in God my Sayiour.

2. He that is mighty, hath done to me great things;

3. And holy is his Name.

4. He hath put down the mighty from their seats, and exalted them of low degree.

5. He hath filled the hungry with good things, and the rich he hath sent empty away.

6. He hath scattered the proud in the imagination of their hearts.

7. Mary, a Virgin-wife, blesseth God for her son Jesus Christ, the true Prophet and Saviour of the true Israel according to the Spirit.

§. V.

§. V. Principal Parts.

1. This Prayer is 1 Partly Eucharistical. 2 Partly Prophetical.

Eucharistical and Gratulatory, wherein Hannah thankfully triumphs in the Lords great goodneſs to her, ver.1.to 9. This is laid down by way 1 Of Narration, and 2 Of Admonition.

I. The Narration contains 1 Her ſpiritual Joy, and 2 The grounds of it.

1. Her ſpiritual Joy in the LORD, is deſcribed in ſeveral expreſſions, viz. 1. Her hearts exulting, that was grieved. 2. Her Hornes exaltation, that was debaſed. 3. Her mouths Enlargment over her enemies, eſpecially Peninnah, that was ſhut up in ſilence, ver.1.

2. Grounds hereof, 1. Gods ſalvation, particularly manifeſted in giving her a ſonne, ver. 1. 2. Gods ſingular Sanctity, therefore to be ſanctified. 3. Gods ſingular ſtrength, like a rock, ſupporting and ſafe-preſerving his people, ver.2.

II. The Admonition inferred hereupon to her Rival Peninnah, yea, to all kinde of inſolent adverſaries of Gods humble and diſtreſſed ſervants, wherein conſider 1 The Manner. 2 The Motives enforcing it.

1. The Matter, that they deal not ſo extream haughtily againſt Gods People, ver.3.

2. The Motives enforcing this Admonition are drawn from

1. Gods accurate knowledge, whereby he diſcerns and weighs all mens acts, ver.3.

2. Gods actual Providence, whereby he actually orders all things as he pleaſeth, ſo pulling down the higheſt, that therein none have cauſe to preſume; ſo lifting up the loweſt, that therein none have cauſe to deſpair. This is cleared by an elegant induction of Particulars, as 1. In affairs of Warre, ver.4. 2. In point of fulneſſe and emptineſs, ver.5. 3. In point of barrenneſs, and fruitful child-bearing; her own caſe, ver.5. 4. In caſe of mortal afflictions and vital deliverances. ver.6. 5. In point of Poverty and Riches, ver.7. 6. In reſpect of deepeſt Debaſement, and higheſt Advancement, ver.7,8.

3. Gods ſoveraignty and power over the whole world, whereby he is able to do all theſe things, ver.8.

II. Prophetical, both Promiſſory and Minatory. Wherein Hannah foretells

1. The Lords guidance and cuſtody of his Saints in their wayes and motions, ver.9.

2. The utter ruine and deſtruction of the wicked Adverſaries of God, though never ſo ſtrong, ver.9,10.

3. The Lord's Judgment of the whole World, that he may thus deal with his Saints, and his Adverſaries, ver.10.

4. The eſtabliſhing of his King hereupon, and eternal exalting of the Dominion of his Meſſiah, the Lord Chriſt, ver.10.

(This may be ſung as Pſal. 100. Or, as the X. Commandments.)

1 SAM. 2.

1. Then Hannah prayed, and ſaid;

MIne [2] hearts joy in the LORD o're-flowes
Mine horn is in the LORD ſet high:
My mouth's enlarg'd above my foes,
For I in thy ſalvation joy.

2. There is none Holy as the LORD,
For lo beſides thee there is none:
Nor any Rock, to be ador'd
And truſted, like our God alone.

3. Now multiply no more your vaunts,
Speak not [a] ſo wondrous-haughtily:
Let no Hard- language, ſcorns or taunts
Come from your mouth, as formerly.

[2] Heb. Mine heart exulteth.

[a] Heb. Haughty, haughty.

[b]The LORD's a God[c] of Knowledge-rare,
And acts by him are weigh'd at length.
4. Broke bowes of mighty-persons are;
And feeble-ones are girt with strength.

5. The full, have hir'd-themselves for bread;
[d]They cease, that-have-keen-hunger-known:
So-that the Barren seven [e]hath bred,
[f]The fruitfull Mother's feeble grown.

6. The LORD doth kill, and make alive:
Brings-down to grave, brings-up likewise.
7. The LORD makes-poor, and [g]makes-to-thrive;
He makes-to-fall, and makes to rise.

8. He doth from dust the weakling raise,
From dunghill lifts the needy-one:
With Princes them to seat in praise,
And make-them-herit Glory's throne:

For, Pillars of the Earth below
Unto the LORD do appertain,
Upon them he hath set also
The Round world, fixed to remain.

9. His gracious-Saints feet keep shall he;
But wicked-ones (that them assaile)
In darknesse they shall silent be:
For man by strength shall not prevaile.

10. [h]They that do with the LORD-contend,
Shall utterly be-broke asunder.
He [i]from the Heavens (to work their end)
Shall dreadfully [k]upon them thunder.

The LORD [l]shall-into judgment-bring Earth's ends before his countenance;
And shall give strength unto his King,
And his MESSIAH's Horn advance.

b Heb. For.
c Heb. Of Knowledges.
d Heb. And hungry ones ceased.
e Heb. Hath brought forth.

HItherto of the Government of the people Israel under Kings by Election, viz. Saul and David. The first beginnings of Davids Kingdome, in Samuels private Anointing him; and Davids victories, being declared in 1 Sam. Now follows Israels Government, and the state of the Kingdome under Kings by Succession in Davids family, David being the Root of this Succession; whose History is declared in II. SAMUEL. So called for Reasons formerly mentioned in 1 Sam. It's also by the Greek called the II. Book of Kingdomes; but better by the Latine stiled The second Book of Kings, because therein the History of David the second King of Israel is continued.

This being an History of Davids Kingdome, Acts and other Affairs, may well be called, The Annals of King David.

§. II. Penman.

Penman[a] some think to be the High-Priest; or some Disciple of Samuel, who yet for honours sake, gave the Book his Masters name. But it is rather probable that the latter part of the I. of Samuel, and this whole Book of the II. of Samuel, were Penned by Nathan the Prophet, and Gad the Seer; as it seems not obscurely intimated in the Chronicles; [b] Now the Acts of David the King, first and last, behold they are written in the book of Samuel the Seer, and in the book of Nathan the Prophet, and in the book of Gad the Seer. i. e. (saith [c] Junius) in the two Books of Samuel, parts whereof were written by these here named. Unto whom also [d] Diodate herein consents. And that learned [e] Rivet asserts it against the Papists.

§. III. Time, or Chronologie.

This II. Book of Samuel containes an History of about fourty years continuance, being a Record of King Davids whole Reigne, ſave only ſome few Paſſages in his extream old age, a little before his death, mentioned in 1 Kings chap. 1. and 2. Now [f] David was thirty years old when he began to reigne, and he reigned fourty years. In Hebron he raigned over Judah ſeven yeares, and ſix moneths: and in Jeruſalem he reigned thirty and three years over all Iſrael and Judah. Underſtand here 32 years and an half, (which is 33 years current) and ſo with the ſeven years and an half over Judah, there are juſt 40 years. David as Prophet, eſpecially as King, was a ſingular Type of Chriſt. For (as [g] H. Broughton, that mighty man in the Scripture, hath obſerved) David was anointed King over Judah in Hebron, at 30 years old: ſo Chriſt was baptized, being 30 years of age. David was crowned King at Jeruſalem 1000 years exactly before Chriſts baptiſme. He reigned over Judah and all Iſrael, as many years as our LORD lived, viz. 32 years, 6 moneths.

§. IV. Scope.

Scope of this Book is,

1. Primarily and more Immediately, To Continue the Hiſtory of Iſraels State under the Kingly Government of David (Saul being ſlain.) To this end, The Reigne of King David is lively delineated in this Hiſtory; How after he had lamented Sauls Death, by degrees he obtained the Kingdome, notwithſtanding all difficulties, according to Gods Promiſes, firſt being Annoynted King of Judah in Hebron: then ſeven yeers after in Jeruſalem, King over all the tribes of Iſrael. 2. How hee governed his Kingdome poſſeſſed: with great Piety towards God, Valour againſt his enemies, Humanity towards his friends and ſubjects. And hereby wondrouſly reſtored the ſhattered and broken Kingdom, which wicked Saul had almoſt ſtrangled in it's infancy. In this Book and the I. of Kings there are many Occaſions of Davids moſt devout, heavenly Pſalmes, mentioned, (as [h] P Martyr obſerves,) which without theſe Hiſtories could not be underſtood. 3. How notwithſtanding all Davids Piety and Integrity he was overtaken with many ſinful failings, and ſome very grievous and ſcandalous, yet he moſt ſeriouſly and ſincerely repented of them. Both are propounded, That (as [i] Auguſtine well noteth) at the falls of ſuch great ones, the leſſer may tremble and know what to avoid; at their riſing again, they that have fallen may know what to follow and imitate. Though (alas) many will fall with David, but they will not riſe with David. 4. And finally, how ſeverely God chaſtiſed Davids faults, (though repented of, and Pardoned) by Sword, Famine and Peſtilence, in his own Perſon, Family, and Kingdom.

§. V. Principal parts.

In this Book is an Historical Description of the Affairs and memorable Acts of King David, during his Regal Government; viz. 1. In his Life. 2. Neer his Death.

I. Davids LIFE is represented, 1. As it was Glorious, 2. As it was Ignominious.

I. As it was glorious. The Glory of Davids Kingly life, was resplendent in his Royal Inauguration, of actual Advancement to the Throne. This is set forth, 1. By things Antecedent thereto. 2. By things Concomitant. 3. By things Consequent thereupon.

I. By things Antecedent, viz. Davids deeds and deportment in relation to the Death of King Saul, (though his deadly Enemy.) As

1. How deeply David laid to heart the [k] death of Saul and Jonathan, and the falling of Israel by the sword: Rending his clothes, mourning and weeping; and Fasting till even, upon the relation thereof by an Amalekite that had escaped out of the host, and confessed that he slew Saul, Ch. I. ver. 1. to 13.

2. How David caused the Amalekite to be slain for killing the Lords Anointed, according to his own confession, ver. 13. to 17.

3. What a sad Pathetical Elegy David made upon the death of Saul and Jonathan, bitterly lamenting them, ver. 17. to the end of the chapt.

II. By things Concomitant, or accompanying his Regal Inauguration, viz. The manner of his obtaining the Kingdom; not all at once, but by certain steps and degrees. As 1. The Kingdom of Judah, 2. The Kingdom of all Israel.

1. He obtained the Kingdom of Judah, by going up from Ziklag into Judea to Hebron, where the men of Judah [l] anointed him King over the House of Judah, Ch. II. ver. 1, 2, 3, 4. This is further amplified, By the information that the men of Judah gave to David their King, touching the Loyalty of the men of Jabesh-Gilead in burying Saul; and by Davids kindness to the men of Jabesh-Gilead for it, ver. 4. to 8.

2. He obtained the Kingdom also of all Israel, gradually. As

1. Partly by prevailing over Abner and his Opposition to Davids Throne, in setting up Ishbosheth, Sauls sonne, King over all Israel for two years space. Where note 1. Abners setting up Ishbosheth King, ver. 8. to 12. 2. The manner of the Battel betwixt Abners and Joabs men, Joab prevailing, ver. 12. to the end of the chapt. 3. The issue of this victory, Strengthning Davids house, and weakning of Sauls house, Ch. III. ver. 1. Davids Increase is further set forth by his six sonnes borne to him in Hebron, ver. 2. to 6.

2. Partly, By Abners revolt from Ishbosheth, and his covenanting to bring about all Israel to David, which he also effected. This is described, 1. By the Occasion of it, viz. Ishbosheth's challenging Abner for going in to Rizpah Sauls Concubine, ver. 6, 7. 2. By Abners deep discontent herewith, vowing to translate the Kingdom from Saul to David, ver. 8. to 12. 3. By Abners agreement with David to this effect, ver. 12. to 17. 4. By Abners perswasions with the men of Israel to accept David as their King; reporting it to David, and so going from David to effect it, ver. 17. to 21. 5. By Joabs killing of Abner, (going to bring about all Israel to David) David not knowing of it, for killing Isabel Joabs brother, ver. 22. to 28. This fact is amplified by Davids discontent and lamentation for Abners death, ver. 28. to the end of the chapt.

3. Partly, By the Death of Ishbosheth Sauls sonne. Of which note, 1. The Occasion, the Discouragement that fell on all Israel, upon the death of Abner their General, Ch. IV. ver. 1. 2. The manner how Ishbosheth was slain, in his own house, being smitten under the fifth rib, and then beheaded, by two of his own Captains, viz. Baanah and Rechab, ver. 2. to 8. 3. The Event of Ishbosheths death, [1] To the two Captains that killed him, and brought his head to David. They are slain, their hands and feet cut off, and hanged at Davids command. (Ishbosheth's head being buried in Abner's grave) ver. 8. to the end of the chapt. [2] To David. Hereupon all the Elders of Israel come to David at Hebron, Covenant with him, and [m] Anoint him King: This is amplified by Narration of the full time that David reigned over Judah only, viz. seven years, six moneths; and over both Israel and Judah joyntly, viz. thirty three yeares current, Ch. V. 1. to 6.

III. By things Consequent, or ensuing upon Davids being anointed King over all Israel, viz. Davids [n] acts and affairs in managing the Government of his Kingdom, which were 1 Polemical. 2 Ecclesiastical. 3 Politicd.

1. Davids Polemical or Warlike Acts and Atchievements. viz.

1. His taking of the strong hold of Sion in Jerusalem, from the Jebusites, calling it the City of David, dwelling and building there, ver. 6. to 10. This is amplified 1. In General, by Davids growing great hereupon, the Lord being with him, ver. 10. 2. In particular, 1 By Hiram King of Tyre's congratulating David, sending him Materials and Workmen who built him an house, ver. 11, 12. 2 By Narration of Davids Concubines and children born to him at Jerusalem, ver. 13. to 17.

CHAP. VI.

p Oza filius Aminadab ſequens Arcam, cum illam velut ſuſtentans tangeret ſubita morte percuſſus & ſuffocatus eſt. In quo facto temeritas cum ipſo Oza, qui (cum non eſſet de genere Aaron) Arcam tetigit, damnatur; & totus populus, quia cautè in divinis rebus agere deberet, admonetur. Sed quidam aliquod præcedens peccatum in Oza per hanc culpam punitum eſſe exiſtimant, quoniam ſæpe evenit, ut minores culpæ præcedentium peccatorum vindictam incutiant. Quemadmodum cum populus Iſrael peccaſſet, commovit dominus ut David numeraret populum, per quod accidit, ut plebs peccans per parvam Regis culpam, pœnam ſuſtineret præcedentium delictorum. Angelus enim Domini LXX virorum millia ex omni Iſrael uſque Berſabee occidit, & Hieroſolymam urbem velut delere propoſuit; Non quod Dominus civitatem, quam nunc diſperdidit, delere vellet, ſed ut oſtenſus in procinctu vindictæ Angelus, dignam videnti Regi pœnitentiam incuteret. Ex quo intelligitur David minorem culpam commiſiſſe, quam plebs; Qui peccatum ſuum per ſolam pœnitentiam delevit: Populi vero delictum in auctoribus ſuis mortis ſeveritatem promeruit. Aug. de mirabil. S. Script. lib. 2. cap. 12. & 13. Tom. 3.

2. Into the City of David from Obed-edoms houſe; where note 1. The occaſion inviting David to fetch up the Ark, viz. Gods bleſſing Obed-edom, ver. 12. 2. The manner, with ſacrifices and joy, David dancing before the Ark, (for which Michal deſpiſed him,) ver. 12. to 17. 4. The entertainment of the Ark with Burnt-offerings, Peace-offerings, and Feaſtings of the People, ver. 17. to 20. 5. Michals taunting David for dancing before the Ark, is reproved by David, and puniſhed by God with perpetual Barrenneſſe, ver. 20. to the end of the chapt.

II. His purpoſe to build God an houſe, made known to Nathan the Prophet, Ch. VII. 1, 2, 3. Amplified 1. By Gods meſſage by Nathan to David, declaring that he ſhould not build him an houſe, but his ſonne ſhould, in whom he makes to David and his houſe many ſweet Promiſes, ver. 4. to 18. 2. By Davids thankfull Prayer which he hereupon with a raviſhed ſpirit preſents to God, gratefully acknowledging Gods admirable mercies to him, his houſe, and his people Iſrael: and earneſtly praying for the accompliſhment of his promiſes upon himſelf and his houſe, ver. 18. to the end of the chapt.

CHAP VII.

3. Davids Politicall or Civil Acts, viz.

1. His full raigne over all Iſrael in Judgment and Juſtice, Ch. VIII. ver. 15. Amplified by nomination of the chief Officers in Church or State, ver. 16, 17, 18.

CHAP. VIII.

2. His ſingular kindneſſe to Mephibosheth, (lame in both his feet) Jonathans ſonne, for his fathers ſake, Ch. IX. 1. David ſends for him by Ziba, ver. 1. to 7. 2. David reſtores him all the lands that appertained to his Grand-father Saul, appointing him continually to eat bread at the Kings table as one of the Kings ſonnes, ver. 7, 8. 3. David appoints Ziba as his ſervant to till the land for Mephibosheths benefit, ver. 9. to the end of the chapt.

CHAP IX.

3. His humanity and courteous reſpects unto Hanun the King of Ammon, ſending meſſengers to comfort him concerning his fathers death; deſcribed 1. By the occaſion moving David hereunto, viz. His father Nahaſh his kindneſſe ſhewed to David, Ch. X. 1, 2. 2. By the villainous entertainment that Davids ſervants found with Hanun and his Princes, ſhaving off half their beards, and cutting off their garments to the Buttocks, ver. 3, 4, 5. 3. By the events enſuing hereupon, and occaſioned hereby, viz. Davids victorious Battels with 1 The Ammonites and their adherents, ver. 6. to 15. 2 The Syrians, ver. 15. to the end of the chap. 3 Rabbah the Royal City of the children of Ammon, which at laſt was taken, and the Ammonites cruelly put to death, (during the ſiege of this City David committed thoſe two horrid ſins of q Murder and Adultery.)

r 2 Chro. 27. 3.

Hitherto the life of King David hath been deſcribed as Glorious, and theſe were the firſt wayes of David.

Hereafter it is considered as Ignominious.

II. As Ignominious. The Ignominious sense of Davids life is described, both in respect of 1 His Hainous Sinnes, 2 His Grievous Sorrowes thereupon.

CHAP. XI.

I. Davids Sinnes, especially of Adultery and Murder, are set forth in Ch. XI. 1. By the Season when, viz. Whilest Joab was besieging Rabbah the Royal city of the Ammonites, ver. 1. compared also with ch. 12. ver. 26. to the end of the chapt. 2. By the more immediate Occasion, viz. Davids espying of Bath-sheba Uriahs wife washing her self, from the roof of his house, ver. 2. 3. By the Manner of his committing the sinful act of Adultery, ver. 3. to 6. 4. By Davids endeavour to cloak the sinne, 1 Partly by sending for Uriah out of the Camp, that he might go home and lye with his wife, ver. 6. to 13. 2 Partly by making Uriah drunk, (the former device not taking effect) ver. 13. 3 Partly by writing to Joab to set Uriah in the hotteſt battel, whereby he was slain before Rabbah by the Ammonites, (the other attempts being frustrate,) ver. 13. to 26. 5. By Davids marrying of Bath-sheba, when her mourning was past, ver. 26, 27. 6. By the Lords great displeasure of these facts of David, ver. 27.

II. Davids Sorrowes and judgments of God upon him for these sins, 1 Threatned, 2 Inflicted, 3 Yet at last abated.

CHAP. XII.

1. Threatned by Nathan, 1 Parabolically, Ch. XII. 1. to 7. 2 Plainly, ver. 7. to 13. This is amplified 1 By the effect this threatning had upon David, He repented, ver. 13. 2 By the Prophets promising pardon and life to David upon his repentance, (though the child should die) ver. 13, 14.

2. Inflicted upon David, 1. In his own House. 2. In his Kingdome, and without.

1. In his own house. Here are recorded divers sore Chastisements of David, viz.

1. The sickness and death of the child conceived in adultery, amplified 1 By Davids grief for the child, ver. 15. to 24. 2 By the Allay of Davids grief in the birth of SOLOMON, ver. 24, 25. And in his victory over Rabbah and other Cities of the Ammonites, whom he severely punished, ver. 26. to the end of the chapt.

2. Amnons rape and incest with his sister Tamar, described by the 1 Antecedents, 2 Manner, and 3 Consequents thereof, Ch. XIII. 1 to 23.

CHAP. XIII.

3. Absaloms murthering his brother Amnon, by way of revenge for abusing his sister Tamar, described I. By the preparation to it, ver. 23. to 29. II. By the preparation of it, ver 29. III. By the effects or issues of it, viz. 1 Davids sad lamentings, ver. 30. to 37. 2. Absaloms flight to the King of Gesshur, ver. 37. 38. Amplified 1 By Davids trouble at Absaloms absence, his soul longing for him, ver. 39. 2 By Absaloms recalling home, first to Jerusalem, then to the Kings Presence, by the subtilty of Joab, and the Parable of the woman of Tekoa, Ch. XIV. throughout.

CHAP. XIV.

‡ Absalom's Rebellion.

4. By ‡ Absaloms unnatural treason and rebellion against his own father, King David. This grievous insurrection is described principally, 1. By Absaloms practices preparatory to it. 2. By Davids flight from Jerusalem, till the suppression of it. 3. By Davids returne in peace to Jerusalem, the rebellion being over.

CHAP. XV.

I. Absaloms preparatory practices to his insurrection, were 1. His preparing him horses and chariots, and fifty men to run before him, Ch. XV. 1. 2. His stealing away the Peoples hearts from David, by winning speeches and carriages, ver. 2. to 7. 3. His making head at Hebron under pretence of a Vow, ver. 7. to 10. 4 His sending Spies throughout all the Land, at sound of the Trumpet to cry up Absalom King in Hebron, ver. 10. 5. His engaging Ahitophel in the Conspiracy as his Councellour, ver. 11, 12.

II. Davids flight from Jerusalem for fear of Absalom his sonne, till the Insurrection was suppressed, is described by many various Occurrents that during that space happened, viz.

1. What company fled with David from Jerusalem, ver. 13. to 19. And how Ittai [though requested by David] would not leave him, ver. 19. to 24.
2. How David sent Zadok and Abiathar back with the Ark to Jerusalem, ver. 24. to 30.
3. Davids going up M. Olivet weeping and bare-foot, ver. 30.
4. Davids Prayer to the LORD to infatuate Ahitophels counsel, ver. 31.
5. Davids appointment of Hushai to return to Jerusalem, that by policy he might defeat Ahitophel's Counsel, and by Zadok and Abiathar informe David of all passages, ver. 32. to the end of the chapt.
6. Davids inconsiderate conferring of Mephibosheth's lands upon Ziba, occasioned by Ziba's presents, and false suggestions to David of Mephibosheth's expecting the Crown by the present Insurrection, Ch. XVI. 1. to 5.

AN APPENDIX TO II. SAMUEL.

VIZ.

Davids Lamentation for the slaughter of Saul, Jonathan, and Israel, by the Philistines.

Recorded in II. SAM. I. ver. 17. to the end of the chapt.

Analytically Explained, and Metrically Translated.

§. I.

IN that great Battel betwixt Israel and the Philistines in Mt. Gilboa (described in the close of the former [e] Book) Israel in their own land was worsted by the Philistines, K. Saul and Jonathan his son were slain; whereupon the Philistines cut off Sauls head, stript off his Armour, put it in the House of Ashtaroth, and published this victory in the House of their Idols, to the great reproach of Israel, and dishonour of the God of Israel. Upon this Occasion David deeply laying to heart the publique cause of God and his Church, (moved by the Spirit of God, Penned this sad Epitaph or Mournful Elegie, (afterwards digested into the Series of this History by the Penman of this Book,) which may fitly therefore be denominated, Davids Lamentation for the slaughter of Saul, Jonathan, and Israel, by the Philistines, Forasmuch as it is said immediately before this Elegy, [d] And David lamented with this Lamentation over Saul and over Jonathan his sonne, As Jeremiah wrote Lamentations over Jerusalem, and King Josiah, he being slain. [e] Josephus saith, David composed Lamentations and Epitaphs in praise of Saul and Jonathan, which are read even to this very day. That learned [f] Parens hath well observed, that David herein praiseth Saul, not as a Tyrant, as an Enemy, &c. but as a King anointed at Gods command, as a Publike Magistrate, as a Father-in-Law to him, &c. And he laments Saul, as rejected of God, and Perishing in impenitency, and as a Map of humane frailty, those in highest place not being secure from lowest falls. Yet, it is to be noted, That all the excellencies for which David thus commends Saul, were only Natural, Moral, Civil, or Military; not Religious.

§. II.

§. II.

Scope of this Lamentation seems to be,

1. Primarily, To incite all Israel to lay to heart this great and extraordinary breach that God had made upon them, (as [g] P. Martyr observes) that they might repent and return from their evil wayes. For Israel that was wont to conquer, is now conquered. Jonathan that with one Armour-bearer routed so great an hoast of Philistines, is now himself slain by the Philistines, and that in his own country on M. Gilboa, &c. Why is Israel foiled? Saul and Jonathan (so valiant for their country) fallen? Why are Philistines advanced with such matter of triumph? Why is God thus dishonoured, Israels glory laid in the dust, &c. But because of some provocations in Israel to be mourned for and reformed? This (saith he) is the aime of the Holy Ghost.

[g] P. Mart. Com. in 2 Sam. 1. 17. &c.

2. Secondarily, to teach Gods people by Davids imitable example, how to behave themselves in like Cases. Not vulgar, but many singular exemplary vertues are resplendent in David in this his Lamentation, for our imitation, as [h] Pareus hath noted them to my hand. viz.

[h] D. Pareus in Adverſ. in 2 Sam. 1.

1. Piety to GOD, whose dishonour he feared. Tell it not in Gath, &c.

2. Love to his Country: lamenting the losse of such valiant and useful men as Saul and Jonathan were, who hazarded lives and all for Israel.

3. Honour to the Magistrate. He honoured his Office, not his evil abuse of it.

4. Justice and Truth; acknowledging even the vertues and excellencies of an Enemy.

5. Placableneſſe; that he could be so far from seeking revenge of his deadly enemy, as that he could so love him, as sadly to lament and weep for his death.

6. Fidelity. His affection continuing to Jonathan even to death.

7. Modesty. In that he hasted not to the Throne, but waited Gods time and call, not carnally rejoycing when the time was come.

§. III.

Principal Parts. Touching this Funeral Elegy, Consider 1. The Preface to it, 2. The Substance of it.

I.

In the Preface to it, note 1. Davids mournful Action, viz. His lamenting over Saul and Jonathan, the forme of his Lamentation being indigitated, 2 Sam. 1. ver. 17. 2. Davids martial instruction of the children of Judah (inserted in a Parenthesis) He bade them teach the children of Judah the use of the bowe; because in this battel the Philistines had done most harm to Israel by the bowe. This is amplified by the Record made of it in the [i] Book of Jasher, ver. 18.

[i] The Book of Jasher] is also mentioned in Josh. 10. 13.

Touching the standing still of the Sun and Moon, till Joshuah had avenged himself of his enemies, Is not this written in the Book of Jasher? The Hebrew word ספר Jasher, signifies upright; some therefore render it, in the Book of the upright. Some interpret this of the Book of Genesis, as being spoken to encourage his people. For they being under consternation of minde by this late blow, might say, to what purpose is the use of the Bowe to us? All is now lost and hopelesse. Nay, saith David, in the Book of the upright, there is certain promise made to our tribe, that we shall recover all again. For in the blessings of Iacob the Patriarch, Here is this Promise to Judah, Thine hand shall be on the neck of thine enemies, Gen. 49. 8. and to the like purpose in Moses his blessing of the twelve tribes, Deut. 33. 7. But others understand it of the Book of Gad and Nathan, in which they conceive this Funeral Elegy of David was recorded. As P. Mart. Com. in 2 Sam. 1. 18. observes. But some of acute and ponderous Judgment, rather are of opinion, that hereby is meant, some Book of publike Acts or Annals, which (with divers others of like nature (mentioned in Scripture) is lost, Ius. Ainsw. in Iosh. 10. 13. D. Pareus in Adverſ. in 2 Sam. 1. 18. The subject, nor the Author of this Book is not known, being lost, as many other such Books were, saith Diodate Annot. on Iosh. 10. 13.

II.

In the Substance of this Lamentation, Consider 1. The Proposition. 2. The Exaggeration of it: 3. The Conclusion.

I. The Proposition, of the sad matter of his Lamentation, viz. The death of Saul and Jonathan, (described, as 1 Israels beauty, and 2 The mighty ones;) in Israels high places on M. Gilboa, ver. 19.

II. The Exaggeration or passionate Aggravation of their fall and destruction.

1. By a Deprecation against the publishing it in the Philistines Cities, Gath and Askelon, with the reason of this Deprecation, lest the daughters of the uncircumcised Philistines triumph, and that would be the Lords dishonour, ver. 20.

2. By an Imprecation or Curse upon M. Gilboa, where note 1. The evil imprecated, perpetual Barrenneſs. 2. The ground of this imprecation, becauſe that was the place where King Saul fell as a common man, *ver.*21.

3. By emphatical Commendations of Saul and Jonathan, 1 Jointly, and 2 Severally.

I. Jointly they are commended.

1. From their victorious ſucceſſfulneſs in military exploits againſt their enemies, *ver.*22.

2. From their amiable Concord, 1. In living together. 2. In dying together, *ver.*23.

3. From their ſpeedy diſpatch in warlike undertakings, which is uſually crowned with ſucceſs; they were ſwifter then Eagles, ver. 23.

4. From their undaunted might and valour; ſtronger then Lions, ver.23.

II. Severally they are praiſed, viz.

1. Saul is 1. Praiſed for his triumphant bounty to the daughters of Iſrael, ſending to them Preſents of the ſpoiles he took, Scarlet, Ornaments of gold, other delights, whereupon they are incited to weep over Saul. Apoſtrophe. ver.24. 2. Lamented in an elegant Exclamation at their fatal fall. How are the mighty fallen in midſt of battel. A tranſition from praiſe of Saul to Jonathan's, *ver.*25.

2. Jonathan is 1. Lamented, where 1. Jonathans death is deſcribed, *ver.*25. 2. Davids deep diſtreſs for it is profeſſed, ver. 26. II. Commended, to aggravate his loſſe. Jonathan is commended 1. From his near relation to David his brother. 2. From his Pleaſantneſſe to David. 3. From his moſt intenſive love to David, his love paſſing the love of women, ver.26.

III. The Concluſion, in a paſſionate Exclamation, Expoſtulation or Admiration, at the fall of theſe mighty ones, and in them Iſraels Military defence deſtroyed, ver 27.

(This may be ſung as Pſal. 52.)

King DAVIDS Victorial Song, and triumph over all his Enemies.

Contained in 2 Sam. 22.

Metrically Translated out of the Hebrew, and Analytically Explained.

§. I.

THis is King David's most excellent u victorial Song, or sweet Swan-like song x in his old age, not long before his death; after that God had delivered him from all his enemies, especially from Saul the most constant and cruel enemy of them all, hunting David as a Partridge upon the mountains, from whom David made at least IX. or X. remarkable Flights and escapes.

This song then is an Abstract or Abridgment of David's Triumphs over all his Enemies before his death; and may therefore well be stiled, King Davids Victorial Song, or Triumph over all his Enemies. This Song is the same for substance with Psal. 18. only some few words in the original Hebrew being omitted, added or altered, (as the exact Reader may observe by comparing them together) which are followed in this Translation.

x Compare 2 Sam. 22. 1. with 2 Sam. 23. 1.

§. II.

Penman of this Song was y David, (without all contradiction) who also sung this Song to the LORD in the day of his Deliverance. But probably the Penman or Penmen of this History digested it thus into this History.

y Compare 2 Sam. 22. 1. with Psal. 18. Title.

§. III.

Scope of this Song, full of most weighty and considerable Mysteries, is

1. To praise God with triumphant thankfulnesse for Davids deliverance from all his his enemies (now brought under his feet) but especially from Saul his most deadly, malicious, implacable adversary: As also for establishing his Dominions in peace, and enlarging his Kingdome even to the Gentiles.

2. To instruct (by Davids imitable example) all Princes and persons, that in just warres prove victorious over their enemies, how to make a right improvement of their victories, viz. Not to give themselves to sensual pleasures, Luxury, Vain-glory, Self-attributions, Pride, Prophanenesse, Insolency, Tyranny, &c. (for so Conquerours themselves are conquered and subdued by their own lusts.) But in thankful, humble and holy Praises of the LORD of Hosts alone, setting up and magnifying his Power, Wisedome, Goodnesse, Providence, Protections, Deliverances, &c. seeing God alone doth all.

3. To triumph in God for the victorious Kingdome of Jesus Christ, the true David, and great King both of Jewes and Gentiles, (of which David and his Kingdome was but a Type) who shall at last obtain [z] the utmost ends of the earth for his possession, shall subdue and tread all his enemies [a] under his feet, and settle his own Kingdome in everlasting peace. For, this Song, as it is partly Enthusiastical in reference to David, so it is partly Prophetical in reference to Christ. And so Paul the Apostle interprets it, in his Allegation of it, saying, [b] Now I say that Jesus Christ was a Minister of the Circumcision for the truth of God, to confirm the Promises unto the Fathers: And that the Gentiles might glorifie God for his mercy, as it is written, For this cause I will confesse to thee among the Gentiles, and sing unto thy Name. Whereupon Peter Martyr saith, [c] This Song containeth the excellent Properties of God; Teacheth to place confidence in God; sings of deliverance, Gods admirable judgments, victories, an amplified Kingdome, and in all these celebrates Christ himself, &c. Augustine also long before him judged this Song to be in part Prophetical, saying, [d] Here speaks Christ and his Church, that is, the whole of Christ, head and body. —— And again, whatsoever things are spoken in this Psalm that cannot properly agree to the LORD, viz. the Head of the Church; are to be referred to the Church. For, whole Christ speaks here, in whom are all his Members.

§. IV. principal parts.

In this admirable Song, Consider 1. The Preface. 2. The Substance of the Song. 3. The Conclusion.

I. The Preface to it, contains 1. The kind of it, A Song, usually sung with voice. 2. The Penman and singer of it, David. 3. The object to whom, to the LORD. 4. The time when, in the day, &c. 5. The occasion whereupon, Deliverance, &c. ver. 1, 2.

II. The Substance of the Song it self, wherein note

I. Davids Profession,

1. Of his experimental confidence in Gods All-sufficient Protection against all dangers and enemies, which Divine Protection is described so fully by an heap of metaphorical expressions, as whereon faith may securely rest, ver. 2, 3.

2. Of his devotion towards God, how he would call upon him, that he might be saved from his enemies, ver. 4.

II. Davids thankful Praises to God, for deliverances and glorious victories over his enemies, ver. 5. to 47. Herein David

1. Emphatically delineates his desperate straits and miseries wherein he was involved, ver. 5, 6.

2. He declares how in these distresses he improved Prayer, ver. 7.

3. Describes the Lords gracious deliverances of him out of all these distresses, viz. 1. By hearing his Prayer, ver. 7. 2. By many majestical and glorious Symboles or Tokens of the LORDS Presence Preſence with him, moſt comfortable to David, but moſt terrible to Davids enemies, ver. 8. to 17. 3. By the wonderfulneſſe of his deliverance, being (as another e Moſes) drawn out of many waters, and reſcued from enemies too ſtrong for him. And God did thus deliver him, 1 Principally, becauſe he delighted in him, ver. 17. to 21. 2. Secondarily, that he might hereby reward him graciouſly according to his innocency and integrity before him, ver. 21. to 29.

4. Triumphs moſt joyfully and thankfully for thoſe deliverances in many ſtately and moſt elegant expreſſions, like a mighty Conqueror victoriouſly trampling upon the necks of all his enemies, ver. 29. to 44.

5. Acknowledgeth not only his deliverance from his enemies, But the enlargement of his Kingdome even to the Gentiles, who hearing of his glory and greatneſſe, did quake and ſubmit themſelves to him, ver. 44. to 47.

The Concluſion of the Song moſt ſweetly

1. With cordial expreſſions of preſent gratitude for theſe divine deliverances, ver. 47, 48, 49.

2. With Prophetical Promiſes of future gratitude for future bleſſings, the full accompliſhment whereof ſhould be in Chriſt that was to be of Davids ſeed, ver. 50. 51.

I. Kings.

§. 1. Order of the Books.

THE UNITED State of the Kingdome of Israel, as it Began under King Saul, and Increased under King David, hath been described in the Two Books of SAMUEL. (Which came to its height and full flourishing under King Solomon, as in the beginning of I. Kings is evidenced.)

The DIVIDED state of the Kingdome, and how upon that division it Decreased and came to Ruine, till at last the Ten Tribes were carried captive into Assyria by Salmanasar, and Judah carried captive into Babylon by Nebuchadnezzar, is laid down in the Two Books of KINGS.

This

This Diviſion and decay of the Kingdome is laid down two waies. 1. According to the Cauſes and Beginnings thereof. 2. According to the Progreſſe thereof.

1. According to the Cauſes and firſt Beginnings of this Diviſion, and decay thereupon enſuing. Theſe are ſet forth in the I. of KINGS.

§. II. Name.

This Book is ſtiled by the Heb. מלכים א I. Melacim. that is, I. KINGS. By the Greek The III. of Kingdoms. But better according to the Latine, The III. of Kings. The Hiſtory of the Kings both of Judah and Iſrael, being the Subject-matter of the Book.

§. III. Subject-Matter.

In this Book, the Cauſes and firſt Beginnings of the Kingdoms Diviſion and Decay are laid down 1 Partly by way of Oppoſition of the flouriſhing ſtate of Davids Kingdom united under Solomon c. 1. to c. 11. 2 Partly by way of Expoſition of the Occaſions, (viz. Solomons ſinnes, Gods Juſtice, Solomons Death c. 11.) and of the firſt Beginnings of the Diviſion and decay of the Kingdom under Rehoboam, to whom only two Tribes were left ſubject, Judah and Benjamin, 1 Kings 12. 16, &c. And under Ieroboam, to whom the other ten Tribes revolted: and afterwards under their Succeſſors ſeverally.

Now in this Book are recorded the Acts of K. Solomon, (in whoſe dayes the Kingdom was advanced to its moſt flouriſhing glory) and after him (the Kingdom being divided) the Acts of IV. Kings of Judah, and VIII. Kings of Iſrael; according to this following Scheme.

SOLOMON King of JUDAH and all ISRAEL.

Kings of Judah.	Kings of Iſrael.
1. REHOBOAM.	1. JEROBOAM.
	2. NADAB.
2. ABIJAM.	3. BAASHA.
	4. ELAH.
3. ASA.	5. ZIMRI.
	6. OMRI.
4. JEHOSHAPHAT.	7. AHAB.
	8. AHAZIAH.

§. IV. Time, or Chronology.

This Book contains an Hiſtory of 126 years continuance; if we compute the years of the ſeveral Kings Reigns at large, and compleatly, as they are expreſſed in this Book, without Subſtraction And this is evidently demonſtrated in the enſuing Catalogue; wherein it is remarkable, how the years of the 4 Kings of Judah, and of the 8 Kings of Iſrael, run in a contemporary Parallel in this Book, and, with Solomons, do exactly agree in this Total ſumme of 126 years; as followeth.

SOLOMON King of JUDAH and of all ISRAEL.
1 KING. 11. 42. ——40 years

[a] Franciſc. Junius, in Proem. ante 1 Reg. D. Pareus in Adverſ. Proem. in 1 Reg. Vigintiquinque] Comprehenſis filii Jehorami gubernatione, & quatuor primis annis regni illius. [a] But ſome learned men compute theſe years of the ſeveral Kings reigns more concisely and incompleatly, viz. Allowing to Jehoſhaphat King of Judah only 17 years, during which he reigned ſolely; reckoning the 8 years remaining to his ſon Jehoram, who reigned with him joyntly. And according to this computation, the time of Solomon and all the Kings of Judah recorded in this Hiſtory is 118 years. So likewiſe if you knit together the years of the Predeceſſors and Succeſſors of the Kings of Iſrael, accounting the laſt year of the Predeceſſor to be the firſt year of the Succeſſor; as, the 40. yeare of Solomon to be the 1. year of Jeroboam; the 22. year of Jeroboam, to be the 1. year of Nadab, &c. the total alſo will be 118 years exact. And ſo conſequently according to this Account, this is an Hiſtory of 118 years only, viz. 8 years ſhort of the former Computation.

[b] 1 King. 22.42

[c] 1 King. 22.51

[d] 2 Kings 1.17

Doubt. But here ariſeth ſome doubt about the time of King Jehoſhaphat's Reigne, becauſe of ſome ſeeming difference of divers Scriptures thereabouts. For, it is ſaid in one place, [b] that Jehoſhaphat reigned twenty and five years in Jeruſalem. But other places intimate, that he reigned not ſo long; for it is ſaid, that [c] Ahaziah ſon of Ahab began to reign over Iſrael, the 17 year of Jehoſhaphat King of Judah, and reigned two years. That [d] Jehoram Ahaziah's brother ſon of Ahab, reigned in his ſtead in the ſecond year of Jehoram ſon of Jehoſhaphat King of Judah: and that this [e] Jehoram King of Iſrael began to reign the 18. year of the reign of Jehoſhaphat King of Judah. By all which it appears, that Jehoram ſon of Jehoſhaphat his ſecond year of his reigne runs parallel with the 18. year of Jehoſhaphat; and conſequently Jehoram's firſt year, with Jehoſhaphat's 17. year, (ſo that both Ahaziah began to reign over Iſrael, and Jehoram ſon of Jehoſhaphat began to reign over Judah, in the ſame 17. year of Jehoſhaphat) and this cuts off 8 years from Jehoſhaphat's 25 years forementioned. This is one knot.

[f] 2 King. 8.16, 17.

[g] 2 King 3.1.

Further it is ſaid elſewhere, that [f] in the 5. year of Jehoram ſon of Ahab King of Iſrael, Jehoram ſon of Jehoſhaphat King of Judah began to reign, and he reigned eight years in Jeruſalem. Now Jehoram King of Iſrael's 5. year runs parallel with Jehoſhaphat King of Judah's 22. year; [g] for he began in Jehoſhaphat's 18. year to reign. So that by this account Jehoram ſonne of Jehoſhaphat began to reign over Judah in Jehoſhaphat's 22. yeer. This both cuts off 3 years from Jehoſhaphat's 25. and alſo ſeemeth repugnant to the former computation, evidencing that Jehoram began to reigne in the 17. year of Jehoſhaphat. This is another knot.

[h] 2 Chron. 21.3.

Adde hereunto, another Scripture ſaith, [h] That after Jehoſhaphats death, Jehoram his ſon reigned in his ſtead. And this could not be till the 25. year of Jehoſhaphats reign, 1 King. 22.42. And this ſeems to croſſe both the former times of Jehoram's beginning to reign. This is a third knot.

Anſw.

Anſw. For reſolution herein, that Obſervation of the learned and accurate H. Broughton is to be conſidered, and eaſily unties all theſe knots at once; viz. [i JORAM thrice Vice-Roy, and Roy, in 17. and 22. and 25. of Jehoſhaphat: never proſpered.] 1. In the 17. year of Jehoſhaphat, Jehoram his ſon began to reign as Pro-Rex, or Vice-Roy to his father. This was his firſt time, according to thoſe places 1 King. 22. 51. 2 King. 1. 17. and 2 King. 3. 1. 2. In the 22. year of Jehoſhaphat, Jehoram his ſon began again to reign as Vice-Roy; which 22. year was contemporary to the 5. year of Jehoram King of Iſrael, according to thoſe Texts in 2 Kings 3. 1. and 2 Kings 8. 16, 17. In this later Text it is ſaid, And in the fifth year of Jehoram the ſon of Ahab King of Iſrael, Jehoſhaphat then King of Judah, Jehoram the ſon of Jehoſhaphat King of Judah began to reign. Which gives us plainly to underſtand, that then Jehoram began to reign as Vice-Roy, his father ſtill being King, and ſo reigned with his father 4 years before his death. Which 4 years are to be reckoned part of his 8 years reign: and this the rather, becauſe when Jehoſhaphat's death is mentioned, it is not ſaid, And Jehoram his ſon began to reign; but, Jehoram his ſon reigned in his ſtead, 2 Chron. 21. 1, 3. For he had begun to reign 4 years afore with his father; Now he reigned alone. This was his ſecond time of reigning. 3. Jehoſhaphat dying in the 25. year after he came to the Crown, Jehoram his ſon is ſaid to reign in his ſtead, 2 Chron. 21. 1, 3. viz. then Jehoram came to his compleat reign, alone; and ſo he reigned 4 years. This was his third time.

So that Jehoſhaphat reigned alone only 17 years; but joyntly with his ſon Jehoram 8 years more, viz. 25 years in all. And thus by diligent comparing of Scripture with Scripture, the accurate concord and concent of it may be found out, even where moſt diſcord ſeems to be.

This ſeems to be the cleareſt way of reconciling theſe Scriptures about Jehoſhaphat's reign; and the trueſt Computation according to the plain intent of the Text it ſelf. And yet [k] ſome learned men ſomwhat puzzle themſelves in this Computation, divers of them neither agreeing with the Text, nor with one another, as in the Margin is evident.

[i] JORAM ter Prorex & Rex, 17. 22. & 25. Joſaphati, ſemper infeliciſſimus. H. Brought. Concent. S. Script. p. 86. Hanov. 1601.

[k] Twenty and five.] By 2 King. 3. 1. it appeareth that in the eighteenth year of Jehoſhaphat, Joram King of Iſrael began to reign. And by 2 King. 1. 17. that the eighteenth year of Jehoſhaphat was the ſecond year of his ſon Joram. And by 2 King. 8. 16. that this Joram ſon of Jehoſhaphat did not begin to reign but in the fifth year of the other Joram King of Iſrael. Whence we muſt conclude, that in theſe five and twenty years of the reign of Jehoſhaphat, is comprehended all the time from his ſucceſſion to the Kingdome, even to his death: whereof he reigned ſixteen [it ſhould be ſeventeen] years alone; then he joyned his ſon Joram with him for 7 years ſpace: and at laſt put the whole Government into his hands, disburthening himſelf of it two years before his death. Jo. Diodat. Annot. on 1 King. 22. 42. But this Author conſiders not how Jehoram was twice Vice-Roy, or Deputy-King, the firſt time in the 17. year, the ſecond time in the 22. year of his fathers reign till his death, &c. as hath been evidenced.

Prima difficultas eſt in annis Joſaphati & Jorami filii, quia 1 Reg. 22. 42. dicitur Joſaphat regnaſſe 25 annos, & Joram filius Joſaphati dicitur cæpiſſe regnare quinto anno Jorami filii Achabi: qui incidit in annum 23 Joſaphati. Ergo Joram annos duos regnavit cum Patre, 2 Reg. 8. 16. Cùm vero ibidem dicitur Joram regnaſſe annos 8. intelligitur regnaſſe duos cum Patre, ſex reliquos ſolus. Sic Gualterius, Mercator. Alii, ut Funccius, Bucholzerus, quadriennium volunt regnaſſe Joramum cum Patre; Hi duos annos amittunt. Candidus patri 25, filio 8 integros tribuit & ſic duobus abundat. D. Pareus in Prom. in 1. Reg.

§. V. Penman.

Penman of this Book, and alſo of II. KINGS, is conceived not to be any one man, but divers. Though the Hebrews would have them to be written by Jeremiah. Others think that the Churches hiſtory, which was written by divers, was digeſted and collected into volumes, either by [l] Ezra, or by the [m] chief Prieſts and Prophets, as the Churches publike Actuaries, whom we may probably conceive to have penned, and to have had a chief hand in ordering the Books written in their reſpective dayes.

Notwithſtanding it ſeems evident, that the beginning of I. Kings touching Solomons reign, was written by Nathan, Ahijah and Iddo; for it is ſaid, [n] Now the reſt of the Acts of Solomon firſt and laſt, are they not written in the words of Nathan the Prophet, phet, and in the Propheſie of Ahijah the Shilonite, and in the viſions of Iddo the Seer? Which acute [o] Junius underſtands of the beginning of I. Kings, written by theſe three herein named. And other parts were written by Iehu ſon of Hanani. [p] Now the reſt of the Acts of Jehoſhaphat firſt and laſt, behold they are written in the words of Jehu the ſonne of Hanani, who is mentioned in the Book of the Kings of Iſrael. As alſo by Iſaiah the Prophet. [q] Now the reſt of the Acts of Uzziah firſt and laſt, did Iſaiah the Prophet the ſonne of Amos write; thinks Junius, both in the Second Book of Kings, and alſo in the Book of his Prophecy. It is very probable that the Acts of the ſeveral Kings were recorded and written by theſe Prophets that were contemporary to them.

§. VI. Scope.

Scope of this Book, wherein the Hiſtory of Iſraels State under Kingly Government is contained from David till the Reign of Jehoram, ſonne of Jehoſhaphat King of Judah, is either [1] More Immediate, or [2] More mediate.

1. More Immediate, to ſhew how David in his old age, according to Gods Appointment, commanded Solomon his ſonne, (notwithſtanding his elder brother Adonijahs exalting himſelf to be King,) to be ſet upon his Throne. And how Solomon after Davids death governed his Kingdom in Wiſdom, Juſtice and Godlineſſe. How God appearing to him in a dream, at his requeſt promiſed him incomparable Wiſdom, Riches and Honour, &c. and performed it accordingly, ſo that he was highly honoured and beloved of his ſubjects, and admired of all Princes far and near. How his Kingdome flouriſhing with wonderful Peace and Proſperity, He built the moſt magnificent Temple of the Lord at Jeruſalem, the fixed place of Gods worſhip; ſo that as Davids Kingdom lively repreſented the State of the Church as Militant on earth; Solomons Kingdom notably adumbrated the condition of it as triumphant in Heaven. How Solomon in his old age, loving many ſtrange women, had his heart ſtollen away, and divided from God to the countenancing of Idolatry. Whereupon the diviſion of his Kingdom from his ſeed is threatned; and (upon occaſion of his ſon Rehoboams tyrannical words to the People) inflicted, ten tribes (called Iſrael) falling off to Jeroboam, two tribes only, viz. Judah and Benjamin, (called Judah) remaining to Solomons Houſe for Davids ſake. How through Jeroboams Poliſie in ſetting up two Calves for the ten tribes to worſhip, a woful Rent was alſo made in the matters of Religion; what wicked Kings all the Kings of Iſrael were, both in private life, and publick Government. How notwithſtanding in Judah there were intermingled good Kings, who took care to Reforme Religion being corrupted, and to Protect it being reformed, God ſtill continuing his Church in Judah, and raiſing up Prophets from time to time, to correct, direct, encourage them as they had need, to gather his Elect out of Iſrael, and leave the ungodly without excuſe when Gods Judgments came upon them.

2. More Mediate, to declare how the Piety of Kings, preſerves their Kingdoms in unity and flouriſhing proſperity: But the ſins and wickedneſſe of Kings, eſpecially their idolatry, whereby they divide themſelves from God, brings diviſions into their Kingdoms, and conſequently ruine upon themſelves, their families and Dominions.

§. VII. Principal Parts.

The chief Parts and Method of this Hiſtory, might be poſited thus according to the Periods of the ſeveral King's Reignes, (the Subject-matter of the Book;) But rather thus. This Book deſcribes. 1. The Increaſe of the Kingdom of Iſrael to the utmoſt top of its temporal glory under King Solomon, whilſt United. 2. The Decreaſe thereof after Solomon, when Divided.

The

The Increase and Glory of the Kingdom to its height of worldly Glory, is set forth under the Reign of King Solomon, whose 1. Life. 2. Death are so that end recorded.

I. King Solomons Life, is described, 1. By his Royal Inauguration, 2. By his Regal Administration or Government. I.

I. Inauguration or enthronement of Solomon by K. Davids appointment, wherein consider

1. The Time when this was done, in Davids extream old age, (unfitting him for Government,) when Abishag a young Virgin cherished him, *Ch.*I.*ver.*1.to 5. CHAP. I.

2. Occasion inviting David before his death, to set up Solomon King, viz. His son Adonijah's aspiring to the Crown: where note 1. The manner how he aspired, *ver.*5. to 11. 2. The Relation thereof to David; Partly by Bath-shebah, according to the Prophet Nathan's advice, ver. 11. to 22. Partly by Nathan himself, *ver.*22. to 28. 3. The effects hereof, viz. 1. Davids Oath to Bath-shebah, that Solomon should be King, *ver.*28. to 31. 2. Davids Command to anoint Solomon, &c. ver. 32. to 38.

3. Anointing of r Solomon King by Zadok the Priest, at Davids Command, where 1. The manner how it was acted, *ver.*38. to 41. 2. The Narration hereof to Adonijah and his Guests. *ver.*41. to 49. 3. The effect hereof, both upon Adonijah's Guests, who scattered, ver. 49. And upon Adonijah himself, who fled to the hornes of the Altar, (yet was spared by Solomon) ver. 50. to the end of the chapt. r King SOLOMON. CHAP. II.

4. Davids Charge and Commands to Solomon thus enthroned, a little before his death, with the mention of his death, burial, and time of his Reign, *Ch.*II.1.to 12.

5. Solomons great Establishment upon his Throne, after Davids death, *ver.*12.

II. Administration or Government of Solomon. Wherein are remarkably observable

1. Solomons JUSTICE upon offenders, and enemies to himself, or his fathers Government, viz. upon

1. Adonijah suing for Abishag his father Davids Concubine; who is therefore put to death, ver 13. to 26. CHAP. III.

2. Abiathar the Priest (who joyned with Adonijah in his Conspiracy) who is deposed from the Priesthood, and sent to Anathoth his own fields, *ver.*26, 27. CHAP. IV.

3. Joab, who for his following Adonijah, and his former murdering of Abner and Amasa, is slain at the hornes of the Altar, *ver.*28. to 30. Amplified by mention of Benaiah's advancement over the Host in Joabs room, and Zadok's in Abiathar's, ver. 35. CHAP. V.

4. Shimei, who is 1. Confined to Jerusalem upon pain of death, *ver.*36. to 39. 2. Upon his departure out of Ierusalem to Gath to seek his servants, is slain for his cursing and reviling King David, *ver.*39. to the end of the chapt. CHAP. VI.

3. Solomons PIETY discovered, 1. In his love to the LORD. 2. In his walking in the statutes of David his father. 3. In his Sacrifices to the LORD, (though in the high places, the LORDS house not being yet built,) *ver.*2, 3, 4. 4. In his Petition to the LORD for Wisdom to govern Israel, (the LORD in Gibeon, in a dream appearing to him, and putting him to his choice what to ask) whereupon incomparable wisdom, with other Additionals, are promised to him, ver. 5. to 16.

4. Solomons WISDOME, I. Eminently discovered, 1. In deciding the Controversie of the two Women about the childe, *ver.*16. to the end of the chapt. 2. In his choice of his publike and private officers, and ordering of the affairs both of his Kingdom and Houshold, *Ch.*IV. 1. to 29. II. Singularly commended 1. By the Author of it, God, *ver.*29. 2. By the plenty of it, *ver.*29. 3. By the excellency of it; his Wisdom surpassed all others, *ver.*30, 31. 4. By the fame of it, ver. 31. 5. By the effects of it, viz. Proverbs 3000. Songs, 1005. Discourses of things Natural, ver. 32, 33. 6. By the resort of people from all Nations to hear his Wisdom, *ver.*34.

5. Solomons MAGNIFICENCE, viz.

1. In building the t TEMPLE of the LORD, where are described, 1. His preparation of materials, wood and stone, by Hirams assistance King of Tyre, Ch. V. 1. to 13. 2. His levy of thirty thousand Workmen, to fit wood and stone for the building, *ver.*13. to the end of the chapt. 3. By the manner how the Ark was brought out of the City of David into the Temple, and how thereupon the glory of the LORD filled the House, ver. 1. to 12. 2. By Solomons blessing the LORD for fulfilling his promises about building of the Temple, ver. 12. to 22. 3. By Solomons admirable prayer, ver. 22. to 54. 4. By Solomons Benediction of the people, ver. 54. to 62. 5. By his and all the peoples abundance of Sacrifices to the LORD, ver. 62, 63, 64. 6. By Solomons Feast, and all Israel with him seven dayes, Solomon sending the people away with glad hearts on the eighth day, for all that the LORD had done for Israel, ver. 65, 66. 7. By the LORD's appearing after this to Solomon the second time, (as afore in Gibeon,) assuring him that he had heard his Prayer; with Promises to obedience, threatnings to disobedience, Ch. IX. 1. 1810.

8. In gratifying of Hiram King of Tyre, for all his kinde assistance of Solomon, with twenty Cities in the land of Galilee, which he gave Hiram, ver. 10. to 15.

CHAP. VIII.

9. In repairing of the wall of Jerusalem, and building many other Cities in his Dominions, laying a tribute of bond-service upon the Canaanites in the land, but not upon Israel, ver. 15. to 26.

CHAP. IX.

10. In his building a Navy of ships at Ezion-Gebir, which fetched Gold from Ophir, ver. 26, 27, 28.

6. Solomons condition, both Prosperous and Adverse.

1. Prosperous, His prosperity is described, I. By his HONOUR and FAME, whereupon the Queen of Sheba comes to prove him with hard Questions, &c Ch. X. 1. to 14. II. By his RICHES, discovered 1. By the plenty of gold that came to him yearly, ver. 14, 15. 2. By his two hundred targets, and three hundred shields of beaten gold, ver. 16, 17. 3. By his ivory Throne overlaid with the best gold, ver. 18. to 21. 4. By all his vessels of gold, (silver being nothing accounted of in his dayes,) ver. 21. to 24. 5. By the rich Present brought him farre and neer, ver. 24, 25. 6. By his chariots and horsemen, ver. 26. 7. By the plenty of silver, ver. 27. 8. By his tribute, ver. 28, 29.

CHAP. X.

2. Adverse. His adversity is described as it was I. Procured, and brought upon himself by his fearful y Idolatries, whereunto he was drawn by loving many strange women, Ch. XI. 1. to 9. II. Threatned, with rending of his Kingdom from him, reserving only one tribe for David and Jerusalems sake, ver. 9. to 14. III. Inflicted, by the LORDS stirring up divers adversaries against Solomon, viz. 1. Hadad the Edomite, ver. 14. to 23. 2. Rezon, the son of Eliadah, ver. 23. to 26. 3. Jeroboam the son of Nebat, Solomons servant, ver. 26. to 41.

7. The rest of Solomons acts, ver. 41.

y Doubt. But seeing Solomon in his old age, so wofully forsook God and fell to such horrible idolatry; and we read not of his repentance; What may we think of his eternal salvation? whether was Solomon saved or not?

Answ. This doubt hath the more difficulty in it, because Scripture doth not afford us so evident a Resolution herein, one way or other. And therefore learned men both ancient and modern have been of several opinions herein, and seem much unresolved about this matter. Briefly consider the Arguments on both sides, and then see what is fittest to be determined.

I. Arguments against Solomons Eternal salvation, viz.

1. God was angry with Solomon, because his heart was turned from God, 1 King. 11. 9. Answ. This evinceth not his damnation; for 1. God is sometimes angry and displeased with his Elect for their sins, as with Moses, Deut. 1. 37. and 4. 21. with Aaron, Deut. 9. 20. with David, 2 Sam. 11. 27. 2. The Lord was angry with Solomon as a Father, not as an Enemy or Judge; For his Chastisements and Reformation, not properly for his punishment and condemnation.

2. David the Prophet forewarned Solomon his sonne thus; Thou Solomon my sonne, know thou the God of thy Father, and serve him with a perfect heart and with a willing minde,—— If thou seek him, he will be found of thee; but if thou forsake him, he will cast thee off for ever, 1 Chron. 28. 9. Therefore Solomon forsaking God, seems to be cast off for ever.

Answ. 1. Gods threatnings of evil, though very peremptory, are not alwaies actually performed, but sometimes are for other ends, viz. to provoke sinners to repentance, as in Nineveh's case, Jonah 3. 4, 10. To caution his Saints against sin, &c. 2. Should Solomon have utterly and finally forsaken God, God would have cast him off for ever; but Solomon repented, (as after will appear.) 3. Solomon for forsaking God so farre as he did, was in some sense cast off for ever; viz. in respect of the Regal glory of his family, ten Tribes being quite rent from him, and never more returning to his house.

2. We read of Solomons fall, 1 Kings 11. 1. to 9. but we read not off his Repentance, nor of his demolishing of the idolatrous high places which he had built, for they were long after demolished by King Josiah, 2 Kings 23. 13. yet Manasseh's repentance, 2 Chron. 33. 12, &c. yea, Ahabs counterfeit repentance, 1 Kings 21. 27, 28, 29. are recorded.

Anſw. 1. Divers grounds from Scripture may evince that Solomon did repent, as in the ſubſequent Reaſons. 2. To argue thus, Solomons Repentance is not recorded, therefore he repented not; is not cogent. We read not that Adam and Eve repented of their firſt fall: ſhall we ſay they repented not; or were not ſaved; Chriſt deſcending of Adam according to the fleſh, Luke 3.38. We read not that Gideon repented of his idolatrous Ephod, Judg. 18. 27. did not Gideon therefore repent? Is not Gideon numbred among the faithful? Heb. 11.32. We read not that the godly Fathers under the Old Teſtament repented of their Polygamy, did they not therefore repent of it before they dyed? Doubtleſſe in the Particular, or in the General, all the Elect repent of all their ſinnes before their death Habitually, or Actually. 3. Solomons not demoliſhing the idolatrous high-places which he had ſet up, was his great Sin, yet proves not a nullity of his repentance and grace: no more then in his Succeſſors, Aſa, Jehoſhaphat, Hezekiah &c. (whom we count truly pious Kings) who permitted them throughout their reign to ſtand undeſtroyed, till Joſiahs reign, 2 Kings 23.13. 4. As the Repentance of Adam, and of the poſterity of Methuſelah, Henoch, Lamech, and other holy Patriarchs before the flood, is not mentioned, (all which it would be hard to conclude under final impenitency): So Solomons repentance is not expreſſed. Why? That God might teach all men (ſaith Maſter Perkins) to the worlds end, what a fearful thing it is to diſobey his commandements as Adam [and Solomon] did; or to deſerve repentance when they are called by Gods Word, as thoſe men did. Therefore to fear us from the like (though afterwards they repented,) it pleaſed God not to record it, but to leave it doubtful. Perkins Comment. on Heb. 11.7. p. 52. a. Lond. 1631.

4. Some teſtimonies of Ancient Fathers ſeem to be againſt Solomons ſalvation. Auguſtine, Nam ipſe Solomon mulierum amator fuit, & repobatus eſt a Deo, &c. i. e. Solomon himſelf was a lover of women, and reprobated of God, &c. Aug. Qui tamen quamdiu in viis Domini ambulavit, tamdiu gratiam quam de Domino fuerat conſecutus, obtinuit: poſtquam dereliquit Domini viam, perdidit & gratiam Domini; ſicut ſcriptum eſt, Et exſtinavit Dominus Satanam ipſi Solomoni. i. e. Whoever that confeſſor be, he is not greater or better, or dearer to God then Solomon, who ſo long as he walked in the wayes of the Lord, ſo long he kept the grace obtained of the Lord: but after he forſooke the way of the Lord, he loſt alſo the favour of the Lord; as it is written, And the Lord ſtirred up an adverſary againſt Solomon. Cyprian de Unitat. Eccleſ §. 18. p. 302 a. Edit. Goulart. 1593. And before them both, Tertullian. Solomon (audeo dicere) etiam quam habuit in Deo gloriam, amiſit; per mulierem in idololarriam uſque pertractus. i. e. Solomon (I dare ſay) loſt even that glory which he had in God, being drawn by a woman even to idolatry. Tertull. Adverſ. Marcion. lib. 5. cap. IX. ſub fin. p. 465. Franeker. 1597. Anſw But to theſe and like Teſtimonies it is eaſily anſwered. 1. They are both Humane, and from perſons of a fallible ſpirit. 2. All their teſtimonies may admit of a favourable interpretation, ſo as not to intend Solomon's eternal damnation. Auguſtine's that Solomon was reprobated [viz. diſallowed] of God, in reſpect of his ſinnes. True; for God ſo far diſallowed him, as to threaten and puniſh him for them. Cyprian's, That he loſt the grace, or favour of the Lord; viz. either in reſpect of temporal proſperity and peace, God raiſing him up adverſaries: or only in ſome gradual manifeſtations of his favour, as in appearing to him, &c. Tertullian's, That he loſt the glory he had in God, may intimate that all the temporal glory given him of God, was eclipſed and obſcured.

Theſe are the principal Arguments againſt Solomons eternal Salvation, and thus they may be anſwered.

II. Arguments for Solomons eternal Salvation, viz.

1. The LORD's ſingular love to Solomon. His love was to him from his Birth. Bathſheba bare David a ſonne, and he called his name Solomon, and the LORD loved him. And he ſent by the hand of Nathan the Prophet, and he called his name Jedidiah [i. e. Beloved of the LORD] becauſe of the LORD. 2 Sam. 12.24.25. This ſpecial love God notably manifeſted to Solomon. 1. By the Relation wherein God ſet Solomon to himſelf, viz. as a ſonne to a father; He ſhall be my ſonne, and I will be his father, 2 Sam. 7.14. 1 Chron. 22.10. 2. By his ſingular appearing to him twice, viz. At Gibeon, ſaying, Aſk what I ſhall give thee, 1 Kings 3.5. &c. and after the Temple was built, 1 Kings 9.2. 3. By hearing Solomons Prayer, 1 Kings 9.3. 2 Chron. 7.12. now God hears not ſinners, but the righteous, John 9.31. (not to mention the Lords honouring Solomon with building his Temple; crowning him with a confluence of all proſperity, &c.) Now ſhall God thus love Solomon, and finally caſt him off?

2. God's ſpecial Promiſes touching Solomon, or to him. I will ſtabliſh the Throne of his Kingdome for ever. I will be his Father, and he ſhall be my ſonne: if he commit iniquity, I will chaſten him with the rod of men, and with the ſtripes of the children of men. But my mercy ſhall not depart away from him. 2 Sam. 7.13,14,15. 1 Chron. 22.10. Pſal. 89.30, 31,32,33, &c.

3. Solomon's ſingular piety and eminent religiouſneſſe, was ſuch, that though he fell, the Lord would not let him fall finally away. Conſider well 1. His Faith in God, ſtiling him, O LORD my God, 1 Kings 3.7. and 5.5. 2. His Love to God. And Solomon loved the LORD, 1 Kings 3.3. 3. His Obedience to God, Solomon loved the LORD, walking in the ſtatutes of David his father, 1 Kings 3.3. And the Lord commends and approves his wayes, ——three years they walked in the wayes of David and Solomon. 2 Chron. 11.17. Solomons wayes mentioned together, and praiſed together with Davids wayes. 4. His heavenly Devotions and zeale to God and his glory, diſcovered in his excellent Prayers to God, as in 1 Kings 3.6. to 10. and 8.22. to 54. and 8.55. to 62. 5. His experimental Communion with God and with Jeſus Chriſt, lively diſcovered in the Book of Canticles, Penned by him, Cant. 1.1. which is an heavenly adumbration of the ſpiritual endeared fellowſhip betwixt Chriſt and his Church.

4. Solomon repented after his fall. For, 1. His wayes are commended by God, after his death, 2 Chron. 11.17. This place teacheth that Solomon repented after his fall, ſaith H. Broughs Concent. Scrip. p. 82. Hanov. 1602. 2. He wrote his Book of Eccleſiaſtes, after his fall, as his Retractations; wherein he proves all Riches, Honours, Pleaſures, Wiſedome, &c. all things to be vanity, except the fear of God. He ſaith, I the Preacher was King over Iſrael in Jeruſalem, Eccleſ. 1.12. as if he had ſaid; before I ſinned I was King, but now I deſerve not that Title.

5. Solomon was an eminent Penman of the Holy Scripture, Prov. 1.1. Eccleſ. 1.1. Cant. 1.1. Such were holy men of God, 2 Pet. 1.21. Cum Solomon fuerit Sanctus Propheta, ſtatuendum eſt, cum eſſe beatum, i. e. Solomon being an holy Prophet, we muſt conclude he is happy. Brought Concent. p. 80.

S. Script. lib. 2. cap. 17. Tom. 3.

2. Goes to shew himself to Ahab at Gods command to assure him of raine. This his act is described 1. By his meeting of Obadiah Governour of Ahabs house, (as Ahab and he were severally traversing the country to seek water to save their cattel alive) Obadiah conducting him to Ahab, Ch. XVIII. 1. to 17. 2. By his reproof of Ahab, ver. 17, 18. 3. By his convincing the People before Ahab and all his false Prophets, that not Baal, but the LORD was God; obtaining fire from heaven to burn his sacrifice, which they could not do from Baal, ver. 19. to 40. 4. By his slaying all Baals Prophets, ver. 40. 5. By his promising raine to Ahab, and obtaining it by much Prayer, ver. 41. to the end of the chapt. 6. By his flight into the wildernesse, Jezebel threatning to kill him for killing Baals Prophets, Ch. XIX. 1. to 4. In which wildernesse 1 He requesteth to die, ver. 4. 2 He is twice fed with an Angel, ver. 5. to 8. 3 He walked in strength of that food forty dayes and forty nights to Mt. Horeb, where the LORD wonderfully appearing to him, commands him to annoint Hazael King of Syria, Jehu King of Israel, and Elisha Prophet in his room, who followed Elijah after he had cast his mantle over him, ver. 8. to the end of the chapt.

CHAP. XVIII.

CHAP. XIX.

5. His letting Benhadad King of Syria go in peace, (after God by directions of a Prophet had given Ahab two victories over Benhadad and the Syrians,) making a Covenant with him whom he should have destroyed, Ch. XX. ver. 1. to 33. This sin is severely threatned by a Prophet, 1 Parabolically, ver. 33. to 41. 2 Plainly, ver. 41, 42, 43.

CHAP. XX.

6. His murder of Naboth for his vineyard, described I. By the Antecedents of this murder, viz. Naboths refusal to sell or exchange his vineyard to Ahab, Ch XXI. 1. to 5. II. By the Manner how Jezebel, by suborning two false witnesses, &c. procured Naboth to be stoned to death ver. 5. to 15. III. By the Consequents hereupon, viz. 1 Ahabs taking possession of the vineyard, ver. 15, 16. 2 Elijahs sharp threatning against Ahab, Jezebel, and all his house for this horrid fact, ver. 17. to 25. 3 Ahabs humbling himself hereat outwardly, (though an extreme wicked man) ver. 25, 26, 27. 4. Gods respite of the Judgment threatned hereupon, ver. 28, 29.

CHAP. XXI.

3. His death at Ramoth-Gilead, in battel with the Syrians, seeking to take it out of the Syrians hands. This is at large described. 1. By Ahabs perswading Jehoshaphat King of Judah to go to battel with him, Ch. XXII. 1. to 5. 2. By Ahabs seducements by a lying spirit in the false Prophets mouthes, to this engagement notwithstanding Micaiahs prediction of Ahabs fall at Ramoth-Gilead, whom Ahab therefore causeth to be imprisoned, and fed with bread and water of affliction, ver. 5. to 30. 3. II. Kings.

§. I. Order, and Name.

THus the state of the Kingdom hath been described, According to the Rise and Beginning of the Division in it, in I. Kings. In the next place, the Kingdoms Condition is considered According to the Progresse and Growth of the Kingdoms Division, and the miserable calamities growing and increasing thereupon. This is related in II. KINGS. Called in Heb. ב מלכים, II. Melacim, i.e. II. KINGS. By the Greek, IV. of KINGDOMS. Better by the Latine, IV. KINGS; the History of the Kings being still continued in this Book. Some think, this, and the former Book were at first but one Book; and only divided, to avoid the greatness of the bulk, and multiplicity of Chapters. And [a] Pareus noteth, That the German Version begins this Book at 51. verse of the foregoing chapt. so as to take the whole story of Ahaziah. Which doubtless were most convenient, were it not that Concordances would be disordered thereby.

§. II. Penmen.

Touching the Penmen of this Book, (which is a Continuation of the History of the Kings of Israel and Judah, after the Kingdom was Divided, till Israel was destroyed by the Assyrian, Judah captived by the Babylonian.) See in Penmen of I. Kings.

§. III. Time, or Chronology.

This Book, according to the Kings Reigns expressed, together with the several Inter-regnum's implied, contains an History of the Kings of Israel from the dayes of Ahaziah son of Ahab King of Israel, till the Devastation of Israel by the Assyrians, for about 185 years and 7 moneths: And of the Kings of Judah, from the death of Jehoshaphat King of Judah, till Judah was carried captive by the Babylonians, for about 344 years and an half. As in this ensuing Table is evident by the Scriptures inserted.

§. IV.

§. IV. Doubts, and Difficulties about the Chronology.

But upon diligent ſearch into this II. KINGS, I find that here ariſe certain intricate Chronological Doubts and Difficulties, both touching the Kingdom of Judah, and of Iſrael, which had need to be cleared and removed; eſpecially theſe 7 enſuing, viz.

Doubt I. In the Kingdom of Judah ariſeth ſome difficulty about the time of Amaziah. For he reigned 29 years, 2 Kings 14. 2. And the 15. year of his Reign, agreed with the firſt year of the Reign of Jeroboam ſon of Joaſh, 2 Kings 14. 23. Conſequently the 29. or laſt year of Amaziah's Reign, muſt needs agree with the 15. year of Jeroboam. And yet it is ſaid, That Azariah (alias Uzziah) ſon of Amaziah King of Judah, began to reign in the 27. year of Jeroboam King of Iſrael, and that he was ſixteen years old when he began to reign, 2 Kings 15. 1, 2. So that by this Account, betwixt Amaziah's laſt year, and his ſon Uzziah's firſt year, here are full 11 years vacant, or overplus.

Anſw. There are three Reſolutions propounded by Writers for untying this knot. 1. Some think that here's a miſtake, that for the 27. year of Jeroboam, it ſhould be the 17. yeare; as Mercator. But this, ſaith [b] Pareus well, eſt ſecare Nodum, i. e. is to cut the knot, not to unty it. Beſides, this will gain but 10 years; and the vacancy objected is 11 years at leaſt, and that excluſively. 2. Some do reckon theſe 11 years in the 52 years of Uzziah, ſon and ſucceſſor of Amaziah; the Kingdom being governed by States or Princes of Judah, during the minority of Uzziah (who was but about four or five years old when his father died) till he came to be ſixteen years old, 2 Kings 15. 2. 2 Chron. 26. 1, 3. This [c] Pareus aſcribes to Funccius, and approves it as truer then the former. But this Reconciliation cannot hold; becauſe the firſt year of Amaziah's 52. did not begin till the 27. year of Jeroboam King of Iſrael, 2 King. 15. 1, 2. 3. Others therefore beſt of all remove this doubt, by counting theſe 11 years betwixt the laſt of Amaziah, and firſt of Uzziah his ſonne, to be an Inter-regnum; there being at that time no King in Judah, the Kingdom was governed by their Princes, Elders, or chief States, for ſo long till Uzziah came to be capable of Government. Thus [d] Broughton, [e] Diodate, [f] Wolphius, and others.

[e] Seeing that Amaziah reigned 29 years, 2 Kings 14. 2. and that Jeroboam ſon of Joaſh began to reign the 15. year of Amaziah, 2 Kings 14. 23. it followeth that this 27. year is but the 11. year after the death of Amaziah. So we muſt conclude that there was an Inter-regnum or vacancie of the Royal ſeat in Judah, for the ſpace of 11 years, or thereabouts; occaſioned peradventure by Azariah's tender age, or by the powerfulneſſe of his fathers murtherers, who kept the Government in their hands. Diod. Annot. on 2 Kings 15. 1.

Doubt II. In the Chronology of the Kingdom of Iſrael ariſeth another Difficulty. It is ſaid of Jeroboam ſonne of Joaſh King of Iſrael, that he began to reign in the 15. year of Amaziah King of Judah, and reigned 41 years, 2 King. 14. 23. And that Zechariah ſonne of Jeroboam reigned over Iſrael in the 38. year of Azariah King of Judah, 2 Kings 15. 8. Now the time intervening betwixt the 15. year of Amaziah, and the 38. year of Azariah, was in all 63 years. For, from the 15. year of Amaziah, or 1. year of Ieroboam, (which agree, 2 King. 14. 23.) to the 1. year of Azatiah (alias Uzziah) ſon of Amaziah, were 27. years, 2 Kings 15. 1. Thence to the firſt year of Zechariah Jeroboams ſon, parallel with the 38. year of Azariah, is 38 years, 2 Kings 15. 8. 27 years and 38 years being added together, make up juſt 65 years. So then betwixt Ieroboams firſt, and his ſon Zechariah's firſt yeare, intervene 63 years. Subduct out of 63. the time of Jeroboam's reigne, viz. 41. and there remains 22 years vacant.

Anſw. By this doubt it is evident, that betwixt Jeroboam ſonne of Joaſh his laſt year, and Zechariah his Succeſſors firſt year, did intervene full 22 years. During theſe 22 years the Kingdom of Iſrael was in an Anarchy by frequent ſeditions, (thinks [g] Broughton) or at beſt, we muſt grant an Inter-regnum or vacancy of Kingly Government in Iſrael for 22 years together, betwixt Jeroboam and Zechariah. This Zechariah was the fourth Generation of Jehu, which God brought according to his Premiſe to ſit upon the Throne, notwithſtanding all intervening difficulties. Compare 2 Kings 10. 30. and 15. 12. Gods Promiſes, (yea, even to wicked men, how much more to the godly,) ſhall ſtand, notwithſtanding all Providences or Improbabilities that ſeem to croſſe the ſame. This Inter-regnum, with others, is heedfully to be marked for the better perfecting the true Chain of Scripture-Chronology.

[g] ἀναρχία viginti duorum annorum ex crebris ſeditionibus uſque ad Oziæ 38. ibi regnavit Zecharias quartus à Jehu, 1 Reg. 10. 30. H. Brought. Concent. S. Script. p. 95. Hanov. 1602.

Doubt III. It is ſaid, that Ahaz was 20 years old when he began to reign, and that he reigned 16 years; ſo that he lived but in all 36 years, 2 King. 16. 2. And yet it is ſaid, that Hezekiah his ſon was 25 years old when he began to reign, 2 Kings 18. 2. Conſequently Ahaz was but 11 years old when he begat Hezekiah; which ſeems very ſtrange.

Anſw. 1. We need not interpret 2 Kings 16. 2. that Ahaz was 20 years old when his father Jotham began to reign: for this is too much forced, ſeeing the Text ſaith, Twenty years old was Ahaz when he began to reign. No mention of Iotham's age. 2. We need not flie to that [h] ſhift, that Ahaz was Hezekiah's legal, not natural Father. 3. Though it may ſeem ſtrange, yet is it not impoſſible, that Ahaz being but about 11 years old ſhould beget Hezekiah. For its no hard thing (as [i] Hierom anſwers this doubt) for the God of nature to effect what he pleaſeth above the ordinary courſe of nature. And he brings an inſtance of a woman that had a child by a boy of 10 years of age: and with us many marry at 13. or 14. Adde hereunto, It is with men as it is with fruit, ſome grow ripe far ſooner then others. Further, the Nation of the Jewes had a ſingular bleſſing for Generation and Multiplication; and therefore this is the leſſe to be admired. Finally, its very probable, the Guardians and Kindred of the Royal Iſſue in Judah, took care that the Males ſhould marry as ſoon as was poſſible, very young, for the perpetuating of Davids line till the time of the Meſſiah, [k] Broughton ſaith, Ahaz as young a father, as Elizabeth was an old mother, were both to hope in Emmanuel, to be borne of a Virgin.

[k] Achazo tam juveni patri, quam erat Elizabeta ſenex mater, ſperandum fuerat in Emmanuele, naſcituro ex virgine. H. Brought. Concent. S. Script. p. 98. Hanov. 1602.

Doubt IV. It is ſaid, that Hoſhea ſlew Pekah ſon of Remaliah, and reigned in his ſtead in the 20. year of Jotham ſon of Uzziah, 2 Kings 15. 30. And yet it is evident that Jotham reigned but ſixteen years, 2 Kings 15. 33. How can theſe be reconciled?

Anſw. 1. Either we may ſay that hence it appears, Jotham lived 20 years after he began to reign; but of theſe 20. he reigned only 16. reſigning up the Kingdom to his ſon Ahaz for the four laſt years. 2. Or ſuppoſe Jotham lived not 20 years, we may ſay, this 20. year of Jotham intimates how long after the beginning of Iotham's reign it was, that Hoſhea ſlew Pekah, viz. in the 20. year after: not that Iotham was then reigning when that fact was committed. Not in the 20. year of Jotham's reign, but in the 20. year after he began his reign.

Doubt V. Menahem began to reign in the 39. yeare of Azariah King of Judah, and reigned ten years, 2 Kings 15. 17. So that his laſt yeare, viz. his 10. is parallel with Azariah's 48. year. And yet it is ſaid, that Pekahiah ſon of Menahem began to reign in the 50. yeare of Azariah, 2 Kings 15. 23. So that by this account, 1 year parallel to Azariah's 49. year, is ſlipt in the Chronology of the Kings of Iſrael.

Anſw. This is evidently an Inter-regnum or vacancy of the Royal Government in Iſrael for one years ſpace. The troubles of the State of Iſrael for many years together, through ſeditions, treaſons, and murders of Kings, frequently interrupting the Royal Government, makes the Chronology very intricate and perplexed.

Doubt VI. Pekah King of Iſrael is ſaid to begin his Reign in the 52 yeare of Azariah riah [or Uzziah] King of Judah, and to reign 20 years, 2 Kings 15.27. and it is ſaid that Hoſhea ſon of Elah conſpired againſt Pekah, and ſlew him, and reigned in his ſtead, in the 20. year of Jotham King of Judah, 2 Kings 15. 30. (Jotham's 20. year being parallel to the year next enſuing after Pekah's laſt year, 2 Kings 15. 32.) and yet elſewhere it is ſaid, that Hoſheah ſon of Elah began to reign in Samaria, in the 12th year of Ahaz King of Judah, 2 Kings 17.1. Ahaz his firſt year being parallel with Pekah's 17th year, 2 Kings 16.1. Conſequently his 4th year parallel with Pekah's 20th year, immediately after which Hoſhea ſlew him. Now betwixt Ahaz his 4th year, when Pekah's reign determined, and Ahaz his 12th year when Hoſhea's reign began, there intervene full ſeven years. Whereunto ſhall theſe ſeven years be reckoned? or how ſhall theſe places be reconciled.

Anſw. 1. It is clear by theſe places alledged, that in the Kingdom of Iſrael betwixt the reign of Pekah and Hoſhea, there was another Inter-regnum, or vacancy of the Royal Government for VII yeares together, and ſo theſe ſeven intervening yeares are to be accounted. 2. If Hoſhea (having murdered Pekah) did preſently uſurp the Throne and Regal Government, yet he is not ſaid to begin his reign till ſeven years after, either becauſe for that ſeven years the people did not accept him, (abhorring his bloody conſpiracy againſt Pekah:) or becauſe the King of Aſſyria, (who about his time enſlaved Iſrael) did not confirm Hoſheah in his Kingdom till the twelfth year of Ahaz. 3. It is not to be neglected, that where Hoſheah's killing of Pekah is recorded, It is only ſaid [and he reigned in his ſtead, 2 Kings 15.30.] noting out only his Succeſſion of him in the Regal Government, but not the time when he firſt became his Succeſſor; but in the twelfth year of Ahaz (which was ſeven years after Pekah's death, as hath been demonſtrated) It is ſaid, Hoſheah ſon of Elah began to reign in Samaria, 2 Kings 17.1. denoting the very time when he ſucceeded him in the Royal Government.

Doubt VII. Jehoahaz ſon of Joſiah, was but 23. years old when he began to reigne, and he reigned three moneths in Jeruſalem, 2 Kings 23.30,31. and yet his younger brother Eliakim (whoſe name Pharaoh Neco turned to Jehoiakim) who ſucceeded him, is ſaid to be 25 years old when he began to reign, 2 Kings 23. 34, 36. So that according to this account Jehoiakim ſeems to be about two years elder then his elder brother, which ſeems to imply an impoſſibility.

Anſwer. For reconciling of this Chronology, and reſolving this difficulty; 1. Either we muſt ſay, that there was an Inter-regnum, or vacancy in the kingdom for two or three years after Jehoahaz his reign; and if ſo, the abſurdity ceaſeth. 2. Or, rather we muſt conclude, that Jehoiakim was Pro-rex, or Vice-roy, while his brother Jehoahaz was Captive in Egypt, (as [illegible] thinks) and ſo Jehoiakims age of twenty five, is reckoned from his brothers death in Egypt, when Vice-Roy, Jehoiakim became full King. 3. Or, (which ſeems moſt ſatisfactory of all) we muſt hence determine that though Jehoahaz ſtept to the Throne before his brother Jehoiakim, yet Jehoiakim was the elder brother by birth, about two years. Thus [m] Broughton, [n] Diodate, [o] Wolphius, others, unty this knot. For, it may be that a faction among the people ſet up Jehoahaz to be King before his time, without due right. See and conſider well 2 Kings 23.30. Or, perhaps King Joſiah preferred his younger ſonne Jehoahaz, appointing him after him to the Crown, before Jehoiakim becauſe of his wickedneſſe, who yet afterwards by favour of Pharaoh Neco came to the Crown, 2 Kings 23.34. Thus God appointed Solomon though a younger brother to reign after David, 1 Kings 2.15. and Rehoboam appoints Abijah, a younger ſon to ſucceed him, 2 Chron. 11.20,22. and 12.

§. V. Scope.

The Scope of this II. KINGS (which is a Continuation of the Hiſtory begun in I. KINGS) is either 1 More Immediate, or 2 More Mediate.

1. More Immediate, To continue the Narration of the condition of the Divided State of the two Kingdoms of Iſrael and Judah from Jehoſhaphats reign, till the Aſſyrians deſolated Iſrael, and the Caldeans captived Judah, for their grievous ſins, aggravated by their obſtinate impenitency. Herein therefore are declared notably, 1. How ISRAEL perſiſting in Jeroboams idolatry, and adding thereunto divers abominable Pagan idolatries, was plagued with Warres, Seditions, Treaſons, murthers of Kings, Inter-regnum's, and interruptions of the royal Government ſometimes for many years together, yea, alterations of the royal Line, and other ſad diſaſters of State; till at laſt (no counſels or warnings of the Prophets, nor theſe heavy judgments inflicted upon them, prevailing with them to repent) they were over-runne and deſtroyed by the Aſſyrians, the people of Iſrael captived and utterly diſperſed, and their Kingdome poſſeſſed by Heathens mixed of ſeveral Countries, called Samaritanes, who ſet up a mingle-mangle Religion of Paganiſme and Judaiſme, called Samaritaniſme. 2. How JUDAH alſo (though Gods true Religion, Worſhip and Church was preſerved ſtill among them, yet) leavened with Iſraels corruptions, partly of themſelves too prone to idolatry, fell into moſt grievous ſins; from which they could never be throughly reclaimed, either by the Doctrine of Gods Prophets, or by the endeavours of divers godly Kings after Reformation, or by the Judgments of God on Iſrael or themſelves; or by the ſingular mercy of God in delivering them from the Aſſyrians tyranny. So that God delivered them at laſt into the hands of the Chaldeans, who after divers preſſures inflicted on Judah, took, ſackt, and burnt Jeruſalem and the Temple, and carried the people captive to Babylon. And afterwards the remnant of poor people left in the Land were cartied captive into Egypt. And yet in this moſt woful eclipſe of the Jewiſh Church, the Lord reſerved an holy ſeed to people the Church, and continued Davids line for the bringing forth of the Meſſiah according to the fleſh, as God had promiſed to David.

2. More Mediately, to delineate 1 Gods verity in his Threats and Promiſes, againſt all difficulties and impediments intervening, and this not only to the godly, (as to David and his houſe, continuing his ſeed that the Meſſiah might deſcend of him) but alſo even to the wicked as to Jehu, &c. together with his ſeverity in his Judgments. 2 The continual revolution of Families and States. 3 The miſchief of ſinne, eſpecially in Magiſtrates, dividing them and their people from God, and conſequently themſelves amongſt themſelves, till both Kings, People and Kingdomes be ripe and ready for utter deſolation.

§. VI. Principal parts.

The Chief Parts of this Hiſtory may be conſidered (as in 1. Kings,) according to the diſtinct Reigns of the ſeveral Kings of ISRAEL and JUDAH, Proceeding on where the former Hiſtory left, viz. at AHAZIAH the eighth King of Iſrael, whoſe Hiſtory is partly laid down in the cloſe of I. Kings, and partly in the beginning of II. Kings.

8. King. Ahaziah.

VIII. The eighth King of Iſrael, p AHAZIAH, ſon of Ahab, touching whom note

I. Chronicles.

§. I. Order.

IN former Histories the State of the Kingdom hath been described, I. As United, viz. in 1 and 2 Sam. 2. As Divided, viz. in 1 and 2 Kings. 3. Now it comes to be considered, as, Both United and Divided, in 1 and 2 Chron.

§. II. Name.

The Hebr. stile this Book דברי הימים Dibre Haijamim, viz. The words of Dayes, or, The words of Yeares. (יום jom, being oft-times taken for yeares) because this Book is a Sacred DIARY, or Holy ANNALS reporting the memorable Acts and Occurrents in the Church of God, and Civil States both Domestick and Forreign. Hence [a] some, not unfitly entitle them, The Books of Annals. ([b] Annals, barely declaring matters of fact in order for divers yeares.) So these two Books are the CHURCHES ANNALS.

[a] Libros Annalium. Munsterm.
[b] Gellius de N.A. l. 5. c. 18.

The Greek in the same sense calls them χρονικὰ, (whence the Latin, Chronica; and our English, CHRONICLES;) and Βίβλοι παραλειπομένων, Biblons Paraleipomenon, viz. The Books of things Omitted; or BOOKS OF REMAINES: because some things omitted, or not so fully described in the former Histories, viz. the Pentateuch of Moses, Joshua, Judges, Ruth, Samuel and Kings, are here summarily explicated and supplied, especially touching the Kings of Israel and Judah.

Hierom calls the Chronicles, deservedly, [c] The Epitome or Abridgment of the Old Testament: and saith that this History is of such consequence, that whosoever would arrogate to himself the knowledge of the Scriptures without it, doth but mock and abuse himself. And elsewhere he stiles it, [d] The Chronicle of the whole Divine History. Understand him, in reference to all the foregoing Books especially, of which it is a most compendious Abstract. Some [e] think, That the Book of the Chronicles, so often mentioned in the Book of Kings, is not this Book, but perhaps some other Epitome of the whole Sacred History. But if the Additional Supplements in I. and II. Chron. to I. and II. Kings be well considered, the contrary seems more probable.

§. III. Penman.

Penmen of I. and II. Chron. are uncertain. Authors seem much unresolved herein. [f] Some note, that R. Solomon & R. D. Kimchi were of opinion, it was Ezra. Learned [g] Junius also is of the same Judgement. The argument that generally inclines them to this opinion, is, That the same words used in the close of the Chronicles, 2 Chron. 36. 23. are also used in the beginning of Ezra, Ezr. 1. 1, 2, 3. Yet against this Opinion there lies this Objection, That the Books of Kings and Chronicles seem to be contemporary, and extant about the same time, forasmuch as they reciprocally referre to one another so often; but the Books of the Kings seem to be long before Ezra's dayes. [h] Pareus therefore thinks their opinion more probable, that hold, the Chronicles, as the Kings, were written by severall Prophets, each Prophet recording the things that fell out under the Kings in their times. And that perhaps perhaps it may be granted, that Ezra digeſted thoſe ſeverall Records into this Order, prefixing the Genealogies before the beginning, and adding the Cloſe of 2 Chron. which is the ſame with the beginning of Ezra.

§. IIII. Time, or Chronologie.

Theſe 2 Books ſeem to be written about the ſame time with the 2 Books of Kings, ſeeing they mutually alledge one another very often.

This I. Chron. principally inſiſts upon the Hiſtory of David, delineating his Genealogy from the First Adam, and carrying it forwards towards the Second Adam, wherein the 12 Tribes and their families are recorded, Chap. 1. to 10. And afterwards his famous Acts, eſpecially; Ch. 10 to the end of the Book. So that this Book is a Compendious Chronologie (anſwering to the times of all the former Books, till I. Kings) recording Perſons and their Acts in the Church of God, from the Creation of the world, till about the yeare 2984. viz. Of

§. V. Scope.

Scope of this Book is either 1 Immediate, or 2 Mediate:

1. Immediate. To deſcribe, 1. The Genealogies of thoſe People, among whom the Lord continued his Church from Adam till the Return from the Babyloniſh Captivity. 2. Gods ſingular Accompliſhment of his Promiſes to Abraham, &c. in multiplying their Seed ſo numerouſly. 3. An Abſtract (with ſome Explanatory Additionals interwoven) of the Reign of David, and of his Excellent Acts, whether Eccleſiaſtical, Polemical, Political, or Oeconomical. How he ordered the whole ſervice and worſhip of God, and how liberally he prepared for the building of the Temple, (whereof he gave Solomon the Model from the LORD, becauſe he was to build it,) both by conſecrated ſpoils, as alſo by his own and the Peoples Free-will offerings thereunto; delivering all into Solomons hand before his death.

2. Mediate. 1. Clearly to draw down from Adam the Line and Genealogie of Jeſus Chriſt, the k MESSIAH promiſed to the Fathers, but eſpecially to David, Abraham, and Adam. That when in fulneſſe of time this promiſed Mediator ſhould be performed and revealed in our fleſh, the Church and People of God might infallibly know, That this and no other was that very promiſed SEED OF THE WOMAN, the Son of Abraham, the Son of David. And this is the principal ſcope of the Genealogie in the nine firſt Chapters. 2. To propound in David the pattern of a good King indeed, and how happy that Kingdom and People are who are ſo governed.

k Longa hæc ſeries Genealogiarum uſque ad cap. 10.

1. Eſt in ſigne teſtimonium creationis, conſervationis, & propagationis Eccleſiæ Judaicæ in reliquo genere humano.

2. Propter Meſſiam recitatur hæc ſeries, ut conſtaret de genere & familia Meſſiæ.

3. Eſt impletio promiſſionis Abrahamo factæ, Multiplicabo ſemen tuum ſicut arenam maris. D. Pareus in Not. Brevior. in 1 Chron. 1.

§. VI. Principal Parts.

In this Book are Principally conſiderable 1. The Foundation. 2. The Conſtitution and Condition of the Iſraelitiſh Kingdom.

I. The FOUNDATION of the Israelitish Kingdom in the first Original of both the People and Kings of Israel, drawn down in a lineal descent from Adam, the common root of all mankinde, unto Saul and David their first Kings, and thence to the Captivity. Here are the l Genealogies

1. Of the ten first Patriarchs, viz. from Adam to Noah inclusively, *Ch.*I *ver.*1,2,3,4.

2. Of Noah to Esau and JACOB, alias ISRAEL, ver. 5. to 34. and so to the end of the chapt.

3. Of JACOB, viz. his 12. sons, The PATRIARKS, Ch. II. 1. 2. These 12. Patriarks are described by their Genealogies, viz.

J. JUDAH's Generations,

1. By Shua's daughter the Canaanites, *ver.*3.

2. By Tamar his daughter in law, of whom descended David, and all the Kings of Judah, ver. 4. to the end of the chapt. Ch. III. & ch. IV. to ver. 24.

II. SIMEON's Generations, their habitations, and some of their Acts in K. Hezekiahs dayes, ver. 24. to the end of the chap.

III. REUBEN's Generations (who lost his Birth-right, and it became Josephs) with their habitations and conquest in dayes of Saul, Ch. V. 1. to 11.

IV. GAD's Generations, with their habitations, *ver.*11. to 18.

V. Half-tribe of MANASSEH'S Generations, and habitations. Amplified by 1. The number. 2. The Martial Exploits. 3. And the Captivity of the Reubenites, Gadites, and half-tribe of Manasseh, for their sins; by Pul and Tiglath-pileser, Kings of Assyria, ver. 18. to the end of the chapt.

VI. LEVI's Generations, by

1. Kohath, father of Amram, father of Aaron, Moses, and Miriam. Drawn down to the Captivity, *Ch.*VI. 1. to 16. of whom came Samuel, *ver.*21. to 29.

2. Gershom *ver.*17,20,21.

3. Merari, *ver.*29,30.

All these are amplified, 1. By their Offices, *ver.*31. to 54. 2. By their dwellings in the Land of Canaan, ver. 54. to the end of the chapt.

VII. ISSACHAR's Generations with their number, and men of might, *Ch.*VII. 1. to 6.

VIII. NAPHTALI's Generations, *ver.*13.

IX. MANASSEH's Generations, *ver.*14. to 20.

X. EPHRAIM's Generations, with their habitations, *ver.*20. to 30.

XI. ASHER's Generations, and Number, *ver.*30. to the end.

XII. BENIAMIN's Generations 1. More imperfectly reckoned with their number and mighty men, Ch. 7. ver. 6. to 13. 2. More fully drawn down to K. Saul and Jonathans Posterity, Chap. VIII throughout.

These Genealogies are closed up with the first Original of these Genealogies, *Ch.*IX. 1. 2. With the first inhabitants of all these in Jerusalem, Israelites, Priests, Levites and Nethinims, with their offices there, *ver.*2. to the end of the chapt. Among which number are reckoned the Predecessors of King Saul, and so a facile Translation is made to the History of the first Kings, Saul and David.

Thus of the first foundation of the Israelitish Kingdom.

II. The CONSTITUTION and CONDITION of the Israelitish Kingdom, what it was 1. Under Saul. 2. Under DAVID, the two first Kings, is described, from *ch.*9. *ver.*35. to the end of this Book.

m Saul, King. I. Under m SAUL, touching whom are recorded,

1. His Genealogy resumed to make entrance upon his story, *ch.*9. 35. to the end of the chapt.

2. His death, described by 1. The manner of it, being wounded in the great Battel with the Philistines in M. Gilboa, himself took a sword and fell upon it, Ch. X. 1. to 5. 2. The Consequents of it; To his Armour-Bearer, who also fell on his sword, *ver.*5. To the Israelites who fled, &c. ver. 6,7. To Saul, whose head the Philistines cut off, and fastned it in Dagons Temple, ver 8, 9, 10. Whose body and bodies of his sonnes the men of Iabesh Gilead buried, ver. 11, 12, 13. 3. The procuring cause hereof, viz. Sauls sinnes mentioned, ver. 13, 14.

n DAVID K. II. Under n DAVID, concerning him are recorded 1. His Regall Inauguration, 2. His Reigne or Administration. 3. His Death.

I. DAVIDS Inauguration or Manner how he obtained the Crown, viz.

1. By Israels desire; Grounded 1. On natural Relation to David. 2. On Divine designation of David to the Kingdom, whereupon they anoint him in Hebron, *Ch.*XI. 1, 2, 3.

2. By the singular valour of Davids Worthies, by taking Jebus, that is, Jerusalem from the Jebusites, and by strengthening themselves and David to make him King. These Worthies are named, and some of their valiant Acts are mentioned, *ver.*4. to the end of the chapt.

3. By the Accession of great multitudes of brave Warriours to David. 1. While David kept himself close from Saul, in the Hold at Ziklag, &c. till he had a great Hoast like the Hoast of God, Ch. XII. 1. to 23. 2. When David came to Hebron, there came many from the several Tribes to turn the Kingdom from Saul to David, *ver.*23 to the end of the chapt.

II. DAVID's Reign or Royal Administration, being now advanced to the Throne; where consider his Acts 1 Ecclesiastical. 2 Polemical. 3 Political. 4 Oeconomical. These four sorts of his Acts are here recorded; yet not so distinctly and severally by themselves, but that here and there they are intermingled with one another.

Davids preparatory Acts for building the Temple, were these.

I. He provides Materials in great abundance, Ch. XXII. 1. to 5.

II. He instructs Solomon in Gods Promises, and his duty about building the Temple, ver. 5. to 17.

III. He commands all the Princes of Israel to assist Solomon herein, ver. 17, 18, 19. whom in his old age he made King, Ch. XXIII. 1.

IV. He orders all the several sorts of Officers for the service of the House of the LORD, viz. 1. He numbers the Levites from 30 years old and upwards, viz. 38000 in all, ver. 2, 3. II. He casts them into 4 Ranks, viz. 1. Promoters of the work of the House of the LORD, 24000. ver. 4. 2. Officers and Judges, 6000. ver. 4. 3. Porters, 4000 ver. 5. 4. Praisers of the LORD with Instruments of David, 4000. ver. 5. III. He distributes them into Courses, viz. Gershonites, Kohathites, and Merarites, from the age of 20 years and upwards, ver. 6. to 24. IV. He appoints their Offices and Imployments, ver. 24. to the end of the chapt. V. He distributes the Priests the sons of Aaron into 24 Courses by Lot, Ch. XXIV. 1. to 20. VI. He divides the rest of the sons of Aaron and Merari (not forementioned) by Lot, ver. 20. to the end of the chapt. VII. He appoints Singers for the Temple, who should prophecie with Harps, Psalteries, and Cymbals; the sons of Asaph, Heman, and Jeduthun, Ch XXV. 1. &c. where, 1. Their Numbers and Office, ver. 2. to 8. 2. Their distribution by lot into 24 Courses, correspondent to the Priests, ver. 8. to the end of the chapt. VIII. He distributes the Porters; who casts lots for the Gates where they should attend, Ch. XXVI. 1. to 20. IX. He appoints Officers over the Treasures of the House of the Lord, and the Dedicate things, ver. 20. to 29. X. He sets of the Levites, chief Officers, 1. Over the outward business of Israel, ver. 29. 2. Over all affairs of the LORD, and of the King, either on this side Jordan, ver. 30. or on the other side Jordan, ver. 31, 32.

3. Political or Civil Acts of David, in reference to his Kingdom, viz.

1. He orders 12 Courses of Captains to serve the King by turns, for the 12 moneths of the year, Ch. XXVII. 1. to 16.

2. He appoints 12 Princes or Rulers, over the 12 Tribes, ver. 16. to 23.

3. He is hindred from numbring the people; and why, ver. 23, 24.

4. Oeconomical or Domestical Acts of David, in reference to his own House. He constitutes several sorts of Officers, ver. 25. to the end of the chapt.

III. DAVID's Death is set forth, 1. By the Antecedents of it, 2. By the Circumstances of it, 3. By the Consequents of it.

I. Antecedent Passages not long before his Death, in his extreme old age, at the Solemn Assembly of all his Princes, Captains and other Officers, convened at Jerusalem, viz.

1. He declares Gods great goodnesse to himself, and to his son Solomon who should build the Temple, exhorting them to obedience, Ch. XXVIII. 1. to 9.

2. He chargeth Solomon to serve the Lord uprightly and willingly, ver. 9, 10.

3. He gives to Solomon the Pattern of the House of the Lord, and of all the Utensils thereof, which he had received of the Lord, ver. 11. to 20.

4. He encourageth Solomon to the building of the Temple. ver. 20, 21.

5. He effectually perswadeth the Princes and people to offer willingly to it, Chap. XXIX. ver. 1. to 10.

6. He blesseth the LORD, with heavenly enlargement of spirit, for enabling him and his people to offer thus cheerfully; Praying for the peoples constancy, and for Solomons integrity and ability to finish this work, ver. 10. to 20. This is further illustrated 1. By Davids inciting all the Assembly to blesse the LORD with him. 2. By the abundance of Sacrifices, next day offered. 3. By the Peoples feasting before the Lord with joy. 4. By their Anointing Solomon to be King the second time, who sate upon the Throne with great Majesty, all Israel accepting him and submitting to him, ver. 20. to 26.

II. Circumstances of r Davids Death, viz.

1. Time when; viz. after 40 years reign, ver. 26, 27.

2. State and condition wherein; full of Dayes, Riches, and Honour, ver. 28.

III. Consequent, viz. Solomons Reign after him as his Successor, (reference being made to other Books for Davids other Acts) ver. 28, 29, 30.

AN

AN APPENDIX TO I. CHRON.

VIZ.

DAVID's Psalme of Thanksgiving to the LORD,

At the Bringing up of the ARK of God into the CITY of DAVID.

Recorded in 1 CHRON. 16. from ver. 7. to 37.

§. I.

DAVID, that [s] man after Gods own heart, that [t] sweet Psalmist of Israel, being after K. Sauls Death, established on the Throne in the Kingdom of Israel, makes it his first and chiefest care to advance Religion and the true worship of God in his Kingdome. To this end he [u] fetches the Ark of God first from Kiriath-Jearim, to Obed-Edom's house, (And [x] afterwards with great solemnity and better order, from Obed-Edom's house) to the City of David in Jerusalem. For which singular mercy, that David might testifie his special thankfulnesse to the LORD, having Penned this excellent Psalm, which is partly Eucharistical, partly Prophetical: He [y] then on that day first, delivered this Psalme, to give thanks unto the LORD, into the hands of Asaph and his brethren. (So that some Psalms which have Asaph's name prefixed, may yet be penned by David,) Which may therefore fitly be denominated, David's Psalm of Thanksgiving to the LORD at the bringing up of the ARK.

It is very remarkable, that this Psalm of Thanksgiving is collected, or gleaned by parcels out of divers other Psalms, suitable to the present Occasion of bringing up the Ark, and so the severall parcels (only some few words altered) are joyned together in this form or method by David, as it is here represented. viz.

1. Verse 8. to 23.	is	1. Part of Psal. 105. viz. from verse 1. to 16.
2. Verse 23. to 34.		2. The whole 96. Psalm.
3. Verse 34.		3. Part of divers, viz. Psal. 107. 1. and 118. 1. and 136. 1.
4. Verse 35, 36.		4. Part of Psalm 106. viz. verse 47, 48.

[z] Some hereupon account this not one, but three distinct Psalms delivered by David to Asaph at one and the same time. But by the same reason there should be here 4 Psalms, and one of them but one verse. 2. The series of the Psalm is continued, as being one, not divers. 3. Nothing in this Chap. induceth us to think otherwise. Now this course of David may seem to warrant and instruct us in like manner to extract and connect several suitable and pertinent passages out of several Psalms, to Pray to, or Praise the LORD withall, upon speciall Occasions.

[t] 2 Sam. 23. 1.
[u] 1 Chron. 13.
[x] 1 Chron. c. 15. & 16.
[y] 1 Chron. 16. 7
[z] First] These 3 several Psalms of ver. 8. 23. 34. were the first he gave them of his pening; peradventure to be sung by three divers Quires, whereof every one had his chief, and they were to sing one after another, until the People had ended this Action, saying Amen, ver. 36. And afterwards David compos'd and gave them many more. 2 Sam. 23. 1. Ja. Diod. Annot. on 1 Chro. 16. 7.

§. II.

Scope of this Psalm is, 1. To exhort and incite the Church and people of God to bless and praise the LORD, not onely in word and voice, but also in true worship and obedience, for all his wondrous works wrought for his people; for the judgements of his mouth, and Covenant with his people touching Canaan, As also for his singular Majesty, Greatness and Dominion, above all Idol-gods throughout the world. How suitably! The ARK, now brought up, being a special sign or token of Gods [a] power and gracious Presence with his people; and the Cabinet of the Covenant. 2. To insinuate Prophetically the propagating of the Kingdom of the MESSIAH from Jews to Gentiles; exhorting the Jews to publish and preach Gods praises to the Gentiles, and thereupon the Gentiles, to acknowledge Gods majesty, power, and benefits performed by CHRIST to the Church; to renounce idols, turn to God, and serve him according to his Word. How appositely! The ARK being a singular Type of JESUS CHRIST, the true [b] Propitiatory or Mercy-seat, covering our sins condemned in Gods Law; The true [c] Ark of Gods Testament, which shall fully be seen in Heaven by the Elect to their endlesse joy.

Visa est Arca fœderis] Perstitit in veteris Templi Allegoria, in cujus abdito erat Arca fœderis, CHRISTI Typus; nulli visa, nisi Pontifici semel quotannis. Sic Christus olim fuit occultus vix per transennam populo cognitus. In novo Testamento apparuit in carne: sed humilis, nec gloria ejus cernitur nunc in Evangelio, nisi fide. Judicio peracto videbitur Arca fœderis in cœlo, hoc est, apparebit CHRISTUS suis electis in gloria cœlesti, sicuti est. Nunc videmus in ænigmate & speculo, tunc videbimus à facie ad faciem. Hæc visio erit sanctorum felicitas, quando Christus se intuendum perfecte fruendumque præbebit, & gratiam fœderis ratam persectamque præstabit. D. Paræus in Com. in Rev. 11. 19.

§. III.

Touching this Psalme consider therein, 1. The Proem, or Inscription. 2. The Substance of the Psalme. 3. The Conclusion.

I. The Proem or Inscription prefixed, denoting 1. The Occasion, 2. Penman, 3. Scope and use of this Psalme, 1 Chron. 16. ver. 7.

II. The Body or Substance of the Psalme; which is, 1. Partly Eucharistical, 2 Partly Prophetical, both laid down in an Hortatory forme.

I. Eucharistical. Pathetically exhorting and inciting Israel, the Church of God, to all possible expressions of thankful praises to the Lord: herein note,

1. The Duty exhorted to, viz. Thankful praising of God, 1. In Heart; Glorying,——Rejoycing,——Remembring his wonders and judgements, viz. On Egypt especially. 2. In Tongue; Giving Thanks,—Calling on his Name,—Publishing his deeds;—Singing,—Singing Psalmes.——Talking of all his wondrous works. 3. In Life; seeking the Lord and his strength, (viz. his Arke, a Symbole of his power, presence, favour,) seeking his face, (viz. His Oracle) continually, ver. 8. to 14.

2. The Arguments or Grounds whereupon this Duty is urged, and for which he is thus to be celebrated, viz. 1. His Sovereignty, He is the Lord our God, therefore all praise is his due, ver. 14. 2. His judgments on all his enemies, ver. 14. 3. His gracious everlasting Covenant to Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, touching Canaan (a Type of heavens rest) ver. 15. to 19. Amplified by his singular providence and tender care over them, though few, strangers, passing from Nation to Nation, yet none were permitted to wrong them, he reproved Kings for them, (as for Abraham, Gen. 12. 14. to 18. and 20. throughout.) ver. 19. to 23.

II. Prophetical. Containing (as [d] some have well noted) A Prophecy of Christs Kingdome, and of the calling of the Gentiles from Idols to serve and praise the living God. This is laid down in forme of an Exhortation to all the Jews, to preach sweetly the LORDS Glory and Wonders shewed in Israel unto the Gentiles, that forsaking vaine idols, they praise, and serve the true God only, acknowledging and celebrating his benefits and dominion by Jesus Christ. This Exhortation is 1. Proposed. 2. Enforced. 3. Amplified.

1. Proposed, wherein consider 1. Who are exhorted, viz. All the earth, viz. [e] all the Land of Israel. 2. Duties whereunto they are exhorted, viz. 1. To sing to the Lord. To Evangelize (as the Hebrew בשר properly signifies) day by day his salvation, (viz. of sinners by Jesus Christ especially.)

cially.) 2. To declare his glory and wonders (viz. revealed to Israel especially in that salvation.) 3. Where these duties to be performed; Among the Gentiles, among all Nations, (A clear intimation that Christ and his Gospel should be preached to the Gentiles throughout the world) *ver.*23,24.

2. Enforced, by divers cogent Arguments, viz. 1. The greatnesse of God. 2. The Praise-worthinesse of God. 3. The dreadfulnesse of the Lord above all Gods; proved by the vast disparity betwixt him and them, All they are idols. The Lord created the Heavens, i. e. the world. Synecbd. How should this therefore convince all Gentiles, to renounce vain idols to laud and serve the only true God that made the Heavens, &c.) ver. 25, 26. IV. The glorious Majesty, might and gladnesse in the Lords Presence and Place (these are evident in the world, but especially in his Church, by the Ark of his Presence, &c.) *ver.*27.

3. Amplified hereupon, *ver.*28. to 34. wherein. The [f] Gentiles (thus preached unto and instructed by the Jews,) are incited 1. To give the Lord due praises; 2. To joyn with his Church in his worship and fear, *ver.*28,29,30. 2. The settlement and establishment of the whole earth, weakned and ruined by sin, is hereupon promised in Christs Kingdome, *ver.*30. 3. The universal triumph and gladnesse as it were of all creatures (in an elegant Prosopopeia) is intimated, upon the Lords Presence and dominion among the Gentiles, as well as the *Jews, ver.*31,32,33.

II. Chronicles.

§. I. Order.

IN the former Book, viz., I CHRON. the state and condition of the Kingdome of Israel hath been described, in respect of 1. The Inchoation, or beginning of it, under Saul. 2. The Augmentation, or Increase of it, under David. Now in this II CHRON. it is further described, in respect of 3. The Perfection, or highest temporal Glory of it, under Solomon. 4. The diminution or decay of it, after the unhappy Division under Rehoboam, &c. till at last it even failed under Zedekiah, by reason of Judah's 70 yeares captivity in Babylon. So that this Book is a Chronicle, or Chronical Abridgement of both the books of KINGS; with some Explanations, and Additions at the end of the Book.

§. II. Name.

The reason of the Denomination, or Name of this Book, see in I. Chron. This being but a Continuation of the same History, according to the same intent and purpose of the I Chron.

§. IV. Time of Chronology.

This book relates the ſtate of the Iſraelitiſh Kingdom, from the beginning of King Solomons Reign, till after Judah's Return from the Babyloniſh Captivity, which fell out in the firſt yeare of CYRUS King of Perſia. And ſo it contains in the whole an Hiſtory of about 541 years. Which may be thus computed, viz.

From the beginning of K. Solomons Reign (wherewith this book begins) to the end of K. Jehoſhaphats Reign (wherewith I. KINGS ends) 126 years. As hath been formerly demonſtrated in Particulars, on I. KINGS §. IV.	126
From the end of K. Jehoſhaphats Reign till JUDAH was wholly carried captive into Babylon in the 11. of Zedekiah, (which is the whole time of the Hiſtory deſcribed in II KINGS) about 344 years and a half. As hath been formerly cleared, on II. KINGS, §. III. in a Table, in particulars.	344½
From the 11. year of Zedekiah, a when Judah was carried captive to Babylon, to the end of the Captivity, 70 years; mentioned in 2 Chron. 36. 20, 22. even till the reign of the Kingdome of Perſia.	70.
The Return of Judah out of Captivity of Ieruſalem, to build the Houſe of God, in the firſt yeare of CYRUS King of Perſia, and according to the liberty granted by his Proclamation; here alſo recorded. 2 Chron. 36. 20, 21, 22, 23.	1 a Becauſe there is ſome queſtion made from what time the Calculation of the 70 years Captivity do commence; we muſt obſerve, that in the Books of Kings and Chronicles we finde mention of 4 Babyloniſh Captivities.
	541½

In the firſt, Manaſſeh was carried away captive, 2 Chron. 33. 11.

In the ſecond, Jehoiakim was carried away captive, 2 Chron. 36. 6. In which Captivity Daniel the Prophet was carried to Babylon, Dan. 1. 6.

In the third, Jehoiachin was carried away captive, 2 Kings 24. 14. And in this captivity the Prophet Ezekiel was Captive, Ezek. 1. 2.

In the fourth, Zedekiah was carried away captive with the whole Nation except ſome of the poor, 2 Kings 25. 2 Chron. 36. And from this Captivity did the 70 years commence: for in this only the whole Land was made a deſolation, and then only did that Nation ſerve Nebuchadnezzar King of Babylon 70 years, as was fore-prophecied, Jer. 25. 11, 12. And then only did the Land enjoy her Sabbaths, 2 Chron. 36. 21. Jer. 25. 9. & 12. Jo. Diod. in his Obſervations after II. Chron.

§. V. Doubts and Difficulties Chronological.

Doubt. I. Mention is made of a Writing or Letter ſent from the Prophet Elijah to that wicked Jehoram, Sonne and Succeſſor of Jehoſhaphat King of Judah, threatning him with a lamentable death by falling out of his bowels, for his wicked Reigne, and for murdering his brethren that were better than himſelf, 2 Chro. 21. 12, to 16. Now how could Elijah ſend a Letter to this Jehoram, when Elijah ſeems to be taken up to heaven in a fiery chariot before Jehoram began to reigne? For Jehoram began not to reigne till he was thirty two years old, 2 Chron. 21. 5. this his thirty ſecond yeare was the fifth yeare of Jehoram ſonne of Ahab King of Iſrael, 2 King. 8, 16, 17. But Elijah was tranſlated in the time of Jehoſhaphat, preſently after the death of Ahaziah ſonne of Ahab, probably in the very firſt yeare of Jehoram ſonne of Ahab, Succeſſour of Ahaziah, the ſtory of Elijahs rapture being recorded betwixt the death of Ahaziah, and the reigne of Jehoram King of Iſrael. Compare 2 Kings 2. throughout with 2 Kings 3. 1.

Anſw. 1. To ſay that Elijah wrote this Letter after his rapture up into heaven, would gratify the Pontificians, who hold that the dead have often written to the living. But (as[b] Broughton ſaith) this is but a Dotage. We leave therefore that opinion to the deluded Papiſts and their lying Legends.

b Epiſtola hæc ſcripta fuit ante Aſſumptionem. Nam mortuos ad vivos ſcribere etſi factitatum fuiſſe ſæpe tenent Pontificii, Deliramentum eſt. Erasmus. H. Brought. Concent. S. Script p. 88. in marg. Hanov. 1602.

2. To

2. To ſay as [c] ſome, that this muſt be ſome other Elijah that wrote this letter, ſeeing the great Prophet Elijah was already taken up into heaven in theſe dayes, as appeareth by 2 Kings 2. 11. ſeems not ſo ſafe and conſonant to Scripture, which mentions no Elijahs, but Elijah the Thiſbite, 1 King. 17. 1. and John the B. the N. T. Elijah, who was to come in the power and ſpirit of Elijah, Mat. 4. 5, 6. with Matt. 11. 14. Mar. 9. 11. Luk. 1. 17. Nor is it needfull to flie to this imagination about another Elijah, there being other wayes of untying this knot.

3. Moſt thinke this letter was written by Elijah before his Aſſumption into heaven, of the future Kingdome of Iehoram, as Iſaiah wrote of the future Kingdome of Cyrus; Iſa. 44. and 45. And Ahijah of the Kingdome of Joſiah, 1 Kings 13. 2. So it was meet an impious King ſhould be reproved by the abſent, who would not endure the preſent. Thus [d] Junius, with whom [e] Pareus conſents, tranſcribing his very words; H. Brought. and Jo. Diodate alſo inclineth to this Opinion, as appears by their words formerly alledged.

4. But may we not haply pitch upon a better reſolution then all theſe? what if we ſay Elijah both wrote and ſent this Letter to Jehoram ſonne of Jehoſhaphat, before his own Aſſumption into Heaven, and this before the death of Jehoſhaphat; and this furthermore in the time of his ſonne Jehorams reign? would not then the reſolution be evident? But how can this be? Eaſily. Thus. Elijah ſeems to be caught up to Heaven in the firſt year of Jehoram ſonne of Ahab King of Iſrael, as was before intimated. Jehoram ſonne of Ahab began to reign in the eighteenth yeare of Jehoſhaphat King of Judah, 2 Kings 3. 1. (Jehoſhaphat reigning twenty five years in all, 1 Kings 22.42.) This firſt year of Jehoram ſonne of Ahab, was parallel to the ſecond year of Jehoram ſonne of Jehoſhaphat, 2 Kings 1. 17. for this Jehoram was Pro-rex or Vice-roy, twice in his fathers life-time, viz. in his ſeventeenth and twenty ſecond yeare, as hath been demonſtrated on II. Kings 5. III. There ſee. Now this was a year of two before Elijahs Aſſumption into Heaven, as appears by what hath been ſaid. Jehoram therefore in the dayes of Elijah, being made Vice-roy, (probably upon ſome expedition of Jehoſhaphat abroad,) and taking the advantage of his fathers abſence to kill all his brethren for the making the Crown ſurer to himſelf, 2 Chron. 21.4. hereupon Elijah might ſend him this terrible Letter, none daring to reprove him face to face, he was ſo deſperately wicked and cruel.

Doubt. II. It is ſaid that Jehoram ſonne of Jehoſhaphat was thirty two years old when he began to reign, and reigned eight yeares, 2 Chron. 21.20. ſo that he lived but fourty years in all. And yet his ſonne Ahaziah, (who ſucceeded him the ſame yeare) is ſaid to be fourty two years old when he began to reign, and he reigned one yeare, &c. 2 Chron. 22. 2. By this reckoning Ahaziah ſhould be one or two years older then his own father, which is both impoſſible and abſurd to imagine.

Anſw. 1. This ſeems ſuch an intricate and indiſſoluble knot, that [f] ſome think this difficulty is not to be reſolved.

2. Some [g] ſuſpect here the corruption of the Text, by ſome miſtake of the Tranſcribers, and think the age of theſe Kings might in old time be writ in numeral letters, not in words at length; and ſo the letters כב ſtanding for fourty two, might eaſily be put for the letters כב (ſomewhat reſembling it,) which ſtand but for twenty two. Anſw. 1. But [h] This remedy is worſe then the malady. How dangerous a thing is it once to admit any ſuch corruption of the original Text? for, where then ſhall

c V. 12. [Elijah] The great Prophet Elijah was already taken up into Heaven, in theſe days, as appeareth by 2 Kings 2. 11. Wherefore this muſt be ſome other Elijah, or elſe it muſt be that the great Elijah had written this Prophecie in his life-time, and appointed that in its due time it ſhould be delivered to Jehoram. Jo. Diod. Annot. on 2 Chron. 21. 12.

d Scripſum ab Elija] Quod Elija antequam aſſumeretur, ſcripſerat de futuro regno Jehorami: ut Jeſchabia de futuro regno Cyri, Jeſchab. 44, 45. & Achija de regno Joſchija, 1 Reg. 13. 3. Sic oportuit impium Regem ab abſentibus reprehendi, qui præſentes non fuiſſet paſſus: Nam Elijam temporibus Joſaphati raptum fuiſſet ante hujus regnum, docetur, 2 Reg 2.11. Fran. Jan. Annot. in 2 Chron. 21. 12. e D. Pareus in Not. Breviorib. in 2 Chro. 21.12.

f V. 2. Fourty and two] 2 Kings 8. 26. It is ſaid that he was two and twenty years of age, which is confirmed by that, that Iehoram the father of Ahaziah was two and thirty years of age when he began to reign, and reigned eight years, 2 Chron. 21. 5. which in all is fourty, whereupon he could not have a ſonne of fourty two years of age when he ſucceeded his father. This difficulty is not to be reſolved; and it is likely that there is ſome alteration happened in theſe Accounts. Jo. Diod. Annot. on 2 Chron. 22. 2.

shall we stop? what Scripture will not be suspected of corruption? how will this shake the instrumental foundation of faith, obedience, comfort and all Religion? where shall we have a certain Canon or Rule, whereby to try and examine and amend all translations? [i] Bellarmine indeed grants some lesser corruption in the text, either by reason of likenesse of the letters, or vowel-points. But [k] others abhorre this opinion, and demonstrate by cogent Arguments, the purity of the Hebrew and Greek texts against all corruption.

3 Some [l] Expositors answer, that (as Hierome testifyeth) Jehoram reigned twenty eight years, but only eight years are computed in the number, because so long he reigned well: the rest are omitted, because in them he gave himselfe to the service of idolatry. In which sence Saul is said to reign two years. Therefore the twenty yeares wherein Jehoram reigned wickedly, which are not mentioned in II. Kings, in this place are added to the years of his sons life, (lest there should be any breach in the Chronology,) whereupon the years of the sonne arise to fourty two, (viz. twenty years redundant.)

4. I like their opinion best that referre this fourty two years to the time of the reigne of the house of Omri, which was just fourty two years, till the beginning of Ahaziah's Reigne, whose mother was Athaliah the daughter of [m] Omri. Ahaziah himselfe then was twenty two years old when he began to reigne, as 2 Kings 8. 26. But his mothers house, viz. Omri's, was thus fourty two years standing in respect of the kingdome. Thus that accurate [n] Broughton; Ahaziah a son of twenty two years of his own age, is a sonne of fourty two years of Omri's house. Seder-Olam and other learned among the Hebrews, have thus reconciled those texts long ago. Acute [o] Junius also showes that here is a more obscure Trajection or Transposition of the phrases in this verse, as in 1 Sam. 20. 16. Ezra. 10. 17. and Neh. 12. 22. which not being well observed involves the text with Questions and Interpretations. And therefore he thus reads the text —— So Ahaziah son of Iehoram King of Judah reign'd, whose mothers name was Athaliah daughter of Omri, being fourty two years old when Ahaziah reigned, who reigned one year at Jerusalem.

Doubt. III. It is said Jehoiachin was eight years old when he began to reigne, &c. 2 Chro. 36. 9. But elsewhere, Jehoiachin was eighteen years old when he began to reigne, and he reigned in Jerusalem three moneths, 2 Kings 24. 8. Here's ten years difference, how may these be reconciled?

Answ. 1. Here again some imagine the text corrupted. [p] Diodate saith, It is not certainly known how this diversity should be reconciled: only it is certain that in the Books of Chronicles, the numbers seems to have suffered an Alteration by some unknown Accident. But this is a dangerous Concession: farre safer for us to acknowledge our own inability to understand Scripture, then to call in question the purity of Scripture, See above. And how unlikely any corruption in these two places: seeing all the Hebrew Copies (as [q] Glassius hath observed,) unanimously hould the received reading, nor can one be produced to the contrary; nor do the Greek and Latin versions differ from the fountaine. Therefore we must study to reconcile not to reforme these Scriptures. I exceedingly applaud that saying of [r] Wolphius, Those Solutions (that I may confesse what I thinke) please not me, that are made with the Emendation of the sacred BIBLE.

2. Some thus reconcile these two places; Jehoiachin was eight years old when he [viz. his father Jehoiakim,] began to reign, and he [viz. Jehoiachin his sonne,] reigned three moneths in Jerusalem, 2 Chron. 36. 9. A like place see in the History of Ahaz, 2 King. 16. 2. Thus [s] Iunius.

3. Others thus, Its probable that Iehoiakim (who reigned eleven years,) did in the beginning of his reigne, about his second yeare, joyne his sonne Iehoiachin at eight years of age in the Government of the kingdome with himselfe, by reason of the many mutations in the Kingdome of Iudah at that time. But Iehoiakim the father being carried captive to Babylon, Iehoiachin the son plenarily possessed the kingdome. So that he was eight years old when he began to reigne with his father joyntly, joyntly, according to that of Chronicles: but eighteen years old when he began to reigne alone, (his father being carried captive to Babylon,) which the History of Kings intends. Thus [t] Pareus, [u] Wolphius, [x] Glassius: And Glassius adds this Reason out of R. David Kimchi, why Jehoiakim joyned Jehoiachin with himself in Government. Perhaps (saith he) he (viz. Jehoiakim) had other sons: and therefore, because he saw the Kingdome was suspended in the hands of others [viz. Egyptians, 2 Chron. 36. 3, 4.] he knew not whether he might be disturbed from his Kingdome; as it fell out to his brother [viz. Jehoahaz. 2 Chron. 36. 2, 3, 4.] therefore he made his sonne Jehoiachin reigne with himselfe, who was to reigne after him, and in his stead.

Let the judicious Reader well weigh and chuse which of these two last ways of Reconciling he pleaseth. [y] Pareus confesseth, that of Junius is the neater; for why (saith he) should Jehoiakim, joyne a childe of eight yeares old with him in Government? But some Reason hath been hinted, and perhaps the then state of the Kingdome might minister other Causes.

§. VI. Scope.

The chief Intent or Scope of this Book (which is an Abridgement of the two Books of Kings) is

1. For Substance one and the same, with that of I. and II. KINGS. Save only that after the divided state of the Kingdome under Rehoboam, the History of the Kings of Israel (whereof there was not one good, but every one wicked) is wholly waved; and the History of the Kings of JUDAH (divers whereof were good, and truly godly) is continued unto the Babylonish Captivity. To evidence the Accomplishment of Gods Promises, especially to David and his seed, and through Davids family to clear the line of Christ the Messiah.

2. To intimate after this the term of the Captivities Continuance, viz. 70 years, according to the Word of the LORD.

3. To declare the wonderful Return of the Captives of Judah from Babylon (in the first year of Cyrus) when the terme was expired; and how easily God brought about that difficult work, by working upon the heart of Cyrus the Persian.

§. VII. Principal Parts.

This Book contains an Historical Narration of the Flourishing and Fading Condition of the Kingdom of Israel; The Top-Glory of it under Solomon; The Eccliple of that Glory, under all the Succeeding Kings, till the Sunne of that State did sadly set in the doleful Babylonish Captivity.

The flourishing or Top-glory of Israels Kingdome under z King Solomon. Touching Solomon and his Reign, here are recorded

I. Solomons Piety and Religion to God; discovered

I. In his solemn sacrificing at Gibeon, the Tabernacle being there, described 1. By the Antecedents, viz. Solomons establishment in his Kingdome, &c. Ch. I. 1. 2. I. CYRUS (named, and promised for the Churches good, long before he was borne, Isa. 44. 28. & 45. 1. &c.) about the 19. year of his Persian Reign, conquered Darius the Mede, King of Babylon, and translated his Monarchy to the Persians; saith Helvicus out of Josephus. In the 10. year after this Conquest, Cyrus obtains Rule over all Asia, (as Helvicus and Usher note) and so reigned two years. In the first of these two years he releases the Jews from Captivity in Babylon, to return under Zerubbabel; as is noted in Scripture, 2 Chron. 36. 22, 23. Ezra 1. 1. &c. and 2. 1. &c.) Yet all his time, the building of the Temple, and repairing of the City was hindred, till the time of Darius, (Ezra 4. 5.) viz. Hystaspis as judicious Writers, (mentioned in Helvic.) interpret it.	2		2		2	three months	9		9		7		7
II. CAMBYSES son of Cyrus, comprehended (saith Usher) under the name of Cyrus, in Ezra 4. 5. called in Daniel, the Prince of the Kingdom of Persia, (Dan. 10. 13.) because he reigned as Pro-rex or Vice-roy in his fathers life-time, during his warlike expedition abroad. And after his death, about 7 years. During all his time, he hindred the work of the building the Temple. He died without Issue.	7		5	7	7		5	8	7		7	5

IV. DARIUS HYSTASPIS, or Darius I. (the Magi being slain,) chose Emperour by the 7 Princes of Persia, at the hinnying of an horse, as Helvic. observes out of *Herodot. V. XERXES, first son of Darius, by Atoss daughter of Cyrus; called Artaxerxes the Great; in Scripture, Ahasuerus the husband of Q. Esther the Iew, (Esth. 1. 1. & 2. 17.) (Herodotus nomen ejus vocat Ameslrin, quasi Hamo Esther. Helvic.) In his time, some hindred the building of the Temple, &c. (Ezra 4. 6.) X. DARIUS NOTHUS; so denominated because he was the Bastard of Artaxerxes, Called also Darius Cyrus, before his reign called Darius Ochus, or Arsus, in the Persian tongue Achaseh, i.e. A Prince (saith Usher.) He had the honour to have the Temple finished in the 6. y. of his Reign, (Ezra 6. 13, 14, 15.) He reigned about 19 years.	19		19		19		19	6	19		19		19
XI. ARTAXERXES (Artaxerxes) MNEMON, viz. The mindful Artaxerxes the Great. In the 7. year of his Reign, Ezra goes up from Babylon to Jerusalem. (Ezra 7. 7, 8, 11, &c.) in his dayes (saith Mr. Pemble) the Prophet Malachi flourished. Cyrus his brother, called Cyrus the younger, warred against him, and was slain. He reigned about 43 years. He was Nehemiah's Lord and Master. He in the 20. year of his Reign, sends Nehemiah to Jerusalem, to build the City and Walls. XIV. DARIUS CODOMANNUS, Arses his son, mentioned in Nehemiah, [c. 12. 22.] reigned about 6 years. In this 6. year of his Reign, Alexander the Great conquered him, and Bessus (Governour of Bactria one of Alexanders Princes) slew him. And so the Persian Monarchy was translated to the GRECIANS.	6		5		6		6		6		6	& above	6

According therefore to these Authors judgments in this Table, the continuance of the whole Persian Monarchy, (counting from Cyrus his last year save one, wherein he first obtained Government over all Asia*) is about* * 201 years, according to the Compute of most accurate Chronologers; and they that adde more, begin their Computation sooner, either at his taking of Babylon, or at his first year of his Persian Reigne. Other differences in Chronologers about the Persian Monarchs Reigns, is inconsiderable, being chiefly about parts of years.

Ezra.

§. I. Name, and Penman.

THe Truth and Manner of the Jewes RETURN from BABYLON, is described in the Book of EZRA. So called, 1. Partly from Ezra the Penman of it. 2. Partly from Ezra's Acts, a chief part of the Subject-matter of it. עזרא Hbezra signifies, An Helper. How fitly was he so stiled, who so wonderfully helped the Jewes to settlement, after their Return from Babylon!

Some [a] count, and call Ezra a Prophet. But [b] Augustine doubts whether he may be called a Prophet. [c] Hierome saith, he was Josedech, whose sonne was Jesus the High-Priest. But how can he be denyed to be a Prophet, when Christ himself stiles all the Books of the Old Testament, [d] Moses and the Prophets? It is a Tradition among the Hebrews, that Ezra was the Prophet Malachi; as Buntingus notes in his Chronologie, p. 101. Servestæ, 1590.

This is certain, Ezra was [e] a Priest. He was of the house and linage of Aaron: see his [f] pedigree. A most expert and [g] ready scribe in the Law of Moses. He was sent with [h] Commission by Artaxerxes Mnemon from Babylon to Jerusalem, &c.

Zerubbabel restored the Temple:
Ezra, the Worship of GOD:
Nehemiah, the City Jerusalem.

This Book, and that of Nehemiah following, are by the Hebrews reputed as but one Volumne; and that is called by [i] them, The I. of Ezra; This, the II. of Ezra. The Greek and Latine divide them (as our English) into two Books; the former being ascribed to Ezra, the latter to Nehemiah.

§. III. Scope.

Chief Scope of this History is,

1. Immediately, To describe the Iewes Return from the Captivity of Babylon at two severall times, viz. 1. In the first year of Cyrus the first Persian Monarch, who by Proclamation granted leave to all the Jews that would, to return to Jerusalem, under conduct of Zerubbabel (of Davids line) as their Governour, and Ioshuah the High-Priest; for Restauration of the Temple, Worship of God, City Jerusalem, and Jewish Common-wealth. Many therefore went up, began to build the Temple, but were interrupted many years by the Samaritans and other adversaries, till the reign of [m] Darius Nothus, who according to Cyrus his Decree causes the Temple to be built; and it was finished in his sixth year. 2. In the Reign of [n] Artaxerxes Mnemon, in his seventh year, Another great company of the Jewes went up under the conduct of Ezra (the ready Scribe in the Law of Moses,) the King granting him all his request, for restoring the service of God. Who coming to Jerusalem, reforms the mixed marriages of Jewes with Profane Pagans, causing them to put away all their strange wives, and their children by them, (for which Gods wrath was heavy upon them) that so they might be preserved an holy seed, and not be drawn away from their God.

2. Mediately, To evidence how punctually faithfull, and all-sufficiently able God is, in performing of his Promises to his Church and people in their season, touching their deliverance and restauration, against all impediments, improbabilities, and seeming impossibilities. For he made Cyrus an heathen King his shepheard, and nursing father to his Church, to bring them out of Babylon, (wherein they were as helplesse and hopelesse, as dead bodies or dry bones in a [o] grave) to build the [p] Temple, and restore Jerusalem.

§. IV. Principal Parts.

In this Book is described the first, and second return of the Jews out of Babylons Captivity, viz. 1. In dayes of Cyrus. 2. In dayes of Artaxerxes Mnemon.

In dayes of Cyrus the first Persian Monarch, after the seventy years captivity were ended, under the conduct of Zerubbabel and Jeshua, the [q] Jews Return to Jerusalem is described,

I. By the causes of their Return, viz. 1. Efficient, 2. Materiall.

1. Efficient, either 1. Principall, viz. The LORD'S stirring up Cyrus his spirit thereto. Ch. I. 1. 2. Instrumentall, viz. Cyrus, who incourageth the Jews to return to Jerusalem, Partly by his Proclamation, ver. 1. to 7. Partly by his Restitution of the Vessels of the Temple to them, ver. 7. to the end of the chap.

2. Material, viz. the Persons that went up, described, 1. By the number of their persons, according to their severall families. Ch. II. ver. 1. to 66. 2. By the number of their Cattel, viz. Horses, Mules, Camels, and Asses, which they took up with them, ver. 66, 67.

II. By the effects of their Return, viz.

1. The Offerings of the chief of the Fathers, when they came to Jerusalem, towards the building of the house of the LORD, ver. 68, 69, 70.
2. The erecting of the [r] Altar of God, and his Sacrifices, Ch. III. 1, 2, 3.
3. The observation of the solemn festivals, and Offerings, ver. 4, 5, 6.
4. Preparations for the building of the Temple, ver. 7.
5. The laying of the [s] Foundation of the Temple, The young men shouting, the old men weeping, ver. 8. to the end of the chap. This building of the Temple is set forth, 1. As Obstructed, 2. As Promoted, the obstructions being removed.

[r] Altar erected. CHAP. III.

[s] Temple founded.

1. As Obstructed, till the second year of Darius the King by the Samaritanes, 1. Pretending to build build with them, Ch. IV. 1, 2, 3. 2. Hiring Counsellours against them, ver. 4, 5. 3. Writing Letters full of false malicious accusations against them, To Ahashuerus, ver. 6. To Artaxerxes, ver. 7, to 23. 4. Causing the work to cease by force and power, ver. 23, 24. CHAP. IV.

2. As Promoted and perfected, 1. By the Encouragements of the Prophets Haggai and Zechariah against all the discouragements and oppositions of Tatnai and others, Ch. V. throughout. 2. By the Decree of Darius confirming and enforcing the first Decree of Cyrus, Ch. VI. 1. to 13. 3. By the Assistance of their very enemies, viz. Tatnai, &c. So that in [t] Darius 6 year the Temple was finished, ver. 13, 14, 15. This finishing of the Temple, is further amplifyed, 1. Partly by the Solemn Dedication of it, ver. 16. to 19. 2. Partly by the Solemn Passeover which they afterwards observed, ver. 19. to the end of the chapt. CHAP. V.

[t] Temple finished. CHAP. VI.

In the dayes of Artaxerxes (viz. Mnemon) in his seventh year. The Temple being now builded, another company return, under the conduct of Ezra, from Babylon to Jerusalem. Here note II.

2. His expedition to Jerusalem, according to Artaxerxes liberall Commission to him, ver. 6. to 11. More particularly herein are declared, 1. A Copy of Artaxerxes his excellent Commission to Ezra, ver. 11, to 27. 2. Ezra's blessing of God for it, ver. 27, 28. 3. Ezra's gathering the Company that went up with him to the River of Ahava, Ch. VIII. 1. to 15. Where, 1. He sends to Iddo for Ministers for the Temple, ver. 15. to 21. 2. He proclaims a Fast to seek of the Lord a right way, ver. 21, 22, 23. 3. He commits the treasures and vessels of the Temple to the Priests, ver. 24. to 31. 4. Ezra's journey from the River of Ahava to Jerusalem, ver. 31, 32. CHAP. VIII.

3. The Consequents of this expedition, viz.

1. The weighing of the treasures in the Temple, on the fourth day after they came to Jerusalem, ver. 33, 34.
2. The offering of burnt-Offerings, ver. 35.
3. Delivering the Kings Commissions to the Kings Lieutenants, who furthered the House of God, ver. 36.
4. Ezra's Reformation of [u] Strange Marriages of the Jews with the Pagans, whereby they were drawn to do according to their abominations; where note, 1. Ezra's deep laying to heart of those prophane Marriages, the Princes informing him of them, Ch. IX. 1. to 5. 2. His fervent prayer to the Lord for the people, bewailing their sins, ver. 5. to the end of the chapt. 3. His engaging the Priests, Levites, and all Israel in a Covenant to God to reform those marriages; according as Shechaniah encouraged Ezra, Ch. X. 1, to 6. 4. His mourning for their sins, ver. 6. 5. His assembling all the people by proclamation under severe penalties at Jerusalem; where he perswades the people effectually to give their hands to reform their strange Marriages; by putting away their strange wives, and children by them, ver. 7. to 20. 6. The names of them who had married strange wives, is expressed, ver. 20. to the end of the Book.

Nehemiah.

§. I. Order.

THe Return of the Jewes out of Babylon's Captivity to Jerusalem hath been declared in the Book of EZRA; according to the Truth and manner of it: And how the Altar and Temple were built, and Mixt Marriages reformed. Now in this B. of NEHEMIAH it is described, according to the Happy fruits and Events of it; how the City Jerusalem was repaired, Civill Government therein setled, and divers affaires in reference to both Church and State, happily ordered.

§. II. Name.

This History is called by some, the II. of EZRA, 1. Either out of an Opinion that Ezra Penned this as well as the former Book, that bears his name. 2. Or, because the History of the Jewes return from Babylon, begun in Ezra, is here continued:

ed: this Book being as an Additional Supplement, or Continuation to that.

But others better denominate it NEHEMIAH. And thus it is commonly ſtiled, 1. Partly becauſe Nehemiah was the Inſtrumental Author or Penman (as will appear after.) 2. Partly becauſe the Acts of Nehemiah are the principal Subject-matter of it.

Who was this Nehemiah? נחמיה i. e. Nechemiah [a] ſignifies either, The reſt of the LORD; from נוח Nuach, To reſt: by the bleſſing of the LORD he ſetled the Jewes, returned from Captivity, in happy reſt in their own land. Or, The Conſolation of the LORD; from נחם Nicham, To comfort: How appoſitely! ſeeing he was ſuch an excellent inſtrument of Comfort to the Jewes, after their long and mournful Captivity; he being the famous Repairer and Reſtorer of Jeruſalem and her Priviledges.

Nehemiah is called, התרשתא Hattirſhatha, viz. [b] The Tirſhatha. Interpreters much vary among themſelves about the Notation and genuine ſignification of this name. Some think it ſignifies, A Diſſolver of the Foundation: ſome, The foundation, or Drink of them that contemplate: ſome, One that contemplates the year, or Time; from the Hebr. and Syr. both together: ſome, One that had liberty to drink wine in the Kings houſe, for his office ſake there; from the Chald. תחר to give licence, and שתא to drink. Or rather, it ſignifies, A diſpenſer or giver of drink: ſo pointing out Nehemiah's office about the King of Perſia, as [c] Wolphius hath noted. [d] Gerhard thinks it ſignifies, A Cup-bearer; (And it is evident, that was [e] Nehemiah's office.) But in the Chaldee language, is a Title of Dignity and Honour. [f] Junius tranſlates it, Legatus Regis, viz. The Kings Legate, Ambaſſador, or Commiſſary, (who yet ſomewhat ſtrangly interprets and applies this to Shazbazzar, whom many think to be Zerubbabel.) In the Margin of our Engliſh Bibles, it is rendred, Governour. This [g] Nehemiah was the ſon of Hachaliah; Cup-bearer to King Artaxerxes, in Shuſhan the Palace (that being the Metropolis of Perſia, built (as [h] Pliny thinks) by Darius Hyſtaſpis. He was ſent with [i] Letters of Commiſſion from the King to Jeruſalem, to repair and build Jeruſalem, which he ſucceſsfully effected againſt all diſcouragements and oppoſitions.

§. III. Penman.

It is noted by [k] ſome, to be the opinion of divers learned Fathers, viz. Athanaſius, Epiphanius, Chryſoſtome, with others; that Ezra who penned the former book, was Penman alſo of this book. But the received opinion ſeems rather to be adhered to, That Nehemiah himſelf was Penman of this book. 1. Becauſe the very inſcription of this book evinceth it, [l] The words of Nehemiah ſon of Hachaliah, &c. When the Holy Ghoſt calls them Nehemiah's words, ſhall we count them anothers? 2. Becauſe no ſolid Reaſon is brought to the contrary by any of that opinion. 3. That learned and ponderous Hierome ſaith, [m] Ezra and Nehemiah, viz. The Helper, and the Comforter from the LORD, are joyned together in one volume; intimating that they were two diſtinct Authors. 4. Becauſe throughout the whole current of this Hiſtory, Nehemiah is brought in relating his own Acts, in the firſt perſon. [n] As I was in Shuſhan——I was the Kings Cup-bearer, &c.

§. V. Scope.

The Scope or Drift of this book (as of others) is 1. Primary, 2. Secondary.

1. Primary and more immediate, To deſcribe Nehemiah's notable Acts for Reſtauration of Jeruſalem, with eſtabliſhment of other Civil and Eccleſiaſtical priviledges among the returned Jewes. How being affected deeply with Jeruſalems ruines, he obtained Commiſſion from King Artaxerxes for rebuilding Jeruſalem; and ſucceſſfully effected it againſt all oppoſition. How he reformed the Uſurious oppreſſions among them. How he took care for Jeruſalems ſecurity. How for advancement of Gods true Religion and Worſhip, he engaged them all in a moſt Solemn Covenant with God, ſealed to by their Princes, Levites and Prieſts. How he diſpoſed of the inhabitants by lot, ſome to dwell at Jeruſalem, ſome in other Cities. How he Dedicates the walls of Jeruſalem. How he appointed the Offices of Prieſts and Levites in the Temple. And all this being done in 12 years q ſpace, in the 32 year of Artaxerxes he returned to Babylon. But afterwards returning again to Jeruſalem a ſecond time, he found and reformed many corruptions that had crept in among them. q Neh. 13. 6.

2. Secondary, and more mediate; To let us know, 1. How deep and deſperate the diſtreſſes of the Church may grow, before God will reſtore her. 2. How difficult, ſlow and perplexed a work, the work of Reformation is, both by reaſon of adverſaries to be oppoſed and publike corruptions to be removed. 3. How eaſily and wonderfully God can bring Reformation to perfection againſt all impediments whatſoever, when he is reſolved to carry it on. 4. What excellent and uſefull inſtruments pious and faithful Magiſtrates are for the accompliſhing both of Civil and Eccleſiaſtical Reformation; Nehemiah being a lively Pattern of a true Reformer indeed.

ESTHER.

Eſther.

§. I. Order.

IN the two former Hiſtories of Ezra and Nehemiah, The Return of the Jews from the Babylonian Captivity to Jeruſalem hath been deſcribed. Now in this Book of Eſther, ſome remarkable Occurrents that befel the Jews in their Captivity under one of the Perſian Monarchs, viz. Ahaſhuerus, is recorded. This book ſeems placed after the other two (though before them in time) for reaſons formerly intimated, before Ezra.

§. II. Name.

The Hebrews call this book מגילת אסתר Megillath Eſther, i. e. The volume of Eſther. From the chief Subject-matter thereof, viz. The Hiſtory of Q. Eſther the Jew; whoſe faithful ſervice done for the oppreſſed Church and people of the Jews in extremity of ſtraits, is here deſcribed.

§. III. Penman.

Penman is not ſo unanimouſly determined upon among Authors. R. Moſes (as [a] ſome obſerve) contends it was written by the Men of the Great Synagogue. [b] Philo, that it was compoſed by Joachin ſon of Jeſus the High-Prieſt, who returned with Zorobbabel and was his Companion. R. Abraham, that it was written by Mordecai; from that paſſage, Eſth. 9.20,23. And Mordecai wrote theſe things. —As Mordecai had written to them. But this writing of Mordecai relates not to this whole Hiſtory, but only to the Anniverſary Feſtival appointed to be obſerved for the Jewes deliverance, &c. But more probably [c] Auguſtine and others think it was penned by Ezra or Nehemiah.

It is very obſervable of this book of Eſther, that it is the only book in the whole Bible, wherein the Name of GOD is not at all found. Perhaps upon this conſideration it is that [d] ſome have excluded it out of the Canon of Sacred Writ. But [e] others finding theſe X. Chapters in the Hebrew original, upon better ground receive and reckon it as part of the Canon.

§. IV. Time, or Chronologie.

This Book contains an Hiſtory of the ſtate of the Church in Captivity, [f] under the Reign of Ahaſhuerus King of Perſia, from about the 2. year of his reign, till the end of his reign, which was about 18 or 20 years, (ſuppoſing him to be Xerxes) for he reigned about 20 or 21 y. as hath been formerly intimated. Thus compute the time:

§. V. Scope.

Scope, To declare not only the extreme fury and subtilty of the Devil and his instruments against the Church and people of God, but also the singular vigilancy of Gods providence over his Church in greatest straits and deepest dangers, Preserving them from them, Advantaging them by them, and Returning their enemies plots upon their own heads, when neerest execution. For in this book, King Ahashuerus having put away Q. Vashti, marrieth Esther the Jew, and advanceth Mordecai her kinsman for his faithfulnesse in detecting a conspiracie against the Kings life; and appoints Haman to honour him like a Prince (at that very time that Haman came to sue to have Mordecai hanged for not bowing to him, and all the Jewes destroyed.) Which design through Mordecai's instigation, and Esthers intercession with the King is prevented, and all the mischief returned upon Haman and his confederates, to the great triumph and advantage of the Jews in all the Kings provinces. From all which we may see, that verily there is a reward for the righteous, verily there is a God that judgeth in the earth.

§. VI. Principal Parts.

This Book chiefly declares the Jewes deliverance from Hamans Plot; By what means, and in what manner it was effected.

The Means of this strange deliverance was Esthers Advancement. Her Advancement is described, 1. By the occasion of it. 2. By the Manner of it.

1. The Occasion of her Advancement, viz. Queen Vashtie's refusal to come to the King at his Royal Feast, when he would have shown her beauty to his Princes and people, Ch. I. 1. to 13. The effect whereof was a decree, That Vashti should be put away; and that all men should rule over their wives, ver. 13. to the end of the chapt.

I. CHAP. I.

2. The Manner of her Advancement to be h Queen, at large described, Ch. II. 1. to 21.

h Esther made Queen. CHAP. II.

The Manner, of the deliverance is set forth, 1. By the conspiracy of Haman against the Jewes, 2. By the countermining of this subtile and cruel Plot.

II. CHAP. III.

1. Hamans Conspiracy is described, 1. By the Antecedent passages, foregoing, viz. 1. Mordecai's detection and prevention of a conspiracy against the Kings life, ver. 21, 22, 23. 2. Hamans high advancement by the King, and his haughtinesse thereupon, Ch. III. 1, 2. 3. Mordecai's refusing to bow to Haman as the Persians did, ver. 2 to 8. II. By the Matter of the cruel contrivement it self, viz. Haman obtaining by false information, a Decree from the King to destroy all the Jewes in all the Kings Provinces, ver. 8. to 12. III. The Consequents hereupon, viz. 1. The dispatching of these Letters by Posts into all the Kings Provinces for the speedy execution of the Jewes, ver. 12. to the end of the chapt. 2. The great Peril hereupon, Generally to all the Jewes: whereupon Mordecai and the Jewes mourn, and puts Esther upon suit to the King for their lives, Ch. IV. throughout, and Ch. V. 1. to 9. Particularly to Mordecai himself. Hamans high favour with the King enraging him so much the more against Mordecai for not bowing to him, so that he erected a Gallows 50 cubits high, intending to beg Mordecai of the King to be hanged thereon, ver. 9. to the end of the chapt.

CHAP. IV.

2. Gods countermining of Hamans plot, and undermining design, which he did, 1. By Mordecai's singular and unexpected advancement, for his former faithfulness to the King: and this by the ministry of Haman, Ch. VI. throughout. 2. By the ruine of Haman, hanged on his own Gallowes, Ch. VII. throughout, and Ch. VIII. 1, 2. 3. By the reversing of the Letters and Decrees procured by Haman, that the Jewes might every where have liberty to defend their own lives, and destroy their enemies. This is 1 Impetrated, or obtained from the King at Esthers suit, ver. 3. to the end of the chapt. 2 Perpetrated, or acted by the Jewes against their enemies, Ch. IX. 1. to 20. Amplified 1. By the Appointment of the two m dayes of Purim annually in token of gratitude, ver. 20. to the end of the chapt. 2. By Mordecai's great advancement, and good affection to all his seed, Ch. X. 1, 2, 3.

II. DOGMATICAL, or DOCTRINAL Books.

THus far of those Books which are more properly Historical; Now of the Books which were written in the same times with the former, which declare to us the Will

Will of God in a more Doctrinal way, and therefore for distinction sake called DOCTRINAL. They are also called the Poetical Books, because it is conceived that they, or most of them in Hebrew were written in Metre, or Poetical Measures; which now are not so easie to be found out.

These DOGMATICAL Books contain in them Doctrines

I. Of more special and particular reference to some particular individual Person, as touching Job's afflictions in the Book of JOB.

II. Of more general reference and respect to all; and this either 1. In Davids book, viz. The PSALMS. Or, 2. In Solomons Books, which are 1 Proverbial, viz. PROVERBS. 2 Penitential, viz. ECCLESIASTES. 3 Nuptial, viz. CANTICLES, or SONG OF SONGS.

Job.

§. I. Order.

Doctrines of more special reference to a particular Person, are laid down in the Book of JOB.

Touching the Order of this Book, according to which it is ranked in the Bible, it is observed by that learned and judicious Author Mercerus, [a] That the Hebrew Doctors thus order the Books called Hagiographa, or Holy Writings, by way of Emphasis; viz. First, RUTH, who was in the times of Judges. 2. PSALMS, penned by David, who came of Ruth. 3. JOB, according to their opinion, who count him equal to the Queen of Sheba. 4. Solomon's three Books, viz. PROVERBS, ECCLESIASTES, (which are Books of Wisdom) and SONG OF SONGS, which he is thought to have written in his old age. 5. LAMENTATIONS of Jeremiah, who followed Solomon. 6. DANIEL, who after Jeremiah was in exile, in dayes of Nebuchadnezzar. 7. ESTHER, who was after him, under Ahasuerus. 8. EZRA, who flourished under Darius II. after Ahasuerus. 9. Last of all, CHRONICLES, as a Breviary of the whole Bible-History. But amongst those that think JOB was contemporaneous to Moses, this Book of JOB seems most fitly to be ranked first of all.

§. II. Name.

This Book is [b] entituled, JOB; as is most probable from the chief Subject-matter therein treated of, viz. that precious man Job, and his various condition of Prosperity, Adversity, and Recovery out of all his Distresses, and his Demeanour in them all.

This name איוב JOB, (according to Hieronie) [c] signifies one Grieving, from אי a particle of Grieving. Or a Magician, Wise man, the Heb. אוב signifying a familiar spirit, Lev. 20 27. Magician is sometimes taken in good sense. Some derive it from the Chaldee אוי vie. To rejoyce, as it were shouting howling; but its usually taken in better part. Some derive it from איב vir. An enemy, passively: Job being exposed to enmity of wife, friends, &c. and almost abhorred of all by reason of his overwhelming calamities. [d] Gregorius likes best this Etymon. But Mercerus rather thinks it comes from some Arabian root, which often agrees with the Hebrew.

[b] Titulus est LIBER JOB, non quod Job scripserit, sed quia de Job est scriptus. D. Par. Procem. in lib. Job.

[c] Nomen JOB Hebraicè est איוב Pybo. Erit autem interjectum Magi nomen in bonam interdum sonat. אי est Dolentis particula. Alii à יבב Chaldaica voce quæ jubilare significat, quasi jubilantem. Sed יבב in bonum fere partem sumi soler. Sunt qui ab אין inimicè deducunt, passivè: quasi virum simulati & inimicitiis expositum dicas, & ob calamitates quibus obruus penè fuit, omnibus abhorrendum. Sed curiosius non puto vocis etymon inquirendum, quia ex fonte potius Arabico ductum puto: ersi multa Arabici nomina virorum cum Hebræis conveniunt, & ex fonte sint Hebræo, ut sociorum, Job, Eliphaz, Tsophar, Elihu, &c. Joan. Mercer. comment in lib. Job, c. 1. ver. 1.

§. III. Whether there was such a man as Job? Who he was? And when he lived?

But was there ever any such man as this Job? Answ. [e] Some think that there never was such a man in the world, as this Job, of which this Book speaks: And so they account this Book not Historical, but Parabolical, to expound mens opinions about Gods providence in afflictions, &c. like Nathan's Parable to David, in 2 Sam. 12. And that no mortal man was able to bear such afflictions as here ascribed to Job, &c. But this opinion upon divers grounds is exploded by the Judicious; who hold, that this Job was, and that all these things storied of him, befell him. For, 1. This Book expresly noteth Persons names, Places, Facts, and other Circumstances, usually recited in true real Histories. Here's, 1. Job's [f] Name, Country, Piety, Wealth, &c. described. Here's the names, numbers, and acts of his children mentioned. Here's his [g] wife, and her carriage recorded. Here's his [h] friends, their Names, Countries, and Discourses with him in his afflictions, punctually delineated, &c. And can we rationally imagine, these were not realities? 2. The honourable mention which other Scriptures make of Job, evince that this was a real story. In O. Testament Ezekiel saith, [i] Though these three men, Noah, Daniel and Job were in it, they should deliver but their own souls, &c. They are here called three men: We believe there was really a Noah, and a Daniel; and why should we doubt of a Job? In N. Testament, James saith, [k] Ye have heard of the patience of Job, and have seen the end of the Lord, that the Lord is very pitiful, and of tender mercy. 3. The sounder Hebrew Writers acknowledge that this Job really was, and that all these things befell him for an example to us, saith [l] Mercerus. Modern Writers generally reputate this a real history.

But the greater doubt is, Who this Job was, and in what time he lived?

Answ. These two Questions depend so upon each other, that the Resolution of the one will be coincident with the Resolution of the other. Here are various Opinions, recited by [m] Mercerus. As,

[m] I. Merc. ibid.

1. Some think he lived in dayes of Moses. But others judge their reasons for that opinion so light, that by them it may be as well concluded that he lived in dayes of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob.

2. Some, that he lived in time of the Judges, from that expression Job 27.12. because in that time all was vanity, all given to wickedness.

3. Some, that he lived in dayes of Ahasuerus, because of the beautiful [n] women then sought for, [o] Jobs daughters being commended as the fairest of all in the land.

[n] Esth. 2.2, &c.
[o] Job 42.15.

4. Some, that he lived in the time of the Queen of Sheba, because mention is here made of the [p] Sabeans. Others, in the time of the Chaldeans under Nebuchadnezzar, because the [q] Chaldeans are mentioned.

[p] Job 1.15, &c.
[q] Job 1.17.

5. Some, that he lived in the dayes of Jacob and married his daughter Dinah, because of that phrase, [r] Thou speakest like a foolish woman: much like that, —— [s] hath wrought folly in Israel.

[r] Job 2.10.
[s] Gen. 34.7.

But the weakness of these opinions and their grounds, seems very apparent.

6. Some others think that Job came of [t] Nahor Abraham's brother, and that he was the third from Nahor, thus; ——Nahor, ——Uz, ——Job: and that he lived about that time that Israel was in Egypt. [u] Hierome seems to incline hereunto, especially seeing Job is said to dwell in the [x] Land of Uz, and [y] Uz was one of Nahor's hor's sonnes. This opinion [z] Mercerus thinks most probable of all. But (in [a] Gerhards opinion) that Land seems not to have received its name of Uz coetaneous to Abraham, but rather from [b] Uz son of Aram, Sem's Nephew, presently after the flood.

7. Others rather are of opinion, that Job is the same with [c] Jobab King of the Idumeans, of the race of Esau. And that אוב viz. Jobab might be changed into אוי Job, either from the custome of the Hebrew tongue, which oft-times changeth one letter for another; or from the Aramick, Idumean, or rather dialect of the Country where he sojourned; or from the change of his condition in the world; while prosperous, he might be called Jobab, the letter being doubled; when in distresse, his name contracted into Job. See the like in case of [d] Abraham, of [e] Naomi.

This last opinion is urged by Arguments not to be neglected. 1. From the circumstances of place. [f] Jobab lived in the Land of Idumea, Job in the Land of [g] Uz, a chief tract in Idumea. Hence Kings of Edom are called [h] Kings of the Land of Uz. 2. From description of their possessions, Jobab had [i] Regal Majesty, Job had a [k] Princely estate, not usual to private men. And also Princely [l] Dignity, Habit, and Office. 3. From Similitude of names. As Moses reckons up among Esau's sonnes, one [m] Eliphaz who brought forth one Theman builder of a Town of his own name. So Jobs History mentions [n] Eliphaz the Temanite. 4. From the consent of divers Authors subscribing to this opinion.

Ambrose saith, [o] That there were of Esau divers good and faithful, Job proves, who is the fifth from Abraham, of the sonnes of Esau, that is the Nephew of Esau.

And [*] Augustine proves that some of other Nations besides Jewes were brought to be of the number of the Israelites, by the instance of JOB, that holy and admirable man, who was neither thence borne, nor Proselyte, i. e. stranger to the people Israel: but deriving his kindred from the Idumean Nation, there was borne, there dyed, who is so praised in the Word of God that for righteousnesse and godlinesse, no man of his times could equalize him. The LXX. Interpreters at the latter end of Job, which others cited by [p] Gerhard, and Gerhard himself, are of this judgment. [q] Mercerus, after the recital of severall opinions, thus concludes. Surely considering all things diligently, Job seems to me to be most antient, and to have lived about the Patriarchs times, if it be meet to determine any thing in so great variety, §. IV. Penman.

Penman of this Book is not certainly known. 1. Some think it was Solomon: but that's scarce probable, Job (by consent of all) living so long before Solomon, and many Penmen of holy Scripture intervening betwixt them. 2. Some, That Job wrote this Book himself, because the expressions and speeches of Job are laid down in such emphatical and pathetick terms. But [s] Gerhard suggests divers reasons against this opinion: For, 1 Then Moses should not be the first Writer of Scripture, Job living long before him. 2. Then this Book should not have been reckoned in the sacred Canon, Job being not an Israelite, but an Idumean, and his Book written in s Gerh. loc. Com. I. in Exegef. §. 137.

Arabick, not in Hebrew. Yet he denies not, but Job might write the discourses betwixt him and his friends, in the lofty Arabick stile; Moses afterwards making many additions, and writing the whole in Hebrew. 3. Most are of opinion, that it was penned by Moses. R. Solomon and other Hebrewes favour this opinion, saith [t] Gerhard. There are that think, [u] Moses found the History of Job with Jethro his father-in-law in Midian, and that he carried it thence into Egypt, to instruct the Israelites by Job's example, patiently to bear Egypts oppressions. [x] Alsted thinks Moses wrote Genesis and Job, about the same time, viz. a little before Israels departure out of Egypt, Ann. mund. 2452. The most common opinion is (saith [y] Diodate) That Moses hath been the Author of it, having written the Narration in prose, and the Discourses which were held upon this subject in Heroick verse, fitting with the dignity and gravity of the matter.

§. V. Scope.

The chief Scope of this excellent Book is,

1. Immediately, To describe the various state of that truly Religious, and (as [z] Justine stiles him) thrice-Happy-JOB, viz. His great Prosperity; His deep Adversity; and his wonderful Recovery out of all his distresses; and his singular Deportment in them all.

z Iustin. in resp. ad Orthod. quæst. 15.

Especially here are delineated, Jobs many and heavy afflictions, in his state, servants, children, and in his own person both body and soul; into all which he was suddenly implunged by Gods permission, and Satans instigation, accusing Job's Religion as mercenary; that so Job's uprightness might be cleared, his graces proved, Satan confuted, and God in all magnified.

More particularly, Job having experience of Gods love and favour in Christ, is amazed at the severity of Gods strange proceedings with him, and bursts out into some distempered complaints to God, justifying himself. But Job's three friends endeavour to convince Job, that either he was a wicked man, or an hypocrite, Gods judgments being inflicted more severely upon him then usually upon the faithful, and therefore they advise him to humble himself before God, and repent, that so good may come unto him. Herein they have an ill cause, but they managed it well. To them Job replies, 1 By way of Negation, that God's severe judgments do not always argue them wicked or hypocrites, that endure them; as constant experience testifies: Therefore he will not condemn himself by reason of his afflictions, against the comfortable testimony of his own conscience. 2 By way of Concession, That as a creature, much less a sinner, he durst not, could not contest with GOD the Creator and Judge of all; but yet as a believer in Christ, he doubts not but to be cleared and justified by God. Herein Job had a good cause, but managed it ill.

His three friends being silenced, a fourth, viz. Elihu speaks, 1 Partly against the other three, for that they had not rightly stated the cause of God with Job. 2 Partly against Job, not so much for his former life, as his present irreverent miscarriages against God under his afflictions, acknowledging that God may severely scourge the faithful for some secret faults, or for trial, or other ends; and therefore Gods judgments should be silently adored by Job. Job hereunto submits. God afterwards appears, and confirms it, that Job's troubles were for his singular trial, and therefore condemns Job's friends, directs them to go to Job to pray for them; and so recovers Job to double happiness.

a Job's afflictions continued for twelve moneths, as the Jewes think; for 7 yeares, as Suidas. See Gerh. loc. com. 1. in Exeges. §. 139.

2. Mediately, To evidence as in a mirrour, 1. That manifold, deep, strange, and long afflictions, may be incident to Gods dearest and uprightest servants; not so much for Castigation of their sins, as Probation of their vertues, through the wise, just, and fatherly providence of God unto them. 2. That, to censure Gods servants under such distresses, for impiety or hypocrisie, were most unwarrantable and injurious. 3. That true faith in Christ, an upright heart and good conscience towards

wards God, is the sweetest comfort supporting the heart under bitterest Trials. 4. That extremity of Troubles may push the best of Saints upon some extravagancies of passions and expressions, which yet argue not a nullity of Grace, nor a losse of Gods love. 5. That when patience hath had its perfect work, and God hath sufficiently honoured his own Name in the sufferings of his people, he can easily deliver them out of all their trials and distresses, and crown them with double happinesse and prosperity.

§. VI. Principal parts.

In this Book Jobs threefold condition is described, viz. 1. His great Prosperity. 2. His deep Adversity. 3. His wonderful Recovery out of all his Distresses.

JOB'S [b] PROSPERITY was either, 1. Spiritual, Ch. I. ver. 1. Or, 2. Temporal, In his Posterity, ver. 2. In his Possessions, ver. 3. In the love and communion among his children, ver. 4. Amplified by Jobs sanctifying them continually by Sacrifices, ver. 5.

JOB'S [c] ADVERSITY, is described, I. By the Antecedent Occasion of it, viz. Satan's instigation of the LORD against Job as being meerly mercenary in his Religion, and the LORD's permission, leaving all that Job had, in his hand, but himself, ver. 6. to 13. II. By the particular miseries brought upon him, viz. 1. His Oxen and Asses spoiled by the Sabeans, slaying also his servants, ver. 13, 14, 15. 2. His sheep, and other servants burnt with fire from heaven, ver. 16. 3. His Camels taken, and other servants slain by the Chaldeans, ver. 17. 4. All his children destroyed with the fall of their eldest brothers house; amplified by Jobs self-denying deportment under all this, ver. 18. to the end of the chapt. 5. His whole body punished with wofull botches and blains, through Satan's new instigation against him, Ch. II. 1. to 9. III. By the several events or Consequents hereupon ensuing, viz. 1. His wives provoking him to curse God, or deriding him for [d] blessing God; whom therefore Job reproves, ver. 9, 10. 2. His three friends visiting Job, to mourn with him and comfort him, who amazed at the extremity of his grief, sate silent seven dayes, ver. 11, 12, 13. 3. Job's distempered cursing the day of his birth, preferring death before life, because of his extreame anguish, Ch. III. throughout. 4. The [e] famous Dialogue or discourse had betwixt Job and his friends, in reference to this wofull affliction upon him, wherein this Qu. for substance is fully discussed, viz. Whether many strange heavy and long afflictions be infallible Signes of Gods hatred, or of the afflicted persons wickednesse or hypocrisie! In this discourse also is interwoven Job's Faith, Patience, Courage, Perseverance and commendable deportment, though now and then he discovers some distempers and infirmities, Ch. 4. to Ch. 42.

In this discourse consider, 1. The dispute it self. 2. The Moderators that decided and determined the controversie.

I. The dispute it self, was betwixt Job and his three friends that came to visit and comfort him. Here are observable VIII. several Acts, viz.

I. Eliphaz his first Oppositon against *Job, which (besides the Preface, Chap. IV. 1, 2.) is Partly Reprehensory; Partly Hortatory.

1. Reprehensory, wherein he endeavours convincingly to blame Job, 1. For fainting under his own troubles, who had supported others in their distresses, ver. 3. 4, 5. 2. For his iniquity, it being unusual for the righteous, but onely for the wicked to be thus afflicted, ver. 6. to 12. 3. For his self-justification before God, which he condemns, 1. By his vision seen to that effect, 2. By divers Arguments, ver. 12. to the end of the chapt. 3. By the experience of the Saints in all ages, Ch. V. 1. to 8.

2. Hortatory, inciting Job, 1. To seek to God and commit his cause to him, urging this by many Arguments, ver. 8. to 17. 2. To submit silently and self-denyingly to the Lords chastisements, thereupon assuring him of many promised blessings under his afflictions, ver. 17. to the end of the chapt.

JOB's Reply, is hereunto subjoyned; wherein he, 1. Excuseth his bitter complaints, because his afflictions were most heavy, so that he wisheth for death, Ch. VI. 1. to 14. 2. Challengeth his friends for un-compassionatenesse to him in his deep affliction, ver. 14. to the end of the chapt. 3. Demonstrateth by many Reasons, what just cause he had to desire to be cut off, Ch. VII. 1. to 17. 4. Acknowledgeth himself unworthy of all respect from God, in mercy or judgement, ver. 17, 18, 19. 5. Confesseth his sinne, imploring Divine pardon, ver. 20, 21.

II. Bildad's first Opposition against *Job, tending to confute Jobs reply to Eliphaz, and to prove that Job was thus punished for his iniquity, and this by divers Arguments, viz. 1. Gods justice, Ch. VIII. 1, 2, 3. 2. Gods judgement on Job's children, proportionably applicable to Job himself, ver. 4. to 8. 3. Experience of Antiquity, touching the destruction of Hypocrites, ver. 8. to 20. Hereupon inviteth Job to repentance, with promises to him thereupon, ver. 20, 21, 22.

JOB'S Reply; 1. By way of Confession, granting the infinite Justice, Wisedome, and Right of God over his creatures, so that none may contend with him, Ch. IX. 1. to 21. 2. By way of Negation, §. V. Scope.

Scope, To declare not only the extreme fury and subtilty of the Devil and his instruments against the Church and people of God, but also the singular vigilancy of Gods providence over his Church in extremest straits and deepest dangers, Preserving them from them, Advantaging them by them, and Returning their enemies plots upon their own heads, when neerest execution. For in this book, King Ahashuerus having put away Q. Vashti, marrieth Esther the Jew, and advanceth Mordecai her kinsman for his faithfulnesse in detecting a conspiracie against the Kings life; and appoints Haman to honour him like a Prince (at that very time that Haman came to sue to have Mordecai hanged for not bowing to him, and all the Jewes destroyed.) Which design through Mordecai's instigation, and Esthers intercession with the King is prevented, and all the mischief returned upon Haman and his confederates, to the great triumph and advantage of the Jews in all the Kings provinces. From all which we may see, that verily there is a reward for the righteous, verily there is a God that judgeth in the earth.

§. VI. Principal Parts.

This Book chiefly declares the Jewes deliverance from Hamans Plot; By what means, and in what manner it was effected.

I. The Means of this strange deliverance was Esthers Advancement. Her Advancement is described, 1. By the occasion of it. 2. By the Manner of it.

CHAP. I. 1. The Occasion of her Advancement, viz. Queen Vahstie's refusal to come to the King at his Royal Feast, when he would have shown her beauty to his Princes and people, *Ch.*I.1. to 13. The effect whereof was a decree, That Vahstie should be put away; and that all men should rule over their wives, ver. 13. to the end of the chapt.

h Esther made Queen. CHAP. II. 2. The Manner of her Advancement to be h Queen, at large described, *Ch.*II.1. to 21.

II. The Manner, of the deliverance is set forth, 1. By the conspiracy of Haman against the Jewes, 2. By the countermining of this subtile and cruel Plot.

CHAP. III. 1. Hamans Conspiracy is described, I. By the Antecedent passages, foregoing, viz. 1. Mordecai's detection and prevention of a conspiracy against the Kings life, ver. 21, 22, 23. 2. Hamans high advancement by the King, and his haughtinesse thereupon, *Ch.*III.1,2. 3. Mordecai's refusing to bow to Haman as the Persians did, ver. 2 to 8. II. By the Matter of the cruel contrivement it self, viz. Hamans obtaining by false information, a Decree from the King to destroy all the Jewes in all the Kings Provinces, ver. 8. to 12. III. The Consequents hereupon, viz. 1. The dispatching of these Letters by Posts into all the Kings Provinces for the speedy execution of the Jewes, ver. 12. to the end of the chapt. 2. The great Peril hereupon, Generally to all the Jewes: whereupon Mordecai and the Jewes mourn, and puts Esther upon suit to the King for their lives, *Ch.*IV. *throughout, and Ch.*V.1 to 9. Particularly to Mordecai himself. Hamans high favour with the King enraging him so much the more against Mordecai for not bowing to him, so that he erected a Gallows 50 cubits high, intending to beg Mordecai of the King to be hanged thereon, ver. 9. to the end of the chapt

CHAP. IV.

i Hamans cruel plot against the Jewes defeated, and turned upon his own head. m Purim Feast. CHAP. V. CHAP. VI. CHAP. VII. CHAP. VIII. CHAP. IX. CHAP. X.

2. Gods i countermining of Hamans plot, and undermining design, which he did, 1. By Mordecai's singular and unexpected advancement, for his former faithfulnes to the King: and this by the ministry of Haman, Ch VI. throughout. 2. By the ruine of Haman, hanged on his own Gallowes, *Ch.*VII. throughout, and Ch. VIII. 1,2. 3. By the reversing of the Letters and Decrees procured by Haman, that the Jewes might every where have liberty to defend their own lives, and destroy their enemies. This is 1 Impetrated, or obtained from the King at Esthers suit, ver. 3. to the end of the chapt. 2 Perpetrated, or acted by the Jewes against their enemies, Ch IX.1. to 20. Amplified 1. By the Appointment of the two m dayes of Purim annually in token of gratitude, *ver.*20. to the end of the chapt. 2. By Mordecai's great advancement, and good affection to all his seed, *Ch.*X.1,2,3.

II. DOGMATICAL, or DOCTRINAL Books.

THus far of those Books which are more properly Historical; Now of the Books which were written in the same times with the former, which declare to us the Will

Will of God in a more Doctrinal way, and therefore for distinction sake called DOCTRINAL. They are also called the Poetical Books, because it is conceived that they, or most of them in Hebrew were written in Metre, or Poetical Measures; which now are not so easie to be found out.

These DOGMATICAL Books contain in them Doctrines

I. Of more special and particular reference to some particular individual Person, as touching Job's afflictions in the Book of JOB.

II. Of more general reference and respect to all; and this either 1. In Davids book, viz. The PSALMS. Or, 2. In Solomons Books, which are 1 Proverbial, viz. PROVERBS. 2 Penitential, viz. ECCLESIASTES. 3 Nuptial, viz. CANTICLES, or SONG OF SONGS.

Job.

§. I. Order.

Doctrines of more special reference to a particular Person, are laid down in the Book of JOB.

Touching the Order of this Book, according to which it is ranked in the Bible, it is observed by that learned and judicious Author Mercerus, [a] That the Hebrew Doctors thus order the Books called Hagiographa, or Holy Writings, by way of Emphasis; viz. First, RUTH, who was in the times of Judges. 2. PSALMS, penned by David, who came of Ruth. 3. JOB, according to their opinion, who count him equal to the Queen of Sheba. 4. Solomon's three Books, viz. PROVERBS, ECCLESIASTES, (which are Books of Wisdom) and SONG OF SONGS, which he is thought to have written in his old age. 5. LAMENTATIONS of Jeremiah, who followed Solomon. 6. DANIEL, who after Jeremiah was in exile, in dayes of Nebuchadnezzar. 7. ESTHER, who was after him, under Ahasuerus. 8. EZRA, who flourished under Darius II, after Ahasuerus. 9. Last of all, CHRONICLES, as a Breviary of the whole Bible-History. But amongst those that think JOB was contemporaneous to Moses, this Book of JOB seems most fitly to be ranked first of all.

§. II. Name.

This Book is [b] entituled, JOB; as is most probable from the chief Subject-matter therein treated of, viz. that precious man Job, and his various condition of Prosperity, Adversity, and Recovery out of all his Distresses, and his Demeanour in them all.

This name איוב JOB, (according to Hierome) [c] signifies one Grieving, from אי a particle of Grieving. Or a Magician, Wise man, the Heb. אוב signifying a familiar spirit, Lev. 20 27. Magician is sometimes taken in good sense. Some derive it from Sunt qui ab איב inimico deducant, passivè: quasi virum simulati & inimicitiis expositum dicas, & ob calamitates quibus obrutus penè fuit, omnibus abhorrendum. Sed cutiosius non puto vocis etymon inquirendum, quia ex fonte potius Arabico ductum puto: etsi multa Arabica nomina virorum cum Hebræis conveniant, & ex fonte sint Hebræo, ut sociorum, Iob, Eliphaz, Tiophar, Elihu, &c. Joan. An enemy, passively: Job being exposed to enmity of wife, friends, &c. and almost abhorred of all by reason of his overwhelming calamities. [d] Gregorius likes best this Etymon. But Mercerus rather thinks it comes from some Arabian root, which often agrees with the Hebrew.

§. III. Whether there was such a man as Job? Who he was? And when he lived?

But was there ever any such man as this Job? Answ. [e] Some think that there never was such a man in the world, as this Job, of which this Book speaks: And so they account this Book not Historical, but Parabolical, to expound mens opinions about Gods providence in afflictions &c. like Nathan's Parable to David, in 2 Sam. 12. And that no mortal man was able to bear such afflictions as here ascribed to Job, &c. But this opinion upon divers grounds is exploded by the Judicious; who hold, that this Job was, and that all these things storied of him, befell him. For, 1. This Book expressly noteth Persons names, Places, Facts, and other Circumstances, usually recited in true real Histories. Here's, 1. Job's [f] Name, Country, Piety, Wealth, &c. described. Here's the names, numbers, and acts of his children mentioned. Here's his [g] wife, and her carriage recorded. Here's his [h] friends, their Names, Countries, and Discourses with him in his afflictions, punctually delineated. &c. And can we rationally imagine, these were not reallities? 2. The honourable mention which other Scriptures make of Job, evince that this was a real story. In O. Testament Ezekiel saith, [i] Though these three men, Noah, Daniel and Job were in it, they should deliver but their own souls, &c. They are here called three men. We believe there was really a Noah, and a Daniel; and why should we doubt of a Job? In N. Testament, James saith, [k] Ye have heard of the patience of Job, and have seen the end of the Lord, that the Lord is very pittiful, and of tender mercy. 3. The founder Hebrew Writers acknowledge that this Job really was, and that all these things befell him for an example to us, saith [l] Mercerus. Modern Writers generally repute this a real history.

But the greater doubt is, Who this Job was, and in what time he lived?

Answ. These two Questions depend so upon each other, that the Resolution of the one will be coincident with the Resolution of the other. Here are various Opinions, recited by [m] Mercerus. As,

[m] I. Merc. ibid.

1. Some think he lived in dayes of Moses. But others judge their reasons for that opinion so light, that by them it may be as well concluded that he lived in dayes of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob.

2. Some, that he lived in time of the Judges, from that expression Job 27. 12. because in that time all was vanity, all given to wickedness.

3. Some, that he lived in dayes of Ahasuerus, because of the beautiful [n] women then sought for, [o] Jobs daughters being commended as the fairest of all in the land.

[n] Esth. 2. 2, &c.
[o] Job 42. 15.

4. Some, that he lived in the time of the Queen of Sheba, because mention is here made of the [p] Sabeans. Others, in the time of the Chaldeans under Nebuchadnezzar, because the [q] Chaldeans are mentioned.

[p] Job 1. 15, &c.
[q] Job 1. 17.

5. Some, that he lived in the dayes of Jacob and married his daughter Dinah, because of that phrase, [r] Thou speakest like a foolish woman: much like that, —— [s] hath wrought folly in Israel.

[r] Job 2. 10.
[s] Gen. 34. 7.

But the weakness of these opinions and their grounds, seems very apparent.

6. Some others think that Job came of [t] Nahor Abraham's brother, and that he was the third from Nahor, thus; ——Nahor,——Uz,——Job: and that he lived about that time that Israel was in Egypt. [u] Hierome seems to incline hereunto, especially seeing Job is said to dwell in the [x] Land of Uz, and [y] Uz was one of Nahor's hor's ſonnes. This opinion [z] Mercerus thinks moſt probable of all. But (in [a] Gerhards opinion) that Land ſeems not to have received its name of Uz coetaneous to Abraham, but rather from [b] Uz ſon of Aram, Sem's Nephew, preſently after the flood.

7. Others rather are of opinion, that Job is the ſame with [c] Jobab King of the Idumeans, of the race of Eſau. And that איוב viz. Jobab might be changed into איוב Job, either from the cuſtome of the Hebrew tongue, which oft-times changeth one letter for another; or from the Aramick, Idumean, or rather dialect of the Country where he ſojourned; or from the change of his condition in the world; while proſperous, he might be called Jobab, the letter being doubled; when in diſtreſſe, his name contracted into Job. See the like in caſe of [d] Abraham, of [e] Naomi.

This laſt opinion is urged by Arguments not to be neglected. 1. From the circumſtances of place. [f] Jobab lived in the Land of Idumea, Job in the Land of [g] Uz, a chief tract in Idumea. Hence Kings of Edom are called [h] Kings of the Land of Uz. 2. From deſcription of their poſſeſſions, Jobab had [i] Regal Majeſty, Job had a [k] Princely eſtate, not uſual to private men. And alſo Princely [l] Dignity, Habit, and Office. 3. From Similitude of names. As Moſes reckons up among Eſau's ſonnes, one [m] Eliphaz who brought forth one Theman builder of a Town of his own name. So Jobs Hiſtory mentions [n] Eliphaz the Temanite. 4. From the conſent of divers Authors ſubſcribing to this opinion.

Ambroſe ſaith, [o] That there were of Eſau divers good and faithful, Job proves, who is the fifth from Abraham, of the ſonnes of Eſau, that is the Nephew of Eſau.

And * Auguſtine proves that ſome of other Nations beſides Jewes were brought to be of the number of the Iſraelites, by the inſtance of JOB, that holy and admirable man, who was neither thence borne, nor Proſelyte, i. e. ſtranger to the people Iſrael: but deriving his kindred from the Idumean Nation, there was borne, there dyed, who is ſo praiſed in the Word of God that for righteouſneſſe and godlineſſe, no man of his times could equalize him. The LXX. Interpreters at the latter end of Job, which others cited by [p] Gerhard, and Gerhard himſelf, are of this judgment. [q] Mercerus, after the recital of ſeverall opinions, thus concludes. Surely conſidering all things diligently, Job ſeems to me to be moſt antient, and to have lived about the Patriarchs times, if it be meet to determine any thing in ſo great variety, §. IV. Penman.

Penman of this Book is not certainly known. 1. Some think it was Solomon: but that's ſcarce probable, Job (by conſent of all) living ſo long before Solomon, and many Penmen of holy Scripture intervening betwixt them. 2. Some, That Job wrote this Book himſelf, becauſe the expreſſions and ſpeeches of Job are laid down in ſuch emphatical and pathetick terms. But [s] Gerhard ſuggeſts divers reaſons againſt this opinion: For, 1 Then Moſes ſhould not be the firſt Writer of Scripture, Job living long before him. 2. Then this Book ſhould not have been reckoned in the ſacred Canon, Job being not an Iſraelite, but an Idumaan, and his Book written in s Gerh. loc. Com. I. in Exegeſi. §. 137.

Arabick, not in Hebrew. Yet he denies not, but Job might write the discourses betwixt him and his friends, in the lofty Arabick stile; Moses afterwards making many additions, and writing the whole in Hebrew. 3. Most are of opinion, that it was penned by Moses. R. Solomon and other Hebrewes favour this opinion, saith [t] Gerhard. There are that think,[u] Moses found the History of Job with Jethro his father-in-law in Midian, and that he carried it thence into Egypt, to instruct the Israelites by Job's example, patiently to bear Egypts oppressions. [x] Alsted thinks Moses wrote Genesis and Job, about the same time, viz. a little before Israels departure out of Egypt, Ann. mund. 2452. The most common opinion is (saith [y] Diodate) That Moses hath been the Author of it, having written the Narration in prose, and the Discourses which were held upon this subject in Heroick verse, fitting with the dignity and gravity of the matter.

§. V. Scope.

The chief Scope of this excellent Book is,

1. Immediately, To describe the various state of that truly Religious, and (as [z] Iustine stiles him) thrice-Happy-IOB, viz. His great Prosperity; His deep Adversity; and his wonderful Recovery out of all his distresses; and his singular Deportment in them all.

Especially here are delineated, Jobs many and heavy afflictions, in his state, servants, children, and in his own person both body and soul; into all which he was suddenly implunged by Gods permission, and Satans instigation, accusing Job's Religion as mercenary; that so Job's uprightness might be cleared, his graces proved, Satan confuted, and God in all magnified.

More particularly, Job having experience of Gods love and favour in Christ, is amazed at the severity of Gods strange proceedings with him, and bursts out into some distempered complaints to God, justifying himself. But Job's three friends endeavour to convince Job, that either he was a wicked man, or an hypocrite, Gods judgments being inflicted more severely upon him then usually upon the faithful; and therefore they advise him to humble himself before God, and repent, that so good may come unto him. Herein they have an ill cause, but they managed it well. To them Job replies. 1 By way of Negation, that God's severe judgments do not always argue them wicked or hypocrites, that endure them; as constant experience testifies: Therefore he will not condemn himself by reason of his afflictions, against the comfortable testimony of his own conscience. 2 By way of Concession, That as a creature, much less a sinner, he durst not, could not contest with GOD the Creator and Judge of all; but yet as a believer in Christ, he doubts not but to be cleared and justified by God. Herein Job had a good cause, but managed it ill.

His three friends being silenced, a fourth, viz. Elihu speaks, 1 Partly against the other three, for that they had not rightly stated the cause of God with Job. 2 Partly against Job, not so much for his former life, as his present irreverent miscarriages against God under his afflictions, acknowledging that God may severely scourge the faithful for some secret faults, or for trial, or other ends; and therefore Gods judgments should be silently adored by Iob. Iob hereunto submits. God afterwards appears, and confirms it, that Job's troubles were for his singular trial, and therefore condemns Job's friends, directs them to go to Iob to pray for them; and so recovers Iob to double happiness.

2. Mediately, To evidence as in a mirrour, 1. That manifold, deep, strange, and [a] long afflictions, may be incident to Gods dearest and upprightest servants; not so much for Castigation of their sins, as Probation of their vertues; through the wise, just, and fatherly providence of God unto them. 2. That, to censure Gods servants under such distresses, for impiety or hypocrisie, were most unwarrantable and injurious. 3. That true faith in Christ, an upright heart and good conscience toward wards God, is the sweetest comfort supporting the heart under bitterest Trials. 4. That extremity of Troubles may push the best of Saints upon some extravagancies of passions and expressions, which yet argue not a nullity of Grace, nor a losse of Gods love. 5. That when patience hath had its perfect work, and God hath sufficiently honoured his own Name in the sufferings of his people, he can easily deliver them out of all their trials and distresses, and crown them with double happinesse and prosperity.

§. VI. Principal parts.

In this Book Jobs threefold condition is described, viz. 1. His great Prosperity. 2. His deep Adversity. 3. His wonderful Recovery out of all his Distresses.

JOB'S [b] PROSPERITY was either, 1. Spiritual, Ch. I. ver. 1. Or, 2. Temporal, In his Posterity, ver. 2. In his Possessions, ver. 3. In the love and communion among his children, ver. 4. Amplified by Jobs sanctifying them continually by Sacrifices, ver. 5.

JOB'S [c] ADVERSITY, is described, I. By the Antecedent Occasion of it, viz. Satan's instigation of the LORD against Job as being meerly mercenary in his Religion, and the LORD's permission, leaving all that Job had, in his hand, but himself, ver. 6. to 13. II. By the particular miseries brought upon him, viz. 1. His Oxen and Asses spoiled by the Sabeans, slaying also his servants, ver. 13, 14, 15. 2. His sheep, and other servants burnt with fire from heaven, ver. 16. 3. His Camels taken, and other servants slain by the Chaldeans, ver. 17. 4. All his children destroyed with the fall of their eldest brothers house; amplified by Jobs self-denying deportment under all this, ver. 18. to the end of the chapt. 5. His whole body punished with wofull botches and blains, through Satan's new instigation against him, Ch. II. 1. to 9. III. By the several events or Consequents thereupon ensuing, viz. 1. His wives provoking him to curse God, or deriding him for [d] blessing God; whom therefore Job reproves, ver. 9, 10. 2. His three friends visiting Job, to mourn with him and comfort him, who amazed at the extremity of his grief, sate silent seven dayes, ver. 11, 12, 13. 3. Job's distempered cursing the day of his birth, preferring death before life, because of his extreame anguish, Ch. III. throughout. 4. The [e] famous Dialogue or discourse had betwixt Job and his friends, in reference to this wofull affliction upon him, wherein this Qu. for substance is fully discussed, viz. whether many strange heavy and long afflictions be infallible Signes of Gods hatred, or of the afflicted persons wickednesse or hypocrisie! In this discourse also is interwoven Job's Faith, Patience, Courage, Perseverance and commendable deportment, though now and then he discovers some distempers and infirmities, Ch. 4. to Ch. 42.

In this discourse consider, 1. The dispute it self. 2. The Moderators that decided and determined the controversie.

I. The dispute it self, was betwixt Job and his three friends that came to visit and comfort him. Here are observable VIII. several Acts, viz.

I. Eliphaz his first Oppositon against Job, which (besides the Preface, Chap. IV. 1, 2.) is Partly Reprehensory; Partly Hortatory.

1. Reprehensory, wherein he endeavours convincingly to blame Job, 1. For fainting under his own troubles, who had supported others in their distresses, ver. 3, 4, 5. 2. For his iniquity, it being unusual for the righteous, but onely for the wicked to be thus afflicted, ver. 6. to 12. 3. For his self-justification before God, which he condemns, 1. By his vision seen to that effect, 2. By divers Arguments, ver. 12. to the end of the chapt. 3. By the experience of the Saints in all ages, Ch. V. 1. to 8.

2. Hortatory, inciting Job, 1. To seek to God and commit his cause to him, urging this by many Arguments, ver. 8. to 17. 2. To submit silently and self-denyingly to the Lords chastisements, thereupon assuring him of many promised blessings under his afflictions, ver. 17. to the end of the chapt.

JOB'S Reply, is hereunto subjoyned; wherein he, 1. Excuseth his bitter complaints, because his afflictions were most heavy, so that he wisheth for death, Ch. VI. 1. to 14. 2. Challengeth his friends for un-compassionateness to him in his deep affliction, ver. 14. to the end of the chapt. 3. Demonstrateth by many Reasons, what just cause he had to desire to be cut off, Ch. VII. 1. to 17. 4. Acknowledgeth himself unworthy of all respect from God, in mercy or judgement, ver. 17, 18, 19. 5. Confesseth his sinne, imploring Divine pardon, ver. 20, 21.

II. Bildad's first Oppositon against Job, tending to confute Jobs reply to Eliphaz, and to prove that Job was thus punished for his iniquity, and this by divers Arguments, viz. 1. Gods justice, Ch. VIII. 1, 2, 3. 2. Gods judgement on Job's children, proportionably applicable to Job himself, ver. 4. to 8. 3. Experience of Antiquity, touching the destruction of Hypocrites, ver. 8. to 20. Hereupon inviteth Job to repentance, with promises to him thereupon, ver. 20, 21, 22.

JOB'S Reply; 1. By way of Confession, granting the infinite Justice, Wisedome, and Right of God over his creatures, so that none may contend with him, Ch. IX. 1. to 21. 2. By way of Negation,

III. Zophar's first Opposition against Job, containing CHAP. XI. 1. An Exordium or Preface, partly challenging Job for loquacity, lying and impudency, Ch. XI. 1, 2, 3.

2. A confutation of Jobs Position, That his Doctrine was pure, and himself clear in Gods eyes, by Arguments drawn from Gods Wisdome and Power, ver. 4. to 13.

3. An Hortatory Conclusion inviting Job to repent, with promises if he do so; and threatnings, if he do not, ver. 13. to the end of the chapt.

JOB'S Reply, containing

CHAP XII. 1. An Exordium wherein Job Ironically reproves his friends, 1 Arrogating wisedome to themselves; and 2 Contemptuous mocking at his calamity, Ch. XII. 1. to 6.

2. His Confutation, of their false-grounded opinion, That great afflictions alwaies argue the wickednesse of the Afflicted, ver. 6.

3. An Assertion of the Justice, Wisdome, Power and Providence of God in governing all things, though most confused, ver. 7. to the end of the chapt.

CHAP. XIII. 4. His Reprehension of his friends, for managing Gods cause unjustly, with threatnings for such glavering hypocrisie, Ch. XIII. 1, to 14.

5. His Professed confidence in God, even to death, ver. 14 to 20.

6. His Deprecation of two things, viz. Present evils, and Future fears, ver. 20, 21, 22. acknowledging his sinne, and expostulating with God by reason of his afflictions, ver. 23. to the end of the chapt.

CHAP. XIV. 7. His Supplication to the LORD for abatement of his misery; upon consideration of life's frailty and brevity, and deaths inevitable certainty, Ch. XIV throughout.

IV. Eliphaz his second Opposition or Rejoynder against Job, wherein he blames and condemns Job, insisting thus upon his own integrity, CHAP. XV. 1. For the vanity and unprofitablenesse of his discourse, Ch. XV. 1, 2, 3.

2. For impiety, rejecting fear, and restraining Prayer, ver. 4.

3. For the iniquity and subtilty of his words, ver 5.

4. For Arrogancy, in ingrossing wisdome to himself, undervaluing his ancient, ver. 6. to 11.

5. For his self-justification before God, not humbling himself under his hand, that he might share in Gods consolations, Opposing against this, 1. Mans natural corruption, ver. 11. to 15. 2. The defects of Saints, and impurity of the Heavens in respect of God, much more must man needs be unclean, ver. 15, 16. 3. The wonted judgments of God upon wicked men and hypocrites; leaving Job tacitely to make application to himself, ver. 17. to the end of the chapt.

CHAP. XVI. JOB'S Reply. Wherein he, 1. Blameth his friends as miserable comforters, Ch. XVI. 1. to 6.

2. Pathetically describes his sorrowes and miseries; which may much excuse his dolefull complaints, ver. 6. to 17. 3. Insisteth still upon his own integrity, appealing therein to Heaven, to God himself, ver. 17. to the end of the chapt. 4. Comforts himself in his perseverance, and in the hopes and advantages of death, against all his friends uncomfortable dealings, Chap. XVII. throughout.

CHAP. XVII.

V. Bildad's second Opposition or Rejoynder against Job, wherein, 1. He blameth Job for

CH. XVIII. Garrulity, Contempt of his friends, and Passionatenesse, Ch. XVIII. 1, 2, 3, 4. 2. He describeth the calamitous miseries incident to the wicked (leaving Job to conclude himself to be a wicked man, because of such calamities upon him) ver. 5. to the end of the chapt.

CHAP. XIX. JOB'S Reply, containing 1. His expostulation with his friends for their uncompassionateness, and cruelty to him, in his extremity of miseries that deserve pity and commiseration, Ch XIX 1. to 23. 2. His † Assurance and comfortable Profession of his Faith in Christ, and Resurrection by him at last day; and therefore, seeing his hope was such, they should cease to persecute him, ver. 23. to 29. 3. CHAP. XX. discourse itself, describing the miseries and judgements of wicked men, tacitly insinuating Job to be such an one, ver. 4. to the end of the chapt.

CHAP. XXI. JOB'S Reply. Wherein are, 1. His craving Attention alike, and then they may mock on, Ch. XXI. 1, 2, 3. 2. His intimation that his complaints were not causeless, ver. 3, 4. 3. His refelling of Zophar's Thesis, That the triumphing of the wicked is but short; and this he doth, Partly, by his own observation, that sometimes the wicked flourish long, sometimes they are suddainly and grievously destroyed, ver. 5. to 29. Partly by testimony of others, that the wicked are chiefly reserved to the judgments of another world, ver. 29. to the end of the chapt.

VII. Eliphaz his Triplication, or third Opposition against Job. Wherein, 1. He informeth

Job

Job that though he were righteous, yet his righteousnesse could not profit God, therefore he had no cause of boasting, Ch. XXII. 1. to 5. 2. He challengeth Job as guilty of great wickednesse, against the second Table, ver. 5. to 12. Against the first Table denying Gods Providence, ver. 12. to 21. 3. He invites Job to repent and reconcile himself with God, promising thereupon many temporal and spiritual blessings, ver. 21. to the end of the chap. CHAP. XXII.

JOB'S Reply; wherein, He 1. Appealeth to God, and desireth to plead with him touching his integrity, Ch. XXIII. 1 to 11. 2. Asserteth his own innocency in those sins charged upon him, though God still persist in afflicting him, ver. 11. to the end of the chapt. 3. Sheweth that the wicked oft-times escape unpunished in this life: (contrary to Eliphaz his Position, that they are still punished here.) Ch. XXIV. 1. to 18. but shall not escape in the world to come, ver. 18. to the end of the chap. CH. XXIII. CHAP. XXIV

VIII. Bildad's Triplication or third Opposition against Job; wherein he sheweth, that man cannot be legally justified before God, Ch. XXV. throughout. Wherein he uncharitably mistook Job, who asserted not his Legal righteousnesse, but only his Evangelical integrity. CHAP. XXV.

JOB'S Reply. Wherein he

1. Reproves Bildad for his uncharitableness, and mistake of the Question, Ch. XXVI. 1. to 6. CH. XXVI.

2. Acknowledgeth Gods, 1. Omniscience, ver. 6. 2. Omnipotency, discovered in his works, ver. 7. to the end of the chapt.

3. Resolveth to adhere unto his integrity, against all their disputes and censures, Ch. XXVII. 1. to 7. and this, 1. Partly, because the condition of the Hypocrite is hopelesse, ver. 7. to 11. and the state of the wicked man most miserable, ver. 11. to the end of the chapt. 2. Partly, because the fear of the LORD, and departing from evil (wherein Job desired to approve himself to God) is the onely wisedom, beyond the knowledge of all natural things, Ch. XXVIII. throughout. CH. XXVII. CH. XXVIII.

4. Describeth his condition Past, and Present pathetically. 1. Past, how prosperous and happy once he was, in many particulars wishing that he were in like condition, Ch. XXIX. throughout. 2. Present, how ignominious, and calamitous it is, in many respects, Ch. XXX. throughout. CHAP. XXIX. CHAP. XXX.

5. Solemnly protesteth his integrity, both in eschewing evil, and doing good, Ch. XXXI. throughout. CHAP. XXXI.

Hitherto of the Dispute it self betwixt Job, and his three friends; next followeth the Decision of this Dispute.

II. The g Moderators that decided and determined the Controversie betwixt Job and his three friends. Were 1. Elihu. 2. God himself. g The dispute Moderated and decided.

I. ELIHU, the youngest of Jobs friends, takes up the controversie in a very large speech respecting both Job and his friends, (which some account foure distinct speeches) wherein, note

1. The Preface, before his speech; containing, 1. His discontent both at Job and his friends, Ch. XXXII. 1, 2, 3. 2. The Reason of his silence all this while, because he was youngest, ver. 4. 3. The causes of his now speaking, Partly, because Jobs three friends wanted wisedom to convince Job of that for which they condemned him; so that Job had silenced them, ver. 5. to 18. Partly, because he was full of matter and could not hold his peace, ver. 18, 19, 20. 4. The manner how he intends to speak, impartially, without respect of persons, or flattery, ver. 21, 22. 5. His craving patient audience of Job; Partly, because he will deal uprightly with him, Partly, because he will state the Question cleerly, Ch. XXXIII. 1, 2, 3. Partly, because he is in Gods stead (according to Jobs wish) to reason with him, and yet he need not be afraid of his terrour, ver. 4. to 8. CH. XXXII. CH. XXXIII.

2. The substance of his discourse, wherein he, 1. Convinceth Job of his unjust complaining of the Lord for afflicting him, shewing that God is not accountable to his creatures for any of his wayes, ver. 8. to 14. II. Inviteth Job (in order to the removal of his Afflictions) to Repentance, whereunto God calls, 1. By dreams, and visions, ver. 14. to 19. 2. By Afflictions, ver. 19. to 23. 3. By the faithful Ministry of the Word, ver. 23. to the end of the chapt. III. Confuteth Job for accusing God of injustice in such afflicting of him. It being impossible for God to do any thing unjustly; and therefore it would better have become Job to have submitted himself reformingly and humbly to his hand, Ch. XXXIV. throughout. IV. Chargeth Job with divers dangerous expressions against God, as 1. That his righteousnesse was more then Gods, and what profit shall I have if I be cleansed from my sin, Ch. XXXV. 1, 2, 3. Which he refutes, ver. 4. to 9. In this Elihu seems to relate (as M. Mercerus thinks) to that in Job 10. 15. But Elihu clearly mistakes Jobs sense. 2. That he had denyed Gods Providence, ver. 9. to 14. This also is mistaken. 3. That, God regarded not his oppressions, ver. 14, 15, 16. V. Asserteth and defendeth Gods justice upon divers grounds, Ch. XXXVI. 1. to 16. VI. Dissuadeth Job from complaining against God, who is rather to be magnified for his works, ver. 16. to the end of the chapt. And to be feared both for his mighty Acts and wisedom, Ch. XXXVII. throughout. CH. XXXIV. CH. XXXV. h Io. Merc. Com. in loc. CH. XXXVI. CH. XXXVII.

II. GOD himself, speaking out of the whirlwind is the other Moderatour, and he finally and fully decides the Controversie betwixt Job and his friends. CH. XXXVIII.

1. Challenging Job for ignorance in his expressions, Ch. XXXVIII. 1, 2.

2. Con-

CH. XXXIX.
CHAP. XL.

2. Convincing Job of his unfitneſſe to conteſt with God; there being no proportion betwixt Gods infinite wiſdome and power; and Jobs great ignorance and imbecility even in natural things, many of which are particularly inſtanced in, ver. 3. to the end of the chapt. and Ch. XXXIX. throughout. and Ch. XL. ver. 1,2. The effects of this conviction on Iob, who, 1. Grants the cauſe to God, as having nothing to anſwer. 2. Promiſeth for future to ſilence all complaints, ver. 3,4,5.

CHAP. XLI.

3. THE BOOK OF Pſalmes.

THE PREFACE.

§.I. The General Order of the Book of Pſalmes.

HItherto of that DOCTRINAL Book, which contains Doctrines having Immediately a more ſpecial and particular reference to a particular Perſon, viz. JOB: though Mediately it is of ſingular uſe and benefit to Gods People in all ages, as other [a] Scriptures are. Next come we to conſider of thoſe DOCTRINAL Books, which repreſent Doctrines of more General Concernment, both Immediately and Mediately, viz. The Books of 1 David, and 2 Solomon. Some whereof were (as [b] is thought) originally written in Hebrew-Metre, or Poetical Meaſures, which now we are not ſo well acquainted with: Others in Proſe.

I. DAVID's Book, is that moſt Excellent, Devout, and Heavenly Book of PSALMES.

The General Order of this Book of Pſalmes may be conſidered, 1 Relatively. 2 Abſolutely.

1. Relatively, As it hath Relation to the other Books of the Old Teſtament. And ſo we may conſider it, 1. According to the Method or Manner of the [c] Hebrews Ranking or placing it, viz. Among the Chethubim, that is, The Writings: by way of Emphaſis, which the Greek calls Ἁγιόγραφα, Hagiographa; that is, The Holy-Writings. As I have formerly noted, before the beginning of Joſhuah. And yet [d] Mercerus a learned Hebrician, ſomewhat differently from others, reports the Order a 2 Tim. 3. 15, 16, 17. Rom. 15. 4. 2 Pet. 1. 19, 20 21.

c Videatur diligenter. Andr. Rivet Iſag. ad Sacr. Script. c. 15. §. 14. 15, 16 &c.

der of the Hagiographa, according to the Hebrew Doctors, as I have already noted on Job §. 1. yet ſtill retaining the PSALMES among the Hagiographa. 2. According to the Order wherein it is marſhalled by later Writers, In which Order we have it placed in our Engliſh-Bibles, viz. Among thoſe Books of the Prophets which are Doctrinal. The Prophets Books of the Old Teſtament, being from their ſubject-matter divided into Hiſtorical, Doctrinal, and Prophetical Books, as I have more fully repreſented their Order in a brief Scheme or Table, before GENESIS.

2. Abſolutely, As this Book of Pſalmes is in it ſelf repreſented to us, conſiſting of 150 Pſalmes, (of which number, (ſaith Auguſtine *,) theres no doubt.) That Pſalm touching The Bleſſed Man, being Firſt; That touching Chriſts Kingdom in Sion, being Second; That upon Davids Flight from Abſalom his ſonne, being Third; &c. Now hence this Qu. ariſeth; viz. Whether this Book of Pſalmes, comprizing 150 in all, were at firſt placed in this Order among themſelves, as now they are tranſmitted to us? In Anſwer hereunto, I ſay; I. That it ſeems very clear, That this very Order, wherein theſe 150 Pſalmes are ranked, is very Ancient; and probably was before the Apoſtles dayes. 1. Partly, becauſe Paul preaching at Antioch, had this paſſage in his Sermon;——[c] As it alſo written in the ſecond Pſalm, Thou art my Son, this day have I begotten thee. Therefore in Pauls dayes, that was The Second Pſalm, which is ſtill The Second Pſalm in our dayes. And therefore probably then the Pſalmes were in the ſame Order as we have them now. 2. Partly, becauſe the moſt Ancient Verſions of the Pſalmes, viz. The Latin, Arabick, Syriack, yea, the Greek Verſion of the LXXII. (which ſeems to be followed by our Bleſſed Saviour and his Apoſtles, in their Teſtimonies alledged out of the Old Teſtament) do unanimouſly with one joynt conſent ſet down the Pſalmes in this very order wherein we now have them Although ſome of them have ſome ſmall difference from the reſt, in the Uniting, Dividing and Enumerating of ſome of them, as [f] hereafter ſhall be pointed at in its proper place: yet ſtill the ſame order of the Pſalmes is obſerved. 3. Partly, becauſe all the beſt Hebrew Copies joyntly confirm this Order. 4. Partly, becauſe all our ancient Writers of any credit ſince the Apoſtles dayes, as well as Modern Authors, alledging any Teſtimonies out of the Pſalmes, do avouch and follow this order. II. That nevertheleſſe it is palpably evident, That [the ſeverall Pſalmes are not now placed in the ſelf ſame order, as they were written. For, 1. Then, the 90*th* Pſalme, penned by Moſes, ſhould have been Firſt. 2. Then, the 3[d] Pſalme, touching Abſalom's conſpiracy, ſhould have been placed after all thoſe Pſalmes penned upon occaſion of King Saul's Perſecutions of David. 3. Then, Pſalme 72, penned by David for Solomon, [g] which (from thoſe words, The Prayers of David the ſonne of Jeſſe are ended, ver. 20.) is thought to be the laſt Pſalme David wrote before his death, ſhould have been ranked after his other Pſalmes, &c. But, how, when, or by whom, the Pſalmes were digeſted into this order, as we now have them, ſome Conjectures may be had but no certainty. [h] Sim. de Muis ſuſpects, but he dare affirm nothing peremptorily in the caſe, That the Pſalmes were thus digeſted, not with reſpect to the Hiſtory, but to the Muſical or Poetical Meaſures, That thoſe Pſalmes who were of like Poetical Meaſure, or like Muſical number, were caſt together. But hence I infer two things as certain; 1. That the Time, Hiſtory or Meaning of any Pſalme, cannot ſollidly be evinced by the bare order of it: but will require a further and more accurate diſquiſition. 2. That, it is not very ſafe nor prudent to draw any Doctrinal Poſitions or Dogmatical Concluſions from the meer Diſpoſal of the Pſalmes in their preſent order.

§. II. The Denominations, or Names of this Book.

This choice Book hath many Names given unto it. 1. It is called by the [i] later Hebrew Writers (who added Names to the Books) ספר תהולים Sepher Tehillim, (following rather the Chaldee termination then the Hebrew, which regularly is Tehilloth, i Vid. Franciſc. Jun. in Prolegom. ad lib. Pſal. n. 1.

Tehilloth, as *Pſal.*22.4.) that is, The BOOK OF HYMNES or PRAISES: Becauſe the high PRAISES of God are the chief Subject-matter of the Pſalmes. 2. In the Old Teſtament, the Pſalmes are ſtiled, זמרות ישראל Zemiroth Yiſrael: [k] that is, THE PSALMES OF ISRAEL. So called, becauſe they were all penned [l] for the ſpiritual uſe and benefit of God's Iſrael of old, and of the Iſrael of God under the New Teſtament alſo. 3. In the New Teſtament, Ψαλμοὶ [m] THE PSALMES. And ſo this Book is denominated alſo by the LXXII. in the moſt ancient Roman Copy out of the Vatican library. This [n] Greek word comes from another, which ſignifies gently-to-beat, viz. ſome muſical ſtringed inſtruments, wherewith the Pſalmes were wont to be tuned and ſung in the Temple. And this Denomination is by a Synechdoche of the part given to the whole Book, becauſe in the Titles or Inſcriptions prefixed to the Pſalmes in the Hebrew Text, moſt of them are called PSALMES, few are called SONGS, feweſt HYMNES. And Βίβλος Ψαλμῶν; that is, THE BIBLE, or [o] BOOK OF PSALMES: becauſe theſe 150 Pſalmes were all digeſted into one Book or Roll, leſt any of them ſhould be loſt, but that all of them might be the better preſerved for the benefit of the Church: As all the Smaller Prophets, upon the ſame account, were put into one Roll or Volume, which is therefore called, [p] The Book of the Prophets. Moreover, the Apoſtle uſeth three Denominations which comprehend all the integral Parts of this Book, and moſt eſpecially have relation thereunto, *viz. PSALMES, HYMNES, and SPIRITUAL SONGS: [q] Let the Word of Chriſt in-dwell in you richly, in all wiſdome, Teaching and admoniſhing your ſelves (Ψαλμοῖς, καὶ ὕμνοις, καὶ ᾠδαῖς πνευματικαῖς,) with Pſalmes, and Hymns, and Spiritual Songs, Singing with Grace in your Heart unto the Lord. [r] —— But be filled with the Spirit, ſpeaking to your ſelves with Pſalmes, and Hymns, and Spiritual Songs, Singing and making-melody in your heart unto the Lord. Here (as [s] Junius thinks) we have A Genus, and two Species. The Genus; ᾠδαὶ, Odes, Songs. This word Anſwers to the Hebrew word שירים Shirim, Songs, from שור Shur, to Sing. This is often prefixed in the Titles of the Pſalmes, as *Pſal.*30.45,46,65,68,108,120, &c. The two Species are, 1 Ὕμνοι Hymnes, Praiſes; Sung with voice, eſpecially. Anſwering to the Hebrew word, תהילים Tehillim, or תהילות Tehilloth, Praiſes. This Denomination is prefixed to Pſalme 145. Title: תהלה לדוד Tehillah le David, An Hymne, or Praiſe of David. From הלל Hillel, To Praiſe, To extoll with Praiſes. And from this word the Hebrew Writers (as was noted) ſtile this whole Book ספר תהילים Sepher Tehillim, The Book of Hymnes, or Praiſes. 2 Ψαλμοὶ Pſalmes, (as was noted) from ψάω, gently-to-ſtrike, viz. ſome ſtringed inſtrument of Muſick. Such were uſually tuned on ſtringed Muſical Inſtruments. This Anſwers to מזמורים Mizmorim, Pſalmes; From זמר Zamar, to prune, cut-off, &c. This is Prefixed in many Titles, As Pſal. 3.4,5,6, &c. And this word properly ſignifies; Artificial Modulations cut out, (as it were) in certain numbers, meaſures, &c. Thus theſe [t] Pſalmes, Hymnes, and Spiritual Songs (according to the Gr. Verſion of the LXXXII. much followed in the New Teſtament) anſwer to Mizmorim, Tehillim, and Shirim. But ſomtimes they are not ſo exactly differenced, but promiſcuouſly uſed one for another. 4. The Greek Verſion of the LXXII, according to the Alexandrian Manuſcript-Copy, (next in Antiquity and Repute to that of the Roman,) ſtiles it, Ψαλτήριον, The Pſalter: from The [u] Pſaltery, a Muſical Inſtrument uſed among others in ſinging of Pſalmes of old. The Syriack Verſion denominates it; The Book of Pſalmes of David King and Prophet. The Arabick Verſion; The Book of Pſalmes of David the Prophet, King of the ſonnes of Iſrael. Anciently it was called, Soliloquium, The Soliloquy: Becauſe it contains the Saints ſolitary Conferences and ſweeteſt ſecret Retirements with God in Meditations, Confeſſions, Prayers and Praiſes: and Gods precious Returnes, and fatherly whiſperings of love and favour to them again, reciprocally.

§. III. The Authors of this Book of Psalmes.

The Efficient Cauſe or Author of this Book of Pſalmes, is either 1 Principal. Or 2 Inſtrumental.

I. The Principal Author or Efficient of this Book of Pſalmes, contriving and enditing the Pſalmes therein contained, is the ever-bleſſed God, Father, Son, and Holy Ghoſt; They are his Divine Spirations, his Sacred and Heavenly Breathings unto his Amanuenſes or Penmen, and by them unto us. 1. God the Father: As the Apoſtles declare in their Prayer; [x] They lift up their voice to God with one accord, and ſaid; Lord, thou art God which haſt made Heaven and Earth, and the Sea, and all that in them is: who by the mouth of thy ſervant David haſt ſaid, Why did the Heathen rage, and the People imagine vain things? The Kings of the Earth, &c. For of a Truth againſt thy holy Childe Jeſus, &c. Thus, God the Father ſpake the Second Pſalm to David. The like alſo underſtand of the [y] other Pſalmes. 2. God the Sonne, Jeſus Chriſt: [z] Let the Word of Chriſt in-dwell in you richly in all Wiſdom, teaching and admoniſhing your ſelves in Pſalmes, and Hymnes, and Spiritual Songs, &c. Whence its evident, That theſe Pſalmes, Hymnes, and Spiritual Songs, (anſwering to the Titles of the Pſalmes, Mizmorim, Tehillim, and Shirim, as hath been ſhewed) are part of the Word of Chriſt, the Holy-Scriptures. 3. God the Holy-Ghoſt: [a] —— Wherefore as the Holy Ghoſt ſaith; To day if you will hear his voice harden not your hearts, as in the provocation, &c. This Pſalme then (and the like is to be ſaid of all the reſt) is the Saying or language of the Holy-Ghoſt. Oh what Pſalmes, Hymnes, or Spiritual Songs are there in the world comparable to theſe, that have God, Father, Son, and Holy Ghoſt, for their Authors and Inditers? with what Zeal, Devotion, Spirituality, Faith, and Affection, may we acquieſce in theſe, recreate our hearts in ſinging and meditating of theſe; which are ſo Divinely-inſpired, ſo Infallible, ſo Heavenly, Holy, and Spiritual! I ſay with him, [b] Sure I am that Davids Pſalmes are Spiritual Songs, if ever there were any Spiritual Songs in the World.

II. The Inſtrumental Efficient or Author of this Book, may be conſidered, 1 As Penning or Writing the Pſalmes. 2 As Collecting or Gathering them into one Book.

1. The Penman, Amanuenſis or Writer of theſe Pſalmes, ſeems not to be any one perſon, but divers: And the Titles of ſundry Pſalmes import evidently thus much. But who thoſe are, is not ſo unanimouſly agreed upon. I. The Jewiſh Writers name ten Penmen, (as [c] Junius notes) viz. Adam, (to whom they aſcribe Pſal. 92.) Melchizedech, (to whom they attribute Pſal. 110) Abraham, (whom they call Ethan, and give to him Pſal. 89.) Moſes, Aſaph, Heman, Jeduthun, and the three Sons of Korath, viz. Aſſir, Elkana, and Ebiaſaph. And they make David onely the Gatherer of them into one Book. Anſw. But this Opinion is falſe and fabulous. For, 1. The 92 Pſalme, aſcribed to Adam, ſeems probably by the Argument or Subject-matter of it, to be David's: though no Penman at all is mentioned in the Inſcription. 2. The 110 Pſalme, attributed to Melchizedech, was certainly written by David, as both the Title of that Pſalme, and the [d] New Teſtament again and again gives us to underſtand. 3. David was queſtionleſſe the Penman of very many Pſalmes, even of all thoſe Pſalmes before which his name is prefixed in the Title, and alſo of ſundry others, to which his name is not prefixed, as the Holy-Ghoſt in the [e] New Teſtament aſſures us, as of Pſal. 2. and 95. And how many more un-titled Pſalmes David did Penn, who can aſſert? And therefore to aſcribe the whole Book of Pſalmes to theſe ten, and none to David (accounting him onely the Collector or Gatherer of them into one Book) is very falſe and injurious. II. Others reckon up ſomewhat differently ten Penmen of the Pſalmes, thus; viz. Moſes, David, Solomon, Aſaph, Heman, Ethan, Jeduthun, and the three ſonnes of Korath. This is a more tolerable Enumeration then the former.

mer. Howbeit, it may justly be doubted, Whether every one of these ten had an hand in Penning these Psalmes. Solomon hath two Psalmes ascribed to him, having his Name in their Titles, viz. Psal. 72. and 127. But neither of them seem to be Penned by Solomon, but both by David for Solomon. And the Title לשלמה Lischlomo, is rather to be rendred for-Solomon, then of-Solomon. Psal. 72. is Davids Prayer for Solomon: probably his last Prayer. And vers. 20. it's said; The Prayers of David the Son of Jesse are ended, which reckons this as one, and the last, of Davids Prayers. And Psalme 127. seemes to be Davids Counsel to Solomon, Teaching him; That all Humane labours are frustrate, unlesse they be helped and prospered by God. Jeduthun prophecyed with the Harp, &c. 1 Chron 25. 1, 3. But those two Psalmes that have his name in the Title were not penned by him. For as the very Titles signifie, Psal. 39. was penned by David: and Psal. 77. by Asaph. And the three sonnes of Korath probably Penned no Psalmes, being not Prophets, but Musitians in the Temple, and therefore they have eleven Psalmes commended to them, Psal. 42. 44, 45, 46, 47, 48, 49, 84. 85, 87, 88. All the Rest were Penmen of some Psalmes. As [1] Moses, of Psalme 90. [2] David, of very many Psalmes. His name is Prefixed in the Titles to 74 Psalmes: As Psal. 3, 4, 5, 6, &c. And some that have no Titles, are said in the [f] New Testament or else where to be Davids, As Psalme 2. and 95. and 72. and it's very probable, many other of the un-titled Psalmes were Psalmes of David also. [3] Asaph, of sundry Psalmes. For his Name is prefixed to twelve Psalmes, viz. Psalme 50, 73, 74, 75, 76, 77, 78, 79, 80, 81. 82, 83. And Asaph was not only a [g] Singer in Israel: but also a Seer or Prophet, who Composed Psalmes as did David; [h] ——Hezekiah the King and the Princes commanded the Levites to sing Praise unto the LORD, with the words of David, and of Asaph the Seer. [4] Heman the Ezrachite, a man eminently wise, [i] Penman of Psalme 88. in the Title bearing his Name. He was not that Heman, which was one of the Singers, [k] whose sonnes Prophecyed with Harps, &c. and King Davids [l] Seer in the Words of God: being also [m] sonne of Joel, sonne of Samuel the Prophet, [5] Æthan the Ezrachite, Penman of Psal. 89. Heman and Æthan [n] were sonnes of Zerach, the son of Judah the Patriarch. He was exceeding [o] renowned for wisdom, And he treats of the Kingdome promised to David, in Psal. 89. So then these five, viz. Moses, David, Asaph, Heman, and Æthan, more evidently seem to have been the Penmen of the Psalmes, then any others. III. As for the opinion of those two Ancient and Learned Writers, [p] Augustine and [q] Chrysostome, That the whole Book of Psalmes was Penned by DAVID, we may see, from what hath been already produced, how to judge of it, viz. That probably it was their mistake. Though it cannot be denyed, but it was Principally written by David. See 3d Book of Psalmes, before Psal 73. immediately.

2. The Collector or Gatherer of all these Psalmes into one Volume or Book, cannot certainly be pointed out. Conjectures are various. I. Some [r] think, This Collection was made by King Hezekiah's Friends or Servants; before the Babilonish Captivity. II. Some [s] Hebrew Writers are of Opinion, that Ezra that expert Scribe collected these Psalmes into one Book, after the Babylonish Captivity: They being before that dispersed, and several. III. Others notwithstanding do judge, They were not collected by any one Person, but by divers Persons, and at divers times. 1. Because the Arguments or Subject-matters handled in the Psalmes appertain to times so various, and far distant one from another: Some being written in the dayes of Moses, as Psal. 90. Some in the dayes of David, As Psal. 3, 4, 5. and very many others; Some probably under the Babylonish Captivity, or under the cruel Persecutions of Antiochus, As Psal. 44. according to the judgement of divers learned men; Some after the Babylonish Captivity, As Psal. 126. 137. And this Apprehension is the rather confirmed by the Ancient Distribution of this volume of the Psalmes in the Hebrew Copies into five distinct Books: viz. The first ending with Psal. 41. The second with Psal. 72. The third with Psal. 89. The fourth with Psal. 106. The fifth with Psal. 150. The two first Books were (as [t] some think) probably probably collected by David: from that paſſage in Pſal. 72. 20. The Prayers of David the ſonne of Jeſſe are ended. Though that paſſage may have other interpretation. The third Book beginning with Pſal. 73. and ending with Pſal. 89. moſt of which Pſalmes (as the Titles declare) were Pſalmes of Aſaph (onely one of them being aſcribed to David, viz. Pſal 86.) was probably collected by Aſaph. Of the fourth Book, the Collector is uncertain. The fifth Book is ſuppoſed to be gathered together in the dayes of Judas Maccabaus. But by whom, is very hard to conjecture. 2. Becauſe we have an inſtance of ſome other Books of the Old Teſtament which were written and Collected at ſeveral times. To mention onely one; viz. The Proverbs. The nine firſt Chapters Solomon himſelf did both write, and collect into Order. The tenth Chapter, and all that follow to chap. 25. 1. ſeem to have been written indeed by Solomon, but Collected by ſome other: As is conceived from the Title prefixed; The Proverbs of Solomon. Pro. 10. 1. Though [u] ſome think, That Solomon was both Author and Collector of theſe Proverbs alſo. Theſe Proverbs from Chap. 25. 1. to chap. 30. 1. were written by Solomon, but Copied out by the men of Hezekiah King of Judah: as [x] the Preface to them expreſly informs us. Probably Hezekiah's ſervants, good men, or Prophets, gathered them out of [y] ſome other writings of Solomon, and ranked them in this Order wherein we now have them. Or (as [z] Junius thinks): they extracted them out of the Records of the Acts of Solomon, and digeſted them thus into a body: moſt of theſe Proverbs appertaining to Ethicks and Civil Adminiſtration. The 30th Chapter ſeems to be Penned by Agar ſon of Jakeh, &c. The Proverbs then being written, and collected by ſeveral Perſons, at ſeveral times; why ſhould it be thought improbable, That the Pſalmes, Penned by ſeveral Perſons, and at ſuch ſeveral times, might not alſo be Collected by ſeveral Perſons in thoſe ſeverall times.

DAVID therefore, being Penman of ſo many Pſalmes, that the whole Book is (and not undeſervedly) denominated from him, The Pſalmes of David; And he probably Collecting ſundry of the Books, into which this volume is ſubdivided: It cannot but be very proper and pertinent to lay down here A Deſcription of this Excellent Perſon DAVID, according to the Holy Scripture; Eſpecially by I. His Name, DAVID. II. His Deſcent or Pedegree. III. His Eminent Endowments and Qualifications, Natural, Artificial and Spiritual. IV. His Offices, He being a Prophet, and a King. V. His renowned Acts, After his Firſt, Second and Third Anointing, which were many. VI. His failings and miſcarriages, which were many, viz. ten in number, and ſome of them very hainous. All of them being recorded to teach us; 1 Gods infinite Purity; who cannot abide Sin, no, not in his deareſt Servants. 2 The Holy Scriptures impartiality; which ſpares not the ſins of any, but rips up and brands the miſcarriages even of Holy Penmen of Scriptures themſelves. 3 The weakneſſe of the ſtrongeſt, and ſinfulneſſe of the Holyeſt in this life. 4 What care and caution ought to be in all to look to themſelves, David ſo falling, who may not ſuſpect himſelf with fear and trembling! VII. His Penetential Recoveries out of all theſe his Sins and Miſcarriages, through the rich Grace of his God. By his Miſcarriages we are warned againſt iniquity, by his Recoveries againſt impenitency: By thoſe againſt Preſuming, by theſe againſt Deſpairing: By thoſe of our own weakneſſe, by theſe of the Powerfulneſſe of Divine Grace. VIII. His Afflictions and Chaſtiſements wherewith the LORD Exerciſed him for his many failings, notwithſtanding his Repentance. viz. In his Family five wayes: In his Kingdome four wayes. IX. His Holy End and Happy Diſſolution after all. But having [a] elſewhere ſpoken already at large to all theſe Particulars, thither I refer the diligent Reader: And I hope in his peruſal thereof he ſhall not loſe his labour.

§. IV. The Occaſion, and Scope of the Book of Pſalmes.

The Occaſion upon which this Book was written, was not one, but manifold: As the the Penmen were many who wrote them, and the times and ſeaſons many, and at great diſtance one from another wherein they were written. Some of them being penned, before; ſome, under; and ſome, after the Babyloniſh Captivity: As is evident by the matter of the Pſalmes themſelves.

The Summary and General Scope intended in this Book, ſeems eſpecially to be this: viz. I. Partly, To demonſtrate wherein true happineſſe eſpecially conſiſts, viz. 1 In true godlineſſe; The truly godly man being the onely happy man in the world, as is evidenced in Pſalme 1. which is as an excellent Preface to all the Pſalmes. 2 In due ſubmiſſion to the LORD's Anoynted JESUS CHRIST, as is required in Pſalme 2. 3 In having JEHOVAH to be our God, our Covenant-God, as is teſtified in Pſalme 144. All which true happineſſe is moſt variouſly and ſweetly illuſtrated in all the reſt of the Pſalmes. II. Partly, To delineate moſt lively and experimentally, what ſweet entercourſe and endeared Communion there is even in this life betwixt the truly godly and onely happy people and Church of God; and their moſt bleſſed God in Chriſt, who is his own infinite happineſſe, and to them the Fountain of all happineſſe. 1. How the LORD exerciſeth them; 1 With afflictions and tribulations of all ſorts, in Name, State, Body and Soul; by open Enemies, falſe Friends, and neereſt Relations. 2 With cruel Perſecutions for Righteouſneſſe ſake. 3 With violent and dangerous Temptations. 4 With woful and moſt uncomfortable Deſertions. 5 And with many other inward Conflicts and Anxieties of Soul. 2. How by theſe things they are exerciſed and improved in their Faith, Hope, Patience, Experience, Repentance, Acquaintance with God, Comforts, Peace, Joy, and in all their Spirituals. 3. How hereby they are excited to the lively exerciſe of Meditation, Self-examination, Prayers, Cries, Lamentations, Confeſſions, Praiſes to the LORD, &c. 4. And how in all theſe God Awakens, Excites, Inſtructs, Supports, Encourageth, Tryes, Refines, Enableth, Evidenceth, Increaſeth, and Eſtabliſheth them and all their Spirituals, aſſuring them of his Alſufficiency, Goodneſſe and Faithfulneſſe therein, at laſt delivering them out of all, and by all preparing them For a farre more exceeding and eternal weight of Glory, 2 Cor. 4. 17. Nevertheleſſe every particular Pſalme hath his particular Scope therein intended, which is diligently to be obſerved in the right unfolding and underſtanding of every Pſalme, as in the ſeveral explications of them will hereafter more evidently appear.

§. V. The ſingular Excellency of this Book of Pſalmes.

The Book of Pſalmes is moſt Excellent. It is much Commended, but it excells all Praiſes: It is much accounted of, but it excels all Eſtimation: It is much Admired, but it even tranſcends all Admiration. All Holy Scriptures are [b] Sweet as the Honey and the Honey-comb: but as ſome Honey, ſo this Book of Pſalmes, is of a ſurpaſſing ſweetneſſe and deliciouſneſſe. All Books of Scripture are as ſo many heaps of refined Gold: but this of the Pſalmes is as the Gold of [c] Ophir, yea, as the pureſt Gold of [d] Uphaz; yea, all the Gold in the world is but dirt to it. All the Scriptures ſhine orientlly like the glittering Starres in the Firmament; but this Book ſhines among them glorioully as a Starre of the firſt Magnitude. More Particularly.

I. How excellent is this Book, that is made up of Pſalmes ſo Succinct and Compendious! They are called מזמורים Mizmorim, [e] Pſalmes: from זמר Zamar, To prune, paire off, cut off, &c. For they being originally written, not in proſe, but in Verſe, or Hebrew meaſures, they are as it were ſuccinctly pruned or pairied, and made very conciſe. Like Gold, Pearl, or precious ſtones, they comprehend much in a little compaſſe, as Ambroſe notes*; are full of themſelves. Athanaſius calls this Book; [f] The Epitome of the whole Scriptures. Baſil ſtiles it; [g] A Compend of all Theology, and a common Medicine-ſhop for ſoules: A Common Storehouſe of good Doctrines profitable to every one according as he is affected. Luther denominates it, The i In my Myſtery and Marrow of the Bible, Gods Covenants. Book 3. Chap. 5. Aphoriſ. 7. p.1083, 1084.

Foraſmuch therefore as the Holy Ghoſt is delighted to fetch more Teſtimonies into the New Teſtament out of the Book of Pſalmes, then out of any other Book of the Old Teſtament, this ſtamps a great Character of Eminency and Excellency upon the Book of Pſalmes.

III. How excellent is this Book wherein are ſo many clear and choice Prophecies of JESUS CHRIST! Eſpecially of his 1. Perſon. 2. Office. 3. States. 4. Effects and happy fruits of his Offices; as I have i elſwhere manifeſted; and here again recite, as very pertinent, viz.

1. Of

1. Of his Perſon 1. That he is God, Pſal. 45. 6, 11. with Heb. 1. 8. The Son of God, Pſal. 2. 7. with Heb. 1. 5. The WORD of God; By the WORD of the LORD were the Heavens made, &c. Pſal. 33. 6. with Joh. 1. 1, 2. 2. That he ſhould be man, lower then Angels, Pſal. 8. 4, 5, 6. with Heb. 2. 6. to 10. Of the Seed of David, the Fruit of his loynes, Pſal. 132. 11. with Act. 2. 30. Luk. 1. 32, 33.

2. Of his Mediatory Office. As

1. A Prophet; Preaching Gods righteouſneſſe, loving-kindneſſe and Truth, in the great Church, Pſal. 40. 8, 9, 10.

2. A Prieſt; An Everlaſting Prieſt of Melchizedech's Order, farre above the Order of Aaron, Pſal. 110. 4. with Heb. 5. 6, 7. and 7. 17. See alſo Pſal. 2. 7. with Heb. 2. 9. 1. Of his ſatisfaction for us by his offering up himſelf, Pſal. 40. 6, 7, 8. with Heb. 10. 5. to 15, &c. 2. Of his Interceſſion for his People, Pſal. 2. 8.

3. A King. God's King in Sion, in his Church, Pſal. 2. 6. and 132. 11. with Acts 2. 30. Luk. 1. 32, 33. 1. That, as Gods Meſſiah, Pſal. 2. 2. He ſhould be Anointed with the Holy-Ghoſt, that Oyle of gladneſs above all his fellows, Pſal. 45. 7. with Heb. 1. 8, 9. Acts 10. 38. Joh. 3. 34. Eph. 4. 7. 2. That he ſhould Rule his Subjects Religiouſly, Righteouſly and Glorioufly, Pſal. 45. 3, 4, 6, 7. with Heb. 1. 8. 9. 3. That he ſhould ſubdue his Enemies powerfully, Pſal. 45. 5. 1 By Converting them to be his Subjects, Pſal. 110. 2, 3. and 2. 8. 2 By confounding of incurable Rebels, Pſal. 2. 9. and 110. 5, 6. 4. That he ſhould be an univerſal King over the Nations, Pſal. 2. 8, 9. and 22. 27, 28, 29, 30. and 72. 8, 9, 10, 11. 5. That he ſhould be an Everlaſting King upon the Throne of David for evermore, Pſal. 45. 6. and 89. 4, 36, 37. with Luk. 1. 32, 33.

3. Of his States of Humiliation, and Exaltation, wherein he ſhould execute this his Mediatory Office. So that as Ambroſe ſaid, * In the Pſalmes Chriſt is not onely born, but endured his ſaving Paſſion, Reſted, Riſeth, Aſcends into Heaven, ſits at the right-hand of the Father, &c.

* In Pſalmis itaque nobis non ſolum naſcitur Jeſus, ſed etiam ſalutarem illam ſuſcipit paſſionem, quieſcet, aſſurgit, aſcendit ad Cœlum, ſed ad dexteram Patris, &c. Ambroſ. in Pſal. David. Præf. p. 461. Tom. 4. Baſil. 1577.

1. In his Incarnation; being made man, lower then the Angels, Pſal. 8. 5. with Heb. 1. 7, 8, 9.

2. In his Sufferings and Paſſion. As, 1. That, he ſhould be betrayed by his owne familiar friend, one of his owne Family, Pſal. 41. 9. with Joh. 13. 18. viz. By Judas Iſcariot, one of his twelve Apoſtles. 2. That, Heathen and People of the Jews, with the Kings and Rulers of the Earth: that is, both Herod and Pontius Pilate, with the Gentiles and people of Iſrael, ſhould gather together, and confederate to deſtroy him, Pſal. 2. 1, 2, 3. with Act. 4. 25, 26, 27, 28. 3. That he ſhould be Crucified, His hands and feet pierced, his body ſo ſtretched upon the Croſs that all his Bones might be told, and By-ſtanders ſhould look and ſtare upon him, Pſal. 22. 16, 17. with Matth. 27. 35. Mark. 13. 24. Luk. 23. 33. Joh. 19. 23, 27. 4. That his Garments ſhould be parted, and lots caſt upon his Veſture, Pſal 22. 18. with Luk. 23. 34. Joh. 19. 24. 5. That he ſhould be derided by his Enemies, ſhooting out the lip, and ſhaking the Head at him, for his truſting in the LORD, Pſal. 22, 6, 7, 8. with Matth. 27. 39, 43. 6. That, they ſhould give him Gall and Vinegar to drink Pſal. 69. 21. with Matth. 27. 48. Mark 15. 23. John 19. 29. 7. That, he ſhould be under an heavy Deſertion upon the Croſs, His God in ſome ſenſe forſaking him, Pſal. 22. 1. with Mat. 27. 46. Mark 15. 34.

3. In his Death, Pſal. 22. 15.

4. In his Burial, Pſal. 16. 8, 9, 10. with Act. 2. 31. and 13. 35.

His Exaltation is herein foretold, eſpecially in three degrees of it, viz.

1. In his Reviving and Reſurrection from the dead, Pſal. 2. 7. with Act. 13. 33. Heb. 1. 5. compare alſo Pſal. 16. 8, 9, 10, 11. with Act. 2. 25, 31. and 13. 35.

2. In his Aſcenſion into Heaven, leading Captivity Captive and giving gifts to men, Pſal. 68. 18. with Epheſ. 4. 8, 9.

3. In his Seſſion at Gods right-hand, till all his foes become his foot-ſtoole, Pſal. 110.

110. 1. with Matth. 22. 44. Mark 12. 36. Luk. 20. 42. Act. 2. 34. 1 Cor. 15. 25. Heb. 1. 13.

4. Of the happy fruits and effects of his Offices. As

1. His Captivating of our Spiritual Captivity, Sin, Death, Grave, Hell, Satan, &c. Pſal. 68. 18. with Epheſ. 4. 8.

2. His Receiving and giving gifts for men, yea, even for the rebellious, that the Lord God might dwell among them, Pſal. 68. 18. with Epheſ. 4. 8, 9, 10, 11, &c.

3. His Converting of a numerous Company (like the morning dew for multitude) even of the Gentiles unto himſelf, as his Seed that ſhall ſerve him, and be his Voluntiers, his willing People, Pſal. 22. 27, 28, 29, 30, 31. and 110. 2. 3.

4. His Conferring of true ſaving bleſſedneſſe upon all ſincere Believers that place their Truſt and hope-for-ſalvation in him ſincerely, Pſal. 2. 12. with Rom. 9 33. and 10. 11. and 1 Pet. 2. 6.

Thus the Book of Pſalmes ſpeaks ſo much of the Perſon, Office, States and Fruits of the Office of JESUS CHRIST, that it may be accounted Evangelium Propheticum, A Prophetical Goſpel. And the more any Book of Holy Scriptures diſplayes CHRIST, and ſets forth his Perfections, Fulneſſe, &c. the more excellent it is. That's the choiſeſt Cabinet that hath moſt of Chriſt in it who is the choiceſt of all Jewels.

IV. How excellent is this Book, in regard of the Experimental Matters therein contained! This Book is a rich Record of Experiences. Many of the Pſalmes are the Saints Experimental Diſcoveries of their Affaires, in all ſorts of their Capacities and Conditions: The very Anatomie's of their Hearts; the Idea's of their States and Deportments therein; and the lively Demonſtrations of Gods Grace, Guidance, Comforts, Protection, Deliverance, &c. in the very worſt of all Extremities. As 1. In Publick dangers to the Church of God, by many and mighty adverſaries, Pſal. 46. and 124. 2. In publique Calamities brought upon the Church, by ſad Diſpenſations, Pſal. 44. 90. and 137. 79. 3. In glorious Providences over the Church, in all Diſtreſſes, Difficulties and Dangers, and wonderful Deliverances at laſt out of all, Pſal. 105, 106, 107. and 126, 76. 4. In great Temptations, Pſal. 73. 5. In ſad Relapſes into ſin, Pſal 51. 6. In and under Senſe of Gods hot diſpleaſure and indignation for ſin, Pſal. 6. 38, 39. 7. In and under Spiritual Deſertions, the Lord hiding and with-holding from his People the Senſe of his wonted favours, Pſal. 22. 77. 88. 8. In Privation of Gods publick Ordinances, and exile from the Holy Aſſemblies, Pſal. 42. 63, 84. 9. In inſurrection and confederacies of many Enemies againſt Gods People, Pſal. 3. 59. 60. 64. 83. 71. 79. 10. In Perſecutions by the ungodly, Pſal. 7. 10. 11. In Deep Afflictions and Diſtreſſes, Pſal. 6. 13. 102. 118. 12. In extream danger of Death it ſelf, Pſal. 116. In theſe and many ſuch reſpects, we have the Saints choice experiences recorded in the Pſalmes, with great variety: And that caſe can hardly befall us, which in ſome of theſe Pſalmes we may not finde exemplified in the people of God of old, for our great ſpiritual advantage. In this regard, I may ſay with Ambroſe; [k] Though all Divine Scripture, breathe forth the Grace of God: yet the Book of Pſalmes is eſpecially ſweet. And afterwards; ——— [l] What is it thou maiſt not meet withall in reading the Pſalmes? In theſe I read a Song for the Beloved, and an inflamed with the deſire of holy love. In theſe I take cognizance of the chains of the Divine Myſtery. In theſe I recount The Grace of Revelations, The teſtimonies of the reſurrection, The Rewards of the Promiſe. In theſe I learn to ſhun ſin, I un-learn to bluſh at Repentance for offences. So great a King, ſo great a Prophet, provokes me by his Example, that either I ſhould ſtudy to leſſen ſin committed, or to take heed of ſin not committed. What then is A Pſalme, but the Organ of Vertues?

k Licet omnis Scriptura Divina Dei gratiam ſpiret: precipuè tamen dulcis Pſalmorum liber. Ambr. in Pſal. David. Præf. p. 460. Tom. 4. Baſil. 1577.

l Quid eſt quod non tibi occurrat Pſalmos legenti? In his lego canticum pro dilecto, & Sacræ deſiderio Charitatis inflammos. In his torcularia Divini Myſterii recognoſco. In his Revelationum gratiam, Reſurrectionis recenſeo teſtimonia, repromiſſionis munera. In his diſco vitare peccatum, dediſco erubeſcere pœnitentiam delectorum. Tantus Rex, tantus Prophera, ſuo me provocavit exemplo, ut aut Commiſſum ſtudeam extenuare peccatum, aut non Commiſſum cavere. Quid igitur Pſalmus niſi virrutum eſt Organum? D. Ambroſe in Pſalm. David. Præf. p. 461. Tom. 4. Baſil. 1577.

V. How excellent is this Book in the Spirituallity of it! Oh what ſublime, ſpiritual, heavenly, and raiſed breathings are here towards the Father of Spirits! Are they Saints, or Angels, or Seraphims that ſpeak in theſe Pſalmes? What gracious Soul of experienced Senſes can read theſe Pſalmes, and not be raiſed, and not be raviſhed, and not be tranſported as once the Apoſtles on the Holy Mount, wherein Chriſt was tranſfigured? Who can feelingly go along with David in his ſacred Raptures, and not be (as it were) caught up in ſpirit into the third Heavens with him? Who can truly taſt of this heavenly Mannah, and not nauſeate as ſordid mire and dung all theſe earthly enjoyments?

1. Here we have moſt ſpiritual Meditations, and heavenly Contemplations. As, touching God, Pſal 96 97. His works, of Creation, *Pſal.*8. and 19. 1, to 7. and 104. and 100. Of Providence, Pſal. 18 and 78. Chriſt our Mediator, and his Prophecy, Prieſthood, and Kingſhip, *Pſal.*68. and 110. and 2. and 93. Chriſts endeared Relation to his Church, Pſal. 45. The Law of God, Pſal. 19. 7, &c. and 119. throughout, &c.

2. Here we have moſt ſpiritual Doctrines; As, That, the truly godly man is the onely happy man, whoſe iniquities are pardoned, &c. Pſal. 1. and 15. and 32. That, whatever be the afflictions of Gods people, yet God is good to Iſrael, &c. Them he will guide with his Councels, and after receive them to glory. Whom have they in Heaven but him, *&c. Pſal.*73. &c.

3. Here we have moſt ſpiritual Confeſſions and Lamentations for ſin, Pſal. 51. and 6. and 38.

4. Here we have moſt ſpiritual Ejaculations and Prayers. Eagle-wing'd Devotions, mounting up with greateſt faith, zeal, and fervency towards God. Emphatical wraſtlings with ſtrongeſt Arguments; as Pſal 3. and 25. and 27.

5. Here we have moſt raiſed ſpiritual affections towards God, and communion with him in his Ordinances; Pſal 42. and 63. and 84.

6. Here we have moſt Angelical, Seraphical Praiſes, Confeſſions and Thankſgivings to God, with ſpiritual joy and heavenly triumph. As, Pſal. 18. and 30. and 47. and 103. and 116. and 118. and 144. to the end of the Book.

O how much of Grace, of Heaven, of the Spirit of God, abounds in this precious Book, (as is evident by theſe few inſtances, to mention no more) and how influential are they to the ſpiritualizing and elevating of Believers hearts! How ſweetly may we here converſe with God, and with his Saints of old, and with our own ſouls! Hence this Book was anciently called, Soliloquium, The Soliloquy: becauſe it contains ſo many ſweet Soul-Diſcourſes, and ſolitary impartments of our hearts with God, and with themſelves. O Chriſtians, come to theſe holy flames, and there thaw and warm your cold chilling ſpirits in zeal and love to God, and all his wayes. You that know not how to confeſſe ſin, how to pray, how to praiſe the LORD, come hither to David, Hee'l teach you to confeſſe ſin ingenuouſly, To pray fervently, To praiſe the LORD triumphantly. The ſpirituallity of this Book will ſpiritualize you moſt ſpiritually.

VI. How excellent is this Book in regard of the great variety that's found therein! The holy Scriptures excel all other Books in verity: and the Pſalmes excel the other Scriptures in variety. For ſome Sacred Books, are Legal, as the Pentetench: Some Hiſtorical, as Joſhuah, Judges, &c. Some Doctrinal, as Proverbs, Eccleſiaſtes, &c. Some Prophetical, as Iſaiah, Jeremiah, &c. Revelations. Some Evangelical, as Matthew, Mark, &c. But the Book of Pſalmes hath in it all theſe; being the Epitome of the [n] Law, The Abſtract of the [o] Prophets, The Spring of [p] Doctrine, The Breviat of [q] Hiſtory, And the Treaſury of the [r] Goſpel. Yea, it is a rich Store-houſe of all good Doctrine and Inſtruction. To this effect elegantly ſaid Ambroſe; [ſ] In other [Scriptures] we may take notice of things ſingle. Hiſtory inſtruct- eth,

eth, Law teacheth, Prophecy foretelleth, Reproof correcteth, Morality perſwadeth: In this Book of Pſalmes here is a procedure of all theſe, and a Medicine for mans ſalvation, &c. ——A Pſalme is the Benediction of the people, The laud of God, The praiſe of the Vulgar ſort, The applauſe of all, The ſpeech of every one, The voice of the Church, A ſhrill confeſſion of the Faith, A full devotion of Authority, The gladſomneſſe of Liberty, The noiſe of pleaſantneſſe, The reſultation of joyfulneſſe. It mitigates wrathfulneſſe, It hides perplexedneſſe, It alleviates ſorrowfulneſſe. Nocturnal Weapons, Diurnal Maſteries. A Shield in Fearfulneſſe: A Feaſt in Holyneſſe. It's the Image of tranquillity, The pledge of peace and concord, &c. ——What is it, which thou meeteſt not with, in reading the Pſalmes? To the like effect Baſil the Great ſaid elegantly;* All Scripture divinely inſpired and profitable, was for this cauſe written by the Spirit, that as in a common Medicine-ſhop for ſouls, every man might gather out the Medicine fit for his peculiar diſeaſe. ——For ſome things the Prophets inſtruct us, And others the Hiſtorians, And others the Law, And others the Proverbs: But this one Book of Pſalmes, comprehends in it what is profitable out of them all. It prophecyes things to come, It records Hiſtories, It gives lawes for our life, It preſcribes what things are to be done, and in a word, It's a common Store-houſe of good Doctrines, bringing to every one things found out with ſingular care, &c. ——A Pſalme is the tranquillity of the minde, The Arbiter of peace, ſtilling the ſwellings and waves of the Thoughts. ——A Pſalme is the procurer of Amity, The union of thoſe that diſagree, a Reconciler of thoſe that are at enmity: For who can count him an enemy, with whom he once ſends up one voice to God. That therefore which of good things is accounted moſt excellent, Singing-of-Pſalmes doth afford, viz. Love, &c. ——A Pſalme is an expeller away of Devils, A procurement of the ſuccour of Angels, Armour againſt nocturnal fears, Reſt in diurnal labours, A tuition of Infants, An ornament of Youth, The ſolace of old men, and womens moſt appoſite Ornament. It inhabits Wilderneſſes, It brings markets to ſobriety. To beginners it's the firſt Element, To proficients an augmentation, To the perfect a conſummation, The voice of the Church ——A Pſalme is the work of Angels, The heavenly imployment, The ſpiritual Incenſe. O the wiſe invention of our Teacher, whereby we may at once both ſing, and learn the Doctrines of ſalvation! it is, That things taught do more beat our ſouls. For a forced learning is not permanent, but what we learn with delight and joy more firmly fixeth on the ſoul. And what mayeſt thou not learn hence? Not the magnificence of Fortitude? Not the exactneſſe of Juſtice? Not the venerableneſſe of Temperance? Not the perfection of Prudence? Not the manner of Repentance; Not the meaſure of Patience? Not any of all good things thou canſt name? Hence is, Perfect Theology: The Prediction of Chriſts coming in the fleſh: The Commination of the Judgment: The hope of the Reſurrection: The fear of Puniſhment: The promiſes of Glory: The Revelation of Myſteries. In the Book of Pſalmes all things are treaſured up as in a common Store-houſe. So he.——The ſame Baſil alſo, in the ſame Homily, ſaith; * The Holy Ghoſt, obſerving mankind ſo hardly drawn to vertue, for that we being prone to pleaſure, were negligent of a right life, what did he? He mingled the delight of Melody with Doctrines, that by the harmony and melodiouſneſſe of hearing we might ſecretly accept the commodiouſneſſe of words. Likewiſe Phyſicians, who giving an harſh and loathſome Medicine to drink, do rub the brim of the Cup with honey. For to this purpoſe the neat harmony of Pſalmes was Excogitated, that thoſe who are young in age, at leaſt in manners, whileſt they are making melody may have their ſouls really inſtructed. For ſcarce any going hence from us, remembers a Prophetical or an Apoſtolical Precept: but the Oracles of the Pſalmes, all will ſing at home, and carry them with them to the market, &c.

* Ἐπειδὴ γὰρ εἶδε τὸ πνεῦμα τὸ ἅγιον δυσάγωγον πρὸς ἀρετὴν τὸ γένος τῶν ἀνθρώπων, καὶ διὰ τὸ πρὸς ἡδονὴν, &c. Baſil Magn. in Homil. ante Pſal. 1. Tom. 1. Pariſ. 1618.

VII. Finally, How excellent is this Book of Pſalmes in regard of its general ſuitableneſſe and uſefulneſſe to all ſorts of Chriſtians in all manner of caſes and conditions that may come upon them.

1. Here Chriſtians are richly furniſhed,

1. Againſt all wants, in the LORD their Shepheard, and Portion; Pſal. 23. and 73. 25, 26.

2. A-

2. Againſt all weakneſſes, and infirmities, in the LORD their ſtrength and Rock, Pſal. 18.1. and 27.1. and 73.25,26.

3. Againſt all temptations to fretting and murmuring at the proſperity of the wicked, or to dejection and deſpondency at the adverſity of the godly, Pſal. 37. and 73.

4. Againſt all their enemies and perſecutors, in God their Shield, Refuge, Rock of their Refuge, High-Tower, &c. Pſal. 3. and 18. and 27. and 10. and 109.

5. Againſt all tribulations, afflictions and diſtreſſes, by Gods Preſence, faithful Promiſes, Comforts, Experiences of the godly, &c. Pſal. 3. and 23. and 30. and 34. and 102. and 116. and 107. and 91.

6. Againſt all ſpiritual deſertions, wherein the LORD hides his face and wonted favour for a time from them, Pſal. 22. and 77. and 88.

7. Againſt all Deſtitution of Gods Ordinances, Pſal. 42. and 63. and 84.

8. Againſt all Remaines of Corruption, and Lapſes into ſin, Pſal. 6. and 38. and 51.

9 Unto all Duties of faith in Chriſt, ſo often promiſed, as Pſal. 2. and in all the Prophetical Pſalmes: and of obedience unto God according to his Word, ſo often required and encouraged. As Pſal. 19. 7. &c. and 119. throughout.

10. Unto all Devotions; 1 In ſweeteſt Meditations. As Pſal. 1. 8. 104. 92. 119. 91. 45. 2 In moſt fervent prayers. O what vehement, pathetick, Heaven-piercing prayers are recorded in the Pſalmes! As Pſal. 3. 6. 25. 51. &c. As alſo 3 In moſt enlarged Praiſes. As Pſal. 34. 30. 116. 118. &c.

11. Unto all Aſſurance of Grace and Glory, Pſal. 15. and 24.

12. In all Ages young and old, Pſal. 119. 9. and 37. 25. and 92. 14. and 27. 4.

13. And with an Excellent Body of Divinity, which may be clearly collected out of this Book of Pſalmes.

2. Here Maſters of Families are ſweetly inſtructed, how to walk with God in their Families, by the Pſalmiſts example, Pſal. 101.

3. Here Kings, Princes, Rulers, Magiſtrates and Judges, are abundantly directed and provoked to their due management of all their Power and Authority for the Publick good. As Pſal. 2. 10. 11. 12. and 58. and 72. and 82.

4. Here the whole Church of God may learn how to carry themſelves, Towards Chriſt as her ſpiritual Husband, Pſal. 45. Towards Princes and Rulers therein, Pſal. 20. In all publick dangers, difficulties and diſtreſſes, Pſal. 44. and 46. and 60. and 78. and 74. and 79. and 124. and 137. And In all publick Deliverances and Salvations, As Pſal. 46. and 48. and 47. and 68. and 118. &c.

What ſhall I ſay? This Book of Pſalmes is ſo uſeful in every regard unto the People of God, that I may ſay with that learned and elegant Auguſtine; It is [t] Childrens Tuition, Young men's Ornament, Old men's Solace, and Womens fitteſt comelineſs. ——The firſt Element for Beginners, An Increment for Proficients, A firme Eſtabliſhment for the perfect, The joynt voice of the whole Church. And afterwards he thus concludes; What is it, that may not be learned in the Pſalmes? Doth not the greatneſs of all Vertue, The Rule of Righteouſneſs, The Gracefulneſs of Charity, The Conſummation of Prudence. The Law of Patience, and every thing that may be called good flow from the Pſalmes; The Knowledge of God; The perfect Prediction of Chriſt to come in the fleſh; The Common Hope of the Reſurrection; The feare of Puniſhments; The Promiſe of Glory; The Revelation of Myſteries; Yea, all good things are hid and heaped together in theſe Pſalmes, as in ſome great and common Treaſury.

[t] Tutela Pueris, Juvenibus ornamentum, Solatium ſenibus, Mulieribus aptiſſimus decor. —Incipientibus primum efficitur elementum, Proficientibus incrementum, Perfectis ſtabile firmamentum, Totius Eccleſiæ vox una. ——Quid eſt quod non diſcatur in Pſalmis? Non omnis magnitudo virtutis, non norma Juſtitiæ, non pudicitiæ decor, non prudentiæ conſummatio, non Patientiæ regula; non omne quicquid dici poteſt bonum, procedit ex ipſis? Dei ſcientia; Perfecta prænunciatio Chriſti in carne venturi, & communis Reſurrectionis ſpes; Suppliciorum Metus; Gloriæ pollicitatio; Myſteriorum Revelatio: Omnia prorſus in his velut magno quodam & communis Theſauro recondita atque conferta ſunt bona. Auguſt. Prolog. in Pſal. Tom. 8.

The Pſalter (ſaith [u] Gerhard) is wholly a Golden Jewel, made up and adorned with three things, viz. 1 The Gold of Doctine, and Information: 2 The Pearls of Conſolation: And 3 The Gemmes of Prayer. The Pſalter is, 1. A Theater of Gods works, for there they are offered to our view. 2. A moſt ſweet Field, and largeſt Roſary, where we may behold many moſt beautiful flowers. 3. A Paradiſe, not onely having a naked fragrancy of flowers, but alſo the fruits themſelves. 4. A moſt wide Sea, wherein precious Pearles are hid, which can onely be found of them who can endure the ſtormes of Tempeſts. 5. An heavenly School, wherein we ſpeak to God our Teacher. 6. A Compendious-ſumme of the whole Scriptures. 7. A Looking-glaſs of Divine Grace, wherein the moſt pleaſant face of our kindeſt Father ſhines forth. 8. A moſt artificial Anatome of our Soule, ſhewing all the Soules Affections, Motions, and the Remedy of thoſe Motions. So he.

[u] Eſt omnino Pſalterium mo-nile aureum ex tribus Contextum & Concinnatum, viz. 1. Ex auro Doctrinæ & informationis: 2. Ex Margaritis Conſolationis: 3. Ex gemmis Precationis. Pſalterium eſt, 1 Theatrum operum Dei, illa enim ſpectanda in eo exhibentur. 2 Pratum ſuaviſſimum & ampliſſimum Roſarium, ubi plurimos flores pulcherrimos intuemur. 3 Paradiſus, non ſolum nudam fragrantiam florum, ſed ipſos etiam fructus. 4 Pelagus patentiſſimum, in quo Margaritæ precioſæ latent, quæ non niſi ab illis, qui tempeſtatum procellas patiuntur inveniri queunt. 5 Cæleſtis Schola, in quo Deum Doctorem noſtrum alloquimur. 6 Univerſæ Scripturæ Compendium. 7 Gratiæ divinæ ſpeculum, in quo facies amæniſſimæ benigniſſimi Patris noſtri relucet. 8 Anatome animæ noſtræ artificioſiſſimæ, indicans omnes animæ affectus, motus, & motuum illorum remedium. Joan Gerhard. in loc. Comman. de Sacra Script. in Exegeſi. §. 144.

To conclude, The Pſalmes are, A Summary Abſtract of Theology; The סגלה Segullat or Peculiar-treaſure of the Old Teſtament; The Fore-runners and Harbingers of the New Teſtament; The Epitome of Law and Goſpel; and the well-ſtored Pandects of the whole Scriptures. They are the Anatome of Mens Hearts, A perfect Diſcovery of Spiritual Diſeaſes therein, and a moſt rich Shop of all Remedies againſt the ſame. By theſe the doubtful one is directed, the trembling one is erected, the weak is ſtrengthened, the tempted is eſtabliſhed, the deſerted is reſtored, the deſtitute is enriched, the afflicted is relieved, and the every way perplexed is comforted.

All theſe things ſpeak aloud the ſingular Excellency of this Book of Pſalmes.

§. VI. The General Partition or Diſtribution of this Book of Pſalmes.

This ſweeteſt Book of Pſalmes (which is A Cabinet of the richeſt Jewels, Every Pſalme being a diſtinct Jewel,) may upon ſeveral Conſiderations admit of ſeveral Diſtributions or Partitions. As,

I. According to the Inſtrumental Authors, Amanuenſes, or Penmen of the Pſalmes. Being written, not by any one, but by ſeveral Holy men of God, and at ſeveral times. For,

1. Moſes wrote Pſal. 90. as the Title ſhowes; A Prayer of Moſes the man of God.

2. DAVID wrote very many Pſalmes. viz. I. All thoſe, which have his Name Prefixed in the Titles of the Pſalmes. As, Pſal. 3,4,5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, 32, 34, 35, 36, 37, 38, 39, 40, 41, 51, 52, 53, 54, 55, 56, 57, 58, 59, 60, 61, 62, 63, 64, 65, 68, 69, 70, 86, 101, 103, 108, 109, 110, 122, 124, 131, 133, 138, 139, 140, 141, 142, 143, 144, 145. II. All thoſe, which the New Teſtament, or any other Scriptures aſcribe to David, As, [x] Pſal. 2. [y] Pſal. 95. [z] Pſal. 72. And it is very probable, from the Subject-Matter of ſundry other Pſalmes which have either no Title at all, or have no particular Penman expreſſed in the Title, and contain in them nothing unſuitable to Davids times, that they alſo were Penned by * David. As, Pſal. 10. and 33. and 42. and 43. and 66. and 67. and 71. and 72. and 91, &c. and 118. and 119. with many others. And, David having farre more Pſalmes aſcribed to him, then are aſcribed to any other other Penman thereof, this Book thereupon hath deservedly been denominated, The Psalmes of David.

3. Asaph the [a] Singer and [b] Seer, penned sundry Psalmes, as well as David. His name being prefixed in the Titles of twelve Psalmes, as Penman thereof, viz. *Psal.*70,73,74,75,76,77,78,79,80,81,82,83.

4. Heman the Ezrachite wrote, *Psal.*88. as the Title probably evinceth.

5. Æthan the Ezrachite, penned *Psal.*89. as the Title probably evidenceth.

But some Psalmes are Un-titled; Having no Inscriptions or Titles at all prefixed in the Hebrew, viz. Psal. 1,2,10,33,43,71,91,93,94,95,96,97,99,104,105,106, 107,111,112,113,114,115,116,117,118,119,135,136,137, 146,147,148, 149, 150. Two of these Un-titled Psalmes, viz. *Psal.*2. and 95. were penned by David, as is signified in the [c] New Testament.

Some other Psalmes have (in the Hebrew) Inscriptions or Titles prefixed; but in these Titles the Penman not mentioned, viz. Psal. 42,44,45,46,47,48,49,84, 85,87. (These ten Psalmes, and Psal.88. are in the Title said to be, For the Sonnes of Korach; or, Of the Sons of Korach; whence [d] Some have been of opinion, that they were penned by some of the Sons of Korach: But [e] others, and those of more solid judgment, do think none of these were penned by any of the Sons of Korach, but only directed or recommended unto them for the keeping and tuning of them in the Tabernacle and Temple. And *Psal.*88. directed to the sons of Korach, is called, Maschil of Heman the Ezrachite; pointing out Heman as Penman of it: and therefore the commending of these Psalmes to the sons of Korach is no Argument at all, that they were Penmen thereof.) And also *Psal.*66,67,72,92,98,100,102,120,121, 123,125,126,127,128,129,130,132,134. Two of these Psalmes, viz. Psal. 72. and 127. are intituled, For-Solomon, or Of-Solomon. But neither of them seem to be penned by Solomon, but rather both of them by David. For in *Psal.*72.20. it is said, The Prayers of David the sonne of Jesse are ended: intimating, that this present Psalme was one of Davids Prayers for himself and his son Solomon. And *Psal.*127. seems to be Davids holy Instruction to Solomon, Teaching him, That no undertaking or enjoyment is prosperous and successful without the LORD's own Benediction.

II. According to the Nature, and Kind, or Subject-matter, and Argument of the several Psalmes, This Book of Psalmes may be Distributed or Disparted as followeth, viz.

In the Psalmes, 1. God Acts towards his people, and us, divers wayes, viz. either By

1. Information, Teaching or Instruction, touching matters or mysteries Doctrinal. Thence such Psalmes are called, Psalmi Διδάκτικοι: viz. Didactical, Doctrinal, Teaching, or Instructing Psalmes. As, Psal. 1, 11, 14, 15, 19,23,24,27,32, 37,42,43,44,46,47,49,50,52,53,54,60,62,63, 64, 73, 74, 77, 78,82,88,89,91,101,112,114,116,119,121,124,127,128,129, 130,133,137,142.

2. Exhortation, touching practicals; And such are stiled, Psalmi Νουθετικοὶ or Παραινετικοὶ, viz. Admonitory, or Hortatory Psalmes. As *Psal.*34,37, &c.

3. Consolation, Touching any troubles, distresses or other disconsolating occasions. Such are denominated, Psalmi Παρακλητικοὶ, viz. Consolatory Psalmes. As, Psal. 23, 37, 91, 121,125, &c.

4. Narration of things already done and past. Such are Psalmi Ἱστορικοὶ, viz. Historical Psalmes. As, *Psal.*44,78,81, 105,106,136.

5. Prediction or foretelling of things to come. Thence, such Psalmes are called, Psalmi Προφητικοὶ, viz. Prophetical Psalmes. As, Psal. 2, 8, 16,18,19,20,22,24,40,45,47,85,93, 96,97,98,99,110,117,118.

6. A Mixture of these together in one and the same Psalme. Divers Psalmes being made up of Information, Exhortation, Consolation, &c. And such are accounted, Mixt-Psalmes. As, *Psal.*23,24,37,46,55. and many such like.

2. Gods People, and we Act towards God, either In

1. Repentance for sin. And such Psalmes are called, Penitential Psalmes, anciently. And there are seven that are accounted Penitential Psalmes, viz. Psal. 6,32,38,51,102,130,143. *See on Psal.*6. §. 3.

2. Prayer, for our selves or others, for good or against evil, &c. Whence such Psalmes are called, Psalmi Ἐυχλικοὶ, viz. Petitory, or Praying Psalmes. As, *Psal.*3,4,5,6,7,10,12, 13,17,20,21,25,26,27,35,38,39,40,51,55,56,57,58,59,60,61, 63, 64, 67, 69, 70,71,72,74,75,79,80,83,84,85,86,88,90,94, 102,109,120,123,132,137,139,140,141,142,143.

3. Praise, and Thanksgiving; For Divine Excellencies in God, or Mercies received from God. Such are Psalmi Ἐυχαριστικοὶ, viz. Gratulatory, or Thanksgiving Psalmes. As, *Psal.*8,9,18,29,30,34,48,65,66,68,76,81,82,92,93,95,96, 97, 98, 99, 100,103,104,105,106,107,111,113.115,117,118, 122,124,134,135,136,145,146,147,148,149,150.

4. Both Prayer and Praise joyntly in the same Psalmes. And these are Mixt-Psalmes, Praying-Praising-Psalmes. As, *Psal.*16,28,31,33,36,41,72,108,116,126,138,144.

III. According to their various Denominations, given them in the New Testament, viz. PSALMES, HYMNES, and SPIRITUAL SONGS. Ψαλμοῖς καὶ ὕμνοις, καὶ ᾠδαῖς πνευματικαῖς, ᾄδοντες καὶ ψάλλοντες ἐν τῇ καρδίᾳ, &c. Ephes. 5.19. *Col.*3.16. From these three Denominations, all the Integral Parts of this Book are distinguished by some into 1. Psalmes. 2. Hymnes. 3. Spiritual Songs. Of this last number one said well; [f] Sure I am that David's Psalmes are Spiritual Songs, if ever there were any Spiritual Songs in the World. But for better understanding of these three Denominations, briefly note these few things, viz.

f *Mr. T. Foord of Exon in his Singing of Ps. the Duty of Christians, &c. Serm.*1. *p.*17.

1. That, these three Greek words, do answer to three other Hebrew words used in the Titles of the Psalmes, viz. Ψάλμοι, Psalmes, to מזמורים Mizmorim: ὕ́μνοι, Hymnes, to תהלים Tehillim: and ᾠδαὶ πνευμάτικαι, Odes Spiritual, or Spiritual Songs, to שירים Shirim. This hath been [g] spoken to already, and the Etymon or Notation of the words opened.

g See before in §. 11.

2. That, these three Hebrew words are found in the Hebrew-Titles of the Psalmes: and these three Greek words are also found in the Greek-Titles of the Psalmes in the Greek Version of the LXXII. Interpreters. As 1. מזמור Mizmor, Ψάλμ☉, A Psalme: Psal. 3. and 4. and 5. and 6. and most frequently throughout the Book. 2. תהלה Tehillah, Ὕμν☉, An Hymne, Psal. 145. In which Psalme though the LXXII. have not Ὕμν☉, An Hymne, but Αἶνος, A Praise, which for sense are one and the same, Hymne signifying Praise: yet the very word Ὕμν☉ is in the Greek in the Titles of *Psal.*6,54,60,66. and in the close of Psal. 71. 20. 3. שיר Schir, ᾠδὴ, An Ode, A Canticle or A Song: *Psal.*30. and 45. and 46, and 65, and 68, and 108, and 120, to 135. And the Apostle in those passages in the New Testament, *viz. Ephes.*5.19. *Col.*3.16. seems evidently to follow and make use of those three Greek Denominations used by the LXXII. Greek Interpreters, in the Titles of the Psalmes. And the LXXII. have all these three Names together in the Title of Psalme 75. Εἰς τὸ τέλ☉, ἐν Ὕμνοις, Ψάλμ☉ τῷ Ἀσαφ, ᾠδὴ πρὸς τὸν Ἀσσύριον. —With Hymnes, a Psalme of Asaph, a Song unto the Assyrian. Which renders it the more likely that the Apostle borrowed these three Names from the Septuagint Greek Version of the Titles of Psalmes.

3. That,

3. That, learned Writers have various Apprehensions about these three Denominations and the Differences of them one from another. They distinguish them especially three wayes. viz. I. In regard of their Subject-Matter. Psalmes (thinks [h] Hierome) are of things Moral, to be practised or avoided: Hymnes of things Divine, as of Gods Power, Majesty, Providence, &c. Spiritual Songs of things Natural, but in a Spiritual way; As of the Harmony, beauty, order, &c. of the Creation. Or, As Beza [i] judgeth; Psalmes contain various and mixt Arguments; As Lamentations, Complaints to God, Narrations of our Conditions before God, Expostulations, &c. Hymnes are ἐπαινετικοὶ, Laudative, peculiarly containing the praises of God. Odes, or Spiritual Songs, are of some peculiar and special Matter of Praise, shorter, and of an higher strain of Divine Poetry. II. In regard of the Manner or way of Tuning and Singing them, as well as the Matter contained in them. Psalmes (thinks [k] Zanchy) were Sung with other Instruments besides the voice. Hymnes only set forth Gods Excellencies and Praises. Odes or Songs contain not only Praises, but also Exhortations, Prophecyes, &c. and these sung onely with the voice. To this effect also [l] Calvin. [m] Junius thinks, Psalmes were tuned with Instrument: Hymnes with voice: Odes the Genus to both. III. In regard of the Authors and Penmen of them, as well as in the former respects. Psalmes are those which were penned by David and others in Meetre to be sung in the Temple in a Musical way: Hymnes are those Extemporal praises which break forth from an heart filled with the Spirit and observant of Gods goodnesse occasionally, as the Hymnes of Debora, Anna, Zechary, Mary, &c. Odes or Songs were such as were premeditated not without some Art; As the Songs of Moses, &c. to this effect Grotius [n].

n Hug. Grotius in Annotat. ad Matth. 26. 30. & ad Ephes. 5. 19. & ad Colos. 3. 16.

4. That, notwithstanding these Differences or Distinctions Excogitated by learned Writers, these three Denominations in Hebrew and Greek are not so exactly and precisely different one from another, as some curious Criticks do pretend. For, 1. These three Hebrew and Greek words are promiscuously used in the Psalmes, and in the Titles of Psalmes one for another. As in Judg. 5. 3. and in 1 Chron. 16. 9. compared with Psal. 105. 3. which is the same Psalme. Thus מזמור Mismor, A Psalme, is rendred by the LXXII ᾠδὴν An Ode, or Song: in Psal. 38. Title. And שיר Schir, usually rendred by ᾠδὴν An Ode, A Song; is sometimes rendred Ψάλμος A Psalme, As in Psal. 45. Title. Psal. 47. Title. And by ὕμνος an Hymne, As Isai. 42. 10. And תהולים Tehillim, praises; is the General Title of the whole Book of Psalmes, wherein are both Psalmes, Hymnes and Spiritual Songs: and תהלה Tehillah is rendred ὕμνος an Hymne: As in 2 Chron. 7. 6. and 23. 13. and 29. 30. Psal. 21. 13. and 39 4. and 64. 1. and 99. 3. 2. Two of these words, or Denominations are sometimes joyntly prefixed in one and the same Title, as in Psal. 29. 1. מזמור שיר Mizmor, Schir, A Psalme, A Song: in the Greek, Ψάλμος τῆς ᾠδῆς, A Psalme of a Song. The like see in Psal. 47. title, 64. title, 65. title, 86. title. But in other Psalmes it is שיר מזמור Schir Mizmor. A Song, a Psalme; Greek ᾠδὴ Ψάλμου An Ode or Song of a Psalme: As, Psal. 65. title, and 82. title. 3. In the Greek version of Psal. 75. title, the three Greek Denominations (used by the Apostle, Ephes. 5. 19. Col. 3. 16.) are put all together; Εἰς τὸ τέλος, ἐν Ὕμνοις, Ψαλμὸς τῷ Ἀσαφ, ᾠδὴ πρὸς τὸν Ἀσσύριον. i. e. Unto the end, In Hymnes, A Psalme of Asaph, a Song to the Assyrian. 4. Unto these adde; That תהולים Tehillim, is the Common Title of all the Psalmes and Songs, &c. in this whole Book. מזמור Mizmor is the particular Title of most Psalmes. And שיר Schir, a Song, is the Title of both Songs and Psalmes promiscuously, As of Psal. 67, 87, 92, 66. compared with Psal. 120. to 135. Nor do the Greek Denominations admit such a critical difference. For Ψάλμος, A Psalme, is from Ψάλλω To Sing: And Ὕμνος An Hymne, from Ὑμνέω To sing-praise; And Ὠδὴ An Ode, A Song, &c. from Ἀείδω To sing. And the Apostle applyes two of these words ᾄδοντες καὶ Ψάλλοντες, Singing and making-melody, To all the three Denominations Psalmes, Hymnes, and Spiritual Songs, Eph. 5. 19.

5. That, therefore it seems most likely, The Apostle mentioning all these three Denominations intended especially these things. viz. 1. To teach us, by mentioning these several words, that all our Singing, however stiled, or of what sort soever, should be of a Divine and Spiritual Nature, for glorifying of God who is a Spirit, Joh. 4. 24. and the Father of Spirits; Heb. 12. 9. and for spiritualizing of our hearts and Soules, &c. 2. To direct us, by these Names given to Scripture-Psalmes, &c. what Psalmes, Hymnes, and Spiritual Songs to make use of in our Singing to the Lord: viz. Not Those that are devised, conceived or indited by men, Our selves or others; but Those that are devised and indited by the Holy-Ghost, and Penned by holy men of God infallibly guided by him thereunto, which in the Old Testament are set forth by these Titles of Psalmes, Hymnes and Spiritual Songs o. For, 1 What are these Psalmes, Hymnes and Spiritual Songs, if not these Recorded in Scripture? without these Scripture-Titles before the Psalmes, who can understand these Denominations which the Apostle useth? Ephes. 5. 19. Col. 3. 16. 2 Why should the Apostle direct us, (in laying this Duty of Singing upon us,) to the very Names and Titles of Davids Psalmes, &c. unlesse he meant these were the very Psalmes and Songs which he would have us Sing?

o Zanchy is much for the Singing of Scripture-Psalmes onely in the Church. vid. Hieronym. Zanch. in Comment. Eph. 5. 19, 20. pag. 203. De musica in Ecclesia.

IV. According to their Outward Forme or Manner of 1 Inscription, 2 Description, and 3 Collection, They admit of a threefold Distribution, viz. 1. In reference to the Inscription or Titles prefixed to most of them in the Hebrew. 2. In reference to the Manner of their Description or Writing 3. In reference to their Collection into five small Books in this one Book of Psalmes.

I. In reference to the Inscription or Titles prefixed, The Psalmes in this whole Book may be thus disparted. All the Psalmes are either 1. Un-tituled, or 2. Tituled.

1. Psalmes Un-tituled, are all those that have no Title at all prefixed to them in the Hebrew Original, and they are these twenty and five, viz. Psal. 1, 2, 10, 33, 43, 71, 91, 93, 94, 95, 96, 97, 99, 104, 105, 107, 114, 115, 116, 117, 118, 119, 136, 137, 147.

2. Psalmes Intituled, are all those that have any manner of Titles prefixed to them, viz. All the rest. Now the Titles or Inscriptions prefixed, do 1 Either Mention some Penman who wrote the Psalme. 2 Or they Mention no Penman at all.

1. The Inscriptions or Titles Expresly Mentioning some Penman or other, Do chiefly point at five Penmen or Amanuenses which the Holy Ghost made use of in writing the Psalmes, viz. Moses, David, Asaph, Heman and Æthan.

1. MOSES his name is prefixed onely to Psal. 90. A Prayer of Moses the man of God.

2. DAVID'S name is prefixed to seventy three Psalmes, viz Psalm. 3. 4. 5. 6. 7. 8. 9. 11. 12. 13. 14. 15. 16. 17. 18. 19. 20. 21. 22. 23. 24. 25. 26. 27. 28. 29. 30. 31. 32. 34. 35. 36. 37. 38. 39. 40. 41. 51. 52. 53. 54. 55. 56. 57. 58. 59. 60. 61. 62. 63. 64. 65. 68. 69. 70. 86. 101. 103. 108. 109. 110. 122. 124. 131. 133. 138. 139. 140. 141. 142. 143. 144. 145. But Davids name is prefixed unto these variously. For,

1. Some are Entituled; of David. As these fourteen, viz. Psal. 11, 14, 18, 25, 26, 27, 28, 34, 35, 36, 37, 61, 69, 103, 138, 144. Now of these fourteen Psalmes, 1. Some are Entituled, Of David: without any other addition at all, understanding; An Hymne, Song, Psalme, Prayer, &c. of David, viz. Psal. 25, 26, 27, 28, 35, 37, 103, 138, 144. 2. Some are Tituled, Of David; with some Addition annexed. viz. 1 Either with Addition of the Direction of them as to the Musick onely.

As

As Pſal. 11. 14. 61. 69. 2 Or of the direction of them as to the Muſick, and of ſome deſcription of David. As, Pſal. 36. 3 Or of the Occaſion of Davids penning it. As, Pſal. 34. 4 Or of both Direction of it as to the Muſick; Deſcription of the Penman; Denomination of it, A Song; and occaſion of writing it. As, Pſ. 18.

2. Some are intituled, A Prayer of David. As theſe two, Pſal. 17. 86. And one, (with Addition of another Denomination, and of the Occaſion) is intituled, Maſchil of David. A Prayer when he was in the Cave, viz. Pſal. 142.

3. One is called Shiggaion of David. The Occaſion being added, viz. Pſal. 7.

4. Some are entituled, Michtam of David; that is, David's Jewel, or Golden-Pſalme. And this, 1. Without any other Addition. As Pſal. 16. 2. With Addition of 1 The Direction as to the Muſick onely, viz. Pſal. 58. 2 The Direction as to the Muſick and the Occaſion of writing them alſo. As, Pſal. 56. 57. 59. 60.

5. Some are entituled, Maſchil of David; or, An Inſtruction, or Inſtructing Pſalme of David: viz. Theſe ſix, Pſal. 32. 52. 53. 54. 55. 142. But differently, viz. 1. One, without any other Addition, Pſal. 32. 2. Two of them with the Addition of the Direction as to the Muſick, Pſal. 53. 55. 3. Two of them with Direction as to the Muſick, and Declaration of the Occaſion of writing them, Pſal. 52. 54. 4. One of them, with another Denomination, and the Occaſion, &c. Pſal. 142.

Beſides theſe ſix Maſchil's of David, there are eight more Maſchil's. So that we have in all viii Maſchil's: viz. Pſal. 32. 42. 44. 45. 46. 52. 53. 54. 55. 74. 78. 88. 89. 142.

6. Some, yea moſt are entituled, A Pſalme of David. As theſe 33 following, viz. Pſal. 3. 4. 5. 6. 8. 9. 12. 13. 15. 19. 20. 21. 22. 23. 24. 29. 31. 38. 39. 40. 41. 51. 62. 63. 64. 70. 101. 109. 110. 139. 140. 141. 143. But very differently. For, of theſe

1. Eight are entituled onely thus, A Pſalme of David. Pſal. 15. 23. 24. 29. 101. 110. 141. 143.
2. Twenty are thus entituled, with Addition of Directions as to the Muſick, viz. Pſal. 4. 5. 6. 8. 9. 12. 13. 19. 20. 21. 22. 31. 39. 40. 41. 62. 64. 109. 139. 140. In the Muſical Direction, two of theſe are particularly commended to Jeduthun: viz. Pſal. 39. 62. As alſo is one of Aſaph's Pſalmes: viz. Pſal. 77.
3. Two are thus entituled, with Addition of the Occaſion: viz. Pſal. 3. 63.
4. One thus entituled, the Uſe or Scope of the Pſalme being added: viz. Pſal. 38.
5. One thus entituled, The Muſical Direction, and Occaſion being annexed: viz. Pſal. 51.
6. One is thus entituled, The Muſical Direction and Uſe being added: viz Pſal. 70.

7. One is Denominated, Davids Hymne, or, An Hymne of David, or, David's Praiſe: viz. Pſal. 145.

8. Three are entituled, A Pſalme, a Song of David. The Occaſion of the Pſalme being added to one, viz. Pſal. 30. The Direction as to the Muſick, to the other two, viz. Pſal. 65. 68.

9. One is entituled; A Song, A Pſalme of David, viz. Pſal. 108.

10. Four are entituled, A Song of degrees of David: viz. Pſal. 122. 124. 131. 133.

Beſides

Beſides which there are other 11 Songs of Degrees: viz. Pſal. 120. 121. 123. 125. 126. 127. 128. 129. 130. 132. 134. In all, 15 Songs of Degrees.

3. ASAPH's Name is prefixed to twelve Pſalmes: viz. Pſal. 50. 73. 74. 75. 76. 77. 78. 79. 80. 81. 82. 83. Of all which Aſaph ſeems to have been Penman, and not onely Singer. Now of theſe,

1. Four are entituled, A Pſalme of Aſaph: viz. Pſal. 50. 73. 79. 82.

2. One is entituled, A Song, A Pſalme of Aſaph: viz. Pſal. 83.

3. Two are entituled, Maſchil of Aſaph, Pſal. 74. 78.

4. One, To the Maſter-Muſician, Al-taſchith, A Pſalme, a Song of Aſaph: viz. Pſal. 75.

5. One, To the Maſter-Muſician on Neginoth, A Pſalme, a Song of Aſaph: viz. Pſal. 76.

6. One, To the Maſter-Muſician, To Jeduthun, A Pſalme of Aſaph: viz. Pſal. 77.

7. One, To the Maſter-Muſician upon Shoſhannim Eduth, A Pſalme of Aſaph, Pſal. 80.

8. One, To the Maſter-Muſician upon Gittith, Of Aſaph: viz. Pſal. 81.

4. HEMAN's Name is prefixed to Pſalme 88. onely. Entituled, A Song, a Pſalme for the Sons of Korach, to the Maſter-Muſician upon Mehaloth Leannoth, Maſchil of Heman the Ezrachite.

5. ÆTHAN's Name is prefixed to Pſalme 89. Entituled, Maſchil of Æthan the Ezrachite.

2. The Inſcriptions or Titles which expreſly mention no Penman at all of thoſe Pſalmes, are XXXVIII. viz. The Titles to Pſal. 42, 44, 45, 46, 47, 48, 49, 66, 67, 72, 84, 85, 87, 92, 98, 100, 102, 106, 111, 112, 113, 120, 121, 123, 125, 126, 127, 128, 129, 130, 132, 134, 135, 146, 147, 148, 149, 150.

Now theſe Titles are very various. For,

1. One is entituled onely thus, A Pſalme: viz. Pſal. 98.

2. One thus, A Pſalme for Confeſſion: viz. Pſal. 100.

3. One thus, A Pſalme, A Song for the day of Sabbath: viz. Pſal. 92.

4. Two are entituled, A Pſalme, a Song. The Direction as to the Muſick being added thereunto: viz. Pſal. 67. 87.

5. One thus, To the Maſter-Muſician, A Song, a Pſalme: viz. Pſal. 66.

6. Eleven are Directed, as to the Muſick, To the ſonnes of Korach: viz Pſal. 42. 44. 45. 46. 47. 48. 49. 84. 85. 87. 88. Of which,

1. One is evidenced to be penned by Heman the Ezrachite: viz Pſal. 88. A Maſchil.

2. Three are Maſchil's. Two entituled thus, To the Maſter-Muſician, Maſchil, for the ſonnes of Korach: viz, Pſal. 42. 44. One thus, To the Maſter-Muſician upon Shoſhannim, for the ſonnes of Korach, Maſchil, A Song of the well-beloved-Virgins: viz. Pſal. 45.

3. Three are entituled thus, To the Maſter-Muſician, A Pſalme for the ſonnes of Korach: viz. Pſal. 47. 49. 85.

4. One thus, To the Maſter-Muſician upon Gittith, A Pſalme for the ſonnes of Korach: viz. Pſal. 84.

5. One thus, To the Maſter-Muſician, for the ſonnes of Korach, A Song upon Alamoth: viz. Pſal. 46.

6. One thus, A Song, a Pſalme for the ſonnes of Korach: viz. Pſal. 48.

7. One thus, To the ſonnes of Korach, A Pſalme, a Song: viz. Pſal. 87.

7. One

7. One is entituled, For Solomon, viz. Psal. 72. Of this David was Penman, as is hinted there in verse 20.
8. One thus, A Prayer for the Poor-afflicted, when he shall be overwhelmed and shall-poure-forth his Meditation before-the-faces of JEHOVAH: viz. Psal. 102.
9. Fifteen are entituled; A Song of Degrees: viz. Psal. 120, 121, 122, 123, 124, 125, 126, 127, 128, 129, 130, 131, 132, 133, 134.
Of these, four are entituled, A Song of Degrees of David: viz. Psal. 122. 124. 131. 133. One is entituled, A Song of Degrees for Solomon: viz Psal. 127. The rest are entituled onely thus, A Song of Degrees. So that of these Songs of Degrees, Eleven mention no Penman at all.
10. Finally, Ten have this word prefixed, Halelu-jah: that is, Praise-yee-the-LORD: viz. Psal. 106, 111, 112, 113, 135, 146, 147, 148, 149, 150. And every one of these also in like manner endeth with Halelu-jah, except Psal. 111. which endeth thus; His praise endureth for ever: Tending to the advancement also of the LORD's Praise.

Thus this precious Book of Psalmes, Begins with the Blessednesse of the Godly, A most fit beginning (said P Ambrose) Psal. 1. 1, 2, &c. And that blessednesse, in and thorough the Messiah, by Faith; Psal. 2. 1. &c. 12. And it Ends with Halelu-jah's: The high language of the godly-blessed, here on Earth, and hereafter in Heaven for evermore.

Thus the whole Book of Psalmes may be Distributed in reference to the Inscriptions or Titles of the Psalmes. The Exposition of the Titles see in the respective Psalmes.

II. In reference to the manner of their Description or Writing, The Psalmes may be Distributed into, 1 Alphabetical: And 2 Not-Alphabetical.

1. Psalmes Alphabetical, are all those, which are written according to the Order of the Letters of the Hebrew Alphabet: The Verses, or several Periods thereof, beginning with the several Letters of the Alphabet in Order; The first with א, The second with ב, The third with ג, &c. And there are in all seven such Alphabetical Psalmes: viz. Psal. 25, 34, 37, 111, 112, 119, 145. And in these the Alphabet is expressed somewhat variously, and now and then the Method is somewhat interrupted in some of them, as shall afterwards be noted in the Explication of those Psalmes particularly and respectively. Now whether this q Alphabetical way of writing these Psalmes, was at first intended for an help to memory onely; or for any subserviency to the Musick; or for any other advantage, is somewhat difficult to determine. But this is very Observable, That those Psalmes, which are written in this Alphabetical Forme, are among the rest very eminent and notable. And by this Hebrew Alphabet Schollers may the better remember those Psalmes in the Hebrew. And hence, it is not unwarrantable, nor unuseful to Penn the English Psalmes, or any other Version thereof, &c. in the English, or other Alphabet, for the help of memory.

2. Psalmes Not-Alphabetical, are all the rest. They not being written in Hebrew according to this Alphabetical Order.

III. In reference to the Collecting, or Digesting of the Psalmes into several lesser Books within this one Book of Psalmes; This Book is very anciently divided into five Books by the Hebrewes: Making the Psalmes, as it were, Another Pentetеuch, or Five-fold-Volume. David's Pentetеuch, Answering to Moses Pentetеuch, viz.

I. The first Book is, From the beginning of Psal. 1. to the end of Psal. 41. ספר אחד Sepher Achad; comprising in all, 41 Psalmes; And ending thus,—Blessed be

P Beatus, &c.] Quam aptum, quam opportunum principium. —A præmio cæpit, ut pondus futuri certaminis elevaret: Mercedem præmisit, ut unusquisque præsentium rerum solicitudines ac labores corde transilirus, ad emerendam beatitudinem futurorum avidæ festinatione contenderet. Ambr. in Psal. 1. Exarat. p. 462. Tom. 4. Basil 1577.

q Sunt & aliquot alii Psalmi Alphabetici, sed non omnes eodem modo. Ea res unam ad musicam pertinear, an verò tantum ad memoriam iuvandam, incertum est: Et Rabbini fatentur se nihil scire de hac re. Certum illud est, eos omnes Psalmos, qui sic sunt, inter alios eminere. Sim. de Muis in Arg. ad Psal. 25.

be the LORD God of Iſrael, from everlaſting and to everlaſting; Amen and Amen. Pſal. 41. 13. And it is obſervable, That all theſe Pſalmes are by the Titles hinted to be David's Pſalmes, except four: viz. Pſal. 1. 2. 10. 33. And Pſalme 2. is declared to be David's Pſalme, in Acts 4. 25. 26. Hereupon it's probably conceived that this Firſt Book was collected by David, as almoſt all the Pſalmes were written by him.

II. The Second Book is, From the beginning of Pſal. 42. to the end of Pſal. 72. ספר שני Sepher Sheni: Containing in the whole 31 Pſalmes: And cloſed up thus; ——And bleſſed be the Name of his Glory for ever, and let all the Earth be filled with his Glory: Amen and Amen. Ended are the Prayers of David, ſon of Jeſſe. Pſal. 72 19, 20. And 19 of theſe 31 Pſalmes were penned by David; as the Titles of them, and Pſal. 72. 20. do evince. Probably alſo David might collect this Book.

III. The Third Book is, From the beginning of Pſal. 73. to the end of Pſal. 89. ספר שלישי Sepher Sheliſhi: Comprehending in all 17 Pſalmes: and concluding thus; ——Bleſſed be JEHOVAH for ever: Amen and Amen. Pſal. 89. 53. And of theſe 17, onely one is aſcribed to David; One to Heman; One to Æthan; Three other are directed to the ſonnes of Korach, no Penman being hinted; but Eleven are aſcribed to Aſaph. Probably Aſaph might collect and diſpoſe in Order this Book.

IV. The Fourth Book is, From the beginning of Pſal. 90. to the end of Pſal. 106. ספר רביעי Sepher Rebighi; made up of 17 Pſalmes alſo: And ſhut up thus; ——Bleſſed be JEHOVAH the God of Iſrael, from eternity and unto eternity: And let all the People ſay, Amen, Halelu-jah. Pſal. 106. 48. And of theſe 17 onely One is aſcribed to Moſes, Two to David, The reſt are either un-tituled Pſalmes, or in their Titles mention no Penman at all. It's hard to conjecture who collected this Book.

V. The Fifth Book is, From the beginning of Pſal. 107. till the end of Pſal. 150. ספר חמישי Sepher Chamiſhi: Having in it in all 44 Pſalmes: And terminating the whole Book thus: *Let all breath Praiſe-*JAH; Halelu-jah. Pſal 150. 6. And it is obſervable, That 15 Pſalmes of theſe 44 are in the Titles aſcribed to David, and not one of all the reſt aſcribed to any other Perſon, moſt of them being un-tituled. And who can tell how many more of theſe were penned by David? This Book (as was [r] formerly hinted) is ſuppoſed to be thus collected in the dayes of Judas Maccabæus. But whether then, or before: and by whom, whether by David, or Ezra, or ſome other, is altogether uncertain.

This is the Partition of this Book of Pſalmes according to the Hebrew, thus ſubdivided into five leſſer Books. Touching this Diſtribution, let me note a few things, viz.

1. That, all the 150 Pſalmes are but one entire Book, or Volume, as * Hierome alſo notes. For, 1. The New Teſtament is wont ſtill to alledge it as only one Book; [s] ——And David himſelf ſaith in the Book of Pſalmes, &c. [t] ——For it is written in the Book of Pſalmes, &c. 2. The Hebrew Bibles proceed in one continued Enumeration of theſe Pſalmes, till they come to the 150. never beginning their Enumeration again at any of theſe Leſſer Books: Unus liber: quinque libelli.

2. That, notwithſtanding, this Diſtribution of the Book of Pſalmes into five Little Books is Ancient. Hierome ſaith, [u] With the Hebrewes the Pſalter is divided into five Volumes. And elſwhere reckoning up the Hagiographi in order, he ſaith, [x] And the Firſt Book begins with Job: The Second with David, which they comprehend in five Inciſions, but one Volume of Pſalmes. Epiphanius ſaith, [y] Yet neither let this paſſe thee, O lover of good, That the Hebrewes have divided the Pſalter into five little-Books, that it might be as it were another Penteteuch. [z] Greg. Nyſſen alſo affirmes the Whole Pſalmes to be diſtributed into five Parts; declaring alſo the Act and Reaſon of that diſtribution.

3. That, All theſe five Books are terminated almoſt in the ſame manner and words.

words. And in them all there ſeems to be a plain borrowing of the Expreſſions, from thoſe with David's Pſalme, at the bringing up of the Ark, was concluded withall; viz. [a] Bleſſed be יהוה the God of Iſrael, from Eternity and unto Eternity: And all the people ſaid Amen, and Praiſed יהוה. Now, whether theſe Concluſions were Added to the ſeveral Books, by the Penmen of the Pſalmes themſelves, Or by him or them that were Collectors of the Pſalmes into theſe Five Books, is ſomewhat doubted. If the former, whereunto my judgment inclines, then poſſibly this diviſion might ariſe from the peculiar cloſe of theſe five Pſalmes, viz. Pſal. 41. 72. 89. 106. 150. Eminently obſervable in and among all the reſt of the Pſalmes. If the later, whereunto [b] ſome propend, then poſſibly, the diſtribution was firſt made, and afterwards theſe concluſive paſſages added, in imitation of that of David forementioned. But Genebrard is of opinion, That this Diſtribution did ariſe from the five-fold-Argument, and the diverſity of the Authors or Penmen, when there was any notable change. For, ſaith he, The firſt Book is of ſorrowful and adverſe things: and is aſcribed to David alone. The ſecond of joyful matters; and in great part hath the ſonnes of Korah Authors, (I ſhould think rather, they were Singers onely). In the third are found things ſorrowful and adverſe, By Aſaph and ſome others. In the fourth matters joyful ſucceed, by divers Authors: ſuch viciſſitude of humane affairs is inſinuated. The fifth and largeſt of all, is aſcribed almoſt to David alone, and is of mixt Argument, made up of Prayers, Praiſes, Complaints, Thanksgivings; one while touching proſperous, another while touching adverſe occurrents. But [c] S. de Muis hath a conjecture; That the Pſalmes were digeſted into Order, not with any reſpect to the Hiſtory, but onely to the Poetical or Muſical numbers. That haply thoſe Pſalmes were caſt together whoſe way of Meetre was the ſame, or at leaſt whoſe Muſical numbers agreed. [d]——And yet Pſalme 72. which was the laſt which David penned, is not placed laſt of all the Pſalmes, becauſe they that digeſted this Book of Pſalmes into Order, thought fit to cloſe, and as it were, ſeal up this Volume with Pſalmes containing the Praiſes of God.

§. VII. An Account of things performed in this Verſion of the Pſalmes into Engliſh Meetre, out of the Hebrew: And in this Expoſition of the Pſalmes.

This Book of Pſalmes (written [e] for our Edification and Conſolation as well as all other Scriptures) was in the Original Hebrew penned, not in Proſe, (as moſt other Books of the Old Teſtament,) But in ſuccinct Poetical meaſures, (and ſome of the Pſalmes in [f] Rithmes) that they might be ſung in the Temple of old, 2 Chron. 29. 30. compared with 1 Chron. 15. throughout. This is ſufficient warrant to us, For tranſlating or turning the Pſalmes, Hymnes, and Spiritual Songs of this Book, out of the Hebrew into Engliſh Poetical Meetre and Rithmes alſo, that we may ſing them with underſtanding, and therewith make melody in our hearts unto the Lord, Eph. 5. 18, 19. Col. 3. 16. 1 Cor. 14. 15.

That Poetical or Metrical Verſion of the Book of Pſalmes into Engliſh, by T. S. I.H. and others, which hath now for a long time been of general uſe in theſe three Nations, was of good uſe to the Churches in England, Scotland, &c. in thoſe darker times wherein it was compiled, in the Dawnings of their Reformation from Popery. But ſince thoſe times ſpiritual Light and Experience much increaſing in theſe Nations; The more intelligent ſort have obſerved; 1. That the Compilers of that Verſion, being ſtrangers to the Hebrew, have very often left out the matter, yea, in moſt places omitted the Emphaſis of the Hebrew, and in ſundry places miſtaken the true ſenſe and meaning of the Holy Ghoſt; 2. That, in paſſages not a few, they have needleſly inſerted expreſſions very groſs and barbarous; 3. That, the whole Verſion is (for the ſmoothneſs of the Meetre) carried ſo far remote from the Hebrew-text, and filled up with ſo many Additionals of their own, That it is rather A Paraphraſe then A Verſion or Tranſlation, and for the matter of it, farre too much Humane: By all which the Edification, Comfort and Devotion of all ſorts of Chriſtians, eſpecially of the more intelligent and prudent, is exceedingly damped, deadned and obſtructed in this Heavenly Exerciſe of Singing of Pſalmes; And the Adverſaries unto the Worſhip of God by ſinging of P*ſalmes*, both Papiſts, and others, have been hereby extreamly gratified and confirmed in their Errour. Hereupon, probably, there have been many Eſſay's or Attempts of later times to remedy theſe inconveniencies. And very many Metrical Verſions of the Pſalmes in Engliſh, have been contrived and publiſhed in Print; Some of them tending to refine the Poetical Meetre; Some, to improve and amend the Verſion; but none of them reaching ſo fully to that cloſeneſſe and nearneſs unto the Hebrew Original, with a convenient ſmoothneſs of the Meetre, and familiar eaſineſs of Tunes, as is earneſtly deſired by the faithful Miniſters and People of God.

Therefore, Having heretofore made an Experiment, what might be yet further done in this kinde for the juſt ſatisfaction of the pious, and zealous deſires of judicious Miniſters and Chriſtians, and imparting a Specimen or Sample hereof unto many of them, I have been at laſt ſo farre overcome by their frequent importunities, as to publiſh this my Metrical Verſion of the whole Book of P*ſalmes* alſo, with an Expoſition thereupon; In like manner and method as I have[g] formerly preſented to publike View, The Scripture-Songs, diſperſed here and there in the Books of the Old and New Teſtament. And I have thought it moſt proper to inſert this my Verſion and Expoſition of the P*ſalmes* in its own place in this third Edition of The Key of the Bible, for the compleating of that Work, This Book of P*ſalmes* being the only Book of Old and New Teſtament, which was left un-expounded in the ſecond Edition of that Key. Now touching things performed in this Metrical Verſion and Expoſition of the P*ſalmes*, I offer this brief Account, viz.*

1. This Metrical Verſion, or Tranſlation, very cloſely approacheth to the Hebrew. The Hebrew text is the Fountain, All Tranſlations are but as ſtreames flowing from that Fountain: And the nearer the ſtreames are to the Fountain, the more pure and deſirable they are. To this end the grand and primary intendment in this Verſion hath been, to bring it to the greateſt nearneſs poſſible unto the Hebrew: That as much of God, and as little of man, as may be, might appear therein; and the ſpirits of Gods people might conſequently receive the more abundant ſatisfaction and conſolation in this Sacred PSALME-Melody. More particularly,

1. Here you have the proper immediate and genuine rendering of the Hebrew, without remote Expreſſions or Circumlocutions. And where the propriety of our Engliſh Tongue, or current of the Meetre would not ſo conveniently beare that exactneſs, the proper and exact Verſion is put in the Margin, and ſome other (as neer to it as could be had) into the Meetre, with Letter-references. That even in ſinging we may readily caſt our eye upon the propriety of the Hebrew-words or phraſes, for the advantage of our Meditation and Devotion. How much this conduceth to compleat the Tranſlation, and to promote Edification, let the wiſe-hearted prudently conſider.

2. Here you find the whole Text entirely expreſſed, without injurious Omiſſions: and if any the leaſt Particle be inavoidably left out of the Meetre, (which is extream ſparingly) it is ſet in the Margin. For, I judge it a temerarious boldneſſe, and inexcuſable unfaithfulneſſe in any Tranſlator of Holy Scripture, knowingly and wittingly, to baulk the rendering of any words. This is not to Tranſlate, but to Correct, yea,

[g] Viz. In my Key of the Bible, of the ſecond Edition Lond. Ann. 1649

* See alſo afterwards in §. 8. Theſ. 2. Inference IV.

yea, to corrupt the Text; which is intolerable. And therefore, all the Inſcriptions or Titles prefixed, and all the Poſtſcripts ſuffixed to the Pſalmes; as alſo all the Selah's, and Higgajon-Selah, (being all of them parts of the Hebrew Text, and very uſeful in reſpect of the ſenſe, though not ſo ſuitable to be Sung,) are printed in Proſe diſtinctively in their own reſpective places in an old Engliſh Character, to ſignifie they are not to be Sung with the reſt.

3. Here you ſee the pure Text un-mixed with needleſſe Paraphraſtical Additions. So that in ſinging the Pſalmes thus tranſlated, we may worſhip the LORD our God more ſweetly and ſatisfactorily according to Divine, not Humane Manifeſtations. By this cloſe adhering to the Original, This Verſion is rendered much ſhorter then many others. And where the proportion of the Meetre, or propriety of the Hebrew Tongue (which much ſtudies brevity, and oft-times leaves words to be underſtood for the perfecting of Sentences,) did neceſſarily enforce upon ſome ſupplemental Additionals: Thoſe words ſupplyed, are; 1. Either Implicitly comprized under the force and Emphaſis of the Hebrew word, and linked thereto with a Makkaph (-). As, Pſal 1. 4. But as-the-ſmall-chaff-duſt: כמוץ As the duſt; properly ſignifies, as-the-ſmall-duſt-of-chaff. So Pſal. 3.1. My-diſtreſſing-enemies, צרי My troublers: properly, My-ſtraiting-foes, or diſtreſſers. So Pſal. 18. 1. I'le-love-thee-dear: ארחמך I-will-love-thee; properly ſignifies, I-will-love-thee-dearly: or, I-will-love-thee-with-inmoſt-bowels. This courſe is frequently obſerved. 2. Or, The additional words, which are not comprized under the genuine ſignification of the Hebrew, are differenced plainly by an Italick Character from the reſt of the Text; that we may plainly ſee what is Textual, what Additional. And much care hath been uſed in adding ſuch words as are moſt Homogeneal or ſuitable to the reſpective places. And if the learned in the Hebrew will pleaſe to take any other Metrical-Verſion of the Pſalmes in Engliſh, and comparing it with the Hebrew exactly, will but make an experiment in any two or three Pſalmes, by noting what Hebrew words are not tranſlated but omitted, and by under-ſcoring all the other words which are ſuper-added, more then what is in the Hebrew; then they ſhall eaſily perceive what care hath been taken in this Verſion, and how much it differs in this point from other Tranſlations.

In Summe; Read the whole Verſion, as it is here made up both Textuals and Additional words now and then: And ſo you have A Metrical or Poetical Verſion. Read the Verſion without the words ſuper-added, and printed in Italick Letter: And ſo you have a perfect Proſe-Tranſlation. Read the Text with the Marginal words: and ſo you have the Proper Emphatical Grammar-Criticiſme according to the propriety of the Hebrew-Original. And all this helps us abundantly, with the more judgment and comfort in Singing to make melody in our hearts unto the LORD. Epheſ. 5. 18. Col. 3. 16.

II. The Meetre of this Verſion is ſo ordered, 1. That, Barbariſmes, Obſolete and antiquated Expreſſions, and light frothy Poetical flaſhes are ſtudiouſly therein declined. 2. That, the verſe runnes for the moſt part with much ſmoothneſſe, the accuſtomed Poetical quantities of our Engliſh words being heedfully obſerved; and the verſe expreſſing a perfect ſenſe, or conveniently leading unto that part of the ſenſe which is comprized in the verſe or line following. 3. That the verſe is adorned with fit (and for the moſt part, with double) Rithmical Terminations. Notwithſtanding, the ſmoothneſſe of the verſe is to be preferred before the Rythme: and the cloſeneſſe of the Verſion to the Hebrew fountain is to be regarded, among the ſpiritually wiſe, before them both.

Theſis. I.

Singing of Pſalmes with voice is an Ordinance of Chriſt, and a Duty of Chriſtians now under the New Teſtament.

Touching the Antiquity of Singing Pſalmes and Spiritual Songs, &c. it is very great.

great. It is as ancient, as the dayes of David; See 2 Sam. 23. 1, 2. and 22. 1. &c. 1 Chron. 16. 7. &c. and 25. throughout. The Book of Pſalmes throughout. As the dayes of the Judges, Judg. 5. 1. &c. Yea, as the dayes of Moſes, not onely after the giving of the Law at Mount Sinai, Deut. 31. 19. to the end, with 32. 1. to 44. But alſo before the giving of the Law at Horeb, Exod 15. 1. &c. ſo that it ſeems in ſome reſpect to be a part of Gods natural worſhip, and not meerly to depend upon Inſtitution. And as Singing of Pſalmes and other Spiritual Songs was very ancient; ſo it was both moſt highly commended and much required and uſed under the Old Teſtament [o]. But of theſe things there being no Scruple at all, I have laid down the Poſition with reſpect to Singing Pſalmes onely under the New Teſtament, about which all the Doubts and Scruples are. Here therefore conſider 1 The Explication; 2 The Confirmation of this Theſis.

[o] See Pſal. 33. 1, 2. and 92. title, ver. 1. &c. and 147. 1. —

I. For Explication of this Theſis, two things are to be cleared; 1 What is meant by ſinging of Pſalmes with voice. 2 What ſort of ſinging with voice it is which is now Chriſts Ordinance and the Chriſtians Duty.

1. What is meant by ſinging of Pſalmes with voice? Anſw. This may be reſolved, Negatively, and Affirmatively.

Negatively. 1. Hereby, is not to be underſtood, the Ordinary Pronuntiation onely: but ſomething further. 2. Underſtand not ſinging with the voice onely: As Excluſive to the Hearts joyning with the voice. For, Making-Melody to the LORD in our Hearts; Singing with Grace in our hearts to the Lord; Singing with the Spirit and with the underſtanding alſo, are required as the principal Melody to the Lord [p]. And without the Conjunction of minde and heart with the audible voice, vocal Singing is but Hypocritical. 3. Hereby, underſtand not, ſuch vocal Singing of Pſalmes; As is onely Private, of one man alone [q], Or of a few perſons together [r]. Or as is onely Publique, of an whole Church or Congregation together [s]. But underſtand both Private and Publique Singing of Pſalmes with audible voice. Both are Chriſts Ordinances, and Chriſtian Duties required of the Faithful, as Occaſion ſhall be offered, now under the New Teſtament.

Affirmatively. By Singing of Pſalmes with voice, underſtand; A muſical articulation, or melodious modulation or tuning of the voice in pronouncing of Pſalmes, &c. that ſo we may have more ſpace, for meditation, for expreſſing our ſpiritual affections of joy or grief, &c. for edifying one another, and for glorifying the Lord. This is the nature of Singing Pſalmes in the General. Now herein are hinted to us the General uſes, advantages, or benefits of Singing Pſalmes, Hymnes, and Spiritual Songs, viz. Vocal Singing of Pſalmes, &c. 1. Gives more ſpace of time and deliberate Scope for ſpiritual Meditation upon that which is ſung [t]. The words being as it were produced and drawn out at length, the thoughts have the longer opportunity to fix, ponder, dwell, and be detained thereupon in a more deliberate and diſtinct Meditation. And this uſe we ſhould conſtantly make of Singing Pſalmes: viz. thereby to enlarge our Meditation. 2. Excites and expreſſeth our ſpiritual affections exceedingly. Singing, raiſeth joy [u]; Is any merry? Let him ſing Pſalmes. Enlargeth love, delight, zeal, &c. proportionably: and it ſets on ſorrow with a deeper impreſſion, and profitably remembers it: as is evident in the Pſalmes called Penitential. How are ſome mens hearts elevated and rapt up into a ſpiritual and heavenly intranſment of ſoul and affections by this holy Melody! 3. Edifies our ſelves and others. Our ſelves; 1 By withſtanding and keeping out prophane, carnal, drunken Songs and Sonnets [x]. 2 By exerting and exerciſing the Spirit of God wherewith we are in any meaſure filled, and acting his Graces; yea, perhaps enflaming and increaſing the Spirit of God and his Graces in us [y]. 3 By improving our Tongue as our Glory [z] indeed in this glorious way to ſhout aloud of Gods glory, in ſinging his praiſe. Others; 1 By teaching and admoniſhing them [a], when we ſing joyntly with them Pſalmes and Hymnes, &c. 2 By making Gods Word to dwell in others as in our ſelves moſt richly [b], through ſinging of Pſalmes. 3 By provoking them unto ſpiritual and heavenly affections of love, zeal, joy, delight, &c. in God, and and the things of God. 4 By inciting them to conſent with us to this part of Gods worſhip, and ſay, Amen [c]. 4. Declares our more rich furniture with the Word of God dwelling in us in all wiſedom [d], and our more ample profeſſion of Piety conſequently. 5. Glorifies God more magnificently, triumphantly, and gloriouſly: Singing aloud, ſtirring up greater attention, affection, and admiration in the Auditory. Therefore when the Ark went forth, and when it returned, they ſang with a loud voice; Let God ariſe, and let his enemies be ſcattered, &c [e]. whereby the LORD was praiſed more zealouſly and more illuſtriouſly.

2. What ſort of Vocal Singing of Pſalmes it is, which is now Chriſts Ordinance, and the Chriſtians Duty under the New Teſtament? Anſw. Both private and publique Singing, as hath been already intimated [f]. But eſpecially I ſhall ſpeak to publique Singing, wherein divers ſing together: provided alwayes that both private and publique ſinging be managed to moſt Edification.

II. For confirmation of the Theſis, I offer theſe Arguments eſpecially, viz.

1. Singing of Pſalmes, &c. to God with the voice, ſeems to be a part of Gods natural Worſhip: which, upon due conſideration of Gods Nature, man by light of Nature ſhould performe to God, though there were no particular Law requiring it, nor Inſtitution appointing it. For, 1. Singing of Pſalmes, &c. to God, is a kind or ſort of Prayer [g], A Prayer not in Proſe, but in Meetre with melody. Moſt Pſalmes or Spiritual Songs are in their Nature Prayers or Praiſes. The Apoſtle obſervably joynes them together, as of like Nature [h]. And who can be ſo groſs, as to deny, Prayer to God to be part of his Natural worſhip? 2. Singing of Songs to God was practiſed by Gods People, at the Red Sea for their miraculous deliverance there, both from the Egyptians and the Sea [i], before the Law was given at M. Sinai, or any other particular Law for ſuch a Duty. 3. Singing of Pſalmes is a Duty of the firſt Commandment, peculiarly requiring all Natural Worſhip to be performed to him. And ſo it is ranked by the godly learned [k]. And one [l] ſaith, Singing with heart and voice is a moral Worſhip, ſuch as is written in the hearts of all men by Nature: As to pray in diſtreſſe; So when we are merry and have cauſe of ſolemne Thankſgiving unto God, then to ſing Pſalmes: which the Holy Ghoſt by the Apoſtle James approveth and ſanctifieth, Jam. 5. 13. Now that which is part of Gods Natural Moral Worſhip, is a Duty of Chriſtians under the New Teſtament, as well as of Jewes under the old. Natural Worſhip is alwaies and in all times a Duty: obliging ſemper, though not ad ſemper. Doubtleſſe, even Pagans by light and law of Nature are bound to ſing Praiſes unto God for his inviſible excellencies made known to them by his viſible works of Creation and Providence, though they never come to the knowledg of Scripture-Pſalmes or Songs.

2. Singing of Pſalmes, &c. with voice, is commanded to Chriſtians and Churches by the Writings of the New Teſtament: and therefore is their undoubted Duty now under the New Teſtament. This Duty is commanded, I. More privately, to particular perſons ſeverally when they are cheerfully diſpoſed: Is any merry? Let him ſing Pſalmes [m]. II. More publiquely, to Chriſtians joyntly, yea, to Church-Aſſemblies. As, 1 To the Saints, and Church at Epheſus; ——But be yee filled with the Spirit: Speaking to your ſelves in Pſalmes, and Hymnes, and Spiritual Songs, ſinging and making melody in your heart to the Lord [n]. In which words note, Firſt, The perſons here ſpoken to, and charged with this Duty, viz. The Saints at Epheſus, and the faithful in Chriſt Jeſus [o]. This takes in all the Chriſtians there; even the whole Church. Secondly, The Exhortation or Command it ſelf; in three words, Λαλοῦντες, Ἄδοντες, Ψάλλοντες, Speaking, Singing, Making-melody. Theſe denote the Acts required of them. Thirdly, The Subject-matter which they are to ſing, about which theſe Acts are to be exerciſed, In Pſalmes, Hymnes, and Spiritual Songs. Fourthly, The Mode or Manner in which all this is to be performed, viz. Profitably, for one anothers ſpiritual good, and edification; there ſinging being ſtiled, a Speaking one to another in Pſalmes, &c. that is, A Speaking ſo in Pſalme-ſinging together, as to teach and admoniſh one another therein, according as the parallel place expounds it [p]. Sincerely, with the heart. Fifthly, The Object to whom this worship is specially to be directed; To the Lord. Sixthly, The Occasion of this Exhortation and charge here, viz. That singing Psalmes may evidence they are filled with the Spirit, this being a very spiritual Exercise, and flowing from the Spirit [q]: As also that both these may be an Antidote against drunkennesse, drunken mirth, drunken Songs, &c. So that vocal singing of Psalmes, &c. is here clearly enjoyned to the Ephesians. 2 To the Colossians, the Saints and Church of God at Colosse. Though the Apostle had notably dehorted them and warned them in this very Epistle by many Arguments against Legal and Jewish Ceremonies, as abrogated by Christ [r]: yet it's very observable, that in the same Epistle he much urgeth and presseth Singing of Psalmes: giving them thereby clearly to understand, that Singing of Psalmes was no Jewish Ceremony, nor abrogated by Christ; but still to be continued under the New Testament; Let the Word of Christ dwell in you richly in all wisdome, teaching and admonishing one another in Psalmes, and Hymnes, and Spiritual Songs, singing with grace in your hearts to the Lord [s]. Here note, First, An Exhortation of them to be well acquainted with the Holy Scriptures, Let the Word of Christ dwell in you, &c. Secondly, The manner how they should acquaint themselves with the Scriptures, the Word of Christ, viz. Familiarly and intimately; Richly; In all spiritual wisdome touching matters of Faith and Obedience. Thirdly, The use of this their Acquaintance with the Holy Scriptures, exemplyfied in one eminent spiritual Duty whereunto they shall thereby be enabled, viz. Edifying one another, Teaching and Admonishing one another in Psalmes, &c. Fourthly, The way and manner of right singing of Psalmes, &c. it must be, With Grace; In their Heart; To the Lord. Fifthly, The Parties charged with these Duties; The Saints and faithful Brethren in Christ at Colosse [t]. Now this Teaching and Admonishing one another in Psalmes, &c. necessarily requires and imports an audible voice in singing. 3 To the Church of Corinth. To this Church the Apostle commands, that they sing with the Spirit, and with the understanding also [u]; that is, Not onely with their own understanding, (for all that sung with the Spirit did so,) but with the understanding of the Hearers, that so he that occupied the place of the unlearned, might be edified by such giving of thanks, and say Amen: as one hath rightly observed *.

3. Singing of Psalmes, &c. with audible voice hath been practised by Jesus Christ and his holy Servants in the New Testament. When Christ first instituted the Lords Supper, He and his Apostles sweetly closed up that Sacred Ordinance with joynt-singing of an Hymne or Psalme [x]. And Paul and Silas, in Prison, about midnight praying, Sang an Hymne to God (προσευχόμενοι Ὕμνουν τὸν Θεόν:) And the Prisoners heard them [y]: therefore they sung with audible voice. Herein therefore we are to learn of Christ, and to follow him: yea, and to follow his Apostles and Servants, as they followed Christ [z]. And not onely Christ and his Apostles, but also the Primitive Apostolical Churches were wont in their publique Assemblies to sing Psalmes: As the Church of Corinth; How is it then Brethren? when yee come together, every one of you hath a Psalme, hath a Doctrine, &c. let all things be done to edifying [a]. They sung Psalmes in an unknown Tongue, (many in that Church had the Gift of Tongues) but he exhorts them to sing in a known Tongue, that others that were unlearned might be edified, and enabled to say, Amen: What is it then? I will pray with the Spirit, and will pray with the understanding also: I will sing with the Spirit, and I will sing with the understanding also: Else when thou shalt blesse with the Spirit, how shall he that occupieth the room of the unlearned, say Amen at thy giving of thanks, seeing he understandeth not what thou sayest? for thou verily givest thanks well, but the other is not edified [b], &c. The Church at Ephesus, is commanded and directed by Paul, To speak to themselves in Psalmes [c], &c. And the Church at Colosse, To teach and admonish one another in Psalmes, and Hymnes [d], &c. Which Apostolical charge, no Question, these Churches did accordingly perform; as the Centuriators do well observe [e].

And as Singing of Psalmes was used in the Purest Primitive Apostolical times in the the Church-Aſſemblies: So it was continued all along in the Succeſſive Churches [f], hitherto; though it is too evident that ſome corruptions and vanities by little and little crept into this, as into other parts of Gods worſhip, in after-times.

[f] Singing of Pſalmes was uſed, In the ſecond Century: to celebrate Chriſt and his Deity, againſt the calumny of Theodotus. Euſeb. Eccleſ. Hiſt. l. 5. c. 28. Tom. 1. But theſe inſtances may ſuffice to give an indication of the Practice of the Churches in ſinging of Pſalmes.

4. Singing of Pſalmes with audible voice, is an eminent diſcovery of Chriſtians being filled with the Spirit of God, and a ſingular effect or fruit of the Spirit of God, whereby he delights to act, exerciſe and expreſs himſelf in Chriſtians now under the New Teſtament.——But be filled with the Spirit: Speaking to your ſelves in Pſalms, Hymnes and Spiritual Songs [g], &c. For, 1. They that are filled with the Spirit, have joy in the Holy Ghoſt, Rom. 14.17. Gal. 5.22. and Spiritual joy delights to expreſs it ſelf in ſinging of Pſalmes [h]. 2. They that are filled with the Spirit, have their hearts fixed in love, zeal, and all holy affections towards God: and conſequently cannot chuſe but ſing and give praiſe [i]. 3. They that are filled with the Spirit, are ready to be ſpiritually acted and led by him in his own wayes, Rom. 8.14. Gal. 5.25. And, as Pſalmes are indited by the Spirit of God [k]; ſo the Singing of Pſalmes is a ſpiritual courſe often enjoyned by the Spirit of God. Pſal. 95. 1, 2. and 96. 1, 2. ——Eph. 5. 19. Col. 3. 16. Jam. 5.13. 4. They that are filled with the Spirit, are inclined and ought to profit others, 1 Cor. 12. 7. and ſinging Pſalmes is one way whereby we may much profit one another, therein teaching and admoniſhing one another [l]. Now, all theſe things conſidered, how can it chuſe but be a Chriſtian Duty to ſing Pſalmes, that hereby they may the more aſſure themſelves they have the Spirit of God, and that ſo they may walk anſwerable to the Spirit, as in others, ſo in this ſpiritual imployment; in ſpiritual joy, fixed zeal, obedience to the Spirit, and profiting others?

[l] Col. 3. 16.

5. Singing of Pſalmes and edifying one another thereby, is one eminent end why the Word of Chriſt ſhould dwell in Chriſtians, richly, in all wiſdome [m], now under the New Teſtament. Conſequently ſinging of Pſalmes —— is the Duty of Chriſtians, and an Ordinance of Chriſt now under the New Teſtament.

[m] Col. 3. 16.

6. Singing of Pſalmes by Believers under the New Teſtament, is oft-times Prophetically foretold and fore-required in the Old Teſtament. And therefore ſinging of Pſalmes is clearly an Ordinance of Chriſt, and a Duty of Chriſtians under the New Teſtament: the antecedent is evident in ſundry inſtances of the Old Teſtament. As, ——O Sing unto the LORD a new Song: Sing unto the LORD all the Earth: Sing unto the LORD, bleſſe his Name [n], &c. And again; Make a joyful noiſe unto the LORD, [n] Pſal. 96.1,2. and 1 Chron. 16.23.

LORD, O all the Earth. Serve the LORD with gladneſſe: come before his preſence with ſinging [o]. In both which places, all the Earth muſt refer to Gentiles as well as to the Jewes: all the Nations muſt ſing unto the LORD, that is, The Jewes at that preſent: and the Gentiles afterwards when they ſhould be called and converted to the LORD: then the Gentiles alſo ſhould worſhip the LORD with ſinging of Pſalmes. So that theſe paſſages are tacit Prophecies of the calling of the Gentiles [p], and of their New Teſtament-worſhiping of God by ſinging Pſalmes. Adde hereunto that notable paſſage; O come let us ſing unto the LORD: let us make a joyful noiſe to the Rock of our Salvation. Let us come before his preſence with thankſgiving: and make a joyful noiſe unto him with Pſalmes [q]. This Pſalme is undoubtedly a Prophecy of Chriſt, and of the worſhip that ſhall and ought to be performed to him ſolemnly in Sacred Church-Aſſemblies under the New Teſtament: and eſpecially (as ſome think) on the LORD's-day-Sabbaths, the Sabbatiſme or Reſt of the New Teſtament. For, the Apoſtle interprets this Pſalme of Chriſt; compare Pſal. 95. 7. to the end, with Hebr. 3. 6, 7. &c. 14. 15. As upon that Pſalme I have noted [r]: This Pſalme (thinks judicious Calvin) agrees to the Sabbath-day, wherein Sacred Aſſemblies are had for the worſhip of God [s]. And it is very evident in the current of the Pſalme, that herein the Holy Ghoſt prophetically exhorts to that ſolemne worſhip of God under the New Teſtament, which was uſual on Sabbath-dayes, viz. 1. Praiſing the LORD and thankſgiving to him with ſinging of Pſalmes, verſe 1, 2. urging the ſame with ſundry Arguments, verſe 3, 4, 5. 2. Solemn publique Prayer, with the Reaſons thereof, verſe 6, 7. 3. Willing, believing and obedient attention to the Word of the LORD then publiſhed, without hardening their hearts againſt it through unbelief; To day if you will hear his voice, harden not your heart,——verſe 7, 8. to the end. So that this Prophcy of Chriſt and of the New Teſtament-worſhip, evidently ſhowes; That praſing God ſolemnly with Singing of Pſalmes, ſolemn Prayer, and ſolemn preaching and hearing of the Word of God, ſhould be the Ordinances of Chriſt, and Duties of Chriſtians even under the New Teſtament. And it is here further added by ſome [t]; That, whereas the Pſalmiſt ſaith, to Day; This Day is interpreted by the Apoſtle to be meant, 1 Not of the ſeventh day of Reſt from the Creation, Heb. 4. 3, 4, 5. 2 Nor of the Typical Reſt which Joſhuah gave them in the Land of Canaan, Heb. 4. 6, 7, 8. 3 But of another certain day limited, in David's Pſalme, Heb. 4. 7. which is called Σαββατισμὸς A Sabbatiſme, A keeping-of-a-Sabbath [u], remaining to the People of God, Heb. 4. 9. And that this Sabbatiſme is the Day of our Lord Jeſus, when he entred into his Reſt, ceaſing from his works, viz. of Redemption, as God did from his, viz. of Creation, Heb. 4. 10. And which is that day of our Lord Jeſus? Is it not the day of his Reſurrection? Partly, our Lords-day-Sabbath, which David ſo long before foretold ſhould be celebrated with Solemne Prayer, Preaching and Hearing the Word, and ſinging of Pſalmes with joyful noiſe. Partly, our Spiritual and Eternal Sabbatiſme in and with Chriſt from ſin and miſery both in this and the world to come, Jeſus our great High-Prieſt being paſſed into the Heavens for us, Heb. 4. 14, 15, 16. And touching this interpetation, it's ſubmitted to the judgement of the godly learned and judicious. Finally, That paſſage in the Prophet; Thy watchmen ſhall lift up the voice, with the voice together ſhall they ſing; is Prophetically ſpoken of the times, when the feet of the Meſſengers of Glad-tidings ſhall be beautiful, who ſhall ſay unto Sion, thy God reigneth [*]. And this is interpreted by the Apoſtle Paul of the Goſpel-times under the New Teſtament [x].

Thus the I. Theſis is ſufficiently confirmed.

Conſectaries, or Inferences hereupon;

praiſing in Proſe or Meetre by ſinging of Pſalmes, &c. The Duties of the Second, Third and Fourth Commandments, as to the Subſtance of thoſe Commandments, which are undoubtedly moral, &c. Only thoſe Duties of Gods Worſhip under the Old Teſtament, which were, 1 Meerly Typical, ſhadows of future good things; As Prieſts, Sacrifices, Altars, &c. Or 2 Meerly Poſitive and alterable, as keeping The Seventh-day Sabbath; Or 3 Judicial, ſo farre as Judicial, as ſtoning to death the Sabbath-breaker; Or 4 Peculiarly limited to the Jewiſh Church and People, and thoſe times of the Churches minority, As the manner of the Covenant-Adminiſtrations, &c. theſe things onely are abrogated and aboliſhed now under the New Teſtament, and are not obligatory to Chriſtians. Therefore, as the practiſing of all things required under the Old Teſtament without diſtinction, were a deſperate returning to Judaiſme and to Moſes, and rejecting of Chriſtianiſme and of Chriſt himſelf: So the rejecting of all things required under the Old Teſtament without differencing ſome from others, would be a dangerous rejecting of Chriſt as well as Moſes, of Chriſtianiſme as well as Judaiſme.

Object. But ſinging of Pſalmes with voice, was onely a Type of ſinging of Pſalmes with Grace in the heart: and ſo is aboliſhed?

Anſw. 1. Nor Scripture, nor any ſound reaſon can evince ſinging of Pſalmes with voice to be Typical in this, or in any other reſpect. 2. By the ſame Reaſon, praying with the voice was a Type of praying with the heart; and ſo praying with the voice is now to be laid aſide: for, ſinging of Pſalmes is (as hath been ſaid) a kind of praying. 3. Had ſinging of Pſalmes with audible voice been Typical, David would not have prophetically enjoyned it under the New Teſtament on the Lords-day-Sabbath [y]. Paul and James [z] would not have exhorted Chriſtians unto it under the New Teſtament for their manifold ſpiritual advantage thereby. Nor would Chriſt, and his Eleven have ſung an Hymne after the Lords Supper [a], which is a Feaſt of the New Teſtament. Nor would Paul and Silas have practiſed it among the Gentiles [b]. 4. The light of Nature, which never inſtructs by Types and ſhadows, doth as well teach us to praiſe the LORD by vocal ſinging in times of our rejoycing; as to cry unto God with vocal Prayers in times of our calamities [c].

2. Hence, They that oppoſe or neglect, in its ſeaſon, ſinging of Pſalmes, &c. to the LORD, do evidently oppoſe or neglect a New Teſtament Ordinance of Chriſt, and a Duty of Chriſtians. And how unſafe both theſe courſes are, let every Chriſtian judge.

Object. In the former Scriptures Eph. 5. 19. and Col. 3. 16. the Apoſtle exhorts Chriſtians to ſpeaking to themſelves in Pſalmes, and to teaching and admoniſhing one another in Pſalmes, &c. So that they were to make uſe of Pſalmes in ſpeaking, teaching, and admoniſhing, &c. not in ſinging. He there mentions not ſinging, till he comes to making melody in the heart, ſinging with Grace in the heart; and this is ſinging with the Spirit.

Anſw. 1. The Apoſtle in Eph. 5. 18, 19. preſcribing a remedy againſt drunkenneſſe, ſaith; Be yee filled with the Spirit: that's the moſt effectual remedy in the world againſt drunkenneſſe, or any other ſin. And then he ſhowes them, how, being filled with the Spirit, they ſhould and would act, exerciſe, or expreſſe themſelves, viz. in ſpeaking to themſelves in Pſalmes, &c. as if he had ſaid, when men are filled with Wine, in their drunken cups, &c. they ſpeak one to another they know not what, they ſing prophane, filthy, wanton Sonnets, &c. or paganiſhly they ſing Songs to their Idols, &c. but you Chriſtians muſt not do ſo, But be yee filled with the Spirit, and ſpeak yee one to another in Pſalmes, Hymnes, and Spiritual Songs, &c. Thus rejoyce you with heavenly melody in your hearts to the LORD. And the later words in both thoſe places, Eph. 5. 19. Col. 3. 16. are exegetical to thoſe in the beginning of the verſes, explaining what he means by ſpeaking, teaching, and admoniſhing——viz. thus edifying one another in ſinging Pſalmes. And it's an excellent way of ſpeaking to themſelves and to one another, when Chriſtians ſing Pſalmes. 2. It is granted, That the Pſalmes are a choice part of Scripture, and Christians may and ought to teach and admonish one another out of them, as out of other Scriptures [d]; And this the Apostle in these places Eph. 5. 19. Col. 3. 16. may imply and presuppose: But therein he plainly intends somthing further, viz. A distinct way or manner of speaking, teaching, and admonishing, &c. for mutual edifying, viz. In their singing of Psalmes, &c. as they do by joyning in prayer or like duties. Therefore some do well note [e], That, Speaking, teaching one another in Psalmes, Hymnes, &c. as is done in singing, is one thing; Speaking, teaching, and admonishing one another out of Psalmes, &c. is another. Had Paul intended onely or principally this later, he would not have said, Ψαλμοῖς — in, or with Psalmes, &c. as here he doth; but ἀπὸ τῶν Ψαλμῶν out of the Psalmes, or from the Psalmes: as is the phrase for such a duty; — Philip beginning (ἀπὸ τῆς γραφῆς ταύτης) from that Scripture, preached to him Jesus [f]. — Paul expounded to them testifying the Kingdom of God, and perswading them the things concerning Jesus (ἀπὸ τε τοῦ νόμου Μωσέως καὶ τῶν προφητῶν,) both out of the Law of Moses and the Prophets [g]. 3. Though singing be not mentioned till the latter end of those two verses, Eph. 5. 19. Col. 3. 16. yet it referres to, and expounds the former part of those verses. To limit singing onely to the heart, and inward melody of the spirit, is utterly besides the Apostles intent in these verses, contrary to the nature of singing, and destructive to all edification or advantage to others by singing. Where do we read of singing in all the Scripture without the voice? How can one mans heart-melody profit another, which cannot hear it? How gross and ignorant a Contradiction in the Adject, and absurd non-sense is it, to talk of singing in heart without the voice?

Chriſtians

3. Hence, Let all Christians own and exercise themselves in singing Psalmes, &c. as in their New Testament Duty, and Christs Ordinance. Sing Psalmes, &c. privately and publiquely, to the LORD. Sing Psalmes in your Families with other Family-Duties, so you shall render them as little Churches: Sing-Psalmes in the Churches so shall you make them as a little Heaven on Earth.

Thesis II.

The Subject-matter of Christians singing now under the New Testament, should peculiarly be the Scripture-Psalmes, Hymnes, and Spiritual Songs.

May be evinced by these ensuing Arguments or Reasons, viz.

1. Because. The Denominations of the Subject-matters which Christians and Churches under the New Testament are exhorted and required by the Apostles to sing, viz. Psalmes, Hymnes, and Songs, Are the very Scripture-Denominations which are prefixed to David's Psalmes, and other Scripture-Psalmes. For, 1. These three Greek words are borrowed from the Greek Version of the LXXII. upon the Psalmes: (The Apostles in the New Testament much following the Version of the LXXII. as the learned well know.) Ψαλμοὶ Psalmes, is used by the LXXII. in the Titles of Psal. 3. 4. 5. 7. 8. 9. and most frequently in the Titles of other Psalmes. Ὕμνοι Hymnes, is used by the LXXII. in the Titles of Psal. 6. — in Hymnes upon the eighth, &c. Of Psal. 54. — in Hymnes of instruction to David. Of Psal. 60. — in Hymnes to David. Of Psal. 66. in Hymnes a Psalme to David. And in the close of Psal. 71. according to the Greek, but which is 72. according to the Hebrew, verse 20. The Greek saith, Ended are the Hymnes of David sonne of Jesse. Ὠδαὶ, Odes, or Songs, is used by the LXXII. in the Titles of all the Psalmes of Degrees from Psal. 120. to 135. (according to the Hebrew account,) and in the Titles also of many other Psalmes. Yea, all these three Names, Psalmes, Hymnes, and Songs, are used by the LXXII. in the Title of Psal. 75. — Ἐν Ὕμνοις, Ψαλμῷ τῷ Ἀσαφ, Ὠδὴ πρὸς τὸν Ἀσσύριον· i. e. In Hymnes, A Psalme to Asaph, A Song unto the Assyrian. All these particulars I have exactly examined, and found to be thus in the Greek Version of the Psalmes by the LXXII [h]. 2. These three Greek words do also notably answer h In Bibl. Polyglott. in Psalm.

swer in signification and sense to other three Hebrew words used in the Titles of the Psalmes in the Hebrew. Ψαλμοὶ Psalmes, to the Hebrew מזמורים Mizmorim, Psalmes. Ὕμνοι Hymnes, to the Hebrew תהילים Tehillim, or תהלות Tehilloth, Praises. And the Hebrews call the whole Book of Psalmes ספר תהילים Sepher Tehillim, The Book of Hymnes, or Praises. Ὠδαὶ Odes or Songs, to the Hebrew שירים Shirim, Songs. But of this, and of the proper notation and signification of these three Hebrew words, and wherein they differ one from another, I have formerly [i] spoken enough. There see. 3. Other Scripture Matters to be Sung, are usually stiled, Psalmes, or Hymnes, or Songs. See Exod. 15. 1. —— Deut 31. 30. with 32. 1, &c Judg. 5. 1, &c. 2 Sam. 22. 1, &c. 1 Chron. 16. 7, &c. Cant. 1. 1, &c. Isa. 26 1, &c. and 5. 1, &c. and 38. 20. Revel. 14. 3. and 15. 3. &c. And therefore they come within these Denominations mentioned by the Apostles, Eph. 5. 19. Col. 3. 16. Jam. 5. 13. 4. These things well considered, How can any rational man chuse but conclude, that the Apostle, requiring Christians to sing Psalmes, Hymnes, and Songs now under the New Testament, did peculiarly intend their singing of those which were eminently and notoriously known in the Churches and among Christians by these Names of Psalmes, Hymnes, and Spiritual Songs? And which can those be imagined to be, but the Psalmes, Hymnes, and Songs recorded in Scripture? For, (as one [k] hath well noted) What reason can be given why the Apostle should direct us in our singing to the very Titles of Davids Psalmes, if it were not his meaning that we should sing them? yea, either we must exclude the Psalmes of David from the name of Psalmes, Hymnes and Spiritual Songs; or else we must be forced to acknowledge that we are exhorted to sing them. So he. And another [l] saith thus; ——Now the Apostles calling them by the same names by which the Greek Translation (which the New Testament so much follows) renders the Hebrew, is an Argument that he meanes no other then David's Psalmes. (I adde; and other Scripture-Psalmes, Hymnes, or Songs.) Besides, when ever the New Testament quotes the Psalmes, it means those of David: And so the Apostle speaks, as taking it for granted, that they to whom he wrote, knew what Psalmes he meant. So he.

2. Because, That Epithet [Spiritual] in the Apostles injunction of singing Psalmes; Speaking to your selves in Psalmes, Hymnes, and spiritual Songs, Eph 5. 19. doth most fully and exactly agree to the Scripture Songs and Psalmes, &c. and to them onely. And, as he [m] said of Davids Psalmes, so may I say of them, and of all other Scripture Songs both in Old and New Testament, Sure I am that they are spiritual Songs, if ever there were any spiritual Songs in the world. And I adde, There are no other, nor can be any other Songs, &c. so truly, exquisitly, and absolutely spiritual, as these in the Scripture: and therefore the singing of these is the Ordinance of Christ, and Duty of Christians. For, these Scripture Songs, &c. are purely, exactly, and absolutely spiritual in regard of their Author, Matter, and End. 1. In regard of their Author; for they are, as all other Holy Scripture, inspired-of-God, and indited by the Holy Ghost [n]. Now God, Father, Son, and Holy Ghost, is a Spirit [o]: yea, he is Spiritus spiritualissimus (as some phrase it) the most spiritual Spirit; and above a Spirit. Though we have not an higher word to express his Nature by. 2. In regard of their Matter; for the matter of the Psalmes, is not carnal or humane at all, in whole or in part, but purely and onely Divine and Spiritual. In other Psalmes or Songs, both for Matter and Form contrived and devised by man, (who at his best is sinful, and ignorant, and erroneous whilest in this life,) there cannot chuse but be somthing of carnality, humane vanity, folly, frailty, and infirmity, answerable to their Authors: But in Scripture-Songs, &c. as they came immediately from the purest unerring Spirit of God, there cannot be the least vanity, carnality, folly, frailty, infirmity, &c. nor the least shadow of any such thing. O what sublime spiritual mysteries are abundantly revealed and comprized in the Book of Psalmes! Therein are described, Doctrines most Celestial, as in Psal. 1. 8. 19. 37. 49. 73. 119. &c. Prophecies of Christ, of his Passion, Death, Resurrection, Ascension, Glory, Kingdom, Offices, &c. most spiritual, as in Psal. 2. 16. 22. 45. 68. 85. 100.

Prayers and complaints most pathetical and devout, as in Psal. 6. 22. 23. 44. 51. 74. 80. 88. 102. &c. Praises most seraphical, as in Psal. 18. 34. 103. 116. 118. 145. &c. A Christian cannot judiciously read this spiritual Book, but in reading it his heart shall in a sort be spiritualized and greatly raised upwards, as Peters was when he was in the Mount [p]. 3. In regard of their End. The Scripture-Psalmes, Songs, &c. were wholly written for spiritual ends, and those most excellent. As, For glorifying of God, and exalting his high praises, Psal. 103. 104. &c. For edifying of our selves and others; By teaching Divine truths, Psal. 1. 32. 119. &c. By admonishing against sin and corruption, Psal. 10. 49. 50. 82. &c. By instructing, directing, and exhorting in paths of holinesse and righteousnesse, Psal. 37. 73. 119. &c. By comforting against all private and publique disconsolations, Psal. 3. 23. 77. 94. &c. Now for these and like spiritual ends, they are most wonderfully proper and effectual. If then it be Christs Ordinance and Christians Duty to sing spiritual Songs now under the New Testament, doubtlesse the Scripture-Songs alone being purely, perfectly, and absolutely spiritual, are the onely Songs, &c. which Christ hath ordained to be sung.

3. Because, Christ and his Apostles by their Example instruct us to sing Scripture-Psalmes, Hymnes, &c. And when they had sung an Hymne, they went forth [q], &c. What Hymne was this which Christ and his Apostles sang? I find here among learned men especially three Opinions. I. Some think this Hymne was that heavenly Prayer which Christ made at that time, which is recorded in John 17. as Beda, and Grotius [r]. But this Opinion I dislike; 1. Because, it is not proper nor usual to call a Prayer an Hymne. 2. Because, Christ onely uttered that Prayer, John 17. but both Christ and his Apostles joyned (for the word is plural, Υμνησαντες) in singing that Hymne, Matth. 26. 30. II. Some think that Christ composed some New Hymne for that Occasion: But this satisfies not, 1 Because, it is not said, that Christ did sing any New Hymne; but onely that they sang an Hymne. 2 Because, it is most likely that had Christ compiled any New Hymne, some of the Evangelists, especially John, would have recorded it, seeing they do not omit but relate things of farre lesse moment then this about the Worship of God. III. Others, [s] both learned and well acquainted with Jewish Customes, do rather judge, That this Hymne was that knot of Eucharistical Psalmes betwixt Psal. 112. and 119. which six Psalmes the Jewes were wont to sing after their eating of the Passeover. Some think this Hymne began with Psal. 111. and so consisted of eight Psalmes, till Psal. 119. And the Jewes were wont to call this Hymne, The Great Halelu-jah. For mine own part, I am much of Opinion that this Hymne which Christ and his Apostles then sang, was some one or more of David's Psalmes; and rather this their Great Halelu-jah, then others. And my grounds are, 1. Because, It is indefinitely said; They-sang-an-Hymne [t], viz. after the Passeover and Lords Supper. It's spoken of, as a thing familiarly used and known, and needing no further declaration of it, what Hymne it was. And the people of God by this phrase could not easily understand any other, then some one or more of David's Hymnes: because such were ordinarily used in the Worship of God in the Temple, Synagogues, &c. and it is most likely Christ would use that Worship of God which was then of force, Himself being made under the Law [u], and affirming of himself, That it became him to fulfill all righteousnesse [x]. And the whole Book of Psalmes is stiled, ספר תהלים The Book of Hymnes. 2. Because, If Christ and his Disciples had sung any other Hymne, then some of the Hymnes in the Book of Psalmes which were used to be sung in the Temple and Synagogues, the Evangelists would not have omitted such an Hymne indited peculiarly for the Lords Supper, but have related it for the Churches use and benefit in all after times. 3. Because, Among the Hymnes in the Book of Psalmes, it seems most likely that Christ would sing that Hymne which was then in use among the Jewes after the Paschal Supper. Now

Now Paulus Burgensis converted from the Jewes, and therefore well acquainted with the Jewish wayes of worship, with other learned Writers do averre, That the Jewes were wont after their Passeover solemnly to sing these Eucharistical Hymnes forementioned [x]. To this Example of Christ and his Apostles, adde also the Example of Paul and Silas, who at midnight sung an Hymne to God in prison, Acts 16. 25. which Hymne, according to common understanding, must be taken for one of the Scripture-Hymnes, unless something in the Text or Context should direct us to interpret it otherwise.

Conform hereunto was the Practice of the Churches of Christ; In Tertullian's time, They were wont to sing out of the Sacred Scriptures [y], In Augustines dayes, They sang the Songs of the Prophets soberly in the Churches, whilest the Donatists, (drunk with a kinde of spiritual pride) sung Psalmes composed by Humane wit: as Augustine [z] taxeth them.

Laudate*— Iste Psalmus cum 5 sequentibus, usque ad Psalmum, Beati immaculati —Exclusivè, vocatur ab Hebræis Halelu-jah Magnum h. e. Hymnus magnus, de quo singularem faciunt solennitatem. Nam in tribus Festis præcipuis & Neomeniis stantes istum Hymnum cum majori cantant solennitate, quam cæteros Psalmos totius Psalterii. Insuper in Nocte Paschæ, quando Agnus Paschalis comedebatur, post ejus commestionem recumbentes ad Mensam ipsum Hymnum solenniter dicebant. Unde de hoc Hymno ex istis 6 Psalmis composito intelligi debet illud quod imminente passione Math. 26. legitur; Hymno dicto exierunt, &c. Eo quod Christus post Agni Paschalis commestionem hujusmodi consuetum ritum servans, Hymnum prædictum cum Apostolis recitavit. Quod etiam Hebræi hodie Agno Paschali carentes in illa nocte Paschæ istum Hymnum cum Azymis solenniter, ut possunt, cantant. Cumque Burgensis ex Judæis fuerit conversus, ideo de hoc Ritu certi quippiam eidem constare potuit. Burgensis sententiam approbat Justinianus Episcopus Nebrissensis, qui edidit Psalterium quinque linguarum. Druſius lib.7. observat.15. annotat Judæos quamvis Agno Paschali carentes in nocte Paschatos istum Hymnum cum Azymis solenniter, prout possunt, etiamnum hodie Cantare. Alii existimant Hymnum illum incipere à Psal. 111. juxta Hebræos, cujus initium; Confitebor tibi Domine, &c. Sicque octo Psalmi constituerent illum Hymnum, quem Judæi vocare solent, Halelu-jah magnum הלל הגדול Jo. [z] ——Maximè illud quod etiam de Scripturis defendi potest, sicut de Hymnis & Psalmis canendis, cum & ipsius Domini & Apostolorum habeamus documenta & exempla & præcepta. De hac re tam utili ad movendum piè animum, & accendendum divinæ lectionis affectum, varia consuetudo est, & pleraque in Aphrica Ecclesiæ membra pigriora sunt: ita ut Donatistæ nos reprehendant, quod sobriè psallimus in Ecclesia Divina Cantica Prophetarum, cum ipsi ebrietates suas ad Canticum Psalmorum humano ingenio compositorum, quasi tubas Exhortationis inflamment. *August. Epist.*119.*cap.*18.*Tom.*2.

4. Because, whereſoever the New Testament alledgeth Psalmes, it intends Scripture-Psalmes, David's Psalmes, &c. Thus, when Christ distributes the whole Old Testament into a Trichotomy, it is into the Law of Moses, the Prophets, and the Psalmes [a]. For the singular Excellency of the Psalmes, he makes them a distinct Volume or Book of themselves. Thus; David himself saith in the Book of Psalmes, The Lord said unto my Lord [b], &c. Again; ——For it is written in the Book of Psalmes; Let his habitation be desolate, and let no man dwell therein, and his Bishoprick let another take [c]. Further; ——As it is written in the Second Psalme, Thou art my Sonne, this day have I begotten thee [d]. ——Wherefore he saith also in another Psalm, Thou shalt not suffer thine Holy One to see corruption [e]. Still the Psalmes alledged in the New Testament, are intended only of the Scripture-Psalms of the Old Testament. When therefore the Holy Ghost in the New Testament requires us to sing Psalmes, Hymnes, &c. what Psalmes can we rationally imagine he intends but the Scripture-Psalmes, so familiarly and frequently mentioned in the New Testament?

5. Because, the Scripture-Psalmes were written for those very ends and purposes, which the Apostle requires us to intend and aim at in singing of Psalmes under the New Testament, viz. Praising and Giving thanks unto the LORD, Teaching or Instructing one another, Admonishing one another [f], and chearing up our hearts in godly rejoycing [g]. For, 1. Praising and giving thanks to the Lord, takes up a very great part of the Book of Psalmes. One is entituled, David's Psalme of praise, Psal. 145. tit. Many (as some think) are entituled, Halelu-jah, Praise-ye-the-LORD, As *Psal.*146. 147. 148. 149. 150. with sundry others. What raised Praises

[f] Ephes.5. 19, 20. Col.3.16.

[g] Jam.5,13.

Praises and Thanksgivings are dispersed throughout the whole Book! As Psal. 8. 19. 29. 30. 34. 96. 98. 100. 103. 104. 105. 106. 107. &c. yea, the whole Book hence hath its Denomination, ספר תהילים Sepher Tehillim, i. e. The Book of Hymnes, or Praises. 2. Teaching and Instructing is another end of Scripture-Psalmes. Many Psalmes for the Subject-matter of them are Doctrinal or Teaching Psalmes. As, Psal. 1. 15. 19. 24. 37. 119. and many others. Some are entituled, Maschil, An Instructing Psalme. As, Psal. 32. 42. 44. &c. There are in all 14. Maschils; as hath been formerly noted [b]. 3. Admonishing, is another end of Scripture-Psalmes. Sundry Psalmes are Reprehensory, or Monitory, &c. Reproveing for sin and corruption. As, Psal. 10. 14. 37. 49. 50. 52. against Doeg. 53. 58. against corrupt Judges, &c. Sundry Psalmes also are Hortatory unto Duty. As, Psal. 4. 37. &c. Admonition hath in it, both Reprehension for sin, and Exhortation to Duty. 4. Another end of Scripture-Psalmes, is Comforting and cheering up our selves in the LORD, that we may rejoyce and triumph in him. Many Psalmes are of such Argument. As, Psal. 96. 98. 146, &c. These are the ends why Psalmes were written and recorded in Scripture: and these are the very ends why we are to sing Psalmes to God by New Testament-command; and they are all Moral Ends, of constant and perpetual concernment to Gods Church and people in all Ages. They therefore that cry down singing of Psalmes now under the New Testament, decry a Moral Duty, and sacrilegiously endeavour to rob both themselves and others of these excellent moral ends and benefits, redounding by the well-performance of this Duty, [b] See in §. VI. numb. IV.

6. Finally, Because, If the Scripture-Psalmes, Hymnes, &c. be not the very Psalmes, &c. which we ought to sing as the New Testament requires [i], and as the Old Testament enjoynes on the Sabbath-dayes [k] under the New Testament: then we have no Psalmes, Hymnes, and Spiritual Songs to sing, which we can comfortably and safely acquiesce in, as fully acceptable to God, and so the Apostle requires of us an impossibility. For, 1. Where (except in Scripture) can we find any such things that we can certainly say are, in the Apostles sense, Psalmes, Hymnes, and Spiritual Songs? How or by what Art shall we know and distinguish Psalmes from Hymnes, and both from Spiritual Sangs: unlesse we repair to the Titles of Scripture-Psalmes, and there they are clearly and expresly distinguished. But besides Scripture-Psalmes, &c. nor Old nor New Testament, nor light of Reason, doth lead us thus to distinguish of any other Poetical Composures. 2. How shall the Church and people of God come by any other Psalmes, &c. wherewith they may sing to the LORD, when they reject and cast off singing of Scripture-Psalmes? Either we must have them by Extraordinary. or Ordinary Gift. 1 Not by Extraordinary Gift, enabling men to utter Psalmes suddenly ex tempore by extraordinary inspiration. For experience tells us there is no such Gift in any Church on Earth. Indeed there once was such a Gift in that Primitive Apostolical Church of Corinth [l], at the first planting of the Gospel among the Gentiles, and they sung Psalmes in a strange language, filling the Heathen with admiration, &c. but since the Gospel is received, these and other extraordinary Gifts have ceased. If any that pretend to such Gifts (who are not learned) can suddenly utter Psalmes, &c. in strange Languages, it would much convince us, that such extraordinary Gifts are not totally abolished. 2 Not by ordinary Gift, enabling men to prepare and compose Set-formes of Psalmes, Hymnes, &c. for the Churches use from time to time. For, then Christ would have ordained some Officer in the Church to have attended this work, as he hath appointed Ministers to attend the Ministry of the Word and Prayer, &c. Deacons, to take care of the poor, &c [m]. Or, he would have inspired some member of the Church or other with a Spirit of Psalmistry (as one saith) for framing Psalmes suitable to the Churches necessities and conditions from Sabbath to Sabbath [n]. But we have no footstep of either of these in Scripture or Experience. 3. As for those Poems, which both for matter and forme are meerly of Humane Invention and Composition, be they never so exquisitely framed, yet are they not to be compared with Scripture-Psalmes, Hymnes,

[i] Eph. 5. 19. Col. 3. 16.
[k] Psal. 95. 1, 2. &c.
[l] 1 Cor. 14. 26. with 15. 16. verses.
[m] Act. 6. 4, 5, 6 Eph. 4. 11, 12, 13.
[n] Jo. Cotton of Sing. Psalmes ch. 6.

Hymnes, &c. For at best these are but Humane and fallible, liable to much frailty, infirmity, errour and vanity; and therefore the heart of a Christian can never fully acquiesce in them, as most acceptable to God, And therefore to substitute those Humane infirm fallible Composures, in stead of the Divine, infallible, and perfect Scripture-Psalmes, &c. is abominably to set up and preferre Vanity before Verity, and Mans Inventions before Gods Institutions.

Thus the Second Thesis is evident.

Inferences, hence,

I. Then, Some Duties of Gods Worship in use under the Old Testament, are not Antiquated or abolished, but rather confirmed and continued under the New. As here, Singing of Psalmes, which was usual under the Old Testament, is confirmed and perpetuated by the Apostle. But of this formerly [o].

[o] See in Thes. 1. Inf. 1. foregoing.

II. Then, A stinted Prescript or Set-forme of Prayer to God, or Praise of God, is lawful and warrantable. For, the Scripture-Psalmes, Hymnes and Spiritual Songs, which we are enjoyned by the Apostle and by David to sing now under the New Testament [p], are most of them Prayers to God, and Praises of God: And so they are Set-formes of such Prayer and Praise.

[p] Eph. 5. 19. Col. 3. 16. Jam. 5. 13. Psal. 95. 1, 2, 7, &c.

Prayer is either 1. Conceived and uttered extemporally upon emergent occasions: As, that of Iacob, Gen. 32. 9. to 13. of Moses, Exod. 32. 11, 12, 13, 31, 32. of Joshuah, Josh. 7. 7, 8, 9. of Solomon at the Dedication of the Temple, 1 King. 8. 22. to 54. of King Jehoshaphat against his enemies, 2 Chron. 20. 5. to 14. of Daniel for the Captives in Babylon, &c. Daniel 9. of Jesus Christ himself in the same night wherein he instituted his Supper, John 17. 1, 2. &c. 2. Composed and prepared afore-hand in a certain form of words, for general or particular purposes. As, that for the Priests, wherewith they should blesse the people, Numb. 6. 22. to the end. The Psalme for the Sabbath-day, Psal. 92. tit. &c. The prayer of the Afflicted, &c. Psal. 102. tit. &c. That Form of words in Hosea 14. 1, 2, 3. and many Psalmes. The Lords Prayer; Matth. 6. 9. &c. with Luke 11. 2. &c. Now, both conceived Prayers and Praises, and composed or Set-forms of Prayer and Praise, are lawful and warrantable in themselves; provided, the matter and other circumstances therof be good and lawful.

As for A stinted or set-form of Prayer excepted against by some, it appears in the judgment of our Writers to be lawful and warrantable, as well as conceived Prayer; 1. Because, All things essential to prayer, and necessarily required thereunto by the Word of God, are to be had in a set-Form of prayer [q]. 2. Because, A set-Form of prayer is the breach of no Commandment, nor is any where disallowed, by expresse words or necessary consequence, in the Word of God in Old or New Testament [r]. 3. Because, It is lawful to sing Psalmes, &c. (most of which are Prayers and Praises to the Lord) in a stinted Form of words [s]: Nay, not onely lawful, but a New-Testament Duty as hath been proved. 4. Because, In Scripture there be prescript or stinted Forms of Prayer, Praise, Blessing, &c. laid down [t]. As those here fore-mentioned. 5. Because, A set-Form of prayer is not a stinting, cooling, suppressing, stifling, or quenching of the Spirit of Prayer [u]. Nay, I may adde, as touching publique Church-Prayer, or private Family-Prayer wherein one speaks and others joyne, A stinted Form therein doth no more quench or limit the Spirit of Prayer in Believers, then a conceived Prayer. For, every conceived Prayer is a set-Form or a stinted Form to every person praying in Church or Family, except to him that speaks: for, they are tyed up and limited to his words, who is their mouth unto the LORD, and to rove from them would be a sinful Distraction [x].

III. Then, They cannot be excused, nor their practice justified, that reject Scripture-Psalmes, Hymnes, and Spiritual Songs, and the singing of them especially in publique Church-Assemblies, and in stead thereof sing Poems, Anthems, Songs, and other Composures both for Matter and Form meerly Humane. For, Though the composing and singing of some Orthodox spiritual Song in private, for a private Christians solace, may sometimes be allowed to him that hath a sufficient gift for that purpose: yet yet to prefer or equalize such private Songs to the Scripture-Psalmes, &c[y]. indited by Gods own infallible Spirit, were most abominable and intolerable. And though in the Primitive Churches, as in the Church at Corinth[z], some had, among other extraordinary gifts, a gift extraordinary touching the conceiving and singing of Psalmes, which was in those dayes allowed to be exercised in the Churches for filling the Heathens with conviction and admiration: yet those extraordinary gifts being ceased, with their occasion; and none now being able to pretend unto the like, the gifts of all being onely ordinary, how great pride and insolency were it for any man to prefer or equalize his own or others meer Humane Songs and Composures ordinary and fallible, both for matter and forme, to the infallible Scripture-Psalmes, &c. immediately inspired and indited by the Holy Ghost, so as by them quite to exclude the use of Scripture-Psalmes, &c. or at least to intermix them therewith in the publick worship of God in Church-assemblies. The singing of Scripture-Psalmes, &c. in the Churches, we see, is an Ordinance of Christ, and Duty of Christians under the New Testament. The singing of meer humane Songs we finde not to have the like stamp of Divine Authority in Old or New Testament.

Here sundry Objections are made, which as followeth may receive their brief Solutions. As,

1. Object. Had Paul in Eph. 5. 19. and Col. 3. 16. meant Scripture-Psalmes, &c. or Davids, he might as easily have named Scripture-Psalmes, &c. or Davids: As David named his; Psalmes of David, Songs of David, &c. when he delivered them to the Master-Musicians, &c. to be sung.

Answ. 1. Had Paul intended to exclude Scripture-Psalmes, &c. he might as easily have excluded them by name, and have limited the Churches to Psalmes, &c. of the Spirits extemporal suggestion. 2. Can any man of a good conscience give a sound and satisfactory Reason why the Apostle should name Psalmes, Hymnes, and Songs, which are the very Denominations of the Scripture-Ditties, unless to direct us to sing the Scripture-Psalmes, Hymnes, and spiritual Songs? 3. Davids Name is not prefixed to all the Psalmes written by him. And though at first, it was requisite the particular Psalmes should be made known to be inspired to some Prophet of God, by his name prefixed or some other way: yet now the whole Book of Psalmes being received, as of divine inspiration, there's no necessity of mentioning alwaies the Penmen's Names. And the Psalmes are often alledged in the New Testament without mention of any Psalmists Name.

2. Object. But, The Psalmes, Hymnes, and spiritual Songs here appointed by Paul to be sung, are the words of Christ which are to dwell in us richly, &c[a]. not the words of David, &c.

Answ. 1. And are not the words of David, and the words of every Penman of Holy Scripture, and the whole Scripture of Old and New Testament, the words of Christ? 1 Is not Christ the Word, the essential Word of God, by whom he reveals his will unto us, through his Spirit[b]: and so becomes the Author or efficient cause of the Scripture by his Spirit[c]? Is not Christ the Sonne of God, that person that appeared to Moses under the Old Testament, and instructed him about sacred things, as Tertullian[d] contends: Yea, as the Proto-Martyr Steven in his Sermon notably asserts[e]. 2 Is not Christ the primary Object or Subject-matter, as well as the Author of the Scriptures? The whole Scriptures are as swadling-bands of this blessed Child Jesus. In the Old Testament Christ is Veyled: In the New Revealed: In both testified? See John 5. 39. Acts 3. 22. 24. and 10. 43. The whole Scripture is but as the Cabinet; Christ the Jewel contained in that Cabinet. 3 Is not Christ the end and Scope of the whole Scripture? How ignorantly then are the words of David, &c. opposed to the words of Christ. 2. The Word of Christ is to dwell richly in us[f] by the Apostles direction: not that the whole Word of Christ is to be sung, for onely that part is to be sung which is comprized under Psalmes, Hymnes, and spiritual Songs; but that by the Word of Christ dwelling richly in us, we may be the better enabled to teach and admonish one another in singing Psalmes, &c. This being one excellent use and improvement Theſe things require not a ſmattering, but a plentiful meaſure of the Word and Spirit in us, for the due performance and management thereof.

4. Object. The Scripture-Pſalmes were, as to the ſinging of them, appropriated to the Temple-worſhip: as appears; Partly, By the Titles of many Pſalmes appointing them to be ſung by Temple-Officers and Muſical Inſtruments; Partly, By our Saviours and his Apoſtles not ſinging of them: and therefore the ſinging of ſuch Scripture-Pſalmes, &c. ſeems to be aboliſhed with the Temple.

Anſw. 1. The Scripture-Pſalmes were ſung in the Temple doubtleſſe after the Temple was erected; and by Muſicians, and with Muſical Inſtruments appointed for the Temple, as the Titles of ſome of them do import: But though it be granted they were uſed in the Temple, it doth not therefore follow that they were appropriated onely to the Temple. For, Some of them, as the Songs of Moſes, and of Deborah[k], were ſung long before David's time; Some of them were appointed to be ſung, before the Temple was erected; as Pſal. 105. great part of it, and Pſal. 96. &c. at the bringing up of the Ark into the City of David[l]. Pſal. 92. and 95. on Sabbath-dayes; and many others upon other occaſions. Some were ſung after the Temple was deſtroyed and burnt, as Pſal. 74. See verſe 3. to 10. And Pſal. 44. though directed to the ſonnes of Korach, yet is thought by the Apoſtles alledging of it[m], to be eſpecially intended of the times of the New Teſtament: becauſe, except in the Primitive times, the like innocency met together with the like calamity is not to be found among the children of Iſrael, whileſt the Temple was ſtanding. Therefore Scripture-Pſalmes not being appropriated to the Temple, were not, as to the ſinging of them, aboliſhed with the Temple. 2. Jeſus Chriſt and his Apoſtles (as hath been evinced already) did both ſing Scripture-Pſalmes, Hymnes, &c. themſelves, and alſo have enjoyned Chriſtians to do the like[n]. And therefore herein we are to obey and imitate them.

And generally thoſe Objections that are made againſt a Set-forme of Prayer, As* That it is contrary to the Second Commandment, that it ſtints and quencheth the ſpirit, &c. ſtrike alike againſt all ſet-formes of Pſalmes as unlawful.

Anſw. 1. It is granted, that the Apoſtle directing Timothy about publick Church-

Church-prayer, 1 Tim. 2. 1, 2, 3, 4. prescribes no Forme of Prayer: And it must on the other hand be granted also, that neither there nor any where else in his writings doth he prohibit the use of a Form of Prayer. Nor doth any other Scripture prohibit it. Nay, the Scriptures evidently allow it: As, in the forme of the Priests blessing the people [o]; And in that forme of Prayer, which the Lord taught his disciples; When ye pray, say; Our Father, &c [p]. And if it be lawful, and a duty, as hath been proved, to sing Scripture-Psalmes, then it is lawful to use a Set-forme of Prayer: For many, yea, most of the Psalmes are Prayers, as Psal. 3. 4, 5, 6, 7, 9, 10. &c. And some are in their very Titles stiled, Prayers, as Psal. 86. 90. 102. 142. And therefore, a Forme of Prayer, as such, whose matter is good and agreeable to Scripture, can neither be contrary to the Second Commandment; nor can be justly counted a stinting or quenching of the Spirit, for then every publick concieved Prayer of a Minister quencheth and stinteth the Spirit in every one of the Congregation besides himself, because they are tyed up to his present form of words [q]. 2. It is denyed, That the Apostle directing Christians to sing Psalmes, prescribes no Forms to be sung. For, whilest he directs them to sing Psalmes, Hymnes, and Spiritual Songs [r], he plainly points out to them what Psalmes, &c. he would have them sing. These being the very Titles and Denominations of the Scripture-Psalmes, as hath been proved. Therefore, the Psalmes which the Apostle would have Christians to sing are Scripture-Psalmes: unlesse any should be so devoid of Reason, as to say, that Scripture-Psalmes are neither Psalmes, Hymnes, nor Spiritual Songs.

6. Object. But the Church of God is still to be edified by the proper and personal gifts of the present Members which they have received from the Spirit of God, Eph. 4. 7, 8, 11, 16. 1 Pet. 4. 10, 11. Rom. 12. 4, 6. 1 Cor. 12. 7. And we have imitable examples in the Church of Corinth, of exercising personal gifts, as well in Singing as in Praying and Prophecying, 1 Cor. 14. And we have gifts in these times of composing spiritual Songs, for the Churches edification. In this way therefore of personal gifts the Church is to be edified, and not by singing of Scripture-Psalmes.

Answ. 1. The Manifestation of the Spirit is given to every man to profit withal, 1 Cor. 12. 7. but still he must endeavour that profit of others in his own sphear and place, whether private or publique. No member of the body must be unprofitable: but private members must not usurp the publique imployments of publique Officers, 1 Pet. 4. 10, 11. Rom. 12. 4, 6. 1 Cor. 12. 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 28, 29, 30. II. The edification of the Church is to be carried on both publiquely and privately by other means also, besides the proper personal spiritual gifts of the present members. Are not the Writings of the Prophets and Apostles (though they be dead) most eminent means of the Churches edification? As it's said of Abel, being dead he yet speaketh [s]: So may it not be said of them, they being dead, yet speak, yet pray, yet sing, &c. to our edification? And shall not the New Jerusalem be founded and built partly by some influential help of the old Apostles of the Lamb [t]? And are not reading the Word, hearing it read, meditating thereon, and every other Ordinance of Christ, useful for edification of the Church? III. The instance of singing in the Church of Corinth by personal gift of the present members, will not enforce us now to sing in the Church onely by a personal gift of the members present. For their gift of singing was wholly extraordinary and miraculous, joyned with the gift of Tongues. The gift of Tongues was used by them four wayes; 1. In speaking mysteries, 1 Cor. 14. 2. 2. In praying, verse 14. 3. In singing, verse 15. 4. In blessing and thanksgiving, verse 17. Now if any among us have such an extraordinary gift as they had, they may sing extraordinarily, as they did. But till then, their practice can be no president for us. IV. Though some amongst us have a gift of composing a spiritual Psalme or Song: yet must he not therefore bring it and sing it in our Church-assemblies, no more then he that hath a gift to conceive a Prayer or compose a Sermon, must presently come to pray and preach in the Church. None but he thats duly called [u] thereto should meddle with publique Administrations. Nor is is it safe to neglect the eminent infallible inspirations of Gods holy Spirit in Scripture-Psalmes, &c. for any private fallible composures of any person whatsoever.

IV. Then, There is a necessity of translating Scripture-Psalmes, Hymnes and Spiritual Songs into such Meetre, as that they may best be sung unto edification. Here I offer to serious consideration three things, viz.

1. That there is a necessity of translating Scripture-Psalmes, Hymnes and Spiritual Songs, in order to the singing of them. For, 1. To sing them, is an Ordinance of Christ, and a Duty of Christians now under the New Testament. 2. To sing them as they are untranslated is impossible and unprofitable altogether unto the generality of people. All the Scripture-Psalmes, &c. of the Old Testament, being in Hebrew; of the New Testament, being in Greek; which without a Version or Translation they cannot understand, so as to sing with judgement or to edification [x]. 3. The Apostle directs the Church of Corinth, wherein some had an extraordinary and miraculous gift of singing-Psalmes in an unknown Tongue, that all things sung or uttered in an unknown Tongue should be interpreted for the edification of the whole Church [y].

x 1 Cor. 14.15. 16.17.26.27. 28.

y 1 Cor. 14.1. to 34.

2. That there's a necessity of translating Scripture-Psalmes, &c. into Meetre, and that such Meetre as they may best be sung to edification. For, 1. Psalmes, &c. onely in solute or Prose translation cannot well be sung in ordinary Congregations: but Psalms in succinct Meetre, in certain Measures, may be easily, harmoniously, and profitably sung, as experience evidenceth. 2. The singing of Psalmes in Prose, as used in Colledges, Cathedrals, and other places, seems to be lesse grave, serious, melodious, edifying: The words being hurried over with so much haste and precipitation, especially where periods are long, that there's no time for meditation upon what is sung, which is one chief advantage of singing. Nor can any thus sing without a Book. 3. The Hebrew Psalmes, &c. were put into Meetre, or certain fixed Measures, for singing: as among the Learned some have notably demonstrated [z]. Which justifies our translations of them into Meetre also, in order unto singing.

z Fran. Gomarus in Davidis Lyra. in operum parte 3ia. Buxt. Thesaur. p.629.

3. That the Metrical version of the Scripture-Psalmes, Hymnes, &c. should be so ordered as may be best sung to most spiritual advantage and edification [a]. And to the compleating of such a Metrical Version, these things are very desirable and requisite: viz. I. Exact nearnesse of the Version to the Original, so far as is possible. That so as much of God, and as little of man as may be, may appear therein. This will greatly satisfie the godly judicious, and heighten their spiritual melody to the Lord. To this end, 1. All remote Paraphrases, and Circumlocutions, should be carefully avoided, and the plain genuine sense of the words and phrases (as far as the Propriety of our English Language will bear it) laid down, to the true sense and intent of the Holy Ghost. 2. All omissions of words should be studiously shunned. 3. All additions of words or phrases should be diligently declined. 4. Wheresoever Alterations, Omissions, or Additions could not easily be avoided: That in all Alterations, the propriety of the Hebrew or Greek words or phrases be put in the Margin; That in all Omissions, the word or particle omitted, be supplyed in the Margin, that whilest a man sings he may instantly cast his eye upon the Margin, and so help his devotion and meditation; And, That in all Additions, the Additional words be Printed in a different Character, to distinguish them from the Text; and be still congruous to the subject-matter whereunto they are superadded. II. Convenient smoothnesse of the Meetre, or verse. Thus it shall be read or sung with more delight. And therefore, 1. All old obsolete barbarous expressions should be declined. 2. The due quantities of our English Syllables (without which the verse will run very ruggedly and unpleasantly) must be well observed. 3. And the Rythmical terminations of the verses (which with a kind of grateful grace set off and adorn the Version, especially to the more harmonious mindes) should be discreetly and soberly ordered. III. Proper suitableness of various and easie Tunes, wherein they are to be sung, is very necessary. Tunes should be, a 1 Cor. 14.26.

1. Proper

1 Proper and suitable to the Nature and Subject-matter of the Psalmes, viz. More grave, sad, solemn tunes should be suited to Penitential, Lamenting, Mournful psalmes, as Psal. 6. 22. 38. 51. 88. 90. 102, &c. More pleasant chearful tunes to Psalmes of Praise, &c. as Psal. 30. 45. 116. 118, &c. 2 Various. The Psalmes are of very various matter. And variety brings a kind of delight and refreshment to the Singers. 3 Easie. That every one of them may be sung, as there shall be occasion; for edification. There's not one of them, but is very useful for edifying. Therefore if any Psalme be translated in an unusual or difficult tune to gratifie more Expert Singers: yet should it also be translated a second time in an ordinary and easie tune for the benefit of all. And experience tells us, That sundry choice Psalmes are put into such hard unusual tunes in our common Translation of singing-Psalmes[b], that most Congregations in these three Nations cannot at all make use of them in singing and making melody therein unto the Lord. IV. An Exposition of the Nature, Scope, and Parts of the Psalmes, that they may be sung understandingly.

Now in this Metrical Version of the Psalmes here following, all these things are studiously intended and performed[c]. And herein how far all other Metrical Versions of Psalmes which are yet extant, do come short, is left to the judicious and impartial Reader to consider and determine.

V. Then, The Metrical Version of Scripture-Psalmes, Hymnes, &c. the more exactly it agrees with the Original Hebrew and Greek of Old and New Testament. (provided it be conveniently smooth, agreeable to the propriety of our English Tongue, and fitted for suitable and easie tunes) the better it is. For,

1. The Original words, being immediately inspired of God, are incomparably the best of all; Are most Divine, most pure, most infallible, &c. And therefore, the nearer any Version approaches to the Original words, to the Fountain[d], the more Divine, pure, and infallible, &c. it must needs be, and consequently every way the better: the more remote it is from the Original, the more Humane, muddy, fallible, &c. it is, by reason of the more humane mixtures therein.

2. That Metrical Version of Psalmes must needs be best, which is most conforme unto the Rule and Standard of all Translations: but that Rule and Standard is the Original.

3. That Metrical Version of Psalmes which most fully attains its end, is best: but that Metrical Version which comes neareſt to the Original Hebrew and Greek of Old and New Testament, most fully attains its end, viz. The glorifying of God, and edifying of our selves and others in singing of Psalmes[e], &c. For, Then we are best satisfied, that we sing, not so much humane Composures and Ditties, as the Scripture-Psalmes, Hymnes, and Spiritual Songs indeed. Then our understandings are the more Informed, our hearts and affections the more Raised and Spiritualized, to sing with Grace, delight, and inward melody unto the Lord, in materials of his own devising and inspiration. And therefore let us most prize and use those Versions, that most closely approach to the Originals.

VI. Then, Christians have need to be well versed in Scripture-Psalmes, Hymnes and Spiritual Songs that they may sing them profitably. As the Mother of Zebedies children with her two sons were blamed by Christ for asking they knew not what[f]: So may they, that are unskilful in the Scripture-Psalmes, be condemned for singing they know not what. Scripture-Psalmes, &c. are to be sung: but how can he sing them rightly, that's greatly unacquainted with them? There's scarce that case or condition of a Christian in the world, but there is some Scripture-Psalme, or other most agreeable thereunto: but here's the skill, to find out Psalmes suitable for every case, and to apply them accordingly. This requires good Christian-judgement in, and acquaintance with, the Scripture-Psalmes: as that a man competently know the Nature, Subject-matter, Scope, and chief parts of the Psalmes. In all which the ensuing Explication will be a singular help. Therefore thou that would'st sing Scripture-Psalmes judiciously, profitably, &c. peruse and meditate much upon them, be a skilful Artist in them, for the best improvement of them.

VII. Then,

VII. Then, In singing Psalmes, let the Churches of Christ in publike, and Christians in private, make peculiar use of Scripture-Psalmes, Hymnes, and Spiritual Songs. With these, Praise the LORD thy God, solace thy self, and edifie others. Scripture-Psalmes are incomparably the most excellent Psalmes in the world, for Author, Matter, Forme and End. The Singing of Scripture-Psalmes now under the New Testament, is an Ordinance of Christ, and a Duty of Christians. Therefore, Sing these Psalmes, Hymnes, and spiritual Songs in publike and private, &c. but sing them as Scripture-Psalmes should be sung. To this End, I shall 1. Lay down certain Rules or Directions for the right singing of Scripture-Psalmes. 2. Resolve certain Cases, Practical Questions, or Doubts about singing of them.

Rules or Directions for right singing of Scripture-Psalmes.

1. Have Grace in the Heart. When the Apostle directs us, To sing Psalmes, Hymnes, &c. with Grace in our hearts unto the Lord[g], he necessarily presupposeth the having of Grace in our hearts. For how can Grace be Actually used, unless it be first Habitually had? Grace is so necessary to the well-performing of every holy duty, both for the Qualifying of the Person[h], and for the Original of the Action[i]: that without it nothing can be acceptable to God. God first hath respect to our Persons, and the Ground or Rise of our Actions: and then to our Actions and Performances. A Graceless man can never make melody to the Lord in singing Psalms, nor please God in any other performance. None could learn that Song, (which is put for all Gods pure Christian-Worship) but the 144000 redeemed from the Earth, None can praise the LORD but the upright[k].

2. Sing with the Spirit: with the Assistance, Guidance, and active Furtherance of the Holy Spirit of God. As the Corinthians were directed in their extraordinary Singing[l], to sing with the Spirit, viz. with that extraordinary Gift of the Spirit which they then had: so we in our ordinary Singing answerably should sing with the ordinary assistance of the Spirit of God. For as in Praying, so in Singing (much of which is prayer) the Spirit helps our infirmities with groans that cannot be uttered[m]. And be filled with the Spirit, that you may be filled with joy and enlargement in Singing, Eph. 5. 18, 19.

3. Sing with the Understanding: so as others may understand thee, much more that thou mayest understand thy self[n]. Philips Question to the Eunuch; Understandest thou what thou readest[o]? is a good Question for every Christian when he sings; But do I understand what I sing? Do I understand the Nature of this Psalm, whether it be Doctrinal, Prophetical, Historical, Hortatory, &c? Do I understand the matter of this Psalm, The Scope of it, &c? Do I understand how to extract my portion out of this Psalm, though writ upon other occasions? The Commandi is, Sing ye Praises with understanding[p]. To sing, pray, &c. without understanding, is to offer the Sacrifice of fooles[q]. And in the time of the Law, a blinde Sacrifice was abominable to God. To help thy Understanding, 1. Mark well the Titles of Psalmes. 2. Note the Propriety of Hebrew phrase, in margin. 3. Use that Version which is neareſt the Hebrew. 4. Peruse this Exposition first.

4. Sing with the heart and inward affections, making melody with Grace there to the Lord[r], as well as with the voice making melody to the outward eare. The Apostle insists in a special manner upon this Direction.

(1) It must be with the heart, and not only with the voice. Singing and making melody to the Lord in your heart[s]. Singing must be Cordial as well as Oral: otherwise it will be no better then an hypocritical lip-labour, an unprofitable bodily exercise[t]. We must often consider, how God calls for the heart; My son give me thine heart[u]. And as God is a spirit, so he will be worshipped in spirit[x]. We must glorifie him both in our body and in our spirit, which are Gods[y]. And therefore, as we say with David; Awake up my Glory[z], —— (that is, my tongue, as an eminent glory of man above other creatures, and a singular instrument of his glorifying God;) —— I will sing and give praise even with my glory[a]. So we must say with him; Bless the LORD, O my soule, and all that is within me blesse his Holy Name[b], &c. —— O

(2.) It muſt be alſo with Grace in the Heart. So the Apoſtle directs; Singing with Grace in your hearts to the Lord e. Grace muſt not onely be in the heart of the acceptable Singer: but muſt alſo be acted and exerciſed in the heart in all acceptable ſinging. Grace in the heart is the beſt Key or Muſical tune to any Scripture-Pſalme, Hymne, or Spiritual Song: without which inward Melody, all Vocal Muſick though never ſo ſweet and Harmonious, is but meer diſcord, jarring, and empty howling in the ears of the Lord. The heart and affections ſhould be filled with the Spirit f, ſhould have a lively tincture of Grace, Heavenlineſſe and Spiritualneſſe upon them, ſhould be as it were ſpiritually touched with the matter ſung, as the Needle is touched with a Loadſtone and moves accordingly. 5. Sing with prudent accommodation, or ſuiting of the Pſalme, to the preſent condition of the Singers, To the preſent Ordinances or worſhip of God, or To the preſent works or Providences of God, ſo much as may be. As Solomon ſaid of a word fitly ſpoken (Heb. ſpoken upon his wheeles,) It is like Apples of Gold in Pictures of Silver h: So may I ſay of Pſalmes fitly ſelected and accommodated to preſent purpoſes, they are ſet and ſung upon their wheeles, and are like Apples of Gold, &c. This accommodating, fitting, or ſuiting of Scripture-Pſalmes to ſeveral purpoſes requires a good meaſure of skill and care herein. The Miniſter is to do it in Church-Aſſemblies: The Maſter of Family in his private Family: and every Chriſtian for himſelf in private when he is diſpoſed to ſing Pſalmes.

(3.) Suit Psalmes to the present Works and Providences of God, publike or private. As, in dayes of publike mortality, &c. Sing Psal. 90. In dayes of Famine, Sing Psal. 23.34. In time of Warre, Sing Psal. 27.46. Luthers Psalme in time of publike and eminent dangers, Psal. 68. In time of victory over enemies, Sing Exod. 15. Judg. 5. Psal. 18. Psal. 124. In time of publike desolations on the Church of God, &c. Sing Psal. 44.74.79.80.83. When Gods publike Ordinances and pure Worship faile, &c. Sing Psal. 42.63.84. In time of Gods observable Judgments upon the ungodly, &c. Sing Psal. 9.105.106.136. In time of eminent mercies by Sea and Land, Sing Psal. 107.115.116.118.

6. Sing with holy and heavenly Meditation upon the Subject-matters sung. One eminent use and advantage of Singing is to dilate and draw out the voice the more leisurely and deliberately, that so the thoughts may have the more time to act and expatiate in Meditating on what is sung. Hence the Psalmist resolves to Sing, and to Meditate on God in singing, and that such his Meditation should be sweet [i]. Singing raiseth the heart, Meditation fixeth the heart: How sweet is it when both do meet together! But still be careful that thy Meditation in Singing be, Devout, Speedy, and Pertinent. 1. Devout, full of spiritualness and holiness, tending to elevate the heart and affections, and to awaken and actuate all thy Graces. 2. Speedy, no longer then the singing of the sentence will bear: otherwise it may prove a distraction [k]. The thoughts are quick and speedy as lightning: they may profitably touch or taste the heavenly matters as they go along, and away. 3. Pertinent to the matter sung, and not diverting from it. Distraction and a Dream comes by suffering the thoughts to wander. As the jarring string marres the outward Musick: so the impertinent thoughts spoile the inward melody [l]. When therefore thou singest, let thy thoughts and Meditations keep close to the matter: As, when thou Singest Doctrines; Think how they teach thee and others the Truths of God: When thou Singest Prophecies; Think how exactly they have been fulfilled, or shall be accomplished hereafter: When thou Singest Admonitions against any Sin; Think how may this shame me and others for like offences? or, what a mercy is it to me, that I am kept from these iniquities? When thou singest Exhortations; think how dull am I and need quickening? When thou singest Histories; Think of Gods wonderful Patience, Providence, Goodnesse, Mercy, Justice, &c. of old; &c. When thou Singest of the Faith, Integrity, Love, Zeal, Repentance, Obedience, &c. of others; Think, O that I had such lively Graces! O that my Graces were so lively active! When thou Singest of others sinnes; Think, did David thus lament his sinnes, how then should I lament mine? Did such persons so offend, whither should I have fallen, had not the Lord wonderfully preserved me? When thou Singest of Threats, Curses, Judgments, &c; Think, of thy mercy that hast escaped them, of others miseries that have felt them, of Sins mischief that deserves them, and of Gods Justice and Severity that pronounceth and inflicts them, &c. But still keep close to the Subject-matter in hand.

7. Sing with impartial Application of all things Applicable to thy self. So Sing, as In others Sinnes to reade, remember and aggravate thine own; In others Temptations learn how to manage thine own; In others Graces, see how to try and discover thine own; In others Duties, learn how to provoke and manage thine own; In others Mercies and Thankfulnesses; consider how to render for thine own, &c. Thus in all things have a special reflection upon thy self, as once the Apostle in another case said, Lord, is it I? Master, is it I [m]?

8. Sing Psalmes to those right Ends for which Singing of Psalmes was intended and ordained. The Rightness of the End highly exalts and magnifies the Action. We must not sing Psalmes for Custom, Formality, Company, or outward Musick, delighting our external senses: but we must sing for higher and nobler ends and purposes. As,

(1.) To teach and instruct our selves and one another by Singing [n]. Some of the Psalmes are in the Hebrew entituled Maschil, i.e. An Instruction, or An Instructing- ing-Pſalme. Such is the Nature and uſe of it. There are in all xiiij. Maſchil's [o], all of them affording excellent Doctrines and Inſtructions. Again, many of the Pſalmes are Doctrinal [p], viz. That in whole or in great part Teach ſome choice Doctrines. Thus Pſal. 1. teacheth, That the godly man is the happy man, the wicked man is the wretched man. Pſal. 91. teacheth, The impregnable ſafety and ſecurity of all them that truſt in God, under the wing of the Almighty, &c. Thus other Doctrinal Pſalmes have their particular Doctrines whereby we may in ſinging particularly teach our ſelves and others, by ſerious Meditating thereon. But beſides, our ſinging of Pſalmes together affords ſundry General Leſſons unto us. Teaching us, 1. To endeavour after the like ſpiritual frame of heart in ſinging, as the holy Pſalmiſts had in penning them. 2. What ſweet Harmony and unity there ſhould be among the Saints, ſinging all at once as with one heart and voice: as joyntly concerned and ſharing in the ſame joyes, the ſame ſorrows, the ſame priviledges, the ſame duties, &c. An admirable emblem of Heaven it ſelf. 3. How ſweetly and chearfully they ſhould walk and act together. 4. To have comfortable and thankful frames of ſpirit in all variety and contrariety of conditions, as once Job had [q], and Paul and Silas had that could ſing Pſalmes in the inner priſon at midnight in the ſtocks [r]. Things moſt deplorable, as well as moſt comfortable, being the matter of Scripture-Songs, &c. And it's not impoſſible that a good Chriſtian may in ſome ſenſe rejoyce in the Lord evermore [s].

(2.) To admoniſh one another by ſinging [t]. As, many Pſalmes are Doctrinal; So many others are Monitory; [1] Admoniſhing and warning againſt ſin, in whole or in part, as Pſal. 4. ver. 2, 3, 4. and 10. and 14. and 50. and 52. and 53. and 58. and 82. [2] Exhorting and inciting unto Vertue and Duty: As all ſuch Pſalmes as in whole or in part are Hortatory: as Pſal. 2. ver. 10, &c. exhorting all Kings and Judges to ſubmit to and ſerve, &c. the Lord Chriſt. Pſal. 37. exhorting to confidence in God and patient waiting upon him, notwithſtanding all various diſpenſations of the Lord towards the godly and the wicked. Pſal. 92. and 95. exhorting how to praiſe and glorifie God on the Sabbath-day, how to Sing-Pſalmes to him, worſhip him, and hearken to his voice in his Word. Pſal. 96. 98. 99. 100. with many others, exhorting to praiſe God. Now when we ſing ſuch Monitory Pſalmes together (which are accordingly to be ſung as occaſion ſhall require,) we in a notable manner admoniſh one another, both againſt Sin, to eſchew it; and unto Duty, to purſue it: according to the matter of ſuch Pſalmes: Thus Julian the Apoſtate took himſelf to be admoniſhed and reproved when the Chriſtians in his hearing ſung the 97. and 115. Pſalmes, declaring the vanity of Idols, and confuſion of ſuch as worſhip them; as is recorded by Socrates, Theodoret and Nicephorus in their Eccleſiaſt. Hiſtories.

(3.) To the acting and exerciſing of the Spirit of God in us, in and by ſuch ſpiritual melody. The Spirit of God filling the heart of a Chriſtian delights to exert and put forth himſelf in ſinging of Pſalmes.—But be ye filled with the Spirit, ſpeaking to your ſelves in Pſalmes, and Hymnes, and Spiritual Songs, &c. [u]. Sing Pſalmes therefore, thereby to expreſſe and exerciſe the Spirit of God in you: yea, to cheriſh and increaſe the Spirit of God in you. For, (as ſome think [x],) The exerciſe of the Pſalmes is a meanes of increaſing in us the Spirit. If we be joyful they increaſe joy, Jam. 5. 13. Is any merry? let him ſing Pſalmes. If heavy, they refreſh us. Paul and Silas ſung a Pſalme at midnight. The fulneſſe of the Spirit in that excellent man David went with this Help, as we may gather from that in the 2 Sam. 23. 1, 2.—and the ſweet-Pſalmiſt of Iſrael, ſaid, The Spirit of the Lord ſpake by me, &c. As the Devils ſong is of great force to fill with wickednеſſe, wantonneſſe, &c. So Gods Song is of great force to make us be filled with his good Spirit. It commeth from the Spirit and maketh the Spirit take in- increase in us. The Tree of Grace taketh increase by the Fruit it beareth. So he.

(4.) To the exerting, exercising and improving of the graces of God in thee. The Apostle requires that we should sing with grace in our hearts, and make melody in our hearts to the Lord[y]. Then we make melody in our hearts to the Lord, when the graces of a sanctified heart, as Faith, Love, Repentance, Zeal, Sincerity, Joy, Thankfulness, Holy desires, &c. do act towards the Lord in singing of Psalmes. As, when we sing Psal. 31. 46. 118. and 125. and 37. and 91. &c. to actuate and quicken our Trust, Hope, and Affiance in God: when we sing Psal. 18. and 116. &c. to excite our Love to God: when we sing Psal. 6. and 25. and 38. and 51. &c. to renew our Repentance towards God: when we sing, Psal. 25. and 139. to improve our sincerity and integrity before God: when we sing Psal. 27. part of it, and 42. and 63. and 84. &c. to express and inflame our fervent desires after God, and after communion with him in his Ordinances: when we sing Psal. 33. 34. 47. 95. 96. &c. to express our joy and thankfulness to God for his excellent perfections, and gracious dispensations.

(5.) To extoll and praise the Lord with joy and gladness. The LORD is the principal object to whom we are to direct our Psalme-worship; Singing and making melody in your hearts to the Lord[z].—Singing with grace in your heart unto the Lord[a]. Him we are to exalt, bless, magnifie, &c. and this with joy and gladness. In the Old Testament this was required, Yee shall rejoyce before the Lord, &c[b]. Serve the Lord with fear, and rejoyce with trembling[c].——Glory yee in his holy Name, Let the heart of them rejoyce that seek the LORD[d]. And the not serving of the LORD with joy and gladness of heart for the abundance of all things, is severely threatned[e]. In the New Testament we are also directed, To rejoyce evermore; To rejoyce in the Lord alwaies, and again to rejoyce[f]. Now how can we better expresse this our spiritual joy and gladness in the Lord and in his Praises, then by singing of the Psalmes contained in this ספר תהלים Sepher Tehillim, this Book of Praises?

(6.) To comfort, refresh, and cheer up thy Spirit. Singing of Psalmes hath a singular influence this way. Is any merry? Let him sing Psalmes[g]. Singing of Psalmes tends notably to lighten the sadness of a sad heart, and to heighten the joy of a merry heart. Paul and Silas imprisoned and in the Stocks, at midnight refreshed themselves with singing an Hymne to God[h]. The primitive Christians in times of their great persecutions, were used to cheer up and comfort one another in singing of Psalmes, as Tertullian[i] testifies. Luther when bad tidings was brought to him of any evil intendments or evil occurrents to the Church and people of God, or concernments of Christ, said, Come let us sing the 46. Psalme and fear nothing.

(7.) Finally, Sing Psalmes to obviate, prevent, and keep out all carnal, drunken, sensual, worldly, wicked mirth. Eph. 5. 18, 19.

Resolutions of certain Cases of Conscience, or Practical Doubts about singing Scripture-Psalmes.

1. Case. Why may we not onely read Scripture-Psalmes, and so meditate thereon, as we do with other Scriptures without singing? Or, wherein is there any use or advantage of singing, above meer reading of them?

Resol. 1. The Scripture-Psalmes are to be read, as well as any other parts of Scripture, upon occasions, for our spiritual benefit[k]: but they are also somtimes to be sung, as well as read, for our further spiritual benefit[l]. We must not make the Ordinances of God to thwart one another, or fight one with another: Reading must not be urged to decry Singing; nor Singing to decry Reading. Both are Gods Ordinances, and are of singular benefit in their place, for Meditation, &c.

2. Singing of Scripture-Psalmes aright, as hath been directed, hath in some respects a preheminence above Reading. Singing hath chiefly a threefold use and advantage above the bare Reading of Scripture-Psalmes, viz. 1. It's a greater furtherance to holy holy Meditation upon the Subject-matter sung. Singing dilates, protracts, and drawes out the voice for a much longer time then bare Reading; and so gives more time and scope for Meditation, and for more deliberate fixing of our thoughts on the Subject-matter. This is a great advantage. David hints this, when having sung of the works and providences of God most sweetly, he adds towards the close, My Meditation of him shall be sweet, I will be glad in the LORD [m]. He sang for the furtherance of his Meditation upon God, and for the sweetning of it towards him. The more our Meditation dwells and fixeth on God, the more sweetnesse we finde therein. 2. It more pathetically moves, stirres, and raiseth up the affections towards God and the things sung. As Jeremiah lamenting, said, Mine eye affecteth mine heart [n]: So may we say, in Singing, Our voice affecteth our hearts. The acting of the outward Senses, have a strange and secret influence upon the inward Affections. As in prayer, we pray sometimes with the heart, as Moses did, but speak never a word, and our hearts are moved; again we pray both with heart and voice, and by our voice the heart is more moved and the affections more actuated: thus in singing of Psalmes, our affections are strangly raised, elevated, rapt, and as it were sometimes intranse'd through the vocal melody, as experience tells us. And this is no small benefit. 3. It more fully represents to us the unity and oneneſſe of the souls and ſtirits of the Saints in the Worship of God, when they all sing the same thing, it is as if they had all but one heart and one mouth in glorifying God. And is an excellent fore-taste of that Celestial Harmony of glorious Angels and glorified Saints in Heaven, still praising God with all possible exactnesse of Celestial unity [o].

[o] I believe that godly men (who are such indeed) have scarcely seen more of God in any exercise then in this. To my thinking there is not a more lively resemblance of Heaven upon Earth, Then a company of godly Christians singing a Psalm together. M. T. Foord of singing of Psalmes. Serm. 4. p. 116. Lond. 1653.

2. Case. But how can we sing Scripture-Psalmes, which were penned for other times, occasions, and persons, and neither are suitable to our persons, affections nor conditions, nor our hearts to them? Some being Histories of things done under the Old Testament, as Psal. 78. 105. 106. 136. 137. &c. Some being Penitential Psalmes for particular sins whereof we have not been guilty, as Psal. 51. Some being Predictions and Prophecies of things to come, as Psal. 2. 22. 110. &c. Some being peculiar to former times, and states of particular persons or the Church of the Jewes, as Psal. 3. 39. 41. 44. 74. 79. 81. 124. 126. 129. &c. to which ours are not parallel. Some being intermixt with direful imprecations and curses, as Psal. 58. 59. 69. vers. 22. &c. how can we sing such Psalmes, when we are commanded, Blesse and curse not [p]? Some are Admonitions and Reprehensions to particular persons, as to Doeg, Psal. 52. To Saul's Courtiers, as Psal. 58. &c. how are we concerned in such Psalmes? Some Psalmes have passages touching legal Sacrifices and Services which are abolished, as Psal. 51. 19. and 5. 7. &c. Hence some have feared they should tell lies in singing. Some are utter Exhortations to singing, as Psal. 148. and 149. How can we sing them?

[p] Rom. 12. 14.

Resol. These Doubts and Scruples have troubled very many, and deterred them from singing Psalmes. And therefore I shall resolve them, 1 More Generally; 2 More Particularly.

1. More Generally, touching the unsuitableneſſe of Scripture-Psalmes to your affections and conditions, &c. objected, I offer these considerations.

1. That, the unsuitableneſſe of some Psalmes to thine affections and conditions, &c. are no more a just cause to thee to forbear singing them, then the unsuitableneſſe of them and of other Scriptures to thy condition, are a just cause to thee to forbear reading them. What, though thine own sonne rise not up in rebellion against thee, as did Absalom against David when he penned Psal. 3. Or thou art not sick and under the deep sense of Gods wrath, as he was when he wrote Psal. 6. Or thou hast not an House to Dedicate, as David had when he wrote Psal. 30. Or thou art not put to that miserable shift of changing thy behaviour and feigning thy self mad, as he did when he changed his behaviour before Achish, &c. Psal. 34. Or thou hast not fallen into Murder and Adultery, as he had, whereupon he wrote Psal. 51. Or thou never wast in Babylon, or delivered thence as they were, in reference to whom Psal. 137. and 126. were penned, &c. What then? Do not these and like Psalmes concern thee at all? Or canst not thou sing them, but thou must tell a lye in so doing? This is a great great and grosse mistake. Upon the same grounds thou mayst as justly forbear to read them or hear them read. Yea, to reade other parts of Scripture, because they do not exactly represent thy condition. Then, thou must forbear to reade the Books of the New Testament, because thou didst never see Christ in the Flesh, thou didst not converse with any of his Apostles, thou never wast at Rome, Corinth, &c. thou didst never fight with beasts at Ephesus, or suffer harm from Alexander the Copper-smith, or leave thy Cloak at Troas, or wast banished into the Isle Patmos, or there received Revelations from Christ. But who sees not the absurdity of such Conclusions?

2. That, as all the Psalmes and all the Scriptures of Old and New Testament were written for the manifold good of thee, and of every Christian[q], though every of them do not lively delineate thy very state and condition: So all and every one of the Psalmes may be for manifold advantage sung by thee, though they do not exactly represent thine estate and affections. Thy work is to finde out the good which therein the Lord intends thee, and accordingly to extract it: As the diligent Bee sucks some sweetness out of every Flower?

3. That, there's no Psalme, nor passage in any Psalme, but may be very profitably applied, accommodated and made use of by any good Christian that hath Wisdom and Grace, either to Instruct, Admonish, Exhort, Comfort, &c. especially in a way of Meditation No Psalme is unsuitable to him, that is not in heart unsuitable to that good Christian Frame and Duty that belongs to him. Some Psalmes set forth the Attributes, Works and Providences of God. These minister to us occasion of admiring, adoring, loving, trusting, blessing, and praising God. Some, describe the Person, Offices, Humiliations and Exaltation of Christ: These assure us that Jesus Christ our Saviour was yesterday, to day, and will be ever the same[r]; On whom we are to place our Hope, Faith, Love and Affections; with whom if we uprightly suffer we shall be glorified together. Some, set forth the wayes and conditions of the Church and people of God, their Graces, Duties, Sufferings, Deliverances, &c: These lay before us Matter of Instruction, Imitation, Compassion, Hopeful Expectation and Consolation. As, when it's said; By the Rivers of Babylon there we sat down, yea, wept[s], &c. We may thence learn; That Gods Church and people may fall into great calamities, yea, be carried captive into a strange land: That gracious hearts cannot chuse but be deeply affected when the Church is sadly afflicted, &c. When it's said: Lord, mine heart is not haughty, nor mine eyes lofty[t], &c. We should thence think; how detestable a proud heart and look is, and how acceptable an humble heart and look is to God: and how careful we should be every of us to eschew the one and pursue the other, &c. Some Psalmes set forth the sinful wayes of wicked men, and Gods Judgments upon them: these may caution us against their wayes, occasion us to blesse the Lord that hath not left us unto like courses. Some Psalmes to the life represent our hearts, affections, conditions, &c. as if they had been written purposely for us: these furnish with matter and words, whereby we may present our own condition before the Lord.

4. That, the Psalmes thus improved, applyed, and sung, we shall not sing lyes or falshoods before the LORD, but out of Divine Truths we shall extract much spiritual advantage.

5. That, there's hardly any condition of Gods people, but it may be notably suited with some Scripture-Psalmes[u].

2. More particularly.

1. When we sing Doctrinal Psalmes, mark the Doctrinal Truth laid down, and sweetly meditate thereon. There's no Spiritual Doctrine but is profitable.

2. When we sing Prophetical Psalmes, think of the wonderful and infallible fore-knowledge of God that knows things to come as well as present, Of his infinite Sovereignty that ordains and appoints things future irresistibly, and what cause we have to believe his Prophecies and Promises, and undoubtedly depend thereon.

3. When u The Church in all ages consisted of a number of Believers, and their faith is alwayes one and the same; and this makes all that apprehend Gods promises to be like to one another in Graces, Meditations, dispositions, affections, desires, spiritual wants in the feeling and use of afflictions, in course of life and Conversation, & in the performance of duties to God and man. And therefore the same Psalmes, Prayers, and Meditations are now as fit for the Church in these dayes, and are said and sung with the same use and profit to the Church in these dayes, as when they were made. Mr. Perkins in his Com. on Heb. 11.9.10. p. 76. Lond. 1651.

3. When we ſing Hiſtorical P*ſalmes*, let us admire Gods Providential diſpenſations, triumph at his goodneſſe, mercy, patience, &c. towards his people, tremble at his judgments, ſeverity, and terrible indignation againſt the wicked, and learn to love righteouſneſſe, and hate wickedneſſe more and more.

4. When we ſing P*ſalmes* that ſeem peculiar to ſome mens conditions rather then our own, If they deſcribe their Graces or Duties wherein we come ſhort, let's quicken our ſelves by their example, as by P*ſal.* 42. 63. 84. &c. If they ſet forth their ſins from which we have been preſerved, as in P*ſal.* 51. then let's bleſſe the Lord that hath kept us, having the ſame root of all ſin in us, and let us tremble and fear leaſt we fall ſo much the more. If they delineate their diſtreſſes and afflictions with their deliverances, then Think what a mercy that we have not been implunged in the like calamities. What cauſe have we in prudence to reckon upon and prepare for ſuch like troubles, and to carry our ſelves under them anſwerably.

5. When we Sing Pſalmes Admonitory, wherein Sin is ſharply reproved, or the Sinner direfully threatned and curſed, Then, conſider the infinite purity and holineſs of God that cannot abide Sin, but even for it abhorres the Sinner; Obſerve the Juſtice and Severity of God, and tremble to offend him; Lament and tremble at the woful condition of the wicked that lie under the dreadful Curſes of God; Bleſs God that by Chriſt hath redeemed thee from all Curſe and Condemnation; Beware of allowing thy ſelf in any known ſin, which brings down the Curſe of God.

6. When we Sing Pſalmes that have Reflections upon Levitical Sacrifices, then in force, but now under the New Teſtament aboliſhed. Then let us caſt up an eye to Chriſt the Anti-type of all thoſe Sacrifices, by whoſe blood we are purged, and by whoſe merit we are redeemed; And let us imitate their zeal in offering up unto God all ſorts of ſpiritual ſacrifices the more cheerfully in ſpirit and truth, according to the tenour of the New Teſtament.

7. When we Sing Pſalmes that are almoſt nothing elſe but Exhortations to the Praiſes of God; Let us wiſely conſider herein, 1. The difficulty and ſublimity of this duty of praiſing God, and our own dulneſs thereunto. 2. The uſefulneſs of theſe, and like quickning Exhortations, to the furthering of us unto the duty: Hence David[x] begins and ends ſundry Pſalmes with ſuch Exhortations. 3. The acceptableneſs of Praiſes unto God[y], He counts it a ſingular glorifying of him. 4. This pathetical Exhorting unto the praiſing, is a ſingular elegant way of Praiſing him. As if the Pſalmiſt had ſaid; The Name of our God is above all bleſſing and praiſe. I am not able to reach it. O come all ye Angels, all ye Saints, all ye ſons of men, all ye creatures in Heaven and Earth, come, come and help me to make his praiſe glorious. O magnifie ye the LORD with me, and let us exalt his Name together[z].

3. Caſe. It is doubted, whether one alone ſhould ſing a P*ſalme, all the reſt only ſaying,* Amen*: or whether the whole Congregation in Church or Family may lawfully ſing together, as is uſed in* England. For, in the Church of Corinth one did ſing, and the reſt ſaid, Amen[a]. And Singing P*ſalmes is an Act of Prophecy, and* the Prophets were to ſpeak one after another[b], not together. But ſhould the whole Church ſing together, then the whole Church ſhould be Teachers, for we teach one another in Pſalmes, Hymnes, &c[c]. And ſuch ſinging ſeems to make a Confuſion; Nor have we any Scripture-example for the whole Congregations ſinging together.

Reſol. 1. This Caſe concerns not at all a private Chriſtians ſinging of a Pſalme, &c. by himſelf alone, for his perſonal ſolace. Thats granted on all hands to be lawful, from that of James[d].

d Jam. 5. 13.

2. The ſinging of a particular perſon in the Church of Corinth, the reſt ſaying Amen, was altogether extraordinary, by an extraordinary Gift: For he ſang in a ſtrange tongue, nor could the reſt ſing with him, nor ſay Amen, being unable to underſtand him without an Interpreter[e]. And therefore that extraordinary practice, ought not, cannot be drawn into a Rule or Pattern for an ordinary courſe of ſinging.

e 1 Cor. 14. 15, 16, 26, 27.

3. Not-

3. Notwithstanding any thing here objected, the joynt-singing of the whole Congregation together is not at all debilitated, but remains still a duty. For, 1. Though singing-Psalmes be acknowledged in some sense an act of Prophecy, yet doth it not thence follow, that we must sing one by one, and not together. It is not an Act of Prophecy, strictly and properly taken, as it denotes, Teaching by one in Office, expounding and applying Scripture for edification; they that so prophecie must do it (as Paul directs) one by one[f]. But its an Act of Prophecie largely taken, as Prayer may be reduced to Prophecie, so it was said of Abraham; He is a Prophet, and he shall pray for thee[g]. Or as Heman and Jeduthun, &c. are said to prophecie with Harps, being Singers; so that phrase praying or prophecying, some understand praying or singing[h]. And in this large sense the whole Congregation may prophecie together[i], that is, sing together: And the Apostle to the Corinthians directs nothing to the contrary. 2. Though the whole Church singing together, be acknowledged to be Teachers, what inconvenience is there in so acknowledging? For, the Apostle directs us to teach one another in Psalmes[k]. And there's a twofold teaching, More proper, and ex officio by Office; so the Minister teacheth in preaching the Word, and in appointing the Psalme. More common, and ex charitate, of charity, so every member may teach one another, and in a sort, doth it in singing of Psalmes. 3. The joynt-singing of the whole Congregation together orderly and regularly, is so far from making any confusion in the Church, that rather it excellently demonstrates the unisone Harmony, Consent and Unity of the Church in the Worship of God. As the Regular striking of many strings of a musical Instrument at once makes the sweeter musick: or as the joynt-praises of the Angels at Christs birth made the more harmonious and delicious melody[l]. 4. We are not without both Scripture-Commands, and Scripture-Examples for joynt-singing of Scripture-Psalmes, &c. by the whole Congregation. Scripture-Commands are evident both to Ephesian and Colossian Churches[m]. Scripture-Examples are no less evident; For who can doubt but these two Churches followed the Apostles Commands and Directions? And Christ with his Apostles sung an Hymne to God after the first institution of the Lords Supper[n]. Not to insist upon Paul's and Silas's joynt-singing-praises to God in prison[o].

4. Case, Whether may women sing with the rest of the Congregation? For, it is not permitted to women to speak in the Church, but they are charged to keep Silence[p]. Much less is the woman permitted to teach in the Church[q]: Now singing of Psalmes is a kinde of teaching.

Resol. This Case may easily and briefly receive a satisfactory Resolution. For,

1. The Woman; according to the intent of those two Scriptures, may not speak in the Church in two Cases, 1. Not by way of Teaching. For, That would be to usurp Authority over the man, 1 Tim. 2. 12, 13. And the woman is more subject to errour, and so of a Teacher, might soon become a Seducer, 1 Tim. 2. 14. 2. Not by way of asking Questions in the Church, but only to her husband at home, 1 Cor. 14. 34, 35. For, by her Questions, she might in a sort teach, or broach errour, or exceed the bounds of modestie becoming her sex.

2. The woman notwithstanding is allowed in two other Cases to speak in the Church, viz. 1. In giving an account of her faith and obedience, or of her offence, and both in a way of subjection. Thus, Lydia, spake in the Congregation so as to testifie to Paul her faith, &c. whereupon she and her household were baptized[r]. And so with us young women as well as young men give an account of their knowledge in the principles of the Christian Religion, in order to their Reception to the Lords-Supper. On the other hand, Sapphira gave an account to the Apostle in the Church about her Lie touching the Land which they sold[s]. 2. In praising and magnifying the Lord together with the rest of the Congregation, and singing Psalmes, &c. Thus Miriam, and the women that went out after her, answered the men in Songs of Praises to the Lord at the Red-Sea, for the overthrow of the Egyptians, and deliverance of Israel[t]. Upon like ground they may now joyne with our Con-

Reſol. This Caſe is by ſome much inſiſted upon: and needs a clear and full Reſolution, for this carries in it a ſpice of Separation. To this end conſider ſeriouſly theſe few things, viz.

1. That, the nature and condition of the viſible Churches here on earth, (being made up of viſible Saints, whereof many may be carnal and hypocrites,) is mixed, and can very hardly in any time or place be found otherwiſe. The Net, the Kingdom of Heaven, gathers into it both good and bad [a]. The children of the Kingdom, the good ſeed, are mingled with the children of the wicked one, the tares, in the ſame Field [b]. The Kingdom of Heaven is reſembled to a King that made a marriage for his ſon, and ſent forth his ſervants, who gathered together both good and bad [c] to furniſh the marriage with gueſts. And again its reſembled to ten Virgins, whereof five were wiſe, and five fooliſh [d]. This is the ſtate of the viſible Church on earth. The Wheat and Chaffe lie together (as Auguſtine expreſſeth it,) here in Areâ, in the Floore: but hereafter they ſhall be ſevered locally in Horreo, in the Garner. Where can ſuch a Church be pickt out, as will be without all ſuch mixture. The Donatiſts fancied ſuch a thing: but deceived themſelves. All that are of Iſrael, are not Iſrael [e]. In Adam's family, there was a Cain: In Noah's, a Cham: In Abraham's, an Iſhmael: In Iſaac's, an Eſau: In David's, an Abſalom and Adoniſah: In Chriſts, a Judas, yea, there's a mixture of fleſh and ſpirit [f] in the perſon of every Chriſtian. If therefore we may not ſing Pſalmes in ſuch a mixed Congregation, then we may not ſing them at all. For where ſhall we find on Earth ſuch a purely and perfectly unmixed Congregation? But we muſt ſing them, and that in Church-Aſſemblies, as the Apoſtle hath commanded [g]: And therefore we may ſing them, though in mixed Congregations.

2. That, The publique Ordinances and Duties of Religion are of two ſorts, viz. 1 Some, more common and general, belonging to all ſorts of men by vertue of Gods moral Commandement, and light of Nature. And theſe are called Duties of Gods Natural Worſhip, which every man from the right conſideration of Gods Nature is bound to perform to him, as his Creator and Benefactor. As, hearing Gods Word and Will, in any ſort revealed to him. See Mark 16. 15. Matth. 28. 18. In Antioch in Piſidia the whole City almoſt (whereof the greateſt part were Pagans) came together to hear, Act. 13. 44. Pagans often heard the Apoſtles and others preach. Prayer, for what mercies are wanting; and Praiſes for what mercies are enjoyed, are parts of Gods Natural Worſhip, as I have formerly [h] ſhewed, belonging to all, Godly and Wicked, Chriſtians and Pagans. Theſe are the Duties of all: though only true Believers can perform them as they ought. All the Earth, and the Kingdoms of the Earth are called upon to ſing Praiſes to the Lord, Pſal. 96. 1. and 100. 1, 2. and 68. 32. And as there are peculiar grounds to the people of God in Chriſt why they ſhould praiſe him, Eph. 1. 3. &c. 2 Cor. 1. 3, 4, 5, &c. So there are common grounds why all ſorts are to bleſſe and praiſe him, as Creation, Providence, &c. Gods greatneſs, &c. Pſal. 100. 1, 2, 3. and 145. 6. to 10. and 107. 8. to 32. and 95. 1, 2, 3. and 150. 2. to 6. Praiſe (ſaith [i] one) is the Natural Duty of all: The proper Duty of Saints: The perfect Act of Angels. ——And though (in his his judgment) singing be a part of instituted Worship, yet its onely an addition of order, and a regulation of a Natural Duty. And as there is no man but is bound to pray for mercies, so none are exempted from praising God for mercies, though they sing in a lower Tune then Saints. So he. 2. Some Ordinances and Duties of Religion are more proper and peculiar to the Church and People of God, As the Administration of the New Covenant-Tokens, and Censures. See Matth. 28 18, 19. Acts 2. 38, 39. 40, 41, &c. and 8. 36, 37, 38. with 1 Cor. 5. 11, 12, 13. Now therefore, seeing singing of Scripture-Psalmes is one of those Common Duties which belongs both to good and bad, The good have no just cause to be offended that the bad do sing with them, for its their Duty to sing: and they should demean themselves very Atheistically should they not sing to God. And shall a good man desert his Duty of singing, because a bad man performes his Duty in singing with him? God forbid. Then they cannot hear together, nor pray together. And that would be lamentable.

3. That, though a carnal man, an hyppocrite, or prophane person by his singing of Psalmes, may, through his ill management thereof, pollute that Ordinance to himself so farre, that God may ablior both him and his spiritual Sacrifice; and though his principles and practise, heart and life, are so contradictory to many things which he sings, that he sings lyes and falshoods, and so provokes God by his Hypocrisie: must the Ordinance of singing be consequently polluted to the sincere Christian that sings with him, so that he must forbear singing to avoid fellowship with him in his sin? No such matter. This is a meer non-consequence. In this Case I say as Augustine said to Parmenian the Donatist. Parmenian asks, How canst thou remain incorrupt, if thou art sociated with the corrupt? Augustine answers, It is so, if a man commits evil with them, or favours them that do commit it; but if he do neither, he is no way sociated; but specially if he adde a third, that he reprove what is ill done, &c [k].

——We say, that he who doth not evil, nor consents to him that doth it, and reproves the doer, he converseth firm and perfect among the unrighteous, as the Corn among the Chaff [l]. For, as one [m] hath well observed, Its not the local contact or conjunction, but the moral conjunction in heart, will, and conscience, that defiles. What is impure to them that are defiled, is not impure to them that are pure. Tit. 1. 15. 16. And therefore I must not out-runne or desert my Duty of singing Psalmes, Praying, &c. because another defiles it: but rather look better to my self that I defile it not, and reprove him one way or other for defiling it. Must I leap out of Noah's Ark, because a Cham is there? Must I not offer my Gift, because another comes disorderly to offer his, before he be reconciled to his Brother? Must not I come in to the Marriage-Supper, because there's one there without a Wedding Garment? This is no good Divinity; this were to rectifie one disorder by another.

4. That, Finally, Its some Glory to God and Renown to Christian Religion, when even prophane and ungodly men afford an outward conformity and compliance thereunto, though it is their sin and misery that they cannot sing nor perform other Religious Duties as they ought. For, thus, The Matter of their Duty is performed which God requires; They are taught, admonished, and convinced by the Duties they do; and the Majesty of God and of his true Religion is advanced even among the Enemies of both. And therefore if bad men by singing Scripture-Psalmes honour God a little: Let not good men dishonour him by forbearing this Duty, but rather endeavour to honour him much by performing it aright.

Thus of the second Thesis.

Thesis III.

Christians are so to sing Scripture-Psalmes, Hymnes, and Spiritual Songs, as therein to speak one to another to mutual profit and Edification. Here consider,

I. That Christians ought to sing Scripture-Psalmes to mutual profit and Edification, is evident;

1. By k Quomodo, inquit, incorruptus poteris permanere, si corruptis sociaris? Ita plane si sociatur, quis malus, i.e. si mali aliquid cum eis committit, aut committentibus favet, &c. Aug. contr. Epist. Parm. l. 2. c. 21. Tom. 7.

1. By the Apoſtles Directions. Speaking to your ſelves in Pſalmes [n], &c. To what end are they to ſpeak thus to themſelves in Pſalmes: but in order to their mutual profit and edification thereby?. And elſewhere the Apoſtle expounds his meaning, ſaying, Let the Word of Chriſt dwell in you richly in all wiſdome, teaching and admoniſhing one another in Pſalmes, and Hymnes, and Spiritual Songs, &c [o]. Mutual teaching and admonition are much to mutual profit and edification. Another adds; ——Is any merry? Let him ſing Pſalmes [p]. As if he had ſaid; This is the way rightly to ſeaſon, regulate, and order his mirth, by ſinging Pſalmes to ſpiritualliſe it. And this is the way to cheriſh and encreaſe his mirth being ſo ſpiritualliſed. Thus Paul and Silas in priſon cheared up each other by ſinging-praiſes to God [q].

All things are for profit and edifying: and ſo muſt ſinging of Pſalmes be in the Church of God.

2. Then, To neglect, deſpiſe, or oppoſe the ſinging of Scripture-Pſalmes, &c. is to neglect, deſpiſe, and oppoſe one of Chriſts profitable and edifying Ordinances. Nor is there one Scripture-Pſalme, &c. in Old or New Teſtament, but is many waies very good and precious to the uſe of edifying, as are other Scriptures [t]. What a ſhame then is it to many in our times, that they have caſt off this ſo profitable a Duty of Singing Pſalmes! It is (ſaith one) the miſery of the preſent age, that thoſe Ordinances that men have practiſed, either without the knowledge of the true grounds thereof, or without the life and ſence of the comfort of them, or without the ſincere love of them, they have therefore afterwards in the houre and power of Temptation caſt them aſide, and ſo forſaken the holy Inſtitutions of God, to embrace and pleaſe themſelves in their own imaginations [u]. Another alſo tells us; I obſerve, that few thrive well, after they once neglect or ſcruple ſinging of Pſalmes. They begin at this commonly, but ſeldom end here: but proceed from evil to worſe, till they come at laſt to live above Ordinances and Duties (as they call it) but indeed live without them, and ſo live like beaſts in the ſhape of men. Let others think as they pleaſe, I never knew Chriſtians thrive better in grace and knowledge, then when repeating Sermons, ſinging of Pſalmes, and ſuch like exerciſes were more in faſhion then they have been of late [x], &c.

3. Then, to ſing Scripture-Pſalmes, &c. in ſuch ſort and manner, as tends tends not, conduceth not to the spiritual profit and edification of the Church of God, is to loose and pervert one main End and Scope of this Ordinance of singing of Psalmes. Now this is done by the Papists divers wayes. As, 1. By their singing Psalmes in Latin, which many of the Congregation understand not. Paul gives better Directions, To sing to others understanding and edifying [y]. 2. By their singing of Psalmes with such Descants, Divisions, Repetitions, Battologies, Strains of Voices, and affectation of outward melody, That few or none besides themselves that are of the Quire can tell what they sing, so as to joyn with them to any spiritual profit, their singing so extreamly degenerating into a meer formal, sensual Melody, and (as Jerome calls it) Theatrical Musick [z].

y 1 Cor. 14. 15. 16. 17. 18. 19. 26. &c.

z Audiant hæc adolescentuli: audiant hi quibus psallendi in Ecclesia officium est; Deo non voce sed corde cantandum: Nec in Tragædorum modum guttur & fauces dulci medicamine colliniendas: ut in Ecclesia Theatrales moduli audiantur & cantica: sed in timore, in opere, in scientia Scripturarum. Hieron. in Com. ad Eph. 5. 19.

Thesis IV.

In singing of Scripture-Psalmes, &c. Christians should chiefly be careful to make melody in their hearts, unto the Lord. Here note,

I. Why Christians in singing Psalmes should be most careful to make Melody in their heart to the Lord?

1. Because this is the Melody which the Lord by his Apostle principally requires and calls for: Saying,—— Singing and making melody in your heart unto the Lord [a] And again, ——Singing with grace in your heart unto the Lord [b]. Now what the Lord chiefly calls for, his People should chiefly take care for.

a Eph. 5. 19.
b Col. 3. 16.

2. Because, Heart-melody is the best melody. Voice-melody is sweet to the bodily ear of man: but Heart-melody is sweet to the spiritual ear of God. And that's best melody, which is most melodius to God: before whom all Voice-melody without the Heart melody, is no better then meer lip-labour, bodily exercise, and hypocrisie; not onely unprofitable but abominable [c]. As farre as the Heart and Soul excels the Body, so farre doth Heart-melody transcend Voice melody. And it becomes us to serve the Lord both with Body and Soul, which are his [d]: but especially with the heart which is best and most excellent.

c Matth. 15. 7. 8, 9. d 1 Tim. 4. 7. 1 Cor 6. 20.

3. Because, Heart-melody is most spiritual, and consequently most suitable and acceptable to the Nature of God, who is a Spirit, and delights to be worshipped in Spirit and in Truth [e]. Voice-musick may most suit and delight man, that's very corporeal: but Heart-musick most suits and delights God, that's wholly spiritual.

e John 4. 24.

4. Because, The Lord and his Glory is the principal Object and End, which Christians ought to propound to themselves in singing Psalmes and all other Duties [f]: and therefore both singing and all other Duties should be so managed, as may best attain this end. And doubtlesse the Hearts sincere concurrence with the Voice in singing tends most to the glorifying of the Lord in that Duty.

f 1 Cor. 10. 31.

II. How Christians should make Melody in their heart unto the Lord in singing Scripture-Psalmes, &c.

That Christiant may make melody in their Hearts to the LORD in singing Psalmes, these things especially are requisite: viz.

1. An holy frame and constitution of Heart and Soul. The musical Instrument must be first well framed and fashioned, before it will afford any melodious sound to man: So the Heart must be new framed and moulded by the renewing and regenerating Spirit, e're it can make any melody to God. The Heart must be new, e're it can sing the Lords New Song. We must become an Holy Priesthood, e're we can offer up this and other Spiritual Sacrifices acceptable to God by Jesus Christ [g]: An holy Nation, a peculiar people, e're we can shew forth the praises of him that hath called us [h], &c. We must be first Gods workmanship in Christ created to good works, e're we can perform them and walk in them [i], as in singing of Psalmes, or any other. A Carnal man can never make spiritual Melody to the Lord.

g 1 Pet. 2. 5.
h 1 Pet. 2. 9.
i Ephes. 2. 10.

2. An holy and heavenly tuning of the Heart for this spiritual Melody. It's not enough that the Instrument be well framed, but it must be also well strung and tuned for for outward muſick: So its not enough the heart be put into an holy frame and conſtitution by habitual Grace, but there muſt be alſo an holy and ſpiritual tune put upon the heart by the gracious diſpoſition and fixed preparedneſſe of the heart to this inward Melody. A preſent diſpoſition and preparedneſſe of Grace gives the beſt tune into the heart. O God (ſaith David) mine heart is fixed (Heb. firmly prepared), I will ſing and give praiſe, even with my Glory [k], &c. But firſt his heart is fixed, and put in tune, then he ſings and makes melody to the Lord. Thine heart is as a choice Inſtrument of many ſtrings. Every Faculty of the Soul, as Minde, Conſcience, Memory, Will; every affection of the heart both in the concupiſcible and iraſcible part, as Deſire, Love, Joy, &c. Fear, Hatred, Grief, &c. are as ſo many ſtrings, and the ready diſpoſition or preparedneſſe of Grace in every of them to ſing praiſes, &c. to the Lord, are as the heavenly Tune whereunto they are to be ſet. Screw them up all to an heavenly tuneableneſſe: Let there be no jarre nor diſcord in any of theſe ſtrings, Let them all be uniſone and harmonious, all pointed towards the Lord, The mind to know him, the will to chuſe him, &c. then the ſpiritual melody will be very ſweet.

k Pſal. 108. 1, 2, 3, &c.

3. An actual uſing and exerciſing of thine inward heart, faculties, affections, and graces, as well as the outward Voice, in ſinging Pſalmes, &c. unto the Lord. The muſical Inſtrument, though never ſo well made, ſtrung or tuned, yet affords no muſick till you actually uſe and touch it according to the Art and Rules of Muſick: So the heart, though wrought unto an holy conſtitution, and tuned by a gracious diſpoſition, yet yields no ſpiritual Melody to the Lord, till all be actually uſed and exerciſed in ſinging Pſalmes to God, according to the Rules of the Spirit: ——Singing with grace in your heart unto the Lord [l]. Therefore in ſinging, ſtill engage thine heart, exerciſe thy faculties and affections, exert and put forth thy graces: and then thou ſhalt preſent an whole Conſort of grateful melody unto the Lord.

l Col. 3. 16.

III. Inferences.

1. Then, How farre are they from making ſweet and acceptable Melody to the Lord in ſinging of Pſalmes, who regard onely or principally the vocal Melody, neglecting utterly the cordial Melody! What cares the Lord for empty ſounds? they are odious to him. Take away from me (ſaid he to Hypocrites) the noyſe of thy Songs, for I will not hear the Melody of thy Viols [m]. And of ſuch Chriſt ſaid; Ye Hypocrites, well did Iſaias prophecy of you, ſaying, This people draweth nigh unto me with their mouth, and honoureth me with their lips; but their heart is farre from me. But in vaine do they worſhip me, &c [n]. Many are enſnared with the outward Muſick ſo farre, as to neglect the inward Heart-melody. Beware of this temptation.

m Amos 5. 23.

n Matth. 15. 7, 8, 9.

2. Then, How Superſtitious and Idolatrous are the Papiſts that ſing their Pſalmes, Hymnes, and Songs to the Virgin Mary, S. Peter, S. Paul, and other Saints! The Scripture teacheth us to invocate, pray, and ſing Pſalmes only unto the Lord [o], and to perform all our religious worſhip to him only, Mat. 4. 10. Rev 22. 8, 9.

o Eph. 5. 19. Col. 3. 16.

3. Then, Let all good Chriſtians look chiefly to the Lord and to their hearts, to make Melody in their hearts unto the Lord, in all their ſinging of Scripture-Pſalmes. Let your hearts be religiouſly framed, tuned, and acted, together with all your faculties, affections and graces, when you go about this heavenly exerciſe. If you ſing of God, let your hearts admire and adore him: if of Chriſt, let your hearts be enflamed with deſire and love after him: if of Sin, let your hearts hate and abhor it: if of Judgment, let your hearts fear and tremble at them: if of Mercies, let your hearts rejoyce and bleſſe God for them: if of things below, let your hearts behold the inviſible things of God in the things that are viſible: if of things above in Heaven, let your hearts be raiſed Heaven-wards, earneſtly panting and longing to be there with Chriſt, which is farre beſt of all [p].

§. III. The Order, and Excellency of this Psalme.

This Psalme is ranked First in Order, both in the Original Hebrew, and in the best approved Versions or Translations both Ancient and Modern [g]. This next ensuing Psalme also being in the New Testament, stiled, The Second Psalme. Acts 13.33. implies this Psalme to be the First: there being no pretence for the priority of any other besides this. And therefore those Ancient Writers, both Jewish Rabbines and others, who have accounted this and the next Psalme to be but one Psalme, and that The First Psalme [h], have been much mistaken; yea, the Subject-matter of these two Psalmes is so greatly different, that thereby they are apparently distinguished. Augustine had rather call it, One Psalme, then The First Psalme, because it brings in the proper voice of God speaking. And therefore it hath no Title, whereby it should be called, The First; lest it should be judged better by order of number, and not by Authority [i]. But this seems to be said by him more wittily, then solidly. This is (as one [k] hath noted) a most excellent Psalme, and therefore (thinks D. Kimchi) put in the first place. Doubtlesse this choice Psalme is First prefixed to all the Rest, as a proper Preface or Entrance unto this whole Book of Psalmes: For in this First Psalme, Man's chief End, True Happiness; and the right way to this End, True Godlinesse, are clearly Propounded: As in all the rest of the Psalmes they are sweetly and fully expounded. The whole Book being an heavenly Map of true Piety and true Felicity.

§. IV.

§. IV. The Kinde, Penman, Occasion and Scope of this Psalme.

This First Psalme, if considered according to the Subject-matter of it, is purely Didascalical or Doctrinal; A Teaching Psalme throughout, as many others, in whole or in part, are [1]. And this Psalme chiefly teacheth this Doctrine, That Mans true Happinesse is only to be found in the way and course of true Religion and Godlinesse. If this Psalme be considered, as to the outward Forme or Manner of Penning it, It is ἀνεπίγραφος, An untituled Psalme: Having no Title at all prefixed to it in the Hebrew-Original. And with this, there are in this precious Book XXV. Psalmes in all, that have no Hebrew-Titles or Inscriptions prefixed to them, viz. Psal. 1. 2. 10. 33. 43. 71. 91. 94. 95. 96. 97. 99. 104. 105. 107. 114. 115. 116. 117. 118. 119. 136. 137. and 147. The Penman or Amanuensis of the Holy-Ghost who wrote this Psalme, whether David [m], or Ezra after the Captivity, or some other holy man of God, cannot certainly be evidenced by this or by any other part of Holy Scripture. The Authority of it, and of the whole Scripture, is from the Divine inspiration, 2 Tim. 3.16,17. 2 Pet. 1.21. The Occasion of writing this Psalme in particular, is as uncertain as the Penman. The Scope or Intent of the Holy Ghost in this Psalme is, To teach us, the wonderful happinesse of the truly Godly, but the opposite unhappinesse of the wicked. And the intent of him that ranked this Psalme first in Order, in digesting the Psalmes into one Volume, (whether it was Ezra after the Jewes return from Captivity, as some [n] think, or some other) is supposed to be this; That this Psalme, as a fit Preface to all the rest of the Psalmes, might incite all the godly unto constant delight and Meditation in the Law and Word of God [o].

§. V. The Analysis, or Principal Parts.

This Psalme most elegantly describes unto us, two things, viz.

I. The extreme different condition of the godly and the wicked: The Happinesse of those; the unhappinesse of these.

1. The Happinesse of the Godly is, 1 Generally propounded: And 2 Particularly Expounded or Illustrated. I. Generally propounded, vers. 1, 2. And here the truly godly man is also described, both Negatively and Affirmatively. 1. Negatively, by his entire renouncing of all evil. This is laid down in a threefold Rhetorical Climax, or elegant climbing forme of speech, rising higher and higher. viz. 1 Of Actions; This blessed godly man walks not, stands not, sits not [p]. 2 Of things; In the Counsel, In the Way, In the Seat. 3 Of Persons; viz. Of the Wicked, Of Sinners [q], Of Scorners. ver. 1. 2. Affirmatively and Positively, by his cordial and constant pursuing of the contrary good. Where note two things; 1 His hearty affection to the Word of God; His delight is in the Law of the LORD. 2 His constant exercise in the Word of God; He meditates in his Law day and night [r], vers. 2. II. Particularly illustrated by the similitude of a Tree, 1. Richly planted: 2. Seasonably fruitful: 3. Constantly flourishing. Like which the godly still prospereth in all his wayes, ver. 3.

[p] Considerandus est ordo verborum, abiit, stetit, sedit. Abiit n. ille, cum recessit à Deo. Stetit cum delectatus est peccato. Sedit, cum in sua superbia confirmatur, redire non potuit. Aug. Enar. in Psal. 1. Tom. 8.

[q] Plus est via, quam Consilium; plus item stare, quam ambulare; plus etiam peccatores, quam impii seu improbi. Per peccatores enim designat perfrictæ frontis homines, quos nullius jam sceleris pudet, & hoc ipsum delectat peccare, etiamsi causa non sit. Quos idcirco peccatores nominat, & quidem Hebraicæ voce חַטָּאִים Chataim, quæ nomen substantivum est, quo obstirmatus peccandi habitus notatur. Sic Sodomitæ Gen. 13.13. & Amalekitæ, 1 Sam. 15.18. appellantur. Hanc vocem aliquid gravius significare, quam præcedentem, putat Ezra ad hunc locum: eamque esse priscorum sententiam affirmat. Simeon de Muis Com. in Psal. 1.1.

[r] ——Aut sine intermissione intelligendum est: aut Die, in lætitia; Nocte, in tribulationibus. Aug. Enarrat. in Psal. 1. Tom. 8.

2. The contrary Unhappinesse of the wicked is delineated, 1. By their opposite resemblance to Rootlesse, Fruitlesse, Livelesse chaffe-dust, scattered away with the winde, vers. 4. 2. By their utter Seclusion, both 1 From the priviledge of standing up in judgement. And 2 From holy and happy fellowship with the righteous, Heb. 12.22,23. vers. 5.

II. The original cause of this their so far different state: viz. The LORD's far different respect and carriage towards the righteous and the wicked. 1. He knoweth the way of the Righteous: therefore its implied it shall every way be happy and prosperous. 2. He knoweth not (as is consequently implied) the way of the wicked: and therefore (as is expressed) The way of the wicked shall §. III. The Order, Kind, Penman, and Occaſion of this Pſalme.

He is a bold man (ſaid Hierome) that after Peter would interpret this Pſalme, or think of this Pſalme any other thing then Peter hath ſpoken in the Acts of the Apoſtles [m]. Taking then our aime for the right expounding of this Pſalme, from the New Teſtament-light, wherein this Pſalme is ſundry times alledged, we may clearly and ſolidly judge as followeth, viz. As to the Order of it, That this is The ſecond Pſalme. ——— As it is alſo written in the ſecond Pſalme, Thou art my Son, this day have I begotten thee, Acts 13.33. And therefore that Opinion of the Hebrewes mentioned by Hierome, That this and the former make up but both one Pſalme, becauſe As the former begins, ſo this Pſalme ends with bleſſedneſſe [n]; is an unſound and erroneous Opinion as being expresly repugnant to the Letter of the New Testament. Nor is there any validity at all in the Reason brought for it.

As to the Kinde or Sort of it, That (if we look at the Subject-matter of it) it is mixt, being Prophetical and Doctrinal, but chiefly Prophetical. Under the Type of David and his Kingdome, Prophecying of Christ and his Kingdome. The Letter of it, at least in part, intends David and his temporal Kingdom, as the Type, verse 6, 7, 8, &c. compared with Psal. 89. 20. to 29. But the mystery, or mystical sense of it is Jesus Christ our Messiah the true David, Hos. 3. 5. Ezek. 34. 23, 24. and 37. 24. and his spiritual Kingdome in his Church, and over all for his Church, Luke 1. 32, 33. Eph. 1. 22, 23. as the Antitype. As appears by the New Testament's often applying of this Psalme to Christ, Act. 4. 24, 25, 26, 27, 28. and 13. 32, 33. Heb. 1. 5. and 5. 5. Revel. 2. 26, 27. This Psalme therefore in the Nature of it is principally Prophetical: And yet it cannot be denyed to be in part, Doctrinal, touching Christs Kingdome; Consolatory to the Church and Members of Christ; and Hortatory to the Kings and Judges of the Earth, verse 10. &c. So that it is of a mixt Nature. That (if we respect the outward Form of it) it is, as the First, An untituled Psalme [o], A Psalme without any Inscription prefixed in the Hebrew. If we look at the end of it, it is Consolatory.

o See on Psal. 1. § 4.

As to the Penman by whom the Holy Ghost committed it to writing, That it was David. God was the principal Author, David the instrumental; ——Lord, thou art God,——Who by the mouth of thy servant David hast said, Why did the Heathen rage, and the people imagine vain things? The Kings of the Earth stood up, &c. Act. 4. 24, 25, 26. &c.

As to the Occasion of Davids penning it, we have no particular certain discovery thereof. Though it may probably be conjectured, that David from the troubles and opposition he had in his Kingdom, and his settlement at last upon the Throne in despite of all, so that his Dominion reached not only to Jewes, but to forreign people, took occasion to prophesie (by the Guidance of Gods Spirit) of Christs Kingdom, the opposition against it, and the establishment and propagation of it, even unto the Gentiles, &c. so that here the Calling of the Gentiles is foretold.

§. IV. The Scope.

The Scope intended in this Psalme, is; Prophetically to describe and magnifie the spiritual Kingdom of JESUS CHRIST the Messiah, under the Type of Davids, As firmely and immoveably established by God, both in and over his Church, and over the Gentiles and the utmost ends of the Earth, for and to his Church, in despight of all Christs enemies Jewes or Gentiles, and their uttermost Oppositions: And to advertise Kings and Judges, much more all inferiour persons, to submit themselves to him and his Regal Dominion, lest otherwise they come to sudden and utter ruine.

§. V. The Analysis, or Principal parts.

The Holy Ghost by David in this Psalme, [1] Prophecieth; And [2] Exhorteth or Admonisheth.

I. Prophecieth, ver. 1. to 10. Here, he prophetically declareth and describeth, under the typical Adumbration of David and his Kingdom,

1. The persecuting rage and folly of Gentiles and Jewes, Kings and Rulers, against the Lord, his Christ, and his Kingdom. Where note, 1 The Nature, Variety, and Multitude of his enemies; 1 Gentiles. 2 People, viz. Jewes, 3 Kings, 4 Rulers. 2. The Acts of hostility and persecuting enmity, properly and peculiarly exercised by these enemies severally; 1 Gentiles, rage. 2 People, imagine, or conspire. 3 Kings, stand up. 4 Rulers, take counsel together. 3. The Adjunct-Causelessnesse and Fruitlessnesse of all these Acts and Attempts, laid down elegantly in way of interrogation; Why? A vain thing? 4. The Object of all this their persecuting enmity and malice; 1 The LORD. 2 His Annoynted David, in the Type: Christ, in the Truth, vers. 1, 2. 5. The Design chiefly intended by these enemies in all these their Actings; To shake off the Rule, Authority, Authority, Power, and Soveraign Government, which the LORD and his Christ had over them: and to free themselves from all service, obedience, and subjection to them; bands and cords being signes of subjection, &c. *Jer.*27.2,6,7. Job 39.15. *Ezek.*4.8. *Hos.*11.4. *ver.*3.

2. The LORD's deportment against all these enemies and their attempts, and in his Appearing vigorously for his Annoynted. Here the LORD is most elegantly personated and represented, 1. As securely laughing at their folly, and deriding them: Himself sitting in Heaven, out of their reach, observing all their wayes, being in a readinesse to crush them, and avenge himself and his Christ of them at his pleasure, *ver.*4. 2. As severely threatning them; To speak to them in his wrath; and To fright them in his Heat, or hot-anger, *ver.*5. 3. As utterly disappointing them: By Annoynting his King (Typically, David: Antitypically, Christ.) upon his Holy Hill of Sion. (A Figure p of the Church of God): And this, notwithstanding all their forementioned Rage, Plots, Endeavours, and Machinations to the contrary, *ver.*6. 4. As firmely Approving this his King by inviolable Decree. Here, David, or Christ, is brought in as Declaring this firme-Decree of the LORD: wherein are expressed two things, viz. First, A Description of the person designed and chosen to possesse and govern this Kingdom; Thou art my Son, this day have I begotten thee. Which principally agrees to Christ, he being Gods Sonne naturally and peculiarly, *Heb.*1,5. And he being singularly the begotten of God, vers. 7. By which words the Apostle proves Christs Resurrection from the dead, declaring him to be the Sonne of God with power, Act. 13. 32, 33. Rom. 1. 4. And by which he also asserts Christs Priest-hood, Heb. 5. 5. Secondly, a Description of the Kingdom given to David, in the Type; to Christ, in the Truth. This Kingdom is set forth, 1 Partly, by the intermediate cause going before the possession of this Kingdom, viz. His Intercession, Ask of me. 2 Partly, by the amplitude of his Kingdom granted to him: even over Heathen and utmost parts of the earth. 3 Partly, by the quality of this Kingdome, its to be his inheritance and eternal possession, *ver.*8. 4 Partly, by the manner of his Rule, viz. he will rule the Rebellious severely, with a Rod of Iron, &c. This is illustrated by an elegant similitude. He will consequently rule the obsequious graciously, clementlly, &c. This is synechdochically to be understood by the former, *ver.*9.

II. Exhorteth or Admonisheth (by way of an elegant Apostrophe, or turne of speech) all sorts duely to behave themselves towards the LORD's King, the LORD's sonne Christ. Here note, I. The Persons exhorted and admonished; Kings, Judges of the Earth. By a synechdoche understand all ranks and degrees of men. II. The season, when they are to perform their duty; Now. III. The Duty which they are to perform, viz. 1. To be wise, and Instructed, that is, by all this that hath been said by the Propher touching the LORD's King, *ver.*10. 2. To serve the LORD, and rejoyce in him. This is Amplified by the manner of performance, with feare, with trembling, vers.11. 3. To kisse the Son, that is, to professe, and testifie, and yield Affection, Allegiance, Homage and Subjection to the Son of God. This is urged, 1 Partly, from the great danger that will otherwise ensue, viz. Both of the Sons anger; And of their sudden destruction, perishing in the way. 2 Partly, from a comparing of the contrary happy condition of all such, as confide in him, flie-to-him-for-refuge or shelter, so doing fealty to him, *ver.*12.

p Sion is called The Lords Holy Mountain, Joel 3. 17. which he loved, Psal.78. 68. and where he would dwell for ever, Ps.132.13,14. from which the Law should come forth, Isai.2.3. §. III. The Kinde, Penman, Occasion, and Scope.

The Kinde of this Psalme, 1. As to the outward Mode or Forme of penning it, is A Titled Psalme: And it is the very first of all those Psalmes in this Book, that in the Hebrew hath a Title prefixed [h]. Excepting those Untituled Psalmes forementioned, on Psal. 1. §. 4. All the rest of the Psalmes following have some Title, Inscription, or Denomination prefixed to them in the Hebrew. Of the diversity of which Inscriptions or Titles, see what is formerly [i] written. Those Versions that omit the Titles found in the Hebrew, are imperfect and extreamly injurious to the Reader: thereby obscuring oft-times the true Sense, Occasion, and Scope of the Psalme. And in Chrysostomes judgement; As without a foundation the building is weak: So without the finding out of the Scope, the Scripture is unprofitable. Therefore that is a good note of Hierome's; By the Title we understand the meaning of any Psalme. What is the Title, but a Key? I may say, We enter not into the House but by the Key: So the minde of the Psalme is not understood but by the Key, that is, the Title; In whose person it is sung, whether in the Person of Christ, or in the Person of the Church, or in the Person of the Prophet [l]. And doubtlesse this present Psalme could never have been fully understood without the Title: But by the Title, both Penman, Time, and Occasion of writing it, as also the Scope and whole sense of the Psalm, are rendred most plain and easie, and all upon most undoubted certainty. 2. As to the Subject-matter contained in this Psalme, it is Petitory. The Psalme is a most earnest Pathetical Prayer of David, for Gods Salvation and Deliverance of him from the dangers and mischiefs of Absalom's rebellious conspiracy. It is but short, yet most pithy and fervent. The extremity of his Affliction, so much the more excited his Devotion. Augustine interprets this Psalm of Christ, and Judas [m], but not judiciously.

are

m Aug in Enarrat Ps. 3. Tom. 8

Penman of this Psalme, was David: as the Title indicates; A Psalme of David.

Occasion of Davids penning this Psalme, was; His own Sonne Absalom's unnatural Rebellion and Trayterous Insurrection against him: and Davids fleeing, for safety of his life, from the face of Absalom; as the Title signifies. His strong affections to Absalom, were one occasion of his strong and sore afflictions from Absalom. The History of this Rebellion: and how this was one judgment among others inflicted upon David for his defiling Bathshebah and murdering of Uriah, See in 2 Sam. 15. 10. &c. to chap. 20. compared with 2 Sam. 12. 9, 10, 11, 12. To this point speaks Chrysostome both appositely and elegantly; David flees from his sonne, because he had fled from Chastitie: He flees from his sonne, because he had violated chaste matriage. He fled from his sonne, because he had fled from Gods Commandement, which saith Thou shalt not kill, Thou shalt not commit Adultery. Because he had brought another's Shee-lamb into his own House, and had killed her Shepheard: The Hee-Lamb that was of his own House did with-horne-push him the Shepheard. He had brought Warre into another's House: and Warre is raised up against him out of his own House. This is not my imagination, its the LORD's saying, &c. 2 Sam. 12. ——Thou hast divided another's House with the Sword, and I will exercise the Sword against thee in thine own house. Behold I will raise up evil against thee out of thy house. Not from any where else without: but from thy house. Whence is the fountain of sin, thence is the stock of punishment. Because therefore he became an exile and fugitive from Gods Commandment: for this cause he fled from his son [n]. Thus he. O this was a woful occasion of David's flying from the face of Absalom, and of his penning of this Psalme, as is signified in this sad Title! A pious Prophet, flees from a prophane wretch; a righteous King flees from an unrighteous Subject; a godly Father, flees from his own ungodly Son: when David fled from the face of Absalom. O whether, and to what extremities will not scandalous sins bring even the deerest of Gods Saints and Servants! The Valiant and Victorious David, now runs away. Painters, Statuaryes, Engravers, People, Princes, Cities and Villages (said [o] he) do admire Conquerours: but who describes the image of him, that flees and fights not, as here David doth of himself ——O let this History be the rectification of thy life. Let this persecution of the righteous, be the confirmation of thy minde, viz. against all unrighteousnesse.

Scope of David in this Praying-Psalme, is; 1. Immediately, To importune the LORD, from consideration of the extream grievousnesse of his distresses through his sonne Absalom's rebellion, and of his secure dependance upon the LORD alone therein, To arise and save him from his Enemies and deep afflictions; as also to blesse his People Israel, among whom now many of them were sadly and sinfully ensnared to joyn with Absalom in his unnatural Insurrection. 2. Mediately, To warne and caution all Parents, To take heed of sinning against another's house or family, lest thereupon the LORD raise up affliction unto them out of their own Family: And yet even under such afflictions not to despond, but humbling themselves under his hand to fly to him by Faith and Prayer for succour and salvation out of all extremities.

§. IV. The Analysis, or Principal Parts.

The Title or Inscription prefixed in the Hebrew, declares, 1. The Denomination, or particular sort p In the Preface §. II.

q This is the first of those Psalmes wherin this word Selah is used. Here therefore once for all, it may not be amisse to adde something touching the sense and use of it. And I had rather do this in others expressions, then in mine own words. It is used thrice in this short Psalme, viz. in verse 2, 4, 8. and it is elsewhere used in sundry other Psalmes, and in the Prayer of Habakkuk, chap. 3. and not elsewhere. And this is very observable, That wherever it is used, that place or passage is very observable, and calls for some special elevated observation or meditation thereupon——.

sort of this Writing, A Psalme. Of the sense of which Word, formerly p. 2. The Penman of it, David. 3. The Time when, and Occasion whereupon David wrote it, When he fled from the faces of Absalom his sonne. This is, The Key of the Psalme.

The Psalme it self, being a pathetical prayer of David, contains

I. His sad complaint unto the LORD against his Enemies. In regard of 1. Their Multitude; How multiply'd! Many, Many. 2. Their Quality; (1.) Distressers: that brought him into extream straits and distresse, that he scarce knew what way to turn himself. (2.) Insurrectors: that did rebelliously and trayterously rise up against him their rightful King, verse 1. 3. Their cruelty and spiteful insolency; insulting over his very Soul and Life, as utterly desperate, yea, even past the help and relief of God himself. This he marks with a Selah, verse 2.

II. His professed affiance and confidence in the LORD alone nevertheless, against all these his Enemies and the great dangers brought upon him by them, verse 3. &c. which affiance is described,

1. By Gods Relations or Offices of favourable protection and support towards him in distresse and danger, apprehended by Faith, viz. 1. Against all his Enemies violence and injuries: His Shield. The All-sufficiency of which Shield is insinuated in the Phrase; A Shield about me. Securing him round on every side. 2. Against all reproach and ignominy: His Glory. 3. Against all present abject meanesse of his condition, or danger of ruine in his low estate; The up-lifter of his head, verse 3.

2. By his former Faith-supporting Experiences of the LORD's great goodnesse to him, viz. 1. In hearing his Prayer. Which is amplified, (1.) By the fervency of his Prayer, heard; He called or cryed to him with his voice. (2.) By the place whence the LORD vouchsafed to hear him; From the Hill of his Holinesse, i. e. From his Sanctuary, below: but especially from his Holy of Holies, Heaven above: which noted favor he marks with a Selah, verse 4. 2. In sustaining and protecting him in great security. Which security under Gods Protection is set forth by 1 His Lying down. 2 His Sleeping. 3 His Waking. And all in safety and security, verse 5.

3. By his Faith's Triumph in God over all his slavish feares, against greatest Armies and Multitudes of Enemies, even ten thousands surrounding him, verse 6.

III. His Petitions ushered in and enforced upon the foregoing Confiderations. Which are

1. For himself. That God would please now also to Arise and Save him, viz. From Absalom and his Adherents, and from all the afflictions, distresses, and dangers wherein they had involved him. This his request he further urgeth, 1. From Gods sufficiency to do it; being JEHOVAH. 2. From the dear Relation and Covenant-interest betwixt God and David, whence David perswaded himself of Gods willingnesse to do it; My God. 3. From Davids former eminent experiences of Gods delivering him from all his Enemies. Having (1.) Disgracefully subdued for him all his Enemies. Smiting them on the Cheek-bone, intimates, with reproach, disgrace, &c. as Job. 16. 10. (2.) Utterly broken-to-shivers the Teeth (the hurtful power) of the Ungodly, verse 7. 4. From the Nature and Office of God, to whom the help and salvation of his people chiefly and peculiarly appertains; Salvation to the Lord, verse 8. in the begin.

2. For Gods People Israel, (many of whom were seduced and misled into sinful compliance with Absalom in his horrid Rebellion,) That Gods blessing might be upon them. This request also he notes with an Emphatical, Selah q, verse 8.

Mark the words of some learned Authors, viz.

De voce Selah, non conveniunt inter se interpretes. Quidam tradunt, Affirmationis Notam esse, tantundemque valere, ac verè, aut Amen. Alii accipiunt pro Seculo. Sed quia סלל attollere significat, Probabilis est eorum Opinio, qui hac voce Elevationem in concentu notari putant. Quanquam simul tenendum est, Canendi modulos sententiæ aptatos fuisse, atque ita concentum cum re, vel subjecta materia (ut loquuntur) fuisse conjunctum. Sicuti nunc, postquam conquestus est David spem suam probrosè fuisse derisam, alsi nihil eum juvaret à Deo protegi, in hâc blasphemiâ insistit, quæ ejus animam graviter vulnerabat: sicuti paulò pòst, ubi sibi subjecit fiduciæ confirmationem, eandem vocem iterum repetet. Joan. Calvin. in Comment. ad Psal. 3. 2.

Q. Quis usus est istius clausulæ Sela? R. Significat hæc vocula Elevationem, aut Exaltationem. Notabat igitur olim exaltationem vocis in modulatione musica. Quia vero Musica sacra convenientiam habuit cum rebus Subjectis, idcircò notat etiam elevationem quandam sensus, una cum affectibus animi congruis. Ita ut non ineptè dicatur Interjectio, Asseverationi, Exaggerationi, Admirationi, & Exultationi deserviens. Guil. Ames. in Lection. ad Psalm. 3. Quæst. 7.

In fine hujus versus Hebraicè est סלה Sela, quæ vox ab Interpretibus variè redditur: Ab aliis, In seculum; Ab aliis, Sicest; A Græco, διάψαλμα: A Kimhi denique pro notâ elevandæ vocis in Cantu accipitur. Cujus opinionem potissimum sequor. Quanquam hic sine periculo erratur: cum ea res nihil aut parum ad sensum pertineat. Sim. de Muis in Com. ad Psal. 3. 3.

Sela] This word is not any where but in the Psalmes, and in Habakkuk. Some hold it to be a Terme of Musick, to mark a pause, or some elevation of the voice, or changing of Tune. Others will have it to be a sign of Exclamation, or Exaggeration. Jo. Diodate in his Annotat. on Psal. 3. 2.

Selah] This Hebrew word signifieth Elevation, or lifting-up: whether of the mind to mark; or of the voice, to strain it; or of both. And for the matter, it seemeth to import an Asseveration of a thing so to be, and an Admiration thereof. For the manner, it is a Note of singing high, and therefore it is used onely in Psalmes and Songs. And alwaies at the end of Verses, excepting some few places, Psal. 55. 20. and 57. 4. Hab. 3. 3, 9. where it is set in the the midst. The Chaldee paraphrast, and some other Hebrews, have turned it; For ever. Our Doctors of blessed memory have said, that every place where it is written, Netsach, Selah and ghined, there is no ceasing (or end) of that thing: saith R. Menachem on Levit. 25. The Greek Version makes it a musical notion, Diapsalma. Hen. Ainsworth in his Annotat. on Psal. 3. 3.

§. III.

§. III. The Kinde, Penman, Occasion and Scope.

The Kinde of this Psalme, 1. As to the outward Forme or Manner of penning it, is; Entituled. There being a Title prefixed to it, in the Hebrew. 2. As to the Subject-Matter of it, is: Mixt. Being Petitory, as verse 1, 6, 7, 8. Reprehensory, as verse 2. Instructive and Hortatory, as verse 3, 4, 5. For, herein the Psalmist, praying to the LORD for sundry blessings to himself in his great afflictions, reproves, instructs, and exhorts his enemies, procurers of his afflictions, to betake themselves to better courses, &c. Hierome makes this Psalme a Prophecy of Christ[m]: and Augustine somwhat leanes that way[n], but both of them without any just or sufficient ground.

Penman of this Psalme was David: as the Title declares.

Occasion of Davids penning it, is not expressed in the Title, as was in the Title of the third Psalme. Hence, Interpreters become of divers Opinions about it: fetching their conjectures from the substance of the Psalme. Generally most agree, That David wrote this Psalme when he was and had been long under persecutions by his Enemies. But which persecutions and of which Enemies, is the Question. Some [o] think David wrote this Psalme, as the third, upon Occasion of Absalom's rebellion: herein following Kimhi's Opinion. Others [p] think rather upon King Saul's long continued persecutions of David: which seems to be hinted in that reprehensory Expostulation in this Psalm; How long, O sonnes of men, &c verse 2. Some [q] think it uncertain and indifferent to referre it to either: and that the sense of the Psalme will suffer no detriment, taking it either way. Some [r] disliking both these Opinions, conjecture from some words in the Psalme, That David wrote this Psalme, when he was now about to begin Warre with his forreign Enemies, mentioned in 2 Sam. 8. for that, the Enemies here mentioned, verse 2. were not Israelites, sonnes of God: but Forreigners, sonnes of men. But this phrase [sonnes of men] doth not alwaies in Scripture import Heathens or Forreigners to the Church: but sometimes is used for Israelites within the Church, the more to check and take down their pride, &c. as in Psal. 58. 1. In midst of this variety and uncertainty it is hard to determine. I incline most to referre it to King Sauls persecution of him, which was long and tedious, and had almost wearied out David, verse 2. had he not been supported wonderfully by sweet experiences of Gods peculiar love and favour, verse 6, 7, 8. compare herewith 1 Sam. 18. 8, 9, 10, &c. to chap. 31. But let every one herein enjoy his own judgment.

Scope of David in this Psalme, is, 1. Primarily, To obtain of the LORD (as the sole Patron of his righteous cause against all his Enemies) audience and Divine favour: and especially, in lifting up the light of his well-pleased countenance upon himself and Gods people, as matter of his greatest joy, peace and security, verse 1, 6, 7, 8. 2. Secondarily, To check and convince the Enemies of his royal-glory and Kingdome, of their vanity and falshood in opposing him, whom the Lord had so marvellously-separated to himself for the Kingdome, and whose prayer he would hear. As also to direct and exhort them, upon due consideration, to repentance and reformation, betaking themselves to truly religious courses, verse 2. to 6.

§. IV. The Analysis, or Principal Parts.

The Title hath in it, 1. The Direction of it, as to the Musick: to be sung with stringed-Instruments. 2. The Denomination of it; A Psalme. Of a Metrical Sort. 3. The Penman; David.

In the Substance or Body of the Psalme it self:

I. David, by way of Exordium or Preface, beggs for Audience, and Gracious Acceptance. Whereunto he is encouraged, 1. From the Nature and Office of God: being the just Patron and Protector of his righteous cause. 2. From his former Experience of God's working enlargement for him in straits, verse 1.

II. David, in an Apostrophe or turne of his Speech to his Adversaries (by way of Digression,) sharply reproves them, verse 2. to 6. 1. Debasing them and their haughtinesse; O yee sonnes of man. 2. Convincing them of their long continued evil and malice against him, in indeavouring so long to cast ignominy and shame upon his Royal Glory and Dignity, whereunto God had Anointed him: All their attempts being 1 Vanity, 2 Lyes and Falshood: which he marks with a Selah, verse 2. 3. Informing them, 1 That, God had marvellously-separated the Gracious-one to himself, viz. David himself to be his King. 2 That God would hear his Prayer, viz. for himself, against his Enemies, verse 3. 4. Directing them to Repent and Reform their evil wayes. (Some [t] think that in verse 4, 5. David speaks rather to his friends then to his foes: but the continued Series of the words seems plainly to carry it still to his Enemies.) Particularly, 1 So to tremble and be moved with awe, viz. of God; as to cease [u] their sinful practises. 2 To consider their wayes, Speaking with their own hearts, in most secret retirement, on their Bed. 3 To study quietnesse, which he notes with a Selah, verse 4. 4 To Sacrifice to God righteous Sacrifices. 5 To place their trust in the Lord: and not in man, or vanities, &c. verse 5.

III. David Prayes for the Light of Gods favourable Countenance, upon himself and Gods people; ——upon us. Amplifying and Urging this request, 1. From the opposite, low, and confused wishes of the worldly multitude, verse 6. 2. From the surpassing sweetnesse and joy of Gods favour, experimented upon his own heart, farre above all worldlings joy in their Harvest and Vintage, verse 7. 3. From the great peace and security wherein he can confidently repose himself under Gods Love and Protection, verse 8.

A Psalme of David.

I.

1. O LORD, unto-my-words give-eare,
My meditation [a] weigh.
2. My King [b] and God, my Cry's voice hear,
For I to thee will pray.
3. LORD, early thou shalt heare my voice,
To thee at morning still
I'le-orderly-address; Likewise
To thee look-out-I-will.
4. For, thou art not a God, [c] that will

§. III. The Kinde, penman, Occasion, and Scope.

The Kinde of this Psalme, 1 As to the Outward Forme or manner of penning it, Is an Entituled Psalme q, as the third is: 2 As to the Subject-matter of it, Is A Prayer.

q See on Psal. 3. §. 3.

Penman of it was David, as the Title intimates; A Psalme of David.

The Occasion of Davids penning this Prayer, is hard to be determined particularly. Authors have several conjectures from some passages and expressions in the Psalme and Title. 1. Some think David here prayed for the Church of God (which himself, as Head of the People, represented) that God would defend her against her innumerable enemies, both false-hearted Hypocrites, and violent Tyrants. r. And they seem to ground their Opinion upon the word [Nechiloth] in the Title, which they render, super hæreditatibus; i. e. upon Inheritances, that is, For the Church or People of God, which are his Inheritance, as also God is theirs, as Augustine s notes. Thus some Jewish Writers have rendred it (as Sim. de Muis t notes) though other of them disallow it, and render it [Companies] viz. Hosts or companies of enemies opposing Israel. The Greek renders it ὑπὲρ τῆς κληρονομούσης, for the Heir: which Chrysostome u follows, and interprets it of the Church, as Heir of the everlasting Inheritance. The Latin, and Jerome, have it x; Pro ea quæ hæreditatem consequitur: i. e. for her that obtaines the inheritance. And they that go this way are of opinion, That this word contains the Argument of the Psalme: and that the word is used here in the plural number, that it may comprehend all the twelve Tribes, and so the whole Church gathered out of all Nations y. But these opinions seem not so solid, as to satisfie. For, (1) The Version of the word [Nechiloth] either Heyres, or Hoasts, Companies, &c. is not so approved. (2) Nor is there any mention here in the Psalme of Heires or Inheritances. (3) This makes the Titles of the Psalme ænigmatical, as if it had a riddle or some strange mystery in it. And I say with Calvin z: I like not these ænigmatical Inscriptions. They are too farre fetched and forced. (4) Besides, the word נחילות Nechiloth, comes from Chalil, a Pipe, Isa. 5. 12. And it signifies Winde-Instruments that have hollowness in them, as Flutes, Hoboyes, Cornets, Trumpets, Recorders, Organs, &c. As נגינות Neginoth, Psal 4. tit. signifies Stringed-instruments, viz. The Viol, Harp, Hapsidor, Virginals, Lute, &c. as many a think. 2. Some think David penned this Prayer when he fled from Absalom, and was vehemently exagitated and vexed by Achitophel and such like Pests. Or, when he fled from Saul, and was coursly used and accused by Doeg, and such wicked attendants upon Sauls Court b. 3. Some are of Opinion, That David wrote this Psalme when King Saul gave his Daughter (that was espoused to David) unto Adriel, 1 Sam. 18. 18, &c. For, those observers of David and false-hearted flatterers, mentioned, vers. 8, 9. seem to denote the subtilty of Saul and his Courtiers in that affair of marriage [c]. 4 But ſome unſatisfied with any of theſe, think; That David in this Pſalm complaines againſt the injuries of his enemies, not only for ſome one Particular time: but more generally of various Perſecutions wherewith Saul and his adherents afflicted him from time to time. Thus that judicious Calvin [d]. In all this variety of Conjectures, it is hard to fix upon this or that Particular Occaſion. But in the General, this is clear by the current of the Pſalme; That here David prayes for his own preſervation and Direction, but his Enemies deſtruction, upon Occaſion of their malice, ſubtilty, cruelty, wickedneſſe, &c. whereof he had had too much experience, whether in the dayes of Saul, or Abſhalom, &c. whereunto Pareus [e] ſeems chiefly to incline.

5. For, d who in Death remembreth thee?
Who ſhall give praiſe to thee in Grave?
6. I with my ſighing weary-grow,
e In every night through griefs and fears
I make my bed to ſwim and flow:
f My couch I water with my teares.
7. Mine ey's with indignation gnawn:
Growes-old through my diſtreſſers all,
8. g Ill-workers all from mee be gone:
The LORD hath heard my weeping's call.
9. The LORD my Supplication heard:
The LORD my Prayer h entertain'd.

§. III. The Kinde, Penman, Occaſion and Scope.

The Kinde of this Pſalme, 1 As to the Form or Manner of Penning it, is Entituled; Having in the Hebrew a Title prefixed, as many others have i: 2 As to the Subject-matter of it, Is a Prayer k, A moſt ſad Lamenting Prayer of the Pſalmiſt, in his extream ſickneſſe, as is commonly thought: though ſome (as after will appear) think otherwiſe. Hierome l ſaith; It is a Pſalme of Penitence, and he denies not to be amended and corrected, but not in anger, not in fury, becauſe he was weak, and his bones vexed, &c. This Pſalme hath been anciently reckoned among the Penitential Pſalmes (as they are called): And there are ſeven Pſalmes ſtiled Penitential, whereof this is the Firſt, viz. Pſal. 6. 32. 38. 51. 102. 130. 143. Theſe ſeven from their Nature and Subject-matter, or at leaſt from their Uſe, have been commonly called Penitential Pſalmes: For, (as one m obſerves) theſe ſeven Pſalmes were wont to be ſung when Penitents were publickly reconciled to the Church. And (as another notes) becauſe this Pſalme containes a manifold Doctrine of greateſt things, touching Sin, Gods wrath againſt Sins, Puniſhments, Repentance, and Faith accepting remiſſion of ſins, of all which it is neceſſary they ſhould think who are Converted to God, Therefore it was ſung and recited in the Church of every one daily among the Penitential Pſalmes, as they call them. For the life of a pious perſon ought to be a Perpetual Repentance n. And here, in this Pſalmiſt, we have an eminent

And there are ſome other Pſalmes, wherein ſin is confeſſed, bewailed, deprecated, or the pardon thereof earneſtly implored, as Pſal. 25 31. 39. 41. 69. 119. 141. which yet are not numbred among the Penitentials. Poſidonius reports of Auguſtine; That in his familiar diſcourſes he was wont to ſay; That after Baptiſme received, even the praiſeworthy Chriſtians and Miniſters ſhould not depart out of the Body without due and competent repentance. Which alſo himſelf did in his laſt ſickneſſe of which he dyed: For he commanded Davids Pſalmes of Repentance, Which are very few, to be written for him; And thoſe Quaternions placed againſt the wall, He lying in his bed in the dayes of his infirmity, beheld, and read, and wept conſtantly and abundantly: And took heed leſt his intention ſhould be hindred by any, &c p.

Quod etiam ipſe fecit ultimâ quâ defunctus eſt ægritudine: Nam ſibi juſſerat Pſalmos Davidicos, qui ſunt pauciſſimi de Pœnitentia ſcribi, ipſoſque quaterniones jacens in lecto contra parietem poſitos, diebus ſuæ infirmitatis intuebatur, & legebat, & jugiter ac ubertim flebat: & ne intentio ejus à quoquam impediretur, cavebat, &c. Poſid. de vita Auguſtin. cap. 31. Tom. 1. oper. Auguſtin.

Penman of this Pſalme, was David: as the Title informs us.

Time when, and Occaſion whereupon, David penned this Prayer, can hardly be particularly defined upon any certainty. Some q think David wrote this Prayer upon Occaſion of ſome extream dangerous and mortal Sickneſſe or Diſeaſe that was upon him: becauſe he mentions, the terrifying of his bones, craves healing, &c. ver. 2. and becauſe the word אמל there uſed ſignifies, to be ſick. Or at leaſt that he wrote this Pſalme as a Form of Prayer to be at hand to ſuch as ſhould fall into any dangerous ſickneſſe. Calvin r thinks their reaſons not cogent, becauſe theſe words of ſickneſſe, healing, &c. may be taken Metaphorically. Therefore, he and others ſconceive, That David by his enemies was brought into ſome extream danger of death and deſtruction, which ſo deeply affected his Spirit, that he thereby alſo fell into ſome mortal corporal diſeaſe, reflecting upon his ſins and apprehending the dreadfulneſſe of Gods wrath, &c. And this opinion ſeems of all other beſt, becauſe David having obtained audience and aſſurance of relief from the LORD againſt his diſtreſſe, in the three laſt verſes by an Apoſtrophe turnes his ſpeech to his enemies, and thereupon triumphs over them, and prayes againſt them; which intimates, that they were the chief cauſes and occaſions of theſe his mortal dangers and diſtreſſes. But what enemies, or what diſeaſe, in particular we may here underſtand: is uncertain.

q So the Heb. Doctors. and Sim. de Muis in Arg. Pſal. 6. ——H. Ainſw. in Contents of Pſal. 6. Large Engl. Annot. on Pſal. 6

Scope is to ſhow; That David in his deepeſt diſtreſſes and moſt deadly dangers, was moſt of all afraid of Gods wrath therein, yet found relief and comfort by preſenting his complaint in fervent Prayer to the LORD. And anſwerably, That the people of God, involved in extreameſt diſtreſſes and dangers of death, and moſt of all perplexed therein under apprehenſions of Gods wrath, yet flying to the LORD for ſuccour by faith with fervent cryes and teares, ſhall at length finde comfortable acceptance, audience, and deliverance. The extremities of their diſtreſſes may be deep, but never deſperate.

Shiggajon of David, which he sang to the LORD, upon the words of Cush sonne of Jemini.

I.

1. O LORD my God, I-do-repose-
-My-confidence in thee:
From all my a persecuting foes
Save and deliver mee.
2. Lest he my Soul in-pieces-teare,
Like Lyon that doth rend:
Mee tearing, b whil'st none doth appear
To rescue or defend.

3. O LORD my God, (judge thou for mee,)
If I effected this,
c Or if within mine c hands there bee
Such vile-injuriousnes.
4. If ill to him reward did I
That-was-with-mee-at-peace:
(Yea my distresser causlesly,
I safely did release.)

5. Let th' foe my Soul d pursue and take,
And tread my life down thrust
Unto the Earth: And let him make
My glory dwell in dust. Selah.
6. In thy displeasure, LORD, up-rise,
e For my foes rage up-stand:
Do thou wake-up to-mee likewise,
Thou judgment didst command.

7. And peoples Congregation Shall thee encompass then,
And for-its-sake to thine high throne
Do thou return again.
8. The LORD will judge the peoples case,
O LORD now judge thou mee
According to my righteousnesse,
f And mine integritee.

II.

9. O let the wickeds malice cease,
But stablish thou the just:
Because, O God of righteousnes,
Try hearts and reins thou dost.
10. My shield's g in God, the Saviour
Of h men upright in brest.
11. Just Judge is God: i Each day and hour
God doth the bad detest.

12. If he turne not, he whets his sword,
His bowe bends, k makes-it-ready.
13. And hee l death's tooles for him prepar'd,
His shafts m he-ordered-steady
Against hot-persecuting-foes.
14. Lo, of iniquity
Hee travels: Mischief hath conceiv'd,
And shall bring forth a ly.

15. Hee digg'd a pit, n delv'd it: and fell Into the ditch hee made.
16. All his injurious mischief shall Return upon his head:
And on his pate his o wrong descend.

§. III. The Kinde, Penman, Denomination, Occasion and Scope.

The Kinde of this Scripture, 1. As to the Forme of penning it, is: Entituled. Having in the Hebrew a Title q prefixed. 2. As to the Subject-matter of it, is, A Prayer. A Prayer against false-accusers, slanderers.

Penman of it was David: as the Title declares.

The Denomination of it is somewhat unusual; Shiggajon of David——: the word being used in the Title of Songs, only here, and in Hab. 3. 1. The Heb. word is derived from Shagah, which is used for Delight, or wandring in Pleasure, Prov. 5. 19, 20. hence comes Shegioth, errors, Psal. 19. 12. And Shiggajon here, which properly signifies, Aberration, or Ignoration: And (as Buxtorf notes) it may import, An Erratick-Song, A various mixt Song, &c. to be sung with all variety of Musical Tunes and Notes, thinks Junius. Perhaps with all variety of Musical Instruments. And consisting of various Subject-Matters. According to which (saith H. Ainsworth) we may name this Song, David's Delight, or Solace. Or in the other signification, Davids Error: As setting forth the summe of his cares, which made him almost to go astray. The Chaldee Expounds it; Davids interpretation of the Law s. So he. It is confessed by the learned in the Hebrew-Tongue, q See Psal. 3. §. 3.

r שגיון Shiggajon Cautio erratica, Psal. 7. ver. 1. id est, varia, quæ omnibus rationibus musicæ decantabatur simul. Vocabulum musicum est, cujus ratio Hæbreis ignota. Buxtorf. in Lex. ad verb. Hebr. Ode Erratica, i.e. multiplex canta, quæ omnibus rationibus musicæ decantabatur simul. Fr. Jun. in Annot. ad Psal. 7. 1. s H. Ainsworth in his Annotat. ad Psal. 7. 1.

to be a musical term or word, unknown to the Hebrews themselves. And most Writers are very doubtful what the true meaning of it should be. For, as divers Authors do declare[t], Some think, it was the beginning of some well known Song, according to which this Song was to be tuned: as Ezra. Vatablus, Avenareus, Shindlerus. Some, that it was some kinde of symphony, or consort: as Kimchi. Some, that it was a Musical Instrument, whereon the fingers did wander this way and that way whilest the strings were struck. Some, that it was a certain kinde of melody, that is, of Song: as one should say, a Sapphick, or Phaleucian verse. So Calvin. Some, that שגיון Shigghjon is a profession of innocency; Or, a denial of the Calumny, of one not acknowledging the crimes objected. For שגה Shagah, signifies, to erre, To do any thing, or to sin through ignorance or incogitancy. So Mollerus. The truth is, its hard to say certainly what the meaning of the word is: About it, one may be ignorant, doubt, or mistake, without any danger to Faith or Manners.

Occasion of Davids Penning this Song, is more Material to be considered. The Title points it out, thus;—which he sang to the LORD, upon the words of Cush sonne of Jemini. The word כוש Cush signifies, an Ethiopian, a Black-moore, &c. It was first the name of Cham's sonne, Gen. 10. 6. 1 Chron. 1. 8. From whom both Arabians and Ethiopians, as also Ethiopia have received their names, as Bucktorf notes[u],) compare 2 King. 19. 9. with 2 Sam. 18. 21. Jer. 13. 23. But who this Cush was which is here mentioned, Interpreters are not agreed 1. Chrysostome [x] thinks this Cush was Hushai the Archite, Davids friend, who in the time of Absholom's rebellion defeated the Counsel of Achitophel, and sent to David not to remain in the wilderness, lest Absholom should surprize him, 2 Sam. 17. 15, 16, &c. Augustine [y] also leanes this way: though afterwards (as his manner is too frequently and groundlesly in the Psalmes) he turnes all into an Allegory. But Hierome sharply refells this Interpretation as arising from the ignorance of the Heb. Language. And addes reasons against it, too large to recite [z]. 2. Some take this word Cush here, Appellatively. And so they interpret it [1] Either of King Saul. That he is called Cush, i. e. an Ethopian, from his bloody, vile, and cruel manners, and that this whole Psalm was written against Saul, who persecuted David and fell into the ditch that he had digged. And he was of the Tribe of Ben-jamin, whereunto the family of Jemini belonged, 1 Sam. 9. 1, 2. of this opinion is Hierome [a]. And (saith Muis) almost all the Rabbines, besides Ezra, think that Saul is noted by the word Cush, which sounds an Ethiopian, i. e. A wicked and profligate man, that will no more change his manners and disposition, then an Ethiopian his skin, according to that of Jeremy, Chap. 13. 23. And whilest he names him Cush, he alludes to Kish Sauls Father. Which the Chald. Paraphrase also intimates; which in stead of Cush son of Jemini, hath Saul the son of Kish which was of the Tribe of Benjamin. Nor matters it that one is written by Caph, the other by Koph [b]; thus he. 2 Or of Shimei, a man of the family of the house of Saul, who cursed and cast stones at David, flying from Absholom his sonne, 2 Sam. 16. 5, 6, 7 8. And that he was called Cush, because he was black, and an enemy to Israel, the Church of God. As among the Latines Niger a black man, is put for a Reprobate; Hic niger est, hunc tu Romane caveto. Thus [c] Mollerus. Hierome also joynes Saul and Shimei together as both here intended [d]. 3. But some [e] had rather take this word Cush properly, As the Proper Name of some Kinsman or Favorite of K. Saul, who as a pick-thank Parasite or flattering Courtier, had falsly accused David to K. Saul, as if he had devised to kill him, or contrived some other desperate mischief against him. Of which base and false slanders David purgeth himself convincingly before Saul himself, in 1 Sam. 24. 9, to 16. And here in this Psalm he seems to appeale to the LORD himself touching his innocency in this matter, Psalme 7. 3, 4, 5. And hereunto the Psalme most fitly agrees. And this Opinion seems best to set forth the Occasion of this Psalme. If any think that Doeg who unworthily accused David, 1 Sam. 22. 9, &c.) was this Cush; Let him enjoy his judgement: the Psalm may agree thereunto.

§. IV. The Analysis, or Principal parts.

The Title contains, 1. The Denomination of this part of Scripture; Shiggajon f. 2. The Penman of it; David. 3. The Occasion; which he sang to the LORD upon the words of Cush sonne of Jemini.

f Besides what hath been noted touching this word in the former Section, I finde one of somewhat a singular Opinion in interpreting it, which yet is not to be contemned, viz. That Shiggajon contains the general Argument of the Psalme, and notes the Aberration and peregrination of David, when he was exiled from the Court, and wandred here and there that he might provide for safety of his own life, &c. Generale Argumentum Psalmi in dictione שגיון Shiggajon, quæ notat aberrationem & peregrinationem Davidis, quando primum exulabit ab aula, & huc illuc aberrabat ut vitæ suæ consuleret. The Psalme it self, which is A Prayer against his cruel and slandering Persecutors, containes

I. Davids Petitions to the LORD his God. Which are,

1. For the LORD's manifestation of his mercy upon himself, in preserving and delivering him from his Persecutors. Which request he urgeth, 1. From his Relation to him; my God. 2. From his affiance in him, and relyance upon him, verse 1. 3. From the Lyon-like fierceness of his Enemy, against him. 4. From his own destitution of help, helplessnesse, verse 2. 5. From the justice and integrity of his cause. And here 1 He declares his utter innocency and guiltlesnesse in regard of all those things wherewith his enemies maliciously charged him, verse 3, 4. 2 He amplifies this, demonstrating his innocency, by his releasing of his enemy when in his power, as 1 Sam. 24. 3. to the end, and Chap. 26. 7. to 13. thus recompensing good for evil g, verse 4. 3 He hypothetically submits himself to the uttermost mischief his enemy could bring upon him, if he were guilty, verse 5. This hath in it the forme and force of an Imprecation.

2. For the LORD's declaration of his Justice upon his Distressers. Here, 1. He excites God to certain judiciary Acts, gradually expressed. As, To awake-up. To rise-up. To lift-up himself in anger. To return to the High-place (viz. To his Throne of Judgment. Thrones were usually set up on high, 1 Kings 13. 19.) verse 6, 7. 2. He urgeth the LORD hereunto, (1) From his distressers manifold rage. (2) From Gods own appointment of the judgment desired, verse 6. (3) From the Praises that shall generally redound to God, once appearing on his Throne of Judicature, verse 7. (4) From Gods Office, which is to do Judgment, verse 8. (5) From Gods Omniscience and Justice, rendering him the fittest Judge, verse 9.

g Reddere bonum pro malo, Divinum: Reddere bonum pro bono, Humanum: Reddere verò malum pro bono Diabolicum.

II. David's Profession of his full affiance and confidence in the LORD: That he will mercifully protect the righteous, verse 10. And deal severely with the wicked. Because, 1. God is a just Judge. 2. God is daily angry with the wicked, verse 11. 3. God makes many preparations of judgment against the wicked, if he repent not and return from his evil, verse 12, 13. 4. God already blasteth all his wicked devices, verse 14. 5. God returneth all his mischief upon his own head, ver. 15, 16. For all which his righteous proceedings, David resolves to render thankful praises to the LORD, verse 17.

§. III. The Kinde penman, Occaſion, and Scope.

The Kinde of this Pſalme, 1 As to the Forme or Manner of Penning it, is, Entituled: Having in the Hebrew a Title prefixed. 2 As to the Subject Matter of it, is, Mixt of Doctrine or Hiſtory and Propheſie. Being a Doctrinal or Hiſtorical and Prophetical prayſing of God for his excellent Glory ſhining forth, much in the Creature; more, in Man; moſt of all, in Chriſt. Thus ſome among the Ancient [k], moſt among the Modern Writers [l], do in effect interpret this Pſalme: though in ſome particular interpretations and accommodations there are ſome diverſities among them. 1. Some indeed account this Pſalme meerly Prophetical: and ſo are forced to turn a great part thereof into groundleſſe Allegories, as verſ. 3,4,7,8. thus Hierome [m]. But this way of interpreting it, cannot be ſo ſolid: becauſe there are ſundry paſſages in the Pſalme plainly Doctrinal and Hiſtorical, ſetting forth Mans Eminent Prerogative by Creation above all the Creatures here below, as verſe 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8. And to turne all theſe into Allegories, would be to offer too much violence to the words. 2. Few, if any, interpret this Pſalme of Man, or Mankinde alone. For, That were evidently to oppoſe the unqueſtionable Authority of the New Teſtament, which, more then once alledging this Pſalme, refers the paſſages to Chriſt, or to things concerning Chriſt: *compare Pſal.*8.2, with Matth. 21.16. as alſo Pſal. 8.4,5 6. with Heb. 2.6,7,8, 9. 1 Cor. 15.27. Epheſ. 1.22. 3. Moſt judge this Pſalm to be of Mixt Nature, Doctrinal, Prophetical, and Euchariſtical, As ſetting forth and highly extolling the wondrous-Excellency of the LORD's Name in all the Earth, and his glorious Majeſty above the Heavens, In the works of Creation, and particularly in Man by Creation highly advanced above all Sublunaries, But above all in Jeſus Chriſt the Head and Glory of Mankind, by whom Humbled and Exalted, Mankind is again reſtored to his Con-created dignity, which he loſt by the fall of the firſt Adam. So then (as one intimates) This Pſalme is to be underſtood, of Chriſt the Head, and of Mankind, eſpecially of the Faithful, as his Members [n]. Hence, one thus gives the ſumme of the latter part of this Pſalme; A Prophecy of Chriſt his Humiliation, Glory, and Dominion [o]. And Chryſoſtome accounting this Pſalme at leaſt in part Prophetical, hath ſundry Elegant paſſages in applying it to Chriſt. Take one among the reſt; P——How wonderful is thy Name? For in this Name, Death, is looſed; The Devils are bound; Heaven, is opened; The Gates of Paradiſe, are ſet open; The Spirit, is ſent down; Servants, are become Freemen; Enemies, Sons; Aliens, Heires; Men, Angels; What ſay I, Angels? God is become Man, and Man God: Heaven hath received the Nature which was from the Earth, and Earth hath received him that ſits above the Cherubims with the Angelical Hoaſt.

Penman of this Pſalme was David, as the Title ſignifies.

Time when, and Occaſion whereupon David Penned this Pſalme is not ſo certainly and undoubtedly known. 1. One thinks [q] that David wrote it after he had ſmitten the Philiſtines, and taken the City Gath out of their hands, 2 Sam. 8.1. and 1 Chron 18.1. Or when he had overcome all his enemies mentioned in 2 *Sam.*8. That then he ſung this as a Triumphal-Pſalme unto the LORD. But that David in this Pſalme was a Type of Chriſt, in whom thoſe things are ſpiritually fulfilled which here were literally done by David So he. 2. Another opinion is [r]; That theſe three Pſalmes (wherein על הגתית Gual Hagittith, upon Gittith, is found in the Title) *viz. Pſal.*8. and 81. and 84. were Penned to be ſung at the Vintage, when their Grapes were gathered and preſſed, and their Fats did burſt forth with New Wine. Foraſmuch as גתית Gittith may ſeem to come from גת Gath, A Wine-preſs. See Joel 3.13. *Nehem.*13.15. And according to this the Greek tranſlateth it;——The Wine-preſſes. 3. Tremellius and Junius choſe this Interpretation (among many) and like it beſt. *viz. There are onely three Pſalmes that have this Inſcription, Pſal.*8.81. and 84. All which David ſeemes to have written, when thinking to have brought up the Ark from Kiriath-jearim to Sion, he left it at the houſe of Obed-Edom the Gittite, becauſe of the breach made upon Uzzah: and that he took occaſion from the then preſent affaires to write theſe three Pſalmes. Therefore he wrote this eighth Pſalme (in his judgement) and ſung it, when he brought the Ark from the City of Woods (i.e. Kiriath-jearim) to the houſe of Obed-Edom, 2 Sam. 6.10,11. 1 Chron. 13.5. to 13. The 81. Pſalme, when God by his breach upon Uzzah teſtified his Glory and the ſeverity of his judgements, to keep the people in their Duty and Religion more effectually, 2 *Sam.*6.1. to 10. 1 *Chron.*13 5, to 13. And Pſal. 84. when the Ark was now to be brought thence unto Sion, 1 Chron. 15. 25, &c. and 16.1. wherefore theſe Pſalmes are ſaid to be written at the Gittbean-way, commoration, ſtation, obſervation, or if there be any thing elſe to expreſſe what I would. So [s] Junius. And this Opinion is rendred the more probable, 1. Partly, becauſe there is ſuch mention of Muſical Inſtruments, Singers, &c. at the bringing up of the Ark, 1 Chro. 13.8. and 15.28. And Interpreters here are in ſome ſuſpence, whether the word Gittith [t] in the Title may not import, ſome Muſical Inſtrument, or ſome kind of Tune, or the beginning of ſome known and famous Song. 2. Partly, becauſe after the Ark was brought to Sion, and placed there in Gittith] or, The-Gittith, which Title is alſo given to the 81. and 84. Pſalmes. Gath in Hebrew is a Wine-preſs, *Iſa.*63.2. It is alſo the name of a City of the Philiſtines, 1 *Sam.*17.4. A City alſo of the Levites was called Gath-rimmon, *Joſh.*21.25. whereupon Obed-Edom the Son of Jeduthun, a Levite and Singer in Iſrael, was called a Gittite, 2 Sam 6.10. midst of the Tent which David had pitched for it, Another Psalme was appointed to be sung. See 1 Chro. 16.7, &c. with my Exposition on Psal. 105. §. 3. whence it's very probable that from first to last many Psalmes were sung in that Extraordinary Solemnity of bringing up the Ark from Kiriath-jearim to Sion. 3. Partly, because Jesus CHRIST the great Antitype of the Ark, is the chief Subject-Matter of this Psalme, as Interpreters do well observe from the Allegations thereof in the New Testament, In whom especially Gods glorious Excellency is here most highly extolled, even unto admiration. Let the Judicious weigh all things.

Scope intended in this Psalme, is; Emphatically to extol and set forth, even to Admiration, the LORD's wonderful and transcendently-excellent Glory, shining forth singularly in Man, but most Illustriously in Man's Head and Redeemer JESUS CHRIST, both Abased and Exalted. Compare verse 2. with Matth. 21. 16. and verse 4,5,6. with Heb. 2.6,7,8,9. 1 Cor. 15.27. Ephes. 1.22.

§. IV. The Analysis, or Principal Parts.

The Title declares, 1. The Direction of it, as to the Musick; To the Master-Musician upon Gittith. 2. The Denomination of it; A Psalme. 3. The Penman of it; David.

In the Psalme it self, note

I. A General Declaration of the LORD's transcendent Glory u, even unto Admiration, 1. In all the Earth. 2. Above the very Heavens, verse 1.

II. A Particular Illustration of his admirable Glory, shining forth resplendently in Man, but especially in Christ. And this, I. By the common Testimony of all: Though Babes and Sucklings; Though Enemies. See Psal. 29 1. and 96. 7. and 118. 14. God hath laid a Foundation of strong-praise, even in the mouths of Babes and Sucklings, to convince and silence all the enemies of his Glory, of his surpassing gloriousnesse. This is fulfilled, 1 Ordinarily, in Infants wonderful Production, Preservation, Qualification, &c. 2 Extraordinarily, by the Childrens Acclamations to Christ in the Temple, saying, Hosanna to the Sonne of David, Matth. 21.15, 16. verse 2. II. By comparing them to the Heavens and the Celestial Luminaries: All which, Man, but especially Christ incomparably surpasseth, even unto Admiration, verse 3, 4. III. By pointing out and demonstrating the Particulars whereby God becomes so glorious in Man, and in Christ. And this is done, 1. In a way of Concession. Granting that they were indeed made a little lower then the Gods, i.e. the Angels, as Heb. 2. 7, 9. Psal. 97. 7. Job 1. 6. and 38. 7. viz. Man, by his Creation; Christ, by his Humiliation. Heb. 2. 9. verse 5. 2. In a way of indignation or delineation, viz. 1 Of their Personal Honour and Glory wherewith they are crowned. Christ, by his Exaltation: Man, by being advanced to glory by Christ, Heb. 2. 9. verse 5. 2 Of their Universal Dominion over all Creatures. Man's, by Creation, Gen. 1. 26. and Restauration by Christ the Redeemer, Eph. 1.10. Col. 1.20. Christ's, by his Exaltation, Eph. 1.20,21,22. Phil. 2.9,10,11. verse 6,7,8.

III. A Laudatory Conclusion, repeating part of the General Declaration and Propositon, verse 1. And so the Psalme begins and ends with an Eucharistical Celebration of Gods Name and Glory, even unto Admiration: his Name and Glory being, beyond all blessing and all praise, most admirable, verse 9.

u God is very glorious in man, as his Creature: in Christians as his new-Creatures: in Christ, as mans Head and Redeemer: in the Ark, as the Antitype of Christ.

§. III. The Kinde, Penman, Occasion and Scope.

The Kinde of this Psalme, 1 As to the outward Forme or Manner of Penning it, is; Entituled. A Title being prefixed to it in the Hebrew. 2 As to the Subject-Matter of it, is; Mixt. Being Eucharistical, and Euctical: made up of Praise, and Prayer.

Penman of it, was David: as the Title indicates.

Occasion of Davids Penning this Psalme can scarce be Particularly defined upon any certainty. In the General, It seems evident from the Subject-Matter and Current of the Psalme, that David wrote it upon Occasion of some Eminent Deliverance and Salvation which the Lord had wrought for him, in some great strait, from his enemies. See verse 3. to 11. But about the Particular Occasion learned Authors have have various Conjectures: most of them drawn from their various Interpretation of some words in the Title. Which Title, among the Obscure Titles of the Psalmes, is one of the most obscure and intricate [t]. As one observes. The Difficulty rests especially in those words על מות לבן Ghual-muth Labben. I. Some do sever or divide the former word עלמות Ghual-muth, upon The death: and assert that it is two words contracted into one. But then they disagree about the interpretation of the latter word לבן Labben. For 1. Some of the Hebrew-writers render it; upon the death of the Sonne, i. e. of Absalem. But Rasi likes not this interpretation, (saith [u] S. de Muis) because it is not written הבן Habben, but לבן Labben, and because there's nothing in this Psalm that favours that Opinion. 2. Som take the word לבן Labben properly, for the proper name of some man, called Labben. But who this Labben should be they cannot well resolve. Whether some chief among the Commanders in the enemies Army, that was slain: or some Chief-Singer, mentioned (say they) in 1 Chron. 15. but no such name is found in that Chapter, unlesse Ben, verse 18. be intended. Both these are rejected [x], as unsatisfactory. 3 Some think לבן Labben to be נבל Nabal, by transposition or Inversion of the Letters, which are the same in both: and that this Psalme was written by David after the Death, or upon the Death of Nabal the Carmelite, the foolish husband of that prudent Abigail. But such transposition is not here necessary: And if the word be taken for a Man, it seems to point out the death of some enemy to Israel; whereas we read not that Nabal hurt any Israelite, but onely churlishly and covetously denyed refreshment to David and his men [y]. 4. Some think לבן Labben the same, as if it were written with י thus לבין. And that so, it points out Goliath: who is called איש הבינים Ish Habbenajim, vir intermedius; or, vir meditatum, i. e. A middle man, &c. 1 Sam. 17. 4. viz. An intermiddle-Champion between the two Armies of Israel and the Philistines, who challenged any man of Israel to come and fight with him and end the controversie betwixt Israel and the Philistines by a single Duel. And to this effect they would have this Psalm to be Carmen victoriae, A Victorial Song, Penned upon Occasion of Davids slaying this Goliath. Thus the Chald. Paraphrast renders it; upon the death of the man that went out between the Camps [z]. Kimchi, and others also thus interpret it: Sim. de Muis somewhat inclines to this Opinion. But the History easily refutes this Opinion; For in this ninth Psalme, verse 11. 14. There's mention of Sion, of the Gates of the Daughters of Sion, of praising the LORD therein, of the LORD dwelling in Sion: when as Sion was yet in the hands of the Heathen when Goliath was slain. And saith Mollerus, All these Interpretations a skilful Grammarian may easily and without trouble refute [b], &c. II. Others do take this עלמות to be but one word, and so read it, Ghualmuth. And yet these do not agree among themselves about the sense of it. For, 1. Some render it, Secret, Hidden, &c. ——For the hidden things of the Sonne: or, For the secrets of the Sonne. So the Greek Version of the LXX [c]; So the vulgar Latin; So the Ethiopick [c]. Hieronime [d] also renders it, pro absconditis filii, for the hidden things of the Sonne, viz. not of Absalom, but of Christ, as he understands this Psalme, discoursing of it at large. Thus also Lyra [e] expounds it, counting it one word, and saith he saw these words severed in no Copy. 2. Some interpret the former word; For youth: in which sense the word is used in Psal. 48. 15. He will guide us in youth. The other word לבן Labben, they render; white, candid, &c. As if the Psalme were written, for white youth, i. e. for the Church, which is a faire and flourishing youth. Which Interpretation, saith Moller [f], though plausible, and congruous to the Argument, yet because לבן agrees not in Gender with the former word, Grammer is repugnant to this Opinion. 3. Some take it for a Musical Instrument, and לבן Labben for the name of a Singer, mentioned 1 Chron. 15. But this name לבן Labben is not found in that Chapter, but onely בן Ben, verse 18. 4. Finally, Some count these words to be the beginning of some famous and well-known Song, to the Tune whereof this Psalme was to be Sung: A Tune much like our Counter-Tenour. This Calvin and others like best [g]. And this in midst of all these uncertainties may be as probable as any.

But here every one is at liberty to enjoy his own judgment: and there is no great peril of erring in a matter of this Nature.

Some seem to take this Psalme to be a Prophetical Psalme touching Christ the Son of God, Scope of the Psalmist in this Laudatory and Petitory Psalme, (there's no colour for making it a Prophetical Psalme in whole or in part,) is; To praise the LORD for his righteous proceedings against his, and his peoples enemies, vers. 1. to 13. And to intreat the LORD for his gracious assistance against all wicked foes, Heathens, and others, for time to come, vers. 13, &c.

scattering all his enemies, especially Antichrist, and Possessing the Kingdom. In the Polyglott Bible, the Greek Version of the Lxxij both Vatican & Alexandrian, render it; ὑπὲρ τῶν κρυφίων τοῦ υἱοῦ, i. upon the secrets of the Son. The Syriack thus; Concerning Christ taking the Throne and Kingdome, and profligating the enemy. The Arabick thus; Touching the Mysteries of the Son, as to Christs Glory, his Resurrection, Kingdome, and the death of all disobedients. It seemes to me (saith one) As the former Psalme was of the Propagation of Christs Kingdome, So this is of the Destruction of Antichrists. H. Ainsworth in his Annotat. on Psal. 9.1. ——Pro absconditis filii——] Licet Aquila pro absconditis filii Adolescentiam filii posuerit, tamen sciendum in Hebræo haberi, pro morte filii. Denique & Symmachus in hunc modum transtulit; pro victoria de morte filii. Totus igitur Psalmus per Tropologiam ad Christi pertinet Sacramentum. Unde & Lxx interpretes, Christi Passionem & Resurrectionem, quæ ignota prius mundo fuit, per verbum Absconciones celare voluerunt: ne à Gentibus illo tempore facile noscerentur, &c. Hieronym. in Comment. ad Psal. 9.1. Tom. 8.

But unlesse we had some just ground from the Subject-matter of this Psalme itself, or from some other part of Holy Scripture, neither of which are evident, it seems very hard and strange to rank this among the Prophetical Psalmes.

§. IV. The Analysis, or Principal Parts.

In the Title, note; 1. The Direction of it, as to the Musick of it; To the Master-Musician. 2. The Occasion of it, darkly hinted, as some think: Or, the Musical-Instrument, or Tune, to which it was to be accommodated, as others; עַל מוּת לַבֵּן 3. The Denomination of it; A Psalme. 4. The Penman of it; David.

The Psalme it self contains; 1. Praise, and 2. Prayer.

I. David praiseth the Lord, verse 1. to 13. And here are declared, or laid down

I. His pious Resolution, 1. To confess to the LORD, Cordially and entirely. 2. To declare all his marvells, verse 1. 3. To be glad and rejoyce in him. 4. To sing to his name, ver. 2.

2. The ground or reason of this his pious and thankful Resolution, viz. His Enemies turning back, stumbling, and Destruction from Gods face, i. e. From his powerful and angry presence. This imports the LORD's just execution of Judgement upon his wicked Enemies, ver. 3. to 11. This is illustrated by considering Gods Justice, Absolutely, and Relatively. I. Absolutely, and that 1. As vindicating David's just cause; judging righteously, ver. 4. 2. As Rebuking, Destroying, and utter-abolishing the Enemy, verse 5. II. Relatively, and comparatively by paralleling the LORD's proceedings and the Enemies together. viz. 1. The Enemies at first breathed our nothing, but utter desolations and pulling-up of Cities: though those intended Desolations are quite hindred, and their own memorial utterly-perished, ver. 6. 2. But contrariwise, the LORD remains, 1 An eternal being. 2 A just and most upright Judge, ver. 7. 8. 3 An all-sufficient and seasonable Refuge for his oppressed-ones in straits. verse 9. 4 A most sure and faithful friend, never forsaking his seekers, and therefore trusted in by all that know his name, ver. 10.

3. His invitation of others, to praise the LORD and his works together with him: for his constant mindefulness of his afflicted, verse 11. 12.

II. David prayeth to the LORD, vers. 13. &c. And here

1. He sues to the LORD, for such favours, as may give him ample cause of praising him. viz. 1. To show grace to him. 2. To view and consider his trouble from his haters. 3. To lift him up from the gates of Death; That he may praise the LORD in the gates of Sion, i. e. in the Publick Assemblies, and joy in his salvation, verse 13. 14.

2. He confesseth and rejoyceth in Gods glorious Judgements upon the Churches Enemies: their Plots being returned, as self-ensnarements, upon their own heads, to the eminent renown of the LORD in his Judgements, verse 15. 16. This is amplified by the effect or fruit of this eminent experience, viz. His confidence for future, 1. That the LORD will destroy at last all wicked and godless persons, verse 17. 2. That the Godly though needy and poor-afflicted shall not alwaies be forgotten, &c. verse. 18.

3. He Petitioneth for Gods Judgements upon the ungodly, Praying that the LORD, 1. Would rise up for his people against them. 2. Would restraine their power. 3. Would judge them. 4. Would terrifie them, and make them experimentally know they are but wretched men, verse 19. 20.

PSALME

Pſalme X.

§. I. The Order and Number.

The Order and Enumeration of the Pſalmes begins here to vary in ſome Verſions or Tranſlations from the Original Hebrew, &c. For although the Hebrew Text [a] makes this a diſtinct Pſalme from the former, and the Xth Pſalme in Number and Order, which Diviſion and Enumeration is rightly and juſtly followed from hence to the end of the Book, by the Chaldee Paraphraſt, by Pagnin and Montanus, by Junius and Tremellius, by Calvin, H. Mollerus, D. Pareus, our beſt Engliſh Tranſlation, and many others: yet ſundry other Verſions and Tranſlations, do annex this 10*th Pſalme* (which is untituled) unto the 9*th Pſalme*, as part thereof, accounting them both to be but one Pſalme, viz. the IXth in Order and Number. Thus the ancient Greek Verſion of the Lxxii (differently from the Hebrew) accounts this Xth Pſalme together with the IXth to be but one [b]; reckoning the 11*th* Pſalme to be the 10*th*, and the 12*th* to be the 11*th*, and ſo forward. Likewiſe it makes the 114*th* and 115*th Pſalmes* but one, and by this meanes looſeth two of the number. Yet again to make up the number of 150 Pſalmes, the Greek divides Pſalme 116 into two, the latter Pſalme beginning at verſ. 10. and alſo diſparts Pſalm. 147. into two, the latter of theſe beginning at verſ. 12. Praiſe the LORD, O Jeruſalem, &c. And ſo this Verſion returnes again to the Hebrew Count or Enumeration to the end of this Book. Many Verſions and Expoſitors do follow this Greek Verſion; As the Vulgar Latin, Ethiopick and Arabick Verſions; As Ambroſe, Chryſoſtome, Hierome, Auguſtine, the Ordinary Gloſſary, Nicolas de Lyra, &c. in their Expoſitions. But the Syriack Verſion [c] follows the Hebrew-Enumeration till Pſalme 114. where it joynes Pſalme 114, and 115. into one, and ſo looſeth one of the number till Pſalme 147. which it divides into two at verſe 12. as the other Verſions do, and ſo returnes with the reſt to the Hebrew Enumeration to the end of the Pſalmes. This diverſity of numbring produceth great inconvenience in alledging thoſe Verſions or Expoſitors in ſuch Pſalmes wherein they differ from the Hebrew, and occaſioneth many miſtakes: For preventing whereof this that hath been here ſaid, muſt be carefully conſidered and remembred.

§. IV. The Kinde, Penman, Occaſion and Scope.

The Kinde of this Pſalme, 1. As to the Forme or Manner of penning it, is, Untituled: Having no Title prefixed in the Hebrew. See on Pſal. 1. §. 4. 2. As to the Subject-matter of it, is, Euchical: wherein the Pſalmiſt, graphically delineating, and to the life painting out, the notorious inſolency, out-rage, and malice of the wicked againſt the Lord and his gracious people, deeply complaines and prayes againſt them, beſeeching the LORD to take his oppreſſed people into his Protection, and break in pieces their perſecutors power and impiety, And at laſt as it were triumphantly concludes through Faith that God will appear for his poor afflicted people, againſt their proudeſt Perſecutors, and moſt tyrannical bloody Oppreſſours. The Pſalme moſt emphatically characterizeth and repreſents the proud, cruel, outragious and deviliſh diſpoſitions and practiſes of the wicked, (eſpecially if in proſperity) againſt the Godly: and is a lively Portraiture of the ſad condition of Gods Church and People in this world among the wicked, againſt whoſe intolerable oppreſſions, inſolencies, and cruelties, their beſt remedy is flying to the LORD for protection and juſtice by Faith and Prayers, whereby either they obtain deliverance from, ſupport under, mitigation of, or advantage by their ſufferings one way or other. Some (as [a] one obſerves) ſerves) account this Pſalme to be Prophetical, and that it prophecies of Antichriſt the Roman Papacy. And ſaith he, Though it ſpeak of all the Enemies of the Church in general, yet in ſpecial and κατ' ἐξοχὴν it ſeems to note him. And the Church never had a more cruel enemy: and the Idea propounded in this Pſalme doth excellently expreſſe his Tyranny. So he. But for my part I can hardly conceive any ſuch ſpecial Prophecy to be intended by the Holy Ghoſt in this Pſalme: but rather a General Character of wicked mens diſpoſition and deportment towards the Church and dear People of God.

Penman of this Pſalme is not here or elſewhere certainly ſignified unto us. But moſt probably it was David: to whom it was no ſtrange thing to be exerciſed with ſuch high inſolencies and cruel outrages of the ungodly.

Occaſion of penning this Pſalme is not eaſie to be diſcovered, in Particular: but in the General, it is very evident by the Subject-matter of it, It was written in an extream evil time to the Church and People of God, and upon Occaſion of their deep ſufferings and diſtreſſes under the intolerable pride, inſolency, ſubtilty, malice, tyranny, outrage, perſecutions, and cruelty of prophane wicked wretches abounding with outward proſperity in this world. The time (ſaith [b] one) is uncertain: but this is certain, that it agrees almoſt to every time. The afflicted condition of Gods people under the wicked, deſcribed in this Pſalme, being the common and conſtant lot of the Church and ſincere ſervants of the LORD almoſt in all times and ages, when once the ungodly obtain the upper-hand.

[b] Tempus incertum eſt: ſed hoc certum, quod omni ferè tempori quadrat. Joan. Foord. in Expoſit. Pſal. 10.

Scope intended in this Complaint and Prayer, is; To intreat the LORD, to appear at laſt for his poor-afflicted-people wofully oppreſſed by the outragious inſolencies, perſecutions, and cruelties of audacious Lyon-like atheiſtical wicked-ones; and to riſe up for the ſuccour of his diſtreſſed ones, but for the ruine and reſtraint of their wicked Perſecutors, and that they may be caught in their own devices. And in all times, Gods Church and People being exerciſed with like perſecutions, inſolencies and outrage of the wicked, may make uſe of this moſt ſuitable Pſalme, making the LORD their onely Refuge by Faith and Prayer in their calamities.

§. V. The Analyſis, or Principal Parts.

In this Untituled Pſalme, or Prayer, are laid down, The Pſalmiſts 1. Complaint, 2. Petitions, and 3. Profeſſion of confidence in the LORD touching the requeſts preſented.

I. His Complaint is very ſad and lamentable. He Complaines, 1. Of the LORD's with-holding and delaying his help to his afflicted people in diſtreſſes, in troublous times. This is ſet forth under two Metaphors. viz. (1) Of Diſtance. (2) Of hiding himſelf from them, ver. 1. II. Of the pride and inſolency of the wicked, in their hot-purſuing, or violent perſecuting of Gods poor afflicted, ver. 2. at begin. In this Complaint note; Firſt, An Imprecation againſt theſe proud Perſecutors, that they may be caught in their own devices, ver. 2. Secondly, Certain Arguments or Reaſons of this Imprecation. Theſe are drawn, 1. Partly, From the pride and inſolency of theſe wicked wretches. Which their pride is Deſcribed, and Aggravated, (1) By their Self-applauſe in, or for their Soules luſt. (2) By their bleſſing of the Covetous. (3) By their prophane provoking of the LORD, blaſpheming and deſpighting him, ver. 3. (4) By their haughty contempt of the LORD, proudly refuſing to ſeek him, or his will. (5) By their Atheiſtical devices. They even ſtudy Atheiſme: deviſing, if it were poſſible, to perſwade themſelves there is no God, verſ. 4. (6) By their ſlighting of Gods judgements, or not conſidering and underſtanding them, by reaſon of their conſtant proſperity, puffing them up. (7) By their proud and diſdainful puffing at their foes, ver. 5. Flattering themſelves, from their preſent condition, with imaginations of their perpetual proſperity and ſtability [c], ver. 6. 2. Partly, from theſe wicked mens Perſecuting-practiſes againſt Gods poor-afflicted ones. Which are deſcribed and aggravated, (1) By the deceit, guile, and fraudulency of their words, though backed with Oathes and Curſes. What ever good affections or actions they pretend towards God people, yet they intend their miſchief, ver. 7. (2) By their crafty and cruel Deeds, againſt the Godly. In which reſpect they are elegantly compared, 1. To ſubtile bloody Thieves lurking in holes and by-corners neer the ends of Townes or Villages, to do miſchief to the innocent, ver. 8. 2. To cruel and crafty Lyons cunningly crouching in their Dens to compaſſe their prey, ver. 9, 10. 3. To a Fowler or Hunter craftily ſpreading his Net, &c. ver. 9. (3) By their Atheiſtical thoughts and imaginations of their hearts, that God ſees none of theſe their villainous courſes, ver. 11.

II. His Petitions are earneſt and Pathetical, viz.

1. That God would at laſt appear for his poor oppreſſed People, againſt theſe wicked miſcreants, ants their Enemies. Which appearing is, I. Described, by certain Acts of the LORD, desired, viz. 1. Arising. 2. Lifting-up of his hand. 3. Not forgetting the poor, ver. 12. II. Urged, 1. Because, these wicked, reproach, and blaspheam God and his Justice, ver. 13. 2. Because, The LORD exactly beholds all the wicked dealings of these men, to take vengeance upon them. 3. Because, Gods poor-afflicted commits his whole cause to God: leaves all to him. 4. Because, God by Office and Property is an Helper of the Fatherless, ver. 14.

2. That God would utterly crush these wicked Persecutors power and impiety, ver. 15. This is urged, 1. From the Eternity of Gods Kingdome and Dominion. 2. From their former notable experience of his driving out the Canaanites, and destroying them, ver. 16.

III. His Profession of his Hope and Confidence, That the LORD will accordingly appear for his oppressed Church and people, against the insolency and out-rage of all their wicked Persecutors. And this, 1. By firme-preparing his peoples heart, viz. To pray, and wait. 2. By lending an eare to their requests ver. 17. 3. By judging his Orphans and Oppressed. 4. By delivering them from the daunting-terrour of all proud Persecutors and wicked Tyrannical Oppressors, ver. 18.

Psalme XI.

§. I. The Summary Contents.

David, I. Declares, his Enemies 1. Reproach of him, verse 1. 2. Preparations against him, verse 2. 3. Destroying his foundations of Hope, verse 3. II. Triumphs against his Enemies in God alone. Considering, 1. His Supream Dominion. 2. His Providence, ver. 4. 3. His equity in his discriminating proceedings with the righteous and the wicked, verse 5, 6, 7.

§. II. The Version out of the Hebrew.

To the Master-Musician, A Psalme of David.

1. In the LORD [a] hive-confidence;
How say yee to my Soul,
Unto your mountain of defence
Flee [b] the winged fowle?
2. For, lo the wicked bend their bowes,
Their shaft on string prepare:
In that darknes to shoot at those
Which upright [c] hearted are.
3. For, stroyd are the [d] Foundations sure:
The just what hath he done?
4. The LORD is [e] in his Palace pure,
The LORD, in Heav'ns his Throne:
His eyes view, [f] eye-lids try man's Sonnes.
5. The LORD the righteous proves;
But his Soul hates the wicked-one,
And him that rapine loves.
6. Snares, fire, and brimstone rain will hee
The wicked-ones upon,
And winde of burning-stormes shall bee
Their full cups portion.
7. Because the onely righteous LORD
Doth righteousnesses love:
His [g] face shall view with great regard
The upright from above.

§. III. The Kinde, Penman, Occasion, and Scope.

The Kinde of this Psalme is, 1. As to the outward forme of Writing it, Entituled: 2. As to the Subject-matter or Argument of it, Doctrinal, Querulatory, and Consolatory. Doctrinal, teaching; That, the condition of the godly in this life, is like that of a silly bird flying from place to place for feare of the Fowler: That the wicked are maliciously set against the righteous: That the LORD notwithstanding puts a vast difference betwixt the godly and the wicked. Querulatory, complaining of the reproach and mischief done to the righteous by the wicked. Consolatory, wherein David comforts himself against all his enemies reproach, mischief and malice, by his confidence in the LORD, verse 1. &c. Chryſoſtom highly and elegantly magnifies this Grace, ſaying; [h] Great is the force of Hope in the LORD: It is a Garriſon inſuperable, a Wall inexpugnable, a Conflict unconquerable, a calme Port, a Tower invincible, a Weapon irreſiſtible, a Power that cannot be overcom, and finding paſſage out of intricate-perplexities-where-no-way-is. By this, the unarmed have overcom the armed, and women men, and children have eaſily prevailed over them that have been exerciſed in warlike affaires. And what wonder if they have overcom enemies, whenas they have overcom the world it ſelf? For, the Elements not knowing their own nature, have been changed into that which was preſitable to them; and the wilde-beaſts were no longer wilde-beaſts, nor the Furnace a Furnace, Dan.3. For Hope in God compoſeth all things. Teeth were ſharp, and the Priſon ſtrait, there was immanity of Nature, and Hunger irritating Nature, No partition betwixt them, and their mouthes nigh the Prophets body, Dan.6. But Hope in God, which is ſtronger then any Bridle, ruſhing into their mouthes, did draw them back. Theſe things here he ſaid to ſuch as bade him flee for ſafety; I hope for ſafety in the LORD: how ſay yee to my ſoule, Flee, &c? So hee. Some interpret this Pſalme Allegorically, as if it were written againſt falſe teachers and heretical perſons, that deſtroy the foundations of faith by their errours, violently oppoſing pious and ſound Teachers, &c. Thus Hierome, [i] The tenth Pſalm is ſung againſt Hereticks and ill Believers. I truſt in the LORD] The Voice of the Church againſt Hereticks, or of Chriſt againſt Devils. But I ſee no reaſon at all to depart from the plain Grammatical, to an Allegorical ſenſe, in interpreting of this Pſalme: as one [k] hath alſo well obſerved.

h Μεγάλη τῆς ἐλπίδος τὸν κύριον ἐλπὶς ἡ δύναμις· φρούριον ἀπόρθητον τεῖχος ἀνίκητον, &c. Joan. Chryſ. in Expoſ. Pſ. x. ad init. Tom. 3.

i Decimus Pſalmus contra hereticos & male credentes canitur: In Domino confido.] Vox Eccleſiæ contra hereticos: ſive Chriſti contra Demones. *Hieron. in Com. ad Pſ.*10. Tom. 2.

k Hen. Moll. in Arg. Pſal. 11. 1 Joan. Foord. in Expoſit. Pſal. 11. Tempus.

Penman of this Pſalme was David, as the Title ſignifies.

Occaſion of Davids writing this Pſalm is not here particularly declared. But in the General, it is moſt probable from the matter of this Pſalm, that it was written upon Occaſion of Davids exile from King Sauls Court, when he fled to mountains, rocks, caves, woods, &c. to ſhelter himſelf from Sauls cauſeleſs perſecutions: who hunted him as a Partridg in the Mountains, 1Sam.26.20. This ſeems here hinted, verſ. 1. One [l] thinks this was written about the beginning of King Saul's perſecutions of him, when David was with Samuel at Naioth in Ramah, 1 Sam.19.18,&c. And it is not unlikely, that ſome of Saul's flattering Courtiers, obſerving Saul's malice againſt David, might ſcornfully ſay to David, Flee as a Bird to thy Mountain, &c. Davids Condition deſcribed in this Pſalm, moſt lively repreſents the condition of Gods Church and people in this preſent evil world.

Scope intended, is; To Teach, that though Gods upright people are ſadly exerciſed here on earth, with the reproachful, malicious, and miſchievous practices of the wicked, yea, even to the ruine of the foundations of all ſublunary help and hope: yet they have comfortable confidence, and Hope-for-ſafety in the LORD; That he will all-ſufficiently protect them againſt all their enemies fraudulence and violence, but plenteouſly poure out his vengeance upon all their wicked and cruel Perſecutors.

§. VI. The Analyſis, or Principal Parts.

The Title ſignifies, 1. The Direction of this Pſalme as to the Muſick of it. 2. The Penman of it; David.

The Subſtance of the Pſalme containes,

I. David's Narrative of his afflictions from his Enemies, 1. By their bitter and ſcornful reproaches; Flee as a bird to your Mountain; viz. Flee David and thy Retinue: For here's a double Reading in the Hebrew; Flee-thou; or, Flee-yee. Againſt which hee expoſtulateth, aggravating this Reproach by his own oppoſite Affiance or Hope-for-ſafety in the Allſufficient LORD; How ſay yee to my Soul, Flee, &c. ver. 1. 2. By their various ſubtile and cruel preparations againſt the upright of heart, *ver.*2. 3. By their utter demoliſhing all the viſible foundations of his ſupport and ſafety, as when the foundations of an houſe are pulled away. All this is aggravated, as being wholly undeſerved by the righteous; the righteous what hath he done? ver. 3.

II. David's Triumph in the LORD alone, when all earthly foundations fayle. He triumphs, 1. In the LORD's Supream Dominion. 2. In his moſt accurate all-ſeeing Providence over all perſons.

ſons; His eye-ſee, his eye-lids try the Sonnes of man. A metaphor from men, who almoſt cloſe-ſhut their eye-lids, when they would exactly diſcerne any object, eſpecially at a diſtance, ver. 4. 3. In his Equity, and Diſcriminating Diſpenſations towards the Righteous and the Wicked. (1) The Righteous he proves: viz. Partly, By their perſecutions from wicked men: as Pſal. 66. 10, 11, 12. Partly, By other Afflictions, Job 23. 10. Zech. 13. 9. 1 Pet. 4. 12. (2) The wicked he extreamly hates, ver. 5. And will teſtifie at laſt this his hatred of them, by plaguing them with dreadful ſtormy ſhowers of Divine wrath and vengeance. (Herein alluding to Sodom's overthrow by ſhowers of fire and brimſtone, Gen. 19. 24 prefiguring eternal fire and torments in Hell, Jude 7. Rev. 20. 10.) ver. 5, 6. 4. In the cauſe why the LORD vouchſafes to the righteous ſuch favourable Aſpects of his Countenance; viz. His moſt righteous Nature loving Righteouſneſſes, and his free grace and good-pleaſure of his will towards them, ver. 7.

§ III. The Kinde Penman, Occaſion, Scope.

The Kinde of this Pſalme, is; 1 As to the Form of penning it, Entituled; A Title being prefixed to it in the Hebrew: 2 As to the Subject Matter of it; A Prayer, A Petitory Pſalme. Hierome counts it a Prophecy of Chriſt's paſſion [l]; but without any colorable ground for it.

Penman of it was David, As the Title intimates.

Occaſion of Davids penning it, is not declared in the Title or elſewhere: But from l Iſte Pſalmus de Paſſione Chriſti Cantatur. Hieron. in Comment. ad Pſal. 11. Tom. 8.

from the Subject Matter of the Psalme its very probable, that David penned it in the days of wicked Saul, when good men were few, and those greatly oppressed by the wicked: when false-hearted flattering lying Hypocrites and Tyrants were advanced and multiplyed, most insolently oppressing and domineering over the poor-afflicted people of God according to their own ungodly lusts; and when all things were now in a wretched corrupt condition in the Kingdom. Some [m] think David wrote this Psalme upon Saul's slaying by Doeg 85 of the LORD's Priests, 1. Sam. 22. 18. Or when David was betraied to Saul by Doeg and the Ziphites, so that he could scarce rest any were in the Land in quiet, 1. Sam. 22. and 23. And that Saul's false-hearted dissembling tyrannical Courtiers are here principally intended. This is a Psalme which may well be accommodated (said one) to all times (wherein the wicked are advanced, and the godly oppressed by them,) and especially to these last times of the doting world wherein such great and sad confusions are foretold to befall the Church of God [n].

n Hen. Mollerus in Arg. Psal. 12.

Scope of David in this Psame, is; To implore the LORD's own help and Salvation in evil times, when all humane succour failed, For the suppressing of the Pride, outrage and insolency of the lying, flattering, boasting, Tyrannical Oppressours of Gods people; and for protecting of his own poor afflicted and oppressed people, according to his purely-refined and most faithful Promise, from that faithless, mischievous, and wicked Generation.

§. IV. The Analysis, or Principal Parts.

The Title containes, 1. The direction of it, as to the Musick; To the Master-Musician on Shtmineth, or, the Eighth: viz. The eighth stringed-instrument. Or, Some Grave Note, as the Base, &c. 2. The Denomination of it; A Psalme. 3. The Penman of it; David.

The Psalme it self is a Prayer. Wherein

I. David prayes to the LORD to save and help him, and the godly, in those evil dayes, against their false-hearted insolent wicked oppressors, then in request, &c. vers. 1. begin. Help LORD, abruptly, elegantly.

II. David urgeth and enforceth his request by sundry Arguments. Drawn, 1. From the necessity of the Petition, and of the Mercy desired, especially in that evil state of things. This Necessity is evinced, (1) Partly, By the Paucity of good-men, that would relieve and help him. Which good-men are described by their adjunct Piety (or Mercifulnesse, Loving-kindnesse, &c.) and Fidelity, ver. 1. (2) Partly, by the multitude of wicked-men afflicting and distressing the Godly. These wicked ones are here notably characterized, 1. By their falshood, or false-speaking. 2. By their fauning, and flatteries. 3. By their double heartednesse, vers. 2. II. From his own Confidence of Gods justice upon these wicked-ones, whose ruine he foretels and threatens, under cutting-away, or cutting off their lips and tongue, vers. 3. These being described by their 1. Flatterings. 2 Proud-boastings of mighty things, vers. 3. 3. Presumptuous confidence to prevaile with their Tongues. 4. Proud contemning and scorning all superiour controule; who is LORD over us? vers. 4. III. From the LORD's own faithful Promise to relieve his poor oppressed against their proud oppressours; Now, saith the LORD, I will rise, &c. Prosopopeia. This Promise is notably Illustrated, 1. By the Efficient Cause or Authour of the promised salvation; God himself. By the impulsive or outward mooving Cause, provoking him as it were thereunto; The spoyle of the poor, the groane of the needy. 3. By the season when; Now. viz. when his poor were at lowest, their oppressors at highest. 4. By the manner how he will proceed herein. 1 He will Arise. Metaphor. 2 He will set his own in safety from him that in scorne puffeth at him, as if he would blow him down with his very breath, vers. 5. 5. By the purity and fidelity of the LORD's word of Promise: therefore compared to silver tryed in the fire, purely and perfectly refined in the subliming Furnace of Earth seven times, seven being a number of perfection, vers. 6.

III. David confidently and comfortably concludes his Prayer, with assurance that the LORD will keep and preserve his people every of them continually from this wicked Generation, &c. Where note, 1. The Authour of this Mercy; The LORD himself. 2. The greatnesse of the Mercy assured. This is set forth, (1) Partly, in the variety of the LORD's Acts therein; Keeping them, Preserving them. (2) Partly in the extent of it; To Him, i. e. To every one of them particularly. (3) Partly, in the Perpetuity of it; For ever. (4) Partly, in the greatnesse of the evil and mischief from which they shall be preserved; viz. From this Generation, i. e. this vile, faithless, godless Generation, vers. 7. The greatnesse of which evil is aggravated. 1 By the insolency of the wicked, walking about and domineering on every side. 2 By the Cause or Occasion thereof, The exalting of basest-vilenes of the sonnes of Adam. זלות Zulluth, properly signifies; Luxury, Ryot, &c. Hence it is used to signifie, The basest-vilenes. Which may be here applyed, in the Abstract, To Exweam viciousnesse it self: Or, in the Concrete, to vile, vicious persons, which by way of Aggravation may be be called; baſeſt-vileneſs: As the Proud-man is called in *Pſal.*36.12. Pride.The wicked walk about inſolently, haughtily, &c. when vileneſs is exalted, or, vile-perſons are advanced that may countenance their diſſolureneſſe, *verſ.*8.

§. III. The Kinde, Penman, Occaſion and Scope.

The Kinde of this Pſalme, is; 1. As to the Forme of writing it; Entituled. Having a Title prefixed in the Hebrew. 2. As to the Subject-Matter of it; Querulatory and Petitory. A Complayning-Prayer. It is ſomewhat of like Subject and Argument to the laſt foregoing Pſalme, ſave that, There, the diſtreſſes of Gods people more generally; Here the diſtreſſes of David more particularly, are inſiſted upon, There, he prayes for the reſtitution of a better ſtate to the whole Church: Here, for the preſervation and deliverance of himſelf. As Pareus [g]

Penman of this Pſalme was David, As the Title intimates.

Occaſion of Davids writing it, ſeems by the Subject-Matter of the Pſalme to have been ſome deep and long diſtreſſes wherein he was involved by reaſon of his Enemies, even almoſt to his utter ruine. And it is ſuppoſed [h] he wrote it towards the end of Saul's perſecutions of him, when he fled from him for ſafety into the Land of the Philiſtines, 1 *Sam.*27. 1. &c. Under theſe afflictions, through the LORD's long deferring of his help and deliverance, he had much perplexity in his Soul touching the LORD's deſerting him and hiding his countenance from him: But at laſt flying to the LORD by Prayer for deliverance, he got the Victory over his Troubles and Temptations, being perſwaded to acquieſce in the LORD, and to rejoyce in hope of compleat ſalvation, which in ſome meaſure was begun unto him.

Scope of David in this Pſalme, is; To poure out his complaint and the troubles of his heart unto the LORD, touching the LORD's hiding of his Countenance from him, and his Enemies exaltation over him, for ſo long time together: And to intreat g Ejuſdem cum proximo Argumenti, niſi quod ibi pro reſtitutione meliores ſtatus totius Eccleſiæ: hic, pro ſui ipſius conſervatione & liberatione precatur. D. Pareus in Adverſar. in Pſal. 13.

intreat him, to Behold, Hear, and Deliver him from all his Enemies and long afflictions.

§. IV. The Analysis, or principal parts.

The Title of this Psalme (which is also prefixed to Psalme 19. 20. 21. 31. 40. 41. 64. 109. 139. 140. and with some further addition to Psalme. 51.) contains, 1. The direction of it, as to the Musick; To the Master-Musician. 2. The Denomination of it; A Psalme. 3. The Penman of it; David.

The Psalme it self being a prayer, consists of 1 Complaints: 2 Petitions: And 3 A Conclusion.

I. Complaints. David sadly laments and complains, 1. In reference to the LORD, of his long and long forgetting him, and hiding his face from him in his deep distresses, verse 1. 2. In reference to himself, of his long and tedious conflicting, 1 Partly, with doubtful distracting thoughts of mind. 2 Partly, with dayly grief of heart. 3 In reference to his enemies, of their being so long exalted over him, ver. 2.

II. Petitions, David earnestly Petitioneth to the LORD, 1. To view him and his distresses. 2. To hear his requests. 3. To enlighten his eyes, that is, to refresh them and rejoyce him with the light of his pleased countenance, that had been so long over-clouded and ecclipsed towards him. See on Psal. 4. 6, 7. These his Petitions he urgeth, 1 From the dear relation betwixt God and him, O LORD my God. 2 From the bitrer event that would follow upon Gods longer deferring of the desired releif; lest I sleep the death, verse 3. 3 From the sad effects and consequences of such his Death, viz. His enemies glorying and insulting thereupon, contrary to the expectation of the Godly, and the glory of God himself, verse 4.

III. A Conclusion. David concludes this his Prayer, 1. Professing his trust in his mercy, or loving-kindness, viz. For the blessings desired. 2. Promising to rejoyce in Gods Salvation, viz. When it shall be obtained. 3. Resolving to sing unto the LORD, when he shall reward him, or deal bountifully with him. Or because in some measure he hath already rewarded him, verse 5.

§. III. The Kinde, Penman, Occaſion, and Scope.

The Kinde of this Pſalme, 1 As to the Forme or manner of writing it, is Entituled; A Title being prefixed to it in the Hebrew. 2 As to the Subject-Matter or Argument of it, is Didaſcalical or Doctrinal, and Conſolatory. Teaching, that the hearts and lives of all meer natural men, are moſt Atheiſtical, Corrupt, Prophane, and cruel to the People of God, &c. And therefore the Apoſtle Paul alledgeth this Pſalme, Rom. 3. to prove that no natural man can ſatisfie or fulfil the Law of God, ſo as to be juſtified thereby, all both Jewes and Gentiles being by Nature under ſins Dominion and curſe. Nevertheleſſe, It is Comforting: in that God doth not leave all mankinde to periſh in their Natural corruption and ſinfulneſſe, but hath a remnant reſerved which make the LORD their truſt, rejoycing in their Salvation and Redemption out of Sion by Jeſus Chriſt g.

Penman of this Pſalme, was David: As the Title intimates.

Occaſion of David's writing it, is hard to be particularly indigitated. Some refer it to the times of King Saul, and think that here is deſcribed the confuſed and forlorn ſtate of Judea, which Saul brought in when he began to rage. For then, all piety and integrity was fled away from men, as if the very memory of God had been extinguiſhed h. But Pareus i thinks this Pſalme ſhould not be reſtrained to Saul and his Courtiers: And there are two Reaſons againſt that Opinion; For, 1. In Sauls time the Ark was not brought to Sion, (to which verſe 7. ſeems to have reſpect,) for then the Pagan Jebuſites dwelt there. 2. The Apoſtle Rom. 3. extends it further, even to the general multitude of the ungodly. In the General, from the Argument of the Pſalme, we may thus conceive of the Occaſion of it; The Pſalmiſt obſerving the General Atheiſme, Prophanity, and Impiety of men, denying Gods Providence, and cruelly oppreſſing and devouring the dear people of God; as if they onely were Lords of the Earth, verſe 1,2,3,4. Sets himſelf to comfort the Church and afflicted people of God, with hope of Redemption from this their Captivity and Salvation from this miſery, by David reigning in Sion: but eſpecially with ſpiritual Redemption and Salvation by Chriſt the true King of Sion typified by David, verſe 7 k. And thus this Pſalme is Doctrinal, Conſolatory, and in part Prophetical.

Scope herein intended, is; To teach and declare, what Atheiſme, Corruptneſſe, Prophanity, and Cruelty againſt Gods People hath generally over-ſpread all the ſons of man by nature: And to Comfort Gods Church and people againſt all the cruel Tyranny of the wicked, By Gods preſence and protection vouchſafed his People, and by the fore-propheſied joy that they ſhall have when they ſhall be redeemed from their Captivity and ſhall have Salvation from Sion, Temporally by David, Spiritually by Chriſt.

Here, I. The Subject of this wickedneſſe is indigitated, by a diſgraceful Denomination; The Fool l. Every wicked man, meer natural man, is in Gods account a Fool, as to ſpirituals. Nabal, the Fool, is derived from dying, fading, or falling away, as a leaf or flower, Iſai. 40. 8. 1 Pet. 1. 24. So the fooliſh man, fallen in Adam, is without the life of God, Eph. 4. 18. as a dead Carkaſſe, called Nebalah, Levit. 11. 40. and hath loſt the juyce and ſap of Reaſon, Wiſdome, Honeſty, Godlineſſe, &c. This wiſh is (as ſome n think) in the nature of a Prophetical Prediction. This is amplified, By the effect that ſhall enſue upon that deſired Salvation, viz. Iſraels thankful joy and gladneſſe at the return of Gods Peoples Captivity from under the thraldom temporal of wicked oppreſſours, and bondage ſpiritual under Sin, Satan, and other Spiritual miſeries, ver. 7.

§. III. The Kinde, Penman, Occaſion, and Scope.

The Kinde of this Pſalme, 1. As to the Forme or Manner of Penning it, is: Entituled: An Hebrew Title being prefixed to it in the Original. And the ſame Title is prefixed to Pſalme 23. 24. 29. 101. 110. 141. 143. 2. As to the Argument or Subject-matter of it, is; Doctrinal, and Caſuiſtical. For here one of the greateſt Doctrines, or weightieſt Caſes of Conſcience, is Propounded and Reſolved, viz. Who are true Citizens of Sion? Or, who are true Fellow-Citizens with the Saints, and of the Houſe-hold of God, Epheſ. 2. 19? Or, Which is the true Church, and who are the true Members of the Church Militant on Earth, and ſhall be of the Triumphant in Heaven, &c? This Queſtion is by the Pſalmiſt propounded to the LORD, and by the LORD reſolved here, for the certain, infallible and unqueſtionable determination thereof, to the full and finall Conviction, Information, and Satisfaction of every perſon herein, not from Man, but from God himſelf: and the Reſolution is; That, he is the true Church-Member, and ſhall abide therein immovably, who leads a godly and righteous converſation towards God and Man. This is the true Qualification of the perſon juſtified: though not the Cauſe of his juſtification. And therefore hence, and from ſuch like Scriptures, the Papiſts do but in vaine and groundleſly ſeek to prove their Juſtification by Works: This being quite beſides the Scope and Intendment of the Text m. This Doctrine or Caſe of Conſcience is here laid down by way of Dialogue, for the greater clearneſſe: The Prophet David propounding the Queſtion to the LORD, verſe 1. And the LORD returning him Anſwer by his Spirit, verſe 2, &c.

m D. Pareus in Adverſar. ad Pſal. 15.

Penman of this Pſalme was David, as the Title declares.

Occaſion of Davids Penning it particularly, is not ſo obvious. Some n think David wrote this Pſalme after he had brought the Ark of God to Mount Sion: grounding this Opinion upon the Queſtion, verſe 1. and Pſal. 24. 3. And that thoſe Fools and Atheiſts ſpoken of in Pſal. 14. 1, &c. gave David Occaſion of writing this Pſalme, in the 37th year of Davids reigne or thereabouts, when God had ſhewed him the place in Mount Moriah where the Temple was to be built, 1 Chro. 21. 1. and 2 Chro. 3. 1. It is ſomewhat difficult to be particularly definitive herein. In General, It ſeemes probable enough from the Argument and Subject-matter of the Pſalme; That David, obſerving how many pretended by their outward Profeſſions, Sacrifices and outward Ceremonial Obſervances to be true Church Members, &c. who yet did not walk anſwerably by Holyneſſe and Righteouſneſſe in their Lives and Converſations, thereupon took Occaſion to deſcribe a true Citizen of Sion, a right Church-member indeed, by his godly and righteous life: that ſo no Hypocrites and meer Formaliſts in Religion might flatter and deceive themſelves with meer empty pretences and ſhadows of Religion, without the life and power.

n Joan. Foord. in Expoſit. Pſa. 15. Tempus.

And it is an Obſervation o, not to be neglected; That theſe three Pſalmes, 14. 15. 16. ſeem purpoſely to be thus ordered; That in the firſt it may be taught, That all men by Nature are under Sin, and none can ſatisfie or exactly fulfill the Law of God:

o Hen. Molleras in Praelect. ad Pſal. 15. Argument.

In the ſecond, That not a ſhadow only, but the perfection of Obedience to the Law is required of God: To this the third, viz. Pſal. 16. is ſubjoyned, which ſeeing perfect obedience cannot be performed of us, propoſeth Chriſt to be conſidered, who by his Paſſion and Obedience hath ſatisfied for us, and ſo is become the End of the Law to us for righteouſneſs through believing, Rom. 10 4.

Scope here intended, is; To propound by Divine Authority an Evident Character of a true Church member, viz. Of ſuch a perſon, as in this world preſent ſhall ſojourn in Gods Tabernacle, remain a while here as a Member in his Church Militant; and in the world to come ſhall dwell in his Holy Hill, abide for ever as Member in his Church Triumphant: Even he who leads a godly and righteous converſation. And conſequently, this Pſalme incites all to live well p. This Pſalme (ſaith Calvin) teacheth upon what condition God choſe the Jews to be a people to himſelf, and placed his Sanctuary in the midſt of them: to wit, That they might, by living juſtly and rightly, teſtifie themſelves to be his Peculiar and Holy People q.

p Scopus hujus Pſalmi eſt excitare homines ad bene vivendum. G. Ameſius in Lectiones ad Pſal 15.

q Joan. Calvin. in Argum. Pſal. 15.

§. IV. The Analyſis, or Principal Parts.

The Title hath in it, 1. The Denomination of this Scripture; A Pſalme. The Penman of it; David.

The Pſalme it ſelf, is as a Dialogue betwixt David and the LORD: and contains,

I. David's important and weighty Queſtion; LORD, who ſhall ſojourn &c. That is, O LORD, who as a true Church-Member, ſhall converſe and have Communion with thee in thy Church Militant, for a while, in this world preſent? and who ſhall enjoy eternal bliſs with thee in thy Church Triumphant in Heaven, in the world to come? The moving Tabernacle, being a Type of That: and the fixed place of Worſhip in Mount Sion, a Type of This. This Queſtion is by David propounded to the LORD himſelf, that the Solution thereof may, beyond all exception, be Authentique and ſatisfactory, verſe 1.

II. The LORD's ſatisfactory and moſt Authentique Solution or Anſwer, verſe 2. &c. Which is, 1 Partly, Doctrinal. 2 Partly, Promiſſory.

1. Doctrinal. Teaching and declaring, who and what manner of perſon a true Church-member is and ought to be, and this by ſundry Characters or diſcoveries of a good life. viz. He muſt be one, I. Who towards God, walks perfect. That is, in true faith and obedience, without Guile and Hypocriſie, as Gen. 17. 1. Deut 18. 13. Matth. 5. 48. II. Who towards man, doth exert and exerciſe true Love and all Acts of righteouſneſs. And this, 1. By purſuing and practiſing the good, that may profit him. As 1 working righteouſneſs. 2 Speaking truth ſincerely, verſe. 2. 2. By declining and forbearing the evil, that may prejudice him: As, (1) ſlandering by Tale-bearing. (2) Injuriouſneſs, or wrong-doing. (3) Reproaching his neighbour, verſe 3. (4) Flattery. Not covering the villany and abominable wickedneſs of any ungodly wretches, having reſpect to them for their greatneſs, wealth, or any other worldly concernments, in a fawning flattering way: but contrarywiſe having a moſt high eſteem of the true fearers of the LORD, as Acts 10. 34. 35. (5) Perjury, verſe 4. (6) Uſury. (7) Bribery, verſe 5. begin.

2. Promiſſory. Promiſing to him that ſo walks as above, unmovable unſhaken ſtability in the Church both in this world and for evermore, verſe 5.

§. III. The Kinde, penman, Occaſion and Scope.

The Kinde of this Pſalme, 1. As to the Forme of penning it, is; Entituled: Having this Title, according to the Hebrew prefixed; Michtam of David. This Title alſo, with ſome Additions, is prefixed to Pſalme 56. 57. 58. 59. 60. The Greek Verſion of the Lxxij ſeem to have read the Heb. word, not מכתם Michtam, but מכתב Michtab, The writing of David: and they render it hereupon Στηλογραφία τῦ Δαυίδ, The Writing or Inſcription to David, or of David; viz. An Inſcription in ſome ſolid matter, as Mettle, or Marble. Hence (as that learned A. Rivet [k] notes) ſome conjecture, That this Pſalme was engraven in Braſs or Marble, and ſo left by David as a Monument to the Levites divided by lots: As among the Greeks and Latines, the verſes writ in honour of any one and cut in Marble were called Epigrams. And indeed this Pſalme is ſo Excellent, that it deſerves to be engraven on Mettle, Marble, or Pillars, or in Cedar, (Pſalmus cedro dignus) for the laſting and perpetual memory thereof. But becaule thi word is conſtantly, in all the Titles of thoſe Pſalmes, invariably read מכתם Michtam, generally all Moderne Writers [l] do follow Paulus Burgenſis his Interpretation: That Michtam ſignifies, An Ornament made of pureſt Gold, kept as a κειμήλιον, and worn about the Neck; A Golden Chain, a Golden Jewel; And is derived from כתם Cethem which ſignifies, A Maſs of-pureſt-Gold, Fine-gliſtering-Gold, Pſal. 45. 10. Excellent Gold, moſt precious Gold; Or, A Pearle. So that this Pſalme being ſtiled מכתם לדוד Michtam Le-David, denotes the ſingular Excellency of this Pſalme: As if it were called; David's Golden-Pſalme, Davids-Pearle, Davids-Jewel, Davids-Delight, &c. And indeed this Pſalme well-deſerves this Encomium, this Denomination: being for for the Matter of it moſt ſweet, delectable, excellent, ſublime, &c. touching Chriſt his Mediation, Humiliation, Exaltation, Reſurrection, &c. But there are ſome [m] who take this Mictam to refer rather to the Muſick, then to the Matter of the Pſalme: As if it denoted, Either ſome Muſical Inſtrument; or, The beginning of ſome Famous and known Song, according to the Tune or Note whereof this Pſalme was to be ſung, To which Calvin [n] inclines. However, hereby we may ſee how difficult it is to underſtand theſe Titles of Pſalmes perfectly. [2] As to the Argument or Subject-matter of this Pſalme, it is Mixt: being Petitory, Laudatory, and Prophetical. And it is an excellent Prophecy of CHRIST's Mediation, Death, Reſurrection, and Aſcenſion; As the Apoſtles in the New Teſtament ſignifie to us, compare Pſal. 16. verſ. 8,9,10,11. with Acts 2.25. to 32. and 13.35,36,37. And as, thereupon, Interpreters do unanimouſly agree. To interpret it meerly of Chriſt, as ſome ſeem to do, will not be ſo juſtifiable: becauſe here are ſundry paſſages which do evidently agree to the Pſalmiſt. To expound it meerly and ſolely of David, would be repugnant to the Apoſtolical Interpretation. Therefore the middle way, betwixt theſe two Extreames, is moſt eligible, viz. To underſtand and interpret it of both David and CHRIST: Of David immediately, as the Type of Chriſt, of whom according to the fleſh Chriſt came, and was then in his Loynes, Act. 2 30. Of Chriſt himſelf mediately and principally as the Antitipe of David, though in the current of the Pſalme the perſon is not diſtinctly changed from David to Chriſt. It may alſo be accommodated to the Church and people of God, who are to be conforme to Jeſus Chriſt both in Death, Burial, Reſurrection, and Aſcenſion.

Some have not imperinently obſerved touching theſe three Pſalmes, 14. 15. 16. [o] That Pſal. 14. Convinceth all men of their Natural Coruption and Miſery, compare Pſal. 14. 2, 3, 4. with Rom. 3. 10, 11, 12. That Pſalme 15. requires in all true Church-members ſuch Qualifications, as are utterly beyond corrupt Natures ability and activity. And That this ſixteenth Pſalme directs to Jeſus Chriſt as Humbled and exalted, in order to the removal of our Natural miſery, and acquiring of ſupernatural felicity.

Penman of this Pſalme was David, as the Title declares.

Occaſion of David's Penning it, is not particularly diſcovered and defined. But Interpreters [p] do conceive that David Penned it upon Occaſion of his great and grievous Oppreſſions under the Tyranny of Saul. And about that time, when David through fear of Saul fled into the Land of the Philiſtines, and about the fifth year of his Exile there, 1 Sam. 27. 1. This Opinion ſome embrace, from Davids Petition for preſervation, as committing himſelf of truſt unto the LORD peculiarly, verſ. 1. and from his praying the LORD, who gave him Counſel, his reins alſo inſtructing him in the night ſeaſons, verſ. 7. which is by ſome interpreted, of Gods warning him by Oracle to fly into the Philiſtines Land, and of his going thither by the ſecret inſtinct of the Spirit of God in him. But having no certain Scripture-Information touching the Time and Occaſion of Davids writing it, we muſt leave it in ſuſpence. It being better to reſt doubtful of things ſecret, then to contend about things uncertain [q].

Scope intended by David in this Pſalme, is; To intreat the LORD God (His Lord, The portion of his Inheritance, and of his Cup, verſ. 1. 2, 5.) To preſerve and keep him in ſafety from all evils and enemies both in life and death, and for ever: Foraſmuch as he had placed his truſt upon the LORD, and not upon any thing of his own, and abhorred all falſe gods, and all manner of Idolatrous worſhip of them, &c. To bleſſe and praiſe the LORD, for his many Mercies already received: Triumphing with hope and joy of Gods protection, preſence and guidance both in Life and Death, and for ever. And under theſe things To Prophecy of Chriſts Mediation, Humiliation even to Death and Grave, (but not to ſee Corruption there) And his Exaltation by his Reſurrection from the Dead, and Glorification of him at Gods right hand, with fulneſs of joy and endleſs pleaſures in the higheſt Heavens, In which Humiliation and Exaltation David and all the Members of Chriſts Myſtical Body

§. IV. The Analyſis, or Principal Parts.

The Title repreſents to us 1. The Denomination of this writing; Miktam. Of this word, ſee formerly in §. 3. 2. The Penman of it; David.

The Pſalme it ſelf principally conſiſts of David's 1. Prayer, 2. Praiſe, and 3. Profeſſion of truſt or affiance in the LORD againſt all evils.

I. David's Prayer is contained ver. 1. to 5. wherein note,

1. The Mercy prayed for, Gods Conſervation or Preſervation of him: viz. His conſtant and univerſal preſervation of him throughout his whole life. This preſervation comprehends, All the effects of Gods Providence, eſpecially of his ſpecial Providence over his own, but principally eternal life, which is to be expected from none other. This Mercy is amplyfied, 1. By the efficient Cauſe, or Author of it; The-ſtrong-God, אל. Ieovèi, As Aquila and Theodotion render it. 2. By the Subject Recipient, for whom this preſervation is begged, viz. David himſelf; mee.

2. The Arguments whereby this his Petition is urged. As, I. Becauſe, His hope-for-ſafety is in the LORD God. Wherein conſider, 1. The Act of his Affiance; I truſt. I-hope-for-ſafety. 2. The Object whereupon his Affiance is repoſed; in thee. Which (ſaith ſ one) is emphatical, and though it do not expreſs, yet it notably implyes an excluſive; in thee onely, ver. 1. II. Becauſe, The LORD is his Lord. There's a dear mutual Relation and Obligation between them. III. Becauſe, David renounceth all his own worth, diſclaimeth all his own good, relying on the LORD's meer Grace and Goodneſſe, ver. 2. IV. Becauſe, David deports himſelf towards men, Good or Bad, differently and as becomes him in the ſight of God. 1. Towards the Good, he behaves himſelf with a benevolent Affection. Here conſider, 1 The Deſcription of theſe Good. Partly, By their Sanctity; to the Saints on Earth. Thus they are diſtinguiſhed from the Saints in Heaven. Partly, By their eminency and peculiar excellency above others, as Pſal. 45. 13. 2 His Affection to theſe Saints, &c. All my delight in them, viz. To aſſociate with them, to do good to them, &c. ver. 3. 2. Towards the Bad, he behaves himſelf with vehement abhorrency and deteſtation of their Impiety and Idolatry. Here, (1) Theſe bad are deſcribed, By their Idolatrous practiſes; they haſten after another God, or rather, as the Hebrew word ſignifies, they endow another God: viz. they endow him with Gifts, Sacrifices, Worſhip, &c. This is Idolatry againſt the firſt Commandement. (2) The miſchief of Idolatry upon Idolaters is pointed out; Their ſorrowes ſhall be multiplyed. (3) The Pſalmiſts utter renouncing of all Commerce or Communion with Idolaters, both in their Idolatrous Worſhip and Sacrifices; their drink-offerings of blood t will I not offer: And in the very Profeſſion or ſhow thereof, or naming them with the leaſt approbation; nor take up their names into my lips, ver. 4.

II. David's

II. Davids praising and blessing the LORD, is laid down, ver. 5. to 8. in sundry thankful Acknowledgments to the LORD. Here we have

1. His act of blessing the LORD resolved upon. This is interwoven among his Arguments of Praise.

2. The Arguments or Motives inducing him to praise the LORD, are drawn from the benefits conferred upon him. And they are of two sorts, I. Such benefits as are without him, which yet he enjoyeth and useth. As, 1. The LORD's becoming the Portion of his Inheritance and of his Cup: viz. Giving himself to him: and with himself all sufficiency of necessary good things. 2. The LORD's Conservation or Sustentation of his lot bestowed upon him, verse 5. 3. The pleasantness of his Inheritance or possession set out to him by line, verse 6. Thus, the Author and sustainer of all good things, and the Elegant description of them, is represented in a threefold Metaphor drawn from (1) An Inheritance, (2) A Lot, (3) A Possession: which referre to the same thing, viz. to an Inheritance, which is, 1 Acquired. 2 Divided by lot, and line. 3 Retained and possessed. And all this they have in God. II. Such benefits as were within him, viz. 1. The LORD's illumination of his minde, by Councelling him, viz. touching God and all his benefits conferred upon him. 2. His inward reins, viz. his will and secretest Affections (by the inspiration and sanctification of Gods Spirit) nurturing and instructing him in the nights (viz. in fittest and freest seasons for serious Meditations,) to elect and acquiesce in God, &c. vers. 7. The sense of these Metaphorical phrases and expressions, are very appositly interpreted by that learned Rivet u, herein worthy to be consulted by the diligent and inquisitive Reader.

u And. Rivet. in Comment. ad Psal. 16. 5, 6. &c. p. 58. Lugdun. 1626,

III. Davids Profession of his hope and trust in the LORD continually, against all evils and enemies, yea, against Death and Grave, ver. 8. &c. (Here, David, being an eminent Type of Christ, prefigures and foretells prophetically, Christs Humiliation even unto Death and Grave, yet not to see corruption; and Christs Exaltation in rising from the Dead, Ascending into Heaven, and being Glorified at Gods right-hand: unto whom herein both David and all his elect Members must be conformed.)

This his hope and trust in the LORD, is I. Propounded: I set the LORD alwaies before my face. II. Confirmed, by the Reason of it: viz. God's protecting presence at his right hand, to help, succour, preserve and comfort him. III. Illustrated or Amplyfied by the effects of the LORD's Protection confided in, viz. 1. Immoveable security from all dangers and evils, and stability of all felicity of body and soul; I shall not be moved, ver. 8. 2. Support and Comfort even against Death it self, through hope of his Resurrection, founded upon Christs Resurrection and Exaltation, ver. 9, 10, 11. Here, (1) His comfort against Death is illustrated, by the fruits thereof in this life; Rejoycing, in his heart. Exultation in his Glory, his tongue. And after this life, The resting of his flesh in hope, ver. 9. (2) The ground of this his Comfort, Christs Resurrection, is described; Partly, By Gods speedy delivering of his Soul, (i.e. either his Life, or his dead Body,) from Hell x, i. e. from Grave, or power and state of death; Thou wilt not leave my Soul in Hell: so long as others. Partly, By his Body's immunity from Corruption, while in Grave, ver. 10. Partly, By the LORD's shewing to Christ (and in him to David and all his Elect) The way of Life, by his Resurrection and Glory at Gods right hand, with whom is Saturity of joyes and pleasures at his right hand for ever, ver. 11. These things were most accurately fulfilled in Christ, Act. 2. 25. to 31. and 13. 35, 36, 37. And in their proportion and measure shall at last be accomplished, not onely in David, but also in all the Members of Jesus Christ.

x Vid Andr. Rivet. interpret. in Comment. ad Psal. 16. 10. D. Jo. Richardson in his Observations and Explanations on Psal. 16. 10, 11. Somewhat unusually expounds the Art. of Christs descent into Hell.

§. II. The Version out of the Hebrew.

A Prayer of David.

1. O LORD, do thou my a just-cause hear,
Attend unto my cry:
Unto my Prayer lend an ear,
b From lips that do not ly.
2. c Forth from thee let my judgment flow,
Let thine eyes view d the right.
3. Mine heart examined hast thou,
Hast visited mee by night:
e Thou hast mee accurately tride,
But found'st no faultiness:
I purposed (though thee my Guide) &
My mouth shall not transgress.
4. Touching the works of earthly men,
By thy lips holy word
I have observ'd and kept mee clean
From f spoylers paths abhorr'd.
5. Stay thou my goings steadily
In thy g paths beaten-plain,
That so my foot-steps constantly
h Unmoved may remain.
6. O God, for that thou wilt mee hear,
To thee I call and pray:
To mee do thou incline thine ear,
O hear what I do say.
7. Thy mercies i wondrously disclose,
Thou that k the faithful band
From those that up against them rose
Dost save by thy right hand.
8. As tender l Apple of the ey
Mee keep from harmfull things,
Do thou conceale me secretly
In shadow of thy wings.
9. From face of wicked that mee wast,
Of those my m deadly foes.
Which round about mee compass cast.
10. n Their fat doth them inclose,
They with their mouth do o proudly speak.
11. They now did us surround
In our foot-steps: Their eyes they p make
To bend down to the ground.
12. To Lyon fierce q their likeness fit,
That greedy is to teare,
And as a lurking Lyon sits r In holes that secret are.
13. Rise up, s him disappoint, O LORD,
O make him down to bow:
And from the wicked one, Thy Sword,
My soul deliver thou.
14. From mortal men thine Hand, O LORD,
From mortal men of thise
Of this t frail world; That up have stor'd
Their Portion in thu u life: (store, x Whose womb thou fill'st with thine hid Replenish'd are their sonnes
And they lay up y what they have more
For all their little ones.
15. But I thy face, mee blest to make,
In righteousness shall see;
When with thine image I awake,
I satisfide shall bee.

§. III. The Kinde, Penman, Occasion and Scope.

This Psalme is, 1. As to the Forme of it; Entituled: 2. As to the Matter of it; A Prayer; as both the Title, and Series of the Psalme evidence.

Penman of it was David

Occasion particular is not clearly apparent: Probably David took occasion, (through the guidance of Gods Spirit, to penne it,) from the causlesse and cruel hatred, malice and persecutions of King Saul [z], or some other his bitter enemies. And it is supposed to be written about that time when David first fled from King Sauls Court, for safety of his own life. Of which See 1 Sam. 20. 41, &c [a].

David's Scope in this Prayer is; To intreat the LORD's protection against, and deliverance from all his fierce cruel persecuting Enemies, which are onely the Hand and Sword of the LORD, see verse 8. to 15.

§. IV. The Analysis, or Principal Parts.

The Title declares, 1. The Nature, or Kinde of this Psalme; A Prayer. 2. The Penman; David. Onely this Psalme 17. and Psal. 86. are thus entituled.

The Subſtance of this Pſalme, is Davids Prayer. Herein

I. David begges Audience. That the LORD would attend to him and to his Cauſe. This he urgeth from, 1. The righteouſneſſe of his Cauſe. 2. The ſincerity of his Prayer, verſe 1. 2. 3. His own integrity, both 1 In heart, 2 In word, And 3 in actions: Confirmed by Gods own Experimental and accurate probation of him, verſe 3. 4.

II. David Prayes more particularly, For Gods Protection againſt, and Deliverance from his enemies. 1. The LORD's Protection petitioned for, is (1) Branched out into ſundry particular requeſts, As, 1. That his ſteps may be ſtabliſhed in Gods paths from ſliding, or moving, verſe 5. 2. That his ſpecial requeſt may be granted, verſe 6. 3. That Gods Protecting-Mercies may be mademarvellous upon him, verſe 7. 4. That God would keep him as the very Apple of the Eye, viz. moſt tenderly, ſecretly, and ſafely: And hide him in the ſhadow of his wings from his enemies, verſe 8. 9. (2) Urged by Arguments drawn from his enemies. 1. Extreame malice; Enemies to Saul 2. Power; environing him round about, verſe 9. 3. Pride, verſe 10. 4. Subtilty, verſe 11. 5. Lion-like fierceneſſe and cruelty, verſe 12. II. The LORD's deliverance of him from his enemies, is urged by divers Arguments, drawn; 1. Partly, from his enemies themſelves: As, (1) They are wicked. (2) They are but Gods Sword and Hand, to chaſtiſe him, muſt come and go at his meer pleaſure. 3. They are but mortal-men of this tranſitory-world, having all their Portion, Hope, and Happineſſe only in this preſent life, verſe 13, 14. 2. Partly, from himſelf, Having hope of enjoying the Face and Favour of God to his full ſatisfaction in a better life, after he ſhall awake out of the Duſt in Gods likeneſſe, verſe 15.

Pſalme XVIII.

§. I. The Summary Contents.

David, delivered from the hand of all his enemies, and from the hand of Saul his grand enemy, in teſtimony of his ſingular thankfulneſſe, declares; I. His endeared affection to the LORD, verſe 1. II. His triumphant confidence in the LORD, verſe 2. III. His enlarged Praiſes of the LORD for his deliverances, verſe 3, &c. Deſcribing, 1. The Depth of his Miſeries, verſe 4, 5. 2. The way or manner how the LORD delivered him, verſe 6. to 29. 3. His Praiſes for this deliverance, verſ. 29. to 43. 4. The enlargement alſo of his Kingdom, verſ. 43. to 46. 5. §. II. The Verſion out of the Hebrew

To the Maſter-Muſician, A Song of the Servant of the LORD, of David, who ſpake to the LORD the words of this Song, in the day the Lord had delivered him from the hand of all his enemies, and from the hand of Saul. And he ſaid;

I.

1. I Will love thee, O LORD, my ſtrength,
2. The LORD is my Rock, and my fortreſs (dear.
My God, and my Deliverer, (tryde,
My Rock in whom I will confide:
My ſhield, Of my Salvation
The Horn likewiſe, My Refuge-high.
3. The praiſed LORD I call'd upon,
And ſaved from my foes was I.

4. Me fright did ſtreams of Belial,
And pangs of death about-me-went.
5. Surround me did the pangs of Hell,
The Snares of Death did me prevent.

6. I in my ſtraits call'd on the LORD,
And to my God cryde in my fewes:
My voice he from his Palace heard,
And my cry came unto his eares.

II.

7. Then Earth amaz'd did ſhake and quake,
And mov'd the Mounts foundations were,
And greatly they-themſelves-did-ſhake,
Becauſe ſo-wroth he did appear.

8. Smoak from his noſtrils did aſcend,
And fire devouringly-did eat
Which from his mouth he forth did ſend, a Heb. I will love thee entirely with inmoſt bowells.

b Heb. properly, my fortifyd Refuge to retreat to unto when purſued, or hunted.

e Heb. dolorous pangs renting in pieces of, pinching coals. חבלי cheble, Hence perhaps comes our word, Cable.
f Heb. before his face.
g Heb. burning wrath was to him.

Hot

Hot Coales enkindled were thereat.

9. Beneath his feet did darkneſs ly
When Heav'ns he bowd, and did deſcend.
10. He rode on Cherub, and did fly:
He ſwiftly-flew on wings of wind.

h Heb. put or ſet.
i Heb. his pavilion or his-covert.
k Heb. darkneſs of waters.

11. His ſecret place he darkneſſe h made,
About-him-round i Pavilion-wiſe
k Dark waters orderly were laid,
In thick-clouds of the lofty skies.

12. From ſhining-brightneſſe, then that was Before-his-preſence mov'd with ire,
His thickeſt-clouds away-did-paſſe,
Haile-ſtorme, and burning coales of fire.

13. And in the Heav'ns with dreadful noiſe
The LORD did thunder in his ire,
The Higheſt alſo gave his voice.
Haile-ſtorme and burning coales of fire.

§. III. The Kinde, penman, Occaſion, and Scope.

The Kinde of this Excellent Song, recorded alſo in 2 Sam. 22. 1, &c ſome few words being changed, is; 1. As to the Forme of it; Entituled. 2. As to the Subject-matter of it, is chiefly made up of Praiſes and thankful acknowledgements to God, with the intermixture of ſome Prophetical Predictions, verſe 43. 44. 45. 49. Rom. 15. 8, 9. So that it is of a mixed Nature: Euchariſtical and Prophetical.

Penman of it, was David.

The Occaſion, The LORD's delivering of him at laſt from all his enemies, and eſpecially from King Saul his moſt conſtant, cruel, and mortal enemy. The time when: viz. In the day of his deliverance. Compare the Title with 2 Sam. 22. 51. and 23. 1. whence it ſeems more then probable, That David Penned this Song not long before his Death, after God had ſetled his Kingdom: for immediately after this *S*ong it is there ſaid; Now theſe are the laſt words of David. This Song then is a thankful Abſtract, or, Abridgement of Davids Triumphs over all his enemies not long before his Death: Davias omnixion y, or victorial Song; wherein he moſt thankfully commemorates the Power, Wiſdome, Juſtice, Goodneſſe, Providence, and Benefits of God, manifeſted to him throughout his life.

y Hen. Mollerus in Prælect. ad Pſal. 18. Argument. Sim. de Muis in Arg. Pſal. 18.

Davids Scope here intended, is; With triumphing thankfulneſſe to praiſe God for his full deliverance from King Saul, and from all his enemies before his death: and for enlarging his Kingdom even unto the Gentiles, which he hopes ſhall be ſtill increaſed, verſe 43, 44, 45. Herein David was a notable Type of Jeſus Chriſt z, the great King of Jewes and Gentiles, who ſhould at laſt ſubdue and tread all his enemies under his feet, and ſettle his Spiritual Kingdom in everlaſting peace even among the Gentiles alſo. Thus Paul applyes this Song to Chriſt: compare verſe 43, 44, 45, 49. with Rom. 15. 8, 9.

z Joan. Calvin. in Argum. Pſal. 18. Hen. Moller. in Arg. Pſal. 18. D. Pareus in Adverſar. in Pſal. 18.

§. IV. The Analyſis, or Principal Parts.

In the Title of this Song, are; 1. The Muſical direction of it. 2. The Denomination of it; A Song, Or, Pſalme: for the word is wanting in the Hebrew. 3. The Penman; David, the ſervant of the LORD. 4. The occaſion; The Lords deliverance of him from the hand of all his enemies, and from the hand of Saul. 5. The time when he ſpake theſe words; In the day wherein the LORD delivered him.

In the Body of this Song, Here are in reference to Davids deliverance;

I. Davids moſt dear and inward affection to the LORD, his ſtrength, verſe 1.

II. Davids triumphant confidence in the LORD, deſcribed here by an heap of ſweet Metaphorical expreſſions; Rock, Fortified-Refuge, &c. ſetting forth the All-ſufficient Protection, ſafety and deliverance which he had in and from God, whereupon his Faith ſtill relyed, verſe 2.

III. Davids thankful Praiſes to God for his Deliverances from his enemies, when he called upon the praiſed LORD, verſ. 3. Herein David, 1. Points out Emphatically his deep miſery in which he was involved, verſ. 4, 5. II. Declares how the LORD delivered him out of all theſe miſeries by degrees, viz. 1. By hearing his Prayer, verſ. 6. 2. By many Majeſtical and glorious tokens of Gods preſence, moſt comfortable to David, but moſt terrible to his enemies, verſ. 7. to 16. 3. By the wonderfulneſſe of his deliverances, David (like another Moſes, Exod. 2. 10.) being drawn out of many waters, verſ. 16, 17, 18. 4. By the Cauſes of the LORD's thus delivering him: (1) Impulſive, Gods pleaſure and delight in David, verſ. 19. (2) Final, That hereby the LORD might graciouſly reward him according to his innocency and integrity before him: God being wont to deal with men according to their deportment towards him, verſ. 20. to 28. III. Triumphs moſt thankfully and joyfully for theſe his Deliverances, in many Heroick and Elegant Expreſſions, like a mighty Conqueror victoriouſly trampling upon the necks of all his enemies, verſ. 28. to 43. IV. Acknowledgeth not only his deliverance from his enemies, but alſo the Enlargement of his Kingdom even to the Heathen, who hearing of his fame did quake and ſubmit to him, wherein he was a ſpecial Type of Chriſt, whoſe Kingdom over the Gentiles as well as Jews is here prophetically foretold, verſe 43. to 46. V. Concludeth all, with ſweet Profeſſions of preſent, and Promiſes of future gratitude: not only gratefully, but Prophetically, verſe 46. to the end, compared with Rom. 15. 8, 9.

PSALME

Psalme XIX.

§. I. The Summary Contents.

David in this choice Psalme, I. Teacheth, How God reveals himself in his two Great Volumes, viz. 1. In the Book of Nature, by his Works. Especially, by (1) The Heavens. (2) The out-spread-Firmament, verse 1. (3) The seasons of Day and Night, verse 2,3,4. (4) The Sun, verse 5, 6. 2. In the Books of Scripture more clearly by his Word: which Word is (1) Described by its Denominations, Properties, and Effects, verse 7. to 10. (2) Commended and magnified highly, verse 10, 11. II. Prayeth hereupon, 1. Against Secret sinnes, and Presumptuous sinnes, verse 12, 13. 2. For the LORD's acceptance of his words and meditations, vers. 14.

§. II. The Version out of the Hebrew.

To the Master-Musician, A Psalme of David.

I.

1. THe Heav'ns declare the glory of God;
And th' out-spread-firmament
Doth shew a his handy work abroad.
2. Speech Day to day b doth vent;
And night to night the year about
Such knowledge hath declar'd.
3. No speech, nor words the earth throughout,
Where their voice is not heard.

4. Their c line through all the earth is gone,
And to the worlds extent
Their speeches reach: He for the Sun
In them hath set a Tent.
5. And he as Bridegroom shining bright
Comes from his d bridal-place:
Rejoyceth as e a man-of-might
To run a speedy race.

6. His egress from Heav'ns utmost-end, f His compassing retreat
Doth to their utmost-limits tend,
And none's hid from his heat.

II.

7. JEHOVAH's Law is perfect-pure,
And g doth the Soul convert:
JEHOVAH's Testimony h sure,
Makes wise the simple heart.

8. The Precepts of the LORD are right,
Gladning the heart with joyes:
The LORD's Command is pure and bright,
Enlightening the eyes.
9. JEHOVAH's Feare is clean, and doth
For-evermore abide:
The Judgements of the LORD are Trueth,
Together justifyde.

§. III. The Kinde, Penman, and Occasion.

This excellent Psalme is of a Mixt Kinde [u], made up of Doctrine and Prayer.

Penman of it, David.

Occasion of Davids Penning it is not laid down here, or elsewhere: and therefore it is hard to be certainly determined. The Apostle Paul in Rom. 10. 18. alledgeth part u Psalmus est generis mixti, partim διδασκαλικὸς, partim ὁμολογικὸς. Andr. Rivet. in Arg. &c. Psal. 19.

part of verse 4. according to the Greek Version of the LXXII interpreters, thus; But I say, have they not heard? yes verily, Their sound went into all the Earth, and their words unto the ends of the World. Hence, some Expositors [x] understanding this of Paul, touching the Sound or Preaching of the Gospel, have understood the first part of this Psalme Allegorically, turning it into an Allegory. But what need is there of flying here to Allegories? For we may say; 1. Either, That the Apostles Allegation is only an Allusion to that of the Psalmist. That as the Psalmist said of the Heavens, Firmament, Day and Night, That their line is gone out into all the Earth, &c. so it may be said of the Preaching of the Gospel to the Gentiles by the Apostles, That their word is gone out to the ends of the world. See Act. 2. 4, 5, &c. Rom. 15. 19. Paul himself had preached the Gospel round about from Jerusalem to Illyricum, which (as Pareus noteth) is above 300 Germane miles in a straight line [y]. And it is usual with Scripture to allude to the Phrase, not intending the sense of the Place. As in Matth. 2. 15, 23. 2 Cor. 8. 14, 15. compared with Exod. 16. 28. 2. Or rather [z], That the Apostle doth properly alledge both Phrase and Sense of this Text, to prove, That God had preached himself, his Glory, Power, &c. by his works of Creation universally to all the Gentiles. Which Preaching, though it were not fully sufficient to their salvation: much lesse abundant means thereto, as some [a] have fondly doted: yet, being not fully followed by the Gentiles, it shall be sufficient to their Damnation, and to the leaving of them without excuse, Rom. 1. 18, 19, 20, 21, &c. Acts 14, 15, 16, 17.

y David Pareus in Comment. ad Rom. 15. 19.

a Joh. Goodwin in his Divine Authority of Scripture, &c. p. 181, 182, 183. Lond. 1648.

§. IV. The Scope.

The Scope intended in this Psalme is, 1. Partly, To teach and declare, How the Nature, Glory, Power, and Excellencies of God are displaid, Generally unto all the World by the Ordinary Book of Nature, especially by the Heavens, the Revolution of day and night, The Motion and Influence of the Sun: Particularly unto the Church by the Extraordinary and Supernatural Book of Scripture, far more clear and perfect then the Book of Nature: and without which the Book of Nature is not effectual to Salvation. 2. Partly, To begg of the LORD cleansing from secret sinnes, Preservation from presumptuous sinnes, And acceptation of his addresses to God.

§. V. The Analysis, or Principal Parts.

In the Title note, 1. The direction of this Psalme as to the Musick of it. 2. The Denomination of it; A Psalme. 3. The Penman; David.

In the Body or Substance of this Psalme, are 1. Doctrine, touching God. 2. Prayer, unto God.

I. Doctrine touching God: viz. How God reveales himself to be known and worshipped, and the twofold way thereunto, Natural, and Supernatural, in his two great Books or Volumes: In his Book of Nature, by his Works or Creatures; In his Book Supernatural, His Word and Scriptures. In that, more darkly, to all Man-kind: In this, more clearely, to the Church onely.

1. Gods Glory revealed in the Book of the Creatures, is set forth by instances of some Particular Creatures, on which the Glory of God is more eminently enstamped. As, 1. The Heavens. 2. The out-spread firmament, vers. 1. 3. The Seasons of Day and Night, ordered by the constant Revolutions of the Heavens. Speech, words, &c. by an elegant Prosopopœia being ascribed to them, because they constantly and universally all the wide World over display Gods glory, vers. 2, 3, 4. 4. The Sun, that illustrious part of the Heavens, elegantly described, 1 By his place. 2 By his glorious Ornament. 3 By his speedy course and Motion round about the Heavens. 4 By his all-piercing Heat and Influence, vers. 5, 6.

2. Gods Glory revealed in the Book of Scriptures, the Word and Law of God, is set forth more fully and clearly, to the Church. This Law or Word of God is I. Positively described by six several Denominations or Titles; Amplyfied by six several Properties, and six severall Effects towards us. Every Title having his peculiar Property and special effect remarkably appropriated thereunto respectively, verse 7, 8, 9. II. Comparatively preferred before, 1. Gold, much fine Gold, for worth: (Gold of Havilah, Gen. 2. 11, 12. of Ophir, 1 King. 9. 28. or of Uphaz, which is chief of all, Jer. 10. 9. Dan. 10. 5. Job 28. 15. Psal. 119. 72.) 2. Honey, or Liquor of Honey-Combes Combes for sweetnels, *ver.*10. III. Notably commended, 1. From his own present advantage by the Word, clearly warning him. 2. From the future great recompence that shall be to all right observers of the Word, vers. 11.

II. Prayer unto God, occasioned upon consideration of this exactnesse, purity and perfection of the Word of God. Herein are, 1. An emphatical confession of every mans un-intelligible errours, laid down by way of Interrogation. 2. A threefold earnest Petition, 1. For cleansing from secret faults, *ver.*12. 2. For Preservation from proud presumptuous sins, and their dominion over him, urged from the spiritual commodity that would thence ensue to him, viz. Partly, Hereby, his integrity should be discovered. Partly, hereby his guilt of much or great trespass should be prevented, *vers.*13. 3 For acceptation of his words and meditations before the LORD, acknowledged to be his Rock, on whom he relied for safety; and his Redeemer, from whom he expected all spiritual deliverance. *ver.*14.

Or (as that learned Rivet [b] hath observed) This Mist Psalm is Partly Doctrinal, Partly Petitory, it teacheth the true Knowledge and Worship of God: and shewes the twofold way of bringing man thereunto; viz. The whole Frame of Nature; and the divine Revelation to the Prophets. Both which he so conjoynes, that he may enough shew the first to be insufficient without the second, in mans lapsed and corrupt state; the second to be necessary that the first may be profitable, and that from both we may derive things conducible to our salvation. And because, even after Gods benigne Revelation of Sacred Doctrine in Holy Scriptures, yet our defects and infirmities both in Knowledge and Practice remain, The Prophet after humble acknowledgment of his weakness, adds Prayers for remission of sins, and increase of Grace and divine Protection.

[b] Andr. Rivet. in Argum. & c. Psal. 19.

Whence we collect, That the whole Psalme may most commodiously be distributed into three Parts, according to the threefold school, to which he calls and leads us by his Example.

1. The first Part treats of the First School, or Kinde of Instruction, which is universal or common to all men, by the Contemplation of the Creatures.

2. Of the particular School, proper to the Church, with whom God hath deposited in-trust his Oracles, which he hath not done to any Nation without the Church.

3. Of the School of special Grace, inward, effectual, solid and perpetual, which is referred to the Unction of the Spirit, which teacheth us all things in a true and saving way. Sohe.

Psalme XX.

§. I. The Summary Contents.

In this Psalme David brings in the Church, as, 1. Blessing, and praying for her King in his Exploits, ver. 1. to 6. 2. Professing her affiance in God alone, both in reference to her King and herself, vrr. 6. to 9. 3. Petitioning the LORD to save, and that the King [as Type, Christ as Antitype] may hear them, *ver.*9.

§. II. The Version out of the Hebrew.

To the Master-Musician, A Psalme of David.

1. THe Name of Jakob's God thee [a] send,
The LORD in day of straits thee hear.
2. Thine help from Sanctuary send,
And thee support from Sion dear.

3. [b] Record thy Gifts all, and convert
To-ashes [c] thy-burnt-sacrifice. Selah.
4. Give thee according-to-thine-heart,
Fulfil thy counsel all likewise.

5. Wee'l shout in thy salvation,
And set our Banners up we will
In Name of our great God alone:
The LORD all thy requests fulfil.

6. Now I do know and understand,
[d] The LORD saves his Anointed dear
With [e] saving strength of his right-hand,
Him from his [f] holy Heav'ns hee'l hear.

7. Of chariots these, and these the same
Of Horses do proclaim abroad:
But we make mention of the Name
And glory of the LORD our God.

8. They do-bow-down, they also fall:
But we rise-up, and stand-upright.
9. Save LORD, in day when we do call Us answer let the King of might.

[a] Heb. Set thee on high viz. in an high refuge, & some danger.
[b] Heb. remember.
[c] Heb. thine Ascension. For, burnt-offerings were wholly given up to God in fire. Levit. 1. 3, 9, 13.
[d] Heb. That the LORD.

§. III.

§. III. The Kinde, Penman, and Occasion.

This Psalme as to the Kinde of it, is A Prayer of the Church for her King, for King David especially.

Penman of it was David, who speaks of himself here in the third person: David, as a Prophet, is guided by the Spirit to direct the Church to pray for him, as King.

Occasion, probably was Davids encountring with divers strong and well-armed Enemies, as the Ammonites and Syrians g, who came against him with many Chariots and Horses, wherein they trusted, whereof they boasted: which yet David notably took and destroyed. Compare verse 7, 8. with 2 Sam. 10. and 1 Chron. 19.

g Hen. Moller. in Arg. Psal. 20. Sim. de Muis in Arg. Psal. 20. Jo. Calvin in Com. ad Psal. 20. 1.

§. IV. The Scope.

The Scope herein intended, is: By this form of words, to direct the Church, How in an ordinary course to pray for their King, and every godly Magistrate, and for themselves, when he and they should go forth at any time against their Enemies. And to raise Israel, to have a principal regard to the prosperity of Christ and his Spiritual Kingdome against all opposing evils and enemies, under the Type of David and his temporal Kingdome: as Calvin h hath well observed.

h Jo. Calv. in Com. ad Psal. 20. 1.

§. V. The Analysis, or Principal Parts.

In the Title are, 1. The direction of it as to the Musick. 2. The Denomination of it; A Psalme. 3. The Penman of it; David. Eleven Psalmes have precisely this Title, viz. those mentioned, in Analysis of Psal. 13.

In the Body of this Psalme, of this Prayer, note, I. The Churches Petitory Benediction of her King: 1. Intreating the LORD, 1. To hear him in his straits. 2. To defend and advance him safe above danger, ver. 1. 3. To succour and support him from Sion's Sanctuary, where the token of Gods presence, the Ark, was, ver. 2. 4. To accept his Sacrifices, testifying that his acceptance by turning them to ashes, ver. 3. 5. To fulfil his Will and Counsel, and grant all his requests. This is urged, from her Praises and Triumphs in Gods Name and Salvation hereupon, ver. 4, 5. II. The Churches fiducial Profession, 1. Of her Assurance that the LORD will Answer, Save, and Deliver her King, ver. 6. 2. Of her confidence and glorying in God alone, not in Horses and Chariots, ver. 7. 3. Of her perswasion of her own safety, but her Enemies ruine, ver. 8. III. The Churches Petitions for herself, 1. That the LORD would save them. 2. That he would answer them when they call upon him, ver. 9.

Psalme XXI.

§. I. The Summary Contents.

The Church and Psalmist, I. Praise God, 1. For his Mercies to their King, ver. 1. to 8. 2. For his Judgments upon the Kings Enemies, ver. 8. to 13. II. Pray for the continuance of Gods Favours, ver. 13.

§. II. The Version out of the Hebrew.

To the Maſter-Muſician, A Pſalme of David.

1. LORD, in thy might the King ſhall joy:
Likewiſe exult how vehemently
Shall hee in thy Salvation?
2. His heart's deſire giv'n him thou haſt:
Nor didſt with-hold his lips a requeſt. Selah
3. For, him thou doſt prevent alone;
With b gifts of goodneſſe manifold
Doſt c crown his Head with fineſt gold.
4. Hee d ask't thee life, Thou gav'ſt it him:
For e ever, length of dayes compleat.
5. His glory in thine health is great,
Thou f Grace and Honour laidſt in him.
6. For thou didſt g make him bleſſings ay;
With thy ſweet countenances ray
In joy thou-haſt-him-cheerful-made.
7. For in the LORD the King confides;
And he ſhall not be moov'd-aſide;
Through Mercy of the Higheſt Sai'd.
8. Thine hand ſhall finde out all thy foes;
Yea, thy right hand ſhall finde out h thoſe,
That thee maliciouſly do hate.
9. Thou'lt ſet them as an ov'n of fire
i When thou art wroth: The LORD in's ire
Wilt them devoure, k Them fire ſhall eat.
10. Their fruit from earth deſtroy ſhalt thou;
And from the Sons l of men below
Thou ſhalt extirpate all their Seed.
11. For, ill to thee they did intend,
m Their thoughts to miſchief they did bend,
The which they could not make ſucceed.
12. For, thou wilt ſet them as a Butt,
Thoul't with thy ſtrings prepare to ſhoot
Againſt their lofty countenance.
13. O LORD, be-thou-exalted-hie

§. III. The Kinde, Penman, and Occaſion.

This Pſalme is of a mixt Kinde, made up of Praiſe and Prayer, but chiefly of Praiſe. And as the former Pſalme was Penned to be a Forme of Prayer to the Church touching her King, &c. So this Pſalme is Penned as a Forme of Praiſe and Thankſgiving, wherewith the King and the Church might thankfully exalt Gods praiſes for his great and manifold goodneſſe to his King, againſt all his enemies o. And under this Kingdome, Glorious Majeſty, the Enemies, Victories, &c. of David, ſeem here to be ſhadowed out the Kingdome, Glory, Enemies, Conqueſts, &c. of Jeſus Chriſt himſelf, that true David, that King of Kings, wherein the Church of God eſpecially triumpheth p. That paſſage of, Life for ever and ay, verſe 4. ſeems to have its moſt proper accompliſhment in Chriſt.

David was Penman of this Pſalme. He ſpeaks of himſelf in the third Perſon, as directing the Church by his Spirit of Prophecy how to bleſs God for him.

The Occaſion is not particularly pointed out, But from the Subject-matter of the Pſalme it is very probable, it was Penned upon Occaſion of Gods advancing David to the Regall Throne, and putting a Royal Crown of Fine-Gold upon his Head, notwithſtanding the malevolence of all his Enemies. See verſe 2, 3, 4, &c.

§. IV. The Scope.

The Scope of this Pſalme is, To Praiſe and Magnifie the LORD for his ſingular Salvation and manifold Benedictions vouchſafed according to their earneſt Prayer in Pſal. 20. unto David their King, and to expreſſe their Confidence of the Deſtruction of all Gods and his Enemies.

§. V. The Analyſis, or Principal Parts.

In the Title, note, 1. The Direction of it, as to the Muſick. 2. The Denomination of it; A Pſalme. 3. The Penman, David. Eleven Pſalmes have this Title: See Analyſ. of Pſal. 13.

In the Body of the Pſalme, are Praiſes, and Prayer.

I. The Churches and Davids Praiſes, are; Generally, For Gods ſtrength and ſalvation to their King verſe 1. Particularly, For Gods Mercies on their King; and his judgements on Gods Enemies.

I. Gods Mercies to their King were expreſſed, Partly, According to his deſire, verſe 2. Partly, Beyond his deſire, verſe 3. to 8. As, 1. His Royal Dignity and Crown, verſ. 3. 2. Length of dayes, yea Immortality of Life, verſe 4. 3. Great Majeſty and Honour, verſe 5. 4. His being made Perpetual Bleſſings. 5. His refreſhing joy from Gods Countenance, verſe 6. 6. His Eſtablishment by the Mercy of God, in whom he trusted, vers. 7. II. Gods judgements upon his enemies are described, 1. By their inevitablenesse. Gods hand, right-hand shall finde, &c. verse 8. 2. By their facile and full execution, illustrated by Similitudes, verse 9. 3. By their Extent, reaching not only the wicked, but all their Seed, verse 10. 4. By the Equity thereof. They opposed God: Therefore God justly sets against them, verse 11. 5. By Gods Exact Ordering and levelling his judgements as Arrows, against the wicked, as his Butt; yea, against their very face, as his Mark, verse 12.

II. The Churches Prayer, for continuance of Gods Salvation and strength already vouchsafed, for the further Glory thereof amnog his people, verse 13.

Psalme XXII.

§. I. The Summary Contents.

In this choice Prophetical Prayer, David the Type in the person of Christ the Antitype, I. Prayes to his God, 1. That he may not be utterly deserted in his extreams distresses. Urging this his request by many sad complaints interwoven with a Narrative of his deep sufferings, verse 1. to 19. 2. That he may be rescued and delivered out of all his miseries, verse 19. to 22. II. Praiseth God upon his assurance that these his requests shall be granted verse 22. to the end.

§. II. The Version out of the Hebrew.

To the Master-Musician a upon Ajeleth Hashachar, A Psalme of David.

a Or, Heb. Concerning the Hinde of the morning viz. (as some think) Christ, hunted and worried by Iews and Gentiles, those doggs verse 16. in the morning Iohn 18. 28. and rose from death early in the morning, Iohn 20. 1.

I.

1. MY God, my God, Why leav'st thou me? Why from mine Health art farre-away,
From words of my roaring to thee?
2. My God, I cry to thee-by-day,
Yet hear'st thou not: likewise by-night;
No silence yet to me befell.
3. But thou art holy b inhabiting
The Praises of thine Israel.

b Heb. sitting in the praises, &c.

4. In thee our Fathers did confide:
They trusted, c them thou didst deliver.
5. They cryde to thee, and they were freed:
They hop'd in thee, and bash't were d never.
6. But, I worm, and not man appear:
e Men's shame, despis'd of People too.
7. All they that see me at me-jear.
They wag the head, f with lip they mow.

c Heb. And them—— d Heb. not e Heb. the reproach of men.
f Heb. they thrust out the lip.

8. They say, He on the LORD g relyde,
That so deliver-him-he-might:
Let him deliver him h at this tide,
Sith that in him he-doth-delight.

g Heb. He confidently-turned, or rolled, i. e. he trusted, Matth. 27. 43. Properly roll thou for het tolled. h Gr. now, Math. 27. 43.

9. But thou the belly drew'st me from,
On i Mothers breasts my hope-thou-wast.
10. Thou art my God, from k Mothers womb, l from the womb on thee was cast.

i Heb my mothers ——
k Heb. my mother ——

II.

11. O be not thou far from me gone,
Because distresse so near is found
Because-that helper there is none.
12. Me many Bullocks did-surround:
Yea mighty-Bulls of Bashan's flore
l Environ'd-me on-every-side
13. Like Lion that doth rend and roare,
Their mouth on me they open-wide.

l Heb properly, They compassed me-round as a-crown.

14. Like water poured out-I am,
My bones all part-themselves likewise;
My fainting heart like wax became:
m Amidst my bowels molten dyes. (hath,
15. My strength like potsheard withered-
And to my jawes my tongue doth cleave:
And into dust of doleful death
Thou n brought'st me down, to darksome Grave

m Heb. it hath melted in midst of my bowels.
n Heb. didst bound me, or, didst confine me; properly.

16. For, Doggs encompassed-me-round.
o Ill-doers company and bands
Have me inclos'd, me to confound:
My feet they pierced and my hands.
17. Yea all my Bones I number-may:
They did behold, they did me view.
18. To them my Garments parted they;
And on my Vesture lot they threw.

o Heb. The Assembly of Malignant.

19. But

19. But be not thou far-off, O LORD:
My ſtrength, make-haſte to ſuccour me.
20. My Soule deliver from the Sword:
From Dogg's great pow'r p my dearling free.
21. Me ſave from Lion's mouth: and well
From Hornes of Unicornes me hear.
22. Thy Name I'le to my Brethren tell:
Amidſt the Church I'le praiſe thee there.

p Heb. my-alonely-one. or my-onely-one.

III.

23. Yee fearers of the LORD, him Praiſe,
Him glorify all Jacob's Seed:
And all yee Iſraels Seed alwayes
Becauſe of him be ye in dreed.
24. For, He th' affliction of q the-poor
Hath not deſpiſed nor abhorr'd,
Nor from him hid his face therefore:
And when he cryd to him, he heard.

q Heb. the-poor-afflicted. or, meek-afflicted.

25. In the great Congregation
My Prayer ſhall be of thee alway:
My r vow'd-engagements every one
Before his fearers I will pay.

r Heb. vowes.

26. Eat ſhall the poor-afflicted-meek, Likewiſe be ſatisfyde ſhall they;
They ſhall the LORD praiſe, that him ſeek:
Your heart refreſht ſhall live for ay.

27. Earth's Confines all remember ſhall,
They to the LORD ſhall turn alſo:
And Families of Gentiles all
Before ſ thy face themſelves-ſhall-bow.
28. Becauſe the Kingdome is the LORD's:
t Among the Gentiles Ruler known.
29. All fat-ones that the Earth affords Shall eat, And ſhall-themſelves-bow-down:

s Heb. thy faces.

t Heb. And among——

All thoſe that to the duſt deſcend,
And he that quickneth not his Soul,
Before his face they ſhall-down-bend.
30. A Seed u ſhall-ſtoop-to-his-controule,
It for a Generation ſhall
Unto the LORD accounted be.
31. They ſhall come, and his juſtice tell
To People x born, that this did he.

u Heb. ſhall ſerve him.

x viz. that ſhall be borne.

§. III. The Kinde, Penman, and Occaſion.

This Excellent Pſalme is a ſacred Mixture of Prayer and Prophecy y; A Praying Prophecy, or A Prophetical Prayer.

David (as ſuſtaining the Perſon of Chriſt, of whom he was an Eminent Type) was Penman of it: Title ſtiles it, A Pſalme of David.

The Occaſion of his Penning it is uncertain. But it is a very clear and Pathetical Prophecy of Chriſt, and his Deep Humiliation in divers degrees, with the fruits thereof. It is to be interpreted, Partly of David, as the Type of Chriſt, ſome few things therein being applicable to David: But Principally of Chriſt himſelf, moſt paſſages therein being proper and peculiar to Chriſt alone, or to Chriſt more then to David. For, In the New Teſtament, Chriſt makes uſe of ſome Expreſſions in this Pſalme himſelf; compare verſe 1. with Matth. 27. 46. and Mark 13. 34. Chriſts Enemies uſurp ſome againſt him; compare verſe 8. with Matth. 27. 43. The Evangeliſts and Apoſtles accommodate others to Chriſt; compare verſe 7. with Matth. 27. 43.——and verſe 16. with Matth. 27. 35. Mark 15. 24. Luke 23. 33. Joh. 19. 23, 37.——and verſe 18. with Luke 23. 34. Joh. 19. 24.——and verſ. 22. with Heb. 2. 12.

y Vid. Auguſtin. in Enarrat. Pſal. 21. Tom. 8. Joan. Calvin. in Arg. Pſal. 22 Andr. Rivet. in Arg. Pſal. 22. H. Moller. in Arg. Pſal. 22. Sim. de Muis in Arg. Pſal. 22.

§. IV. The Scope.

The Scope is, Prophetically to foretell the deep Humiliation and extream ſufferings of Jeſus Chriſt, He being Prophetically repreſented, as Complaining and Lamenting ſadly under his Sufferings, and as intreating the LORD God his Father not to leave him in theſe his extreame ſtraits, but ſeaſonably to deliver him out of all, that the ſweet fruits both of his Paſſion and Deliverance may abound both among Jews and Gentiles.

§. V. The Analyſis, or Principal Parts.

In the Title note, 1. The Direction of the Pſalme as to the Muſick of it. 2. The Matter, or Subject of it; upon Ajeleth Haſhachar, The Hinde of the Morning, Chriſt, as ſome Expound it: Or it denotes ſome Muſical Tune or Inſtrument, as others. 3. The Denomination; A Pſalme. 4. The Penman; David.

In the Body of the Pſalme, of this choice Prophetical Prayer, which is a clear and lively Repreſentation of Chriſt Crucified, we have

I. Chriſts earneſt Prayer to his God in his deep Humiliation, importunately begging, 1. That he might not be deserted or forsaken of his God in his extream distresses, vers. 1. to 19. This is Amplyfied and urged by many sad complaints interwoven with a Narrative of his great Sufferings, As, 1. His Desertion in some sort in his straits by his God, verse 1. 2. His Prayers unsuccessfulnesse: Though presented with 1 Faith, 2 Fervency, and 3 Constancy, verse 1, 2. And directed to a God, 1 Holy in Himself; 2 In Covenant with Israel, and thereupon inhabiting Israels Praises, 3 And a tryed Succourer of Saints of old trusting in him and Praying to him, verse 3,4,5. 3. His great Humiliation; A Worme, &c. 4. His extream contempt from men, verse 6. 5. His Taunts and scornes from them, verse 7. 6. His confidence in God is upbraided by them: but yet their upbraiding is condemned, and his Confidence confirmed by former Experiences of Gods goodnesse to him, verse 8. to 12. 7. His Apprehension and Condemnation by them: they, for their might, multitude, and brutishnesse, being likened to many Bullocks and strong Bulls of Bashan; For their cruelty, to a rending and roaring Lion, verse 12, 13. 8. His Passion, Crucifixion, z piercing his Hands and his Feet; and other concomitant and consequent evils, As their staring upon him, Parting his Garments, Casting Lots upon his Vesture, verse 14. to 19. II. That, He might be rescued and delivered from all these miseries. This is urged by Arguments drawn, 1. From God, accounted and relyed upon as his Strength, verse 19. 2. From the Nature of his afflicting Persecutors, Metaphorically compared to A Sword, A Dogg, The Lions mouth. 3. From his own former Experience of Gods hearing him in Extreamest hazards, vers. 20, 21.

II. Christs zealous Praises promised to God upon assurance of his grant of his former requests, verse 22. to the end. Herein note, 1. The promise of thankfulnesse, verse 22. 2. The performance of this promise. Set forth, By his inciting the Church to Gods praises with him, verse 23. By his Exemplary Praises for their imitation. By sundry cogent Arguments perswading hereunto: As, His respect to his Afflictions; His Hearing of his Cry; His Spiritual Feasting of the Meek, &c. with the satiating sufferings of Christ; And His giving Eternal Life to his own in Christ, verse 24, 25, 26. 3. A Prophetical Prediction, 1 Of the Conversion of the Gentiles, in all Nations, to the LORD, verse 27. 2 Of the Kingdom of Christ the LORD over all; both Rich, and Poor; The fat-ones of the Earth, and them that dwell in the dust, next step to death, and not able to help themselves, verse 28, 29. 3 Of a Seed, and a Generation which the LORD Christ shall have, to serve him, and declare his Righteousnesse to posterity, verse 30. 31.

z Here in the Hebrew are two Readings. In most Copies in the Text כארי As a Lion, my hands, &c. In the Margine כרו (or כארו the letter א being redundant per Epenthesin, for כרו) They digged, or pierced mine hands, &c. which makes perfect sense, and agrees with the Story of the New Testament, Mat. 27. 35. Mar. 15. 24. Luke 23. 33. Joh. 19. 23, 37. And both the Vatican and Alexandrian Septuagint, render it, ὤρυξαν, &c. They digged my hands, &c. This Marginal Reading is followed as the truer, by most. And some Learned Writers confesse that כרו or כארו hath been found in some Ancient Copies in the Margin: And yet כארי by a Grammar Anomalie, may signifie the same that כרו They pierced. Such Anomalies being sometimes found in the Hebrew Text, As Ezra 10. 16. 44. Psal. 10. 15. Brough. Richardson in Psal. 22. 16. The Chaldee Paraphrast, and some others, joyne both readings together, thus; As a Lion they pierced my hands, &c. Mordacies-sicut-Leo manus, &c. But this may not be allowed.

Psalme XXIII.

§. I. The Summary Contents.

David declareth, I. His and the Faithful peoples happinesse under Gods peculiar care and Tuition, represented under the Allegories of 1. A careful Shepherd, verse 1. to 5. 2. A liberal Host, verse 5. II. His and their Hopes in God, for his constant favours for the future, verse 6.

§. II.

§. II. The Version out of the Hebrew.

A Psalme of David.

a Heb. or, Feeding me. or, my Pastor
b Heb. He returneth.
c Heb. properly notes, paths beaten with waggon-wheels, viz. most plainly beaten and made even.

1. I Shall not lack: The LORD a me feeds.
2. He-makes-me-down-to-ly
In folds of budding-grass: mee leads
Of rests the waters by.
3. My fainting soule from deep distress
b He doth restore and take:
In c beaten-paths of righteousnesse
Mee leads, for his Name's sake.
4. Yea, though in vale of deadly shade
I walk, d I'le feare none ill:
For thou with mee: Thy staff, e thy Rod
Mee consolate they will.
5. f Before mee, Table thou hast spread,
In presence of my foes:
With oyle thou g dost Annoint my head,
My full Cup overflowes.
6. Sure, Goodnesse and kinde-Mercy shall Me follow h all my dayes:
And in the LORD's House, best of all,
I shall i converse always.

d Heb. I will not fear ill.
e Heb. and thy.
f Heb. before my faces thou furnishest, or orderly-disposest.
g Heb. dost make fat.
h Heb. all dayes of my life.
i Heb. or, dwell. or, rest to length of dayes, viz. for ever. The root of the word is not שוב but שבת

§. III. The Kinde, Penman and Occasion.

This sweet and comfortable Psalme is Doctrinal and Eucharistical. David was Penman of it. The Occasion not particularly described: yet probably was, The Tranquillity and Prosperity of his Regal condition; when now his enemies being subdued, his Kingdom was calmed and established in his hands, all satisfying blessings with Peace, surrounding him on every side. For, as one k well observes, Here are neither Prayers nor Complaints of any enemies, evils or miseries: but meer thanksgivings for the affluence of Gods blessings, with hopes of the like for the future.

k Andr. Rivet. in Tit. Argum. &c. Psal. 23.

§. IV. The Scope.

The Scope herein, is, Under the pleasant Allegory of A Shepheard and A Sheep, Thankfully to Teach and Declare (in the person of David, sustaining the person of the faithful,) How safe, comfortable, and universally happy their condition is (though in greatest wants and dangers,) who have the LORD as their Shepherd, Providing for them, Conducting and Protecting them. How applicable also is it to the LORD Christ, the great Shepherd of the Sheep, Heb. 13.20. who laid down his life for the Sheep, to redeem them from Death, the Devil and all misery, John 10.15. brings them into his fold, John 10.16. feeding them with the fatnesse of his house, and filling them with all temporal and spiritual blessings.

§ V. The Analysis, or Principal Parts.

The Title (the same with that of Psal. 15. &c. See on Psal. 15. §. 3.) denotes, 1. The Denomination, A Psalme. 2. The Penman, David.

The Substance of the Psalme represents under the Allegory of a Shepherd and Sheep, &c.

I. The present Happinesse of David and the faithful, under Gods peculiar Care and Tuition, This is set forth under a double Allegory l. The Lord being compared, 1. To a careful Shepherd, that (1.) Generally supplies all their wants, vers. 1. (2) Particularly, 1. Feeds them in best Pastures; 2. Leads them to sweet refreshing waters, ver. 2. 3. Relieves them against all their wearisom distresses; 4. Guides them in the beaten-paths of righteousnesse, vers. 3. 5. Protects and comforts them by his Presence, Staffe and Rod, from all deadly harmes, and the very feare thereof. vers. 4. II. To a liberal Hoste, providing for them as his Guests, even in despite of all their distressers, not only things necessary, but superabundant, vers. 5.

l Andr. Rivet. in Tit. Argum. &c. Psal. 23.

II. His and the Faithful's Hopes for future, of the constant continuance of Gods goodnesse, Loving-kindnesse, and the Priviledges of his House unto them, vers. 6.

l Heb. or, The LORD mighty is warre.
m Heb. lift-yee up.
n Heb. Doors of eternity.
o Heb. And enter in ſhall the King of Glory.

§. III. The Kinde, Penman, and Occaſion, &c.

This Pſalme ſeems to be of a mixt Kinde or Nature, chiefly Doctrinal, but partly Prophetical. Penman of it was David; David's Pſalme. Occaſion is not ſo clearly laid down. But, from the matter of it, Some p do probably conjecture that it was compoſed upon occaſion of his bringing up of Gods Ark from the houſe of Obed-Edom to its place prepared for it, in Mount Sion, 2 Sam. 6. 17. which by the Prophet Nathan he had underſtood ſhould be the place where Solomons Temple ſhould be built.

p Andr. Rivet. in Tit. Argum. &c. Pſal. 24.

§. IV. The Scope.

The intended Scope of it may be conſidered, Litterally and Myſtically. 1. Litterally, according to the Letter and Type of the Ark, it is; to teach the Jews, That though the whole World be the LORD's Dominion, yet his ſpecial Kingdome was among among them above all people in the World, affording them the Ark of his presence in his holy Hill Sion. And therefore the Elders of Jerusalem, as some [q], or the Gates of the Temple, as others [r] think, are here spoken unto, that they may give all cheerful entertainment to the Ark, that special token of Gods presence, Exod. 25. 21, 22. Num. 10. 35, 36. and 7, 8, 9. Psal. 80. 1. and 99. 1. And eminent Type of Jesus Christ, the true Ark of God, the true Mercy-seat or Propitiatory, by and in whom the Lord speaks to us and vouchsafes us special presence, &c. Revel. 11. 19. Rom. 3. 25. 1 John 2. 2. Heb. 1. 2. John 1, 18. Ephes. 2. 13, 18, 22. Some joyne both together [s] 2. Mystically, According to the Spiritual Mystery and Truth intended, it is; To set out the Kingdom of Christ, Generally over the whole World, but Peculiarly over his Church and Saints, described by their properties, and dignified with great priviledges; and to incite all to open the Gates of their Hearts, with uplifted joy, to entertain this King.

§. IV. The Analysis, or Principal Parts.

In the Title (the same with that of Psal. 15.) you have, 1. The Denomination; A Psalme. 2. The Penman; David.

In the Body of the Psalme, are

I. A Description of the LORD's Kingdome, which is, 1. More Generall, over all the Earth and World, with all therein: All are his, by right of Creation: He made the dry-land appear out of, and as it were above the waters, verse 1, 2. II. More Special, over his Church and holy people. Who are here Characterized, Dialogue-wise betwixt God and the Psalmist, verse 3. to 7. The Question is Propounded by the Prophet; Who shall be admitted as a Member into, and be continued in the Church, Typified by Mount Sion and the Tabernacle? verse 3. The Answer is given by the Spirit of the Lord, Setting forth the Characters, Priviledges, and Summary Approbation of all true Church-Members, Subjects of the Lords special Kingdom, viz. 1. Their Characters, or Properties; (1) Cleanness of Actions; clean of Hands. (2) Purity of Heart. (3) Truth in words: not engaging their Soul in vain, specially in a deceitful Oath, (Compare Exod. 20. 7. with 2 Cor. 1. 23) vers. 4. 2. Their Priviledges hereupon from the Lord, viz. (1) Benediction. (2) Righteousnesse. even the righteous performance of all his faithful and precious Promises, vers. 5. 3. Their Summary and Emphatical Approbation, as the true Seekers of God, the true wrastling and prevailing Jacobs, verse 6.

II. An Exhortation; 1. Typically, to the Temples Gates (now in the minde and thoughts of David, though as yet unbuilt; and called Everlasting Gates, in Opposition to the moveable and flitting Tabernacle,) that they would, as it were, lift up their heads with joy at the entrance of the glorious Ark, the special Symobl or token of the LORD's presence. 2. Spiritually and Mystically, to the hearts and Souls of both Jews and Gentiles, that they lift up their Heads, as it were, with triumphant joy to the Heavens, to the entertainment of this glorious, mighty, and victorious King, Christ the LORD. This Exhortation is, (1) Doubled, to denote the great importance and importunity of it, verse 7, 9. (2) Explicated, Dialoguewise for the pathetical familiarity of it. The King of Glory, being declared to be, The strong and mighty LORD, the LORD of Hosts, verse 8, 10.

Psalme XXV.

§. I. The Summary Contents.

David in this choice Alphabetical Psalme, I. Petitioneth for, 1. The LORD's protection of him against his enemies, verse 1, 2, 3. 2. His Divine direction in his wayes, &c. verse 4, 5. 3. His peculiar favours to himself in his distressed condition, verse 6, 7. II. Encourageth himself that he shall obtain these his Petitions, from sundry Grounds, verse 8. to 16. III. Concludes his Prayer, with requests,

1. For-

1. Particular, for himself, verse 16. to 22. 2. Generall, for Israel, the Church of God, verse 22.

§. II. The Version out of the Hebrew.

A Psalme of David.

I.

א 1. O Blessed LORD, to thee
Lift-up my Soul do I.
ב 2. On thee, my God, I hope; Let me
Not be sham'd: Let not my Foes exult over-me.
ג 3. Yea, [a] All that-on-thee-wait
Let not be sham'd: sham'd let them be
That causeless [b] work-deceit.

ד 4. O LORD, thy sacred wayes
Do-thou-make-me-to-know:
Thy pleasant Pathes throughout my dayes
Me fully teach do thou.
ה 5. In thy Truth make-me-tread.
ו And teach me, me direct,
For thou art my Salvation's God:
All day I thee expect.

ז 6. O LORD, call-thou-to-minde
Thy Pitry's-bowels-deare,
Likewise thy-mercies-loving-kinde:
For [c] from all ay they were.
ח 7. Do not my [d] trespasses
And my youth's sins record,
[e] Reminde me in thy graciousnesse,
For thy goodnesse O LORD.

II.

ט 8. The LORD is good for ay,
And righteous evermore:
The wandring-sinners, in the way
He will instruct therefore.
י 9. The meek he will conduct
In judgement, him to seek:
And in his way he will instruct
The lowly and the meek.

כ 10. All path-wayes of the LORD
Are Truth and mercy pure
To-them-that-keep his Cov'nant-word,
And [f] Testimonies sure.
ל 11. Thou [g] therefore graciously
O LORD for thine own Name,
Wilt pardon mine iniquity;
For much alas the same.

מ 12. That-man who may he be
That-fears the LORD above?
Him in the way instruct shall he,
He shall choose and approve.
נ 13. In goodnesse shall his Soul
Lodge and unmoved stand:
Likewise his Seed without controule
Inherit shall the Land.

ס 14. His [h] secret doth the Lord
Unto his fearers shew:
And doth his Covenant afford,
To-cause-them-for-to-know.
ע 15. Mine eyes continually
I on the LORD do set:
For he will bring-forth speedily
My feet out of the net.

III.

פ 16. To me [i] respect-have-thou,
And unto me shew-grace:
For I am [k] solitary now,
And in afflicted case.
צ 17. Mine hearts [l] oppressions
Enlarged-are-amaine:
From my [m] sharp-tribulations
O bring-me-forth again.

And all [n] my-tyring-toyle:
And mine offences every-one
Do thou [o] forgive and foyle.
ש 19. See thou mine enemies,
For multiply'd-they-bee:
With hate of violence likewise
They causelesse hated me.

ת 20. My Soul keep, and me rid:
[p] Me let no shame-possesse,
For [q] put my trust in thee I did.
א 21. Preserve me perfectnesse Uprightnesse also shall;
For wait on thee I will.

§. III. The Kinde, Penman, and Occasion, &c.

This Psalme is a most Pathetical, affectionate, and zealous Prayer of the Psalmist, brought into some deep distresses and extream straits by reason of his Enemies. In regard of the outward Forme or Manner of writing it in the Hebrew, it is stiled An Alphabetical Psalme, and is the first Alphabetical Psalme in the whole Book of Psalmes; It's called Alphabetical, because most of the Verses begin with a Letter according to the Order of the Hebrew [r] Alphabet: Except vers. 2. wherein the second word hath ב and verse 5. which hath in it two Hebrew Letters ה and ו and vers. 18. which r Some, to make the Alphabetical Order perfect in this Psalme, would have the verses in it not to be rightly all distinguished: As the 2. and 5th, and קוּם to seem wanting in the beginning of ver. 18. And the last verse to be only the latter part of the foregoing verse. Richardson on Psal. 25.

which hath ר instead of ק and verse 22. which hath ס formerly used in vers. 16. All the rest of the verses are begun with the Letters of the Hebrew Alphabet in order. The like manner, but with some difference, is in six other Alphabetical Psalmes, viz. Psal. 34. 37. 111. 112. 119. 145. Whether this [r] Alphabetical manner was intended, as any way subservient to the Musick, Or as an Help to memory only, or for some other end, is hard to determine, and the Rabbines confesse they are herein wholly to seek: But this is very evident and observable, that those Psalmes which in the Hebrew are penned in this Alphabetical Forme, are among the rest very choice and eminent. Hence also, The Metrical English Version of some Psalmes according to the Order of the English Alphabet, is not unjustifiable.

[r] Sim. de Muis in Argument. ad Psal. 25.

Penman of this Psalme was David, as the Title showes:

The Occasion of this Psalme in the General seems to be, Some great distresse that befell him from his Enemies oppressing him. See verse 2, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20. But whether David Penned this Psalme particularly, upon Occasion of Sauls Hostile persecution of him; or of his own son Absholom's rebellion against him, (which [t] some think most probable, from verse 11. Thou wilt pardon mine iniquity for it is much, or great: which is thought to have reference to his Sin in the Matter of Vrijah, rather then to his numbring of the people, or any other sin;) or of some other enemies opposition: is very hard positively to Determine.

[t] Simeon de Muis in Argum. ad Psal. 25.

§. IV. The Scope.

Davids Scope intended, is; To intreat the LORD's Protection against, and Deliverance from, all his deep distresses, and bitter enemies occasioning them: As also to beg the LORD's gratuitous Pardons of all his iniquities, procuring justly these sharp Castigations.

§. V. The Analysis, or Principal Parts.

In this Psalme consider, 1. The Inscription; Of David. This is the first Psalme having meerly this Title. The self-same Inscription is prefixed to Psal. 26. 27. 28. 35. 37. 109. 138. and to divers others with some Additions. This Title declares David to be Penman of these Psalmes. 2. The Substance of the Psalm it self, which is, A most excellent heavenly Prayer. Wherein note,

I. Davids Petitions presented to the LORD, viz. I. For the LORD's Protection of David against his enemies: That he might not be ashamed and confounded by them, nor they insolently have occasion to triumph over him. This is urged, 1. From Davids Elevation of his very Soule to God only, not looking after other Helps and Hopes. 2. From Davids affiance or hope in God, verse 1, 2. 3. From the desirable fruits or effects which hence would ensue, (1) To all that wait on God. They thus shall not be ashamed in Davids confusions. (2) To all his causelesse perfidious-enemies, they hereupon shall be ashamed, verse 3. II. For his Divine Direction of David, in his Wayes, Pathes, and Truth: that so his enemies and afflictions may not cause him to wander or tread awry. This is urged, 1. From Gods Nature and Office. He is the God of his Peoples safety. 2. From Davids constant expectation upon God, verse 4, 5. III. For the LORD's peculiar favours towards distressed David, viz. 1. His remembrance of his bowel-mercies and loving-kindnesses to David, which have been from eternity, vers. 6. 2. His not remembring, but passing an Act of Oblivion upon, Davids trespasses and sins of youthfulnesse, the procuring causes of present distresses. 3. His remembring of David according to his gracious-kindnes, or kinde-mercy, verse 7.

II. Davids singular Encouragements for obtaining of these his former Petitions, flowing, 1. From Gods sweet Nature, viz. 1 His Goodnesse. 2 His Righteousnesse, or uprightnesse. Therefore the LORD will teach wandring-sinners his wayes, and the meek conduct in judgement, verse 8, 9. 3 His loving-kindnesses. 4 His Truth and Faithfulnes to the keepers of his Covenant and Testimonies, ver. 10. 5. His own Glorious Name. For which he will pardon his iniquity, his great iniquity; which needs much mercy, great mercy, verse 11. 2. From Gods precious Promises to them that fear him, verse 12, 13, 14. 3. From his own constant eye towards God and expectation from him, vers. 15.

III. Davids concluding, or shutting up of his Prayer, with a double Suite, viz. I. More particular, For himself. That God would, 1. Look upon him; 2. Show grace to him desolate and afflicted, vers. 16. 3. Bring him out of his distresses, his hearts distresses being enlarged, verse 17. 4. View his affliction and molestation. 5. Remit all his sins, verse 18. 6. View his enemies, in regard of their multitude, and violent hatred, verse 19. 7. Keep and deliver him from confusion: he trusting in God, verse 20. And according to integrity and uprightnesse waiting upon God, verse 21. II. More General, For the whole Israel or Church of God. That God would redeem it out of all its straits or distresses, verse 22.

§. III. The Kinde, Penman, and Occaſion of this Pſalme.

This P*ſalme* in the Kinde or Nature of it, is A Prayer. Penman of it, as the Inſcription intimates, was David. The Occaſion of it, as may probably be conjectured from the current of the Pſalm, ſeems to be King Sauls alienating his affection and deportment from David, upon the falſe calumnies and aſperſions which Sauls Courtiers in enmity againſt David had ſuggeſted n, whereupon David at laſt left the Court. Herein therefore, David Appeals to God as Judge of his Integrity and Innocency; expounds before him his courſe of life, how he ſtudied Integrity, ſhunned the ſociety of evil perſons, reſolved upon purity of divine worſhip with all zealous affection; Deprecates the ſtate of ſinners and bloody men; Profeſſing his Integrity, prayes for deliverance; And promiſeth thankfulneſs to the LORD.

n Sim. de Muis in Arg. Pſal. 26. H. Moller. in Arg. Pſal. 26.

§. IV. The Scope.

The Scope of the Pſalmiſt in this Prayer is, To intreat the LORD to judge him and appear for him, according to his Integrity before him, and affiance in him, and to preſerve him from the ſins and ſorrows of the wicked, verſ. 1. &c 9. 10.

§. V.

§. V. The Analysis, or Principal Parts.

The Title or Inscription of this Psalme points out to us the Penman, David. See Psal. 20. §. 5.

The Psalme or Prayer it self containes

I. Davids Appeal from all his injurious adversaries, imputations and oppositions against his Name or Life, to the exactest judgement, scrutiny and sentence of the LORD himself, verse 1, &c. The Causes of this his Appeal are Declared and Amplified, I. Declared, viz. 1. His integrity of life. 2. His affiance in the LORD, vers. 1, 2. II. Amplified, 1. By their efficient cause, viz. Gods Loving-kindness, vers. 3. 2. By their Effects, Properties or Companions, viz. 1. Shunning, yea, hating all sinful society with hypocritical and wicked persons, vers 4, 5. 2. Resolving upon cleanness and purity of divine worship, for true and right ends, ver. 6, 7. 3. Testifying his singular affection, and holy zeal to the House and Worship of God, vers. 8.

II. Davids Petitions to the LORD; 1. Not to gather or repute him among sinners, bloody-persons, mischievous ones, and Bribe-takers: either in regard of their sin or punishment, ver. 9, 10. 2. To redeem him from them, and show grace unto him, vers. 11.

III. David's Promise, of solemn praises to God, for thus setting his foot in an even and upright place, ver. 12.

Psalme XXVII.

§. I. The Summary Contents.

David I. Declares, 1. His invincible confidence in the LORD alone, ver. 1, 2, 3. 2. His true zeal and love to Religion, and to Communion with God in his publique Ordinances, ver. 4, 5, 6. III. Encourageth to wait upon the LORD in difficulties, ver. 14.

§. II. The Version out of the Hebrew.

Of David.

1. THe LORD a mine health is, and my light,
Of whom should-I-be-fraid?
The LORD is of my life the might:
For whom then should-I-dread?

2. Against mee b when ill-doers rose
To eat my flesh, with all.
My sore-distressers, and my foes:
They stumbled and did fall.

3. If Camp against me should an hoast,
Mine heart c shall feare despise:
In this I-confidently-trust,
If Warre against me rise.

4. One-thing I asked of the LORD
This ever seek, I will,
That I in House of God the LORD
All my life's dayes d may dwell:

The LORD's delightfulness entire
Therein to view alway,
And in his Palace e to enquire

5. For in the f harmful day,
Hee'l hide mee in his Tabernacle:
Hee'l hide me from assault
Within his Tent's g close receptacle:
On Rock he'l mee exalt.

6. And now mine Head with safety crown'd
Shall-be-exalted-high
Above my foes about-mee-round,
And in his Tent will I
h Joy's Sacrifices sacrifice:
I'le sing and i praise the LORD.

7. LORD when I cry, hear thou my voice:
k Mee hear, mee-grace-afford.

II.

8. When thou didst say, seek ye my face,
Mine heart then said to thee,
LORD, earnestly I'le seek thy face.

9. Hide not thy face from mee,
Nor in thy wrath thy servant l wave
Thou m didst help mee down trod;

a Heb. my Salvation.

b Heb. when Malignants made warre, or came neer against mee.

Do not forsake mee, nor mee leave,
O my Salvation's God.

10. Although my father utterly,
And mine own Mother should n Heb. teach mee. Forsake mee: yet most tenderly
The LORD mee gather would.
o Heb. Soul viz. either will: as Psal. 41.3.5. & 105.22. Ezek. 16.27. or lust: as Ps. 78.18. 11. O LORD thy way n to mee disclose
And mee conduct and bless,
Because of mine-observing-foes,
In paths of righteousness.
12. To my foes o lust, O give not mee:
Because against mee hence p False witnesses rose-up, And hee
That-breaths-out violence.
13. No Creature comfort could afford,
But that I did believe
q To see the goodness of the LORD,
In land of them-that-live.

14 Upon the LORD wait earnestly,

And hee thine heart shall fortify:
Then s wait upon the LORD.

p Heb. witnesses of falsehood. q Heb. To see it (viz. into) the goodness r Heb be thou strongly-confirmed. s Heb. wait earnestly unto the LORD.

§. III. The Kinde, Penman, and Occasion of this Psalm.

This Psalme is of a Mixt Kinde, made up of Doctrine, Prayer, and Exhortation. Its full of holy Meditations, Petitions, and Encouragement. Penman of it, as the Title evinceth, was David. And David (think t some) did then Penne this Psalme, when he was old, when his Men sware unto him, saying, Thou shalt go no more with us to battel, that thou quench not the light of Israel, 2 Sam. 21. 17. The current of the Psalm agrees somwhat with that History: but yet I see not ground enough to fix it upon that particular time. Occasion of Davids writing this Psalm, seems in general to be u some great perils or dangers wherein David was involved by his enemies, and against which his soule was invincibly raised and fortified by Faith in God, and whence in some measure he was delivered. Whereupon he earnestly begs that one great Priviledge, of constant enjoying Gods House, and communion with him there; that so he might be safe and secure from all his Enemies, commiting himself by sundry Petitions to the Lords sole Direction and Protection against them.

t So, Sim. de Muis in Argum. ad Psal. 27. following. Ab. Ezra in Versic. 4. Aliter Joan. Foyd. in Expos. Psal. 27. Tempus. Et Hen. Moller. in Arg. Ps. 27.
u H. Mollerus in Arg. Ps. 27.

§. IV. The Scope.

The Scope intended in this Psalm is; Thankfully to declare, 1. What impregnable magnanimity, confidence and encouragement David had, (and a true be lever may have) in the LORD alone, against all dangers and enemies whatsoever: 2. And how earnestly he therefore desired still to enjoy Communion with God in his House and Ordinances all his dayes, committing himself to his sole Tuition, against all perils and adversaries whatsoever.

§. V. The Analysis, or Principal Parts.

Besides the short Inscription, denoting David to be Penman of this Psalme: See Psal. 25. §. 4. In the Body or Substance of the Psalme it self are, 1. A Declaration. 2. A Prayer. 3. An Exhortation.

1. A Declaration, 1. Of Davids invincible Magnanimity and Confidence in the LORD, against all dangers and enemies. Amplified 1. By the proper foundation of it, viz. The LORD's being 1 His Light. 2 His Salvation. 3 The Strength of his Life. 2. By the invincible acting of it, trampling triumphantly upon all occasion of feare. Interrogations here are emphatical, vers. 1. 3. By his former experience of Gods safe Protection against his many and cruel enemies, vers. 2. 4. By his fixed courage and security even against an whole hoast, and Insurrection of Warre against him, vers. 3. II. Of Davids vehement zeal and love to Religion, and constant communion with God in his House and Ordinances of divine Worship This, in effect, That one thing, that only thing, which had been in his former desires, and should be in his future endeavours. Amplified, 1. By the more immediate ends of this his Desire, viz. 1 Viewing the LORD's delightfulness. 2 Enquiring early in his palace, vers. 4. 2. By the Motives inciting him hereunto, viz. 1 Gods safe and secret Protection of him in his Tabernacle in day of evil. 2 Gods advancing and exalting him above all his enemies. Both which ministred to him matter of triumphant Praises to the LORD, vers. 5, 6.

II. A Prayer for sundry benefits. As, 1. That the LORD would hear, accept, and answer him, in his crying to him and seeking his face, A Duty of Gods own Appointment, vers. 7, 8. 2. That the the LORD would in no regard hide his face from him, turn aside from him, or forsake him. And he is confident the Lord will not do it, though Father and Mother should forsake him, verse 9,10. 3. That God would teach and guide him in his way, because of his prying and observing enemies, verse 11. 4. That God would not deliver him to the will and lust of his enemies, who were so false, cruel, and terrible to him, that nothing but confidence in God could have upheld him, verse 12, 13.

III. An Exhortation, Encouraging himself, and every Believer, confidently and couragiously to wait upon the LORD in all difficulties, who thus fortifies the hearts of his people, verse 14.

Psalme XXVIII.

§. I. The Summary Contents.

David I. Prayes 1. For himself. For (1) Acceptance, verse 1,2. (2) Distinguishing mercies, verse 3. 2. Against his Enemies, verse 4, 5. II. Prayseth God for favours, 1 To himself, verse 6, 7. 2 To the Church, verse 8,9.

§. II. The Version out of the Hebrew.

Of David.

1. O LORD, my Rock, to thee I'le cry,
Hold not thy peace from me,
Lest-if [a] thou holdst-thy-peace, then I Like pitt's descenders be.
2. Hear thou my supplication's voice,
When out to thee I cry,
When [b] to thine holy Oracle
Mine hands up-lift do I.

3. With workers of unrighteousnesse
And wicked draw me not,
Who with their neighbours speak of peace:
But [c] in heart malice plot.
4. Give [d] them according to their fact,
And [e] their ill works, O LORD;
Give them after their handy-Act:
Return them their Reward.

5. [f] Sith they the LORD's Acts will not know,
Nor of his hands the Deed,
He therefore will them overthrow
And them not build, or feed.
6. The LORD be blest with chearful noise,
For, [g] hearing, he did-yield
Unto my supplications voice.
7. The LORD's my strength, [h] and shield.

In him mine heart did much confide,
And holpe I was alwayes,
Therefore mine heart exulting-joy'd;
And him [i] with Song I'le praise:
8. The LORD a strength to them will be,
[k] And strong-Munition.
Of the Salvations is he
Of his Annointed-one.

9. LORD save thy people graciously,
And blesse thine Heritance,
And feed them, To Eternity
Likewise thou them advance.

a Heb. holdst-thy-peace from mee.
b Heb. to the Oracle of thine Holiness.
c Heb. in their heart,
d Heb. to them.
e Heb. according to the evil of their practises, give to them according to the work of their hands.
f Heb. because they will not discreetly attend to the acts of the LORD, & to the work of his hands g Heb. hee heard.
h Heb. and my shield.
i Heb. with my Song.
k or Heb. strength: And the strong-Fort of salvations, His Annointed (viz. Christ) see is.

§. III. The Kinde, Penman, and Occasion.

This Psalme is of a Mixt Kinde, made up of Prayer and Praise, Its Petitory and Gratulatory.

Penman of it, David: as the Title intimates.

Occasion of Davids Penning it, is not so obvious. Probably it was written [1] in the dayes of King Saul's causelesse persecutions of David, when many took part with Saul against David, and not a few that pretended peace to David, devised mischief in their malicious hearts againſt him: not conſidering the Remarkable Acts of God, and paſſages of his Providence, palpably declaring the will and pleaſure of God to eſtabliſh David on the Throne. See verſe 3,4,5. Or at leaſt, In the beginning of Davids Reign, whil'ſt things were much unſetled.

[1] Probabile autem est de Saulis Persecutionibus hic tractari, Joan. Calvin. in Arg. Psal. 28. Hujus Psalmi scribendi tempus videtur convenire temporibus Saulis, quando David bis vitæ Saulis pepercit: Primò, in spelunca, 1 Sam. 24.4,5,6, &c. Secundò in colle Chuilæ, 1 Sam. 26. 12, 21, &c. Jean. Feard. in Expos. Psal. 28. Tempus.

§. IV. The Scope.

Davids Scope herein, is; 1. To intreat the LORD for his own and the Churches Well-fare, and for his juſt judgements upon their enemies. See verſe 3, 4, 5, 9. 2. As alſo to praiſe the LORD, for his defence and aid unto himſelf, and for his Protection and Salvation to his Church in his Annointed one, viz. Eſpecially, in his Chriſt, the Antitipe of David. See verſe 6, 7, 8.

§. V. The Analyſis, or Principal Parts.

In this Pſalme, beſides the Title, (denoting David to be Penman,) we have, 1. Davids Prayer. 2. Davids Praiſe.

I. Davids Prayer, wherein he earneſtly preſenteth to the LORD, I. Petitions for himſelf, viz. 1. For Acceptance and Audience in his Prayers: That God would not turn away from him, as deaf, not hearing; Or as dumb, nor anſwering. Urging this requeſt, 1 Partly, from Gods Office; being his Rock. 2 Partly, from his own Affiance in God as his Rock. 3 Partly, from the extremity of his ſtraits, if God ſhould not hear him he ſhould be no better then a dead man. 4 Partly, from the regularity of his addreſſe to God: Lifting up his hands toward the Oracle of his holyneſſe, viz. Towards the Typical Holy of Holies, where God dwelt between the Cherubims, and whence he promiſed to give anſwers to his people, Exod. 25.22. Numb 7.89. Pſal. 5.7. 1 King 8.38. and 9.3. Dan. 6.10. Or towards the true Holy of Holies, Heaven it ſelf, Pſal. 20.6. All this is in verſe 1, 2.

2. For Diſtinguiſhing Mercies, differencing him from the falſehearted workers of unrighteouſneſſe and wicked perſons: that he may not be drawn with them, or involved with them in ſinnes or judgements, verſ. 3. II. Imprecations againſt his enemies, viz. That they may juſtly be rewarded according to the evil works of their hands, verſ. 4. Becauſe, they would not diſcreetly-attend to the work of Gods hands: And particularly did not obſerve his eminent Providences in advancing David to be King. Whereupon he foretells their ruine, verſ. 5.

II. Davids Praiſe, wherein he thankfully bleſſeth the LORD, I. For his favours to himſelf, 1. In hearing the voice of his Supplications, verſe 6. 2. In helping him according to his truſt repoſed in him, verſe 7. II. For his mercy to his Church; In ſaving and ſtrongly defending his Church, and her Annointed: Or his Church by her Annointed, viz. Typically, David: truely, Chriſt himſelf, verſ. 8. Whereupon he cloſeth up the Pſalme, with a ſweet Supplication for the Churches Salvation, Benediction, Feeding, and Advancement unto Eternity, verſe 9.

Pſalme XXIX.

§. I. The Summary Contents.

David Exhorteth Earthly Potentates, to give due Glory and Worſhip to God, verſe 1,2. From Conſideration, 1. Of his Works of Nature in the World, viz. His dreadful and powerful voice of Thunder, verſe 3. to 9. 2. Of his works of Grace in the Church, verſe 9, 10, 11.

§. II.

§. II. The Version out of the Hebrew.

A Psalme of David.

1. YEe sons of mighty-Potentates,
Give yee unto the LORD,
Both strength and Glory (O yee States)
Give yee unto the LORD.
2. Give yee unto the LORD the Glory
Of his Name; with renown:
In [a] beauty of the Sanctuary
Yee to the LORD bow-down.

3. On Waters is JEHOVAH's voice,
The God of Glory thunders:
On many waters with great noise
The LORD displayes his wonders.
4. The thundering voice of the LORD
Sounds forth with Potency:
The thundering voice of the LORD
Sounds forth with [b] Majesty.

5. The LORD's voice Cedars breaketh-small:
[c] The LORD to-shivers-breaks
Of Lebanon the Cedars tall.
6. [d] Them leap like Calf he makes:
And [e] like the young of Unicorns Shirion and Lebanon.
7. The LORD's voice doth bright-flames of fire Divide, and flesh to us.

8. The LORD's voice, full of dreadfulnesse,
Doth make the Desert quake:
The LORD doth make the Wildernesse
Of Kadesh greatly shake.
9. The voice of the Almighty LORD
Makes Hindes [f] to Calve-for-fear,
Likewise the Forrests richly stor'd
It-maketh-to-be-bare:

But in his Temple [g] all accord
His glory to display.
10. The LORD at flood sate; and the LORD
Shall sit as King for ay.
11. The LORD unto his people shall Give strength and it increase:
The LORD will blesse his people-all
With Heart-reviving peace.

a Heb. ; comely-honour of holiness.

b Heb. ; comely-honour. Decency.

c Heb. yea, or And the LORD, &c.

d Heb. And them, &c.

e Heb. As the Son of.

f Heb. trembligly-to travel, or bring-forth.

g Heb. every one (or all of it, viz. of his people) speaking Glory.

§. III. The Kinde, Penman and Occasion, &c.

This Psalme, as to the Nature and Kinde of it, is Laudatory; tending to extoll the Praises of the LORD, both upon Natural, and Spiritual Considerations.

Penman of it, was David: as the Title showes.

The Occasion of his Penning it, is not particularly evident. Some think [h], and not without some probability, that this Psalme was appointed to be sung in the Tabernacle or Temple upon occasion of Thunder, Lightning, and such great Tempests: being Penned by David, as is conjectured, in some extream turbulent and tempestuous season of weather. To interpret this voice of the LORD Allegorically of his voice in his Word, seems not so justifiable [i].

i Videatur Hen. Muller. in Arg. Psal. 29.

§. IV. The Scope.

The intended Scope is, To incite and exhort all mighty Potentates, and consequently much more all inferiours, duely to extoll and praise the LORD: To give him his Names due Glory, See verse 2. 9. and this, both from consideration of his instructions of Nature, particularly of his Thunder; and from his Acts of Grace to his Church.

§. V. The Analysis, or Principal Parts.

Besides the Inscription declaring 1. The Denomination or Nature of this Scripture; A Psalme; 2. The Penman; David. See Psalme 15. §. 3. touching the self same Title. In the Body of the Psalme note, 1. An Exhortation. 2. Arguments enforcing it.

I. An Exhortation to the Potentates of the World, consequently to inferiours, to ascribe unto the LORD Glory and strength, to give him his Names due Glory and Worship in the beauty of Holiness, or Sanctuary, verse 1, 2.

II. Sundry cogent Arguments pressing strongly this Exhortation, I. Partly, from Gods works of Nature in the World. Especially Gods dreadful voice of Thunder being instanced in for all the rest, by a Senechdoche, as most remarkably eminent, vers. 3. to 9. Here Thunder is emphatically and elegantly gantly described, 1. By its Nature; Voice of JEHOVAH.—God of Glory thunders. 2. By its Place, in the middle Region of the Aire; Among the waters of the Clouds, verse 3. 3. By his Adjuncts; Potency, and Majesty, verse 4. 4. By its Effects; (1) Upon strongest Trees, Cedars of Lebanon, verse 5. (2) Upon firmest Mountains, Lebanon and Shirion, verse 6. (3) In flashes of fiery Lightnings, Thunderbolts, &c. verse 7. (4) Upon the Wilderness and Woods, and all the bruit Creatures therein, verse 8, 9. II. Partly, From Gods surpassing works of Grace in his Church; wherein every one speaks his Glory, vers. 9, &c. Some of his works of Grace therein being particularly pointed out, viz. 1. His Perpetuical Dominion for the good of his Church; yea in times most calamitous, as at Noah's flood, verse 10. 2. His strengthening of his People, promised. 3. His blessing them with Peace: that is, with a confluence of all good things, Promised also, verse 11.

Psalme XXX.

§. I. The Summary Contents.

David I. Praiseth God, For (1) Delivering, (2) Healing, and (3) Preserving him from the Grave, verse 1, 2, 3. II. Exhorteth Gods Saints to Praise the Lord also, 1. Generally, For his kindnesse to his People, in chastizing them but for a short time, vers. 4, 5. 2. Particularly, for his sundry gracious dealings with David, vers. 6. to the end.

§. II. The Version out of the Hebrew.

A Psalme, A Song of the Dedication of the House of David.

1. I Will exalt thee LORD, because Thou [a] hast-advanced mee;
Nor at me joy hast made my foes.
2. O LORD, my God to thee
I cry'd, And [b] health-thou-didst-me-give.
3. My Soul thou-mad'st-ascend
From Grave, Thou LORD me keptst-alive
[c] From them that Pit descend.

4. Sing-Psalme unto the LORD on hy, Yee gracious-Saints of his:
And render-praise at memory
Of his pure Holinesse.
5. For [d] momentary is his wrath,
Lives in his [e] grace reside:
At evening grief [f] a-lodging hath,
Shril-joy at morning-tide.
6. And I did confidently say,
In my tranquillity;
From present state be moov'd-away
For ever shall not I.

7. LORD, in thy favourable-grace
[g] My Mountain thou hast made
To stand so strong: Thou hid'st thy face,
And I was [h] sore dismaid.

8. O LORD, I unto thee did cry,
Pray'd to the LORD also.
9. What gain is in my blood, when I
Down to the Pit do go?
Shall Dust dissolved thee confesse?
Shall it thy truth forth-shew?
10. Hear LORD, and grace-to-me-expresse,
[i] Mine Helper LORD be thou.

11. For mee my Mourning thou at last
To Dancing didst convert:
My Sackcloth thou unlooséd hast,
And me with gladness girt.
12. That unto thee my Glory may Sing and not silent be:
O LORD, my God, I will for ay
Give-praises-unto-thee.

a Heb. Hast drawne mee up. viz. out of a pit.
b Heb. thou healedst mee.
c Or Heb. that I should not go down the pit. For here is a double reading in Hebrew, but in both the same sense.
d Heb. A moment is in his wrath.
e Heb. or, favour.
f Heb. lodgeth.
g Heb. thou hast setled strength to my mountain.
h Heb. or, suddenly troubled.
i Heb. An helper to me.

§. III. The Kinde, Penman, and Occasion of this Psalme.

This Excellent Psalme is, for the Kinde of it, An Eucharistical, Laudatory, or Praising Praising Psalme, full of sweet enlarged expressions of Thankfulness.

Penman was not (as some think) Haggai, or any other Prophet after the Babylonish Captivity, touching the renewing of the Temple (as the Arabick Version [k] seems to intimate:) but David himself. His Name being prefixed in the Title: and the matter of the Psalme agreeing to Davids History.

Occasion was not the Dedication of the House of the Sanctuary, as the Chaldee Paraphrast hath it in the Title of this Psalme, and as others imagin; Nor the Renovation of the Temple, as the Arabick Version hints: [l] But the Dedication of the House of David, as the Hebrew Title of this Psalme plainly evidenceth; A Psalme, a Song of the Dedication of the House of David; viz. King David's House in Jerusalem, The Tower of David: either, when David first took it from the Jebusites, and (having cleansed it from Heathenish pollutions) dwelt therein: or rather, when David, returning home upon the appeasing of Absalom's Insurrection, removed his Concubines (there defiled by Absalom 2. Sam. 16. 21. 22. compared with 2 Sam. 20. 3.) and so purged his House from Absaloms defilements by a new dedication of it. This last seems most consonant to the History of David, and current of this Psalme. [m] The Dedication or Initiation of Houses, when first they were builded and to be dwelled in, was used under the Old Testament, Deut. 20. 5. Teaching us under the New Testament; that our Houses, as all other our blessings, are sanctified to us by the word of God and Prayer 1 Tim. 4. 3, 4, 5.

§. IV. The Scope.

David's Scope intended in this Psalme, is; 1. To praise the LORD his God with enlarged thankfulness for restoring him from his deadly Enemies, dangers, and distresses; and 2. To incite all the Saints to praise the LORD with him, ver. 1, 3, 4, &c.

§. V. The Analysis, or Principal Parts.

In this Psalme consider 1. The Title. 2. The Substance of the Psalme.

The Title prefixed is proper and peculiar only to this Psalme. Herein note, 1. The Denomination of it; A Psalme, A Song. This is the first thus Denominated. This double Denomination; A Psalme, A Song; is prefixed also to Psal. 65. 67. 68. 75. 76. 87. 92. And, A Song, A Psalme; to Psalme, 48. 66. 83. 88. 108. These two Denominations intimating, 1. Either, That this Psalme was to be publickly Sung: as some think this is the onely thing intended in this double Title. 2. Or that these Psalmes were to be tuned both with voices and Instruments Musical: In those, the Instruments going before the voices; In these, the voices going before the Instruments, thus Eusebius. But both these are rejected as not satisfying: Not the former; because not only the Psalmes thus Entituled, but also all the rest were to be sung publickly, 1 Chron. 15. 16. and the Singers are said to Prophesy (i. e. to sing) With Harps, with Psalteries, &c. 1 Chron. 25. 1, 3. See also verse 6. Not the latter; for, as Rivet notes, the Reason is too frigid. For, This Title being prefixed but to a few Psalmes, it would follow, that onely these few were to be tuned with Instrument and voice, all the rest should be tuned without voice, which is most unlikely. 3. Or, That the Psalmes thus Entituled are very excellent Psalmes, and Psalmes of Joy, Mirth, Victory, Triumph, &c. For when two substantives are thus contiguously joyned together they signify some excellent thing, As Adam was formed of the dust of the Earth, i. e. of the purest dust, Gen. 2. 7. and the word שיר Shir, Song added to Psalme, still denotes some pleasant, famous, joyful, excellent, &c. Subject of that Psalme. Thus that learned and judicious Rivet. [n] 2. The Occasion of it; The Dedication of Davids House. 3. The Penman; David, mentioned in the Title, and speaking of himself in the first person in the ensuing Psalme.

n Andr. Rivet in Comment. ad Tit. Psal. 68.

The Substance of the Psalme, is 1. Laudatory, and 2. Hortatory.

I. Laudatory, David himself praising the LORD, 1. For his drawing him up and delivering him from his Enemies and their insolencies, verse 1. 2. For healing him at his request, verse 2. 3. For rescuing him from the jaws of Death, verse 3.

II. Hortatory, Herein David exhorteth all the Saints to praise the LORD with him, and for him, verse 4. And this from two sorts of Arguments. I. More Generally, From Gods carriage towards his Saints indefinitly; His wrath being but for a night, for a moment, verse 5. II. More Particularly, From Davids peculiar experience of the LORD's dealing with him, ver. 6. to the end.

end. Herein David relateth, 1. His own Carnal security in his outward Prosperity, and the settlement of his Kingdome, verse 6. 7. As 2 Sam. 11. 1. &c. 1. *Chron.*20.1. &c. and 17. 1. 2. The LORD's chastizing him for this his Carnal security and abuse of his prosperity: By with-drawing of his face, scourging him and his House, 2 Sam. 12. 10, 11, 12. with 2 *Sam.*15. 3. Davids sudden perplexity upon this his Chastisement, verse 7. 4. Davids Expostulating prayer to the LORD, in his perplexity, to preserve him from Death, verse 8, 9, 10. 5. The LORD's hearing of his Prayer, and turning his sorrow into joy; His mourning into dancing, his Sackcloth into gladness, verse 11. 6. The end intended by the LORD in Davids Mercies, viz. That Davids Glory, his tongue, might sing Gods praises, and not be silent. 7. Davids thankful Resolution to praise the LORD his God for ever, because of this his experimental kindness, verse 12.

Psalme XXXI.

§. I. The Summary Contents.

David I. Prayeth, 1. For himself; That God would deliver, hear, defend, and direct him, &c. In midst of all his troubles and distresses brought upon him by his Enemies, verse 1. to 17. 2. Against his Enemies, verse 17, 18. II. Praiseth God, 1. For his goodness to his fearers, verse 19, 20. 2. For his gracious dealings with David, in his greatest distresses, verse 21, 22. III. Exhorteth the Saints hereupon, 1. To love the LORD, verse 23. 2. To encourage themselves in God in straits, verse 24.

§. II. The Version out of the Hebrew.

To the Master-Musician, A Psalme of David.

1. O LORD [a] I trust in thee; For ever Abash'd let me not bee:
Thou in thy Justice mee deliver.
2. Incline thine ear to mee
Mee [b] quickly rid: [c] A rock of Power
Bee thou to mee, I crave,
Of fortresses an House, A Tower,
Mee from all harmes to save.

3. For my firme-Rock thou dost abide,
And my Munition,
And thou wilt lead mee and mee guide
For thy Names sake alone.
4. Yea thou wilt mee bring forth and rid
Out of the Net at length
That they for mee have-closely-hid,
Because thou art my strength.

5. Into thine hand my spirit I
Of-trust-commit and cast;
O LORD, thou God of verity,
Redeemed mee thou hast,

6 [d] Them that vain-falshood's vanities
Observe, I have abhorr'd;
But I in my perplexities,
I trust unto the LORD.

7. I in thy mercy [e] glad will bee
I will rejoyce also,
For thou didst mine affliction see,
My soul in straits didst know.
8. And hast not in the Enemy's hand
[f] Inclos'd mee, there to bide;
But thou hast made my feet to stand

§. III. The Kinde, Penman, and Occasion of this Psalme.

This Psalme is of a Mixt Kinde, being Petitory, Laudatory, and Hortatory: wherein the Psalmist Prayes for blessings wanted, Prayseth for mercies vouchsafed, and Exhorts to Duties becoming the Saints.

Penman of it, as the Title shows, was David.

The Occasion of his writing it, seems to be some remarkable strait, or straits, which his enemies had brought him into, and whence in part God had delivered him. 1. Some i conjecture (from that Expression; In my haste, or hasting-away, ver. 22. the same Hebrew word being there used, which is put for Davids hasting to fly away from King Saul and his Army, 1 Sam. 23. 26.) that particularly it was that great strait which David and his men were in, when Saul and his Army had almost surrounded them in the Wilderness of Maon: At which very instant the LORD delivered David by a singular Providential Diversion, calling off Saul and his Army by seasonable tidings to go against the Philistines then invading the Land, 1 Sam. 23. This Psalme and that History excellently agree. 2. But k some think it might very well be Occasioned by Absaloms conspiracy, mentioned 2 Sam. 15. 7, &c. (1) Because he complains; That his life was spent with grief, and his years with sighing, &c. verse 10. Therefore he seems to have written this in his Old-age, when about sixty six, and about thirty six of his Reign, in the end of those fourty years, 2 Sam. 15. 7. which fourty years seem to have begun when Samuel annointed David King, 1 Sam. 16. (2) Because, he confesseth that his strength failed because of his iniquity, (viz. probably in the matter of Uriah, 2 Sam. 11.) verse 10. whereas in times of Saul he for most part justified himself, as Psal. 7. and 26. (3) Because he complaines; That his neighbours and acquaintance seeing him without (that is, without the House in the street) fled from him, verse 11. which most probably was in dayes of Absalom, for in dayes of Saul his neighbours had not opportunity of seeing him without in the street, when his residence was in the Wilderness,

I. His earneſt Prayer, verſe 1. to 19. viz. 1. For himſelf: 2. Againſt his enemies. I. For himſelf. That the LORD would, Hear him; Defend him againſt his enemies; Deliver him from his diſtreſſes; and ſhine favourably upon him, leſt at laſt he ſhould be made aſhamed of his confidence in God. This is urged, Generally, [1] From his own confidence in the LORD: And [2] From Gods juſtice, verſe 1. Particularly, 1. From the Nature and Office of God; (1) Being moſt able to help him: As His Rock of Fortitude, His Houſe of Fortreſſes, His Firm Rock and Munition, His Strength. (2) Being alſo moſt willing to relieve him, Both for his own Name, And having Redeemed him already heretofore, verſ. 2, 3, 4, 5. 2. From his own Perſon: Deſcribed, (1) Partly, By his integrity in him towards God; Hating the Obſervers of the vanities of a Lye, viz. vain lying Idols; Truſting in God; Promiſing to rejoyce thankfully in God for mercy received, verſe 6, 7, 8 (2) Partly, By his diſtreſs upon him: [1] His beauty, ſtrength, and life being almoſt exhauſted, verſ. 9, 10. [2] His enemies ignominiouſly reproaching him; [3] His friends ſtrangely alienated from him; [4] Terrour and danger on every ſide ſurrounding him, verſ. 11, 12, 13. (3) Partly, By relying on God in all theſe his ſad ſtraits and plunges; As his only preſerver and deliverer, Having his times in his hand: Whereupon he intreats for Deliverance. The light of Gods Countenance and Salvation, verſ. 14, 15, 16. II. Againſt his enemies; That they may be aſhamed, ſilenced, and deſtroyed, verſe 17, 18.

II. His elegant praiſes of God. I. Partly in regard of his great goodneſſe generally to all that fear him and truſt in him, viz. 1. Treaſuring up unſpeakable Good for them both for preſent and future, verſ. 19. 2. Protecting them ſafely and ſecretly, from Proud-wrongs, (The Hebrew properly ſignifies, Rough-prides, or rough-wrongs [m]: For the Root רכס Racas ſignifies both, To be proud, and To knit on knots, See Exod. 18. 28. and 39. 21. Hence the word is derived, that ſignifies knotty or rough-places, Iſa. 40. 4.) and ſtriſe of Tongues, verſe 20. II. Partly, In regard of his dealings with David himſelf, particularly in his deſperate extremities, viz. 1. Marvellouſly manifeſting his mercy in his ſafeſt defence, verſe 21. 2. Graciouſly hearing his Prayer, notwithſtanding his deſpairing deſpondencies in his diſtreſſes, verſ. 22.

[m] H. Ainſworth in his Annot. on Pſal. 31. 23.

III. His zealous Exhortation (reſulting from theſe his choice Experiences) to all the Saints, viz. 1. To love the LORD: both for his preſerving the Faithful, and plentiful rewarding of their proud enemies, ver. 23. 2. To be of good-courage in all ſtraits and afflictions: Promiſing to them therein Gods Heart-ſtrengthning Conſolations, verſ. 24.

§. III. The Kinde, Penman, and Occaſion, &c.

This Pſalme is the ſecond of thoſe which are uſually called, Penitential Pſalmes. See Pſal. 6. §. 3. And the very firſt of thoſe which in their Titles prefixed are called משכיל Maſchil: that is, An Inſtructing-Pſalme; Or, A-Pſalme-making-Prudent, cauſing Underſtanding. As here; I will inſtruct thee, or, I will make thee prudent, ver. 8. It inſtructs in ſweet Spiritual Myſteries and Practiſes. There are in all fourteen Maſchil's, or, Inſtructing-Pſalmes; viz. Pſalme 32, 42, 44, 45, 46, 52, 53, 54, 55, 74, 78, 88, 89, 142. Penned by David, Aſaph, Heman, Æthan, &c.

Penman of this Maſchil, was David.

Occaſion of Davids writing this Pſalme, ſeems to have been upon his recovery from ſome ſore Diſeaſe, ver. 3, 4. And it is conjectured, to have been after Tamars raviſhment, and Amnon's death, 2 Sam. 13. through Abſalom's contrivance o.

§. IV. The Scope.

Davids Scope intended in this Pſalme, is; 1. To teach that true Bleſſedneſſe peculiarly conſiſts in the LORD's full and free remiſſion of ſinne in Juſtification: and making mans ſpirit upright in him, by Sanctification: 2. As alſo to inſtruct prudently all ſuch Perſons to walk obediently before the LORD. See verſe 1, 2, 8, Rom. 4, 6, 7, 8.

§. V. The Analyſis, or Principal Parts.

The Inſcription or Title denotes, 1. The Nature of the Pſalme, in that denomination; Maſchil. 2. The Penman; David.

The Subſtance of the Pſalme treats of true Bleſſedneſſe. Herein true bleſſedneſſe is 1. Deſcribed, 2. Confirmed, 3. Illuſtrated.

I. True Bleſſednеſſe is deſcribed, as conſiſting eſpecially in, 1. The LORD's free and full remiſſion of ſinne in Juſtification: laid down in three Expreſſions, viz. (1) Taking ſinne away. (2) Covering of ſinne, viz. not by the ſinner, but by the LORD himſelf. (3) Not imputing of unrighteouſneſſe to a man. 2. The ſincerity of a mans ſpirit and heart, without deceit. This is unfeined Sanctification, ſtill accompanying Juſtification. The Happineſſes of ſuch a man are here pronounced with a kind of Admiration;—Heb. O the happineſſes, &c. ver. 1, 2.

II. That this is true Bleſſedneſſe, and that herein it conſiſts, is Confirmed by Davids experience: 1. Whoſe diſtreſſe and miſery was extream upon him, conſuming and even exhauſting him, whileſt he concealed his ſinne, ver. 3, 4. 2. Whoſe Conſcience found eaſe and pardon upon his Penitential Confeſſion of his ſinnes, ver. 3, 4, 5.

III. This Bleſſedneſs, in the Pardon of ſin, &c. is Illuſtrated and Amplified, 1. By the faithful Prayers which all the Saints ſhall make to God, in a time of finding, for remiſſion of ſinnes. 2. By the ſweet Promiſe of the LORD's Protection to all juſtified and pardoned perſons, from all floods of diſtreſs, as God had dealt with David already, and would again do with him, having his ſins forgiven, verſ 6, 7. 3. By the Duty required of all juſtified and pardoned Perſons, viz. 1 That they receive divine Inſtruction tendered to them, readily. 2 That, laying aſide all bruitiſh obſtinacy, they become flexible and obedient unto God; verſ. 8, 9. 4. By the moſt different condition of the wicked unpardoned, whoſe portion ſhall be many Pains; From the faithful that are pardoned, whom Mercy encompaſſeth round, And to whom the LORD affords, in their juſtified and upright condition moſt ſingular Matter of ſurpaſſing gladneſs, verſe 10, 11.

16. No Earthly King shall saved bee
By his great force in fight:
Nor shall the strong-man bee-set-free
By multitude of-might.

17. An Horse for safety shall at length
Bee found meer falshood ever:
And by the greatnesse of his strength
Hee shall no man deliver.
18. Behold, the LORD doth turn his eye
To-them-that-do-him-fear:
To-them-that-do-wait-hopefully
Upon his Mercy dear.

19. [o] Them life in famine to afford,
Their Soul from death to free.
20. Our Soul doth wait upon the LORD,
Our help, and our shield Hee.
21. [p] Our heart in him shall joy, for wee
Trust in [q] his holy Name.

§. III. The Kinde, Penman, and Occasion, &c.

This is one of those Psalmes that are Un-titled, having no Inscription prefixed in the Hebrew. See Psal. 1. §. 4. The Greek Version of the Lxxij. according to the most ancient Vatican Copy, hath this Title; (τῷ Δαυίδ). To David: and according to the ancient Alexandrian Copy; (Ψαλμὸς τῷ Δαυίδ,) A Psalme to David [s]. This Psalme is of a mixt Kinde, Laudatory, and Petitory: Herein the Psalmist exhorts the righteous to the praises of God, and concludes with prayer to him.

Penman is not certainly known: though the Version of the Lxxij seems to point at David.

Occasion also is not particularly evident. Its supposed David wrote it, when he had now obtained victories over all, or many his enemies [t]. It is a notable triumphant, or Victorial Psalme. May be sung after Victories.

t Sic Joan. Foord in Expos. Psal. 33. Tempus.

§. IV. The Scope.

The Scope of this Psalme is; To exhort and provoke all the righteous People of God to be much in the Praises of God, upon manifold considerations.

§. V. The Analysis, or Principal Parts.

In this Psalme are,

I. An earnest Exhortation to the Praises of the LORD. Containing, 1. The Parties Exhorted, ted, who peculiarly are able to praise God, viz. The Righteous. 2. The way and manner how they should praise God: viz. With voice; With variety of Musical Instruments; And with a New (viz. renewed, continued, excellent) Song. Thus in the Old Testament: Now in the New Testament proportionably, With all zealous enlarged affections and Spirituall expressions of thankfulnesse, verse 1,2,3.

II. A Narration of Arguments, inciting unto these Praises of the LORD: Drawn, I. From Gods Truth, Justice, Mercy, and Power, both in Word and Work: Particularly in Creating and fully Ordering all things so mightily, that the whole World may justly tremble and stand in aw of him; Especially seeing it was with him, but A Word, and A Work, as Gen. 1. vers. 4. to 10. II. From Gods Over-ruling and Over-turning all the ill Counsels of the Nations, Establishing his own purposes for ever, ver. 10,11. III. From his special Love to, and care over his Church, ver. 12. Amplified, 1. By his accurate notice which he takes of all men in the World in general, and of all their actions: Therefore he will much more Providentially heed and look to the Saints in special, and all their actions, ver. 13,14,15. 2. By the utter insufficiency of all created Protections without God, ver. 16,17. 3. By his most vigilant Eye over the Faithful for their preservation and deliverance in their deepest danger or distresse, ver. 18,19.

III. A Conclusion, setting forth; 1. The Saints confidence and joy in God, as their Help and Shield, ver. 20,21. 2. Their Petition for his mercy according to their faithful-waiting upon him, ver. 22.

Psalme XXXIV.

§. I. The Summary Contents.

David I. Praiseth God zealously, verse 1,2. II. Provoketh others to praise the LORD with him, and for him, verse 3. 1. Declaring, (1) Gods wonderful delivering of him in straits, verse 4,5,6. (2) Gods care over his fearers, verse 7. 2. Instructing the Saints how to walk, so as still be capable of like Divine favours, verse 8. to 15. 3. Comforting them, that are really thankful and walk worthy of Gods Mercies, with Benefits and Priviledges promised, verse 15, to the end.

§. II. The Version out of the Hebrew.

A Psalme of David, when he had changed his behaviour before the faces of Abimelech, and he had driven him away, and he was gone.

א 1. I Will a at all times blesse the LORD:
His Praise still in my mouth shall stay.
ב 2. My soul shall b glory in the LORD;
The meek shall hear, and joy shall they.
ג 3. O with me magnifie the LORD:
And let's exalt his Name together.
ד 4. I sought the LORD, and he me heard:
c Did me from all my fears deliver.
ה 5. They look'd to him, and dlightned were:
ו And not be sham'd their faces shall. (hear:
ז 6. This poor man call'd, e the LORD did
And sav'd him from his pressures all.
ח 7. JEHOVAH's, Angel camps about
His Fearers, and releaseth them.
ט 8. Taste, and see, that the LORD is good:
f O-happy man that hopes in him!
י 9. O yee his Saints, JEHOVAH fear:
For g no want to his fearers all, כ 10. Young-Lions lack, and hungred-are,
But h want no good GOD's seekers shall.

II.

ל 11. Yee sons come, Hearken unto mee:
The LORD's true fear I will you learn.
מ 12. What man desires long life to see,
Loves dayes, i That good he may discern?
נ 13. Thy lips from speaking guile and lies,
Thy tongue likewise from ill keep thou.
ס 14. Depart from ill, do good likewise:
Do thou seek peace, and it pursue.

p Heb. And all hoping for safety in him shall not be condemned as guilty.

§. III. The Kinde, Penman, and Occasion, &c.

This choice * Psalme is one of those which are called Alphabetical; (See Psal. 25. §. 3.) Here being all the twenty two Hebrew Letters in order in the beginning of every verse in the Hebrew Text, except the last; which is compensated aforehand in verse 5. by two Letters of the Hebrew Alphabet ת and ו; that beginning the former, this the latter sentence in that verse. The Alphabetical Psalmes are every one of them singularly eminent among the Psalmes, like Stars of the first Magnitude among the Stars. The Subject-matter of this sweet Psalme is mixt, of Praise, and Doctrine: and in both it is A most rich Cordial to the afflicted and distressed Saints.

Penman of it, was David: As the Title declares. He of a Scholer, becomes here our Tutor: of a Patient, our Experimental Physitian.

Occasion of David's Penning this Psalme is laid down in the prefixed Title: viz. Davids changing his behaviour before q Abimelech, &c. that is, Before Achish King of Gath, a City of the Philistines. 1 Sam. 21. 10. Every King of the Philistines being called Abimelech, i. e. My-Father-King, Gen. 20. 2. and 26. 1. Psal. 34. tit. As every King of Egypt was called Pharaoh, Gen. 41. 1. Exod. 5. 1. 1 King. 11. 18. David having fled for fear of King Saul unto Gath, the men of Achish King of Gath, having taken David in Gath, Psal. 56. Title, and brought him to Achish, 1 Sam. 21. 11. said; Is not this David King of the Land, of whom they sang in Dances saying; Saul hath slain his thousands, and David his ten thousands? Hereupon David was sore afraid of Achish, And he changed his behaviour before them, and feigned himself mad in their hands, and scrabled on the Doors of the Gate, and let his spittle fall down upon his Beard. (Thus did this holy and valiant David Un-man himself in his extremity of fear for preservation of his life: So farre his temptation and infirmity prevailed over him.) Upon this, Achish was offended at his servants for bringing a Mad-man to him, and disdained he should come into his house, 1 Sam. 21. 10. to the end. So they drave him away, and he departed, Psal. 34. Title, with 1 Sam. 22. 1. Upon this great deliverance from his fears and dangers, David Penned this Psalme, as also Psalme 56. See that Title also. The Deliverance, was Gods: The Infirmity in the use of undue meanes, was Davids r.

* Sicut de tota Scriptura dicit Basilius in quadam Epistola; sicut putei quo magis hauriuntur, fundunt aquas magis limpidas: ita non dubium est, hunc Psalmum, quo sæpius legitur cum quadam attentione, eo magis dulcescere: Quare semper in Ecclesia hic Psalmus bominibus piis fuit commendatissimus, Hen. Moller. in Arg. Psal. 34.

q Quod loco Achis ponitur Abimelech, probabile est, nomen hoc posterius fuisse in vulgari usu apud Philistinos: Sicut Reges suos Ægiptii vocarunt Pharaones: & Romani imperatores nomen Cæsarum mutuati sunt à Julio qui primus Tyrannidem occupaverat, Joan. Calvin. in Psal. 34 Titul.

r Liberatio, Dei opus fuit: vitium intermedium, quod culpa non vacavit, Davidi ascribi debet, &c. Joan Calvin. in Psal. 34. Tit.

§. IV. The Scope.

Davids Scope herein is, 1. To Praise the LORD for this his great Deliverance from feare and danger under Achish the Philistine-King of Gath before whom he was brought by the Kings Servants; 2. To provoke all other the people of God, to praise the LORD with him; 3. And to instruct them, Both how to walk so as to render themselves capable of such Experiences of Gods favour as David now found found in his Extremities, And what choice bleſſings befall them who thus walk worthy of Mercies, and are really thankful.

§.V. The Analyſis, or Principal Parts.

In the Inſcription, are declared, 1. The Penman of this Pſalme; David. 2. The Occaſion of his writing it, viz. (1) David's Changing his behaviour (through infirmity and exceſſive fear) before Abimelech, that is, Achiſh King of Gath: feigning himſelf mad. (2) Abimelech's driving him away. (3) Davids departure to the Cave Adullam, 1 Sam. 22. 1.

In the Pſalme it ſelf note,

I. Davids chearful Profeſſion of his own thankfulneſs to the LORD, for this his great and ſeaſonable deliverance, Amplified, 1. By the conſtancy of it, reſolved and promiſed, verſe 1. 2. By the intenſive vehemency of it, his Soul glorying in the LORD. 3. By the influence this ſhould have upon the Saints, they hearing it ſhould rejoyce, verſe 2.

II. Davids zealous Provocation of others to joyne with him in the thankful Praiſes of his God, verſe 3, &c. This is Pathetically urged and illuſtrated by way of (1) Narration, (2) Inſtruction, (3) And Conſolation. 1. By way of Narration. He declares, 1. His own Perſonal experience in this wonderful deliverance, which was ſuch, That the Saints in like ſtraits ſhall-be-lightned, viz. with comfort, &c. (according to the Chaldee uſe of the Hebrew word) Or † Shall-flow-together (as the word more properly ſignifies) viz. to God, they ſhall flow-together-as-a-River to him, that is, abundantly, for like deliverance. x Heb. who magnify themselves against mee.

§. III. The Kinde, Penman, and Occasion, &c.

This is for Kinde a Praying-Psalme.

David was Penman of it, as the Title intimates. Herein David earnestly prayeth and complaineth of his ingrateful and perfidious Enemies. These Enemies intended were probably Sauls hypocritical flattering Courtiers, who though they fawned upon David, whilest he was in King Sauls favour, yet when Sauls heart was turned against him, they with Saul craftily complot against him, and without a cause cruelly persecute him. Upon this Occasion this Psalme was written, as Interpreters y Judge.

y H. Mollerus in Argum. Ps. 35 Joan. Calv. in Arg. Ps. 35. Sim. de Muis in Arg. Ps. 35.

§. IV. The Scope.

Davids intended Scope in this Psalme, is; To intreat the LORD, to side with, succour, and save him, from all his injurious adversaries: but to bring them for all their evil practises to shame and confusion.

§. V. The Analysis, or Principal Parts.

In the Title, David is intimated to be Penman of this Psalme; Of David. Sundry Psalmes have this very Title: See Psal. 25. §. 5.

In the Substance of the Psalme it self, Are, 1. Davids Petitions. 2. Davids Complaint. 3. Davids Enforcement of his Requests.

I. Davids Petitions, 1. For Himself; That the LORD would take his part, help, save and deliver him from his Adversaries. 2. Against his Enemies; That the LORD would withstand them as an Advocate, as a Warriour; Confound them with shame; Disperse and scatter them as small-chaff-dust in dark and slippery wayes, the Angel of the LORD driving and pursuing them; And ruine them in their own pits and nets, ver. 1. to 11. Both sorts of requests are here urged, 1. From the causeless subtile cruelty of his Adversaries, ver. 7. 2. From the Praise he promiseth the LORD upon such his Deliverance, &c. ver. 9, 10.

II. Davids bitter Complaint against his Adversaries. For, 1. Their violent false-witnessing against him, ver. 11. 2. Their deep ingratitude in recompensing ill to him, for all his love and kindnesse to them, ver. 12, 13, 14, 15. 3. Their perfidious dissimulation towards him, scoffing at him, like Parasites for belly-chear, ver. 16. Whereupon he Pathetically bursts out into a vehement Expostulation, because of Gods delaying his relief; begging deliverance from those Lyons: that so he may publiquely praise the LORD, and they have no cause to rejoyce over him, ver. 17, 18, 19. 4. Their unpeaceableness and deceitfulnesse, ver. 20. 5. Their triumph and Insolency at his calamities, ver. 21.

III. Davids Enforcement of his Request, Inciting and provoking the LORD to appear and judge for him against his Adversaries. And this he doth by many Arguments, viz. 1. Gods accurate notice of all these dealings of his Enemies. ver. 22. 2. Davids interest in, and Covenant-Relation to God; My God, and my Lord, ver. 23, 24. 3. Gods Justice, ver. 24. 4. That his Enemies may have no matter of insulting over him, but rather of shame and confusion in themselves, ver. 25, 26. 5. That all who delights in Davids just cause and prospetity may shout aloud in Gods praises, ver. 27. 6. That himself may have constant matter of Thanksgiving unto God, ver. 28.

To-the-Master-Musician, A Psalme of David the Servant of the LORD.

I.

1. THe trespasse of the wicked here
a Assuredly-descryes
Within mine heart: There is no fear
Of God, before his eyes.
2. Because, b himself in-his-own-eyes
Hee flattering-doth-cheat,
To finde his-vain-iniquity,
The which hee ought to hate.

3. The words of his vile mouth still are Iniquity and fraud;
Hee-hath-left-off (devoid of care)
To-be-wise to-do-good.

5. O LORD thy loving kindnesses
e Up to the Heavens rise:
Thy never-failing faithfulness
Doth reach ev'n to the skies.
6. Thy justice as God's Mountains high,
Thy judgments a great deep:
Both man and beast suffi.ently,
LORD, thou dost save and keep.

7. O God, How precious hast thou
Thy loving-kindnesse made!
Therefore the sons of men below
Do f trust in thy wings shade.
8. With fatnesse of thy House they shall g Abundantly-be-stor'd,
And thou-shalt-make-them-drink of all
Thy Pleasures stream, O LORD.

9. For, lives well-spring with thee doth flow:
Light in thy light wee see.
10. Extend to-those-that-do-thee-know
Thy-kinde-benignitee:
h Thy justice to the right of heart.
11. Let not the fate of pride
Invade mee; Nor the wicked's hand
Make-mee-to-moove-aside.

12. The workers i of iniquities
Quite down-have-fallen there:
They down-were-thrust, and to arise
Again unable-were.

§ III. The Kinde, Penman, and Occasion, &c.

This Psalme is of a Mixt Kinde, consisting; Of Doctrine touching the badnesse of the wicked; Of Praise to God for his Goodnesse and kinde Administrations towards the Creature Generally, and towards his Church Peculiarly; and of Prayer for the Saints and himself.

Penman hereof was David, as the Title intimates.

Occasion of Davids writing this Psalm some k think to be King Sauls wickednesse:

k Jun. in Annot. ad Ps 36. 2.

who, after the evil Spirit from the LORD came upon him, brake forth into new impieties, waxing ſtill worſe and worſe, 1 Chro. 10.13. wherupon David took occaſion to deſcribe the vile diſpoſition of the ungodly, proceeding daily from evil to worſe. And probably, David entring upon his Kingdom, had theſe Meditations. For, ſeeing this expreſſion, viz. [Of David the Servant of the LORD] is uſed only in the Titles of Pſal. 18. and 36. And that Pſalm 18. had reſpect to Davids ſervice unto the LORD in his Government of the Kingdom now finiſhed, Compare 2 Sam. 22.1. &c. and 23.1. with Pſ. 18. Title: It may probably be conceived, That this Pſalm. 36. had reference to the ſame ſervice of David in the Kingdom, as it was to be enterprized and diſcharged by him. This Pſalm 36. being his Initial Pſalm at his Entrance upon his Kingdom, As, Pſalm 18. was his Final or Concluding Pſalm, neer his Reſignation of his Scepter. Some[1] particularly refer the Occaſion of this Pſalme, to Sauls killing the Lords Prieſts by Doeg, 1 Sam. 22.18, &c.

[1] Sic Jo. Foord in Expoſit. Pſal. 36. Tempus.

§. IV. The Scope.

Davids Scope herein intended, is; 1. To deſcribe the extream growing vileneſs of the wicked; 2. To magnifie the goodneſſe and righteouſneſſe of Gods Adminiſtrations towards all creatures, but eſpecially towards his own Church and People. 3. And to implore Gods favour towards all the godly, and particularly towards himſelf, againſt all the inſolencies of the wicked, ver. 1, 5, 11, &c.

§. V. The Analyſis, or Principal Parts.

In the Inſcription, note; 1. The Direction of it as to the Muſick. 2. The Penman of it; David. Deſcribed and commended here by his peculiar Service to God, viz. In his Adminiſtration of the Kingdom of Iſrael. Or hee is here ſtiled the Servant of the LORD, becauſe he ſpeaks againſt the Wicked, who know not that God is the avenger of Wickedneſs, and therefore contemn God and godlineſs. So Kimchi and Ezra [m].

[m] Sim. de Muis in Pſ. 36. Tit.

In the Pſalme it ſelf, we have 1. Doctrine, 2. Praiſe, 3. Prayer.

I. Doctrine. David deſcribeth the extreame vileneſs of the wicked, viz. That the treſpaſſe of the wicked is ſuch and ſo heynous, that it aſſuredly teſtifies to the heart and conſcience of David, The wicked is deſtitute of all true fear of God, no fear of God is before his eyes, verſe 1. This his contumacious Rebellion and irreligion is particularly Amplyfied and confirmed, 1. By his Deeds and Endeavours, flattering himſelf to finde out and accompliſh his iniquity: which he, and every good man, ought to hate, verſe 2. 2. By his words; which are iniquity and fraud for compaſſing of evil. Aggravated by his contrary ceaſing to be wiſe to do good, verſe 3. 3. By his Thoughts: Meditating and contriving iniquity on his Bed. Aggravated, by his practiſing of his vile contrivements, ſetting himſelf in the worſt way, and declining no evil, verſe 4.

II. Praiſe. David elegantly praiſeth the LORD. I. For his General Government of all creatures, with incomparable 1 Loving-kindneſs. 2 Faithfulneſs. 3 Juſtice. And 4 Judgment, ſaving man and beaſt, ver. 5, 6. II. For his ſpecial and peculiar reſpect which he hath to his Saints: Manifeſted 1. In his moſt precious loving-kindneſſe, alluring the Saints to hope for ſafety under the ſhadow of his wings, verſ. 7. 2. In his moſt plentiful and pleaſant proviſions for his People: As it were inebriating them with the fatneſs of his Houſe, and making them drink the ſtream of his Pleaſures. That, in this life; This, as ſome [n] think, in the life to come. verſe 8. 3. In being himſelf alone the only fountain of all Life and Light to them. No glimpſe of either being to be had but from him, verſ. 9.

[n] Jun. Annot. ad Pſal. 36.8.

III. Prayer. David upon former Conſiderations prayeth, 1. For publike bleſſings to Gods People; Knowing him, and being upright in heart; viz. (1) The LORD's loving-kindneſſe. (2) His Juſtice or Righteouſneſſe, verſ. 10. 2. For private mercy to himſelf in Adminiſtration of the Kingdom; (1) That he may eſcape the proud inſolencies of his Adverſaries. 2. That he may not be moved aſide by any power of his enemies, verſ. 11. This he the more confidently aſſures himſelf of, by his Prophetical Prediction of the utter and remedileſs ruine of the workers of iniquity, verſ. 12.

Of David.

I.

1. נ a FRet-thee not wrathfully
Againſt b ill-doers here:
At Workers of iniquity
Do thou not c envy-bear.
2. For, as the herb doth paſs,
Bee ſoon cut-down-ſhall-they
And as greenneſs of budding-graſs
So they ſhall fade-away.

3. ב Thou in the LORD confide,
And act thou what is good:
So in the Land thou ſhalt abide,
And d ſure thou ſhalt have food.
4. Do-thou-thy ſelf-delight
Likewiſe upon the LORD:
And all thine hearts deſires upright
To thee e he will afford.

5. ג Likewiſe do thou thy way
Unto the LORD f commit:
And firmly on him hope and ſtay,
And hee'l accompliſh it.
6. Hee ſhall bring forth likewiſe

§. III. The

§. III. The Kinde, Penman, and Occasion.

This Psalme for Kinde is a choice Doctrinal or Teaching Psalme. A singular and satisfactory vindication of the Wisdome, Faithfulnesse, and Righteousnesse of Gods Providence, touching the Prosperity of the wicked, and Afflictions of the Righteous in this present World. An excellent Antidote against the Saints impatiency and fretting-discontent at wicked-mens flourishing prosperity, whilst themselves are exercised with contrary trouble and distresse. It is the third Alphabetical Psalme, (See Psal. 25. §. 3.) Every other verse in the Hebrew Text beginning with a Letter of the Hebrew Alphabet in order, except verse 29. which hath ע for ץ: and verse 40. hath ו before ה. Onely these single uerses, viz. verse 7, 20, 29, 34. Engross their Alphabetical Letters wholly to themselves respectively. This Alphabetical way of writing the Psalmes seems specially used for memories sake: Pathetical affections and expre lions being more observable therein, then accurateness of Method, Order, or Coherence.

Penman of it, was David: The Title is; Of David, and he wrote this Psalme now being old, verse 25.

Occasion of Davids writing this Psalme, as we may collect from the Subject-Matter thereof, was his daily Observation; How very many, yea many godly persons, were, (at least for some small time while carnal corruption and violent temptation got the upper hand,) greatly offended at the prosperity of the wicked, and adversity of the Righteous; and much stumbled at these strange Administrations of Gods Providence [q].

[q] Sic Sim. de Muis in Arg. Psal. 37. Joan. Foord. in Exposit. Ps. 37. Tempus.

§. IV. The Scope.

And Davids Scope intended herein is; 1. To vindicate and clear Gods Providential Dispensations towards the Righteous and wicked, from all injustice, unfaithfulnesse, inequality, &c. 2. And to perswade Gods own people to walk with unshaken confidence in God, placing all their delight in him, and behaving themselves contentedly in the condition wherein he wisely and faithfully sets them, repressing all fretfulnesse, provocation, and impatiency in respect of the wicked and their present flourishing prosperity. 3. As also to teach them, That Mans Happiness and chief Good consists, in his interest in, and enjoyment of God; not in the greatest confluence of these externals of this world, which a godly man may want, and yet be incomparably more happy, then any then all the wicked that most overflow with them. Here therefore this Psalme divers times points at the farre greater difference betwixt the Righteous and the Wicked, then Prosperity or Adversity can make. Those, rich in greatest want and poverty; These, poor in midst of all their wealth and riches: Those, in greatest adversity capable by the Promises of God of enjoying the Earth; These, in their most flourishing prosperity ready to fade and wither suddenly and be stript of all: Those, truly happy in midst of all their seeming misery; These, extreamly miserable in midst of all their seeming felicity: The last End of Those determining in Peace; the last end of These, sadly closing in their utter Abscision and Perdition. Ambrose [r] notes, As in the former Psalme, the unrighteous is declared: So in this the Righteous is instructed.

[r] Pulchrè autem Sanctus David in superiore Psalmo injusti vitam describit: hic justi. Ibi injustus exponitur: hic justus instituitur. Ambr. in Enarrat. in Psal. 36. Tom. 4.

§. V. The Analysis, or Principal Parts.

The Inscription, only points out David as Penman of this Psalme; Of David.
The Substance of the Psalme, containes

I. The Duties of the Godly in regard of the wickeds prosperity, and their own contrary adversity. These Duties are propounded, and by some interwoven Arguments pressed, I. Negatively; They must not fret themselves, or enflame themselves with indignation and envy at them. Because the wicked shall soon be destroyed as Grasse, or the green Bud, verse 1, 2. II. Affirmatively; They must, 1. Trust in the LORD, and do good. So they shall inhabit the Land, and undoubtedly be fed, ver. 3. 2. Delight themselves in the LORD. So he will give them the askings of their heart, verse 4. 3. Roll their way confidently on God, or commit it of trust to him. So 1 Their way shall be accomplished, ver. 5. 2 Their just Cause shall be most clearly evidenced, vers. 6. 4. Tarry silently, and wait patiently for the LORD, forbearing all fretting against the wicked prospering in his way and bringing to pass his devised mischiefs, especially such distempered fretting as puts upon doing evil, vers. 7, 8.

II. Arguments enforcing these Duties; Drawn, 1. From the suddain and utter destruction threatned to the wicked: but the inheritance, and great tranquillity promised to the godly, ver. 9, 10, 11. 2. From the Providence of God, (1) Deriding, (2) Frustrating, yea (3) Retorting upon the wicked themselves, their Plots, Rage, and cruel Persecution against the just, verse 12. to 16. 3. From Gods blessing of even one Righteous mans Little, beyond many wicked men's much, ver. 16. The Righteous being (1) Supported, when the wicked's armes are broken, ver. 17. (2) Constantly provided for, and cared for; especially in dayes of distresse: whilest contrarywise the wicked are utterly consumed, verse 18, 19, 20. (3) Enabled to show favour and lend to others: when the wicked borrows and repayes not, verse 21. (4) Blessed on Earth; when the wicked are accursed, verse 22. (5) Established in his way, and in his falling preserved from being utterly cast off, vers. 23, 24. 4. From Davids signal experience; who, from his youth up even unto his old age, had not seen the righteous forsaken, or his Seed seeking bread: viz. Utterly destitute to the reproach of God, Godlinesse, or Gods Promises: But contrarywise, All the day showing favour and lending, and his Seed in the blessing, verse 25, 26.

III. An Horatory Conclusion, exciting the Righteous, to eschew evil, Do good, wait upon the LORD, and keep his way, notwithstanding all the prosperity of the wicked, ver. 27, —34. And this is urged, 1. From promise of their perpetual habitation, ver. 27. 2. From Gods love to judgement. 3. From Gods constant preservation of his Saints, when the seed of the wicked is cut off, ver. 28. 4. From the excellent condition wherein God hath set the righteous, beyond that of the wicked. The Righteous, (1) Inheriting the Land, verse 29. (2) Uttering wisdome and judgement, verse 30. Having Gods Law in his heart, to direct his steps, verse 31. (4) Being preserved safe by the LORD against all the Plots and cruelty of the wicked, verse 32, 33. Yea (5.) Inheriting the Earth, whilst the wicked are cut off, before their eyes, verse 34. 5. From the extream different ends of the Righteous and wicked: The end of these, being Peace; of these, Abolition, Destruction, and Abcision notwithstanding all the greatest glory of their former prosperity, ver. 35, 36, 37, 38. 6. From Gods Salvation, Aid, and Deliverance still vouchsafed to the righteous against their enemies in times of distress, because they fly to the LORD for safety, verse 39, 40.

§. III. The Kinde, Penman, and Occasion of this Psalme.

This Psalme as to the Kinde of it, is A Sad Lamenting Prayer of the Psalmist under some grievous corporal Disease lying extream heavy upon him.

Penman of it was David; A Psalme of David.

Occasion of Davids writing it, was, some great affliction, some acute Corporal Disease and Pain violently distressing him. Under this heavy Hand of God, being apprehensive of his many and great iniquities procuring justly these Distresses, he exceedingly laments and Pathetically Prayes. [x] Some think, David in this Psalme laments some grievous Disease inflicted upon him for his sin with Bathsheba. This is accounted The third [y] Penitential Psalme, wherein David Penitentially bewayleth and deeply aggravateth his sins, the causes of his sorrows. Ambrose sweetly; What is more forcible to exhort to repentance, then that the holy Prophet David teacheth us to repent of our sins? who shall disdain to humble himself before God, when the King humbles himself, &c.[z] x Putat Joseph Jechaias David in gravi morbo, qui illi ob peccatum cum Betsabee Commissum inflictus esset, hoc carmen edidisse. Sim. de Muis Argument. in Psal. 38 y See Psal. 6. §. 3.

z Quid autem est ad cohortationem pœnitentiæ validius, quam quod sanctus Propheta David peccatorum nostrorum nos docuit pœnitere? Quis enim dedigneetur humiliare se Deo, cum Rex se humiliaverit? Aut quis dubitet affligere animam suam, cum Propheta tantus afflixerit, solvens precium lachrymarum pro redemptione peccati? &c. Ambros. Præfat. in Enarrat. Psal. 37. Tom. 4.

§. IV. The Scope.

Davids Scope in this Pſalme, is; To intreat the LORD not to chaſtize him in his wrath and burning indignation for his many and great iniquities. And therefore, confeſſing his ſins, and lamenting his afflictions aggravated by his enemies, he beſeecheth the LORD herein not to forſake him, but to make haſte to his relief, See verſe 1.3.4.11.21.22. That word in the Hebrew Title לְהַזְכִּיר Le-hazcir, To-cauſe-remembrance: or; For-to-record: or; To-bring-to-remembrance: [a] ſeems unto ſome to be the beginning of ſome known Song. But others interpret it rather, according to the ſenſe and ſignification of the word, as denoting one ſpecial end and uſe of this Pſalme, viz. To be a Memorial-Pſalme, or A Pſalme of Commemoration: And this, 1. Either in reſpect of God, To intreat him to remember David in all theſe his deep diſtreſſes, according to his rich mercy, &c. As, Pſal. 132. 1. and to this effect eſpecially the 70*th Pſalme* is alſo intituled, A Pſalme of Remembrance, wherein David, as the LORD's Remembrancer, mindes the LORD of his Mercy towards him. 2. Or in reſpect of David himſelf; That he might not eaſily let this ſharp correction, or his ſins the procuring cauſes thereof, ſlip out of his Minde and Memory, but retain them ſtill in freſh remembrance. And David appointed Singers of the Levites before the Ark, for-to-Record, and to confeſſe, and to praiſe the LORD the God of Iſrael, 1 Chron. 16. 4. The Chaldee Paraphraſt hath the Title thus; A Pſalme of David for a good Memorial upon Iſrael. The Greek Verſion of the Lxxii, thus; A Pſalme to David for Remembrance touching the Sabbath. So alſo the Vulgar Latin: and other Verſions [b]. But I do not ſee, how either Iſrael, or the Sabbath, come under any Remembrance in this Pſalme: and therefore I count ſuch Additions groundleſs, and beſides the intent of the Hebrew Fountain by which they muſt be tryed.

II. An Amplification of this requeſt by divers Arguments drawn from the Cauſes, Effects, and Concomitant Circumſtances of his Diſtreſſes. I. The Cauſes of his afflictions are two, viz. 1. The Efficient Cauſe, Gods Juſtice, verſe 2, 3. 2. The Procuring Cauſe, The multitude, and weight of his own ſins and iniquities, verſe 3, 4, 5. II. Effects of his Afflictions are many. As, 1. Putrefaction and ſtinking of his ſtripes, verſe 5. 2. Extream ſadneſſe, making him crooked, and bowing him down exceedingly, verſe 6. 3. Parching inflammation, or ſome loathſome Matter in his Reines or Bowels, verſe 7. 4. Vehement Conſumption and cruſhing of his ſtrength and Spirits. 5. Loſs of his inward vigour. 9. And failing of his ſight, verſe 10. Theſe the effects or fruits of his deep diſtreſs. III. Circumſtances of his afflictions, are either in regard of, 1. His friends and familiars, who were eſtranged from him, verſe 11. 2. His enemies, who plot, ſpeak, and practiſe continually againſt him, verſe 12. 3. Himſelf, who endeavoured to bear all ſo Patiently, as if he were quite ſenſeleſſe of theſe injuries, ver. 13, 14. This his Patience is illuſtrated, 1 Partly, by the ground of it, His hope in God, verſe 15. 2 Partly, by the fruit of this Hope, viz. His Prayer to God againſt his Enemies, Sorrows, and Sins, (the pride and cruel perſecution of his enemies being complained off,) ver. 16. to 21.

III. A Petitory Concluſion, intreating the LORD, not to Leave him nor to Abſent himſelf at a diſtance from him in his Troubles: but contrariwiſe to make haſte to his relief, verſe 21, 22.

§. III. The Kinde, Penman, and Occaſion, &c.

This Pſalme is, for the Kinde and Nature of it, A Prayer. The Penman of it, David: The Title ſtiles it, A Pſalme of David. The Occaſion of Davids Penning it, is not ſo certainly evident. Some, [k] as Ezra and others think, David wrote it in ſome ſickneſs of his, as alſo he did the former Pſalme. Others, and they of the Hebrew-Writers alſo are rather of opinion, David wrote it when he was under ſome great affliction and calamity: Therein teaching us; That, when we are oppreſſed with the wicked, God is not to be accuſed, but ſuch miſeries are to be undergone k Sim. de Muis in Arg. ad Pſ. 39

dergone with constancy, this life and the incommodities thereof being but momentany. But [1] some of our later Writers conceive from the Context and Argument here handled, that David then wrote this Psalme, when he was cast into great straits, by Absalom's conspiracie.

§. IV. The Scope.

Whatever the Occasion was, The Scope intended in this Psalme, seems chiefly to be this; viz. To set forth; 1. How David, under some great affliction, resolved to compose himself in all silence, especially in presence of the wicked; But 2. How his heart waxing hot by his long holding his peace, hee at last desired the LORD to make him know his end, and the measure of his dayes: 3. Whereupon perceiving the extream brevity and vanity of his and all mens lives, He begs pardon of his sins, silently submits to the afflicting hand of God, and intreats the LORD for some cessation of his anger, that he may a little refresh himself before his Death.

§. V. The Analysis, or Principal Parts.

The Title of this Psalm, sets forth, 1. The Denomination of it; A Psalme. 2. The Penman of it, David. 3. The Direction of it, as to the Musick; To-him-that-excelleth, to Jeduthun. He Prophecied with the Harp to give thanks, and to praise the LORD, 1 Chron. 25.3,6,9. The Chaldee Paraphrast thus sets forth the Title; To praise for the Cussedy of the House of the Sanctuary, by the mouth of Jeduthun, An Hymne of David m. But I can finde no cause or colour for any such addition.

m Vid. Bibl. Polyglott. ad Ps. 39.

The Substance of the Psalme, is 1. Narratory. 2. Petitory.

I. Narratory. Wherein is a Narration, 1. Of Davids Resolution to suppress all expressions of impatiency under his distresses, taking heed to his wayes, and even putting a Bridle on his mouth, lest he should sin with his tongue, and the wicked should gain advantage against him n, vers. 1. II. Of Davids Performance of this his Resolution for a season, being dumb with stillness, yea, silent from good, that is, forbearing to speak even in his own just defence, as he did against Shimei, 2 Sam. 16.10,11,12. vers. 2. III. Of Davids distempered Passions, which, (though long suppressed, yet) through extremity of growing evils, and his own infirmity at last by degrees began; 1. To be troubled; 2. To wax hot; 3. To burne like fire within him: till it could be suppresst no longer, but did burst out into rash discontented words, desiring the Lord to take away his life, rather then let him live in these miseries. Make me know mine end——— Let mee know how soon ceasing I am that is, Make mee know death experimentally: O let mee die, vers. 3,4. This his distempered request he presseth, from the extream vanity of his own, and all mens lives, though setled in best worldly condition, gradation-wise. As if he had said; To what end should I spin out this my wretched life any longer? For, 1. My dayes are but as hand-breadths. 2. My worldly-time here is as nothing before thee. 3. Every man is all vanity, though setled in best state, ver. 5. 4. Yea, man walks in an image, walks up and down but like a vanishing apparition, having an imaginary rather then a real life. 5. And he makes a great stir in the world to keep up temporals, not knowing who shall inherit them. (For, Absalom conspiring against him, and Mephibosheth being suspected, David might vehemently doubt who should succeed him.) Thus his distempered words broke out, ver. 6.

n Si hoc cavet Prophera, tu non caves? Si hoc metuit, in quo Dei gratia loquebatur; tu non metuis, qui erroris verba non refugis, & theatralibus sermonibus delectaris? Tu non reformidas, cui scriptum est in Evangelio, quia pro omni otioso verbo rationem es redditurus? Si pro otioso verbo periculum est, quanto magis pro criminoso? &c. Ambr. in Enarrat. Ps. 38. Tom. 4.

II. Petitory. Wherein David recollecting himself, presents certain Petitions to the LORD. And here, 1. He professeth, that (notwithstanding all this) his hopeful expectation is only upon the LORD, vers. 7. 2. He begs pardon for these and all other his trespasses. 3. He Prayes, That by his continued and great calamities, he may not become the reproach of the fool, vers. 8. 4. He resolveth to be dumb, and open his mouth no more against his affliction, because God did it, ver. 9. 5. He sues for deliverance from his Distresses; (1) Partly, for that he was almost consumed by Gods buffeting, vers. 10. (2) Partly, because no man is able to bear Gods rebukes for sin, without sinking under them. (3) Partly, because every man is vanity, vers. 11. 6. He craves Audience to His Prayer, His Out-cry, His Teares: because hee (as all his fathers) is but a poor pilgrim and stranger on Earth before the LORD, vers. 12. 7. He beseecheth him to slake and withdraw his afflicting hand from him, that he may have a little respite to refresh himself before he die, vers. 13.

Pſalme XL.

§. I. The Summary Contents.

David, under the Type of himſelf and his deep Afflictions, Prophecieth of Chriſt and his ſatisfactory ſufferings, &c. I. Encouraging himſelf to Faith and Prayer, 1. From Gods favours peculiarly experimented by him in his former diſtreſſes, ver. 1,2,3. 2. From Gods benefits to all his ſincere Saints, ver. 4, 5. 3. From Gods higheſt diſcovery of love to man in CHRIST the Redeemer: eſtabliſhed Mediatour, 1 To offer himſelf a Sacrifice for our ſins, As our Prieſt: All Levitical Sacrifices being abrogated, ver. 6.7,8. 2 To preach the Goſpel, as our Prophet. verſ. 9,10. II. Petitioning, upon theſe encouragements, for ſundry bleſſings, verſ. 11. to the end.

§. II. The Verſion out of the Hebrew.

To the Maſter-Muſician. Davids Pſalme.

1. I Waiting waited-for the LORD:
And hee to mee did bend,
And [a] did to heare my cry afford.
2. And mee hee-made-aſcend
Out of the [b] Pit of ſounding-wo,
Out of the myre of clay:
On Rock ſet-up my feet alſo,
My ſteps did-firmely-ſtay.

3. And gave a new Song in my mouth,
Praiſe to our God alor'd:
See many ſhall, and feare in truth,
And truſt upon the LORD.
4. [c] O happy man! That doth repoſe
His firme-truſt in the LORD:
Nor doth reſpect the proud, and thoſe
That [d] ſwerve to lyes abhorr'd.

5. Thou LORD my God haſt many made
Thy [e] workings-marvellous,
And haſt thy thoughts of love diſplaid
So fully towards us,
That [f] none can order them to thee;
When tell or ſpeak I would,
Increaſed mightily-they-bee,
Yea mo then can bee told.

6. Thou Sacrifice and Offering Didſt not delight to have;
Mine Eares haſt thou [g] boar'd, to obey:
Likewiſe thou didſt not crave
Burnt-offring, and offring-for-ſin.
7. Then ſaid I, Lo I come;
The Volume of the Book within
It's writ of mee, in ſumme:

8. My-God, I much-delight to do Thine-acceptable-will:
[h] Within my Bowels deare alſo
Thy Law is fixed ſtill.
9. In great Church I thy righteouſneſs
[i] Evangeliz'd below:
Lo, I did not my lips repreſs,
As thou O LORD doſt know.

10. Thy Juſtice [k] in mine Heart alone
I have not covered;
Thy Truth and thy Salvation
I-ſpeaking-uttered:
Thy-merciful-benignity
Lo I have not conceal'd,
But to the great Aſſembly I
Thy verity reveal'd.

II.

11. Thou LORD, thy-tender-kindneſſes
Do not from mee [l] reſerve:
Thy mercy and thy faithfulneſs
Let them mee ſtill preſerve.
12. For evils [m] mo then can be told
Quite-round-aſſailed-mee,
Mee mine iniquities faſt-hold
So that I cannot ſee:

[n] Mine heart mee failes, ſith' they increaſe
Above haires on my head.
13. Be pleaſ'd, O LORD, mee to releaſe;
LORD, Haſte unto mine aid.
14. Let them alike be ſham'd and daſh'd,
That ſeek my ſoul [o] to ſtroy:

[a] Heb. bee heard my cry.
[b] Heb. or, Dungeon of ſounding-calamity. eccheing doleſully.
[c] Heb. O the Happineſſes of that man. that puts the LORD his ſecure-truſt.
[d] Heb. decline or revolt to a ly viz. Idols or Hereſyes, &c.
[e] Heb. marvelous-works. marvels
[f] Heb. not any ſetting-in order (or recounting-them in-order) to thee.
[g] Heb. or, pierced or, digged open. viz. made obedi. ent contrary to this, is ſtopping the eare. Pſal. 58.4.
[h] Heb. In the midſt of my bowels.
[i] Heb. or, I have evangeliz'd. or, I have preached glad-tidings, or the Goſpel.
[k] Heb. in midſt of myne heart.
[l] Heb. ſhutt-up. cloſe-up m Heb. till not any number. viz. innumerable. beyond numbring.
[n] Heb. they a mightily-are-increſed beyond the haires of my head, and my heart forſaketh mee.
[o] Heb. To deſtroy it.

Let

Let them be back return'd and bash'd,
That at mine ill [p] do joy.

15. O let them desolated bee
For [q] wages of their shame,
That say Aha, Aha, to mee.

16. Thy Seekers all let them
Bee glad and joy in thee alway:
Likewise [r] at every tide
Let thy Salvation's Lovers say,
The LORD be magnifyde.

17. But I though poor and needy made,
The LORD thinks on mee ay:
Thou my deliverer and mine aid;
My God [s], do not delay.

p Heb. de-lighting, or taking pleasure.
q Heb. Hire. Reward.
r Heb. all-waies.
s Heb. do not delay, or linger so as to disappoint mine expectation. Thus the word is used Hab. 2. 3.

§. III. The Kinde, Penman, and Occasion of this Psalme.

This Psalme is Prophetical, laid down Prayer-wise. The whole matter is Applicable, 1. Immediately, to David, as the natural Parent of Christ according to the flesh, and a spiritual Type of him. And Christ in Scripture is divers times called David; As Hos. 3. 5. Jer. 30. 9. Ezek. 34. 23. and 37. 24. because hee is the true David. 2. Mediately, and most principally to the Son of David, Jesus Christ himselfe, as the Antitype and Truth. The Apostle testifies that this Psalme prophecieth of Christ, Heb. 10. 5, 6, 7. [t] So that it is a Prophetical Prayer, or a praying Prophecie. That learned and judicious Andr. Rivet, touching the Object intended in this Psalme, saith; There are both of Ancient and Later Interpreters, who think this whole Psalme expresseth Christs words, but some to be spoken in his own Person, some, in the person Partly of Gentiles, Partly of Jewes, or in the Person of the Church only, So that the Church should speak in the beginning and end, but Christ in the middle. Others, would have Christ alwayes to speak, who in the Beginning glorieth of his deliverance from Death and Hell, by his Resurrection; And in the End, as it were, set on the Crost in his Passion, he begs deliverance from innumerable evils. There are others who referre all to David first, but who was a Type of the Messiah: and therefore, though there be many things in this Psalme which belong only to David, yet are there some things which are spoken of him only Typically, and ought to be referred to the Truth in Christ. ——But I think their opinion to come neareſt to the genuine sense, who think, Davids words sound throughout the whole Psalme: But because David was to be Christs Father according to the flesh, therefore sometimes by a paternal right he challengeth to himself his sonnes words, and so utters them, as if they belonged to himself for the kindred of the flesh. ——And the Interpretation will run best, if referring to David what things may agree to him, we so attribute the rest to Christ with the Apostle, (Heb. 10. 7, 8, 9.) as used of David Prophetically, as he was to be Christs Father, and were to be fulfilled in his Seed [u], &c. t Sic Hen. Mylerus in Arg. Psal. 40. & in Com. ad ver. 6, 7, 8, 9. Sim. de Muis in Arg. & in Com. ad Psal. 40. 6. &c. Joan. Calvin. in Com. ad Ps. 40. 8. Hen. Ainsworth's Contents & Annot. on Psal. 40. throughout, &c.

u Andr. Rivet. in Inscript. Arg. & Partit. Psal. 40. p. 253. Lugd. 1626.

Penman of it was David, as the Title intimates.

Occasion of Davids writing it is not Particularly evident, But in the General it seemes, by the matter of the Psalme, David penned it upon occasion of some very deep calamity, and extream distresse that he was wofully implunged into, making him reflect upon his sinnes, &c. See vers. 2, 12. yet confirming his faith and hope from former experience, both private and publick, and from Christs most acceptable obedience more delightful to God then all Sacrifices, &c. He supplicates for deliverance, and deprecates his enemies cruelty and insolency.

§. IV. The Scope.

The Scope intended in this choice Psalme, is; Under the grievous Afflictions, Enemies, and Deliverances of David, To foretel Prophetically the great Sufferings, Enemies and Deliverances of Christ, by whose Death and Obedience all the Legal Sacrifices should be abolished; Whereupon the Righteousnes of God is preached to the whole Church, and the confusion of his enemies, and joy of those that love his salvation is petitioned for Prophetically.

§. V. The

§. V. The Analysis, or Principal Parts.

In the Inscription are: 1. The Denomination of it; A Psalme. 2. The Penman; David. 3. The Direction of it as to the Musick; To the Master-Musician.

In the Psalme it self, are; I. Encouraging Arguments to Faith and Prayer, laid down. 2. Petitions presented to the LORD upon those encouragements.

I. Encouraging Arguments to Faith and Prayer, are drawn, I. From Gods particular and peculiar favours experimented in former distresses and extremities. Wherein the LORD, 1. Heard him after long and long expectation, ver. 1. 2. Delivered him from woful sufferings. Elegantly compared, (1) To a Pit or Dungeon of howling or sounding calamity. (2) To deep myre or clay, wherein he stuck fast: (notable Emblemes of the deep sufferings both of David and of Christ.) 3. Established his steps on safe ground, on a Rock above these dangers and evils, ver. 2. 4. Hereby put into his mouth A new Song of Praise. 5. And hence encouraged all Beholders to feare and trust in the LORD, ver. 3. II. From Gods publique benefits to all his Saints and every one of them, walking in 1. Faith, 2. Humility, and 3. Truth: Such being, 1. Most happy. Happy even to Admiration, ver. 4. 2. Gods thoughts, yea wonders of love to them, are, for multitude, beyond all expressions, ver. 5. III. From Gods highest and sweetest discovery of Love in CHRIST, as our Redeemer. Here Christ is prophetically brought in, as speaking of three things especially to his Father: viz. 1. The total Abrogation of all sorts of Legal Sacrifices, as wholly insufficient for man's Redemption. 2. The establishment of Christ the Mediatour, the true sufficient Sacrifice, in stead of them all. Mine eares hast thou bored: viz. Thou hast made me herein thy faithful servant for ever. An allusion to the Law, Exod. 21. 6. The Greek Version of the LXXII (followed by the Apostle, Heb. 10. 5.) renders it otherwise; σῶμα δ κατηρτίσω μοι, A Body hast thou fitted to mee: Gathering from the Consequent, what was Antecedent. For, His eare could not be thus Bored, Nor he become Gods Mediatory Servant, had not God first fitted the Humane Nature to be personally united to the Divine, that therein he might suffer and be sacrificed, Heb 10. 5, 10. In which respect it is said; God was manifested in the flesh, 1 Tim. 3. 16. The Word was made flesh, and tabernacled in (or with) us, Joh. 1. 14: God sent his Son, made of a woman, made under the Law, to Redeem them that were under the Law, Gal. 4. 4. &c. Thus the sense of both these Phrases, is for substance one and the same, ver. 6. 2. The Readinesse of Christ, (1) According to the volume of Gods Book, the Holy Scriptures; (2) According to the power of Gods Law engraven in his Heart in the inwards of his Bowels, To discharge; 1. His Priestly Office; Coming into the world, and especially to Jerusalem, To give himself as a Sacrifice, (Heb. 10. 5, 10. compared with Mark 10. 31, 32, 33.) To do God's Acceptable will, that is, to be obedient to the death, &c. (Heb. 10. 9, 10 Phil. 2. 8.) ver. 7, 8. 2. His Prophetical Office, in Evangelizeing; viz. Preaching the Gospels glad-tidings to his Church fully and faithfully, ver. 9, 10.

II. Petitions presented to the LORD upon these Encouragements and Arguments, are; 1. For Gods favour, the fountain of mercy. 2. For his constant support and preservation under his sufferings, ver. 11. 3. For deliverance from his most heavy and numberlesse sorrowes, (iniquities being put, either for the sorrowes and paine of iniquities, as Gen. 4. 13. Or for our iniquities by imputation laid on Christ, Isai. 53. 6.) ver. 12, 13. 4. For confusion of his enemies, seeking his ruine, and ready to insult at his calamities, ver. 14, 15. 5. For the joy and consolation of the Saints in Gods Salvation by Christ, ver. 16. 6. For Gods hastening his Help. Urged; Partly, From the depth of his misery. Partly, From Gods Office to succour, ver. 17.

Psalme XLI.

§. I. The Summary Contents.

David, Implunged into great afflictions, I. Declares, 1. The happinesse of the Merciful-man, wisely-considering the poor-weakling afflicted, verse 1, 2, 3. 2. His own great afflictions, aggravated by the malicious treachery of false friends and Enemies: under which he Prophetically fortells the deep sufferings of Christ, through Judas his treachery, verse 4. to 10. II. Prayes, The LORD to be gracious to him, and raise him up out of his deep distresses, verse 10. to the end.

§. II. The first Version out of the Hebrew.

To-the-Master-Musician, A Psalme of David.

a Heb. O the happinesses of him-that prudently attendeth to the poore weakling. b Heb. and revive him, or preserve him-alive. c Heb. give him not to the Soule of his enemyes. d Heb. Heale my Soule. e Heb. perish.

1. a Happy man! That-heeds-with-skill
The weakling: in the day of ill
The LORD will surely him deliver.
2. The LORD will him keep b and revive,
He shall-bee blest on earth and thrive:
But c give him to his foes lust never.
3. The LORD upholds-him on Bedstead
Of languishing: Thou all his bed
Hast turn'd in his infirmity.
4. I said; To-mee-shew-grace O LORD:
Thou d Healing to my soul afford,
For so c against thee sin'd have I.

5. Mine Enemies ill of mee said:
When shall he dye, and his name e fade?
6. And if hee come to visit mee,
Hee in his heart doth speak a lye,
Heaps to himself iniquity:
Goes forth, speak it abroad doth hee.
7. Together all mine haters do
Against mee whisper in my wo:
Against mee they mine ill devise.
8. Some thing of Belial on him cleaves;
And f him down lying hope so leaves,
That hee no more shall-up-arise.

9. Yea, g my familiar friend (misled)
h Whom I did trust, that eat my bread:
The heel against mee i lift hath hee.
10. But thou be-gracious-to-mee, LORD, k Up-raise-mee: And I'le them reward.
11. ! Hence know I thou delight'st in mee,
When over mee m no foe shall boast.
12. But as for mee, thou safely doest.
Mee n In my perfectness sustain:
And o ay with-thee mee stablishest.
13. Let Isr'els God, the LORD be blest
From p aye to aye: Amen, Amen.

f Heb. and that he lyeth down, he shall not add to rise. g Heb. the man of my peace. h Heb. In whom—— i Heb. hath magnified, or hath greatly-lifted-up. k Heb. And up-raise—— l Heb. By this I know that—— m Heb. my foe shall not joy. n Heb. in my perfectness in mee. o Heb. for ever before thy face. p Heb. eternity to eternity: Amen, and Amen.

The Second Version out of the Hebrew.

To-the-Master-Musician, A Psalme of David.

a Heb. O the happinesses of him-that prudently attendeth to the poore weakling. b Heb. of ill. c Heb. will keep him and preserve him alive. d Heb. Soule. e Heb. or; bedstead.

1. a O Happy man! that prudently
The weakling doth consider:
In day b of his Adversity
The LORD will him deliver.
2. The LORD c will keep, and make-him-live,
In earth he shall be blest:
But him (O God) do thou not give Unto his enemies d lust.

3. The LORD will him upon his e Bed
Of languishing sustain:
Yea thou hast turned all his Bed
In his enfeebling-pain.
4. I in my trouble said, O LORD,
Bee-gracious-to-mee:
Thou f healing to my soul afford,
g I have sin'd against thee.

f Heb. Heale my Soule. g Heb. For I ——

5. Of mee mine enemies ill do say;
When dy the death shall he,
And his Name h perishing-decay?
6. And if hee come to see,
Unto himself iniquity
He heapeth up, O God,
Hee goeth forth immediately
And speaketh it abroad.

h Heb. perish

7. Together all that-do-mee-hate Against mee whisper still:
Against mee they do meditate
And do devise mine ill.
8. They say; On him adhereth-fast
Some i thing of Belial:
And he that lyeth-down at last,
Shall rise no more at all.

9. Yea, k He with whom at peace I was,
In whom I did confide,
That eat my bread: The heel also
Against mee l magnifide.
10. But thou O LORD with shining rayes
m Thy-grace-on-mee-display,
And up again do thou mee raise:
And I shall them repay.

11. By this I clearely know, That thou
In mee n dost-pleasure-take;
When over mee my vaunting foe
Doth not his o triumphs-make.
12. p But mee, Thou in my perfectness
Didst sweetly mee sustain:
And setledst mee before thy face
For ever to remain.

13. The LORD, the God of Israel
Be highly blessed then, q From aye to aye, (He doth excel,) Amen, yea and Amen.

i Heb. A word of Belial. of it-times [word] is put for [thing,] as Psal. 7. 5. And [word of Belial] for [thing of Belial] as Deut. 15. 9 Psal. 101. 3. That is, either, yokelesse disfavourednesse or the punishment thereof. k Heb. the man of my peace, He in whom—— l Heb. or; greatly-lifted up. m Heb. Be gracious to me or; show mee grace. n Heb. delightest. o Heb. triumph. or, shout triumphingly. p Heb. or; But as for mee, q Heb. From eternity and to eternity.

§. III. The Kinde, penman, Occasion, &c.

This Psalme is of a Mixt nature, made up of Instruction, Prophecy and Prayer. Instructing, touching that mans happiness, who wisely-considers and commiserating relieves relieves, succours, comforts, &c. The poor-weakling, laid extreme low, ver. 1. &c. Prophecying (under the Type of Davids Poverty and afflictions, Achitophels Treachery againſt him therein, and his raiſing up again out of his diſtreſſe) of the poverty and ſufferings of Chriſt, Judas his Treachery againſt him therein, and of Chriſts Reſurrection and glory following. Compare verſ. 1. 9. 10. 12. with John 13. 18. David (yea, Chriſt) Praying for himſelf, againſt his Enemies verſe 10. &c.

Penman of this Pſalme was David; As the Title ſignifies.

Occaſion of his writing it, though not Particularly expreſſed, yet from the Subject-Matter of it may be probably conjectured. Some think, David Penned it, when he lay afflicted with ſome grievous Diſeaſe of Body; So the Hebrew writers [r]. Some (not finding ſuch corporal ſickneſs of David recorded in Scripture) think, he ſpeaks allegorically here of the ſickneſs of his minde and Spirit, touching his ſon Abſaloms unnatural conſpiracy againſt him: So Junius, [s] &c. Some rather apprehend from the expreſſions in the context, that he wrote it, upon Occaſion of his beginning to recover a little out of his Diſeaſe, and get a little ſtrength again, (As ſeems hinted, ver. 4. to 13.) So Muis [t]. Another thinks the raviſhing of Tamar, and Murder of Amnon miniſtred occaſion to David for Penning of this Pſalme [u]. Let the judicious conſider.

§. IV. The Scope.

Davids Scope intended herein, is; 1. To ſet forth his deep afflictions and diſtreſſes, His Adverſaries miſcheif and maliciouſneſs againſt him under them, eſpecially the treachery of his familiar friend, viz. Achitophel; 2. To beſeech the LORD to favour him, heale him, and raiſe him up again, that his adverſaries may not inſult over him, but God be magnified thereby. 3. And under this Typical adumbration to foretel Prophetically, The great poverty and ſufferings of Chriſt, The Hypocriſie and malice of his Adverſaries therein, eſpecially the Treachery of Judas (Compare verſe 9. with John 13. 18.) But after all, Chriſts Reſurrection and glory, to the endleſs praiſe of God.

§. V. The Analyſis, or Principal Parts.

In the Title, note 1. The Denomination; A Pſalme. 2. The Penman; David. 3. The Direction of it, as to the Muſick.

In the Subſtance of the Pſalme, are; 1. A Narration. 2. A Petition.

I. The Narration is twofold; viz. I. Of the Happineſs of the Merciful man, wiſely conſidering the poor-weakling (viz. litefally, David; ſpiritually, Chriſt himſelf) in his extream diſtreſſes. This his happineſs is Amplified by ſundry ſweet Promiſes made to him. As, 1. Of Deliverance in day of ill, ver. 1. 2. Of Preſervation of his life. 3. Of his Benediction on Earth. 4. Of his Protection from his enemies luſt, ver. 2. 5. Of Divine ſupport and refreſhment in all his languiſhing diſeaſes, ver. 3. II. Of his own, and Chriſts deep ſufferings Herein are declared, 1. His Deportment under them towards God, praying for favour and healing to his ſoul, ver. 4. 2. The Deportment both of his enemies and friends towards him; both which are complained of by David and Chriſt. His enemies behaved themſelves maliciouſly; (1) Wiſhing his Death, yea, the Obliterating of his very Name, ver. 5. (2) Counterfeiting friendſhip in viſiting him, meerly in ſcorne and deriſion of him, ver. 6. (3) Whiſpering, and complotting miſchief againſt him, ver. 7. (4) Calumniating him about his Diſtreſſes and Sufferings: as if the cauſe of them were ſome notorious diſſoluteneſſe or wickedneſſe, and his caſe under them were wholly deſperate, ver. 8. His Friend dealt treacherouſly with him, but on his part moſt undeſervedly; (As Achitophel with David 2 Sam. 15. 31. Judas with Chriſt Joh. 13. 18.) ver. 9.

II. The Petition of the Prophet, (David, and Chriſt,) That the LORD would be gracious to him, and raiſe him up out of his deep diſtreſſes. 1. That ſo he may juſtly recompenſe his Enemies, ver. 10. 2. That thus (his foes not inſulting over him) he may be aſſured, God takes pleaſure in him ver. 11. This Petition is Emphatically Amplyfied, (1) By his Recognition of the LORD's ſuſtaining him in his integrity, and ſetling before his face for ever, ver. 12. (2) By his thankful Pronunciation of the LORD's eternal bleſſedneſſe. (3) By his Concluſion of this Pſalme; yea, of this whole First Book of Pſalmes, with Amen and Amen, ver. 13.

The Syriack Verſion, after this Pſalme adds, The end of the firſt Book [x].

THE SECOND BOOK

Viz. OF

PSALMES.

THE New Teſtament accounts the Pſalmes to be but One Book, which is therein therefore ſtiled, ΒΙΒΛΟΣ ΨΑΛΜΩΝ, The BIBLE or BOOK OF PSALMES, Luk. 20. 42. Act. 1. 20. But it is evident by Epiphanius [a], Greg. Nyſſen [b], and Hierome [c], That this one Book of Pſalmes hath been anciently Subdivided into five Diſtinct Books or Volumes, probably by ſome of the Hebrew Writers or Rabbines. And as the five Books of Moſes, are called Moſes's Penteteuch: So theſe five Books of Pſalmes may be ſtiled David's Penteteuch. About this Diſtribution, See formerly in the General Preface to the whole Book of Pſalmes, §. VI. This Second Book contains in all thirty Pſalmes, viz. Pſalme 42. to Pſal. 72. incluſively: And it thus concludes:—— Amen and Amen. Ended are the Prayers of David Son of Jeſſe, Pſal. 72. 19, 20. Before this 42. f Heb. in saying to mee all the day.
g Heb. or, upon mee.

I went with them to th' House of God
With voice h of joy and praise,
i A Feast-observing multitude.
5. My Soul, k why droop'st always,
And why dost make l a stirre in mee?
O wait on God for Grace,
For, yet m I'le praise him, for the free
Salvations of his face.

h Heb. of shouting and confession.

§. III. The Kinde, Penman, and Occasion. &c.

This is The second Maschil, or Instructing-Psalme; See Psal. 32. §. 3. Herein the Psalmist, by his own example Instructs Gods people, How deep an affliction it is to a gracious Soul to be exiled from the LORD's presence in his Sanctuary and Ordinances; How bitter an heart-breaking it is to the Godly in distresse to be insulted over by wicked enemies as forsaken of God; And how he is to behave and comfort himself against both. This Psalme is mixt of Doctrine, Expostulation, and Prayer.

Penman of this Psalme is not expressed: and therefore cannot certainly be determined upon. y R. Moses thinks it was written in the Babylonish Captivity. Muis thinks this and the two following Psalmes to be written by one of the Sonnes of Korah in the Babylonish Captivity: The matter and words in these three Psalmes seeming so notably to point at that Exile. But others from the Subject-matter of this Psalme, do rather judge that David Penned this Psame z.

y Vid. Simeon. de Muis in Comment. ad Psal. 42. 1.

The Occasion of his writing it, was evidently his forced Exile from the Tabernacle and Publique Assembles where he was wont to have sweet Communion with God in his Ordinances. This his Exile, was probably, either by reason of Sauls cruel Persecution of him; Or his Sonne Absalom's unnaturall Insurrection against him.

z Jun. Annotat. in Psal. 42.

§. IV. The

§. IV. The Scope.

The Psalmists intended Scope, is; 1. To ease his oppressed heart, and comfort himself, By Holy desires, Expostulations, Petitions and Hope, Against his sad Exile from Gods House, Presence and Ordinances, against his deep afflictions that lay heavy upon him, and his enemies insolencies against him in both regards. 2. And consequently to instruct Gods people how to behave themselves answerably in like conditions.

§. V. The Analysis, or Principal Parts.

In the Inscription, note; 1. The Denomination of it, pointing out the Nature of the Psalme; Maschil. 2. The Direction of it as to the Musick.

In the Substance of the Psalme it self, note; The Psalmists twofold complaint,

I. His sad Complaint and Lamentation, by reason of his Exile from Gods House, Presence, and Ordinances in the publick Assemblies. Herein are laid down, I. His Complaint it self. Amplified and even aggravated, 1. By his own vehement longing desires after God in his House, &c. His Soul (1) Panting after God as the Hinde in Summer brayeth desirously after the Water-Brooks, vers. 1. (2) Thirsting for God; (3) Thinking the time long and tedious till the presence of God be again recovered by him, vers. 2. 2. By his enemies bitter and cutting insulting over him, as forsaken of God, which made him as it were feed upon nothing but his own Teares night and day, verse 3. 3. By his remembrance of his by-past happiness, when he went with the multitude of those that kept the Solemn Feasts, To the House of God with voice of shouting and praise: which parallel'd with his present Exile and privation of those sweet liberties, made him now poure out his very Soul with grief within him, verse 4. II. His checking and comforting his drooping, dejected, and self-disquieting Soul, against this complaint, with hopes in God; That yet again (notwithstanding all his present calamities) he should have opportunity to please God, and enjoy the Salvations of his face in his House, vers. 5.

II. His Complaint to God against his other distresses, (Peculiar Consolations being interwoven with every of them.) As; 1. Against Despondency and Desertion of Soul. Raising up his Spirit with the remembrance of God, where ever he was forced to wander from his Sanctuary, (1) Whether Eastward, in the Land of Jordan: (2) Or Northward among the Hermonim: (3) Or Southward, among the little Mountains bounding Judea, verse 6. 2. Against the multitudes of mighty afflictions overwhelming him without intermission, calling (as it were) one upon another to fall upon him. Elegantly resembled, (1) To deeps of waters; (2) To the Cataracts of Heaven, Gods Water-spouts from the Clouds; (3) To breaking Waves and rolling Billows, verse 7. Here he comforts himself, Partly, By the LORD's constant faithfulnesse and kindnesse to him night and day. Partly, By his priviledge of pouring out, both his Prayer, and his Complaints to God continually against his afflictions and enemies vers. 8, 9. 3. Against the insolency of his enemies, daily upbraiding him as forsaken of God; which was as a Murdering-sword or Dagger (yea, Heb. Murder) in his bones, verse 10. Under which he comforts his self-dejecting and self-disquieting soul, by hope in God; That yet he should publickly praise him in the Tabernacle, as his evident and full Salvation, and as his God, vers. 11.

§. III. The Kinde, Penman, and Occaſion.

This untituled Pſalme is a Prayer. The Subject-Matter of it, is exceeding like that of the former Pſalme: yea, ſundry of the very words and expreſſions of both theſe Pſalmes, are the ſame; Compare Pſal. 42. 11. with Pſal. 43. 5. Whereupon ſome have deſervedly accounted this 43. Pſalme to be an Appendix of Pſalme 42 [m].

Penman, and Occaſion of this Pſalme may be judged of, as in the former.

§. IV. The Scope.

The Pſalmiſts Scope is; To intreat the LORD, ſo to plead his Cauſe againſt his perſecuting Adverſaries, that at laſt he may be reſtored again to his much longed-for Communion with God in his Sanctuary.

§. V. The Analyſis, or Principal Parts.

This Pſalme is 1. Petitory. 2. Conſolatory.

I. Petitory. He petitioneth to the LORD, 1. To avenge him, plead his Cauſe, and deliver him from his Adverſaries. This requeſt he urgeth, Partly from his enemies vileneſs: They being (1) Unmerciful, (2) Deceitful, (3) Injurious, (4) Oppreſſing, verſe 1, 2. Partly, from his own intereſt in God, on whom alone he relyed as his ſtrength, and therefore expoſtulates with him about, (1) Gods thruſting him away, viz. from his favour, help, &c. (2) His own mournful condition. (3) His enemies oppreſſion, verſe 2. 2. To ſend forth, (1) The Light of his Divine Favour; (2) The Truth of his Covenant and Promiſes: which may again reſtore him to his wonted fellowſhip with God in his Sanctuary. This is amplified, 1 By an Elegant Gradation. He would be reſtored and brought, To Gods Holy Mountain; Yea, to his Dwelling-places there; yea, to Gods Altar therein; But above all, To God himſelf, The joy of his Exaltation, The joy of his Gladneſſe. 2 By the end of his requeſt, viz. That ſo he might publickly praiſe and glorifie God, verſe 3, 4.

II. Conſolatory. He checks and comforts his ſelf-dejecting, and ſelf-diſquieting ſoul, with hope in God; That yet he ſhould praiſe him in the Tabernacle, As his Evident and full Salvation, and as his God, verſ. 5.

§. III. The Kinde, Penman, and Occasion, &c.

This is the third Maschil, or Instructing-Psalme: See Psal. 32. §. 3. And it is a fervent Complaint, or vehement Expostulating Lamenting Prayer to God: Penned, as it were, in the name of the Afflicted, and Persecuted Church of God. A very lively Map of the Saints Sufferings and Martyrdomes for the Cause of God, of Christ, and of the Gospel, both under the Old and New Testament: As the Apostle intimateth, Rom. 8.36.

Who was Penman of it, whether David by a Prophetick Spirit foretelling the Churches future Calamites, as some h, or some of the Posterity of Korach in the Babylonish Captivity, as i others; or some other Prophet; is not clearly evident either by this Psalme, or any other Scripture.

h Sim. de Muis in Arg Ps. 44.
i Sim de Muis in Arg. ad Ps. 44

The Occasion also of writing it cannot be particularly determined upon: whether the Jews long afflictions in the 70. years Babylonish Captivity, wherein the godly are supposed to use this Prayer; As Muis k. Or the cruel Tyranny of Antiochus; As Calvin l. Or the many distresses of the Church by the Philistines, from the times of Sampson till the dayes of David: As Junius m, Or some other Calamitous time that befell the Church. And therefore it is not safe to be positive herein.

k Sim. de Muis ubi supra.
l Jo Calv. in Arg. ad Ps. 44.
m Fran. Jun. in Annot. ad Ps. 45.

§. IV. The Scope.

The Scope of the Church in this zealous complaining Prayer (as the Subject-matter thereof evidenceth) is especially; 1. To Lament and bewail the many heavy Calamities that the LORD (after all his former favours to them in possessing them of the Land of Canaan) had brought upon them, by their cruel persecuting enemies. 2. To Professe their constancy and fidelity to God, notwithstanding all this Deluge and Sea of Miseries that was broke in upon them. 3. And to intreat the LORD for Salvation and Deliverance from all their pressing evils and oppressing enemies.

§. V. The Analysis, or Principal Parts.

In the Title, are; 1. The Denomination of it; Maschil. 2. The Direction of it as to the Musick.

In the Substance of the Psalme, we have the Church, 1. Commemorating, 2. Complaining, 3. Professing, and 4. Praying.

I. The Church Commemorateth the former experience of Gods ancient favours to their fore-fathers, verse 1. to 9. These Favours of God are, 1 Described, 2 Improved. I. Described, divers wayes, 1. By the Reporters of them; their Fathers. 2. By the season of them; In their dayes of old, old, verse 1. 3. By the Matter of them; Ill-intreating and diſpoſſeſſing the Heathen Canaanites out of the Land of Canaan, but implanting and propagating his People in their ſtead, verse 2. 4. By the Author of them; Negatively, Not their own Sword and Valour: But Affirmatively, Gods right-hand and free-favour only, verse 3. II. Improved, as an Argument and Encouraging ground for the Churches preſent Supplication to the ſame King and God, for like Salvation now to his afflicted Jacob, verse 4. This requeſt being further urged, 1. From their ſincere confidence in God alone, not in themſelves at all, againſt their enemies, verse 5, 6. 2. From former experience of Gods ſaving them, but confounding their enemies, verse 7. 3. From their thankful praiſes, Performed for times paſt, Promiſed for time to come upon this account, ver. 8.

II. The Church Complaineth ſadly of the many and heavy Calamities, which the LORD had brought upon them by their enemies, contrary to all thoſe former ſweet Experiences, ver. 9. to 17. More Particularly, Theſe evils were brought upon them, I. By God, Deſerting them and their Armies, verse 9. II. By their perſecuting Enemies. By whom they were, 1. Put to flight. 2. Spoiled, verse 10. 3. Slain. 4. Fanned and ſcattered abroad, verse 11. 5. Sold into Captivity, more contemptibly then very ſlaves without price, verse 12. 6. Expoſed to all manner of reproach by deeds, words, geſtures, To all ſorts of People, Neighbours, and Heathens, and this at all times to the utter confuſion of their faces, ver. 13, 14, 15, 16.

III. The Church Profeſſeth her conſtant integrity with God, even in midſt of all this Sea of miſeries about her, verse 17. to 23. This her integrity is, I. Declared, by the Parts thereof: viz. 1. She forgot not God. 2. Nor dealt falſly in his Covenant, for all this, verse 17. II. Confirmed. And this, 1. Partly by Amplification of the former particulars. (1) Dealt not falſly againſt Gods Covenant, Either by a backſliding heart; Or by a ſwerving courſe: No not in greateſt extremities of afflictions, ver. 18, 19. (2) Forgot not God, nor ſpread out her hands to Idols. For proof whereof ſhe appeals to the Heart-ſearching, and Sin-revenging God, verse 20, 21. 2. Partly by Oppoſition rather of her contrary patient Perſeverance under worſt of ſufferings, ver. 22.

IV. The Church Prayeth moſt fervently for relief. That God would ſtirre up himſelf, awake, help, and redeem her. Which requeſts are Pathetically enforced, by divers moving Deprecations, Expoſtulations, and Complaints intermixed, ver. 23, 24, 25, 26.

To the Master-Musician on Shoshannim [a], To the Sonnes of Korach, Maschil [b]; A Song of the Wel-beloved-Virgins.

1. MIne heart hath [c] framed a good thing,
Thus am I saying then
My Sacred [d] Poems of the King:
My Tongue a swift Scribe's Pen.
2. Thou then man's sons [e] art-fairer-far,
Grace in thy lips is pour'd:
On thee therefore for evermore
[f] Hath God his blessing-shour'd.

3. O Mighty-one, upon the thigh
Gird thou thy Sword so bright,
Thy Glory and thy [g] Majesty.
4. And [h] in thy Comely-might
On Word of Truth [i] ride prospering,
And meekest Equitee:
And dreadful things, O mighty King,
Shall thy right-hand teach thee.

5. Sharp are thine Arrows thou dost dart,
Folk under thee shall fall:
So keen they pierce into the heart
Of the Kings enemies all.
6. Thy Royal Throne, O Mighty-God,
For ay and ever is:
So is thy Kingdom's Scepter-Rod
A Rod of Righteousnesse.

7. Thou justice lov'st, [k] hat'st wickedness:
Thee, God thy God therefore Did 'noint with Oyle of gladsomnesse,
Thy fellows farre before.
8. Mirrhe, Cassia, and Aloes
All thy sweet Garments bee:
Out of the [l] Ivory Palaces
Whence they have gladned thee.

9. Among thy precious-ones do stand
Kings Daughters thus extold:
The Queen is set at thy right-hand
In Ophir's [m] purest-gold.

II.

10. Hark now, and see, and bend thine eare
O Daughter beauteous:
And quite forget thy people deare,
Yea and thy Fathers House.
11 And then the King thy beauteousnesse
[n] Shall-covet-more-and-more:
For lo thine Holy Lord hee is,
[o] Him worship thou therefore.

12. The daughter [p] then of stately Tyre
With guift to thee shall fall;
[q] Thy favour vehemently-desire
The wealthy people shall.
13. The Daughter of the King, within
All glorious to behold:
Her Rayment she is clothed in,
Of [r] Purled-works of Gold.

14. She in Embroyderyes with state
Brought to the King shall bee:
The Virgins after her, Her Mates
Shall be brought in to thee
15. With joyes and exultation
They shall be brought and sing:
So they shall enter every one
[s] The Palace of the King.

16. Instead of thy dear Fathers now
Shall be thy sons-by-birth:
For Princes them dispose shalt thou
In all the planted Earth.
17. I'le of thy Name through ages all Make me nory alwayes:
[t] Thee therefore praise the people shall
For ever and for ay.

§. III. The Kinde, penman, and Occasion.

This Psalme is of Mixt Nature, made up of Prophecy, Doctrine, and Exhortation. It is the fourth Maschil, See Ps. 32. §. 3. It contains a sweet and elegant Marriage-Song: wherin under the Type of King Solomons Marriage with King Pharaohs Daughter, The Spiritual or Mystical Marriage betwixt Jesus Christ, King of Kings, the Bridegroome; and the Church his Bride, is celebrated by the wel-beloved-Virgins; viz. Kings Daughters and other Honourable Damosels, attending upon the Queen, sincere Christians, chast Virgin-worshippers, the true friends of the Bridegroom and the Bride, in praise of whom they sing this Marriage-Song. Compare, Title, verse 6, 7. with Heb. 1. 8, 9. where this Song is expounded of Christ the Sonne. It's of the same Argument with the Song of Songs, and as it were a Compendious Epitome of it [u]. This Hymne (as [x] one well noteth) sets forth Christ in his Glory: and his Spouse the Church in her Beauty. For Christ is the Bridegroom, and Jerusalem the Bride, Joh. 3. 29. Rev. 21. 9. 10. All true Christians are Virgins, for their spiritual chastity, Rev. 14. 1, 4. following, and loving the Lamb, for the sweet Odour of his Name, or Gospel, Song 1, 2. and are beloved of him, and have this new Song of Praise put into their mouthes. Some things herein are so expressed, that they cannot be applyed in any sense to King Solomon, but only to Christ: As verse 6, 11. Kimchi and many other Jewish Rabbines interpret this Psalme only of Christ.

Penman of this choice Prophetical, Instructing, Hortatory Psalme, is not here nor elsewhere in Scripture expressed: and therefore cannot be certainly determined upon.

Occasion, seems probably to be King Solomon's Marriage with King Pharaohs Daughter, here spoken of literally, yet principally and Typically in most passages: but the marriage betwixt Christ and his Church being the Truth and Spiritual Mystery principally intended. Heb. 1. 8, 9. with Psal. 45. 6, 7.

[u] Hic Psalmus Propheticus est, continetque Epithalamium, quo Christi cum Ecclesia Nuptiæ celebrantur. Idemque habet Argumentum quod Canticum Canticorum, ejusque videtur esse Epitome. Sim. de Muis Argum. in Psal. 45.

§. IV. The Scope.

The Scope intended in this Epithalamium or Marriage-Song, is; Under the Type and Allegory of the Marriage of King Solomon and Pharaohs Daughter, to display the Excellency, Glory, and Sweetnesse of that Great Mystery, the Spiritual Espousals and union of Christ and his Church, together with the matchlesse Excellencies and mutual Offices of them both: and the happy fruits this their Nuptial union shall produce.

§. V. The Analysis, or Principal Parts.

The Title of this Psalme contains, 1. The Direction of it, as to the Musick, 2. The Denomination of it, As to (1) The Matter, or use of it; Maskil, Instruction. See verse 10, &c. (2) The Form of it; A Song of the well-beloved-Virgins.

The Substance of the Psalme it self hath in it, 1. A Preface. 2. A Prophetical Description of Christ the Bridegroom and of his Bride the Church. 3. A Conclusion.

I. The Preface declares, How fervently the Psalmist, and every Christian, desires to spread abroad the praises of Christ the Churches King: 1. The Heart boyling a good word, or thing, viz. inventing and conceiving the good matter of his praises. 2. The Tongue reciting it, as readily, as the Pen of a swift Scribe, verse 1.

II. The Prophetical Description sets forth, Christ the King as Bridegroom, and the Church as his Bride, most elegantly; under the Type of King Solomon and Pharaohs Daughter.

1. Christ the King and Bridegroom of his Church is described and commended illustriously; I. As most Amiable, for his lovely Properties; viz. 1. His surpassing Beauty; most precious to behold. 2. His excellent Speech; most gracious to be heard. Both which are illustrated by the Fountain whence they flow, Gods everlasting benediction, verse 2. II. As most formidable for his warlike Endowments. Which (by Apostrophe to him that is most mighty) he is incited to draw forth into action, viz. 1. To gird on his Sword, that is, his Word. Called, from the effects, Glory, and Comely-honour. This his Armour is Spiritual, ver. 3. 2. To ride prosperously as in a Triumphant Chariot of the Word of Truth, Meekness, and Righteousnesse, according to his Regal dignity. Hereupon proportionable successe is promised to ensue, 1. In General, His right-hand alone shall atchieve terrible things in his Kingdom, vers 4. 2. In Particular, His sharp Arrows, that is, his lively piercing Gospel-administrations (made keen by his Spirit) shall wound the hearts of Christs enemies, and make them fall under him, By Conversion, or Subversion, verse 5. III. As most Honourable, for his Regal Majesty and Princely Accomplishments. viz. 1. The perpetuity of his Throne. 2. The Righteousnesse of his Scepter: both as to his Acquisition, and Administration thereof, vers. 6. 3. His Cordial love of Righteousnesse, and hatred of iniquity. 4. His Divine Unction from God his God with the gladning Oyle of the Spirit (not by means, Jh 3 34. but) beyond all his fellows, viz. beyond all his fellows in Unction, Priests, Prophets, and Kings, who were wont to be annointed with material Oyle, to these singular and eminent Offices, See Exod 30 25. —30. 1 King. 19. 16. 1 Sam. 16. 13. And beyond all Christians, Believers, Annoint-Annointed to be Kings and Priests, &c. to God, 1 Joh. 2. 20, 27. 1 Pet. 2. 5. Rev. 1. 5. unto their General Calling, verse 7. 5. His Royal Robes (of Perfect Righteousnesse and Holynesse) so Richly and Fragrantly Perfumed, that they are stiled very Myrrhe, Aloes, and Cassia, i. e. absolute sweetnesse it self. 6. His heavenly Descent. From the Ivory Palaces in Heaven, from his Fathers bosome whence he first descended, his people meeting him with joyful acclamations, Joh. 3, 29. and whither he is now again ascended for us, verse 8.

2. The Church, The Queen and Spouse of Christ is Honorifically mentioned. Being, I. Commended; 1. For her Honourable Train of Attendants. 2. For her Rich and Royal Ornaments of Gold of Ophir. 3. For her Superlative Advancement, even at Christs right hand, verse 9. II. Exhorted, 1. To most heedful attention; Hearken, behold, incline thine ear. 2. To all conjugal Duties towards Christ. As, (1) That she deny all for him, verse 10. (2) That she yield all due worship and obedience to him, that thus the King may cover her beauty, verse 11. III. Assured hereupon, if she thus perform with Christ, That Christ will communicate great glory to her both for Present, and Future. 1. For present, (1) In her great enlargement. The Daughters of Tyre, viz. The Gentiles. And the rich among the people, viz. Kings, Princes, Nobles, &c. shall live to be joyned to the Church, and so to Christ. for Communion with him, verse 12. (2) In her most splendid and rich Ornaments: Partly, without; Purled works of Gold. Partly, within; All glorious, verse 13. 2. For future, when the Bride shall be brought into the House of the Bridegroom, to solemnize the Marriage with joyful acclamations. Then she shall be, (1) Decked with Curious Ornaments, Needlework-Embroideries; (2) Waited on with Virgin-attendants, ver. 14. (3) Brought into the Kings Palace with greatest joy, verse 15. (4) And hence, instead of Parents and all outward things forsaken, she shall be honored with a Numerous and Princely Posterity all the World over, vers. 16.

III. The Conclusion; wherein the Psalmist promiseth unto Christ, for these greatest Benefits, Perpetuall Gratitude: 1. From Himself. 2. From others moved by his Example in all ages, verse 17.

Psalme XLVI.

§. I. The Summary Contents.

The Psalmist here brings in the Church and City of God (wonderfully protected and delivered by the LORD of Hosts from her enemies in extream dangers,) I. Declaring 1. The All-sufficiency of Gods Protection of his Church, vers. 1. 2. The Churches invincible Affiance thereupon in God in greatest dangers and commotions, vers. 2,3. 3. The meanes of their safety, though small, ver. 4. 4. The efficient cause of their safety, most mighty: The LORD's Presence and Protection, vers. 5. 6,7. II. Exhorting, 1. All, to come view the LORD's victorious exploits, vers. 8,9. 2. The Churches Enemies, in the Person of God, to be still and submit, vers. 10. And so triumphantly concluding, vers. 11.

4. There is a flood whose pleasant streames Shall make Gods City joy:
The Habitacles Holy-place
Of-him-that-is-most-high.

e Heb. shall not bee mooved. 5. In midst of it doth God reside,
It e shall be mooved never:
At peering of the morning-tide
Our God will help it ever.

6. The Heathens made a raging noise,
The Kingdoms mooved were:
Hee f gave abroad his dreadful voice.
The Earth did melt for fear.

7. The LORD of Armies all abroad
Is with us mightily:
The Covenant-keeping Jacob's God
Hee is our Refuge-high. Selah.

8. Come, view g the operations
Of the JEHOVAH now:
What dreadful-desolations
He puts on Earth below.

9. Unto the Earth's end far and near,
h He maketh wars expire:
Hee i breaks the Bowe, he cuts the Spear,
The Chariots k burns with fire.

10. Surcease, and l know that I am God:
Among the Heathen still I'le be advanc'd; In earth abroad
Exalted bee I will.

11. The LORD of Armies all abroad
Is with us mightily:
The Covenant-keeping Jacob's God
Hee is our Refuge-high. Selah.

g Heb. the works of the LORD

h Heb. maketh wars to cease.

i Heb. will break.

k Heb. will burne.

l Heb. know ye.

§. III. The Kinde, Penman, and Occasion.

This Psalme, in the Kinde or Nature of it, is A victorial Song, or Song of Triumph; wherein the Church of God, having the LORD of Hoasts for them, the God of Jacob their Refuge, make their boast in God against all imaginable perils. Luther was wont to refresh and encourage himself with this Psalme, against greatest Enemies, Threats and Dangers, saying; Come, let us sing the 46th. Psalme, and feare no evil. Its an excellent Antidote against greatest feares and dangers, incident to Gods Church and People. Penman of it, whether it were David, Isaias, or some of the Posterity of Korach, or some other, hath framed it, as in the Name of the Church, triumphing therein. Occasion, seems by the matter of it to be some remarkable Deliverance or Deliverances of the Church in her weak condition, from her many and mighty enemies, destroyed by the Lords assistance. Some [m] refer this Triumph to those famous Victories which David got over the Philistines, Moabites, Hadadezar King of Zobah, the Syrians, and Edomites, putting Garrisons in Edom, 2 Sam. 8. and 1 Chron. 18. Some, [n] to the deliverance of King Ahaz and Jerusalem, from Rhezin King of Syria, and Pekah King of Israel, joyntly besieging Jerusalem, 2 Kings 16. 5. Isa. 7. and 8.

m Sim. de Muis Argum. in Psal. 46.

n Joan. Foord in expos. Psal. 46. Tempus

§. IV. The Scope.

The Scope intended in this Song, is; Triumphantly to testifie and professe (in the Name of the Church and People of God, as it were brought in here Triumphing) the unshaken confidence and comfort of Gods People in the LORD's Presence, Assistance and Protection against all imaginable Dangers and Hurly-burleys of their Enemies.

§. V. The Analysis, or Principal Parts.

The Title contains, 1. The Denomination of it; A Song tuned with voice. 2. The Tune, or Musical Instrument; upon Alamoth. See 1 Chron. 15. 20. Alamoth signifies Virgins, Song 1. 2. Hence perhaps it may import, Virgin-tunes, High shrill voices or notes. Those that refer Alamoth to the matter, derive it from Alam, Hidd: As if it denoted the Hid counsels of God concerning his Church 3. The Direction of it, as to the Musick, &c.

The Substance of the Psalme, is; 1. Narratory. 2. Hortatory.

I. Narratory. Here being a thankful and Triumphant Narration of Gods all-sufficient Protection of his Church and people, verse 1. to 8. Gods Protection is, I. Propounded as 1. Safe. 2. Strong. 3. Most seasonably present in straits, verse 1. II. Amplified and Illustrated, 1. By the Churches invincible Faith in that Protection, Faith unterrified with greatest dangers, evils or Enemies imaginable, verse 2. 3. 2. By the small Instrumental means of their safety, A River: viz. Kidron, 2 Sam. 15. 23. John 18 1. and the streams or lesser Currents Gihon and Shilah, 2 Chron 32. 4. 30. Isai. 8. 6. refreshing and gladning Jerusalem, and therein the holy place of Gods Habitations, encompassing them half about, verse 4. 3. By the Principal efficient cause of their safety, viz. Gods gracious presence in the midst of his Church: whence it is, 1. Unmoveably protected; 2. Seasonably relieved, verse 5. 4. By the efficacy even of Gods voice against all Heathens rage, and Kingdoms commotions: If his voice be but uttered, The Earth is melted, verse 6. 5. By a triumphant triumphant exultation in, 1. The LORD's powerful Preſence with; 2. His faithful Protection of his Church; verſe 7.

II. Hortatory. Here is a twofold and forceible Exhortation, I. Of the Church, unto all. To come and view the LORD's victorious exploits. 1. In diſſipating and deſtroying all his Enemies, verſe 8. 2. In eſtabliſhing a thorough peace in the Earth, in the land, verſe 9. II. Of God himſelf, unto his and his Churches Enemies; 1. That they ſurceaſe from their enmity againſt his people. 2. That they acknowledge him to be God: yea, ſuch a God, as one way or other will be exalted among the Heathen, and in the whole earth, verſe 10. This Exhortation, and ſo the whole Pſalme, is ſweetly cloſed with the former Triumphant Exultation of Gods people, verſe 7. In (1.) The LORD's powerful Preſence with, (2.) His faithful Protection of, his Church, verſ. 11.

Pſalme XLVII.

§. I. The Summary Contents.

In this Triumphant and Prophetical Pſalme, 1. All People are Exhorted cheerfully to entertain God, CHRIST, and his Kingdom, ver. 1. 2. Many prevalent Arguments are urged to perſwade hereunto, ver. 2. to the end.

§. II. The Verſion out of the Hebrew.

To the Maſter-of-the-Muſick, to the ſons of Korach, A Pſalme.

1. CLap hands, all Peoples, joyfully,
To God [a] with voice of triumphring:
2. For, dreadful, is the LORD, moſt-high,
O're all the earth a mighty King.
3. Hee [b] under us did folk depoſe:
[c] Beneath our feet the Nations proov'd.
4. Our Heritage for us [d] hee choſe:
His Jacobs [e] glory, whom hee lov'd. Selah.
5. With triumph God aſcended-is:
The LORD with voice [f] of Trumpeting.
6. Sing-Pſalme to God, Sing-Pſalme for this:
Sing-Pſalme, Sing-Pſalme unto our King.
7. For, God is King of all the earth,
Sing-Pſalme of pure Inſtruction.
8. God reigns [g] o're all of Heathen birth:
God ſits upon [h] his holy Throne.
9. To folk of Abraham's high God
The Peoples [i] Nobles gathred bee:
For, Shields of th' earth belong to God,
Exalted vehemently is hee.

a Heb. with voice of ſhrilling ſhouteloud. b Heb. ſhall ſpeak peoples under us. wit.ſubdue them by his word. c Heb. And beneath—— d Heb. He ſhall chooſe e Heb. high-excellency. f Heb. of a Trumpet. g Heb. over the Heathens. h Heb. throne of his holineſs. i Heb. volunteers. or, Munificent, liberal Princes.

§. III. The Kinde, Penman, and Occaſion.

This is for Kinde a Gratulatory Triumphant Pſalme, provoking all People to joy and Triumph; Literally and Hiſtorically, for the Aſcending of the Ark: Myſtically and Prophetically, for Chriſts Aſcending up on high, and for his Kingdome.

Penman, is not expreſſed, nor certainly diſcovered here or elſewhere.

Occaſion, ſeems to be the Aſcending, or bringing up of the Ark of God into its place: 1. Either, from Kiriath-jearim, or from the Houſe of Ebed-Edom to the City of David in Jeruſalem into the Tent which David had pitched for it, David and all the Houſe of Iſrael playing before the LORD on all manner of Inſtruments of Firr-wood, &c. and bringing up the Ark of the LORD with ſhouting, and with the ſound of the Trumpet. 2 Sam. 6. 2, 3, 4, 5, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16. 1 Chron. 13. 8. and 15. 25, 26, 27, 28. (at which time David firſt delivered Pſalme 105. 1. to 16. and Pſal. 96. into the hand of Aſaph and his Brethren to thank the LORD, 1 Chron. 16. 7. to 37.) 2. Or, from the City of David, by Solomon and all the chief of Iſrael into the Temple of Solomon, 2 Chron. 5. 2. &c. 1 King. 8. 1. &c. which was alſo with Trumpets;

pets, Cymbals and Instruments of Musick, 2 Chron. 5. 13. And this seems so to be from ver. 5 where the Ark of God (called God, as Numb. 10. 35, 36. by a Metonymie, because the Ark was a special Token or Sign of Gods peculiar Presence among them,) is said to ascend with Triumph, the LORD with voice of the Trumpet. Thus some Jewes, and Modern Writers [k]. Other judicious Interpreters [l] account this rather a Prophetical Psalme, touching Christ and his Kingdome over both Jewes and Gentiles: The whole Psalme being so suitable hereunto, and ver. 5. so notably pointing out that eminent Royal Act of Christ, in his triumphant and glorious Ascension up into Heaven, Luke 24. 51, 52. whence he shall come again to the last Judgment with like glory, Acts 1. 9, 11. 1 Thes. 4. 16. For my own part, I see no just cause why both these Interpretations may not be joyned together, thus; 1. Literally and immediately the Psalme Describing Gods Kingdome and Government over all, but especially over Israel, subduing and casting out the Heathen-Canaanites before them, but planting them in their Land, placing his Ark of Covenant as a Token of his Presence among them, and adding the Peoples Nobles or Voluntiers to the People of Abraham's God. 2. Mystically, Medially, and Prophetically, The Psalme foretelling Christs Kingdome over both Jewes and Gentiles; Christs Kingly Ascending into Heavenly glory, and afterwards adding the Gentiles to the Jewes in one Church: The Ark being a special Type of Christ, Rev. 11. 19. The Holy of Holyes a Type of Heaven, Heb. 10 19, 20. and The Ascending of the Ark into the Sanctuary a lively adumbration of Christs glorious Ascending up on high into Heaven it self there to appear still in the Presence of God for us, Psal. 68. 18. Eph. 4. 8. &c. Heb. 9. 24.

[k] David. Kim. Moller. in Arg. Ps. 47. & in Com. ad vers. 1. Et Sim. de Muis in Arg. Psal. 47. ad init.

§. IV. The Scope.

The Scope of this Psalme, is; 1. To describe gloriously the Kingdome of God and of Christ over Jewes and Gentiles; 2. And to exhort all Peoples to entertain the same with all triumphant joy and thankfulnesse.

§. V. The Analysis, or Principal Parts.

In the Title are, 1. The Denomination of it; A Psalme. 2. The Direction of it, as to the Musick.

In the Substance of the Psalme, are 1. A Duty propounded. 2. Arguments enforcing it.

I. The Duty, whereunto all People are Exhorted, is; Their joyful entertaining and embracing of God, Christ, and his Kingdom coming amongst them. This Duty is set forth, 1. By the Object of it; viz. God, Christ, and his Kingdom. 2. By the Subject of it; All Peoples. 3. By the Manner how it is to be discharged; with clapping of Hands, with voice of triumph, or shouting, with Singing of Psalmes, ver. 1, 6

II. The Arguments enforcing this Duty, are drawn, 1. From the Excellent Nature of this King; High, Dreadful, Great, ver. 2. 2. From the Effects of his Kingly Office, (1) Upon Heathens, subduing them to his Church. Canaanites being already conquered by his power, Gentiles also should be called and subdued to Christ by his Gospel, ver. 3. (2) Upon Jewes, giving them of his meer love as their Inheritance, The Temple, Law Covenants, &c. wherein was Jacobs high excellency above all people, ver. 4. 3. From Christs triumphant Ascension into Heaven, whereof the bringing-up of the Ark into the Sanctuary was a Type, ver. 5. 6. 4. From the Majesty and universal Extent of his Kingdome, (as Matth. 28. 18. &c.) over all the world, ver. 7, 8. 5. From the voluntary Aggregation, both of free-spirited Princes, and People unto the Church of God. Who joyn themselves to the LORD Christ, 1. Because, He is the great Conqueror and Protector of all. The Shields of the Earth belong to him. Or. Rulers and Magistrates (who for their Protecting of Common-wealths, &c. are stiled, Shields, Psal. 89. 19. Hos. 4. 18.) belong to him. 2. Because he is of highest Glory, ver. 9.

§. III. The Kinde, Penman, and Occaſion.

This is for Kinde an Euchariſtical Pſalme, A Pſalme of Triumphant Prayſe to the LORD, upon his Divine and wonderful repulſing of ſome huge Army from the walls of Jeruſalem, thereby eminently delivering Jeruſalem from her beſieging Enemies.

Penman, whether ſome of the Sonnes of Korach, or any other, is not evident.

Occaſion, was Gods ſingular deliverance of Jeruſalem from ſome huge Army of Enemies beſieging it, as is notably hinted, ver. 4, 5, 6, 7. But whether theſe Enemies were, 1. The Philistine-Princes o, in days of David, 2 Sam 5. 17, 18, 22. (Rephaim was nigh Jerusalem, Josh. 15. 18.) 2. Or the Kings of Moab and Ammon with their Assistants p subdued by Jehoshaphat in the Valley; thence called, the Valley of Blessing, 2 Chron. 20. 3. Or Sennacherib and his huge Host q, in the dayes of Hezekiah, of which Army the Angel of the LORD in one night slew 185000. 2 Kings 18. 18. to Chap 20. 1. 2 Chron. 32. and to this History, verse 4, 5, 6, 7 8. seem (in the Judgement of r some) notably to agree. 4. Or Rezin and Pekah in the dayes of Ahaz, 2 Kings 16. 5, to 10. Cannot certainly be determined by the light of this Psalme or any other Scripture. And perhaps thinks Mollerus t no one Deliverance of Jerusalem is particularly expressed, That Gods constant Protection of Jerusalem, and especially of his Church (whereof Jerusalem was a singular Type, Heb. 12. 22. Gal. 4. 25, 26. Rev. 21. 2, 10.) might be more significantly represented.

§. IV. The Scope.

The Scope in this Psalme, is; Highly to magnifie the LORD, for his Greatness and his Goodness to Jerusalem and the Church of God, in her Ornaments, Priviledges and Protection of her most safely and securely in greatest dangers, and against most potent Enemies.

§. V. The Analysis, or Principal Parts.

In the Title note, 1. The Denomination, which is twofold; A Song, a Psalme. 2. The Direction of it as to the Musick.

In the Substance of the Psalme, are; 1 A Proposition. 2 A Narration. 3 An Exhortation.

I. A Proposition of the greatness of God, and of his praises in Jerusalem, in his Church, vers. 1. whereupon, for the illustration of his Greatness and Goodness to Jerusalem, The excellencies of Jerusalem are notably delineated. She is, 1. For Stile and Denomination; The City of our God. 2. For Situation; beautiful. 3. For Priviledges; The joy of all the Earth. Hath the Temple on Mount-Sion standing on the North-side. 4. For Residence and Habitation; The City of the Great King, God himself, Matth 5. 35. verse 2. 5 For Safety and Protection; God is Experimentally known in her Palaces for an High-Refuge, verse 3.

II. A Narration of Jerusalem's, of the Churches special Protection from God, ver. 4. to 12. This Protection is Illustrated, 1. By the deep dangers she was in, through the Armies of Kings combining and coming to lay siege against her, ver. 4. 2. By the great deliverance she received from God: (1) Daunting her Enemies spirits with sudden-troubles, Frightfulness, Trembling. yea with Travelling-pangs, verse 5. 6. (2) Dashing their strength at Sea to pieces, ver. 7. 3. By her Assurance of perpetual Protection by the LORD of Hosts, upon this experience which she had seen, according to Gods Word, verse 8. 4. By her secure and quiet waiting for, or meditating upon Gods mercy in his Temple, ver. 9. 5. By the Diffusion of his praise throughout all the Earth according to his most Righteous proceedings, ver. 10

III. An Exhortation to all Gods people, That they exult in, observe and publish abroad Gods wonderful benefits to Sion, to his Church: whether, 1. Past; As his judgements upon her Adversaries, verse 11. 2. Present; As her notable Fortifications: none of them being ruined or at all impaired by the Enemies attempts verse 12. 13. 3. Or, To come; As his perpetual Guidance and Protection of her till Death, according to his everlasting Covenant-Relation to them, verse 14.

Psalme XLIX.

§. I. The Summary Contents.

In this Psalme, are I. A Preface, inciting to Attention, verse 1. to 5. II. A Proposition of an high point of wisedome, viz. Of his undaunted Confidence in midst of encompassing evils, which the iniquity of his heels [his wayes] might bring upon him, verse 5. Illustrated by his grounds hereof, 1. Not Multitude of earthly Riches, verse 6. to 11. Nor height of Earthly Honour or Glory, verse verse 11. to 15. 2. But God, who will raise him from the Grave, and receive him, verse 15. III. A Conclusion, encouraging Gods people hereupon, not to be troubled or dismaid at the increase of Worldings Earthly wealth or glory, verse 16. to the end.

§. III. The Kinde, penman, and Occasion.

This Psalme for Kinde is Doctrinal and Hortatory: Exhorting all sorts and degrees most heedfully to attend unto the wise Doctrine and Parable therein unfolded. It teacheth especially, in midst of all surrounding afflictions, even in death it self, (the wages of our sinfull wayes, verse 5. with Rom. 6.23.) not to place our trust, Either in multitude of Worldly Riches, which can preserve none from death; Or in glory of Earthly Honour, which is wholly vanishing and shall perish in the Grave, ver. 6. to 15. But only upon God, who can and will raise us from the dead, verse 15. And consequently not to be afraid of any mans wealth and glory increasing, all which he shall be totally stripped off when he dyes, verse 16. to the end. And therefore this Psalme is an Excellent Antidote against the Scandal of the Cross wherewith the Godly are exercised whil'st the wicked prosper and flourish in all worldly wealth and glory.

Of the Penman, and Occasion of writing this Psalme we have no particular discovery.

§. IV. The Scope.

The Scope intended in this Pſalme, is; 1. To excite and encourage all ſorts of people (under the exemplary faith and courage of the Pſalmiſt here repreſented, ver. 5. with 15.) undauntedly to bear all ſorts of afflictions, (notwithſtanding all the wealth and glory wherein worldlings do on the contrary flouriſh) they having hope in God, both of Reſurrection even from Death it ſelf by him, and of bliſſeful Reception unto him, ver. 15. 2. As alſo to convince them how vain and fooliſh a thing it is to place confidence in greateſt worldly wealth, or higheſt earthly honours, None of which can preſerve their owners at all from the Grave, or Deſcend with them into the Grave.

§. V. The Analyſis, or Principal Parts.

In the Title note, 1. The Denomination; A Pſalme. 2. The Direction of it as to the Muſick.
In the Pſalme it ſelf, are, 1. A Preface. 2. A Propoſition. 3. A Concluſion.

I. The Preface is vehement and importunate, inciting all ſorts to ſingular Attention. Wherein conſider, 1. The Perſons ſpoken to; All People, All the worlds inhabitants, whether Ignoble or Noble, Rich or Poor. 2. The Act or Duty whereunto they are incited; Hear, give ear, ver. 1, 2. 3. The Object, or Matter about which this Act is to be exerciſed, is ſet forth in four ſublime and alluring Expreſſions, viz. 1. Wiſedome, 2 Prudencies, 3. A Parable (משל which notes Rule Excellency, &c. ſuch Speeches excelling and bearing ſway among others, 4. A Ridle, or a Dark-matter, or an hidden Queſtion. Therefore all of them beſpeaking their utmoſt Attentions, ver 3, 4.

II. The Propoſition is elegant and emphatical. The Pſalmiſt propoſeth the ſumme of this Wiſedome, Prudence, Parable, Dark-matter, viz. His unterrified confidence (exemplary to all, eſpecially the godly) in midſt of all encompaſſing evils, which the iniquity of his heels, of his ſteps and wayes, might bring upon him. This is laid down emphatically by way of interrogation: Why? &c. that is, I have no juſt cauſe at all to fear, &c. ver. 5. This his confidence is Illuſtrated and Deſcribed by the Grounds of it, Negatively, and Affirmatively. I. Negatively, This his confidence is not grounded or bottomed (like that of carnal worldlings, 1. Neither in the multitude of Riches. (1) Partly, Becauſe no worldly wealth can Redeem a man from Death and Grave, Or obtain a priviledge to him of not dying, ver. 6, 7, 8, 9. (2) Partly, Becauſe as all muſt dye, both wiſe, and fooliſh, and bruitiſh perſons, So when Death comes all worldly wealth will dye to them, and muſt be left to others, ver. 10. 2. Nor in earthly honour and glory: Either of Houſes, viz Families and Poſterity, which worldlings think will continue for ever: Or of Habitations, which they fancy will abide from Generation to Generation: Or of Lands, which they call after their own Names, ver. 11. None of theſe are grounds of true confidence. For, (1) Man in honour continueth not, but becomes by Death like the Beaſts that periſh. Or, Adam in honour lodged not a night, but became as the Beaſt, &c. and then what man in honour can promiſe himſelf or his any continuance therein? ver. 12. (2) All this way of worldlings (however approved by their Poſterity) is not wiſedome, but their folly, ver. 13. (3) They ſhall be brought plentifully, even as a flock of dying Sheep, into the Grave, and become food for Death. (4) The upright (now trodden under foot by worldly great ones) ſhall have Dominion over them in the morning, that is, Either early, ſpeedily, alſoon as they are Dead. Or, in the morning of the laſt Reſurrection, then the upright ſhall have Dominion over greateſt wicked worldlings: The Saints ſhall judge the world, 1 Cor. 6. 2, 3. (5) Their Forme, or earthly glory ſhall weare away in the Grave, or in Hell, as if it had never been, ver. 14. II. Affirmatively, This his confidence undaunted is grounded on God. Who, 1. Shall Redeem him from the power of the Grave, at the Reſurrection. 2. Will Receive him to himſelf, viz. into Celeſtial Manſions, ver. 15.

III. The Concluſion from the Premiſes is Hortatory. Exhorting every of us, Not to be at all diſmaid at the increaſe of worldlings wealth and glory, ver. 16. 1. Becauſe, All their wealth and glory is utterly ſwept away from them by Death, verſe 17. 2. Becauſe, Though they applaud themſelves while they live, and think others applaud them alſo for doing good to themſelves by their worldly courſes; yet at laſt they ſhall dye and be gathred to their fathers deceaſed, and ſhall not ſee light to eternity: that is, They ſhall not ſtill live here in Earth to ſee the light of this world, As Pſal. 56. 14. Job 33. 28, 30. Nor ſhall they ſee at all the light of eternal glory (Matth. 8. 12.) in the world to come, ver. 18, 19. 3. Becauſe, Their perſons though in higheſt honour, yet wanting underſtanding, are periſhable like bruit-beaſts, ver. 20.

§. III. The Kinde, Penman, and Occasion.

This Psalme as to the Kinde of it is Doctrinal. Wherein the LORD the God of Gods (after an awful Preface touching his dreadful Majesty in his (church) Instructeth his Covenant-people Israel, what is the True worship wherein he is delighted, not so much Carnal, Legal Sacrifices, As Spiritual and Moral Performances; And who are his acceptable worshippers, Not Hypocritical and Atheistical Transgressors, but those that Praise God and order their way aright.

Penman, As c some think, was Asaph the Seer, who Penned some Psalmes, 2 Chron. 29. 30. and the rather, because it is Entirled; A Psalme of Asaph. Or, as the Chaldee Paraphrast expresseth it; by the hands of Asaph. But d others rather are of Opinion that David Penned this Psalme, (committing it only to Asaph or his sons for the keeping and tuning of it in the Sanctuary, 1 Chron 25. 2.) and that upon this Occasion, viz. After Israel had been smitten with the three years Famine, and three dayes Pestilence, 2 Sam. 21. and 24. And after the Angel of God had appeared to David, and pointed out unto him the place of Gods Habitation, 1 Chron. 21. 18 and 22. 4. Then this Psalme touching Gods true Worship and Worshippers, seems to have been written.

§. IV. The Scope.

The Scope of the Holy Ghost in this Psalme, is; Convincingly to instruct Israel, Gods Covenant-people, and in them the Church of God, What Worship and Worshippers are most acceptable unto God, viz. not so much the Ceremonial and External, as the Moral and Spiritual Worship; Nor unreformed Hypocrites and profane Atheists, but such as walk thankfully, ordering their wayes aright.

§. V. The Analysis, or Principal Parts.

The Title hath in it, 1. The Denomination, &c; A Psalme. 2. The Direction of it as to the Musick, or the Indication of the Penman, לאסף may be rendred either, To-Asaph, or; Of-Asaph.

In the Psalme it self are, 1. An Introduction to the Instruction. 2. The Instruction it self.

I. The Introduction to the Instruction, procuring the greater heed and attention, ver. 1. to 7. is drawn; 1. From the highest Author of this Instruction; The God of Gods JEHOVAH. 2. From the manner of his Instruction. Which is either, 1. Common to all the World, by the Work of Creation, vers. 1. 2. Peculiar to his Church, to Sion. Whose beauty is highly commended; The universality of Beauty. A Confluence of Beauty centered there, vers 2. Whose desire also after Gods Presence for Instructing of his Church, is intimated. And that Presence of God is (in allusion to Gods appearing to Israel of old at M. Sinai, Exod. 19. and 20. Heb. 12.) Illustrated, 1 Partly, by that which goes before him; Eating, or Consuming fire. 2 Partly, by that which accompanies him; A Tempest, ver. 3. 3 Partly, by that which followes his coming, viz A most Authoritative and Powerful voice to Heaven and Earth, to convene his Saints, his Covenant-people before him, to receive his Instruction, vers. 4, 5. 3. From his Justice and Majesty, conspicuous in this his Proceeding, ver. 6.

II. The Instruction it self, is laid down, vers. 7. to the end. Wherein note, 1. The Entrance into the Instruction, drawn from Gods entring into Covenant with his Church. Inciting Israel to Attention, ver. 7. II. The Parts of the Instruction: which are touching, Gods Worship: and Gods Worshippers. 1. The Worship, which is most pleasing to God, is described (1) Negatively, what it is not. Its not so much the Ceremonial and Outward Worship, though never so costly, that the Omnipotent and Allsufficient God insists upon, (although before Christ that had its season, Heb. 7. and 10. 1, &c. was commanded by God, and plentifully performed by Israel,) vers. 8. to 14. (2) Positively, what it is. §. I. The Summary Contents.

DAVID, upon the Prophet Nathan's Meſſage from God unto him, unfeignedly repenting of his two hainous ſinnes, Adultery with Bath-ſhebah, and Murder of Uriah, Poureth forth his fervent Prayer, I. For himſelf, 1. Partly, for the LORD's free and full Remiſſion of his ſins, with deep Contrition confeſſed and aggravated, viz. (1) His Actual ſins, eſpecially his Adultery and Murder, verſ. 1, 2, 3, 4. (2) His Original ſin, verſ. 5, 6. 2. Partly for Reſtauration of him in Spirituals, impaired by his ſinns, viz. (1) In joy and comfort upon his ſins pardon, verſe 7, 8, 9. (2) In cleanneſs of heart. (3) In eſtabliſhment of Spirit for the future, ver. 10. (4) In conſtancy of Gods favour and Spirit, verſe 11. (5) In ſweet aſſurance of Gods Salvation. (6) In ſuſtentation by Gods free Spirit, verſ. 12. All which he urgeth by ſundry Arguments, verſ. 13. to 18. II. For the Church of God, offended by his Scandalous ſins, 1. That God would do good to Sion, whom he had harmed. 2. That God build Jeruſalem's walls, which he had ſhaken, verſe 18, 19.

§. II. The firſt Verſion out of the Hebrew.

To-the-Maſter-of-the-Muſick, A Pſalm of David. When Nathan the Prophet came unto him, After he had gone in unto Bathſhebah.

1. O God, a thy-grace-on-mee-declare After-thy-mercy-kinde:
   b As thy compaſſions many are,

§. III. The Kinde, Penman, and Occaſion.

This Pſalme as to the Kinde of it, is a moſt Pathetical Penitential Prayer: uſually accounted The Fourth Penitential Pſalme.

David

David, as the Title ſhowes, was Penman of it. It is Davids Retractation; Davids Teſtimonial of his ſincere Repentance for his great Offences in the Matter of Uriah; which did ſo ſhake his integrity, and gave great occaſion to the enemies of the LORD to blaſpheme, 1. King. 15. 5. 2 Sam. 12. 14. And when did David ever pray more fervently and ſweetly: then here where he mourn'd for his ſins moſt ſadly?

The Occaſion of Davids Penning this Pſalme, is hinted in the Body of the Pſalme, verſe 4.14. But more plainly declared in the Title; viz. When Nathan, &c. David in an Evening-tide walking on the top of his Houſe, and ſeeing Bath-ſheba the wife of Uriah the Hittite waſhing her ſelf, ſent for her, committed adultery with her, and ſhe became with child: To hide this Fact he ſent for her Husband from the Camp to lodge with his Wife, which he being utterly averſe unto, David wrote a Letter by Uriah to Joab his General to ſet Uriah in the fore-front of the hotteſt Battel that he might be ſlain; and Uriah being ſlain by the Sword of the Children of Ammon, David took Bathſheba to be his Wife. Upon this, Nathan ſent from God to David, convinced him of his ſin (wherein he had ſlept from the time of his Fact till after the Child, conceived in adultery, was born, which probably was nine moneths at leaſt, 2 Sam. 11. 27. with 12. 1. 14.) Denounced heavy judgements againſt him, ſtroke his Child with Death, yet gave David hope of Pardon upon his Repentance, aſſuring him God had put away his ſin he ſhould not dye. See this whole Hiſtory at large in 2 Sam. 11. and 12. Upon this Occaſion, when Nathan was departed from David, David wrote this Pſalme, therein confeſſing and aggravating his ſins moſt ingenuouſly, Declaring his Repentance unfeignedly, and begging Remiſſion of ſin, Renewing Grace, Reſtauration of wonted Peace and Comfort, &c. moſt fervently. How great a King was David, yet his ſinnes are impartially recorded by the Holy Ghoſt in Scripture for our Caution and Inſtruction. Many (ſaid [g] Auguſtine) are willing to fall with David, but unwilling to riſe again with David. David is not propounded as an example of falling, but if thou haſt fallen, of riſing again, &c. David thus falling, who may not exceedingly feare and tremble? David repenting and riſing again, who ſhould not be careful to riſe that hath fallen? Let him that thinks he ſtands, take heed leaſt he fall: And let him that is fallen, take heed to riſe again.

[g] Multi cadere volunt cum David, & nolunt ſurgere cum David. Non ergo cadendi exemplum propoſitum eſt, ſed ſi cecideris reſurgendi. Attende ne cadas. Non ſit delectatio minorum, lapſus majorum: Sed ſit caſus majorum, tremor minorum. Ad hoc propoſitum eſt, ad hoc Scriptum eſt, ad hoc Eccleſia ſæpe lectum atque Cantatum. Audiunt qui non ceciderunt, ne cadant; Audiant qui ceciderunt, ut ſurgant. Auguſt. Enarrat. in Pſal. L. Tom. 8. *p.*484. A.B. Baſil. 1569.

§. IV. The Scope.

Davids Scope in this Pſalme, is; 1 To confeſſe his great and ſcandalous ſinnes ingenuouſly; 2 To ſhame himſelf for them deeply; 3 To teſtifie his cordial and unfeighned Repentance; 4 To implore earneſtly pardon and purging of his iniquities, Renewed Grace and Conſolations from Gods Spirit, and removal of all the ſad effects thereby occaſioned to himſelf, or the people of Iſrael. See verſe 1, 2, 8, 12, 18. Thus David was [h] aſhamed of his ſinning: not aſhamed (as many are) of Repenting. O incredible madneſſe (ſaid Auguſtine)! thou bluſheſt not at the wound: and doſt thou bluſh at the binding of it up? Is not the naked wound more filthy and noyſome?

[h] Sunt multi quos peccare non pudet, agere pœnitentiam pudet. O incredibilis inſania! De vulnere ipſo non erubeſcis, de ligaturâ vulneris erubeſcis? Nonne nudum fœdius & putidius eſt? Auguſt. Enarrat in Pſal. 50. Tom. 8. p. 487. Baſil. 1569.

§. V. The Analysis, or Principal Parts.

The Title hath in it, 1. The Denomination of it; A Psalme. 2. The Penman; David. He impartially records his own great offences; (a notable Argument of the Divine Authority of the Scriptures wherein the Penmen spare not themselves:) And ingenuously publisheth his own unfeigned repentance. 3. The direction of it as to the Musick, &c. 4. The Occasion of Davids Penning it, which is twofold, viz. (1) More immediate; Nathans Message to David, convincing and threatning him about his scandalous Sinnes; When Nathan the Prophet, &c. (2) More Remote; Davids adultery with Bathshebah, &c. After he had gone in unto Bathshebah. The Holy Scripture (as its manner is) speaketh chastly and purely of this filthy fact.

The Psalme itself is Pathetically Petitory. Herein David Prayes 1. For himself, verse 1. to 18. 2. For the Church, or People of Israel whom he had offended and endangered by his great offences, verse 18, 19.

I. For himself, David begs earnestly, 1. Remission of his sins, vers. 1. to 8. 2. Restauration in Spiritual impaired by his sins, ver. 8. to 18.

1. Remission of his sins is most earnestly begged. This Request being, I. Propounded, 1. Simply and plainly, in his Praying for Grace or free-favour. 2. Figuratively, in Metaphorical expressions; As, Blotting out, verse 1. Cleansing. Multiplying to wash him, verse 2. Purging with Hyssop. Washing, ver. 7. II. Urged and amplyfied, Pathetically, 1. From the prime Efficient Cause of Pardon, viz. Gods loving-kindness, and the multitude of his tendereſt bowel-mercies, verse 1. 2. From the subservient Cause, viz. His own penitent confession of, and deep Contrition for his own sinnes both Actual and Original, ver. 3. to 7. His actual sins, especially his Adultery and Murder, he confesseth with deep sense of them. Aggravating them especially three wayes, (1) As being now ever before him, though till now (as Augustine[i] well observes) he had put it behinde him, ver. 3. (2) As being against God, against him peculiarly. (3) As justifying God in his utmost severity of his Sayings or Threatnings by Nathan against him: and clearing God in all his judgements inflicted for his sins, verse 4. His Original sin is, (1) Acknowledged in two Expressions Emphatically, ver. 5. (2) Illustrated and Aggravated by its opposites, viz. Partly, Truth or Uprightness in the inwards, which God loves. Partly, secret spiritual wisdom which God had taught him. Yet against this Truth, this Wisdom he had sinned, verse 6.

2. Restauration in Spirituals impaired by his sins, is fervently petitioned for: (His desires of pardon being herewith again and again interwoven, as vers. 7, 9, 14. through the vehemency of his penitential sorrows for his sins, and of his longings after remission.) Now those Spirituals wherein especially he desires Restauration, are; 1. Joy and gladness, and refreshing Comforts in sense of Pardon and Gods wonted favour. Illustrated, (1) By the contrary extream distress at present upon his Heart and Conscience for his sin: Compared to broken bones crushed all in pieces, verse 8. (2) By his vehement reiterated desire of Pardon; Hide thy face from my sins, and blot out all mine iniquities, verse 9. 2. Purity of heart, by a Divine New-Creation. 3. Renovation of a firme established Spirit in him for time to come. Least he fall again, verse 10. 4. Continuance of Gods favour, in not with-drawing his Presence and Holy Spirit from him, verse 11. 5. Restoring of his joy in apprehension and assurance of Gods Salvation. 6. Sustentation by Gods free Spirit; That being delivered from sins bondage, he may chearfully delight in all holy service and obedience to God, verse 12. This is amplified by the Effects or duties intended upon grant of his desires. viz. (1) Instructing and edifying others by his own experience. So, of a Patient he should become a Physitian, ver. 13. (2) Glorifying God, 1 Partly, by proclaiming his justice, in delivering him from bloods, verse 14. 2 Partly, By praising the Lord, when he shall open his lips, verse 15. 3 Partly, By Sacrificing to his Honour; Not so much Ceremonial Sacrifices or Burnt-offerings, which God did not chiefly desire or delight in, verse 16. But the Spiritual Sacrifices of a Broken and Contrite Spirit k. These Gods grateful Sacrifices, which he will not despise, verse 17.

II. For the Church of God, Israel, (under the Types of Sion and Jerusalem,) David prayes also: they being scandalized and endangered by his sins. Here note, 1. The blessings craved, viz. (1) That (though himself had done them harme, and offended them, yet) God would do good unto Sion, in his good-will. (2) That, God would build Jerusalem's walls, which by his sin he had pull'd down, undermined, or shaken, ver. 18. 2. The Argument whereby his request is urged. This is drawn from the effect which will follow thereupon, viz. The Churches worshipping of God with upright and acceptable Sacrifices aboundantly, verse 19.

i Peccatum meum ante me est, non post me. Fuit enim post me, quando ad me missus est Propheta, &c. Aug. Enarrat. in Psal. 50.

k See my Sermon of Brokennesse of Heart, Entituled; A Broken Spirit, Gods Sacrifices, on Psal. 51. 17. Preached before the House of Lords.

Psalme LII.

§. I. The Summary Contents.

Davids speaking I. Of Doeg the Edomite, who accused him to King Saul, 1. Reproves him, for his mischievousness, and villainous tongue, verse 1. to 5. 2. Prophetically threatens his destruction, verse 5. to 8. II. Of himself, 1. Declares his confidence in Gods mercy, touching his constant Prosperity in the House of God, verse 8. 2. Sets forth his Resolution to praise God; hereupon, verse 9.

And I waite upon thy Name,
Because before thy Saints alwaies
Most pleasant is the same.

k Heb. I will confess.

l Heb. or; patiently expect thy name.

§. III. The Kinde, Penman, and Occasion.

This is the Sixth Maschil, See Psal. 32. §. 3. The nature of it is Doctrinal, or Instructive: as the Title shews.

Penman of it, more then probably, was David: as the Subject-Matter and Occasion do not obscurely indicate.

Occasion of writing it, is expressed in the Title breifly: which thus may be laid down more largely, from 1 Sam. 21. and 22. David flying from King Sauls rage, comes to Nob for succour, where Achimelech the Priest gave him and his men Shew-bread, furnished him with Goliah's Sword, and enqtired of the LORD for him. Doeg the Edomite chief of King Sauls Herdmen, 1 Sam 21. 7. being then present, and seeing all this, went to King Saul and told him, David came unto the House of Achimelech, &c. Saul hereupon sent for Achimelech, and all the Priests at Nob: and commanded his foot-men to turn and slay him and all the Priests of the LORD, they refusing to execute this horrid cruelty, Saul commands Doeg to do it, who slew on that day 85. persons that did weare the linen Ephod; Smiting also Nob the Priests City with the Sword and destroying there most cruelly, Man, Woman, Childe, and Beast. Which cruelty Abiathar son of Achimelech escaping, he fled to David and told him all, 1 Sam. 22. 9. to the end. Hereupon David seems to have Penned this Psalme.

§. IV. The Scope.

Davids Scope in this Psalme, is; 1. To reprove Doeg sharply, for his boasting in evil, and for his wicked tongue; And 2. To threaten him severely hereupon with dreadful destruction out of his place: 3. But contrariwise to support and encourage himself against all the wicked and cruel Persecutions of Doeg against him in slaying the Priests of the LORD for his sake, assuring himself by his Faith in God of his own constant flourishing Prosperity in the House of God, resolving to wait upon his Name, and praise him for avenging his Cause upon Doeg which he Prophetically foresaw as done already.

§. V. The Analysis, or Principal Parts.

In the Title note, 1. The Nature of this Psalme; Maschil. See Psal. 32. §. 3. 2. The Direction of it as to the Musick; To the Master, &c. 3. The Occasion of it; when Doeg, &c. As formerly hath been expressed in §. 3.

The Substance of the Psalme contains Matters, more specially concerning 1. Doeg. 2. David himself.

I. As for Doeg; He is Reproved, and Threatned. I. Doeg is reproved and sharply blamed, 1. For his boasting in evil, he being now become a great man. Which was contrary to Gods mercy continued to him daily, verse 1. 2 For his evil tongue, Devising mischief; Doing deceit; Delighting in evil, in Lying, in Destructive and guileful words, more then in the contrary Vertues, ver. 2, 3, 4. II. Doeg is Prophetically threatned with terrible Destruction out of his Place. This is, 1. Described, and Illustrated by four Similitudes, viz. (1) Of a Building pull'd down and destroyed. (2) Of Coales of fire taken away with the tongs. (3) Of Tent-stakes pull'd away. 4. Of Trees plucked up by the Roots, verse 5. 2. Amplified by the effect of this judgement upon the Righteous beholding it, viz. (1) Partly, they shall be confirmed hereby in Gods fear. (2) Partly, they shall be moved even to laugh at him, for his vain confidence in his wealth and wickedness, and not in God, ver. 6, 7.

II. As for David himself, He declares contrariwise, I. His comfortable Perswasion of his own happy condition in the House of God continually. Which is, 1. Illustrated by the Similitude of an Olive-tree alwayes green. 2. Described, by the Instrumental Meanes thereof, viz. His constant trust in Gods loving-kindness, verse 8. II. His pious Resolution. 1. To praise God continually for avenging his Cause upon Doeg, which he Prophetically foresaw as done already: and for preserving himself in prosperity. 2. To wait patiently upon God and his aid, that being pleasant in the sight of his Saints, verse 9.

Psalme LIII.

§. I. The Summary Contents.

David I. Complaineth of the abominable corruption of the ungodly, dishonouring God, and oppressing his Church. 1. Describing this Corruption, by the (1) Root of it. (2) Fruit of it, verse 1. §. III. The Kinde, Penman, and Occasion.

This is the seventh Maschil. See Psal. 32 §. 3. It is a Doctrinal, or Teaching Psalme.

Penman of it, as the Title showes, was David.

Occasion, is not here or elsewhere clearly expressed. But some h think, That this Psalme (which in Substance, and almost in the very words, some few only excepted which are altered or added, is the same with Psalme 14.) was written by David Prophetically touching Antiochus, that notorious Antiochus, that destroyed Jerusalem and brought many evils upon the Jews, because it's said; God did disperse thy besiegers bones, verse 5. which are not to be found in Psal. 14. As Psalme 14. seems Penned upon the Occasion of the Jews distresses under Nebuchadnezzar and the Babylonians. And perhaps the Holy Ghost speaks almost the same words twice over, Because the wickedness of these enemies were so parallel one to another. And it is no unusual thing with Scripture to recite the same things and words sundry times upon several Occasions: compare 2 Chron. 36. 22, 23. with Ezra 1. 1, 2, 3. —and 1 Chron. 16. 8. to 23. with Psal. 105. 1. to 16. ——and 1 Chron. 16. 23. to 34. with Psal. 96. throughout ——and 1 Chron. 16. 34. with Psal. 107. 1. and 118. 1. and 136. 1.

h Simeon de Muis in Argum. ad Ps. 53.

Now the variation of words in this 53. Psalme, from those in Psalme 14. stands thus. In the Title of Psal. 53. these words are added, [upon Machalath, Maschil] For עלילה Practice. Action, Psal. 14. 1. we have עול Evil. Injurious-evil. —— For יהוה the LORD. JEHOVAH, Psal. 14. 2, 4, 7. we have אלהים God. In Psal. 53. verse 2, 5, 6. ——For הכל סר Every-one is-departed, or back-declined, Psal. 14. 3. we have here כלו סג All-hee is-gone-backward, Psal. 53. 3. ——After those words, wherein both Psalmes agree [They feared a fear] the words in Psal. 14. 5, 6. are different from those in Psal. 53. 5. And in this verse is the greatest difference. ——Finally, for ישועת Salvation, in Psal. 14. 7. we have ישוע ת Salvations in this Psal. 53. 6. These are the verbal differences betwixt these two Psalmes, which in Substance of Sense and Reality are almost the same, except that fifth verse in this Psalme.

§. IV. The Scope, and Analysis.

Let these fore-noted differences betwixt Psal. 53. and Psal. 14. be well considered: and then the Scope and Analysis of Psal. 14. is Applicable to this Psalme, and need not be here again repeated: only remembring the different matter in vers. 5. from that of Psal. 14. 5, 6.

Psalme LIV.

§. I. The Summary Contents.

David, treacherously discovered to King Saul by the Ziphims, 1. Prayes the LORD, to Save, Judge, and Heare him; Against his Enemies, Strangers and Oppressors, ver. 1, 2, 3. 2. Professeth his confidence in God, for his own Relief, but his Enemies Ruine, vers. 4, 5. 3. Hereupon, Promiseth free Sacrifices, and Praise unto God, ver. 6, 7.

§. II. The Version out of the Hebrew.

To the Master-of-the-Musick [a] on Neginoth, [b] Maschil of David, when the Ziphims came and said unto Saul, Doth not David hide himself with us?

§. III. The Kinde, Penman, and Occasion.

This Psalme as to the Kinde of it, is A Prayer: As also the eighth Maschil, See Psal. 32. §. 3. Penman of it was David, as the Title testifies. The Occasion of it, was the Ziphims treachery against David, putting him into great danger by Saul: hinted briefly in the Title. It stands thus: viz. David, not long after dogged Doeg's cruel Fact in murdering the Lord's Priests; See Psal. 52. §. 3. being warned by God's Oracle, that if he stayed at Keilah, (whither he fled from King Saul,) they would deliver him up to Saul, Hee and 600 men with him fled from Keilah into the wilderness of Ziph. Ziph was a City of Judah, Josh. 15. 24. near which was a wood and a wilderness. The Ziphims to curry favour with Saul, came and said to him; Doth not David hide himself with us? This they did once, 1 Sam. 23. 14, 15, 19, &c. And again, 1 Sam. 26. 1, 2. This Psalme seems to be written upon Occasion of their first endeavour to betray David to Saul. When David being in the desert of Maon, and hearing of Sauls coming, betook himself to a Rock, and perceiving himself to be in a great danger hee penned this Psalme, and encouraged himself in God, 1 Sam. 23. 19, &c.

§. IV.

§. IV. The Scope.

Davids Scope intended in this Psalme, is; To commit himself by Prayer and Faith to Gods Protection against his terrible enemies and dangers: And assuring himself that God was the Help both of him and of his Helpers, and would remunerate and represse his enemies, Hee promiseth hereupon Free-will-offerings and Praises to the LORD.

§. V. The Analysis, or Principal Parts.

In the Title are 1. The Nature of the Psalme; Maschil. Instruction. 2. The Penman, David. 3. The Occasion; The Ziphims informing Saul of Davids hiding himself with them. 4. The Direction of it as to the Musick.

In the Psalme it self, which is Davids Prayer in his danger and distress, are;

I Davids Petitions. These are, I Propounded; Wherein he intreats the LORD, 1. To save him from present danger. 2. To judge him, or judge for him. Both being amplyfied by the respective wayes how he would have these things done, verse 1. 3. To hear his Prayer. This request being Emphatically doubled, verse 2. II. Urged; From the Nature and Practices of his Enemies, being 1. Partly, Strangers, viz. The Ziphims. 2. Partly, Daunting-Tyrants, viz. Saul and his men; who (1) Rose up against him. (2) Sought his Soul. (3) Set not God before them, verse 3.

II. Davids Professions of his trust and confidence in God, 1. That God would be his help, and be with his helpers, verse 4. 2. That God would justly recompence ill to his Enemies, and suppress them, verse 5.

III. Davids pious Resolutions, 1. To Sacrifice to God Free-will-offerings. 2. To confess (viz. praise and thanks) to the name of the LORD: (1) Partly, because it is good, or pleasant, verse 6. (2) Partly, because by Faith he assures himself of deliverance out of all his present danger and distresse, and of his desire upon his Enemies, as certainly, as if it were effected already, verse 7.

§. III. The Kinde, Penman, and Occaſion.

This is a Prayer interwoven with Inſtruction. An Inſtructing-Prayer. It is the ninth Maſchil. See Pſal. 32. §. 3. The Pſalmiſt himſelf was experimentally inſtructed by his ſore afflictions here complained of: and in this Pſalme he accordingly inſtructs all Gods people which ſhall be alike afflicted. Penman of it was David: as the Title ſhowes. Occaſion of Davids writing it, is not here or elſewhere particularly declared. But it is the opinion of Kimchi and other Iewiſh Writers, as alſo of more judicious modern Authors h; That David wrote this Prayer, this Maſchil, when by reaſon of Abſalom's rebellion (Achitophel alſo being confederate with him) David and his friends fled from Jeruſalem, Hee and all that went with him weeping as they went up M. Olivet, 2 Sam. 15. 30, &c. And the Paſſages in this Pſalme ſeem notably to agree to that ſad ſtory. For, 1. In verſ. 3. David ſeems to complain of Shimei's reproaches and revilings, 2 Sam. 16. 5, &c. 2. In verſ. 12, 13, 14. he ſeems to deſcribe and aggravate the Treachery of his familiar friend and counſellor Achitophel, See 2 Sam. 16. 20 &c. and 17. 1. 3. In verſ. 9. 10, 11. He ſeems to point at the villanies done in the City, after Abſalom and his

Con-

Confederates came into Jeruſalem, 2 Sam. 16. 21. &c. and 17. 1. &c. Of which when Huſhai had informed David he ſeems to be exceedingly afraid, and wiſhes for Doves-wings that he might flee farre away from this ſtorme, ver. 6, 7, 8. Nevertheleſſe ſome think this Pſalme is to be referred to the times of King Sauls perſecuting of David: As his danger at Keilah, 1 Sam. 23. 1, 2. &c. or ſome ſuch like great diſtreſſe. But in this doubtfulneſſe nothing can be certainly determined. Melius eſt dubitare de occultis, quam litigare de incertis.

§. IV. The Scope.

Davids Scope here intended, is; To importune the LORD to hear, anſwer, and relieve him in his extream fears and deadly dangers by reaſon of ſome cruel oppreſſing Enemies, but eſpecially by reaſon of the villainous treachery of his intimate Familiar Friend that had ſweetned Councel together with him, and accompanyed him to the Houſe of God, who, though his words were as Butter or Oyle, yet harboured warre in his heart moſt perfidiouſly. And this ſeems notably to intend Achitophel.

§. V. The Analyſis, or Principal Parts.

In the Title, note; 1. The Denomination of it; Maſchil. 2. The Penman; David. 3. The Direction of it as to the Muſick.

In the Pſalme it ſelf, are chiefly four things, viz.

I. Davids Prayer for himſelf, verſ. 1. to 9. This is I. Propounded, David in foure ſeveral expreſſions craving audience and anſwer to his Prayer moſt importunately, verſ. 1, 2. II. Preſſed, or Urged, by divers Arguments. As, 1. From his own mournful and perplexed frame in his Praying, verſ. 2. 2. From the inſolent and cruel deportment of his enemies, verſ. 3. 3. From the extream feares and terrours of death and deſtruction ſurprizing his heart, ver. 4, 5. Theſe his terrours are Amplified by the effect which they wrought upon him, viz. making him wiſh even Doves-wings, that he might flee far away from the preſent tempeſt, and be at peace. Metaphor. ver. 6, 7, 8.

II. Davids Imprecation againſt his Enemies, the Conſpirators, ver. 9. to 16. Againſt them hee prayes, 1. That God would ſwallow them up. II. That he would divide their language, divide their Counſels, (as once at Babel, Gen. 10. or as David elſewhere prayed againſt Achitophel, O LORD infatuate the counſels of Achitophel, 2 Sam. 15. 31.) This hee further urgeth, becauſe of the great evils perpetrated by the Conſpirators in the City; viz. 1. Violence and ſtrife, probably of the Souldiers about the Citizens goods, verſ. 9. 2. Notorious villanies, woful-evils. As defiling David's Concubines, &c. verſ. 10, 11. 3. Fraudulent and guileful practices, viz. Againſt David, verſe 11. This laſt is notably Aggravated by conſideration of ſome principal, Agent in this Treachery: (1) Negatively, not an open profeſſed enemie, verſe 12. (2) Poſitively, But a moſt dear familiar boſom-friend. Probably Achitophel was here intended, verſe 13, 14. III. That Death might ſeize on them, and they for their evils go alive like Corah, &c. into the grave, verſe 15.

III. Davids Profeſſion of his confidence in God, ver. 16. to 22. David believing and being perſwaded, That God will 1. Heare his Prayer. 2. Save and deliver him from his enemies and the preſent Warre againſt him, ver. 16, 17, 18. 3. Afflict his enemies. And this (1) Partly becauſe they are devoid of Gods feare, having no changes by afflictions, ver. 19. (2) Partly, becauſe of their perfidious Covenant-breaking, ver. 20. (3) Partly, becauſe of their treacherous ſubtilty, ver. 21.

IV. The Concluſion of the whole Pſalme; 1. Exhorting the Righteous to caſt all their care upon the LORD, who will not give the juſt man for ever to be moved, verſe 22. 2. Prophecying the ſpeedy ruine of bloody and deceitful men; they ſhall not half-out their dayes. 3. Promiſing that himſelf will truſt in God, ver. 23.

The Occaſion of it, was the Philiſtines taking of David in Gath, whither he fled from the face of Saul. David fled twice to Achiſh King of Gath of the Philiſtines: Once, after Jonathan had informed him of his Father Sauls implacableneſſe towards him, 1 Sam. 20. and 21. 10. &c. At which time David perceiving himſelf to be in danger by the Philiſtines, changed his behaviour feigning himſelf diſtracted: Whereupon, being let go, he departed into the Cave Adullam; and there, upon this Occaſion ſeems to have Penned both Pſalme 34. and and Pſal. 56. even both theſe Pſalmes upon one and the ſame Occaſion [n], moſt probably. For, we find that at this firſt flight of David to Gath (and not at any other) the Philiſtines took David and brought him to Achiſh, 1 Sam. 21. 15. with Pſalm. 56. Title. Compare alſo 1 Sam 21. 10. to the end. and 22. 1. with Pſal. 34. Title, and §. 3. there. A ſecond time David fled to Achiſh at Gath, and there dwelt with him a ſeaſon, &c. 1 Sam. 27. 1. 2. 3. upon this Occaſion ſome think this Pſalme was Penned [o]: but rather aſſent to the former.

Psalme LVII.

§. I. The Summary Contents.

David, I. Prayes to the LORD for his favour, and for deliverance from King Saul and other his devouring enemies. 1. His affiance being wholly in God, verse 1,2,3. 2. His enemies being extreamly cruel, verse 4,5. II. Promiseth most affectionately to praise God, for such his Deliverance, and his enemies punishment, whereof he is assured, ver. 6. to the end.

§. II. The Version out of the Hebrew.

To-the-Master-of the Musick, * Al-tascheth, Michtam of David, In his flying from the face of Saul into the Cave.

I.

1. O God, To-me-bee-gracious,
Bee-gracious-to-mee,
Because my Soul distressed thus
For-safety-trusts in thee;
In shadow of thy wings likewise
For-safety-I-will-trust:
Untill these a sore-calamities
Bee wholly over-past.

2. I will call unto God most-High,
To God that towards mee
Doth his accomplish-perfectly.
3. From Heavens send will hee,
And save mee: Hee reproached-hath
My fierce devouring-foe: Selah.
His loving-kindnesse God will send,
His verity also.

4. My Soul in-midst of Lions is,
I cfire-brands ly among, (shafts,
Mans sonnes, whose teeth are d spears and
And a sharp Sword their Tongue.
5. Do-thou-exalt-thy self, O God,
Above Heav'ns highest-story:
And over all the Earth abroad
Exalted be thy glory.

II.

6. They for my steps prepar'd a Net,
My Soul Hee-bowed-down:
They digg'd a Pit e for mee, and they f In midst of it are thrown. Selah.
7. Mine heart most firmly-is-prepar'd,
O God thy Name to raise,
Mine heart most-firmly-is-prepar'd:
I'le sing, yea I'le sing-praise.

8. Do thou, my Glory, up-awake,
My Harp and Psalt'ry
Awake sweet melody to make.
At-day-break wake will I.
9. O Lord, among the Peoples here
To-thee-I-will confess:
Among the Nations far and neer,
g Thy-praise-I-will-expresse.

10. For, great h thy-kinde-benignity
Doth to the Heavens rise:
Thine undefiled verity
Doth reach unto the skies.
11. Do-thou-exalt-thy self, O God,
Above Heav'ns highest Story
And over all the Earth abroad

§. III. The Kinde, Penman, and Occasion.

This Psalme as to the Kinde of it, is A Prayer: The third Michtam; as it were, A golden Prayer. See Psal. 16. §. 3.

Penman of it, was David: as the Title showes. It was one of Davids Jewels.

Occasion of this Prayer, was King Sauls persecution of David so eagerly, that David much endangered fled into a Cave among the Rocks in the Wilderness of Engedi, to hide himself. Whilest he and his men were in the sides of this Cave, Saul came into it to cover his feet: where David privily cut off the skirt of Saul's Garment, Garment, but would not kill him, though his men urged him to it, and he had him at his mercy. At which kindnesse of David, Saul's heart (after he came to know it) so relented, that he acknowledged his faultinesse against David with teares: And taking an Oath of David not to cut off his Seed, he for a season ceased his further persecution of him. See 1 Sam. 24. throughout. Upon these straits David Penned this Psalme i.

i Hen. Ainsworth in his Annot. on Psal. 57. Tit. Cum multis aliis.

§. IV. The Scope.

Davids Scope in this Prayer, is; 1. To intreat the LORD for his Divine Grace, Favour, Protection and Deliverance from Saul and his Adherents: 2. And (upon confident assurance hereof) to awaken himself unto all enlarged thankfulnesse to God for his Loving-kindnesse and Truth to him, while his adversaries fell into the Pit they digged.

§. V. The Analysis, or Principal Parts.

The Title points out, 1. The Direction of it; in regard of the Musick. 2. The tune, or the beginning of some known note, as some k think; Al-taschetb. Though others l conceive, it refers to the Matter of the Psalme, and signifies; Corrupt-not, Destroy-not, &c. This word noteth, Sometimes Corruption of Faith and Manners, by sin, Psal. 14. 1. Sometimes Perdition or Destruction, the punishment and wages of sin, Psal. 78. 38. 45. Gen. 6. 13. and 9. 11, 15. Its a more vehement expression, then killing, Ezek 9. 6, 8. This word is also in the Titles of three other Psalmes, viz. Psal. 58. 59. and 75. 3. The Penman; David. 4. The Excellency of the Psalme; Michtam. See Psalm. 16. §. 3. 5. The Occasion as before.

The Psalme it self is; 1. Petitory, and 2. Gratulatory.

I. Petitory. Wherein David sues for Gods favour more Generally: And for deliverance from Saul, &c. more Particularly. And this he urgeth, 1. From his Hope and Affiance in God, flying to him for shelter as the Chickens under the Hens wing, ver. 1. 2. From the acting of this his Hope in Prayer to God, (1) As most High; (2) As accomplishing-perfectly for David; (3) As one that will mightily save him according to his Loving-kindness and Truth, vers. 2, 3. 3. From the cruelty of his enemies, Metaphorically resembled, To Lions, To fire-brands. Their Teeth, to Speare and Arrows. Their Tongue to a sharp Sword, verse 4. Upon all which he begs, that God would exalt himself and his glory above Heaven and Earth, verse 5.

II. Gratulatory. Here David sets forth 1. The Ground or Matter of his Praise; viz. Davids deliverance, and his enemies ensnarement in the Net prepared for him, verse 6. 2. His manner of thankfulnesse, viz. (1) With a firmly-prepared heart; verse 7. (2) With an awakened Tongue, His Glory. (3) With awakened Instruments of Musick. (4) With his whole self early awakened, verse 8. 3. The Extent of his thankfulness, To Peoples and Nations, viz. both to Jewes and Gentiles, verse 9. 4. The special Perfections, or Propertles in God which he will peculiarly exalt God for, viz. His Loving-kindness and Truth, reaching to the Skyes, yea to Heaven it self, verse 10. All which he elegantly closeth up, with recital of his former request in verse 5. That God would exalt himself and his glory above Heaven and Earth, in appearing for David against his enemies, verse 11.

§. I. The Summary Contents.

David, I. Reproves convincingly, King Saul and his Courtiers, 1. For their corrupt Counsels and unjust judgements against him, verse 1, 2. 2. For their wickednesse, being (1) Natural and Hereditary. (2) Deadly venomous. And (3) Incurable.

curable, verse 3, 4, 5. II. Imprecates divers heavy judgements upon his enemies, under sundry Elegant-Metaphorical allusions, verse 6. to 10. III. Prophecyeth, what joy, triumph, and establishment shall be to the righteous, upon the destruction of the wicked, verse 10. 11.

§. II. The Version out of the Hebrew.

To-the-Master-of-the-Musick, * Al-taschetb; Michtam of David.

1. a DO yee, O Congregation, Speak righteousness indeed?
b Do yee judge equa-things alone,
O Adam,s sonnes and Seed?
Yea, yee in heart c vile-injuries
Do work with diligence,
On earth d yee balass-out likewise

Nor him that chaunts inchantments mark,
Though i wise and very choice.
6. O God, break thou their Teeth so strong
That in their Mouth do grow:
The tushes of the Lyons-young
O Lord burst-out-do thou.

7. Like waters that k do-still-descend,
Let them dissolve-away:
His Arrowes keen when bee shall bend,
l As very strawes-bee-they.
8. Like-as m the melting Snayle, from earth
Let-him-away-be-gon:
Like woman's most untimely-birth,
Let them not see the Sun.

9. n Your thornes, O Bramble, ere-that they Shall feele to wound their side:
With-whirlewinde-it-bee'l-snatch-away,
Both green thorne and the dride.
10. The just shall joy when he shall see
The vengeance for the good:
His feet triumphant wash shall bee
Ev'n in the wicked's blood.

11. And men shall say, assuredly
Fruit for the just doth grow:
Yea-sure there is a God on high
o Doth judge on earth below.

§. III. The Kinde, Penman, and Occasion.

This Psalme for Kinde is of Mixt Nature: being Reprehensory, and Prophetical, in reference to the wicked; and Consolatory in respect of the righteous. The fourth Michtam: See Psal. 16. §. 3.

Penman of it was David, as the Title showes.

Occasion of this Psalme, some p think to be Davids coming into the Valley where Saul slept, and taking away his Speare when he might as easily have taken away his Head: Whereupon he challenged Abner as guilty of Death for keeping him no better, and cleares himself as being causlesly pursued by Saul. See 1 Sam. 26. But others q incline rather to Kimchi, thinking this Psalme was Penned upon occasion of the unjust Councels and Practises of Abner and other of Saul's Princes, against David. Whereupon David in this Psalme endeavours both to convince them of their evil and unjust dealing, and to comfort himself against the same.

q Sim. de Muis Arg in Ps. 58.

§. IV. The Scope.

David's Scope intended in this Psalme, is; 1. Partly, To convince and reprove King Saul, as also his Princes and Counsellours, Abner, Doeg, and other Court-Parasites of their unrighteous words and actions, of their violent dealings and extream wickedness: (perhaps having respect to their cruel murdering of Achimelech and 85. Priests, &c. for Davids sake.) 2. Partly, To implore and foretell their Destruction. 3. Partly, To comfort himself and the righteous, upon consideration of Gods just dispensations for the godly against their Enemies.

§. V.

§. V. The Analysis, or Principal Parts.

The Title represents to us, 1. The Direction of the Psalme, as to the Musick of it. 2. The Tune; Al-tasheth: See Psal 57. §. 5. 3. The Excellency of the Psalme; Michtam: See Psal. 16. §. 3. 4. The Penman; David.

The Psalm it self, is 1 Reprehensory, 2 Petitory, and 3 Prophetical.

I. Reprehensory, David convincingly-reprehends King Saul and his Courtiers, I. Expostulating with them about their Counsels and Judgements against himself, &c. Whether they were just, verse 1. II. Affirming and positively Asserting, 1. That their hearts contrive injurious-evils. 2. That their hands weigh out violence in Earth instead of Justice, verse 2. III. Aggravating their Wickedness, (As by an Apostrophe or turne of his Speech, to God or godly men,) From 1. The Naturalness, Hereditariness and long continuance of it, verse 3. 2. The Deadliness or venomousness thereof. Compared in that regard, (1) To the hot poyson of Serpents, inflaming the part it toucheth. (2.) To the venome of Aspes, which (as Pliny r noteth) is incurable, unless the Members touched therewith be immediately cut off. 3. The incurableness of it, by any the wisest charms, or counsels. The subtilest Serpents were not so cunning to prevent charmes (s) and Enchantments (by clapping one eare close to the ground and stopping the other eare with their tailes) which might keep them from doing harme: As they were crafty to disappoint all Counsels and endeavours to reforme them of their wickedness, verse 4.5.

r Plin. Nat. Hist. l.8. c.3.

s Touching these charmes used to Serpents. See Mr. Tho. Wilcocks Expos. on Ps. 58. verse 4,5.

II. Petitory, David prayes and Prophetically imprecates divers judgements to his Enemies, and those under sundry Metaphoricall expressions. As, 1. Of Breaking their Teeth, as of Serpents. 2. Of bursting out their Lion-like tushes, verse.6. 3. Of their dissolving like water, like Snow into water. 4. Of breaking their Arrows, or making them as straws, verse 7. 5. Of their melting-away like a Snaile pricked or bruised. 6. Of perishing like the untimely birth of a woman, verse 8. 7. Of sudden and irresistible snatching away as with a whirlewinde these scratching brambles, both young and old, be their prickles-green or dry, before they shall be felt to do harme. This seems to be the right sense of this intricate passage, ver. 9.

III. Prophetical. David Prophetically foretels what shall be the issue of wicked mens Destruction, to the Righteous, viz. 1. They shall joy at the vengeance. 2. They shall wash their feet in the blood of the Wicked. So Tryumphing in their utter Destruction, verse 10. 3. Their faith in God shall be confirmed, and their praises of Gods just Judgements shall hereby be provoked, verse 11.

Pſalm.

§. III. The Kinde, Penman, Occaſion, &c.

This is A Prayer, or A Praying Pſalme. It is The ſecond Al-taſcheth. See Pſal. 58. §. 4. And The fourth Michtam, Jewel, or Golden-Pſalme: See Pſal. 16. §. 3. Penman of it as the Title evidenceth, David. Occaſion of it was thus; King Saul having in his fury flung a Javelin at David, but miſſing him, David fled to his own houſe in Gibea the Royal City that night: Thither Saul ſent Meſſengers to watch him all night, and ſlay him in the morning. But Michal Saul's daughter, Davids wife, diſcovered to him the danger, let him down through a window, ſo that he eſcaped, told the Meſſengers he was ſick in bed: And when Saul ſent again to kill David in his bed, the Meſſengers (in ſtead of David) found an Image in the Bed, laid there by Michal. Upon this Occaſion David penned this Pſalme, Compare Pſal. 59. title with 1 Sam. 19. 10. to 18.

§. IV. The Scope.

David's Scope herein intended, is; 1. To implore Gods Protection againſt, and deliverance from his cruel, combining and malicious enemies, Saul and his ſervants: 2. And to that end that God would viſit them, gradually ſcatter and bring them down, yea, and at laſt utterly conſume them, that hereupon he might render praiſe and thanks to God for his deliverance.

§. V. The Analyſis, or Principal Parts.

The Title hath in it, 1. The Inſcription or Direction of the Pſalm, as to the Muſick of it. 2. The Tune; Al-taſcheth. See Pſal. 58 §. 5. 3. The Excellency of the Pſalme; Michtam. See Pſal. 16. §. 3. 4. The Penman; David. 5. The Time and Occaſion of his penning it; When Saul, &c.

The Pſalme it ſelf contains, eſpecially three things, viz.

1. Davids Petitions for himſelf, verſ. 1. to 4. He prayes for Gods deliverance of him from, and Protection of him againſt his enemies, Saul and his ſervants riſing up againſt him, &c. This hee he urgeth, 1. From their wickedneſſe, they being workers of iniquity. 2. From their cruel bloodineſſe, ver. 1, 2. 3. From their ſubtilty, laying waite for his life. 4. From their ſtrong confederacy againſt him. 5. From their maliciouſneſſe againſt David herein, without any his fault deſerving ſuch uſage from them, ver. 3, 4. 6. From their cauſleſſe eagerneſſe againſt him, part of ver. 4.

§. III. The Kinde, Penman, Occaſion, &c.

This Pſalme for Kinde is, A Prayer. The fifth Michtam, or Jewel-Pſalme. See Pſal. 16. §. 3.

Penman of it, as the Title declares, was David.

The Occaſion of Davids writing this Pſalme, was, A double warre, or war-like Expedition which David had againſt two ſorts of Enemies, Syriant and Edomites, Joab commanding in chief; Title. I. With the Syrians; When hee fought with Aram of Meſopotamia, and with Aram of Zobah. Aram, i. e. Aramites or Syrians, The Poſterity of Aram Son of Shem, &c. Gen. 10 22. Meſopotamia, ſo called in Greek, becauſe it lyeth in the Midſt betwixt two Rivers, Tygris and Euphrates: In Hebrew, Naharajim, that is, Of two Rivers. Though David reigned not beyond Euphrates, yet he is ſaid to fight with Aram of Meſopotamia, becauſe the Syrians on this ſide the River had hired them of Meſopotamia beyond the River to aſſiſt them, 1 Chron. 19. 6. Now David fought twice with the Syrians, 1. At the Gate of Medeba, the Syrians aſſiſting the Ammonites who had ſhamefully abuſed Davids Servants, who came courteouſly to comfort Hanun King of Ammon touching his Fathers Death, 2 Sam. 10. 1. to 7. 1 Chron. 19. 1. to 8. See Joſh. 13. 16. 2. At Helam a Town beyond Jordan, 2 Sam. 10. 16, 17, &c. 1 Chron. 19. 16, &c. the Syrians being enraged, that David had formerly conquered them. Thus David fought with the Syrians. II. With the Edomites; who (whileſt David was warring againſt the Syrians in the Eaſt) ſeem to have invaded Davids Kingdom on the South: But Joab returning from his Victory over the Syrians, fell upon thoſe Edomites and ſubdued them. This Expedition is deſcribed, 1. By the time, when; viz. When Joab returned from the Syrians. 2. By the place, where; In the Valley of Salt. See 2 Kings 14. 7. Gen. 14. 3. 3. By the number of the ſlain; Twelve thouſand. All this, See in the Title. Object. But in the Hiſtory it is ſaid, They were eighteen thouſand, and that David ſlew them, 2 Sam. 8. 13. 1 Chron. 18. 12. I Anſwer; 1. As Joab when he fought both againſt Syrians and Ammonites divided his Army, and committed one part to the command of his brother Abiſhai, himſelf commanding the other, 2 Sam. 10. 9. &c. 1 Chron. 19. 10 &c. So probably, in like manner fighting againſt the Edomites, he might divide his Army into two Parts, himſelf and his Part ſlaying as here 12000: His Brother Abiſhai and his Part, 6000 more; in all 18000. And the whole is aſcribed to David, becauſe he was their King and Generaliſſimo, whoſe Battels they fought.

§. IV. The Scope.

Davids Scope intended in this Pſalme, was; 1. To intreat the LORD, to renew his favour to them again after his diſpleaſure; 2. To heale the breaches of the Land made by the invaſion of the Syrians and Edomites wherewith he had afflicted afflicted them; 3. And to save and de liver them from all these enemies: 4. As also to Teach Gods people in all time to come how to demean themselves in like distresses by reason of their enemies, viz. To fly to God by Faith and Prayer for acceptance, aid, and deliverance, as here David did. Compare the Title, with Body of the Psalme.

§. V. The Analysis, or principal Parts.

The Title sets forth, 1. The Direction of it, as to the Musick. 2. The Instrument upon which it was to be played, or the Tune to which it was to be set[n] upon Shushan Eduth. 3. The excellency of the Psalme; Michtam: that is, saith one, An Excellent-Psalme. 4. The Penman; David. 5. The use of it; For to-teach. As in § 4. 6. The Occasion of Davids Penning it; when he fought, &c. As is more at large explained, §. 3. Probably David Penned this Prayer a little before the Battel.

p H. Ainsworth in his Annotations in Psal. 60. Title.

The Psalme it self contains Davids Prayer for Gods Favour, Succour, Salvation and Deliverance to himself and the Land, against the Syrians and Edomites. Particularly he Petitioneth,

I. For the return of Gods wonted favour again to Israel, whom he had 1. Cast farre off; 2. Broken; 3. Been angry with, viz. in suffering these enemies to invade them, ver. 1.

II. For healing the breaches of the Land: which the LORD, 1. Made to quake and shake. 2. Did tear asunder, viz. by this sad and severe Dispensation of the enemies invasion, ver. 2.

III. For delivering his beloved people from these their enemies, and for saving David with his right-hand and answering him, in order thereunto. This is earnestly urged, 1. From the grievousnesse of their late afflictions. 2. From the victoriousnesse with which of Old the LORD had crowned them according to the certain-verity of his Promises. 3. From the dear affection which God did bear to Israel, ver. 3, 4, 5. 4. From Gods Promise (confirmed by his inviolable Oath;) God spake by his Holinesse. A concise speech, and imperfect: it implyes Gods Oracle and promise touching the certainty and stability of Davids Kingdom, which should not be tottering and taken from him, as from Saul. Hereupon David exults and faithfully rejoyceth, (1) Partly, In the Continuance of his Kingdom over the Israelites (and that the Syrians and Edomites should not take it from him, by the Sword, at this or any other time,) some being mentioned instead of all the rest, which should continue still under his Dominion; As, Shechem, A City in the Tribe of Ephraim not far from Samaria, Gen. 33.18. Josh. 20.7. Succoth, A City in the Tribe of Gad, beyond Jordan, Josh. 13.27. Gilead, Manasseh: the utmost borders of the Land of Canaan without Jordan, which for a time did cleave to Ishbosheth Sauls son, 2 Sam. 2. 8, 9, &c. yet were promised to David. Ephraim, Judah. All these should be continued under his free Dominion: therefore he should overcome the Syrians and Edomites, ver. 6, 7. (2) Partly, In the extent of his Dominion even unto Forreiners, and other Nations, who should be brought under a more servile subjection to him, As Moab, Edom, and Palestine though now insulting, vers. 8. This Promise of God, and Faith of David therein, is notably Amplified, By Davids alacrity in that difficult expedition against Edom, 1. Trusting only in Gods Conduct and Assistance, although he seemed formerly to cast them off, and not go forth in their Armies, verse 9, 10. 2. Renouncing all Humane confidence as vain, verse 11. 3. And encouraging himself and his Armies to valiantness, in hopes of victory through God, verse 12.

§. III. The Kinde, penman, and Occasion.

This Psalme for the Kinde of it, is, A Prayer. Penman of it, as the Title showes, was David. Time and Occasion of his Penning of it, is not expressed, nor evidently deducible from the Title or Psalme it self. Hence such variety of Opinions thereupon. g Some think David penned it, when he fled as an exile, from King Saul's cruelty. h Others, That probably David wrote it when by Absalom's Insurrection he was forced to fly to the ends and confines of the Land for safety, 2 Sam. 17. 27. i One is of Opinion, That Psal. 60. 61. 62. 20. and 21. were Penned near about the same time. viz. Psal. 61. when he undertook an Expedition against forreign Enemies, 2 Sam 8. 3. 1 Chron. 18. 3. Afterwards Psal. 62. declaring his faith in God. Then Psal. 20. that the Levites might use it at home, while he was abroad at War. Lastly, being Conqueror, he wrote Psal. 21. giving the LORD thanks therein for his victory. That this Psal. 61. was penned in his Expedition against forreign Enemies, he gathers, 1. Because, he saith; From the end of the Land to thee do I call, &c. verse 2. that is, At Damascus, Zobah, or the place where Solomon built Tadmor afterwards, 1 Kings 9. 18. 2 Chron. 8. 16. 2. Because, He prayes God to give inheritance to them that fear him, verse 5. viz. Besides Canaan (which Joshuah had divided to them by Lot) to extend his Dominion from Euphrates to Nilus, as he had promised 2 Sam. 7. 10. 3. Because, he begs that his Kingdome may be perpetual as God had promised, 2 Sam. 7. 16. Thus he. But none of these Reasons to me seem cogent or sufficient to prove the thing intended. And the words in verse 5. according to the Hebrew, are; Thou hast given inheritance —— which are an acknowledgement of mercy Received, not a Petitioning for Mercy wanted. So that I see not cause enough to recede from the common received Opinion, That this Psalme was occasioned by Absalom's Rebellion, &c.

§. IV. The Scope.

Davids Scope herein, is; 1. To implore Gods Protection, succour and support in his great straits and Extremities by reason of his Enemies: 2. And to [k] Profess his Hope of the Perpetuity of his Kingdom, especially in Christ, of whose Kingdom David was A Type.

[k] Hen. Moller. in Psal. 61.

§. V. The Analysis, or Principal Parts.

The Title sets forth 1. The Direction of it, as to the Musick. 2. The kinde of Instrument wherewith it was to be tuned, viz. On Neginath, that is, A stringed Instrument. 3. The Penman of it; David.

The Psalme it self is Davids earnest Prayer, wherein note three things, viz. I. The Preface: Wherein he beggs Audience again and again to his fervent Prayer and shouting-cry, verse 1. II. The Proposal of his maine request, viz. For Divine guideance unto sufficient Protection and Support; Lead thou me to the Rock that is higher then I. III. The urging and pressing of this his request by many vehement and pathetick Arguments. As, 1. From the Extremity of his present Pressures He being, (1) In his heart fainting or overwhelmed. (2) At the end of the Land, driven far from his own Habitation. 2. From his devout Resolution notwithstanding to cry unto God in these his Extremities, verse 2. 3. From his Experience of Gods former defence of him against his Enemies, verse 3. 4. From his Affiance and hope for safety under Gods Protection. Arising, (1) Partly, From Gods hearing his vows. (2) Partly, From Gods giving Inheritance to them that fear him, verse 4. 5. 5. From his confidence that God will prolong his dayes, and perpetuate his Kingdom (which is especially fulfilled in Christ and his Kingdom whereof David and his were but Types, Luke 1. 32, 33.) in mercy and verity, verse 6, 7. This is Amplified, By a double effect, hence resulting, viz. (1) His constant praises of God. (2) His dayly paying his vows unto God, verse 8.

§. III. The Kinde, Penman, and Occasion.

This Psalme for Kinde is chiefly Doctrinal, but with some intermixture of Reprehension and Exhortation. Being a sweet Bundle of pious Meditations, touching confidence in God alone in troubles and temptations, and not in any worldly person or thing, which are meer lies and vanities Penman of it, as the Title declares, was David. Occasion of his Penning it, was some great distress David was in, together with some sad temptations thereabouts, enticing him to diffidence in God, and confidence in the creature: Over which David prevailing professeth his confidence still in God, counting all creature-supports vanity. Some think Davids straits by reason of Saul's persecutions, or Absalom's Insurrections, are here intended o: But thats uncertain. One thinks David, being perswaded that his Prayers in Psal. 61. were heard, here he professeth his confidence, &c p.

o Sim. de Muis in Arg Psal. 62.
p Jo. Foord in Expos. Psal. 62. Tempus.

§. IV. The Scope.

David's Scope herein intended, is; 1. To strengthen his confidence in God alone, and not in any creature, against all troubles and temptations: 2. And by his own Example to instruct Gods people how to place their confidence in God alone, and not in any created stay, in deepest distresses and temptations thence arising.

§. V. The Analysis, or Principal Parts.

The Title sets forth, 1. The Direction of the Psalme, as to the Musick of it: 2. The Denomion of it; A Psalme. 3. The Penman; David.

The Psalme it self, being chiefly Doctrinal, is 1. Narratory. 2 Reprehensory. 3. Hortatory.

I. Narratory. Wherein David declareth and professeth his confidence and silent-resting on God, notwithstanding all his enemies and distresses. This his confidence is illustrated, 1. By the cause and foundation thereof, viz. Gods Salvation and All-sufficient Protection, metaphorically represented. 2. By the effect or consequent of this Protection, his stability; I shall not be mooved much, vers. 1, 2.

II. Reprehensory. Wherein he reproves his enemies oppositions against him, 1. Expostulating with them for endeavouring mischief to him. 2. Threatning them all with Death and Ruine, ver. 3. 3. Convincingly-describing their Consultations, and hypocritical lying carriages against him, vers. 4.

III. Hortatory Wherein he exhorts and excites, I. Himself, unto silent-confidence in God alone. 1. From the All-sufficiency of his Protection, represented in several Metaphors, as formerly. 2. From the effect or fruit of this Protection, viz. His stability. ver. 5, 6, 7. II. His People, To constant confidence in, and Prayer unto God, after his Example. This is urged, 1. From the safety of Gods Protection, vers. 8. 2. From the vanity and deceitfulness 1 Of all sorts of men noble and base; 2 Of oppression and injustice; 3 And of powerfull-wealth, None of which therefore are to be trusted in, verse 9, 10. 3. From the the true Foundations and Pillars of confidence, testified by Gods Word again and again to be peculiarly in God, viz. 1. Power. 2. Mercy, loving kindnesse. 3. Justice, righteously repaying to every man according to his work, ver. 11, 12.

Psalme LXIII.

§. I. The Summary Contents.

David, In this fervent Prayer, comforts himself in and over all his Wildernesse-afflictions, with these considerations; 1. That God was his God, vers. 1. 2. That, his desires after his God, in the day time, were most intensively ardent and vehement, vers. 2. to 6. 3. That his Thoughts and Affections were intent upon God in the night season also, vers. 6, 7, 8. 4. That his Enemies should be destroyed, vers. 9, 10. 5. That, himself at last after all his troubles should be advanced to the Throne, vers. 11.

§. II. The Version out of the Hebrew.

A Psalme of David, [a] when-he-was in the Wilderness of Judah.

1. O God, thou art [b] a God-to-mee,
Thee-early-seek-will-I,
For thee my Soul doth thirst, for thee
My flesh longs-ardently:
[c] In land dry, weary, waterless.
2. To see thy strength, [d] and glory,
As thee I view'd with pleasantness
Within the Sanctuary.

3. Because thy mercy better is
Then lives or longest dayes:
Therefore my thankful lips for this
Shall-thee-advancing-praise.
4. Thus [e] whilst-I-live, throughout the lands,
Thee-blessed-I'le-proclaime:
I Praying will lift up [f] my hands
In thine adored Name.

5. As with choice fat, and [g] marrow sweet
Suffic'd my Soul shall bee:
And praise with lips of shouting meet

§. III. The Kinde, Penman, and Occasion.

This Psalme for Kinde of it, is commonly accounted by Interpreters to be, A Prayer. Calvin [m] thinks it contains, not so much a Prayer, as pious Meditations propounded by the Psalmist for his own Consolation in midst of troubles, anxieties and dangers. But both may well stand together here: And no good Prayer is without Meditation. These holy Meditations in this Prayer do lively point out unto us the genuine disposition of a childe of God, when exiled from Gods publique Ordinances, (as David was by King Sauls fierce Persecutions;) How fervently his Soul thirsts and longs for those Ordinances and sweet soul-satisfying Communion with God therein. Penman of this Psalme, as the Title declares, was David. Occasion, was David's banishment from Gods publique Ordinances in the Sanctuary, and from heavenly Communion with God therein, through King Sauls cruel Persecutions, forcing him to fly and hide himself in the Wildernesse of Judah. That

Or rather, as Calvin and others think, in the wilderneſſe of Ziph[o], 1 Sam. 23. 14,15. which alſo was in the Land of Judah, or in the ſtrong-holds at En-gedi, in the Wilderneſs there[p], 1 Sam. 23,29. and 24.1, &c. When David cut off the skirt of Saul's garment. In ſome of theſe places David ſeems to have Penned this Pſalme: but in which particularly it is very hard certainly to determine.

§. IV. The Scope.

David's Scope intended in this Pſalme, is; To ſupport and comfort himſelf in his Wilderneſs-afflictions, and Exile from Gods Sanctuary, by theſe his holy thirſtings, longings, affections and meditations, which he thus ardently breathes out after God, and Communion with him in his Ordinances there. A ſincere childe of God is more diſtreſſed with his privation of Communion with God in his Ordinances, and the ſweeteſt Experiences of his Power and Glory therein, then with all other his outward calamities. And yet in deſtitution of Gods Ordinances, A Saint may have ſweet communion with God, even in a deſolate wilderneſs by Faith, Prayer, Meditation, and holy Affections breathing after him.

§. V. The Analyſis, or Principal Parts.

The Title declares, 1. The Denomination of it; A Pſalme. 2. The Penman, David. 3. The Time and Occaſion, When he was, &c.

The Pſalme it ſelf, being a fervent Prayer, contains ſeveral Arguments or Grounds of Comfort, wherewith David ſupported himſelf, in and over all his wilderneſs-afflictions, viz.

I. That, God was his God. This the primary foundation of his comfort, verſ 1.

II. That, his Deſires after his God, in the Day-time, were moſt ardent and intenſively vehement. Theſe his Deſires he divers wayes illuſtrates very emphatically; 1. By his early ſeeking after God. 2. By his vehement breathings after God, Metaphorically repreſented; (1) Partly, by thirſt: which is more intolerable then hunger. (2) Partly, by ardent longing: which ſomtimes, if not ſatisfide, cauſeth death. Both of them being aggravated by the circumſtance of place where-in he was; A Land of drought, and weary without waters; very grievous to an hungring and thirſting Body. But his parching and pinching wants of God in his Ordinances, were much more intolerable to his ſoul, ver. 1. 3. By the end of theſe his deſires and breathings, viz. his enjoyment of wonted communion with God in his Ordinances, as in former times. His ſtrength, having reſpect to the Ark of Gods Covenant, See Pſal. 132.8. and 78.61. and 105.4. 1 Chron. 16. 11. 2 Chron. 6. 41. which was an eminent Symbole of Gods Strength for his people. His Glory alſo intending the Ark, a Symbole of his Glory, 1 Sam. 4. 21, 22. Pſal. 26. 8. and 78. 61. and 105.4. Rom. 9.4. To ſee thy ſtrength, &c. verſ 2. 4. By the holy fruits or effects of theſe his Deſires, towards God and his Glory, viz. (1) Celebrating God for his loving-kindneſſe or mercy, better then his very life, verſ. 3. (2) Bleſſing him, and lifting up his hands in his Name, whileſt he ſhould live, ver. 4. (3) Being ſatisfied as with marrow and fatneſſe in God, even unto ſhouting-joy in him, verſ. 5.

III. That, his Thoughts and Affections were intent upon God in the night-ſeaſon alſo. And that, 1. Becauſe God was his Perfect Aid and Protection, ver. 6,7. 2. Becauſe his ſoule, through the ſuſtentation of Gods right hand, did cloſely-cleave unto God, or purſue after him, verſ 8.

IV. That, his Enemies who ſought his ruine ſhould be deſtroyed, and that by the ſword: ſo becoming a prey to the very wilde-beaſt, ver. 9,10.

V. That, Himſelf at laſt ſhould joyfully be advanced to the Throne as King, notwithſtanding all interpoſing troubles. So that, 1. The good ſhould triumph and glory. 2. The Bad ſhould be confounded, thereupon, verſ. 11.

PSALME

Psalme LXIV.

§. I. The Summary Contents.

David in his Prayer, I. Petitioneth for, Audience, and Preservation of his life from his enemies, they being most bitter, malicious, obdurate, and subtile, in their Words, Practises, and Devises against him, verse 1. to 7. II. Professeth his confidence in Gods protection thus prayed, Prophetically foretelling his enemies destruction, verse 7. to the end.

§. II. The Version out of the Hebrew.

To--the--Master.-of-the-Musick, A Psalme of David.

1. MY voice do thou attentive hear,
O God, [a] when-I-do-pray:
My life do thou preserve from fear,
Of Foe that would me slay.
2. From [b] secret of malignant foes
O hide-mee-covertly:
From rage-tumultuous [c] of those
That work iniquity.

3. Who whetted have their spightful tongue
Like keenest cutting Sword:
Have [d] bent their Arrow sharp and strong,
A very bitter word.
4. In secret-places-for-to-shoot
Against the perfect here:
At him they suddenly will shoot,
And yet they will not fear.

5. Yea in [e] a Matter very ill Themselves confirm-do-they:
Of hiding secret snares they tell,
Who shall them see? they say.
6. [f] A search exact accomplish-they,
They-search-out injuries:
The inward-thought of every-man
And heart is deep likewise.

7. But with an Arrow merciless
Our God shall shoot at those,
With unexpected-suddenness
Shall be their deadly blowes.
8. And thus upon themselves to fall
They their own tongue shall make:
Whoever them beholds, they shall Themselves-to-flight-betake.

9. All [g] men likewise shall fear thereby
And shall God's work declare:
And shall consider-prudently
His Deed exceeding rare.
10. The just shall in the LORD rejoyce,
And [h] trust in him he shall:
And glory shall with gladsome voice
[i] The upright-hearted all.

§. III. The Kinde, Penman, and Occasion.

This Psalme as to the Kinde of it, is A Prayer, A Petitory-complaint, or Complaining-Prayer.

Penman of it, as the Title declares, was David.

Occasion of Davids Penning this Prayer, was Probably King Sauls violent and bitter Persecution of David by deep and subtile Counsels, cruel words, slanders, and reproaches, and injurious-practises: As appears by the Current of the whole Psalme [k]. But whether this Psalme was Penned towards the Beginning, Middle, or Period of Saul's hunting after David, is not so easie to be determined.

§. IV. The Scope.

Davids intended Scope herein, is; To implore the LORD's Preſervation and Protection of him and his life, againſt the many ſubtile and cruel Perſecutions of King Saul, and his Confederates. See verſe 1,2,3.

§. V. The Analyſis, or Principal Parts.

The Title contains, 1. The Direction of this Pſalme as to the Muſick of it. 2. The Denomination of it; A Pſalme. 3. The Penman of it; David.

The Pſalme it ſelf, being a Prayer, containes, I. Davids Petitions. 2. Davids Profeſſion.

I. Davids Petitions. Here David, I. Propoundeth his requeſts to God: beſeeching him, I. To grant him audience. 2. To preſerve his life from fear of his enemies, viz. King Saul, verſe 1. 3. To hide him from the ſecret plots, and open tumultuous-rage of Malignants and workers of iniquity, verſe 2. II. Urgeth his requeſts by divers Arguments, drawn from the virulency of his Perſecutions, and extream-vileneſs of his Perſecutors. As, 1. From the bi ternes of their words, wounding like Swords and Arrows, verſe 3. 2. From the Secrecy, Suddenneſs, Fearleſneſs, and Cauſeleſneſs of their malicious Practiſes againſt David, verſe 4. 3. From their Obduration and boldneſs in evil Counſels, preſuming none ſhall ſee them in their ſecret hiding of Snares for him, ver. 5. 4. From their exquiſite induſtrious ſearch with all deep ſubtile Deviſes how to work David miſchief. Inſomuch that David burſts out into an Exclamation or Admiration at the depth of their ſubtile heart, &c verſe 6.

II. Davids Profeſſion. He profeſſeth his hope and confidence in Gods Protection, &c. thus Prayed for, whileſt he Prophetically foretelleth his Foes Deſtruction by the Arrows of God. They ſhot at David: But God will ſhoot at them. This their Deſtruction is ſet forth, 1. By the ſuddenneſs of it, verſe 7. 2. By the Inſtrumental means procuring it: viz. their own Tongue. 3. By the Effects which this their judgement ſhall have upon beholders, viz. (1) Flight. (2) Fear. (3) Declaring God's Work. (4) Conſidering-wiſely his deed, verſe 8,9. 4. By the iſſues or events of this judgement unto the righteous, viz. (1) Their rejoycing in the LORD. (2) Their flying to him for ſafe ſhelter, &c. (3) Their glorying, verſe 10.

§. III. The Kinde, Penman, and Occaſion of this Pſalme.

This for Kinde, is a Praiſing or Thanksgiving-Pſalme; As the Matter declares, verſe 1, &c. A Pſalme, compoſed in Meetre, And A Song, to be ſung or tuned with voice. Penman of it, was David: Time when, and Occaſion whereupon David wrote it, is not diſtinctly deſcribed. But Expoſitors r, obſerving well the Subject-matter of the Pſalme, do generally judge; That this Pſalme was Penned, after by Prayer in an extream Drought they had obtained a ſeaſonable refreſhing Rain, to make the dry and barren Land fruitful, See verſe 8. to the end. Probably (as ſome s think) it was written after that three years Famine in Iſrael, 2 Sam. 21. 1. For, in the fourth year David, hanging up ſeven of Sauls ſons, obtained rain, 2 Sam. 21. 6, 9, 10, 14. Alſo in the ſame year David numbred the people, which brought three dayes Peſtilence, 2 Sam. 14. 15, &c. After which on the fourth day God being appeaſed, ſhowes David the place where he would have his Temple built, viz. on the Threſhing-floore of Araunah the Jebuſite, 2 Sam. 24. 18, &c. 1 Chron. 21. 18. and 2 Chron. 3. 1. Therefore in this year after God had refreſhed the Land with Rain, had ſhow'd David the place for his Temple, and had teſtified his hearing of his Prayers and accepting of his Sacrifice by fire ſent down from Heaven, 2 Sam. 24. 25, &c. 1 Chron. 21. 26. David ſeems to have written this Gratulatory and Euchariſtical Pſalme. And about the ſame time Pſal. 67. And ſome t think it was written in all the peoples words, and publickly ſung before the Ark then in the Tower of David in Mount Sion, for celebrating this great benefit of God to Iſrael. That which is added to the Title by the Vulgar Latin Verſion over and above what is in the Hebrew (viz. A Song of Jeremiah and Ezekiel to the people of Tranſmigration, when they began to go out,) is Spurious: Being not only repugnant to the Hebrew Original, and the Greek Verſion of the LXXII and other Ancient Verſions, but alſo to the truth it ſelf.

§. IV. The Scope.

The Scope intended in this Pſalme, is; In the name of David (now in Araunahs Threſhing-floore) and of the Church, verſe 1. thankfully to profeſſe and declare, 1. That publick Praiſe waited for God in Sion, when there ſhould be opportunity of performance; 2. That there the Vow ſhould be performed to him, which was made when Jeruſalem was now in danger of being ſmitten by the Angel with the Peſtilence; 3. And that all fleſh ſhould come to him that heareth Prayer, in his Houſe of Prayer, when it ſhould be erected in the place which God had now appointed for it. And all this, Becauſe; The LORD Was now Reconciled to David and to the People: Had Reſtored and Eſtabliſhed the publick ſtate of the Common-wealth, lately diſturbed by ſin: And Had comfortably changed their drought and famine into abundance of plenty.

§. V. The Analyſis, or Principal parts.

The Title declares, 1. The Direction of this Pſalme in regard of the Muſick of it. 2. The Denomination of it; A Pſalme, A Song. 3. The Penman of it; David

The Pſalme it ſelf contains, 1 A Profeſſion of Thankfulneſs to God. 2 The grounds thereof.

I. A Profeſſion of Thankfulneſs to God. David, Though the LORD had anſwered him in the threſhing-floor of Ornan the Jebuſite, yet was ſo afraid becauſe of the ſword of the Angel of the LORD, that he could not at that preſent go, either to the Ark of the LORD, in Mount-Sion 2 *Sam.*6.17. or to the Altar of Burnt-offering or Tabernacle then both of them at Gibeon, 2 Chro 21.28,29,30. 2 *Chron.*1.3. But hee, being at the threſhing-floor of Ornan, Profeſſed; 1. That, Praiſe was due to God from, and in Sion: aſſoon as he durſt go thither, &c. Praiſe ſilently-waited for God in Sion. 2. That, the Vow (made when the Peſtilence prevailed, and now Jeruſalem was endangered) ſhould be performed to God before the Ark, *ver.*1. 3. That, All fleſh (not only the Jews, but all the Gentiles aſarre whom God ſhould call, Acts 2. 39.) ſhould come to him that heares Prayer, to worſhip God in his Houſe of Prayer, *Iſa.*56,7. Mark 11.17. for which Houſe God had now pointed out the place to David, *ver.*2.

II. The Grounds or Reaſons of this Profeſſion of Thankfulneſſe are drawn from the LORD's great mercies expreſſed towards David and Iſrael in times of neceſſity and great diſtreſs, viz. Theſe three mercies. 1. Gods Reconciling and receiving again to favour, both David and Iſrael, notwithſtanding their ſinnes that had provoked him. Here, 1. David confeſſeth his ſins. Words of iniquities. (i.e. Things or Matters of iniquities, as the Hebrew phraſe often imports) have prevailed againſt mee. What were theſe? Anſw. Partly, His neglect of doing Juſtice on Sauls bloody houſe for ſlaying the Gibeonites contrary to Iſraels Covenant with them, 2 Sam. 21. 1, *&c. with Joſh.*9.3,16,17. Partly, his numbring the people, 2 Sam. 24. For both which offences of David, the people were alſo Puniſhed, as being in ſome ſenſe Partners therein, 2 *Sam.*24.1. 1 Chron. 21.1. 2. David declares Gods Reconcilement to himſelf, and to the People, which God teſtified, (1) In Remitting, or covering their Treſpaſſes or Prevarications, *ver.*3. (2) In Preſerving them ſo from Famine and Peſtilence, that they had the happineſs to be choſen and brought near unto God to dwell in his Courts, and to be ſatisfied with the ſpiritual refreſhments of his holy Temple. Thus they had ſweet Communion with God in his Ordinances, *verſ.*4. (3) In anſwering them terrible things in righteouſneſſe, viz. Such as theſe. That Juſtice was not inflicted on Saul's bloody houſe, which occaſioned the three years famine, 2 *Sam.*21,1,2,3. &c. That three ſuch ſad Judgements Famine, Sword and Peſtilence were propoſed to Davids choice, 2 *Sam.*24. That in Ornan's threſhing-floore the deſtroying Angel appeared ſo terribly to him. Theſe were terrible Anſwers from God, yet all in Righteouſneſſe. This is Amplified by certain ſuitable Epithets given unto God, viz. The God of their Salvation, the Hope of all farre and near, by Land or Sea, ver. 5. II. Gods compoſing, quieting and eſtabliſhing in Tranquillity the Common-wealth diſturbed by their ſinnes. This is laid down in metaphorical expreſſions, alluding to the works of the Creation, viz. 1. His ſtabliſhing the Mountains by his Power, verſe 6. That is, David's Kingdom, or the Parts of his Kingdom over Judah and Iſrael. Called, Mountains. So *Pſal.*30.7. 2. His calming and quieting the noiſe of ſeas and waves: viz. Of the multitude or tumult of the people: Occaſioned, through the Famine, the executing of Saul's ſons, the deſtruction of 70000 by the Peſtilence, *&c. verſ.*7. 3. His making the out-goings of Morning and Evening to rejoyce. That is; Either, Man's going forth in the Morning to his labour, and wilde-beaſts going forth in the Evening to their prey, Pſal. 104. 20,21, &c. All which rejoyce in the Reſtauration of the Land. Or; from Sunriſing to Sunſetting, from Eaſt to Weſt the whole Kingdom of David is made to rejoyce through Gods favours thereunto. All theſe are amplified by the effect of fear in all the inhabitants round about, at theſe Tokens of Gods favour to Iſrael, ver. 8. III. Gods ſending fruitful Rain after drought, and ſo changing the ſad three years Famine into abundance of plenty. And this is elegantly deſcribed by Degrees, viz. God did, 1. Prepare the Land for receiving of Seed, by ſending a plentiful Rain upon the Earth, *ver.*9. 2. Moiſten, ſoften and ſettle the clods and furrowes, ſo as to cloſe with the Seed, when it was now ſowen, that it might bud and ſpring, *ver.*10. 3. Refreſh the corn with the latter Rain, crowning the year with his Goodneſs, &c. *verſ.*11. 4. Beſtow a ſweet fruit of all his ſeaſonable rain, both on the Paſtures and Hills, flouriſhing with Graſs, ſo that they were clad with flocks; And on the Valleys, ſo that they are covered with corne. Where upon they are ſaid to ſhout and ſing, through fruitfulneſſe, as formerly they ſeemed to mourn through barrenneſſe, *Metaph. Proſopop. ver.*12,13.

I. For his terrible works in bringing Israel out of Egypt thorow the Red-Sea and Jordan, verse 5, 6, 7. II. For Gods preserving of Israel in many deep distresses, and at last bringing them into a well-watred and wealthy place, ver. 8. to 13. III. For Gods hearing and helping the Psalmist in his great trouble and distress, ver. 13. to the end.

§. II. The Version out of the Hebrew.

To-the-Master--of-the-Musick, A Song, A Psalme.

I.

1. O All the Earth shout-yee to God.
2. Yee his Name's Glory sing:
O put yee Glory to his laud.
3. Say yee to God this thing;
How dreadful in thy works art thou!
Through a greatness of thy strength
To thee b stoop-feynedly and bow
Shall all thy foes at length.

§. III. The Kinde, Penman, and Occasion, &c.

This for Kind, is a gratulatory, thanksgiving, or Praising Psalm. Penman of it is not expressed expreſſed in the Title. Some are of opinion it was not penned by David; 1. Partly, becauſe its penned in phraſes plural: So Ezra [s]. 2. Partly, becauſe the Titles of Pſalmes before and after it expreſs Davids Name, but the Title of this Pſalme expreſſes it not; So Sim. de Muis [t]. But neither of theſe Reaſons are cogent. Not the former; becauſe ſometimes Davids Pſalmes are in phraſe of the plural number, as Pſal. 78. and all the latter part of the Pſalme from verſ. 13. to the end (which ſeems to have given the particular Occaſion of writing this Pſalme) is laid down in phraſes of the ſingular number. Not the latter; For, ſomtimes Pſalmes penned by David ſtand together, in ſome of which Davids name is not expreſſed as in the other. For, David Penned the Second Pſalme, Act. 4 25. wherein his name is not inſerted or prefixed in any Title, as it is in Pſal. 3. and 4. &c. immediately following, which were alſo penned by him. And Pſal. 67. next following, hath not Davids name expreſſed. Others [u] therefore more probably concludc from the matter of the Pſalme. ver. 13. to the end. That David penned this Pſalme upon ſome eminent deliverance vouchſafed him out of ſome great diſtreſs. Occaſion of this Pſalme is not particularly ſignified to us here. Hence learned men have various Apprehenſions; Some [x] That it was penned after the Jewes return out of Babylon, and upon that Occaſion: becauſe this great deliverance is moſt ſuitable to that from Red-Sea and Jordan, verſ. 5. and ſeems to be deſcribed in verſ. 10.11,12. Some, That it was written by David rather, and probably upon occaſion of Iſraels deliverance from the Philiſtines Tyranny, 2 Sam. 8. and from his own perſecutions. But, foraſmuch as the Subject-matter of the Pſalme doth in a ſpecial manner run upon a particular perſonal deliverance, ver. 13. to the end: and that ſo eminent a deliverance, that it did bring into the Pſalmiſts memory afreſh thoſe great deliverances of Iſrael thorough the Red-Sea and Jordan and that paſſage in ver. 10.11. 12. may intend the times of their being in the wilderneſs, and after under the Judges. Therefore, Hence ſome [y] think it was Penned by David, either in that famous and memorable deliverance of his from the Gyant Iſhbi-benob, who being girded with a new ſword thought to have ſlain David, 2 Sam. 21.15,16,17. Or, from the Peſtilence, 2 Sam. 24.15,16.17. And perhaps Pſal. 65.66. and 67. were written about the ſame time. Or, it may be Pſal. 66. was penned after Pſal. 108.

§. IV. The Scope.

The Pſalmiſts Scope in this Pſalme, is; 1. To render Praiſe and Thanks to God, by Performance of his Vowes, Sacrifices, Narrations of Gods Actions, &c. for his ſingular mercy to him in his extream diſtreſs, hearing his prayer, and helping him, ver. 13. to the end. Which mercy was ſo renowned, that it cauſed him thankfully to call to minde the great favours of God to his people of old in bringing them thorough the Red-Sea and Jordan: and after their much diſtreſs in the wilderneſs, and in dayes of Judges, &c. diſpoſing them into a fruitful place, verſe 4,5,6,10,11. And therefore hereupon provokes all the people of Iſrael to praiſe the Lord with him.

§. V. The Analyſis, or Principal Parts.

The Title or Inſcription of this Pſalme ſets forth, 1. The Direction of it as to the Muſick, To the Maſter-Muſician. 2. The Denominations of it; A Song. A Pſalme.

The Pſalme it ſelf contains Praiſes and Thankſgivings to God for three ſorts of eminent mercies in three ſeveral times, viz.

I. Thanksgivings for Gods redeeming of Iſrael out of Egypt. Here the Pſalmiſt elegantly exhorts all the people of Iſrael, I. To celebrate Gods Praiſes; in three Hortatory expreſſions, verſe 1, 2. II. To confeſs unto God theſe three things, viz. 1. The dreadfulneſſe of his Works. 2. The Greatneſſe of his Power, through which his very foes are brought feignedly to ſubmit to him, verſe 3. 3. That all the Earth have cauſe to bow and ſing-praiſe unto him, ver 4. III. To commemorate with all thankfulneſs Gods wonderful delivetance of Iſrael out of Egypt in dayes of Moſes. Here, 1. All are exhorted to view Gods Works. 2. His Works towards ſons of

Adam,

Adam, especially the Israelites are declared to be dreadful, vers. 5. 3. Of these his dreadful works he gives two illustrious instances, viz. His turning the Red-Sea to dry Land for Israel to pass thorough. And his cutting off the River Jordan, that they passed over the Channel on foot. Both which are Amplified by their effect upon Israel; They thereupon did there rejoyce in God (See Exod. 15. and Josh. 4.) who had wrought these wonders for them, verse 6. 4. The powerful and constant Dominion of God over all the World, even over the rebellious, is notably described, ver. 7.

II. Thanksgivings for Gods Preservation of Israel in many deep distresses and afflictions, and bringing them at last out into a wealthy or fruitful well-watred place. Here we have, 1. An Exhortation of the People Israel, To bless the LORD, and to make the voice of his Praise to be heard, verse 8. II. The Grounds or Reasons why they should so do, viz. 1 Because, God preserved their soul in life, and their foot from moving in greatest extremities. This seems to point at greater distresses then they endured in Egypt, ver. 9. 2. Because, the LORD brought them into many great and sore distresses (described here elegantly by sundry Metaphors, and that gradually. As, (1) He proov'd and tried them as Silver is tried, ver. 10. (2) He brought them into the Net, &c. vers. 11. (3) He caused men to ride over their Head. (4) He brought them into Fire and Waters:) And yet after all this brought them out into a watred place, into a fruitful place, vers. 12. By all which Afflictions, Wee are not, in my judgement, to understand, Either, their Afflictions in Egypt, as some: for, then here should be a Repetition of Egypts Affliction pointed at before in vers 5. Or much lesse their Afflictions long after in Babylon, as others: for the Reasons formerly offered in §. 3. But rather, All the Afflictions they endured in the Wilderness for fourty years together, as others: For, this comes in order after their Egyptian servitude. And when they came out of the Wilderness into Canaan, they were brought out into a watred-place, into a fruitful land. And if to these, Their Afflictions in times of the Judges be added, to bring down the History of their distresses to the very dayes of David; I should not gain-say, for I see no inconvenience therein.

III. Thanksgivings for David's special and particular deliverance in his extream distress, of like nature to these here forementioned, and which gave special Occasion to the Penning of this Psalme, ver. 13. to the end. Here, 1. David professeth his readiness and resolvedness to pay his Vowes to God, which he made in his distress: and specially in offering Sacrifices unto him, ver. 13, 14, 15. 2. He Expounds the Cause of this his paying of Vowes, &c. inviting all them that feare God to hearken thereunto, viz. Gods hearing of his Prayer, when he called unto him, with an heart not seeing iniquity to regard or approve of it: which otherwise God would not have heard, ver 16, 17, 18, 19. 3. He Concludes all with blessing God, that turned not away his Prayer from God, nor Gods mercy from him, vers. 20.

Psalme LXVII.

§. I. The Summary Contents.

The Psalmist, I. Prayeth for Gods Favour, Blessing, and the Shine of his Countenance, in order to the Enlargement of his Kingdom in Christ, ver. 1, 2. II. Promiseth eminent Praise hereupon unto God, for the fruits and effects of these desired mercies, viz. 1. Spiritual, vers. 3, 4. 2. Corporal or Temporal, verse 5. 6, 7.

§. II. The Version out of the Hebrew.

To the Master-Musician on Neginoth, A Psalme, A Song.

1. LEt God to us be gracious,
And let him bless us now:
Hee cause his a face to shine on us. Selah.
2. That they thy way may know
In Earth: Thy saving health abroad
Among the Heathens all.
3. Thee Peoples shall confess, O God:
Thee b praise all Peoples shall.
4. The Nations shall-gladness-show;
Yea they shall-shout-for-mirth,
For, Peoples c justly judge shalt thou
And d guide the folk on Earth. Selah.
5. Thee

a Heb. faces to shine with us.

b Heb. confess

c Heb. with righteousness righteousness, or, uprightness.

d Heb. the Nations on earth thou shalt guide them.

5. Thee Peoples ſhall confeſs, O God:
e All folk ſhall thee confeſs.
6. The Earth doth give her fruitful-bud:
Us God, our God ſhall bleſs.

7. Us bleſs ſhall God on whom we call:
Likewiſe (when this they hear)
The Earth's remoteſt-confines all Shall him devoutly fear.

e Heb. Peoples all of them.

§. III. The Kinde, Penman, and Occaſion.

This Short but Sweet Pſalme is laid down in way of a Prayer, and that in the Name of Gods Church and People: As the Matter and Phraſes thereof (being in the plural number) do evince. Some [f] alſo conceive, that a great part of it is Prophetical, touching Chriſt, the Propagation of his Church among the Gentiles, and his Kingdom. Penman of it, ſome conceive, to be David. Moſt, that I have ſeen, are ſilent herein. There's no mention of the Penman in the Title: nor any certain grounnd of conjecture from the Pſalme it ſelf. Occaſion, ſome think to be [g] the Return of the Captives from Babylon, when the Lord bleſſed the Land of Canaan with increaſe. But I ſee little or nothing at all to perſwade hereunto. Some [h] think it was penned by David, upon Occaſion of Davids avenging the ſin of Saul againſt the Gibeonites, by executing ſeven of Sauls ſonnes, when God after the three years Famine had ſent a plentiful Rain upon the Land to make it fruitful, 2 Sam. 21. 1, 10, 14. And when after the three dayes Peſtilence for Davids numbring the people, God was again reconciled to David, 2 Sam. 24. 1, 15, 17. And the Pſalme is very applicable to that Hiſtory. But [i] many others rather think it was Penned upon ſome other Occaſion of more General and Common Concernment to the whole Church, An eminent Reſpect being therein (by a Prophetical Inſpiration) had unto Chriſt, his Church and Kingdom here deſired, to be Propagated among all Nations. And that this Prophetical Prayer was to be often uſed by the Church in order to this excellent ſpiritual end. The very current of the Pſalme notably lead us to this laſt Interpretation.

§. IV. The Scope.

The Scope intended in this Prophetical Prayer, or Praying Prophecy, is; To beg the Shine of Gods Face and Favour on the Church ſo farre, That his Way (eſpecially his way of Goſpel-Adminiſtration) may be known upon Earth, and his Salvation (viz. Chriſt called His Salvation, Luke 2. 30.) among all the Heathens, verſ. 1, 2. Hereupon Peoples and Nations ſhall confeſs and praiſe the LORD, both for his ſpiritual and corporal bleſſings in Chriſt, verſ. 3, &c. All Good is here begged of God: and all Praiſe and Glory is, as it were, here Promiſed unto God [k].

k Guil. Ameſ. in Pſ. 67.

§. V. The Analyſis, or Principal Parts.

The Title ſets forth, 1. The Direction of this Pſalme as to the Muſick of it; To the Maſter-Muſician on Neginoth, i.e. ſtringed-Inſtruments to be ſtruck with the Hand, as the Harp, &c. 2. The Denominations of it; A Pſalme, A Song.

The Pſalme it ſelf contains A Prophetical Prayer, wherein

I. The Choiceſt Good is Petitioned from God, and that Gradually, viz. 1. The Fountain of all Good, Gods Grace or Gratuitous Favour. 2. The Effect of Gods Favour; His Benediction. 3. The Manifeſtation and actual Application of both to us, in the Shine of his Face on us, verſ. 1. 4. The End why Gods Favour, Benediction, and the Manifeſtation thereof is thus deſired, viz. (1) Partly, That in the Earth (in the Land of Canaan, or in the World) they may know Gods Way: that is, His Adminiſtration in general: and his Goſpel-Adminiſtration in ſpecial, Acts 18. 25, 26. (2) Partly, That His Salvation, (that is, His Chriſt, Luke 2. 30.) may be known among all the Gentiles. This Gods great Gift, Bleſſing, Mercy, ver. 2.

II. Eminent Praiſe and Glory hereupon is in a ſort Promiſed to God; 1. For the ſpiritual fruits or effects of theſe Mercies. Here note, 1. The Perſons that ſhall praiſe and glorifie God (1) Jewes; Peoples, Peoples all of them. (2) Gentiles; The Nations. 2. The Expreſſions of their Praiſe; Confeſſing God, Rejoycing, Shouting. 3. The ſpiritual effects or fruits of former Mercies, viz.

(1) Judging

(1) Judging the peoples in Righteousnes. (2) Guiding the Nations on the Earth. Sweet effects of Christs Prophecy and Kingdom to both Jews and Gentiles, ver. 3,4. II. For the Corporal or Temporal effects of the said mercies. Here again note; 1. The persons praising God; Peoples, All the Peoples. 2. The expression or signification thereof; Confessing God, which is emphatically doubled, ver. 5. 3. The Corporal fruits themselves; (1) The Earths fruitfulnesse. (2) Our God's Benediction of us. This is pathetically ingeminated. 4. This is amplified by the Result thereof among all the Nations far and near; and all the ends of the Earth shall fear him, ver. 6,7.

Psalme LXVIII.

§. I. The Summary Contents.

David, in this choice Prophetical Psalme, I. Recites the Prayer used at the Removing of the Ark, setting forth Gods Magnificence against his Enemies, but for the Righteous, ver. 1,2,3. II. Exhorts to the high-praises of God, 1. For his more General Acts of providence, ver. 4. to 14. For his more special favours to Israel; Among which CHRIST's Ascending into Heaven, and leading Captivity Captive is very eminent, ver. 14. to 19. III. Blesseth God for his many mercies, ver. 19. to 28. IV. Prayes the LORD, 1. To stablish and perfect mercies received, ver. 28,29. 2. To rebuke Davids hypocritical enemies. 3. To scatter them that delight in war, ver. 29, 30, 31. V. Exhorts the Gentiles upon their conversion (here propheeyed) to praise the LORD, ver. 32. to the end.

§. II. The Version out of the Hebrew.

To-the-Master--of-the-Musick, A Psalme, A Song of David.

I.

1. LEt God arise, His enemies
Let-them-dispersed-bee:
Let them that him do hate likewise
Fayte a from his presence flee.
2. b Drive them, as smoak is driv'n-away;
As wax melts c at the fire,
So let the wicked d quite-decay
From God's face full of ire.

3. But let the just joy, mirth-expresse
Before the e face of God,
And let them joy with gladsomnes.
4. To God sing, f His Name laud;
For him that doth in Desarts ride
g An-high-way-do-yee-place:
In JAH his name so magnifide,
Exult before his h face.

5. A Father of the fatherless,
And Judge of Widows cause;
In Mansion of his Holiness
Is God by purest Lawes.
6. God sears the desolate in house,
Those in Chaines that are bound Brings-forth: But men rebellious
Inhabit i barren-ground.

II.

7. O God, before thy Peoples k face
When-thou-forth-on-didst-go: (Iah.
When thou didst march in Desart-place. Se-

Did drop before the l face of God;
This Sinai (stablish'd well,
Yet quak'd) before the m face of God,
The God of Israel.

9. O God, n thou all abroad-hast-shed
The plentifullest Rain:
Thine Heritage, o ev'n-wearied,
Thou didst confirm again.
10. Thy company shall dwell thereon:
In thy goodnesse and care
Still for-the-poor-afflicted-one,
O God, thou-shalt-prepare.

11. The Lord shall from his Princely Seat
Give forth the holy Speech, p To-those-that to the Army great Shall gladsome-tidings-preach.
12. The Armies Kings shall flee-amain,

15. As Baſhan Mount, ſo doth appear
That Mount which God doth cherish:
An hilly Mountain, ſtately, faire,
As Baſhan Mount doth flouriſh.
16. Why leap ye then O Mountains high?
God did deſire this Hill
For his abode: t Eternally
Yea here the LORD will dwell.

17. Gods Chariot's u Angels numberleſs,
With them the Lord is nigh,
As in Mount Sinai's Holy-place.
18. Thou didſt aſcend on high,
Didſt Captive-lead Captivity;
And, that JAH God might dwell
With them, didſt gifts receive for men,
Yea for thoſe that-rebell.

IV.

19. The Lord be bleſt, which day by day
Doth us with mercy load,

21. But God ſhall wound his enemies head,
His hairy Scalp likewiſe,
That-ſtill-walks-on devoid of dread
In his z impieties.
22. From Baſhan I-will-bring-again,
The Lord did plainly ſay;
My-people I-will-bring--again
From bottomes of the Sea.

23. That-thou-maiſt-dip thy foot in blood, Tongue of thy Dogs likewiſe
May lick the blood-of-each-of-them,
That are thine enemies.
24. O God, they ſaw, contemplating
Thy goings full of Glory:
Thy goings of my God, my King,
Within the Sanctuary.

25. Firſt-went the Singers; After, thoſe-

Psalme full of the Mysteries both of the Law, and of the Gospel. This is evident in the very Matter of it: That Those are handled herein Historically, These Prophetically. As herein is Recorded, Israels coming out of Egypt, passing through the Wilderness, Possessing the Land of Canaan, Condition in time of Judges and dayes of David, &c. ver. 7. to 18. So herein is foretold, Christs ascending into Heaven, Captivating our Captivity, Giving gifts to men, &c. verse 18. compared with Ephes. 4. 8. I. The Nature or Kinde therefore of this Psalme is Mixt, It being Partly Laudatory, Partly Petitory, Partly Prophetical, Partly Hortatory. Herein are evidently interwoven, Petition and Gratulation, Doctrine and Exhortation, History and Prophecy. And [k] although all do not agree about the Argument or Subject-Matter of this Psalme, which A. Ezra calls A very excellent Psalme; Some taking it to be wholly Mystical, and to refer only to Christ and his Church, as Augustine; Others counting it in every part to bear two senses, One Historical touching things done in Davids time, The other Anagogical accommodated to the Messiah and his Kingdom: yet I shall consider it and explicate it as of a Mixt Nature, the other two wayes seeming neither Apposite, Solid, nor Safe, in sundry particulars. II. The Penman of this Psalme was David, as the Title intimates. III. The Occasion of Davids writing it, was, by the consent of most Interpreters, Some Eminent Victory obtained over his and Israels enemies; Hence some [l] count it, A Victorial Triumphant Psalme, A Military Psalme sung by Souldiers after some Eminent Victory. But what Victory particularly occasioned it, is not so agreed upon. 1. Some refer it to Israels Victory over the Egyptians at the Red-Sea. But that cannot be, because the Ark of God (which this Psalme points at, verse 1. with Numb. 10. 35.) was not then framed. 2. Sundry, Especially of the Jewish Writers, as Kimchi, &c. understand here the Victory over the Assyrians and King Sennacherib in dayes of King Hezekiah, which David foretold by a Prophetical Spirit. Antonius Agellius gives four Arguments for confirmation hereof, which that learned Rivet refutes and deservedly rejects [m]. 3. Some think David wrote this Psalme upon Occasion of some Eminent and Difficult Expedition of his against his and Gods Enemies, as that in 2 Sam. 21. 15. to the end, against the Philistines; wherein David had a special Deliverance, verse 16, 17. in which expedition David assures himself aforehand of desired Successe and Victory, both from the assistant Power and presence of the Mighty God, whereof the Ark among them was a Token, and from Israels constant experiences of like nature. And Simeon de Muis [n] embraces this Opinion; Partly, because the Tenor and Context of the Psalme, carried much in a Petitory way for future Victory, &c. as verse 1, 2, 3. seems to import so much. Partly, because its evident by verse 16, 17. that the passages giving Occasion to this Psalme, fell out before Mount Sion was chosen by God and Consecrated. 4. But others [o] for the most part conceive the Occasion of this Psalme to be a Complexive series, rank, or heap of Victories obtained by David against his and Gods enemies, especially the Philistines, from Nilus to Euphrates, recorded in 2 Sam. 5. and 2 Sam. 8. and 1 Chron. 18. both before and after David had brought up the Ark of God into Sion, into the place prepared for it, 2 Sam. 6. 12, &c Psal. 68. 1, 2, 3. Numb. 10. 3. in which Victories, Triumphs, and Affaires of his he intermixes The Victories and Triumphs of Christ over all our Spiritual enemies, in his Glorious Ascension, &c. verse 18. compared with Ephes. 4. 8. Forasmuch as David in his Kingdom and Victories, as in other respects, was an eminent Type of Christ who was to descend of him according to the flesh. Hereupon it is conceived by some [p], That David, First enterprizing the Lords Battels at his Command against those enemies, Penned Psal. 2. Having overcome those enemies he wrote Psal. 45. and 68. as may be collected from Psal. 47. 5. and Psal. 68. 18. Last of all, having compleated his Victories, he Penned, Psal. 18. and Psal. 118. And unto this fourth and last interpretation my judgement [q] most inclines; (1) Because, The very beginning of this Psalme, verse 1, 2, 3. is the Prayer which Moses appointed to be used before the Ark of God, going before Israel in the Wilderness to find out a resting place for them, them, Numb. 10. 33. 34, 45, 36. In which words Respect was had not only to the Ark, but especially to Christ the Antitype of the Ark, that Angel of the Covenant which went before them. (2) Because, These Histories and this Psalme do most aptly agree: as is evident in the course and tenour of the Psalme. (3) Because, Mount Sion, here highly magnified, vers. 15, 16. was before this Occasion consecrated, 2 Sam. 6. 12, &c. (4) Because, herein is a direct Prophecy of Christs Victories and Triumphs over his and our Enemies, Effected and Evidenced by his glorious Ascension into Heaven, vers. 18. compared with Eph. 4. 8.

§. IV. The Scope.

Davids Scope intended in this Mixt Psalme, is; To celebrate and magnifie God, for his singular Presence in, and Protection of his Church, against all his and her Enemies: both temporal Enemies, against whom he declared his Presence and Protection to his Church by a visible Token thereof; His Ark; and spiritual Enemies, against whom he demonstrated his Presence, and Protection to his Church, by the Antitype of that Ark, Christ Incarnate, Ascending, &c. Gods Presence being still every way, both temporally and spiritually, Conservative to his Church, and Destructive to her Enemies. And therefore in Interpreting this Psalme, we must first finde out the sense Literally and Historically, how it intended Davids Affaires; Then we must consider it Mystically and Prophetically, as in some passages it chiefly intended Christ and his Affaires.

§. V. The Analysis, or Pincipal Parts.

The Inscription denotes, 1. The Direction of the Psalme as to the Musick. 2. The Denominations of it; A Psalme, A Song. The reason of these two Denominations see on Psal. 30. §. 5. 3. The Penman of this Psalme; David.

The Psalme it self contains,

I. An Exordium or Entrance into the Psalme, ver. 1, 2, 3. All the Verbs here in the Hebrew are of the future tense 1; which some render by the future tense also, as if this were a Prophecy or Prediction; Some in the Present tense, as if it were a Common Place touching the Effects of Gods Presence against his Enemies, &c. Some, in the Optative Mood, as if it were a Petition, that God would rise, &c. It may be accounted a kinde of Doctrinal and Prophetical Petition. The words are borrowed from Moses his Forme at the Removing of the Ark, Numb. 10. 35. Wherein are, I. A Proposition or Declaration of Gods Magnificence against his Enemies, signified by the Ark, that glorious Token of his Presence. Herein are declared, 1. The Facility of Gods taking vengeance of them, and his Enemies Imbecillity to resist; If God do but rise, &c. they vanish, fall, &c. They are set forth by three names, His Enemies, His Haters, The Wicked. 2. The severity or grievousness of their punishment, laid down in a kinde of Gradation; (1) They shall be dispersed, as when the Ranks of an Army are broken; (2) They shall flie, as the dispersed forces that are pursued; (3) They shall perish at the Presence of God, as those that are overtaken and slain. II. The Illustration of this Declaration of Gods Power and his Enemies weaknesse, 1. Partly, by a twofold elegant Similitude, viz. (1) Of Smoak, easily dispelled. (2) Of Wax, speedily melted, ver. 1, 2. 2. Partly, by an Antithesis of the contrary joy and gladness of the Righteous, set forth in foure Expressions emphatically, and opposed to the destruction of the wicked, ver. 3. By all which its evident, That Gods Presence is most destructive to his enemies, most salvifical to his Church and People.

1 And. Rivet. Com. ad Psal. 68 verse 1, &c.

II. A Pathetical Exhortation or Hortatory Incitation hereupon, unto the triumphant celebration of the LORD with high Praises and Exaltations. Here note, 1. The Hortatory Proposition. Wherein are, 1. The Actions required, or exhorted to, viz. Singing. Singing-Psalmes. Making an Highway for him, (viz. prepare his way, spread boughs, brancher, &c. in it as before a Conquerour coming) and Exulting. 2. The Object to whom they are to be performed, viz. To God. To Him that rides in Deserts. To JAH, verse 4. II. The Arguments urging unto these Praises of God, are drawn; First, From Gods more General and Common Acts of Providence, 1. To the Fatherless. 2. To the Widowes, vers. 5. 3. To the Solitary. 4. To the Captives. Which is Amplified by the contrary state of the rebellious, verse 6. Secondly, From Gods more Special and peculiar Providences towards his own people Israel, especially in four observable Intervals or Periods of time that went over them, viz. 1. When they came out of Egypt, and passed through the Wilderness Wildernesse God marching before them: Then, at Gods presence, Earth quaked, Heavens dropped, Mount Sinai was moved, ver.7.8. 2. When they were newly possessed of, and planted in the Land of Canaan: The Lord refreshed the Land for their sakes with a Rain of liberalities, ver 9,10. 3. In the troublesome, unsettled, and distracted times of the Judges, but specially in the dayes of Barak and Deborah: The Lord gave the word, viz. The tidings or Matter of rejoycing and triumphing because of Victories,) a great Army publishing it. Kings of the enemies Armies flying speedily, and women who staid at home dividing the spoile, ver. 11,12. 4. In the more composed, settled, and happy dayes of King David, ver. 13. to 19. Here, in this Motive or Argument inciting to the praises of God, note; (1) The Preface or Introduction to it, In an Antithesis or Opposition of the better dayes of David, to those three Periods foregoing. Though ye have lien among the Pots, viz. blacked, sullied, &c. with afflictions; In Egypt, Wilderness, Canaan, and in dayes of Judges: Yet henceforward ye shall be as Doves wings and feathers of Silver and Gold colour, viz. Ye shall scape as a Dove out of former distresses, and be partakers of a more beauteous, joyous, prosperous condition under the Government of David, ver. 13. (2) The Particular Arguments hereupon provoking Israel to the praises of God, viz. 1. Gods victoriousness over his enemies, turning his peoples Adversity into Prosperity, as white as Snow in Salmon, ver. 14. 2. The Eminency and Fertility of Mount Sion, Gods peculiar Hill, especially of his Church shadowed out by it, ver. 15. 3. The LORD's constant Residence in, and all-sufficient Protection of his own Hill Mount Sion, of his own Church, with his innumerable Chariots of Angels, himself as King and General being in midst of them, as once at Mount Sinai, *ver.*16,17. 4. Gods triumph over all his and his Churches enemies, having its chief accomplishment in JESUS CHRIST; Ascending on high, viz. into Heaven it self: Captivating Captivity it self, all our Spiritual enemies that had captivated us: Receiving gifts for men; yea, for the rebellious, that JAH God might dwell among them. A clear Prophecy of Christ. Compare Ephes. 4.8. with ver. 18.

III. A grateful exultation in God, and blessing of him, is concluded upon from all the former Considerations: And is further urged by easing Arguments of like Nature. As. 1. Gods daily loading us with blessings. 2. Gods wonderful Salvations and Deliverances of his people from most desperate straits, yea even from jawes of Death. Hence that Phrase Emphatically; And unto JEHOVIH *the Lord the issues of Death, ver.*19,20. 3. Gods opposite Justice and Severity threatned against his enemies, and against every impenitent offendor: *He will wound their head and hairy Scalp, ver.*21. 4. Israel's encouragement, from former eminent Victories and Deliverances vouchsafed, according to Gods saying or Promise from Og and the Princes of Basan, and from the Depths of the Red-Sea, that in like straits and dangers they shall have like Victories and Deliverances. These Victories and Deliverances are further illustrated, (1) Partly, by the great slaughter of the enemies, so filling all with blood, that his peoples feet, and the tongue of their Dogs may be dipped therein, ver. 22,23. (2) Partly, by Gods being eminently seen and acknowledged of his people in his goings in holinesse, or in the holy-place the Sanctuary, i. e. in his Maghifical works for his people against their enemies, or in his Solemn presence with them in his Sanctuary, ver. 24. (3) Partly, by the Solemn Prayses hereupon returned to God, both with Vocal and Instrumental Musick by the Singers and Players of Israel observing these Goings, these Victorious Acts of God, *ver.*25. (4) Partly, by the harmonious consent and applause of all from the Fountain of Israel, i. e. of all Israelites by natural descent, derived from one and the same Fountain or Stock. All these in their solemn Congregations are incited to blesse God for former Famous Victories, &c. And they are after particularly mentioned by distribution: Two of the neareſt Tribes, Benjamin and Judah; Two of the remotest, Zebulun and Naphtali, being Synechdochically put for all the rest of the Tribes far and neer, *ver.*26.27.

IV. An earnest Prayer of David. Wherein note, I. The Petitions presented by him to the LORD, viz. 1. That he [t] having allready commanded his peoples strength, would still strengthen and perfect for them what he had so Victoriously and Gloriously wrought for them, ver. 28. This Petition is urged and Amplified, by the advantage that shall thence ensue, viz. Then for thy Temple to be builded at Jerusalem, shall Kings bring Presents unto thee, that is, David, Solomon, and their Princes. &c. ver. 29. 2. That God would rebuke those his enemies that only hypocritically and feignedly, not heartily submit themselves to David. These enemies he calls, (1) The company of Reeds, or Spear-men: who had not yet laid down their weapons. Their [u] Spears made of Reeds, or made like Reeds. (2) The multitude of the Bulls. Strong and untamed Enemies: especially Rulers. (3) Calves of the people; that is, the bruitish and foolish vulgus, or common-people. All these feynedly submitted themselves to him with pieces of silver: Or, He prayes, They may be so rebuked that thus they may submit themselves. 3. That God would scatter the people that delight in war, ver. 30. II. The effect which David promised himself upon Gods hearing of these his Petitions: Then Ægypt and Æthiopia also shall submit themselves to God. Therefore this will be for his honour to grant these requests: The Gentiles (whereof these were part, *Act.*8. 27, &c. Euseb. l.2.c.16.) shall turn and submit to Christ: A Prophecy of the calling of the *Gentiles, ver.*31.

Rivet. in Comment. ad Psal.* 68.30.

V. Finally, An Hortatory or Monitory Conclusion, by way of Apostrophe to all the Gentiles that should be called and converted to Christ. Herein consider, I. The Exhortation it self. Wherein note, 1. Who are Exhorted. The Kingdomes of the Earth: i. e. Kings and Subjects of the called Gentiles. Metonym. 2. What they are Exhorted to. (1) For Forme or Manner; To sing, To sing Psalmes. (2) For Matter; To ascribe Power. 3. To whom they are to perform these things, viz. To God, To the Lord, To Him that rideth on the Heavens of Heavens of old, verse 32,33, 34. II. The Arguments Enforcing this Exhortation. Which are drawn, 1. From the Majesty of God. Which Majesty of his is described, (1) By his Supream Dominion. He rideth, i.e. He ruleth in, on, or over the Heavens which have been of old. (2) By his terrible Majestick voice, viz. Thunder, &c. ver. 33. 2. From Gods General Providence and Administration over the World, (1) His Excellency, his Illustrious Acts, Victories, and famous Miracles, over Israel, being demonstrated to them. (2) His Power, being evidenced in the Heavens, in the Clouds, to all the World, vers. 34. 3. From Gods special communicating of Himself to his Church. Being terrible out of his Sanctuaries, both his Heavenly and Earthly Sanctuaries: and giving Strength and Power unto his People. All which is Pathetically expressed, (1) Partly, By a sudden Apostrophe or Turning of his speech from men to God; O God, thou art terrible out of, &c. (2) Partly, By an abrupt closing up these Arguments of Gods praise, with a comprehensive expression, referring to all his praise-worthy Excellencies and Acts; Blessed be God, vers. 35.

§. II. The Version out of the Hebrew.

To-the-Master-of-the-Musick, upon Shoshannim, A Psalm of David.

1. DO-thou-mee-save with tender care,
O God, my woes contriv'e:
For, entered the Waters are Ev'n-to the very soule.
2. There [a] where there is no standing fast,
I sink in gulph's deep mud:
I into Deeps of Waters [b] past,
[c] O'reflow mee doth the flood.
3. O I-am-weary [d] with-my-cryes;
Whil'st for my God I waite,
My throat is burnt; faile do mine eyes.
4. Those that mee causeless hate.
Are-moe then haires [e] upon my head;
My [f] false foes strong-are-they Ev'n tearing-mee: Then I restor'd
What I took not away.
5. O God, thou knowest my foolishness:
Likewise conceal'd from thee
[g] Is not my sinful guiltiness.
6. Let them not bashed bee
For mee, O LORD, that waite on thee,
[h] O LORD of Hosts abroad,
Let not thy-Seekers blush for mee,
O Israel's high God.
7. Because, for thee I have [i] sustain'd Reproach and deep disgrace:
Confusion (so am I disdain'd)
Hath-covered [k] my face
8. Unto my brethren, in my wo,
A Stranger I becam:
Unto my Mothers son also
A Forreiner I am.
9. For, of thine House, that doth excell,
The Zeale hath eaten mee:
And their Reproaches on me fell
That-have-reproached-thee.
10. [l] I wept; with Fasting pain'd my Soule:
And

12. Those-that-do-sit within the gate,
Ev'n they against mee speak:
o Heb. drinkers of strong-drink make melodies. viz. of mee.
And o drinkers of strong-drink do prate,
And mee their Musick make.
13. But I, to thee LORD make my prayer
In time of thy good-will:

Of u mercies-dear-in-thee.
17. Hide not x thy countenance likewise
From mee thy servant dear:
Because distress y upon mee lyes,
Make haste, do thou mee hear.

18. Unto my soul do-thou-draw-nigh,
Redeem it quite from woes:
Do thou mee ransome, O most High,
Because of all my foes.
19. Thou my reproach, my shame hast known,
And my dishonour here:
Yea my distressers every-one
Before thee still appear.

20. Reproach hath broke my very heart,
And-sorrowful-I-am,
And look'd for some to moane my smart,
But yet not any came:

22. O let their Table in their view
c Before them be a snare:
And for their Recompences due,
Yea for a trap severe.
c Heb. To. their-faces for a snare.
23. From seeing darkned be their eyes:
And make their loyns still shake.
24. Poure-out d thine ire on them: Likewise Let e thine-hot-wrath them take.
d Heb. thy detesting-ire
e Heb. the burning-wrath of thy nose.
25. Let their f faire Habitation
Be desolate and void:

f Heb. or, castle Palace, &c. faire and orderly built.
26. For, whom thou smit'st; without relief
Him persecute they do:
Unto thy wounded-peoples grief
Hard things they tell also.

27. g To their iniquity abhorr'd
Give thou iniquity:
But enter let them not, O Lord,
Into thine equity.
g Heb. upon or, for.
28. Out of the Book of living-men
Bee they wip'd-out by thee:
And with the righteous-ones again
Let not them written bee.

IV.

29. But h poor and sorrowing am I:
Me up-exalt and raise,
O God, Let thy Salvation high.
h Heb. poore afflicted.
30. God's Name with Song I'le praise:
And him I'le magnify i with laud.
i Heb. with confession.
31. And this k shall please the LORD,
Farre-more then Ox or Bullock-young, k Heb. shall be better to JEHOVAH
l Heb. horning parting-hoof.
l That Horne and Hoof-afford.
32. The meek shall see this, joy shall they:
Yee that seek God with teares,
Your heart likewise shall live alway.
33. Because JEHOVAH heares
The-needy-ones: And hee doth not
His Prisoners contemne.
34. Him praise let Heav'ns, and Earth: The Seas,
And all that creep in them.

35. For, God his Sion deer will save,
And Judah's Cities m reare:
They it for heritage shall have,
And shall inhabit there.
m Heb. will build.
36. Likewise his servants faithful seed
Shall still possesse the same:
And they n therein shall dwell indeed
That love his holy Name.
n Heb. the lovers of his Name shall dwell in it.

§. III. The Kinde, Penman, Occasion, &c.

This Psalme is of Mixt Nature; A Prayer, interwoven with sundry Prophecies. It is, as some have well observed o, near of kinne to Psal. 22. That it is a Prayer, is evident by the whole current of the Psalme; A Prayer of the Psalmist involved in very deep and desperate distresses: That it is also interlaced with sundry Prophecies, is evident by other Scriptures. For, p here are three evident Prophecies of Christ, and so applyed to him in the New Testament; viz. 1. The zeal of thine House hath eaten me up, ver. 9. fulfilled in Christ, when he zealously whipped the buyers and sellers out of

of the Temple, John 2. 17. 2. The reproaches of them that reproached thee, have fallen upon me, verse 9. fulfilled in Christ, Rom. 15. 3. 3. They gave me also Gall for my meat, and in my thirst they gave me Vinegar to drink, verse 21. This was verified in the Psalmist Metaphorically, his Enemies aggravating his afflictions to him, and making them as bitter as gall; but in Christ Literally and Historically, Math. 27. 34. 48. John 19. 28, 29, 30. Again, here is one Prophecy of Judas the Traytor; Let their Habitation be desolate, let there not be an Inhabitant in their Tents, verse 25. applyed to Judas, Act. 1. 20. Further, here is another Prophecy; Let their Table become a snare before them, and for their recompences for a trap. Let their eyes be darkned that they see not, and make their loyns continually to shake, verse 22. 23. And this (as the Apostle shews) is fulfilled upon the unbelieving Jews the Murderers of the Lord Jesus, the wrath of God being come upon them to the uttermost, Rom. 11. 9, 10. 1 Thes. 2. 14, 15, 16. These five Prophecies in this Psalme, are avouched in the New-Testament: besides sundry others very fitly applicable to Christ. And therefore we must needs rank this Psalme amongst the Prophetical Psalmes. And though [q] some make a doubt, whether the Psalmist penned this Psalme as a Type of Christ, or onely as a Prophet foretelling future things, as in Psal. 22. and Isaiah 53. Because here seems to be nothing in this Psalme spoken Historically of the Psalmist himself, which is usual when he is spoken of as a Type of Christ: yet this seems to be an evident mistake; For a great part of the Psalme, as any intelligent Reader may easily observe, touching his calamities, distresses, &c. Do Literally and Historically belong to the Psalmist, as after in the Analysis will easily appear. And therefore, This Praying Psalme hath in it both History and Prophecy: It is Petitory, Historical and Prophetical.

[q] Jo. Foord in Expos. Ps. 69. Tempus.

Penman of this Psalme was David, as the Title signifies. David (the Father and Figure of Christ) herein complaining of his great afflictions, Prayes for deliverance, devotes his Enemies to Destruction, and Praiseth God for the expected Salvation of his Church [r].

[r] Hen. Ainsw. in Contents of Ps. 69.

Occasion, of Davids writing this Psalme, was in the General, Some extream straits, distresses, and deadly calamities whereinto he was implunged by his many and hating Enemies, See verse 1, 2, 3, 4. &c. But what Afflictions and Extremities these were in Particular, is hard to determine. That it was not penned upon Occasion of any his troubles in dayes of King Saul, seems plain from verse 35. For, God will save Sion: Forasmuch as Mount-Sion was not in the hands of the Israelites till the eighth year of King Davids Raign. 2 Sam. 5. 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10. Perhaps it was occasioned by the extream straits he was driven into by Absaloms rebellion: But I dare not herein be positive.

§. IV. The Scope.

Davids Scope intended in this Psalme, is; 1. To intreat the LORD to save, deliver, and redeem him from his extream Afflictions and Distresses, wherein he was ready to be overwhelmed and drowned, and whereof he pathetically complains; 2. To hear him speedily, and to return graciously unto him. 3. But to devote his Enemies to the heavy Indignation and Curse of God. In all which David, by the Spirit of Prophecy, is carried beyond his own case and condition to speak Prophetically of the sufferings of Christ for his Elect, as also of Gods heavy Judgements upon Judas for his Treachery, and upon the Jews for their cruelty against the Lord Jesus Christ: David in his distresses being a notable Type of Christ in his sufferings, and Davids Enemies, shadows of Christs Enemies, Judas and the malicious Jews.

§. V. The

§. V. The Analysis, or Principal Parts.

The Title of this Psalme hath in it. 1. The Direction of it as to the Musick; To the Master-Musician upon Shoshannim, that is, Six-stringed-Instruments: as the most judicious interpret it. See Title of Psal. 45. This word is found in the Title of Psal. 45. and 69. and 80. and not of any other. 2. The Penman of it; David.

The Psalme it self contains,

I. Davids sad and lamentable complaint to God, touching the extremity of his distresses and afflictions from his Enemies, verse 1. to 6. wherein note,

1. His suddain and abrupt crying out to God, as being even ready to be drowned and swallowed up; Save me O God, verse 1. As the Apostle ready to sink in the storme; Lord save us, we perish, Matth. 8. 25.

2. His Aggravating and Amplifying of his Complaint Emphatically many waies. As, 1. By the extremitie of his Dangers and Distresses, suggesting the necessity of his crying out and of Gods helping him. These distresses are elegantly represented under the Metaphors of (1) Waters coming in unto the Soul. As when one is drowning and can hold his breath no longer, the waters enter as into his heart, and kill him, verse 1. (2) The mud of a Gulf, wherein he sinks, and there's no standing. 3. Deeps of Waters, into which he is passed. As into whirle-pooles, &c. (4) A Flood overflowing him, verse 2. 2. By the vehemency of his crying to his God for succour, and waiting for him, in these his extremities. (1.) His crying to God was so fervent, that thereupon, He was weary; His throat was burnt up as it were with dryness. (2.) His waiting for God was so intentive, that his eyes failed him, verse 3. 3. By the multitude, power, and violent injuriousness, of his haters, destroyers, enemies: As instrumental causes of all these his miseries, verse 4. By his ingenuous and humble acknowledgement of his sinnes, foolishness and guiltiness, which are far different from those of his enemies, verse 5. Or this may be a kinde of an Appeal to God (who knew all his foolishness and guiltiness) how causelessly the Enemies charged such and such Sinnes upon him.

[So Vatablus, Calvin, Junius, Foord, Ainsworth, &c. on Psal. 69. 5. think the words may be expounded.

II. David requests unto the LORD of Hosts, the God of Israel, upon his former complaints and the grounds thereof, which requests are Supplicatory, Petitory, and Imprecatory.

1. His Supplication for Gods people, That wait upon God and seek him, are; That they may not be any way discouraged, ashamed or confounded, by all this distress that had befallen him. What ever he suffered he would not have the Church or glory of God prejudiced thereby, verse 6. 1. Because, all this reproach and shame that hath covered him, even from his neerest Allies is for Gods sake, verse 7, 8. 2. Because his fervent Zeal to the house of God had so eaten him up, that the Reproaches of them that reproached God were fallen upon him, verse 9. 3. Because, his most devout and Religious Exercises, viz. Weeping, Afflicting his Soul with fasting, and putting on of Sackcloth, were turned upon him as his Reproaches, and he became a Proverb to them, verse 10. 11. So that the Magistrates and the Rulers that sate in the Gate spake against him; And the Drunkards made Songs of him, vers. 12. 4. Because in all this his indignity cast upon him for Gods Cause, hee fled to God by Prayer, ver. 13. And so he passeth from Supplicating for others to Petitioning for himself.

2. His Petitions for Himself, vers. 13. to 22. Here, having (by way of Preface,) declared unto the LORD, That against all these sufferings he betook himself to God by prayer in an acceptable time, Hee Petitioneth, I. For Audience in his Prayer. Urging this, 1. From the multitude of Gods Loving-kindness. 2. From the Truth of his Salvation, that is, from the true Promise of Salvation from extremities made to him. Or, Saving Truth. Or, faithful Salvation, ver. 13. II. For Deliverance out of all his Distresses, and from his Enemies, patheticall mentioned again, as formerly in his complaint, viz. 1. From the Mire, that he sink not. 2. From his Haters. 3. From deep Waters: That the Water-flood over-flow him not, nor the Deep swallow him up. 4. From the Pit, That it shut not her mouth upon him, vers. 14, 15. III. For Hearing of his Prayer again and again. For hearing speedily. Because his Loving-kindnesse is Good. IV. For manifestation of Gods peculiar favour to him, viz. 1. Turning to him. According to the multitude of his Bowel-mercies. 2. Not hiding his face from him. Being his servant. Being in trouble, ver. 16, 17. 3. Drawing nigh unto his soule, vers. 18. V. For Redemption and Deliverance, again. And this; 1. Because, of his enemies, vers. 18. 2. Because, the LORD exactly knew and beheld all his Ignominy and Adversaries, ver. 19. 3. Because, Reproach had broke his heart, and he was full of heavinesse. 4. Because, in these his distresses he found none to condole or comfort him, ver. 20. 5. Because, his Adversaries were so farre from lightening his distresses, that they aggravated them, giving him in his Thirst Gall and Vinegar, Proverbial speeches. This was Metaphorically fulfilled in David. Literally in Christ, Matth. 27. 34, 48. Mark 15. 23. John 19. 28, 29, 30. with vers. 21. In these short and reiterated Petitions we have a very lively representation of the extremity and grievousnes of his Afflictions.

3. His Imprecations against his Enemies. Here, by a Spirit of Prophecy, not of Revenge or Malice, he devotes them to many sad and severe judgements of God: viz. 1. That, their Table may be for a Snare. Recompentes, and for a Trap before them, ver. 22. 2. That, their eyes (especially the eyes of their understandings) be darkened that they see not. This is sadly fulfilled upon the unbe-unbelieving Jews, Joh. 12.39,40. Acts 28.26,27. 2 Cor. 3. 14, 15. 3. That, their loins be made continually to shake, ver. 23. Bow down their back allway, (as the Apostle renders it) Rom. 11. 10. This imports their constant misery, bondage, and slavery: as the contrary going upright notes freedom from such yoke, Levit. 26.13. 4. That, Gods detesting-ire may be poured out upon them, and the burning-wrath of his nostrils may take them, viz. That they may be swallowed up of Gods fiercest wrath, ver. 24. 5. That their Habitation be desolate, and no inhabitant in their Tents, ver. 25. This had also a particular accomplishment in Judas the Traytor, Acts 1. 20. And all these imprecations are urged home by a Reason inserted, drawn from the cruelty of his enemies; Persecuting whom God had smitten, and grieving whom God had wounded, ver. 26. 6. That, iniquity may be added to their iniquity; (that is, either they may be given up to a Reprobate mind, Rom. 1.24,28. 1 Thes. 2.16. Rom. 11.8. Matth. 23.32. or, by iniquity may be meant punishment-for-iniquity, as Psal. 31. 10. that is, add one punishment-for-iniquity to another:) And that they may not come into Gods Righteousness, viz. Either, that they may not by faith in Christ according to the Gospel be partakers of Gods Righteousness, Rom. 10.3, &c. Matth. 6.33. Phil. 3.9. Joh. 12. 39,40. Or, That they may not be reckoned among the Righteous, Psal. 1. 5. 7. That they may be blotted out of the Book of Life, and not be enrolled among the Righteous, ver. 28. All these dreadful and direful curses here imprecated, are accomplished and fallen most heavily upon the the Jews, Rom. 11.7,8,9,10. Joh. 12.39,40. Acts 28.26,27. 1 Thes. 2. 14, 15, 16. and some of them upon Judas; Act. 1.20. For their enmity against Christ.

III. Davids closing up of this his Prayer, with an earnest Petition; That Gods Salvation may set him upon high. (Herein Christ also may be thought to pray, That he may triumph on the Cross, may be raised from the dead, and may ascend up on high into Heaven it self, &c.) This request is urged, 1. From his present distressed Condition; I am poor-afflicted and sorrowful, verse 29. 2. From the praises and thanksgivings (more acceptable to God then Ceremonial Sacrifices) which hereupon he shall render to the LORD, verse 30,31. 3. From the joy and life that hereupon the godly shall be filled with all, that the Lord heareth the poor and despiseth not his prisoners, verse 32,33. 4. From Praises that hereupon God shall have in a sort from all Creatures, Heaven, Earth, Seas and all therein, verse 34. These are amplified by the Primary Cause thereof, viz. Gods saving of Sion and building the Cities of Judah, that his people may possesse, inherit, and inhabit there. This imports the Prosperity, peace, and security of the Church, wherewith Heaven, and Earth, and the whole Creation is as it were affected, ver. 35,36.

Thus this Excellent Psalme is Applicable, To David as the Type, To Christ as the Antitype: Davids Afflictions and Enemies, being shadows of Christs Sufferings, Sorrows, and Adversaries.

§. III. The Kinde, Penman, and Occaſion.

This ſhort Pſalme is A Prayer. And it is evidently Part of Pſalm 40. and of the ſame Argument: For Pſal. 40. 14. to the end fully agrees in ſenſe, and almoſt in the very words, with this Pſalme, as he that is acquainted with the Hebrew, may by comparing of them eaſily diſcern. And this alſo is noted by many learned Authours [d]. The repeating alſo of theſe verſes here, out of Pſalme 40. inclines divers of them to think, That David made uſe of this, as an uſual Forme of Prayer, as his Ephod, or as his Remembrancer carried about with him, when he was in great perils. And that others alſo might make uſe of it in like caſes. This they incline the rather to, Partly, becauſe it is entituled; A Pſalme for-to-record, or For to-cauſe-remembrance. Partly, becauſe Pſal. 35. 23. to the end, is of like Argument alſo.

Penman of it, was David: as the Title evidenceth.

Occaſion is not particularly expreſſed; But in the General, the Nature of the Pſalme intimateth, it was Penned when David was in ſome great danger and diſtreſſe by reaſon of his enemies. Its thought to be Penned [e] upon the ſame Occaſion that Pſal. 40. and 69. were Penned; wherein what agrees to David is ſuppoſed to befall him by the Sedition of Sheba the ſon of Bicri, 2 Sam. 20. 1, &c. after the death of Abſalom.

§. IV. The Scope.

Davids Scope in this ſhort Pſalme is; To implore Gods ſpeedy help againſt his enemies, in delivering him, but daſhing their Counſels and Endeavours againſt him to their ſhame and diſgrace, that ſo all that ſeek God and love his Salvation, may have matter of rejoycing and triumph in God.

§. V. The Analyſis, or Principal Parts.

The Title contains, 1. The Direction of the Pſalme as to the Muſick. 2. The Denomination of it; A Pſalme. 3. The Penman; David. 4. The end or uſe of it; For-to-cauſe-Remembrance. See Pſalme 38. Title.

II. Davids Arguments whereby he urgeth theſe Petitions, are drawn, 1. From the Godly who ſeek God and love his Salvation; Then they ſhall rejoyce and magnifie God, verſe 4. 2. From his own low condition; He being poore-afflicted and needy. 3. From God himſelf; his Deliverer and his aid, verſe 5.

§. III. The Kinde, Penman, and Occaſion.

This Pſalme, as for the Kinde and Nature of it, is A Prayer. Wherein, for the Matter of it, the Pſalmiſt beggs earneſtly for deliverance and ſafety from his cruel enemies, urging his Petitions by many Arguments: And having confidence of audience, he promiſeth thereupon enlarged thankfulneſſe to God. For the Forme of it, It is in the Hebrew an Untituled Pſalme, as many other are, without Inſcription prefixed. See on Pſal. 1. §. 3. It's the judgement of ſome r, That this Pſalme was Un-tituled; Either, becauſe the Pſalmiſt was in Exile. Or, becauſe he Penned it, when he was in haſte and peril of his life, ſo that he had not opportunity of prefixing any Title or ſending it to the Maſter-Muſicians at Jeruſalem. The Greek verſion hath, notwithſtanding, this Title prefixed. s Of David, of the Sons of Jonadab, and of them that were firſt captived. t Hierome in his Latine Verſion, which he Comments upon, hath alſo the ſame Title. The ſame Title alſo is in the Arabick Verſion, and in the Ethiopick Verſion: ſave that the Ethiopick hath [Aminadab] in ſtead of [Jonadab.]. But no Title of this Pſalme is in the Chaldee Paraphraſt. And Folengius the Monk ſaith; That the Latin Title taken out of the Greek, every one may judge ought to be rancked among the Preames: as Muis u hath noted. The Syriack Verſion hath alſo another Title, as after ſhall be noted.

Penman of this untituled Pſalme is generally on all hands acknowledged to be David. And the Matter, Stile, and Current of the Pſalme confirm the ſame, to any judicious Reader.

Occaſion of Davids Penning it, is not ſo unanimouſly agreed upon. 1. Some take it to be a meere Prophecy of Chriſt, wherein the Prophet is complaining of the Redeemers Corporal Humiliation, and ſinging of his glorious Reſurrection: So Hierome x. And the Syriack Verſion calls it; A Prophecy of the Paſſion and reſurrection of Chriſt. Auguſtine alſo in his Enarration upon it, hath ſome glances at the Propheticalneſſe of it. And ſo hath H. Ainſworth y, But, foraſmuch as we finde not any paſſage in all this Pſalme alleadged and applyed to Chriſt in the New Teſtament; And ſeeing there is no expreſſion of this Pſalme that evidently ſpeaks of Chriſts Humiliation or Exaltation Prophetically; I ſee no Cogent Reaſon why we ſhould count this Pſalme Prophetical. 2. Some think it was penned by David upon Occaſion of Sauls wars againſt him. Thus the Syriack Verſion prefixeth a Title to it; z Compoſed of David, when Saul warred againſt the Houſe of David. And a Prophecy of the Paſſion and reſurrection of Chriſt. But this Opinion I cannot ſo eaſily ſubſcribe to, (1) Partly, becauſe David here ſpeaks of his diſtreſſes and enemies in his Old-age, Hoarineſſe, when his ſtrength failed him, ver. 9, 18. But in the time of Sauls perſecutions, David was in his youth and ſtrength, about 30 years old, 1 Sam. 17. 33. 42 55. 56. 58. with Chap. 18, &c. (2) Partly, becauſe when David wrote Pſalmes upon occaſion of Sauls perſecutions, he was wont much to complain of their their subtile flatteries and falshoods in their hypocritical and cruel speeches, as Psal. 36. 3,4. and 52. 1,2,3,4. and 59. 7. which is not so done here. 3. Most conceive, that this Psalme was written upon Occasion of [a] Absalom's rebellion against David, storied, 2 Sam. 15. 7, &c. And to their judgement I incline upon these Considerations; viz. (1) Because, some expressions in this Psalme do evidently signifie to us, that the Psalmist penned it, upon Occasion of his enemies and distresses brought upon him by them in his Old-age, hoarinesse, when his strength failed, &c. verse 9. 18. Now as King Sauls persecutions befell him in his youth, so Absalom's conspiracy came upon him in his old-age; viz. 40 years after Davids first Annointing by Samuel, 2 Sam. 15. 7. [b] rather then 40 years after the beginning of Davids reign, who reigned but 40 years in all. (2) Because the Argument of this Psalme seems notably to agree to the sad story of Absaloms rebellion, 2 Sam. 15. which being raised by his own son, by his son whom he loved so excessively, and that in Davids old-age when his son should have been a strength and comfort to him, wounded and afflicted David the more deeply, as his expressions import, verse 9. to 19. (3) Because, sundry passages in this Psalme are very consonant to those in certain other Psalmes Penned upon the same Occasion of Absalom's Treason. Compare ver. 10, 11. with Psal. 3. 1,2. and the whole current of the Psalme with Psalme 31. and 42. both which also were probably penned upon the occasion of Absalom's rebellion, as Psal. 3. was.

§. IV. The Scope.

The Psalmists Scope intended in this Prayer is; To intreat the LORD that he may not be confounded by this insurrection of Absalom, nor be forsaken of God in his hoary old-age, but delivered and saved from all his wicked enemies and the distresses they had brought upon him, verse 1, 2, 9, 18. and confusion rather brought upon his enemies, verse 12, 13. And hereupon many praises might redound to God, ver. 22, 23, 24.

§. V. The Analysis, or Principal Parts.

In this Psalme are, 1. A Petition. 2. Arguments pressing it. 3. A Conclusion.

I. The Petition of the Psalmist, is laid down and repeated again and again in variety of expressions, verse 1, 2, 3, 4, 9, 12, 13. but for Substance all amounting to this; That he may be saved and delivered now in his old-age from all his cruel enemies, by Gods All-sufficient and speedy relief.

II. His Arguments whereby he enforceth this his request, concern more immediately, 1. God; 2. His enemies; 3. The Psalmist himself Petitioning. 1. The Arguments, more peculiarly concerning God, are drawn, 1. From the faithfulnesse of God, not failing them that put their trust in him, so as they should be put to confusion, verse 1. 2. From his righteousnesse, viz. his perfect equity, goodnesse, and faithfulnesse, Principal causes of deliverance, verse 2. 3. From the subordinate cause, viz. Gods giving Commandment (viz. to his Angels, as Psal. 91. 11.) to save him, apprehended and apply by his Faith, ver. 3. 4. From Gods former works and dealings towards David. Here note, (1) His Transition to this Argument by Repetition of his Request to be delivered from the hand of the wicked, of the unrighteous and cruel man, ver. 4. (2) The Argument it self, viz. Gods sustentation of him from the wombe, yea Gods taking him out of his Mothers Bowels: both of them ministring to him matter of expectation and confidence in God from his youth up. 3. The Amplification of these experimented favours, Partly, by his continual praise promised to God for the same, ver. 5, 6. Partly, by the wonderfulnesse of Gods strong and safe protection of him. [c] God was such a safe-Refuge to him, that many, or the mighty-ones, did wonder at him, verse 7. (Some make this an aggravation of his affliction, which was so grievous, that he was as a prodigy and wondermeat to many thereupon, &c. but the former interpretation seems to agree more fitly to the Context foregoing and following.) Partly, by his desire to have his mouth filled with God's praises and honour all the day, verse 8. Partly, by his earnest request to God who had so sustained him in his youth, that he would not now cast him away in his old-age, nor forsake him when his strength failed him, ver. 9. II. The Arguments more immediately concerning his enemies, are propounded and amplified. 1. Propounded in sundry Particulars, describing their evil deportment against him, viz. (1) They speak against him. (2) They lay wait for, or watch his Soul. (3) They consult together, to persecute and take him, as if God had forsaken him, and there were were none to deliver him. This was very dishonourable to God, verse 10, 11. 2. Amplified (1) By his Petition hereupon for himself, That God would not be far from him, but make haste to his help, ver. 12. (2) By his imprecation against his enemies, vers. 13. III. The Arguments more specially concerning the Psalmist himself, are; 1. His continual hope and expectation of help from God. 2. His resolution hereupon to praise the Lord more and more, and to show forth his righteousnesse and Salvation all the day, as not knowing the numbers thereof, ver. 14, 15. 3. His integrity in praising the Lord. He will enter upon this work, not in his own, but in Gods strength. And he will mention, not his own, but Gods righteousnesse only, verse 16. 4. His former comfortable experience of Gods teaching him from his child-hood, so that hitherto he had declared his wondrous works, ver. 17. Therefore now in his old-age and hoarinesse he intreats God not to forsake him, till he had shewed his Arme to this Generation, and his power to the future, verse 18. These former experimented benefits of God are elegantly amplified, (1) Partly, By the high righteousnesse and great acts of God, wherein God is altogether unparallel'd, vers. 19. (2) Partly, by an Opposition, betwixt the great and sore troubles which God had shewed him; and Gods deliverance of him out of them all, reviving him, returning him from the deeps of the Earth (as it were, the deep Graves or Pits of troubles,) increasing his greatnesse, and comforting him on every side, ver. 20, 21.

III. The Gratulatory Conclusion of this his Prayer, wherein assuring himself by Faith of Deliverance from his enemies, he promiseth enlarged thankfulness unto God thereupon. Here note, 1. His thankful Praises promised to the Lord, And to be performed (1) With Instruments of Musick, Psaltery and Harp; (2) With voice of singing; (3) With rejoycing of Soule; And (4) with constant discoursing all the day long. 2. The Grounds or Reasons of all this his thankfulness to God, viz. Gods Truth; Gods redeeming his Soul; Gods Righteousnesse, in the confusion and shame of his enemies that sought his hurt, ver. 22, 23, 24.

Psalme LXXII.

§. I. The Summary Contents.

David, I. Praying for King Solomon, intreats God to give him his judgements and righteousness, verse 1. II. Urgeth this request by many Arguments. For, hereupon, 1. The Government of the Kingdom shall be well managed, ver. 2, 3, 4. 2. His Subjects shall fear God, rejoyce, and flourish, verse 5, 6, 7. 3. The Kings Dominion shall be enlarged, his Revenew increased, his Compassions exercised towards the afflicted, His life and prosperity prolonged, verse 8. to 16. 4. The plenty and prosperity of the Kingdom shall be augmented, verse 16. 5 The Glory, and Renown of the King shall be advanced, verse 17. III. Blesseth God most affectionately, in confidence his former requests shall be granted, verse 18, 19. These things agreeing to Solomons Kingdom, in the Type: To CHRIST in the Truth.

§. II. The Version out of the Hebrew.

For-Solomon.

1. O God, unto the a Royal-one Thy judgements give do thou:
b And on the King's beloved Sonne Thy righteousness bestow.

a Heb. King.
b Heb. to.

2. That hee with justice (furnish'd so)
May judge thy people dear:
Thy poor-afflicted-ones also
With judgement pure and clear.

3. The Stately Mountains shall bring forth
Un to the people peace.

Hills

Hills also Peace of greatest worth
With Justice shall increase.
4. The People's poore afflicted ones
Hee shall both judge and own,
Yea, he shall save the Needy's sonnes:
And c break th' oppressor down.

c Heb. shall-break small the fraudulent oppressor.

5. d While Sun and Moon their course do run,
They shall thee greatly feare:
Ev'n every Generation
Of Generations here.
6. Hee shall descend, like-rain that's shed
Upon the-Meadow mown,
Like showres e whose moisture-scattered
Upon the Earth comes down.

d Heb. they shall feare thee, with the Sun and before the faces of the Moone.

e Heb. The dispersed moisture of the Earth.

7. The righteous one with great increase
Shall flourish all his dayes:
Likewise the multitude of Peace,
f Till Moon shall lose her rayes.
8. Hee also shall from Sea to Sea
Beare-Rule and have Command:
And from the River hee shall sway
To borders of the Land.

f Heb. until the Moon be not.

II.

9. Kneel-down before g his Royal face
The Deserts-dwellers must:
Likewise his foes to their disgrace
Shall lick the very dust.
10. The Kings of Tharshish, and the Iles
A Gift shall render there:
Shebah's and Sebah's Kings the whiles Shall h bring a Present rare.

g Heb. his faces.

h Heb. offer.

11. All Kings shall-bow to him likewise:
All Nations him shall serve.
12. For hee the Needy i when-hee-cryes,
Will rescue and preserve:
The poor afflict, k and succourless.

i Heb crying
k Heb. and not helper to him.

13. The poor and needy spare
Shall hee: And save from their distress
Their soules that needy are.

14. Their Soules from fraud he shall redeem,
From violence likewise:
The blood of them also l shall-seem-
-Full precious in his eyes.
15. And he shall live, and give to him
Of Shebah's gold, I say,
And alwayes hee shall pray for him;
Shall bless him all the day.

l Heb. shall be precious.

III.

16. Of corne m a very little crop
There shall be in the Land,
Which shall upon the dryest top
Of barren mountaines stand,
Like Trees that Lebanon doth nourish
It's fruit shall rustle there:
n They of-the-City eke shall flourish
Like herb that Earth doth beare.

m Heb. a little parcel. or, a little handful.

n Heb. And flourish shall they of (or, from) the City as the herb of the Earth.

17. His name o before the Sun shall stay
His name bee p ever shall:
And in him bless-themselves-shall-they:
Him bless shall Nations all.
18. Now blessed bee the LORD our God,
The God of Israel:
q That-doth himself-alone abroad
Such wonders as excell.

o Heb. before the faces of the Sun shall be filiated. or, propagated.

p Heb. for ever.

q Heb. Doing.

19. And blessed shall r his glorious name
For-evermore remain:
Fill'd shall all Earth be with his s fame,
Amen, t Amen again.

r Heb. the Name of his glory.

s Heb. glory.

t Heb. and Amen.

20. Ended are the Prayers of David sonne of Jesse.

§ III. The Kinde, Penman, and Occasion.

This for Kinde is A Prayer, and one of Davids Prayers, as is evinced from vers. 20. A-Prayer-for-Solomon, as the Title evidenceth. And yet Interpreters u do unanimously judge, that in this Prayer for Solomon, for the goodnesse and glory of his Kingdom and Government, as the Type; there is a tacit Prophecy of the surpassing goodnesse and glory of Christs Kingdom, as the Truth. Solomon prefigured Christ, Song 3.11. His x Name Solomon signifies, Peaceable: and Christ is our Peace, Eph. 2.14. to 19. and the Prince of Peace, Isa. 9.6. So that, both Solomon and Christ are intended in this Pſalme: Solomon immediately and lesse principally as the Type; Christ mediately and principally as the Antitype or Truth. And some y think, Christ may here be called, Solomon: as elsewhere he is called David, Hos. 3.5. Ezek. 34.23. and 37.24,25. This is therefore a Praying-Prophecy, or Prophetical Prayer.

Penman of it was David, as is intimated, vers. 20. z Some think, that the matter or substance of the Pſalme was uttered by David Praying for Solomon, after his Unction and Royal Inauguration: but that possibly it might be put into this present forme of words by Solomon himself; and the rather because the Title לשלמה Lisblomo may be translated, Of-Solomon, as well as that Title לדוד Le David, is usually Translated of David, As Psal. 25.26, 27, 28, 35, 37, 103, 138, 144. And yet notwithstanding, they acknowledge David to be the Instrumental Author of this

Psalme,

Psalme, as first uttering it: And that Solomon or some other committed it to writing, that it might remain upon record. As an evidence of Solomons due Call unto the Throne; As a Direction to Solomon for the well-managing of his Government, and to the people how they should pray for their King after Davids Pattern; And as a Prediction or Prophecy of the Glory, Prosperity and Stability of Solomons Kingdom, all which had their chief Accomplishment in Christ Jesus the true Solomon.

Occasion; This Psalme or Prayer of David seems to be the last Prayer David made, verse 20. when he was very old and stricken in years, &c. 1 King. 1.1. and after he had caused Solomon to be anointed King in his stead, and to sit on his Throne in his sight, ver. 32. to 49. For, as David blessed God, that had given him one to sit on his Throne, his eyes even seeing it, 1 Kings 1. 48. So it is probable enough, that at the same time, and upon the same Occasion, or [a] after he had instructed Solomon, 1 Kings 2. 1. to 10. David uttered this Prayer for Solomon for his good and prosperous Government, being elevated also in spirit therein to have a principal respect Prophetically to Christ, and his best and happiest Government. This Occasion is intimated in the Title; For-Solomon.

[a] Vid. Jo. Foord Exp. Ps. 72. Tempus.

§. IV. The Scope.

Davids Scope intended in this Prophetical Prayer, is; To intreat the Lord, that the Kingdom of Israel; whereof Himself was first King, might be rightly administred, greatly prospered and continued in Solomon, consummated and perfected in Christ, 2 Sam. 7. 13. unto whom at last in Gods appointed time the Kingdom was devolved, Luke 1. 31, 32. 33.

§. V. The Analysis, or Principal Parts.

The Title of this Psalme; For-Solomon; intimates that this Prayer was made for Solomon now newly Anointed, and his good, prosperous, and happy Reign: but principally for the Kingdom of Christ figured by Solomon. Solomons name also, is in the Title of Psalme 127. wherein David instructs Solomon in the building of the Temple, to eye and observe God, and chiefly to depend upon Gods help and assistance therein.

The Psalme it self is A Prayer. Wherein are, 1. A Petition. 2. Arguments urging it. 3. A Gratulatory Conclusion, in confidence of the Grant of this Petition.

I. The Petition of David to God for Solomon. Wherein he begs. 1. Gods Judgements to the King, viz. Solomon, now Anointed King. 2. Gods Righteousnesse to the Kings sonne; that is, Either to Solomon. Or, to Solomons Royal issue. That the Kingdom might be managed in Judgement and Justice, according to Gods own Lawes, without errour and unrighteousnesse, vers. 1.

II. The Arguments, whereby this request (comprizing the chief Intent of the Psalm, is urged, are divers: being as so many excellent and desirable effects that would ensue upon Gods Grant of the former Petition. For, then these effects would follow in reference to the Government, Subjects, King, Kingdom, &c. respectively.

1. In Reference to the Government Then, 1. The subjects shall be rightly governed. Both all in general; Thy People; And the distressed in special; thy poor afflicted ones, verse 2. 2. Peace shall be establish'd, and Righteousnesse throughout his Royal Dominions. Or, Peace by Righteousnes shall flourish. See Psal. 85. 10. Thus Christ is King of Righteousnes and Peace, Heb. 7. 2. and his Kingdom consists in Justice, Peace, and Joy, Rom. 14. 17. Though Mountaines and Hills are more barren then Valleys, yet by execution of Justice they shall become fruitful: Thus some. But [b] some thus. Mountains and Hills, wherein are Woods, Dens, Caves, and such lurking places, being usually Receptacles for Thieves and Robbers, infesting the Countrey rogue about, whence partly they are called Mountains of prey, Psal 76. 4. yet even these Mountains and Hills, &c. shall be so subdued that thence no injuries from Thieves or wilde Beasts shall annoy them. An eminent Indication of perfect Peace, vers. 3. 3. Those that are wont to be most injured and oppressed, viz. The poor-afflicted, and children of the needy, shall be relieved against their oppressions: and their fraudulent Oppressors broken small, vers. 4.

[b] Vid. diligenter Jo. Foord in Exp. Psal. 72. 3.

2. In Reference to the Subjects His righteous Government shall produce these sweet effects, viz. 1 They shall feare God throughout all Generations. Thus true Religion shall be continually promoted and propagated, &c. vers. 2. They shall rejoyce in their King and his Administrations, as the Medows new-mown in the showres, and the Earth in the dispersed moisture of raine, ver. 6. Compare herewith 2 Sam. 23. 4. Prov. 19. 12. Hos. 6. 3. 3. The righteous shall flourish and prosper in his dayes continually, ver. 7.

3. In Reference to the King Himself. 1. His Dominion shall be enlarged, viz. from Sea to Sea, i. e. from the Mediterranean Sea to the Persick Sea. And from the River Euphrates to the Ends of the Earth. This was promised to Abraham, Gen. 15.18. To Israel, Exod. 23. 31. Deut. 11. 24. and to David, as is probable from Psal. 89. 25. And Solomon after Davids death possessed this, 1 Kings 4.21. 2 Chron. 9.26. This enlarged Dominion of Solomon and his Successors, was a Type of Christs Dominion over all the Earth, according to Zechariah's Prophecy in the same words, Zech 9.9,10,11. Yea, they that dwell in dry places, as Deserts, &c. shall in token of subjection bow before him, And his enemies shall lick the dust, i. e. testifie their great feare and subjection, by bowing their faces (after the manner of the Eastern Countreys) to the very Earth, verse 8, 9. 2. His Subsidies and Royal Revenew shall be augmented, from forreign Kings and Nations, by their Gifts and Presents, *ver.*10,11. 3. He shall be very careful, tender and compassionate over the needy, poor-afflicted and succourless, against all their enemies deceit and violence, *ver.*12,13,14 4. His Life shall be prolonged, his Wealth increased, and Hee (that is, every one subdued to him) shall continually pray for him and bless him, ver.15.

4. In reference to the Kingdome, Then there shall bee, 1. Abundance of plenty even in the barren Mountaines. 2. Multitude of subjects prospering. They of the City, i. e. his Citizens, shall flourish as the grass of the earth, *ver.*16.

5. In Reference to the Kings Name, Renown and Glory. This shall be so great, that; 1. His Renown shall be continued and propagated as long as the Sunne. 2. Men shall bless themselves in him: as happy in such a King. 3. All Nations shall bless him. This hath its full Accomplishment in Christ, Gen. 12. 3. and 22.18. And so have most of the foregoing passages, whose chief aime and tendency is to Christ, *ver.*17.

III. The Gratulatory Conclusion: wherein David in confidence of his hearing and granting the foregoing Prayer, most affectionately blesseth God. 1. Describing him; As, (1) The LORD God. (2) The God of Israel. (3) The only Worker of Wonders. 2. Ascribing Blessednes, (1) To him. (2) To his glorious Name for ever. 3. Desiring that the whole Earth may bee filled with his Glory. 4. Closing up this his last Prayer with Amen and Amen, vers. 18, 19. And thus this Second Book of Psalmes (as the First, *Psal.*41.13.) is concluded with Amen and Amen.

Hereunto is subjoyned (whether by David himself, or by Solomon, or by Ezra, or some other, who after their return from the Babylonish captivity, Collected the Psalmes into one Volume, and distributed them into Five Books, as we now have them); The Prayers of David the son of Jesse are ended, ver. 20. Not, that there are after this, *Psal.*72. no more Prayers of David recorded in the whole Volume of Psalmes; For there are divers ascribed to David by the very Titles of them. As *Psal.*86.103,108,109.124,131,138,139, 140,141, 142, 143,144,145. But, either because this Subject-matter of Christs Kingdom, typed out by Solomons, is the last whereof he Prophecied, and for which he prayed, as 1 Pet. 1. 10,11. Or because this Psalme was the last of Davids prayers made, after he had caused Solomon to sit on the Throne as King in his sight, or after he had given him charge about the affaires of the Kingdom. See 1 Kings 1.48. and 1 Kings 2.1, 2. &c. 10. But why this last Prayer of David was not set last of all the Psalmes Penned by him, See some probable conjecture [c] formerly mentioned.

THE THIRD BOOK, Viz. OF PSALMES.

TOuching the Diſtribution of this Volume of Pſalmes into Five Books, I have advertiſed [e] formerly. This Third Book begins with Pſal 73. and ends with Pſal. 89.53. Bleſſed be JEHOVAH for ever: Amen, and Amen. And ſo it comprehends only xvij. Pſalmes. Whereof the firſt Eleven probably were penned by Aſaph, bearing his Name in the Title; He was both a Prophetical Penman of Pſalmes, with the words of David and of Aſaph the Seer, 2 Chron. 29.30. And a Singer in Iſrael, 1 Chro. 25.2. Although it be the judgment of ſome [f], That thoſe Pſalmes were not penned by Aſaph that have his Name prefixed. For that, 1. Aſaph was conſtituted one of the Maſters of the Muſick by David and the chief of the Levites, 1 Chron. 6.39. and 15.16,17. And every one did contain himſelf within the limits of his Calling, 2 Chron. 35. 15. 2. The Levites, Maſters of the Muſick, are called Prophets, and ſaid to prophecie, 1 Chron. 25. 1, 2, 3. 3. Aſaph prophecied by the Preſcript of David, 1 Chron. 25.2. Therefore the words of Aſaph are thoſe which David had preſcribed to him. 4. The Times of ſundry Pſalmes (as of Pſal. 73.74,79, &c.) as alſo the matter of them ſeem not ſo agreeable to Aſaph and his times. But this being no Fundamental of Faith, I ſhall not contend about it, but leave it to the Judgement of the Learned. Theſe Eleven Pſalmes aſcribed to Aſaph, are for the moſt part Meditations, Lamentations, and Complaints of the ſad Afflictions, Troubles and Diſtreſſes of Gods Church and People. Three of the other are Entituled; Of, or For the ſonnes of Korach, viz. Pſal. 84, 85, 87. One, A Prayer of David, Pſal. 86. One, Maſchil of Heman, &c. viz. Pſal. 88. m Heb. of a full cup.

11. And how doth God this know, ſay they?
n Is Knowledge found in The-moſt-High?

n Heb. And is there —

12. Lo, theſe the wicked: o Quiet ay,
They potent-wealth do multiply.

o Heb. and in tranquillity ever.

II.

13. Sure, I have cleanſ'd mine-heart in-vain:
In cleanneſs waſh'd my hands likewiſe.

14. For, I all day am plagu'd with pain:
And p am chaſtiz'd each morne I riſe.

p Heb. my chaſtning (or, rebuke) in the morning.

15. If I ſay, Thus will I declare:
Lo, treſpaſs-faithleſſe I-ſhould
Againſt the Generation deare
Of all thy ſonnes both young and old.

q Heb. to know.

16. It was too painful in mine eyes,
When I thought this q to apprehend.

17. Till I went to God's Sanctuaries:
And did conſider their-laſt-end.

18. Aſſuredly theſe wicked-ones
In ſlippery-places ſet-thou-haſt:
To utter deſolations
Them helpleſly down-thou-haſt-caſt:

19. To deſolation-marvellous
How as in moment are they brought?
How ſpent; with terrours-troublous
How are they quite-conſum'd to nought.

20. Like-as a Dream r when one-doth-wake:

x Nigh unto God for to-repaire:
I have put in the Lord my y GOD
My hope, All thy works to declare.

y Heb JEHOVIH, my hope. for ſafety.

§. III.

§. III. The Kinde, Penman, and Occasion.

This Psalme as to the Kinde of it, is Doctrinal; or, A Teaching-Psalme. It teacheth us, 1. That the Church and people of God may be in continued and great adversity, whil'st the wicked abound with the contrary prosperity; 2. That this adversity of the godly, and prosperity of the wicked, is sometimes a great temptation to the godly; 3. That their way to be delivered from this temptation, is to consult with God in his Sanctuaries, and wisely to consider the last end of the wicked, and of the godly; 4. That, this temptation being overcome, the godly shall be able, with the Psalmist, to say; yet God is good to Israel, to the clean-hearted: good peculiarly, primarily, savingly, to them only; what ever be their present adversity, or wicked mens prosperity.

Penman, Some [z] think to be Asaph, the Singer and Seer, 1 Chro. 25. 2. and 2 *Chron.*29.30. whose name is prefixed in the Title of this and divers other Psalmes following. But others [a] rather judge David to be Penman of this and others that bear Asaph's name. See before the beginning of this Psalme 73.

Occasion, was evidenly the Psalmists temptation, arising from the great prosperity of the wicked, and deep adversity of the Godly, which so farre troubled him, that he was almost brought to think his Religion to be vain, and to prefer the state of the wicked: And also his victory over this Temptation, through Divine help out of Gods Sanctuaries. Being admonished (as Augustine [b] notes) he understood that before all things which God gives both to good and bad, and sometimes takes away both from good and bad, before all these things he keeps something for the good: what keeps he for them? Himself, &c.

[b] Postea——iste intellexit quid eum admoneret Deus quærere, cum ista temporalia subtraheret servis suis, & donaret ea inimicis suis, blasphemis, impiis: an monitus intellexit, quia præ omnibus, quæ dat Deus & bonis & malis, & aliquando aufert & bonis & malis, præ omnibus servat aliquid bonis. Quid est, servat aliquid bonis? Quid illis servat? scipsum.——Audi recordantem & pœnitentem qui erraverat, putando Deum non bonum, quia dat bona terrena malis, & aufert illa à servis suis. Intellexit enim quid Deus servaret servis suis, & cogitans, seque castigans erupit hoc modo; Quam bonus Deus Israel. Aug. Enarrat. in Psal.72. p. 790,791. Tom.8. Basil. 1569.

§. IV. The Scope.

The Scope of the Holy Ghost in this Psalme, is, to declare and teach Gods people; That God doth and will deal well with his Church and people of a clean heart, but contrariwise with the wicked: although sometimes his own people in a Cloud of Temptation can hardly see this, but are ready to judge the contrary, beholding the great prosperity of the wicked, and contrary adversity of themselves, the Church, and people of God, verse 1. &c.

§. V. The Analysis, or Principal Parts.

The Title signifies to us two things, viz. 1. The Denomination of this Psalme, מזמור Mizmor, A Psalme in reference to the Manner of Penning it in Rythme, or of tuning it on stringed Instruments &c. 2. The Penman of it, or at least the Master-Musician to whom it was directed, as to the Musick of it, Asaph; A Psalme of Asaph: or, A Psalme for Asaph.

[c] See the Preface before the Book of Psalmes, §. II.

The Substance of the Psalme itself hath in it, 1. A Confession or Declaration. 2. A sore temptation. And 3. The victory over this temptation.

I. A Confession or Declaration of Gods goodness to his people peculiarly, what ever be their outward condition in this world. Herein note 1. The manner of acknowledging this, viz. very abruptly; yet, or, Surely—Its spoken by the Psalmist on a suddain, as having now conquered the Temptation, and bursting out; yet God, &c. This the result of his victory over his Temptation. The Psalme begins, where his Temptation ends. 2. The Matter confessed, Gods gooness, 1 To Israel. 2 To the pure in heart, to the clean in heart. This Exegetically showes whom he intends by Israel, v. 1.

II. A sore temptation of the Psalmist (yea, of the godly in the Psalmists person) described, verse 2. to 15. This Temptation is described,

1. By the prevalency of it upon him, in some measure, viz. 1. To bring him almost to a defection in his Judgment and Practiſe, from God and his wayes. This is ſet forth in Metaphorical Phraſes, of the ſliding of his feet, ver. 2. 2. To perplex him with envy at fooliſh wicked men, verſe 3. beginning of it.

2. By the Riſe or Ground of the Temptation, viz. I. The Proſperity of the wicked, obſerved by him, verſe 3. This proſperity of the wicked is Deſcribed, and Amplified. 1. Deſcribed particularly, (1) By their eaſie death, or eaſie life till death; no knots in their death, or, till their death. (2) By their firm ſtrength and health, verſe 4. (3) By their freedom from troubles and plagues which others men undergo, ver. 5. 2. Aggravated, By the wicked fruits and effects of their abuſed proſperity, viz. (1) Their waxing worſe and worſe by their proſperity. Therefore, &c. 1 Pride compaſſeth them as a Chain. 2 Violence covers them as a Robe, ver. 6. 3 Their eyes ſtand out with fatneſs, have a ſwelling countenance. 4 They paſs the thoughts of the heart: i. e. they in proſperity paſs the thoughts of the heart. Or, the thoughts of the heart do paſs: i. e. their hearts thoughts after theſe things paſs all bounds and meaſure, verſe 7. 5 They are corrupt; or, do corrupt; or, do make-diſſolute, viz. They corrupt themſelves or others with ſin: or they diſſolve and conſume with oppreſſion. 6 They ſpeak wickedly concerning their Oppreſſion, glorying therein; ſet forth by three Phraſes; Speaking from aloft, Setting their mouth againſt Heaven, Their tongue walking through the Earth, verſe 8,9. (2) His people, that is, Gods profeſſed people, but hypocrites; or weak ones, dazled with wicked mens proſperity, return to the wicked, and a full Cup of temptation is wrung out to them hereupon, verſe 10. (3) Their prophane Atheiſtical thoughts of God, as not knowing them or their deportments, &c. verſe 11. All which is cloſed up with an emphatical indigitation of them; Behold, theſe are the ungodly, &c. verſe 12. II. The contrary adverſity of the righteous; Making the Pſalmiſt ready to think, all his Piety, Purity, and Innocency to be in vain, ver. 13,14.

III. His victory over this ſore temptation, ver. 15. to the end. Where note,

1. The neceſſity of oppoſing and withſtanding this temptation, that he might not perfidiouſly treſpaſs againſt the Generation of Gods Children, verſe 15.

2. The difficulty and (to humane ſtrength) impoſſibility of underſtanding theſe deep diſpenſations of Gods Providence, and withſtanding the temptation thereupon, ver. 16.

3. The right way and means of overcoming this temptation, viz. I. By going into Gods Sanctuaries (ſo the Tabernacle and Temple ſtiled in the plural number, in reſpect of the three partitions therein) where he was armed againſt this temptation by Gods Word read and expounded. II. By attentive conſidering, according to the Word there heard, the different ſtate and conditions of the wicked and the godly. 1 The ſtate of the wicked moſt unhappy, if their end be looked at, verſe 17. For, (1) In their greateſt proſperity they ſtand in ſlippery-places, ſtill ready to fall. (2) Being caſt down, 1 They are deſolated, verſe 18. 2 They are marvellouſly deſolated in a moment. 3 They are ſpent and conſumed with troubleſome terrours, verſe 19. 4 They vaniſh and are deſpiſed as a dream when one awakes, verſe 20. Hereupon he checks, blames, and ſhames himſelf for yielding ſo farre to this temptation, and making a falſe judgement about wicked mens proſperity, (the preſage rather of their ruine) And this in ſundry particulars. As, for his leavened heart ſowred with this temptation; His envy, diſcontent, &c. at their proſperity, pricking his reines; His folly herein; His ignorance; His brutiſhneſſe in the ſight of God, verſe 22. 2. The contrary ſtate of himſelf and of the godly, moſt happy: They being, notwithſtanding all their adverſity, moſt dear to God. Being, (1) With God continually; (2) Staid and held faſt by Gods right-hand; (3) Guided here by Gods Counſel; (4) To be received hereafter to glory, ver. 23,24. (5) Endeared ſo affectionately to God, as to account him, His only deſirable Treaſure and Supreme good in Heaven and Earth d; His Hearts Rock againſt all failing of Soule and Body; and His Everlaſting Portion, verſe 25, 26.

4. The happy Cloſe and Concluſion which he makes of his Victory over this Temptation. Pronouncing hereupon, 1. The wretchedneſſe and ruine of all that are Aliens to God, or Apoſtates from God, verſe 27. 2. The contrary happineſſe of himſelf and the Godly in Adhering to God, by drawing near to him, and truſting in him, that they may praiſe him for all his excellent works, verſe 28.

Pſalme LXXIV.

§. I. The Summary Contents.

In this Pathetick Pſalme, wherein the Pſalmiſt, or Church of God, deeply laments the Deſolations of Gods Sanctuary and the face of Religion among the Jews, are I. An Exordium, 1. Expoſtulating with God, about his ſore diſpleaſure, verſe verse 1. 2. Supplicating to him for his speedy succour, verse 2, 3. II. A Narration of the grievous calamities and ruine brought upon the Temple, Religion, and the people of God in regard thereof, verse 3. to 10. III. An earnest Supplication to God, for the Churches relief and succour against all her enemies, and the miseries brought upon her. Which Supplication is presented and pressed by many forcible and Pathetical Arguments, ver, 10, to the end.

§. II. The Version out of the Hebrew.

I.

Maschil [a] of Asaph.

[a] Heb. to, for Asaph.

1 GOd, why hast-cast-us-off for ay?
Against thy Pasture's sheep
Why shall thine anger smoak alway?
2. [b] Thy Church in minde-still keep,
Which thou hast purchased of old,
Thine Heritage's rod
Thou hast redeem'd: This Sion Mount
Wherein thou-hadst-abode.

[b] Heb. Remember thy Congregation.

3. To [c] th'endless Desolations
Thy feet lift (do not tarry)
The foe to all-things evil-hath-done
Within the Sanctuary.
4. Amidst thy Synagogues roare-out
Do thy distressing foes:
For Signes their Ensignes round-about
Therein they-do dispose.

[c] Heb. Desolations of perpetuity.

5. A man was once-known-famously,
As (for the Temples good)
He Axes lifted-up on high
[d] On thicket of the Wood.
6. But now its [e] Carved-works, and walls
Together overthrown,
Most furiously with [f] Axe and Maules
They have-quite-beaten-down.

[d] Heb. or, against. [e] Heb. Openings. [f] Heb. Beetle (or, Twible) and Mallets.

7. Thy Sanctuaries they have cast
Into the fiery-flame;
To th' Earth they have profan'd at last
The dwellings of thy Name.
8. They said within their heart, we shall Make-spoil-of-them together:
They in the Land have burned all Gods Synagogues to powder.

9. Ah! we do not our Signes behold,
[g] No Prophet us among:
Nor is there with us young or old
That-knoweth well how long.
10. How long, [h] LORD, shall the enemy
Reproach and thus defame?
The foe to perpetuity
Shall he blaspheme thy Name?

[g] Heb. not a Prophet any more. [h] Heb. O GOD, shall.

II.

11. O why draw-back thine hand dost thou,
Yea thy right-hand suspend?
Out of [i] thy bosom: pluck it now,
And make-a-final-end.
12. For, God he is my King alon
From all Antiquity:
In midst of Earth Salvations
[k] Hee-worketh mightily.

[i] Heb. the inward of thy bosome. [k] Heb. working.

13. The Sea, thou by thy fortitude
Didst-breaking-part with wonder:
In waters, heads of Dragons rude,
Thou-didst-quite-break-in-sunder.
14. Heads of Leviathan so high
Thou didst-in-pieces-beat:
To folk that-dwell-in-deserts-dry
Thou gavest him for meat.

15. Thou clav'st the Fountain and the flood:
Strong Rivers up thou dry'dst.
16. The Day's thine, thine the night; O God:
Thou light and Sun provid'st.
17. All Borders of the Earth below
Thy self-hast-setled-fast:
The Summer and the Winter too
Of old [l] thou formed hast.

[l] Heb. thou hast formed them.

18. Remember this; the haughty foe
Doth still the LORD [m] defame:
The foolish people have also Blasphem'd thine holy Name.
19. To [n] wilde-beasts do not any more
Thy Turtle's Soul deliver:
The Congregation of thy poor
Forget not thou for ever.

[m] Heb. Reproucho. [n] Heb. or, wilde-company.

20. Respect the Covenant with thy Sons:
For Earth's dark-paths along
Are fill'd with Habitations
Of violence and wrong.
21. O let not the oppressed-one Depart [o] enwrap'd-with-shame:
But let the poor and needy-one
Praise thy Renowned Name.

[o] Heb. ashamed

22. Arise, O God; Plead thou thy plea:
At last remember thou
All thy reproach, which all the day
Doth from the foolish flow.
23. The voice of thy distressing foes
[p] Blot not from memory:
Their tumult that-against-thee-rose
[q] Ascends continually.

[p] Heb. forget not. [q] Heb. ascending.

§. III. The

§. III. The Kinde, Penman, and Occasion.

This for the Kinde of it, is a very sad Lamenting Prayer of the Church of God, in deep afflictions; tending to instruct the Church how to carry it, in like cases, in after times.

Penman, cannot certainly be determined upon. The Subject-Matter and Occasion of the Psalme may sufficiently evince [r], That it was neither Penned by David nor Asaph, sith the afflictions here lamented, befell the Church long after their dayes. If David or Asaph Penned it, it was written as a Prophecy of troubles to come, saith one [s] well: If some other Prophet made it when Calamities were on Israel, then it was committed to Asaph's posterity, the Singers, called by their Fathers name: as Aarons Posterity are called, Aaron, 1 Chron. 12. 27. unlesse we shall say (as some [t] do hint) that it was another Asaph, then him that lived in Davids time, who wrote this Psalme, and who saw these woful things acted against Gods people in his times.

Occasion and particular time of this Psalmes writing is as variously and doubtfully spoken of, as the Penman. Some [u] think it was written upon Occasion of Antiochus Epiphanes his Prophaning and polluting of Zerubbabels Temple by Heathenish Idolatry, and of his cruelty against Gods people and Religion. But against this, Calvin's Note is observable; Though Antiochus prophaned the Temple, yet did he not burn the Fabrick with fire [x]. Some [y] upon Occasion of Nebuchadnezzars destroying Solomons Temple, or Antiochus his outrage, &c. Calvin [z] somewhat inclines to think the Psalmist here had respect to both these woful times. Hierome [a] refers it either to the dayes of Nebuchadnezzar, who destroy'd Solomons Temple, or of Titus Vespasian who ruined Zerubbabels Temple. Some [b] more determinatively refer it to the times of Nebuchadnezzar and the Babylonish Captivity, and towards the end of that Captivity, when they were sadly deprived of publick Ordinances and their Prophets, as is signified, verse 9. we see not our Signes, &c. As Psal. 79, and 102. seem to be written about the same time. They pray for deliverance here from the Babylonish Captivity, as Daniel did, Dan. 9. To this last I most incline, as most agreeing to the current of this Psalme.

§. IV. The Scope.

The Scope intended in this Lamenting Prayer, is: 1. To bewaile the Ruine and Desolation of the Sanctuary and the face of Religion among the Jewes by their insolent and persecuting enemies; 2. And to intreat the LORD, by Arguments urged from his own All-sufficient Power, the Enemies insolency, His dear Childrens distresses, and his faithful Covenant, to Commiserate and relieve them.

§. V. The Analysis, or Principal Parts.

In the Title are laid down 1. The Denomination of the Psalme, Maschil, i. e. An Instructing Psalme. This is (as I have formerly [c] noted) one of the XIV Maschil's. They are so called, because in every one of them there is laid down some Eminent and Remarkable Matter of Instruction to Gods Church and People. This Psalm instructs the Godly about Gods great wrath which by reason of sin may fall upon his Church. 2. The name of the Penman, or of the Master of the Musick to whom it was directed: Of Asaph, or, for Asaph.

c See the Preface before the beginning of the Psalmes, §. VI.

In the Psalme it self consider chiefly three parts. 1. An Exordium or entrance into the Psalme verse 1, 2, 3. 2. A Narration, verse 4. to 10. 3. A Supplication, ver. 10. to the end.

I. The Exordium, or Entrance into the Psalme, is Pathetical wherein the afflicted Church of the Jews, 1. Expostulates with God about his great displeasure upon his people. Wherein note, (1) The Acts of his displeasure; Rejecting, Anger. 2. The Object of his Displeasure; The sheep of Gods Pasture, Metaph. (3) The Aggravations of it, by the continuation of it. The extremity of it; smoaking anger, anger, Metaph, ver. 1. 2. Supplicates to God, (1) To remember graciously, His Church which he had purchased; His Kingdom Israel, which he had redeemed; The Mount Sion wherein he had dwelt, verse 2. (2) To make haste to relieve the Church against the Perpetual Desolations, The enemie having done evil to all things in the Sanctuary, ver. 3.

II. The Narration Explains, Illustrates, and aggravates this Calamity notably; I. By the enemies intolerable outrage and insolency, 1. Roaring in midst of the LORD's Congregations. 2. Setting up their Ensignes there for Signes, ver. 4. 3. Breaking and beating down all the curious Openings and Carved works with Axes and Maules, &c. which by Solomon was Honorifically and Sumptuously built. Or, In demolishing the Temple he was most famous that destroyed it most eagerly and furiously [d], verse 5, 6. 4. Burning the Sanctuaries. 5. Defiling the Habitation of Gods Name to the ground, verse 7. 6. Saying in their hearts, they should spoil them all together. 7. Burning up all the Synagogues of God in the Land, verse 8. II. By Gods peoples great losse and privation of the comfortable Means of Grace, whereby they might be supported against these Calamities, viz. As, 1. Of their Signs and Tokens of Gods presence Extraordinary and Ordinary, As Sabbaths, Sacrifices, Sacraments, &c. 2. Of their Prophets, that might foretell how long the Calamities should last, verse 9.

[d] So Jun. in An. not. on Ps. 74. 5. & H. Ainsw. Annot. there.

III. The Supplication of the Church unto God for favour, wherein, I. The Church Expostulates with God, for permitting the enemy, 1. To reproach and blaspheme his Name so long, verse 10. 2. To oppresse his people, whil'st God keeps his right-hand still in his bosome, nor helping his people nor plaguing their enemies. Whereupon she provokes him to pluck his hand out of his bosome, verse 11. II. The Church urgeth God, by sundry Arguments Pathetically laid down to succour and relieve her against her enemies and miseries. These Argments are drawn, 1. From Gods Royal Relation to and Protection of his Church of old, verse 12. 2. From Gods extraordinary works of wonder for his people Israel's Deliverance and Salvation of old, As, (1) Dividing the Red-Sea, to save them from Pharaoh and his Hoast. (2) Breaking the heads of Dragons or Whales in the waters, i. e. drowning Pharaohs Nobles, Captains, and Commanders in the Red-Sea, as Exod. 14. 28. with 15. 4. such being compared Ezek. 29. 3. to Dragons or Whales. verse 13. (3) Breaking the heads of Leviathan in pieces, i. e. drowning Pharaoh with all his Princes, Exod. 14. and 15. in the Red-Sea, Tyrants, as here, and Isa. 27. 3. are usually compared to Leviathan the Sea-Dragon, described, Job 40. 20. and 41. 6, &c. Giving him to be meat to the people inhabiting the Wildernesse, i. e. Either to Israel in the Wildernesse, taking the spoil of Pharaoh and the Egyptians cast up by the Sea, and rejoycing in their just ruine: Or to the wild-beasts of the Wildernesse, feeding upon their dead Carkasses, verse. 14. (4) Cleaving Fountains and Floods out of the Rocks, Exod. 17. 6. Numb. 20. 11. (5) Drying up mighty Rivers, as Jordan, Josh. 3. 15, 16, 17, &c. Arnon, and Jabbock, Numb. 21. 14. Deut 2. 37. that his people might pass thorough them, verse. 15. 3. From Gods ordinary works of Creation, &c. wherein his great Power hath been magnified. As, (1) Day and Night, Gen. 1. 5. (2) Light, and the Sun, Gen. 1. 3, 14, to 19. verse. 16. (3) Setting the Borders of the Earth. (4) Making Summer and Winter, verse. 17. 4. From the reproach and blasphemy which their foolish enemies have cast upon the Name of God, verse. 18. 5. From the dear Relation wherein Gods people stand unto God himself. They being 1. His Turtle-Dove. 2. The Congregation of his poor afflicted-ones, verse. 19. 6. From Gods faithful Covenant with his people. 7. From the Habitations of cruelty against Gods people in all the dark and obscure places of the Earth, ver 20. III. The Church upon all these Considerations closeth up this Psalme with earnest Petitions to the LORD, 1. That Gods Oppressed, Poor, and Needy may not be ashamed, but have cause to praise Gods Name, ver. 21. 2. That God would arise, and plead his own plea, against his daily reproach by the foolish, ver. 22. 3. That God would remember the insolent voice and tumult of the enemy against him ascending continually, verse. 13.

Psalme LXXV.

§. I. The Summary Contents.

In this Psalme are, I. A thankful confession unto God, that his Name is near as is evident by his wonderful works, ver. 1. II. A dutiful promise of the Psalmist to God, of a righteous management of his Regal Government. 1. Generally in judging uprightly, ver. 2. 2. Particularly, (1) In stablishing the Pillars of the shattered Kingdom, ver. 3.

(2) In repreſſing the folly, pride, and fury of the inſolent wicked, verſe 4. to 9. (3) In declaring the works of the God of Jacob, verſe 9. (4) In breaking the power of the wicked, but exalting the power of the Righteous, verſe 10.

§. II. The Verſion out of the Hebrew.

a Heb. or, Corrupt, not, A Pſalme for Aſaph——

To the Maſter-Muſician, [a] Altaſcheth; A Pſalme of Aſaph, A Song.

1. O God, to thee confeſſe-we do,
To thee wee do confeſſe;
That thy great Name is near alſo:
Thy wonders they-expreſſe.

b Heb. or, an appointed-time. c Heb. righteouſneſſes. d Heb. or, I will ſtily-faſten, artificially-eſtabliſh as by line and meaſure.

2. Receive [b] appointment when I ſhall,
I will judge [c] righteouſly.
3. Earth's diſſolv'd, and her dwellers all:
Her Pillars [d] fix'd have I. Selah.

4. I ſaid unto the fooliſh-ones,
Do not deal-fooliſhly:
Likewiſe unto the wicked-ones
Lift not the Horn on high.
5. Do not lift-up your Horn on-high:
With ſtiff neck do not ſpeak.

6. For, not from Eaſt, [e] nor Weſt, nor dry

e Heb. and from weſt, nor from ſ.

7. But God is Judge: [f] Hee lifts one up,
And brings another low.
8. For in the LORD's hand is a Cup,
The Wine is-red alſo,
It's full of mixture, from-the-ſame
Hee alſo poureth-forth;
But ſqueeze and drink it's dregs ſhall all
The wicked of the Earth.

f Heb. this he will abaſe and this hee will exalt.

9. And this his work for-evermore
I-will-declare-abroad:
With joy Sing Pſalme-will-I therefore
To Jacobs Mighty-God.
10. Of all the wicked-ones the Hornes
Hew-off likewiſe will I:
But of the Righteous-one the Hornes
Shall-bee-exalted-high.

§. III. The Kinde, Penman, and Occaſion.

This Pſalme is of a Mixt Kinde; Conſiſting, Partly of Praiſe, Partly of Promiſe, Partly of Doctrine and Inſtruction.

Penman of it, is generally thought, not to be Aſaph, though his name be inſerted in the Title: But, either ſome Prophet under the Babyloniſh Captivity; or rather David himſelf, as divers do conceive [g].

Occaſion whereupon, and time when this Pſalme was penned, is alſo variouſly apprehended: Some ſuppoſe it was written under the Babyloniſh Captivity, upon occaſion of the devaſtation of the Land of Iſrael, and inſolency of the Babylonians over Gods people [h]. Others rather judge (and I think more agreeably to the current of the Pſalme accurately obſerved) that it was penned in Davids dayes, upon Occaſion of Davids coming to the Royal Government (after the ſad Diſtraction and Devaſtation of the Land through the diſcord betwixt the houſe of Saul and David [i]) Either, when upon Sauls death the Tribe of Judah annointed him in Hebron, 2 Sam. 2. 1, 2. 3, 4. Or, when Abner deſerting his Maſter Iſhboſheth, turned Iſrael to David, 2 Sam. 3. 9, 10, 11, 12, &c. Or, when after the death of Abner, 2 Sam. 3. 17. and after the death of Iſhboſheth, 2 Sam. 4. 6. all the Tribes came to Hebron and annointed him King over all Iſrael [k], 2 Sam. 5. 1, &c. which laſt ſeems moſt fully ſuitable to this Pſalme.

§. IV. The Scope.

The Scope of the Pſalmiſt herein, is; To celebrate (in the perſon of David and of all the faithful) and magnifie Gods wonderful providence in governing all affaires here below in the Dominions of men: and particularly in preſerving David in midſt of many publick dangers, and at laſt advancing him compleatly to the Throne, that he might rule religiouſly and righteouſly.

§. V. The Analyſis, or Principal Parts.

In the Title, note; 1. The Direction of the Pſalme, as to the Muſick of it; More Generally, To the Maſter-Muſician. More particularly, To. Aſaph. 2. The Note or Tune to which it was to be ſet; Al-taſchith. Or, An hint at the Argument or Matter of the Pſalme; corrupt-corrupt-not I, viz. destroy not David my King, &c. Al-taschith is also prefixed to Psal. 57, 58, 59. 3. The Musick of the Psalme, laid down in two words; Mizmor, denoting the Composure of it in Verse, not in Prose. Shir, A Song. Importing it was to be tuned with voice.

In the Psalme itself we have

I. A thankful Confession made by David and the faithful to God. Amplified by the Cause therof, viz. Gods Name being near to them, which is Evinced and Demonstrated by Gods wonderful works, (As preservation of David in all his perils; Death of Saul; Affection of Judah; Inclination of Abner to David; Death of Ishboshcth; Consent of all the Tribes to annoint David King, &c.) verse 1.

II. A dutifull promise of David to God, touching the well-managing of his Kingly Government, I. More Generally; To judge uprightly. Amplified by the Season when he will do this; viz when he should receive appointment; or the appointed time; or, the Congregation; that is, when he should be set upon the Throne, verse 2. II. More particularly, what he will do in his righteous Government. viz. 1. He will settle and stablish the Pillars of the dissolved and broken Kingdom. The two chief Pillars of the Ecclesiastick, and Civil State, ver. 3. 2. He will (in order to this Restitution of things) repress the folly, pride, and fury of vain-glorious insolent wicked men, ver. 4, 5. To this end, 1. He refutes and condemns one Primary and Fundamental Error of the wicked, viz. That they ascribe the abasing of one, and exalting of another, to Mans Policy, Fortune, or other Causes, which ought properly and peculiarly to be ascribed unto God alone, verse. 6, 7. 2. He describes and declares Allegorically the Manner of Gods Administration both towards the Godly and wicked: The godly drink of his Cup of Mixture, of affliction, &c. The wicked must wring out and drink the very dregs thereof, verse. 8. 3. He will declare the works of the God of Jacob, (having peculiar care of his people) and sing praise to him for ever, verse 9. 4. He will hew off the hornes, break the power, pride, and insolency of the wicked, but exalt the Power and Glory of the Righteous. He will differently and discriminatively deal with them, ver. 10. This is an Eucharistical Psalme, A Triumphant Psalme of Thanks and Praise to God.

penman of it seems to be, neither Asaph, nor yet David: but some other Prophet, as Isaiah [l], &c. long after the dayes of David. And the Matter of the Psalme notably inclines my judgement thus to think.

Occasion of it, some think to be Gods destruction of Gog and Magog, here Prophetically foretold: making this Psalme a Prophecy. Others better, refer it to the great victory that Jehoshaphat obtained over Moab, Ammon, and Mount Seir, 2 Sam. 8. with 2 Chron. 18 [m]. But they seem to judge best of all, who think this Psalme was Penned upon Occasion of Gods wonderful deliverance of Jerusalem from the Assyrian Army; when God provoked with Rabshakah's blasphemies, 2 King. 18. 30, &c. 2 Chron. 32. 11, &c. Isa. 36. 15. and with his railing Letters, 2 Chron, 32. 17. Isai. 37. 10. &c. at the ardent prayers of King Hezekiah, and the Prophet Isaiah, 2 King. 19. 1, &c. 2 Chron. 32. 20. slew by his Angel in one night 185000, of Sennacherib's Army, 2 King. 19. 35. 2 Chron. 32. 21. Isa. 37. 36. and so delivered Jerusalem both from danger and fear of the Assyrians. Then as most think [n] in the 14. year of Hezekiah, 2 King. 18. 13. Isaiah or some other Prophet wrote this Psalme, wherewith both the King and people might triumphantly praise the LORD! And the Church of God in all after-Ages may comfortably make use of it, in all like Cases.

§. IV. The Scope.

The Scope, intended in this Psalme, is; 1. To declare and celebrate with triumphant thankfulnesse the LORD's wonderful Protection and Deliverance of Jerusalem and of his Church and people from all their most potent and enraged enemies: 2. And thereupon to urge them to vow, pay, and bring Presents to him with all reverence.

§. V. The Analysis, or principal Parts.

The Title of this Psalme sets forth, 1. The two Masters of Musick, or their Posterity, to whom this Psalme was delivered. One imployed in naming the Musical Instruments, Neginoth, viz. Stringed Instruments: over which Ethan (called also Jeduthun) was 1 Chron. 25. 3. The other expressed, viz. Asaph. 2. The Denominations of it; A Psalme. A Song, noting the Composure of it in Poetical Measures, and to be tuned both with Instruments and Voices.

The Psalme itself is, 1. Narratory; 2. Hortatory.

I. Narratory. Heres a triumphant Narration of the LORD's wonderful Protection and Deliverance of Jerusalem from her enemies, and this especially by the Eminent Fruits and Effects of that deliverance, viz. Hereby,

1. God was better known then before, not only to his people, but even unto their enemies. More particularly, 1. He was better known in Judah. 2. His Name greater in Israel. ver. 1. 3. His Tabernacle better known in Salem. 4. His dwelling place better known in Sion, ver. 2. All this is Amplified by the Reason, or way of Gods making himself thus eminently known among his people and to their enemies, by breaking asunder and confounding their Army (185000 in one night slain) ver. 3.

2. God became much more illustrious and glorious then the Mountains of Prey, that is; As some, then the Mountains of famous Robbers, who prey upon passengers [o]. As others, The Mountains of Lions, Leopards, and other wilde-beasts, which live by prey, and returning from the prey are full, proud, stately, &c [p]. And under this Phrase also Great ones, and Kingdoms of this world may be understood, who make spoil and prey one of another, like wilde beasts, Dan. 7. 4, 5, 6, 7. whom the Lamb on Mount Sion excells in Power and Glory, Rev. 14. 1. and 17. 14. The Phrase also may be rendred, [From the Mountains of Prey,] that is, when thou comest from conquering thy enemies which lay upon the Mountains round about Jerusalem to make prey upon thy people. This greatly pleaseth me, by reason of that which follows.

An

An elegant sudden Apostrophe to God; Thou——verse 4. This Illustriousnesse of God by the slaughter of his enemies is laid down in four pathetical expressions; 1. The mighty of heart have yielded themselves to spoile: The proud boasting Assyrian was made to stoop without resistance against Gods Angel. 2. They slept their sleep: they were slain and dead. 3. None of the men of might found their hands, viz. to resist the Angel, vers. 5. 4. At Gods Rebuke both chariot and horse are cast into a dead sleep: all struck dead by the Angel. A sudden Apostrophe again to God, most elegant, ver. 6.

3. God was much more dreadful and terrible then formerly, to all the Kings of the Earth, that should heare of this his judgement upon the Assyrian Army. This is, I. Propounded, and that 1. Positively, in a pathetical Assertion; Thou, thou, &c. 2. Interrogatively, for the more vehement negation; who may stand, &c. i. e. none at all, sith thou canst do such execution upon 185000 in one night by one Angel, vers. 7. II. Expounded, 1. Partly by the Reasons of this terriblenes of God. viz. 1 His making his Judgments to be heard from Heaven, that is, by an Angel slaying the Assyrians. 2 His terrifying and killing the Earth, Earthly men, Assyrians, formerly very obstreperous, and others; ver 8. 3 His arising to Judgment to save all the meek of the Land: of Jerusalem, and others of Judah, from the Assyrians, ver. 9. 2. Partly, by the effects of this terriblenes of God upon his Peoples Enemies, (1) The wrath of man, even of the Assyrians confessing Gods Power, Justice, &c. so praising him. (2) The remainder of their wrath, hereby being restrained, girded in, by this dreadful blow, ver. 10.

II. Hortatory. Upon all the former Narrative he exhorts all Gods people, that (as once the Tents about the Tabernacle) are round about him, in Testimony of Thankfulnesse, 1. To make Vowes to God: 2. To pay and perform their Vowes made: 3. To bring Presents, viz. Sacrifices, &c. to the FEARE, i. e. to this most dreadful God, over all to be feared, verse 11. Motives to these Duties are annexed: Drawn 1. From Gods gathering-in-as-grapes the spirits of the Assyrian-Governours or Princes. 2. From Gods terriblenes hereby to the Kings of the Earth, ver. 12.

§. III. The Kinde, Occasion, and Penman.

This Psalme is Doctrinal, and sadly lamenting. A Psalme and the consolation thereof (as one rightly observes) much to be meditated on and learned: for that none of us almost lives in the Exercises of true Repentance, but sometimes he hath sad sense of these dolours which are here recorded x, &c. Here the People of God are sweetly taught by the Patterns propounded in this Psalme how to behave themselves under outward distresses, and inward perplexities of spirit, because of Gods displeasure therein, flying for support to the great and wonderful experiences which Gods People of old have had of him in their deepest extremities.

x Hen. Moller. in Arg. Psl. 77.

Occasion, in General, was some great affliction, and thereupon some deep distress of spirit under sense of Gods displeasure, against all which, the due consideration of the Saints experiences of God of old, wonderfully relieving them in their straits, is declared to be a special Relief and Remedy. But in particular, how hard is it satisfactorily to define the Occasion. Some y think it was penned by David, (though his name be not prefixed) upon Occasion of Gods severe hand against him, and his house, (as he had threatned, 2 Sam. 12.10,11,12.) especially in Ammon's incestuous ravishing of his Sister Thamar. And afterwards in Absalom's cruel murder of Ammon 2 Sam. 13. Wherein David, reading Gods dreadful displeasure against him for his own former sins of Adultery and Murder, was in great anguish of soul, and not without some diffidence and doubts, least God should utterly remove his wonted loving-kindness from him, &c. And that the whole Argument or Subject-matter of the Psalme doth most fitly agree hereunto. Others, on the other hand do rather judge, that the private grief of a particular person is not herein expressed, but the more publick sighs and laments of Gods Elect People, and that the Holy Spirit dictated this Psalme as a common forme of Praying for the afflicted Church: the faithful relating Gods ancient Redemption of them, as a monument of Gods perpetual grace, that hereby they may animate themselves the more unto prayer; So Calvin z, taking the words, vers. 1,2,3, &c. all along, not in the preter, but in the future tense. Muis a also concludes, it was Penned upon Occasion of some great calamity upon the Israelitish People: and perhaps of that severe

one

one, their Captivity in Babylon. And that it might be penned either by Asaph in dayes of David, foreseeing their Babylonish-Captivity by a spirit of Prophecy, or by another Asaph (of Asaphs sons) living under the Captivity. In this distance of Opinions, its hard to determine. Both of them are attended with their great inconveniences. To limit the distress, here deciphered, to a single person, as the first part of the Psalme carries it, verse 1. to 11. seems scarce so suitable to the later and consolatory part thereof, which is drawn from Gods ancient goodnesse to his whole people Israel, ver. 11. to the end: and to extend the whole Psalme to the whole Church, according to the latitude of the later part of it, seems scarce correspondent to the constant current of the expressions, as of a single person, in the former part. Let the Learned and Judicious consider. All things deliberately weighed, I incline to think, the calamity and grief here delineated, was of a particular person, rather then of the whole Church. And a particular person may extract comfort to himself in his particular distresses, from Gods eminent mercies to his whole Church in like straits: The comfort of the whole, being the comfort of every part. * However, both the whole Church of God, and every particular believer individually, may hence receive singular Instruction, how to support themselves, by Gods great experimented favours of old unto his Church in sore distress, against all their outward calamities, and inward perplexities.

§. IV. The Scope.

The Scope intended in this Psalme, is; 1. In this Pattern herein propounded, to teach both particular Believers and the whole Church of God, that's no new thing for Gods people to be exercised with great calamities, somtimes through their infirmities exposing them to much despondency, diffidence, and expostulations with God, yet at last wrastling out of all upon a due remembrance of Gods wonderful works of old for his people in sore distresses; 2. And consequently to instruct them how they may best deport and support themselves in like straits. Or, to shew, 1. How the godly may be afflicted. 2. In Affliction deserted of God. 3. And how against both they may be comforted.

§. V. The Analysis, or Principal Parts.

The Title denotes to us, 1. The Direction of this Psalme as to the Musick of it: (1) More generally; To the Master-Musician. (2) More particularly, To Jeduthun, and Asaph. 2. The Denomination of it; A Psalm, Importing, it was composed in Rythme, and to be tuned on Instruments of Musick.

The Psalme it self contains,

I. A Joyful Acknowledgement, or Profession of Gods lending an eare to the Psalmists earnest Prayers, pathetically described in Three Expressions, vers. 1. This some [b] take to be the result of his Conflict with, and Conquest over his great distress; as elsewhere the like in Psal. 73. 1. is abruptly laid down.

[b] Jo. Foord in Ps. 77. Analys.

II. A sad Narrative of the Psalmists great distress, and Gods spiritual desertion of him therein in some measure. As, 1. Of his unceasing seeking the LORD, and reaching out his hands to him day and night, and yet his soule remained disconsolate, ver. 2. 2. Of his remembring God: and yet was troubled 3. Of his Meditating, and yet his spirit was overwhelmed, ver. 3. 4. Of his sleepless nights. 5. Of his amazedness and speechlesness [c], vers. 4. 6. Of his (1) Recounting others experiences of old time. (2) Remembring his own experiences of late, with meditation and diligent search, ver. 5, 6. 7. Of his Expostulation and diffident Ratiocination within himself, touching Gods (1) Casting him off for ever; (2) Being favourable no more; (3) Ceasing of his Mercy for ever; (4) Failing of his Word from Generation to Generation; (5) Forgetting to be gracious; (6) Shutting up his tender mercy in anger. In all which some favour of passionate diffidence of Gods favour, and sense of Gods deserting him, is discovered, ver. 7, 8, 9. This was his Distress: and This his spiritual Conflict under it.

§. II. The Version out of the Hebrew.

a Maschil of Asaph.

1. GIve-eare my people to my law:
To my mouth's words incline your-eare.
2. My mouth I'le open in b Parables:
Hid-things c of old I will declare.

3. Which we by sure report have heard,
Yea many of them we have known:
Likewise them unto us declar'd
Our Fathers have, to Gods renown.

4. Wee from their sons will not conceale,
To th' after Generation
Wee the LORD's praises d will-reveale;
e His might, and marvels hee hath done.

5. How hee in Jacob f Witness raisd,
And law in Israel set-down,
Which hee our Fathers did command:
Unto their sons to-make-them-known.

6. That-so g the Generations
That-should-succeed, these things might know
And those that should be born their sons;
Might rise, and to their sons them show.

7. That they in God alone might set
Their h constant-expectation,
And not the Acts of God forget:
But keep his Precepts every one.

8. And not bee a rebellious i age
And froward, as their Fathers stood:
k An Age that did not fit their heart,
Nor was their spirit l firm with God.

II.

9. Ephraim's sons arm'd, m that with bowe
In day of fight turn'd-back with dread.
10. Gods Covenant keep did they not,
But in his law refus'd n to tread.

11. o His Acts, his wonders they forgot,
Which hee them shew'd with mighty hand.
12. He 'fore their fathers p wonders wrought:
In Tsoan field, in Egypt's land.

17. But they ingrateful added t Sill u Against him Sinning-to-transgress:
Against the most-High to rebell
Within the parched-wilderness.

18. And in their heart tempt God did they:
By asking meat x their lust to feed.
19. And did against God speak, and say,
Can God in Desert-Table y spread?

20. Lo, Rock he smote, and waters flow'd,
Yea z Rivers swiftly-down-did-slide;
Can hee likewise give Bread for food,
And for his People flesh provide?

21. Therefore the LORD did hear, and was-Extreamly-wroth, likewise a flame Against his Jacob kindled-was:
Yea wrath on Israel up-came

22. Because the mighty-God upon
They did not faithfully-believe,
Likewise in his salvation
They did not hope, but did him grieve,

23. Though skies above he did command:
And doores of Heav'ns hee-open-set,
24. And MAN, to eat, on them he rain'd:
a And gave to them a the heav'nly wheat.

25. Man ate the b mighty-Angels bread:
c Then meat hee to the full did fling.
26. In Heav'ns an East-wind d forth-he-sped:
And by his might South-winde did bring.

27. And rain'd upon them flesh as dust:
And winged fowle as Sand of Seas.
28. And made it fall amidst his Camp:
His dwellings round about, with ease.

29 e They ate, they were well fill'd also:
And their desire bring them did God.
30. Their f lust estrang'd they were not fro;
Their meat yet in their mouth abode:

31. When up on them Gods anger came,
And of-the-fat-of-them did kill:
Yea he smote down unto their shame
The choice-young-men of Israel.

Occaſion

Occasion, of Penning this Psalme, was the great and manifold unbelief, Hypocrisie, and Rebellion of Israel against God, both in the Wilderness, and in the Land of Canaan, notwithstanding all Gods administrations of Mercy and Justice, towards them both in Egypt, Wilderness, and the promised Land, verse 8. &c. God labouring to overcome their evil with his goodness, and they striving to overcome Gods goodness with their evil, (Gods goodness and Israels evilness being represented in an Elegant Parallel,) verse 8. to 68. but at last Gods goodness surpassing and exceeding, verse 68. to the end.

§. IV. The Scope.

The Scope or end intended in this Psalme, is; 1, To advance the glory and praise of the LORD God of Israel, for all his praise-worthy acts, and excellent Administrations towards his people in Egypt, Wilderness, and Canaan, verse 4, 5. and contrariwise to debase and disgrace Israel's great ingratitude, unbelief, and manifold rebellions against the LORD, verse 8. &c. 2. To exhort all after Generations unto Faith and obedience towards God, from consideration of Gods Law and manifold goodness, given and manifested of old to Israel, verse 5, 6, 7. But to dehort them from diffidence, hypocrisie, ingratitude, and rebellion against God, upon consideration of these sins of Israel of old, so greatly here aggravated, and so severely heretofore judged by the LORD, for Admonition to all after Ages z, verse 8. &c.

z Recentior & posterior populus admonetur, ut caveat ne sit ingratus beneficiis Dei, ejusque in se provocet iracundiam, cujus obedienter & fideliter debet suscipere gratiam. Ne fiant --(ut ver. 7, 8.) Hæc est igitur Psalmi hujus intentio, hæc utilitas, hic ubertimus fructus. August. Præfat. in Enarrat. Psal. 77. Tom. 8.

§. V. The Analysis, or Principal Parts.

The Title of this Psalme sets forth; 1. The Nature of it; Maschil, An Instructing Psalme. It singularly instructs all following ages, and us, by the example of Israel of old, and by Gods dealings with them, how to walk faithfully, obediently, and thankfully with God, See Psal. 32. §. 3. 2. The Master-Musician to whom it was, as to the Musick, directed; for Asaph.

In the Psalme it self consider; 1. The Exordium or Preface. 2. The Proposition. 3. The Narration. 4. The Conclusion. (As to these Generals I like Junius his Method.)

I. The Exordium, Entrance or Preface to the Psalme, is Hortatory. Herein the Prophet exhorts his people (his, as committed to his instruction, inspection, &c.) to diligent attention unto his Doctrine which he here propounds, verse 1. And he laies down divers causes why they should thus attend to his Doctrine, all drawn from the nature of it, viz. 1. The dignity of it; A Parable. 2. The difficulty; --Dark-sayings, Hid-things. 3. The Antiquity. 4. The certainty thereof; which we have heard, known, &c. verse 2, 3. 5. The end thereof, shewing Gods praises, power, and wonders, ver. 4.

II. The Proposition of the Summe and Substance of his intended Doctrine, viz. Gods Testimony which he established, and Law which he Commanded the Fathers, at Mount Sinai. This Testimony and Law is illustrated by the ends and uses of Gods revealing them; viz. 1. That parents might communicate them and make them known from Generation to Generation, verse 5, 6. 2. That they might set their hope in God. 3. That they might remember his works. 4. That they might keep his Commandments, verse. 7. These ends are amplified, by the contrary examples and courses of their Fathers; Being Stubborn, Rebellious, False-hearted, unstedfast in spirit with God, verse 8.

III. The Narration of Gods Administrations towards them, in his beneficence patience, and Justice, and of their Rebellions against him, By unbelief and dissimulation in their afflictions, By their Security, and Idolatry in their prosperity, verse. 9, to 58. More particularly, here Note,

1. The first Rank of their Rebellions; 1. Described, viz (1) Covenant-breaking with God. (2) Forgetting Gods works and wonders shewed them. For which the children of Ephraim, though valiant Warriours, yet fled before their Enemies, verse 9, 10, 11. 2. Aggravated by Gods beneficent and merciful Administrations towards them, viz. 1. Working wonders for their Fathers in Egypt, to bring them thence, verse 12. Bringing them strangely thorough the Red-Sea, verse 13. 3. Conducting them in the Wilderness by his Pillar of Cloud by day, and of fire by night, verse 14. 4. Giveing them Waters plentifully out of the Rocks, viz. At Horeb, Exod. 17. 6. and again at Cadesh, Num. 20. 1, 11. both these seem pointed at, verse 15, 16.

2. The Second Rank of their Rebellions. 1. Declared and described, as most greivous and provoking to God, verse 17. viz. 1. Tempting God, by asking meat for their lust, verse 8. 2. Distrusting God; by questioning and doubting of his power to give Bread and Flesh in the Wilderness, notwithstanding they had lately experimented his power in giving Water out of the Rock, verse 19, 20.

ver.19,20. 2. Aggravated by Gods dealings with them hereupon, viz. (1) Hearing this, (2) Being greatly incensed against them, for their distrusting God, ver. 21,22. which distrust was the more grievous and inexcusable by reason of their late experience of Gods power and goodness in raining down Manna from Heaven upon them for Bread, &c. ver.23,24,25. 3. Raining flesh of feathered Fowle plentifully upon them, in displeasure: and whilest the meat was in their mouthes, destroying many of the choicest of them, ver.26.to 32.

3. The third Rank of their Rebellions, is 1. Described. (1) Partly, in that for all this they sinned still: Murmuring again the Promised Land, Numb. 14.1, &c. (2) Partly, in not believing, for all Gods wonders, that he would or could give them Canaan, ver.32. 2. Aggravated, by Gods sore judgement in consuming that murmuring Generation in the Wilderness forty years, that they should never enter into Gods Land of Rest, ver.33.

4. The fourth Rank of their Rebellions, is 1. Described, 1 Partly, as implyed, viz. a That, after God had sworn they should not enter into his Rest, but bade them turn back into the Desert, Numb 14.22,23.—25,33,34,35. that that Generation might perish there for their murmuring; They, contrary to Gods Commandment would go up into the Promised Land, Numb. 14.40, &c. and the Canaanites and Amalekites came down and smote them, Numb. 14.45. 2 Partly, as expressed, viz. That being slain by God, they sought him, returned, enquired early after him, remembred God was their Rock and Redeemer, but all flatteringly, lyingly, hypocritically, unstedfastly. Their heart was not right with him b, &c. ver.34.to 38. 2. Aggravated, by Gods contrary deportments towards them in Acts of Clemency, Mercy, Mercy, &c. Where note, 1 The rise of these Acts, Gods Compassionateness. 2 The Acts of kindness themselves, viz. Mercifully covering iniquity; Not destroying them, that is, not all, not presently; multiplying to turn away his anger; not stirring up all his wrathful heat. 3 The Motive that swayed with him thus to deal with them, He considered, Their feebleness, flesh. Their frailty and mortality, as a winde or vapour—ver.38,39.

5. The fifth Rank of their Rebellions in the Wilderness, is, 1. Described Pathetically. And this, 1. More Generally; 1 Often bitterly provoking him. 2 Often grieving him in the Desert: both laid down in a Pathetical Interrogation; How oft? vers. 40. One reckons up sixteen times c. Another seventeen times d. 3 Returning and tempting God. 4 Limiting the Holy-One of Israel, verse 41. 2. More Particularly, in that they ingratefully forgot, (1) Their Redemption and Deliverance from Egypt by his mighty hand, ver. 42. (2) The wonders and plagues which God, for accomplishing their deliverance, brought upon the Egyptians, ver 43. Here 7 of Egypts 10 plagues are instanced in, but not in the same order as God inflicted them, v.44.to 52. II. Aggravated exceedingly, by Gods great benefits, which contrary to these Provocations, he heaped upon them, viz. 1. Brings his people as a flock forth from Egypt, thorow Red-Sea and Desert, in Confident-safety, the Sea covering their enemies, ver.52,53. 2. Conducting them into the Promised Land, called, The Border of his Holiness, by Anticipation, in reference to his holy Presence or Sanctuary there, afterwards. And this Mountain, by a Synechdoche of the part——vers.54. 3. Driving out by destruction, the Heathens before them. 4. Possessing Israel actually of the promised Land, vers.55.

6. The sixth Rank of their Rebellions against God after all this, even in the Land of Canaan. This is, I. Described, 1. More Generally, By their tempting and bitterly-provoking God, 1 Partly, by not keeping his Testimonies, vers.56. 2 Partly, by their Apostacy and unfaithfulnesse. Set forth, By the example of their Fathers, and By the similitude of a warping Bowe, vers 57. 2. More Particularly, by the particular sins wherewith they provoked him, viz. 1 Their High-places. 2 Their Graven-Images. vers.58. II. Aggravated, by Gods judgements and by his mercy in midst of judgement. 1. By Gods judgements upon them for these their sins, viz. 1. Abhorring Israel in great wrath, (See Judg. 2.1. to the end of the Book) vers 59. 2. Forsaking his Tabernacle at Shilo, viz. when the Ark was fetched thence into the Camp, and never came again thither, 1 Sam 4.3, &c.) ver.60. 3 Delivering his strength and beauteous glory, i. e. his Ark itself, in the dayes of Eli, 1 Sam. 4.11. and 5.1. into Captivity; it being taken by the Philistines, ver.61. 4 Shutting up his people unto the Philistines Sword, ver.62. Gods fiery wrath by the Philistines Sword eating up their choice young men, so that their Virgins were not praised, i. e. not married: Metonym. of adjunct, ver. 63. 5 Suffering their Priests, Ophni and Phineas to be slain by the Sword, and no mourning made for them, ver. 64. 2. By Gods mercies in midst of judgement, ver.65. to the end. But herein we have the fourth Branch. The Conclusion of this Psalme.

IV. The Conclusion of this Psalme, by a Narrative of Gods Acts of Favour and Mercy to Israel in Canaan, notwithstanding all their Rebellions there, and in the Wildernesse, viz. 1. The Lords awaking as a mighty-one shouting after wine, and smiting the Philistines, to their eternal reproach ver. 65,66. 2. His returning no more to Shilo with his Ark, but refusing Josephs Tent and Ephraims Tribe, he chose Judah and Mount Sion, ver.67,68. 3. His building his Sanctuary there, magnificently, and durably, ver.69. 4. Psalme LXXIX.

§. I. The Summary Contents.

1. A sad lamenting complaint of the Desolation of Jerusalem, ver. 1. to 8. 2. An earnest Prayer for deliverance, ver. 8. to 13. And 3. A Promise of constant thankfulnesse, ver. 13.

§. II. The Version out of the Hebrew.

A Psalme a of Asaph.

1. O God, the Heathens rude and wilde
Did thine inheritance invade, b Thine holy Palace they defil'de,
Jerusalem on heaps c they laide.
2. They gave thy Servants carkase to Unto the fowle of Heav'ns, for meat:
The flesh of thy dear Saints unto
The wild-beast of the Earth to eate.

3. Most cruelly the blood of them
On ground like waters they have shed,
d Quite-round-about Jerusalem:
And e none to bury those their dead.
4. Unto our neighbours night and morne
An infamous reproach are wee:
A laughing-stock and tauted-scorne
To-those-that-round-about-us-bee.

5. How long, LORD, wilt be wrath, for ay?
Burne shall thy jealousie like fire?
6. On Heathens, which do not thee know,
Do thou poure-out thy burning-ire,
And on the Kingdomes the same Cup
Which thy Name do not call-upon.
7. For f hee hath eaten Jacob up,
And g raz'd his Habitation.

a Heb. or; To or for—— b Heb. The palace of thine holinesse.
c Heb. they have put.
d Heb. in the rounds, or circuits of Jerusalem.
e Heb. not any burying.
f For, They have Brutalge numeri.
g Heb or, desolated

II.

8. Our former h faults (which we repent)
Remember not against us now,
Haste, Let i thy mercies us prevent;
For wee are k brought exceeding low.
9. O our Salvation's holy God,
l For thy Name's glory and great fame,
Help us: And rid us from their rod,
And our sins m cover for thy Name.

(God?
10. Why say shall Heathens, where's their Among the Heathens let be known
The vengeance of thy Servants blood
Thus shed, To our eyes bee it shown.
11. Let come before thy face's light
Thy Prisoners sad sighing-cry,
According to thine Arme's n great might:
o Preserve those that are doom'd to dy.

12. And to our neighbours Seven-fold,
Into their bosome, thou p reward;
Their vile reproach, wherewith so bold
They have reproached thee, O Lord.
13. So wee thy folk, and q pasture's sheep
For ever will confesse to thee:
r To all Gen'rations we will keep
Such thoughts, Declare thy praise will wee.

h Heb. iniquities.
i Heb. thy bowel mercyes.
k Heb. attenuated vehemently.
l Heb. for the word of the glory of thy name.
m Heb. mercifully-cover
n Heb. Greatnesse,
o Heb. reserve the sons of death.
p Heb. render q Heb. thy pasture's sheep.
r Heb. to generation and generation.

§. III. The Kinde, Occasion, and Penman.

This Psalme is a Prayer, chiefly made up of pathetical Lamentation, fervent Supplication, and professed Gratulation.

Occasion of this Psalme was some fatal calamity and misery which befell the Church of God in great extremity. Some s think the words and phrases are such as may agree, Either to the cruel times of Antiochus, or to the devastation of Jerusalem by Nebuchadnezzar. Some t incline rather to the later, because of that passage, Poure out thine Indignation, &c. ver. 6. which is the same imprecation which Jeremiah hath against the Babylonians, Jer. 10. 25. which makes it somwhat probable that Jeremiah might pen this Psalme, towards the end of the Babylonish Captivity.

s Jo. Calv. Com. in Psal. 79. 1.
t Sim. de Muis in Arg. ad Psal. 79.
u Jo. Foord in Explic. Ps. 79. Tempus. Hen. Moller. in Arg. Psal. 79.

This Pſalme, and Pſal. 74. are thought to be penned about the ſame time, and the 102. a little after [u].

[u] Jo. Foord in Explic. Pſ. 79. Tempus. Hen. Moller. in Aig. Pſal. 79.

Penman of it ſeems not to be David. This Hiſtory here lamented falling out long after Davids dayes. Nor is it probable, as Calvin notes, that David by a Prophetical ſpirit would ſpeak thus hiſtorically. But whether it were Aſaph, whoſe name is prefixed: Or Jeremiah, whoſe words are here in part uſed: Or Iſaiah, who prayes ſomwhat like to this Prophet here, See Iſa. 64. Or ſome other Prophet living about the time of the Captivity: is ſomwhat hard poſitively to determine.

§. IV. The Scope.

The Scope in this Pſalme intended, is; To intreat the LORD for Deliverance of his Church from all thoſe woful miſeries and deſolating cruelties brought upon Gods people the Jewes, by their wicked heathenish Enemies, eſpecially ſeeing the glory of God was ſo much impeached by their Perſecutors blaſphemies, ver. 9, 10.

§. V. The Analyſis, or Principal Parts.

The Title denotes 1. The Denomination of it; A Pſalme, compoſed in Meetre. 2. The Direction of it as to the Muſick of it; To Aſaph; or, For Aſaph.

The Subſtance of the Pſalme hath in it, the deſolated Churches 1. Lamentations, 2. Petitions. And 3. Profeſſion. The whole ſeems penned in the Churches name: and moſt pathetically.

I. The Lamentation or Complaint of the Church, is twofold, 1. In reſpect to her Heathen-enemies. And here is a doleful Complaint, 1. Of the cruelty of ſome enemies: probably the Babylonians. As, (1) Invading Gods inheritance, Canaan. (2) Defiling the Temple. (3) Deſolating, and laying on heaps Jeruſalem, verſ. 1. (4) Cruelly deſtroying Gods Saints and Servants round about Jeruſalem, and inhumanely denying their dead Corpſes honeſt burial, ver. 2, 3. 2. Of the ſcornful deriſions of others round about them, as Philiſtines, Edomites, Iſhmaelites, Moabites, Ammonites, &c. rejoycing at their calamity, ver. 4. II. In reference to God Himſelf. And here ſhe ſadly complaines of Gods ſo long delaying to reſtore her out of her preſent grievous miſeries, into her priſtine felicities in the Holy Land, ver. 5. Both theſe Lamentations are Amplified by a vehement Imprecation againſt her Heathen-enemies, that had ſo miſerably eaten up and deſolated the Church of God. Herein, 1. The Severity of the Judgment imprecated is pathetically expreſſed; Poure out, &c. 2. The Churches Enemies, the Object on whom this Judgment is Imprecated, are deſcribed by their utter Alienation from God, and his Worſhip, and his Church; Heathens which know thee not, —— verſe 6. 3. The Reaſon of this Imprecation is ſignified, viz (1) Their cruel eating up of Jacob, the Church. (2) Their ſtrangely deſolating Canaan his habitation, ver. 7.

II. The Petition of the Church is alſo twofold eſpecially, viz. I. For themſelves. And ſo they moſt earneſtly intreat the LORD, 1. To forget and pardon former iniquities. 2. To haſte unto their help, by preventing them with their tender-mercies. 3. To help and rid them free from their preſent miſeries. 4. To manifeſt and make known among the Heathens the vengeance of his Servants blood, even in their ſight. 5. To heare the ſighing of the Priſoner. 6. To reſerve, or make remain, by his great Power, thoſe that are deſtined to death. Sundry Reaſons or Arguments being intermixed with theſe Petitions: drawn from, (1) Their preſent extreme low condition (2) The Glory of Gods own Name. (3) The inſolency and pride of their enemies, even againſt God Himſelf, ver. 8, 9, 10, 11. II. Againſt their Enemies, Babylonians, Edomites, &c. That God would recompence into their boſomes ſevenfold the reproach wherewith they reproached God. Retaliation of reproach with aggravation, ver. 12.

III. The Churches Profeſſion of conſtant Gratitude to God, if he will compaſſionate her thus complaining, and heare her thus praying. Here, 1. The Church profeſſing and promiſing this is deſcribed; Thy People——. 2. Her profeſſed Gratitude is ſpecified; We will confeſſe to thee, we will tell thy praiſe. 3. The Conſtancy of this Gratitude is denoted; for ever, to Generation and Generation, verſ. 13.

To the Maſter-Muſician on [a] Shoſhannim, [b] Eduth, A Pſalme [c] of Aſaph.

I.

1 O Thou that Iſrael doſt feed,
Attentively give ear;
Thou that flock-like doſt Joſeph lead:
On Cherubs ſit'ſt, [d] ſhine-clear.
2. [e] Before Ephraim and Benjamin,
Before Manaſſeh too
Stir-up thy ſtrength: And thou come in
For [f] our Salvation now.

3. Turn us, O God. [g] Thy face make-ſhine,
Be ſaved then ſhall wee.
4. LORD God of Hoaſts, at thy folk Pray'r
How long [h] wilt-angry-bee?

Among themſelves do jeere.
7. O God of Hoaſts to us incline,
Return us, ſet us free;
And make [l] thy Countenance to-ſhine,
And ſaved we ſhall bee.

II.

8. From Egypt-Land a Vine of wor
Thou didſt of old remove:
Yea thou didſt drive the Heathens forth,
But didſt it plant and love.
9. Thou didſt-a-way-prepare and fit

§. III. The Kinde, Occaſion, and Penman.

This Pſalme is for Kinde, A Prayer. A fervent Prayer, A Lamentable Prayer, ſaith one r, in the perſon of the miſerably diſtreſſed and deſpoiled Church of God, begging Reſtauration from her miſeries and Captivity.

r Precatio lamentabilis, Jo. Calvo in Arg. Pſal. 80.

The Occaſion of it in General was ſome great and long Calamity upon the Church, verſe 4, 5, 6, 12, 13, 16. As to the Particular it is variouſly apprehended by Interpreters. Some think it was written upon Occaſion of Judah's Captivity in Babylon ſ. Some, either upon Occaſion of Judah's being carried Captive into Babylon, or of the ten Tribes being carried captive into Aſſyria by Shalmanezer t. But Calvin u excepts againſt that Opinion touching the Babyloniſh Captivity, there being here ſuch mention of Iſrael, Joſeph, Manaſſeh, Ephraim——, which were not carryed captive to Babylon. Others therefore rather think that ſome great affliction upon Judah, and ſome of Iſrael, gave Occaſion of this Pſalme. Eſpecially when the ten Tribes forſook the houſe of David, 1 King. 12. 2 Chron. 10. and when Rehoboam forſook the Lord, 1 King. 14. 22. & 2 Chro. 12. 1. Then Shiſhak K. of Egypt waſted Rehoboam's Kingdom, 1 King. 14. 25. and 2 Chro. 22. 2. But the Jews repenting, God ſpared them, 2 Chron. 12. 12. and thereupon the Prophet ſeems to have written this Pſalme. For, 1. When this Pſalme was written, God did ſit between the Cherubims, Pſal. 80. 1. but God did not ſit between the Cherubims under the Babyloniſh Captivity, the Temple being deſtroyed. 2. Ephraim and Manaſſeh mentioned, verſe 2. were not carried captive to Babylon. But after the diviſion of the Kingdom, not only the Prieſts and Levites, but alſo many of the People out of all the Tribes came to Jeruſalem and adhered to Davids houſe, 2 Chron. 11. 13, 16, &c x. However let the Learned judge.

t Hen. Moller. in Arg. Pſal. 80.
u Jo. Calvin. in Pſal. 81.

Who was Penman of this Pſalme cannot certainly be determined. Probably not David: becauſe the Churches afflictions, here lamented, ſeem to have befallen her long after Davids death. Nor Aſaph: for he lived in the dayes of David. And, though Aſaph's name be prefixed in the Title, yet the Phraſe may be rendred, A Pſalme for Aſaph, or To Aſaph, i.e recommended to the ſonnes of Aſaph, for the Muſick of it. It is likely to be written by ſome holy Prophet who lived in the time of theſe afflictions on the Church, as Shemaiah the Prophet, 2 Chron. 11. 2, &c. and 12. 5, 7, 15. or ſome other.

x Joan. Foord. in Expoſit. Pſ. 80. Tempus. & Jo. Calvin in Comment. ad Pſal. 80. 1. aliquantulum favet huic opinioni.

§. IV. The Scope.

The Scope herein intended, is; To intreat the Lord, to return and reſtore his deeply diſtreſſed Church and people out of all their preſent miſeries, and to make his face to ſhine upon them for their Salvation. This is the very Burden y of the Pſalme, thrice repeated, and every time augmented: O God return us,—— verſe 3. O God of Hoſts, return us,——verſe 7. O LORD God of Hoaſts return us,——verſe 19. and there is another Paſſage partly like this, in verſe 14. So that this is the very Scope of this Prayer. And therefore that of Auguſtine's, making this Pſalme to intend, The coming of our Lord and Saviour Jeſus Chriſt z, &c. is utterly beſides the intent of the Pſalme.

y Verſus intercalaris, vel, verſus Amorbæus, Jun. See Pſal. 107. & 136. which are of like for me, with a burden.

§. V. The Analysis, or Principal Parts.

The Title represents to us, 1. The Direction of the Psalme, as to the Musick of it: More Generally; To the Master-Musician. More Particularly, To Asaph. 2. The Musical Instruments whereon it was to be tuned; or the Tune, whereunto it was to be set; On Shoshannim Eduth. See the Interpretation of these words in the Analysis of Psal. 60. Title. Eduth signifies a Testimony or Ornament. This Psalme is an excellent Testimony of the Faith of Gods People in extreamest afflictions[a]. 3. The Denomination of it; A Psalme.

a Hen. Ainsw. in his Annot. on Psal. 80. Title.

The Psalme it self being singularly pathetical is made up of Petitions and Lamentations. 1. Petitions Propounded, vers. 1. to 14. 2. Lamentations inserted, ver. 4. to 14. 3. Petitions re-inforced, ver. 14. to the end.

I. Petitions of the afflicted Church, Propounded. Here note, I. The Object, to whom the Petitions are directed, Described 1. By his Pastoral Office of (1) Feeding Israel; (2) Leading Joseph. 2. By his special Presence and Residence among them Symbolically, sitting between the Cherubims. In these Descriptions are notable Arguments implied for Gods granting their Petitions. II. The Petitions themselves, viz. 1. For Audience. 2. For clear manifestation of Gods favour to them; Shine bright, ver. 1. 3. For stirring up his strength before Ephraim, Benjamin, and Manasseh, (An Allusion to their posture and march in the Wilderness, these three Tribes coming next after the Tabernacle, Numb. 2.17,18,20,22. and 10. 21,22,23,24.) to come and save them, ver. 2. 4. For returning them from misery, and causing his face to shine, that they might be saved, ver. 3.

II. Lamentations and Complaints of the afflicted Church, are pathetically interwoven: And they are laid down 1. Positively. 2. Comparatively.

1. More Positively, and Absolutely. Here consider, I. The Object of their Laments and Complaints: O LORD God of Hosts. II. The Matter of their Complaints, viz. 1. Gods displeasure at their Prayer. Aggravated, (1) Hot-displeasure, smoak against Prayer. (2) Against Prayer of thy People. (3) For a long time. How long? emphatical Interrogation, ver. 4. 2. The extreme mournfulness of their condition. Teares their bread and drink from Gods hand. Yea, a great measure of Teares, Shalish, A Trientalb. So called from three: containing a third part of the greatest measure, foure times as big as their ordinary drinking cup. Teares by flagons, rather then Cups, vers. 5. 3. The great reproach that hereupon they were in by reason of their neighbouring enemies, ver. 6. III. The Manner of their Complaints, with renewing the burden of their Prayer, for returning them from misery, and causing his face to shine for their salvation, vers. 7.

b Fran. Jun. in Annot. ad Ps. 80. Hen. Ainsw. in his Annot. on Ps. 80.

2. More Comparatively. So they aggravate their Complaints by an elegant Parallel betwixt their former and present condition, under the similitude of a Vine and Vineyard. I. Their former prosperous State is described what it was from their coming out of Egypt till the time of this Psalme, viz. How, 1. God brought Israel as a Vine out of Egypt. 2. He cast out the Heathen, Canaanites, &c. 3. He planted this Vine in Canaan, ver. 8. 4. He prepared the Land for it, viz. By his Promises to Abraham, &c. 5 Rooted this Vine there. 6. It filled the Land: covering the Hills, extending its branches and roots far and neer from the River Euphrates to the Sea, ver. 9, 10, 11. II. Their present calamitous Condition is contrariwise, under the same Metaphor or Allegory of a Vine, Lamented 1. More Generally, That God had broken down her hedges, her defence. 2. More Particularly, That hereupon sundry sad effects ensued unto her, viz. 1. Every Passer-by did crop her, ver. 12. 2. The Boare out of the Wood wasted it. 3. The wilde Beast of the field devoured it, ver. 13.

III. Petitions of the Church are hereupon afresh re-inforced, with respect to the foregoing Complaints. And this, I. Allegorically, for the whole Church of Israel. Wherein note, 1. The Requests; That God would return, look down from Heaven, and mercifully visit this Vine and Vineyard. 2. The Reasons of this Request. And they are drawn, 1. From the Equity of the thing desired. It being a Vineyard of Gods own planting; A Son of the Vine, that is, a Branch of his own corroborating, ver. 14,15. (2) From the extremity of their misery. Burnt. Cut down. Perishing under Gods displeasure, ver. 16. II. Plainly, (1) For Gods gracious helping hand upon the man of his right hand, Benjamin; and on the Son of man, &c. Jacob, beloved of God. Hereby some c think Christ also is meant, with his Body the Church, ver. 17. (2) For quickening or reviving them. The Arguments by which this is urged, are, 1. A Promise of their constancy with God. 2. A Promise of their worshiping of him, ver. 18. III. Pathetically, The burden of the Psalm being now the third time, with some addition, repeated: For Gods returning them from present misery, and causing his face to shine, that they might be saved. And herewith the Psalme is concluded, ver. 19.

In their own counſels lewdly bent
Still walk along ſhall they.
13. O-that my people would have bin
To-mee-obedient:
That Iſrael had walked in My wayes, ſtill permanent.

i Heb. I ſent him away. i.e. every one of them.

14. Their enemies full-ſpeedily
I had debaſ'd to thrall:
And turn'd my mighty hand had I
On their d.ſtreſſers all.
15. The haters of the LORD, to him
Had-crouched-feignedly:
But yet the time of them had bin
To perpetuity.

16. Him alſo with [k] the fat of wheat
Compleatly fed had hee:
And from the Rock with Honey-meat
I-had-ſufficed-thee.

k Heb. w; flower of corne.

§. III. The Kinde, Occaſion, and Penman.

For Kinde, This Pſalme is of a mixt Nature, being both Hiſtorical and Doctrinal. Exhorting Iſrael to praiſe God ſolemnly, and obey him ſincerely: Teaching them alſo also what great and manifold cause they had to be obedient, and how much they prejudiced themselves by their Disobedience.

Occasion is not so certainly and particularly evident. Some think this Psalme was penned after the time of the Judges, when the worship of God was restored by Samuel or David[1]. Some, that it was written after Israel had rebelled in the wilderness, and would not go against the Canaanites, that they might subdue them and possess their Land, Numb. 14. and this is gathered from ver. 1, 2, 13, 14, &c. The passages of the Psalme may be very well accommodated to this later Time and Occasion: but the Title seems not to agree thereunto; Asaph living in Davids, not in Moses dayes. And for this cause I cannot think that Moses did penne it. When, or by whomsoever it was written, In the general it seems to have been occasioned by Israels Disobedience to God, after his many obliging mercies manifested to them, ver. 10, 11, &c.

[1] Jun. in Annot. ad Psal. 81. 1. & Joan. Foord in Expos. Ps. 81. Tempus.

§. IV. The Scope.

The Scope herein intended, is, 1. To Excite Israel to praise the LORD most cheerfully in the set time of their Solemn Feasts, viz. The Feast of unleavened Bread, Feast of Weeks, and Feast of Tabernacles, Deut. 16. 1. to 18. 2. And to provoke them to obedience, by the mercies of God. 3. As also to bring them to repentance for their disobedience by bringing them to know what mercies they came short of thereby.

§. V. The Analysis, or Principal Parts.

The Title sets before us, 1. The Direction of it, as to the Musick, Generally, and Particularly; To the Master-Musician, To Asaph. 2. The Musical Instrument whereon it was to be tuned, upon Gittith. Though some, not without good probability, are of opinion, this may point out the Occasion of this Psalme, as hath been formerly noted, See Psal. 8. §. 3. The Kinde, Occasion, &c.

The Substance of the Psalme itself is Doctrinally Hortatory. Israel is here Exhorted 1. To Praise God cheerfully. 2. To obey God dutifully.

I. The Exhortation of Israel to the cheerful praising of God, is 1. Propounded, and Described diversly, viz. 1. By the Acts of thankfulness. 2. By the Object. 3. By the manner, with variety of musical Instruments. 4. By the solemne time, when, ver. 1, 2, 3. II. Urged and enforced by sundry cogent Arguments, taken, 1. From Gods instituting and ordaining of this Duty, when Israel came out of Egypt, viz. at Mount Sinai, ver. 4, 5. 2. From Gods Redeeming Israel out of Egypt, and from all their oppression there, ver. 6. 3. From Gods hearing Israel in straits, at Red-Sea, &c. delivering them there. 4. From Gods proving them, and giving them waters out of the Rock, at Meribah, ver. 7.

II. The Exhortation of Israel to due obedience unto God. And God himself is brought in as speaking to Israel most pathetically. Here, I. God incites Israel obediently to hearken to him, and to his Testimony, ver. 8. II. God chargeth them strictly not to have, or worship any strange forreign god, ver. 9. Because he is, 1. The LORD. 2. Israel's God. 3. His Redeemer out of Egypt. 4. He will fulfil his desire, Prayer. If he open his mouth wide, ask liberally and freely, he will fill it, ver. 10. III. Gods Complaint against his people, up-braiding them, 1. Partly, for their Disobedience to his voice. 2. Partly, for their disaffection to himself, ver. 11. This is aggravated by Gods spiritual judgements upon them for this; leaving them to their own perverse-intendments, and their own Counsels, ver. 12. IV. Gods pathetical wish that Israel would have been obedient to him, and have walked in his wayes, ver. 13. which he notably Amplifies, by the great benefits that thereupon would have ensued to Israel, (which through disobedience they deprived themselves of,) viz. 1. His debasing and destroying their enemies, verse 14. 2. His subduing the haters of the LORD to, at least, a feigned submission to him. 3. His perpetuating of his peoples time, ver. 15. 4. His feeding them with the fat of wheat, for necessity: and satisfying them with Honey out of the Rock, for delight, ver. 16.

Psalme LXXXII.

§. I. The Summary Contents.

The Psalmist, 1. Having taught and exhorted Judges to doe their Duty, and reproved their negligence, verse 1. to 8. 2. He beseecheth God himself to judge, verse 8.

§. II. The Version out of the Hebrew.

A Psalme [a] of Asaph.

1. IN God's Assembly great
The mighty-God [b] doth stand:
Amidst the Gods on Judgement Seat,
He judgeth in the Land.
2. Hee saith, How long will you
Judge such injurious-ill
And faces of the wicked crew
[c] Respecting-honour still? Selah.

3. Judge yee the poor-oppress't
The Fatherless also:
Unto the poor and much distress't
Impartial Justice do.
4. The weakling out of hand
And speedy rescue yee:
Them out of the oppressing hand
Of wicked-ones set-free.

5. [e] Nor understand do they,
Nor know (though oft reprov'd,)
They will in darkness walk astray:
Earth's ground-works all are mov'd.
6. Thus say of you did I,
Yee Gods by Office are:
Likewise the Sons of the most-High
Yee-every-one appeare.

7. But-sure, [f] As earthly-men
Dye at the last ye shall:
And like one of the Princes then
Yee helplesly shall fall.
8. Arise O mighty-God,
Judge thou the Earth below:
For in all Nations abroad
Inherit power shalt thou.

a Heb. or, To. For.

b Heb. stands ing.

c Heb. lift up honour, respect &c.

d Heb. justifie yee the afflicted and poore.

e Heb. They know not, and will not understand.

f Heb. As Adam.

§. III. The Kinde, Occasion, and Penman.

This Psalme is Doctrinal, Hortatory, Reprehensory, and Pesitory. Occasion; Generally, was some great corruption of Rulers and Judges, Neglecting or Perverting Judgement. But Particularly what Judges were here immediately intended; whether the corrupt Judges in dayes of King Saul, as some think [g]; who therefore suppose that David Penned this Psalme after he had written, Psal. 52. against Doeg, and after Psal. 58. against King Saul and his Court-Parasites, this Psalme notably agreeing with Psal. 58. Or the corrupt Judges before and in King Jehoshaphats dayes; which therefore put him (after Reformation in Religion) upon the appointing of Judges and Magistrates in all the Cities of Judah, and giving them great charge about the due performance of their Function, 2 Chron. 19. 4, 5, 6, 7. as others think [h]: I say, whether either of these, or some other corruption of Judges, gave Occasion to this Psalme is very hard positively to determine. The former seems more probable, because this Psalme was Penned in dayes of Asaph, and directed to him in respect of the Musick of it.

g Jo. Foord in Expos. Ps. 82. Author & Tempus.

h Kimchi, ut habet Sim. de Muis in Arg. ad Psal. 82.

§. IV. The Scope of it.

The Scope intended herein, is; To teach and admonish the Judges, Rulers, and Princes Princes of the Earth about their Office, and to excite them to all due care in the faithful discharge thereof, verse 2, 3, &c. This is, The Judges Psalme. And It is very profitable to Sing this Psalme before new Judges: or others when they are about to sit down on the Judgement Seat [i].

[i] Utile profecto effet novis judicibus, aut jamjam ad judicandum sessuris percini hoc Carmen. Sim. de Muis in Argum. Ps. 82.

§. V. The Analysis, or Principal Parts.

The Title contains, 1. The Denomination of it; A Psalme. 2. The Direction of it, as to the Musick of it; To Asaph. And some [k] think Asaph Penned it.

The Psalme it self contains

I. An excellent Doctrine, or Fundamental Position, fit for all Judges seriously to Consider upon, viz. That God himself is Present with, and President over, all Judges, and their Judgements, ver. 1.

II. A notable improvement of this Doctrine and Position of Gods presence with Judges and Rulers in all their judicial Proceedings, exactly observing them. And this, 1. Towards Judges. 2. Towards God.

1. Towards Judges, ver. 2. to 8. Whom I. He sharply reprehends, for their corruption contrary to their Office, 1. In their unjust Judgements. 2. In their partial acceptance of the persons of wicked men. Both which are aggravated by their long continuance herein, verse 2. II. He exhorts them to their duty of doing Justice and Judgement, in defending the innocent, though 1 Poor-weaklings: 2 Fatherlesse: 3 Afflicted: And 4 Poor, and delivering them from the oppessing hand of wicked ones, vers. 3, 4. Hereunto they are urged by two sorts of Arguments, viz. 1. By Arguments drawn from the pernicious effect of the contrary to the Publick, viz. Confusion of all things will follow through want or neglect of Justice: All the Foundations of the Earth shall be moved out of place. Hyperbole. This is further aggravated by the threefold faultiness of the Judges, causes of this great evil; (1) Their ignorance of the Law. (2) Their unwillingnesse fully to understand matters of Fact. 3 Their wilfulnesse to walk on in darknesse, without due respect to Gods will or their own Conscience in matters of judgement, ver. 5. 2. By Arguments drawn from the pernicious effect of the neglect of Justice and Judgement to the Judges themselves, viz. Death, and suddain unexpected punishment, notwithstanding all their present greatness and power, verse 6, 7.

2. Towards God himself. Who (upon consideration of the incurable and unsufferable Corruption of Earthly Judges and Rulers) is intreated to Arise, and take the Reines of Justice and Government, over the Earth, into his own hand. Hereunto he is urged, from his inheriting Soveraign Right and power over all Nations, vers. 8.

5. For, they in heart consult together:
Against the Covenant strike they do.
6. Both Edom's Tents, and Ishmaelites, Moab, the Hagarenes also.

7. Gebal and Ammon, and Amaleck:
With Tyre's dwellers the Philistin.
8. Yea joyn'd with them is Ashur's neck:

14. As fire burnes up a wood: Also Like-as the flame doth mountains burn.
15. Pursue them with thy tempest so:
And terrify them with-thy-storm.

16. Their faces fill with shame: that they,
O LORD, may seek thine holy name.
17. Let them be bash'd, and i troubled eye
And perish, and be-cloth'd-with-shame.

18. That they may know, when this is done,
That thou whose Name peculiarly
JEHOVAH is, That thou alone
Art over all the Earth Most-High.

§. III. The Kinde, Occasion, and Penman.

This Psalme, for Kinde, is a Prayer.

Occasion of it; In the General, was some malicious confederacy and mischievous conspiracy of the Edomites, Ishmaelites, Moabites, and other enemies against the people of God utterly to ruine them and the very name of Israel, verse 2. to 9. But in Particular, At what time this fell out; whether in the dayes of King Hezekiah when Sennacherib by his own Forces, and by assistance of other enemies of Israel round about, did violently and insolently invade Judah, &c. as 2 Kings Ch. 18. and Ch. 19. as Junius k thinks: Or whether in the dayes of King Jehoshaphat, when Moab, Ammon, and Mount Seir, and with them probably many others, came to fight against Jehoshaphat and Judah, 2 Chron. 20. 1, &c. as most Interpreters both Jewish and Christians are of Opinion l; or whether at some other time, is hard positively and satisfactorily to determine.

Penman also of it, whether it was King Hezekiah, or some other Prophet in his time, or in the dayes of Jehoshaphat, is much more dubious, and uncertain.

§. IV. The Scope.

The Scope intended in this Psalme, is; To implore the LORD's help against the many violent enemies Confederate and Conspiring together against the People of God, and against God himself, vers. 1, &c, vers. 5.—10, &c.

§. V. The Analysis, or Principal Parts.

In the Title are, 1. The Denominations of it; (1) A Song, for voice. (2) A Psalme for Musical Instruments. 2. The direction of it, as to the Musick, To Asaph.

In the Substance of the Psalme, are; 1. A Petition: 2. A Narration: 3. An Imprecation.

I. A Supplication or Petition to God, that he would not be a Silent, Deaf, or Still: especially at that time when the enemies made such a tumultuous noise, and lifted up the Head, ver. 1. This Petition is Pathetically urged, I. By Arguments drawn from the deportment of the enemies and haters of God against Gods people, viz. 1. Insolently tumultuating, or making a tumultuous noise. 2. Proudly exalting themselves, verse 2. 3. Craftily consulting and devising against Gods people, his hidden-ones, (hid of God in day of evil, Psal. 27. 5. and 31. 21.) vers. 3. The summe of their crafty Consultations, being; (1) Partly, to cut off Gods people from being a Nation. 2. Partly to blot out of memory the very name of Israel, verse 4. II. By an Argument drawn from their conspiracy and wicked confederacy herein against God himself, ver. 5.

II. A Narration or Enumeration of the many enemies against God and his people. Then are reckoned-up, up, viz. 1. Edomites. 2. Ishmaelites. 3. Moabites. 4. Hagarens, or Arabians, ver. 6. 5. Gebal. 6. Ammonites. 7. Amalekites. 8. Philistines. 9. Tyrians, vers. 7. 10. Assyrians also helping Lots Children, viz. the Moabites and Ammonites, verse 8.

III. An Imprecation of Gods people against these enemies and haters of God and his People. And its very severe: they pray for Gods judgements upon them, 1. Under sundry Examples, viz. That God would do to them, as he did of old, 1. To the Midianites, Judg. 7. 22, &c. 2. To Sisera and Jabin at the Brook Kishon, Judg. 4. 15, 24, &c. who perished at Endor, and became as dung for the Earth, ver. 9, 10. 3. To make their Nobles, as Oreb and Zeeb, two Midian-Princes, Judg. 7. 25. 4. And all their Princes as Zebah and Zalmunnah (two Kings of Midian, Judg. 8. 12, 21.) ver. 11. These examples are amplified, by the sin whereof they were guilty, viz. invading the inheritance of God: and therefore their present enemies, being guilty of the like sin, ver. 4. deserve the like judgements, v. 12. II. Under divers Similitudes. As, 1. Of a Wheel, or rolling thing. 2. Of Stubble before the wind, v. 13. 3. Of a Wood burnt up with fire. 4. Of a Mountain all in a flame, v. 14, 15. III. More plainly, they pray, 1. That God would fill their faces with shame, which is Amplified by the good effect desired to them thereby, viz. That they may seek Gods Name, vers. 16. 2. That God would abase them, and trouble them perpetually, yea put them to shame and destroy them, ver. 17. This is illustrated by the end herein intended, viz. Gods Glory, That all men may know that JEHOVAH is most-High and reignes over all the Earth, verse 18.

§ III. The Kinde, penman, and Occaſion.

This ſweet Pſalme is a Prayer, a moſt devout, fervent, and pathetical Prayer, for the exiled Pſalmiſts free and full Reſtitution to Gods Sanctuary and Communion with God in his Ordinances there.

Penman of it, Interpreters generally ſuppoſe to be David o, though his name be not prefixed. And I much incline to their Judgments herein; 1. Becauſe the Subject-matter and Subſtance of the Pſalme is ſo homogeneal and ſuitable to Pſal. 63. written by David, and to Pſal. 42. which moſt probably was penned by him. 2. Becauſe the very frame and temper of Davids heart and ſpirit towards God and his Ordinances, is moſt lively here repreſented to us. Compare herewith Pſal. 23. 6. and 27. 4. and 42. 1,2, 3,4. and 63. 1,2. 3. 3. Becauſe, here's mention of Gods Anointed-one, which ſtile the Author of this Pſalme ſeems to give himſelf, ver. 9. 4. Becauſe David was ſeveral times exiled from Gods Sanctuary and publick Ordinances, eſpecially by King Saul's perſecutions, and his ſon Abſalom's Inſurrection: ſome of which may well agree with the Argument of this Pſalme.

o Sim. de Muis in Arg. Pſal. 84. —Fran Jun. Annot in Pſal. 84 1.—Jo. Foord Expoſ. in Pſal. 84. Tempus & Author. G. Ames. Lect. in Pſ 84. Hen. Moller. in Pſ. 84. 1.

Occaſion, Junius thinks, was Davids exile among the Philiſtines, through King Saul's perſecutions p. Others referre it rather to the time of Davids exile by reaſon of his ſon Abſalom's rebellion againſt him q. To this latter alſo I ſhall the rather ſubſcribe: becauſe here is mention made of their appearing before God in Sion, verſ. 7. now the Ark was not brought to Sion, till after King Saul's death, yet before Davids flight by reaſon of Abſalom's rebellion, as the current of the Hiſtory ſhewes. But whoſoever was Penman, and whatſoever was the Occaſion in particular, its evident by the matter of the Pſalme in the General: That the Pſalmiſt wrote this Pſalme upon Occaſion of his Exile and Debarment from his longed for Communion with God by his publick Ordinances in his Sanctuary.

p Fran Jun in Annot. ad Pſ 84. 1.

q Jo. Foord in Expoſ Pſ. 84. Tempus.

§. IV. The Scope.

The Pſalmiſts Scope in this Prayer, is; 1. To ſet forth before the LORD the fervent pantings and longings of his ſoule, (now in his Exile from the Sanctuary) after the publick Sanctuary-Ordinances, and their happy Priviledge, who enjoy the LORD'S Preſence, and gracious influences therein: 2. And earneſtly to beſeech the LORD to reſtore him compleatly thereunto, verſ. 1, 2, 4, 9, 10. And if the earthly Tabernacles of God be ſo deſirable: how much more deſirable are the Heavenly manſions! Sweetly Auguſtine; Here we deſire, there we receive; here we ſigh, there we rejoyce; here we pray, there we praiſe; here we groan, there we exult r.

r Hîc deſideratur, ibi capitur; hîc ſuſpiratur, ibi gaudetur; hîc oratur, ibi laudatur; hîc gemîtur, ibi exultatur. Aug. Enar. in Pſ. 83. p. 917. B. Tom. 8. Baſil 1569.

§. V. The Analyſis, or Principal parts.

In the Title note, 1. The Denomination of it; A Pſalme. 2. The Direction of it as to the Muſick. More Generally; To the Maſter-Muſician: More Particularly; to the Sons of Korach. 3. The Muſical Inſtrument, or Tune, wherewith it was to be Tuned, upon Gittith. See Pſal. 8. §. 3.

In the Pſalm it ſelf conſider, 1. The Pſalmiſts vehement deſire after Gods Tabernacles. 2. His Declaration of their happineſs that have their abode therein, or free acceſs thereto. 3. His earneſt requeſt that himſelf may be reſtored to this great mercy.

I. The Pſalmiſts vehement deſire after God and his Tabernacles, is Propounded and Illuſtrated. I. Propounded, 1. By way of Admiration or pathetical Exclamation (a ſigne of intenſive deſire,) at the Amiableneſs of Gods Tabernacles. Which amiableneſs was the procreating cauſe of this his deſire, even ſnatching his heart after them, verſ. 1. 2. By way of pathetical Profeſſion of his vehement deſires. Where note, (1) The Object of his deſires; The Courts of the Lord: The living God. (2) The Quality of them, as to their ſincerity and integrity, being the Deſires of his whole whole man; Soul, Heart, and Flesh. (3) The quantity of his desires, being most extensive and intensive, in highest degree, expressed by his longing, fainting, and shouting-out, ver. 2. II. Illustrated, 1. Partly, by the liberty of the very despicable Sparrow and Swallow, who without impediment can nestle themselves and put their young nigh to the Altars of God: when himself was forcibly debarred of like freedom, ver. 3. 2. Partly, by the envyed happiness of them that had free abode in, and access to Gods Tabernacles, ver. 4 to 8. which makes up the second Branch of the Psalme.

II. His Declaration of their happiness that enjoy the liberty and Ordinances of the Sanctuary, whereof at present himself was deprived. These happy persons, were I. They that dwelt in Gods House: viz. The Priests and Levites. They herein happy, because they were still exercised in the Praises and worship of God, ver. 4. II. They who had strength in God, i. e. The people who by God had ability and liberty of coming to Gods house: and did affect to come thither, having the High wayes to the Sanctuary in their hearts, ver. 5. Such people are here counted happy, 1. Because, God prospers their journey with good successe, ver. 6. 2. Because, by going to the House of God their number still increaseth, ver. 7.

III. His earnest Petition for his Restauration to the Sanctuary. Here consider, I. His vehement and Pathetick request, To the LORD God of Hosts, To the God of Jacob, To God our Shield, that he would Hear, Give ear, See, and look upon, the face of his Annointed, ver. 8, 9 II. His Arguments whereby he enforceth this his Petition. And they are drawn, 1. From the excellency of this Priviledge of enjoying Gods Sanctuary, &c. (1) There a day, is better then a thousand else-where (2) There its better to be at the threshold, then to dwell in Tents of wickedness, ver. 10. 2. From Gods Properties and Promises. (1) His Properties are Metaphorically set forth under the notion of A Sun and Shield. A Sun for Influence and Direction: A Shield for Defence and Prorection. (2) His Promises, of giving Grace and Glory: of with-holding no good thing from upright walkers. Or, the former, of A Sun and Shield, may be taken as a Promise also. Nothing in the Hebrew is to the contrary, verse 11. III. His shutting up his Prayer with an Emphatical Admiration at that mans happinesse that trusts in the LORD of Hosts, ver. 12.

§. III. The Kinde, Occasion, and Penman.

This Psalme is of a Mixt Kinde, made up of Prayer and Doctrine, and that (as sundry Interpreters p think) Prophetical Doctrine, touching Christ and his Kingdom, from verse 8. to the end.

p Augustine, Hierome, Junius, Calvin, H. Moller, &c.

Occasion of it (as is evident from the Psalme it self, verse 1. to 8.) was some renewed trouble and great distress which befell the people of God, after their Captivity had been most graciously returned from Babylon. But what that renewed distress and affliction was, or when it befell them, is diversly apprehended. Some think it is to be referred to the woful times of Antiochus, who most cruelly oppressed, persecuted and dissipated the Church of God q. And that its probable this Psalme was then Dictated to some in the afflicted Church of God. Others, not satisfied with this, r think it hath reference to the troubles which befell the Jews returned from Babylon, Either about the re-building of the Temple, which was hindred by their enemies for 42 years, viz. from the second or third year after their return till the sixth year of Darius son of Hystaspis, compare Ezr. 4.2 &c. and 6. 2, &c. and 6. 15. with Joh. 2. 20. Or about their worship, and inhabiting in Jerusalem, &c. after the Temple was finished; for such were the incursions of their enemies upon them, that though they had built the Temple, yet could they not manage their Solemn Worship in quietness, nor dwell in Jerusalem in peace, till they had compleated the Walls and Gates about Jerusalem, Nehem. 1, &c. And to this latter Opinion I the rather incline for the reason given, viz. That not this, nor any other Psalme, nor any other Scripture was written in the time of Antiochus: because Malachi, the last Prophet and Writer of the Old Testament, wrote his Prophecy a little before the end of the Persian Monarchy, as may appear by comparing his Prophecy with the last Chapters of Nehemiah s. Let the Learned Reader judge. Penman, who he was, is altogether uncertain.

§. IV. The Scope.

The Scope of the Psalmist in this Psalme, is; Upon commemoration of former deliverance from Babylon received, to intreat the LORD to rescue the Church of God from her present pressing Calamities, and to incite himself and the Church to wait for this Mercy and Deliverance, (which as a Type) was to have its full accomplishment in their Deliverance and Redemption by Jesus Christ.

§. V. The Analysis, or Principal Parts.

In the Title are, 1. the Direction of it as to the Musick: More General, and more Particular. 2. The Denomination of it; A Psalme.

In the Psalme it self note,

I. A grateful Recognition or Commemoration of mercy received from God by his people, which is here laid down as an experimental encouragement to Faith in the ensuing Petitions. The mercy acknowledged is here described, 1. By the Primary Cause thereof; Gods good-pleasure to his Land. 2. By the kinde of the mercy, viz. Returning Jacobs Captivity, from Babylon, ver. 1. 3. By the sweet way or effectual manner which God took in effecting hereof: He removed all the chief Causes of their Captivity, and impediments to their deliverance, viz. (1) Their sin and iniquity: which he had forgiven and covered, ver. 2. (2) His own exceeding wrath, and fervency of anger; which he had gathered away, and turned from, ver. 3.

II. An earnest Prayer to the LORD for delivering his people again from renewed distresse and affliction. Here note, 1. The Compellation of God, suitably to the raising up of their hope; O God of our Salvation. 2. The Petitions, (1) Partly, for restoring them; Turn thou us: that is, from present trouble, to our former good estate. (2) Partly, for cessation and removal of his indignation, ver. 4. 3. A Pathetical Expostulation, (1) Against the long continuance of Gods anger upon them, ver. 5. (2) About Gods not turning and reviving his people, that they might rejoyce in him, ver. 6. 4. A renewed request for Gods Mercy and Salvation, ver. 7.

III. An holy and faithful resolution of the Psalmist, to expect and wait upon the LORD by hope, faith, and patience, &c. for his gracious answer. Which resolution he confirmes and strengthens by by sundry choice Arguments. As, 1. Because the Lord will speak peace to his people, and to his Saints. This is amplified by the good effect of both their Trouble and Peace, That they shall not return again to folly and wickedness, verse 8. 2. Because, Gods Salvation is near to his fearers. This his Salvation is illustrated from Gods end intended therein, viz. That Glory might dwell in their Land, ver. 9. This Glory is excellently described, wherein it shall consist, viz. (1) Partly, In Spirituals. Set down in two Relations mutually embracing, viz. Mercy, and Faith, or Truth: The Mercy of God, received by the Faith of man. Righteousnesse and Peace. Gods Righteousnesse working Peace in man, as Rom. 5. 1. [u] v. 10. 11. (2) Partly, In Temporals, all confluence of Temporals, v. 12. (3) Partly, in the Habitual Prevalency and stability of Righteousnesse before the LORD, v. 13. All which Glory seems to be here intended to have its Primary and most Plenary accomplishment in the Kingdom of Jesus Christ: As both Ancient and Modern Writers expound the same.

§. III. The Kinde, Penman, and Occasion.

This Psalme was Davids Prayer, as the Title shewes: This points out clearly both the Kinde, and Penman of it.

Occasion of this Prayer, was some great distress and affliction wherewith David was exercised by violent enemies, See verse 1,7,14. But as to the particular distress here prayed against; whether, it was, His Opposition by the Syrians, 1 Sam. 10. Or his distress by reason of the Rebellion of Absalom his Son; as some [o] conjecture. Or his trouble from Sauls persecution, when he was forced to fly from King Sauls Court, and forced to live in a very poor and needy condition, &c. See ver. 1, 14. As Kimchi, Sim de Muis, Calvin, and H. Moller [p] think: Is not so clearly determinable. Though in my judgment, the whole Tenour of this Prayer doth best agree to this last Opinion. However, This being a Prayer of David afflicted and distressed by his many violent enemies, wherein, both the Petitions presented, and Arguments whereby those Petitions are enforced, are of common concernment to all Gods people in like case afflicted: I greatly applaud the judgment of Junius [q] and Calvin [r], who account this a most fit and excellent Form of Prayer for any of Gods dear people afflicted and distressed by violent adversaries. I may justly stile it; A sweet Prayer of an afflicted Saint, distressed by violent enemies.

q Orationis forma, quam David præscripsit piis, ut in gravibus rerum difficultatibus uterentur. Quamobrem nullam adhibuit circumscriptionem temporum, personarum, aut locorum, ut alibi fecit, sed ils tantum argumentis utitur, quæ fidelibus omnibus convenire possunt. Fran. Jun. Annot. in Psal. 86.1.

r Quare, ne in summis afflictionibus animos nostros obruat desperatio, succurrat hæc sultura, pauperibus & miseris dictatam esse hanc precationem à Spiritu Sancto. Joan. Calvin. Comment. in Ps. 86.1.

§. IV. The Scope.

Davids Scope in this choice Prayer, is; 1. To intreat the Lord to hear, keep, save and show favour to him in his deep distresses by reason of his violent enemies; 2. And to establish him in his Truth and Fear notwithstanding all his troubles. See ver. 1,2,3, 11,14,17.

§. V. The Analysis, or Principal Parts.

In the Title are expressed, 1. The Kinde of this Psalme; A Prayer. 2. The Penman of it; David: A Prayer of David: or, Davids Prayer, his Eminent Prayer, &c.

In the Prayer, or Psalme itself, note, several sorts of Petitions, urged by variety of Arguments, viz.

I. Davids Petitions for Audience, Preservation, Mercy and Comfort, are I. Propounded severally, verse 1,2,3,4. II. Urged by two sorts of Arguments. 1. By Arguments drawn from the Petitioner himself, David. Which Arguments severally annexed to the several Petitions. As, he craves; (1) Audience. Partly, because he was Poor-afflicted. Partly, because he was Needy, verse 1. (2) Preservation, and Salvation. Partly, because he was Holy. Partly, because he trusted in God, verse 2. (3) Mercy. Because of his crying to him all the day, verse 3. (4) Comfort and joy to his Soul. Because he lifts up his Soul unto God, ver. 4. 2. By Arguments drawn from God himself, viz. His (1) Goodnes. (2) Readines to forgive. (3) Abundant mercifulnesse to all that call upon him, ver. 5. (4) Readines to hear in day of trouble. Therefore he craves audience, and promiseth to call upon him in such a day, ver. 6,7. (5) Excellency of the Lord above all Gods, and of his works above all other works, verse 8. This Excellency is illustrated, by the influence it shall have upon all the Gentiles, bringing them to worship God and glorifie his Name. A secret Prophecy and promise of the calling of the Gentiles, vers. 9. (6) Greatnes, demonstrated by the effect thereof, his doing wondrous things. 7. Singular unity. God alone, ver. 10.

II. Davids earnest and heavenly request to the Lord to direct him in his way, and unite him to his fear. This he urgeth, 1. From his Reſolution and Promiſe of walking anſwerably, verſe 11. 2. From his Promiſe of entire and conſtant thankfulneſs to God: (1) In General, For his great mercy towards him. (2) In Particular, for delivering his Soul from the loweſt hell, ver. 12, 13. 3. From the inſurrection and cruelty of his proud violent and Atheiſtical enemies, verſe 14. 4. From the ſweet Nature of God; being (1) Tenderly-merciful: (2) Gracious: (3) Long-ſuffering: (4) Much of loving-kindneſs: (5) Much of Truth, ver. 15.

to

III. Davids Petition to the LORD, for his Return, Mercy, Strength, Salvation, and ſome ſign for good to David. Which is urged, 1. Partly, from Davids Relation to God. His Servant: Son of his Hand-maid, His born-ſervant. 2. Partly, from the effect hereof upon his enemies, ſhame and confuſion, when they ſhall ſee that the Lord helps and comforts [f] David, ver. 16, 17.

§. III. The Kinde, Occaſion, and Penman.

This Pſalme is Landatory or Commendatory, and Prophetical, in reference to the Church of God. Short (as Auguſtine [g] ſaith well) in the number of words: but large in the weight of all its Sentences. And by reaſon of its brevity, it hath in it the more obſcurity: inſomuch that another ſaith; In this Pſalme every where are great darkneſſes [h].

Occaſion of it, Calvin and others think was the low, mean, and weak condition of the Church of God after her return from Babyloniſh Captivity, and re-edifying of the Temple and Jeruſalem: whereupon perhaps ſome of the Sons of Korach took occaſion by the Spirits Inſpiration to write this Pſalme, for the ſupport and comfort of Gods people, againſt all the preſent meanneſs, weakneſs, and deſpicableneſs of the Church of God, by conſideration of her ſtability, and Spiritual Glory in the acceſs of the Gentiles to her for the future, &c [i]. And the current of the Pſalme well agrees hereunto. Yet ſome others [k] think, This Pſalme was Penned, after David had brought up the Ark of God to Jeruſalem, and placed it in the Tent prepared for it in Mount Sion, 2 Sam. 6. and 1 Chron. 16. 1. Or rather after God had ſhowed to David the place where the Temple ſhould be built, 2 Sam. 24. 18. which is rather embraced. I leave all to the judgement of the Learned, in a Caſe ſo difficult.

k Joan. Ford in Expoſ. Pſal. 87. Author & Temp.

Penman of this Pſalme is conſequently as uncertain as the Occaſion: Some [l] as Kimchi, Foord, and others, thinking it was David, and that he wrote it by a Prophetical Spirit before the Temple was founded; Others [m] ſuppoſing it rather to be written by ſome of the Sons of Korach, or other Prophet, after the Return of the Jewes from Babyloniſh Captivity. Be it how it will, it is not doubted by any, but generally confeſſed by all, that the Holy Ghoſt was the Author of it.

§. IV. The Scope.

The Scope intended in this Pſalme is; To diſplay the ſurpaſſing Stability, Glory, and Amplitude of the Church, under the Type and Figure of Sion and Ieruſalem; That her ſingular excellency being duely eſteemed, ſhe may bee dearly affected, and God highly glorified in her and for her, by all her true and genuine members.

§. V. The Analyſis, or Principal Parts.

In the Title are, 1. The Direction of it as to the Muſick of it; To the ſons, &c. 2. The Denominations of it; A Pſalme, a Song.

In this Laudatory Prophetical Pſalme, The high Excellency of the Church of God, under the Figure or Type of Sion and the City Jeruſalem, is moſt elegantly and pathetically deſcribed. But eſpecially theſe three wayes, viz.

I. By her firme Foundation. In, or among the Mountains of holineſs. As the Temple was founded on M. Moriah and Sion, 2 Chron. 3. 1. Pſal. 2. 6. or among the holy Mountains round about Jeruſalem, Pſal. 125 2. So Gods Church is founded by Gods eternal Decree, &c. upon Chriſt Jeſus, verſe 1. This her firme Foundation is further Amplified, By the procreating cauſe thereof, viz. Gods peculiar love to the Gates of Sion, (i.e. To Sion: Synechd.) more then to all other the dwellings of Jacob, verſ. 2. So God hath choſen us in Chriſt of his meer love, grace, &c. Eph 1. 3. to 7.

II. By the glorious Teſtimony of God and his Prophets touching the City of God, Jeruſalem, in Type; The Church, in Truth; O City of God, (Apoſtrophe.) Glorious things, &c. verſ. 3.

III. By the Diffuſion and Enlargement of the Church throughout all Nations by the calling of the Gentiles. Here, 1. The Calling of the Gentiles to the fellowſhip of the Church is elegantly deſcribed; 1. By Induction or Enumeration of ſundry particular Nations, that ſhould be added to the Church, (though Partly through their wealth and pride; Partly through their enmity and hatred to Gods City, this might ſeem never ſo improbable.) As, (1) Rahab, (i.e. Egypt, ſo called Pſal. 89. 11. Iſa. 51. 9.) (2) Babel. (3) Paleſtina; the Land of the Philiſtines. (4) Tyre. (5) Cuſh, i. e. Æthiopia, Pſal. 68. 32. Under theſe, by a Synechtoche, underſtand all the reſt of the Gentiles. 2. By the Profeſſion and Obſervation of that their Call; I will make mention—— And—— it ſhall be ſaid—— Where, this Call is illuſtrated by the powerful effect it ſhould have upon the called Gentiles; They ſhould be borne in the Church. 3. By the fruit and end of this their their Calling. Thus the moſt High ſhall eſtabliſh the Church, verſ. 4, 5. 4. By the LORDS own Teſtimony confirming this Call of the Gentiles, in an elegant alluſion to the Practice of men, in Regiſtring and Enrolling free Citizens, ver. 6. II. This Enlargement, and the other glory of the Church, is notably Illuſtrated, by the great joy and refreſhment which it ſhall effect in the genuine members thereof, metaphorically ſet forth under the ſimilitudes of Singers, Pipers, and Well-ſprings there; or, Eyes, aſpects there, The faithful beholding with great joy and delight this Enlargement and Glory of the Church, ver. 7.

My Pray'r shall thee prevent at morne,
14. Why dost reject my Soule, O LORD?
Why hid'st thy [p] face from mee forlorne?
15. I am still poore-afflicted here,
And from my youth about-to-dy:
Thy sore affrightings I do beare,
I am-perplexed-doubtfully.

16. Thy burning-wraths o're mee do pass:
Thy terrours mee [q] cut-cut-away.
17. They-round-encompass-mee alas

§. III. The Kinde, Occasion, and Penman.

This is a most doleful Lamenting-Prayer of the Psalmist in extreamest affliction. It is counted a Doctrinal, or Teaching Psalme: but it is a Lamenting Expostulation. One saith; This Psalme is the most doleful of all the Bible, full of Complaints even to the end[s]. Both Augustine[t], and Hierom[u], count this Psalme to be a Prophetical Description of the Passion and Sufferings of Christ for us, which were most severe and extream. And H. Mollerus[x] inclines so far to them herein as to think, that these extream dolours, whether of David or Heman here described, may be looked upon as it were types of Christs deepest sorrows. Whether Christs sorrowes or sufferings were here at all intended or no by the Holy Ghost, I will not peremptorily determine: But this is evident, that the deepest of these expressions are not beyond the woful sufferings of Christ. It is somwhat congruous to those Psalmes, vulgarly called Penitential, viz. Psal. 6. 32, 38, 51, 102, 130, 143. especially to some of them. There are also some other Psalmes of like nature; as Psal. 25, 42, 43, 69. &c. especially Psal. 77. Its one of the Maschil's or Instructing Psalmes, (See Psal 32. §. 3.) Instructing the choicest and deerest of Gods People, That though deepest afflictions and miseries befall them, they should not look upon their condition as desperate, but hopefully look up and pray to the LORD their God for deliverance and salvation. And its one of those which are called both A Song and A Psalme: the reason whereof is variously apprehended. Probably, it denotes some observable singularity in the Subject-matter of the Psalme. See what is noted to this purpose on Psal. 30. §. 5.

Occasion of writing this Expostulating Psalme, was (as the Subject-matter of it in the general hints) some extream afflictions and miseries even almost to death, which which befell the Penman of it; (what thoſe his miſeries were is not particularly known,) whereupon he repreſents his deep Lamentations and Complaints by Prayer to his God, yet not without hope of his Salvation and Deliverance by the Lord, out of all his extremities. Annius a Commentator of Philo, thinks (as H. Mollerus hath noted) that this Pſalme was ſet forth and ſung in the ſix yeares wherein Ichoiakim was in priſon at Babylon: And Philo ſaith, the following Pſalm was ſet forth to give thanks for the preſervation of the Jewiſh Nation, when Evilmerodach brought Ichoiakim out of priſon. But herein Mollerus determines nothing: nor dare I in a caſe ſo dark and dubious.

y Hen. Moll. in Arg. Pſ. 88.

Penman of this Pſalme, (as the Title ſeems to inform us) was Heman the Ezrachite. There were two Hemans and Æthans; viz. 1. Heman and Æthan, Singers and Muſicians of the poſterity of Levi the Patriarch, 1 Chron. 15. 17, 19. and 16. 42. Heman being the ſon of Joel, the ſon of Samuel the Prophet, 1 Sam. 6. 33. himſelf being alſo a Seer or Prophet in King Davids dayes, 1 Chron. 25. 5. And of the Kingdom promiſed to David doth Æthan treat, Pſal. 89. 4. &c. Chriſts Afflictions and Kingdom are in theſe Pſalmes foretold, (thinks z Ainſworth,) He was the true David, Hoſ 3. 5. 2. Heman and Æthan ſonnes of Zerach the ſon of Iudah the Patriarch, and thence called Ezrachites, 1 Chron. 2. 4, 6. They were men ſo renowned for their wiſdom, that Solomon himſelf is in point of wiſdom compared with them, 1 King. 4. 31. And Calvin thinks, its no wonder, that a man indued with ſuch a ſpirit of wiſdom ſhould be Penman of this Pſalme a. And divers (as Junius, Foord, b, &c.) think, theſe later Heman and Æthan were Penmen of theſe two Pſalmes 88 and 89. But c Muis hath a ſhrewd objection againſt this: How could theſe two brothers ſons of Zerach pen theſe two Pſalmes, ſeeing Pſal. 89. ſpeaks ſo plainly of Davids Kingdom, and of ſome ſad events that had befallen it, verſ. 3. ——38, &c. which things came to paſs long after theſe ſecond Heman and Æthan were dead. Therefore he thinks it might be ſome of their poſterity called after their Names, (who probably lived in the dayes of King Solomon and Reboboam) and Ezrachites from Zerach Head of their Family. For my part, I ſee no inconvenience in this his Reſolution. But I leave this to the Judgement of the Learned.

§. IV. The Scope.

The Scope intended in this Pſalme, is; 1. More Immediate and peculiar to Heman himſelf: viz. To intreat the LORD for Relaxation and Deliverance from his manifold and extream miſeries, pathetically ſpread before the LORD, verſ. 1, 2, 13. 2. More mediate and Common to other of Gods deeply afflicted people: viz. To inſtruct and teach Gods beſt and deareſt ſervants, that they are not in this life exempt from ſevereſt extremities of deadly diſtreſs and affliction: and yet they ſhould not in any the worſt extremities deſpond or deſpair, but open all their grief by prayer, complaints and expoſtulations to their God in hopes and expectation of relief and ſuccour from him even in loweſt condition. In this Pſalme we have (as ſome think) a Pattern of Prayer and Deportment in our private affliction: In Pſal. 89. a Pattern of Prayer, &c. in caſe of the Churches publick Calamity d.

In

In the Psalme it self, which is, A most sad Lamenting Expostulating Prayer, note

I. The Ground and Foundation of his Prayer, viz. His confidence in God, as sole Author of his Salvation.

II. His Prayer grounded hereupon, is described; As Past, As Present. I. His Prayer for time past, is set forth, by the 1. Zeale and fervency of it; I have cryed. 2. Sincerity of it; before thee. 3. Assiduity, and importunity of it; night and day, ver. 1. II. His Prayer for present, is for Audience of his Prayers now in his distress: set forth in two phrases, ver. 2.

III. His Arguments or Reasons whereby he endeavours to enforce his Prayer, are drawn from the Extremity of those Miseries and Calamities, wherewith he was even overwhelmed. As

1. His Soul was even glutted with evils of affliction.

2. His very life was in condition of Death: viz. He was, 1. As a dying man, ver. 3. 2. As a man quite dead, and without strength, going to the grave, ver. 4. 3. As a man buried like the slain, forgotten of God, and cut off from his hand, ver. 5. yea as a man in lowest pit, darkness, and deeps: past all hopes of reviving, ver. 6.

3. All Gods waves afflicted him, flowing from Gods wrath permanent upon him, ver. 7.

4. His desolate and extream destitute condition, 1. Being deprived of his Acquaintance, abominating him. 2. Being shut-up as in a Dungeon or Prison, that he could not come forth to refresh himself, ver. 8.

5. His mournful tears through affliction, mingled with his dayly and instant Prayers, ver. 9.

6. His extream low condition of misery into which God had brought him. Being, 1. As Dead, 2. In the Grave, 3. In Destruction, 4. In Darkness, 5. In the Land of forgetfulnesse. Whereupon he expostulates the case with God: whether God in that his extremity intended to work miracles; And how men in such state could possibly declare and propagate Gods praises, ver. 10, 11, 12.

IV. His Prayer is afresh repeated, and described by 1. The fervency of it. 2. The earlinesse of it, ver. 13. This is again Amplyfied and enforced,

1. By a Pathetical Expostulation with God, 1. For rejecting him. 2. For hiding his face from him, ver. 14.

2. By a doleful complaint of the extremity and grievousnes of his Afflictions, Described most pathetically and elegantly. He being, 1. Ready to dy through affliction, from his youth-up. 2. Distracted, through Gods terrours, ver. 15. 3. Overflowed with God's burning wrath. 4. Cut-off quite with his terrours, ver. 16. 5. Surrounded and encompassed daily with these miseries, as with waters, ver. 17. 6. Deprived utterly of Lover, fellow-friend, and Acquaintance, hiding them as in darknes from him, or hiding them from him thus brought into darknes, ver. 18.

38. But thou hast cast-off, and refus'd:
And wast-exceeding-wroth
With thine Anoynted, sharply us'd.
39. Thy Servants Cov'nant-Oath
Thou hast aboliſh'd: To the ground
Thou hast prophan'd his crown.
40. [d] Didst all his fortresses confound,
Brak'st all his Hedges down.

41. So that all those make-him-a-prey
That by the way do pass:
Unto his neighbours day by day
A great reproach hee was.
42. Right-hand of his distressing-foes
Thou didst exalt likewise:
Thou hast rejoyced much all those
That are his Enemies.

43. Yea thou his Sword's edge in his hand
Hast turn'd to his disgrace:
And mad'st him not in battel stand.
44. Thou mad'st his brightness cease:
And to the Earth thou-down-hast-cast
His Throne and royal fame.
45. [e] His youth's dayes shortened-thou-hast:
Hast [f] him enwrapt with shame.

§. III. The Kinde, Penman, and Occasion.

This Psalme is of a Mixt Kinde, or Nature: made up of Praise, Prayer, Instruction, Prophecy, Expostulation, &c. Its one of the Maschil's or Instructing Psalmes o: Teaching and Instructing the Church of God how to be affected, in regard of the publick Mercies or Miseries of the Church, rejoycing and praising God for the one, lamenting and bewailing the other.

Penman of it (as the Title declares) was Æthan the Ezrachite. Who this Æthan was, is much doubted. Some do conjecture, it was not Æthan brother of Heman, one of the Master-Musicians, a Levite, 1 Chron. 6. 33. but the Brother of Heman, the Sonnes of Zerach, the posterity of Judah, 1 Chron. 2. 4, 6. called an Ezrachite, from Zerach, Head of that Family p. This Æthan was a very wise man in his dayes, 1 King. 4. 31. Yet because this Æthan was probably dead long before Davids time, I suppose it may bee safer to understand it of one of his Posterity, and of the same o See Psal. 32. §. 3.

p Joan. Foord in Expos. Ps. 89. Tit. Sim. de Muis in Arg. Ps. 88. & 89.

name, and living after Solomons dayes, when Davids Kingdom was so wofully ruined and dissipated. But in a matter so difficult and doubtful, I list not to be to[o] definitive.

Occasion whereupon, and time when this was written; In General, was some great ruine and calamity which befel the Kingdom of David, which seemed even to make void Gods former Covenant with David for the perpetual establishment of his Seed and Throne: But in Particular what publick Calamity this was, and when it fell out, is much doubted by Interpreters. Some [q] referre it to his Kingdoms future calamity foretold, which befel the Jews, either under the Babylonish Captivity or Antiochus his Tyranny, &c. But the whole Psalme, especially, verse 38. to the end, plainly speak the contrary, and declare that these Calamities had actually befallen Davids Kingdom, when this was written. Others [r] therefore seem better and more probably, to referre the Time and Occasion to the decay and ruine of Davids Kingdom which sadly began after King Solomons death: when the ten Tribes forsaking Rehoboam and Davids house, and Gods pure worship: they followed Jeroboam, setting up a new Religion and a new Kingdom, 1 King. 12. 1, &c. And when Rehoboam forsook the Law of the LORD, 2 Chron. 11. 17, &c. and 12. 1. and when Shishak King of Egypt, in Rehoboam's fifth year invaded Judah, overcame Rehoboam, and spoiled the whole Kingdom, 2 Chron. 12. 2, &c. Hereupon Æthan considering the wofull ruine of the Kingdom, wrote this Psalme, praising the Mercy and Truth of God, who had promised to perpetuate Davids Kingdom: Hereby to raise up the hopes of the Faithful, to expect the Restauration of Davids miserably ruined Kingdom; especially in the Kingdom of CHRIST, the true David, Hos. 3. 5.

§. IV. The Scope.

The Scope herein principally intended, is; 1. To praise God, for his Covenant, Mighty Power, Care of his Church, and singular favour to David in promising him a Perpetual Seed and Kingdom, which was to have its chief accomplishment in Christ and his everlasting Kingdom: withall, lamenting the present deplorable condition of his decaid and ruined Kingdom, To pray for the Restauration thereof. 2. To instruct Gods People, by this Platforme of Praise, Lamentation, and Prayer, How to be affected with, and carry themselves towards the Lord in all his publick Dispensations of Mercy or Misery to his Church.

§. V. The Analysis, or Principal Parts.

[s] See also Psal. 32. §. 3.

The Title sets forth, 1. The Denomination of this Psalme; Maschil. Or, An Instructing-Psalme. The whole of it tends to Instruction, as hath been now noted in §. 3 c. 2. The Penman; Æthan the Ezrachite: of him see formerly in §. 3.

The Psalme it self consists of 1. Praise, and 2. Prayer.

I. Praise is here presented to God, in sundry respects, verse 1. to 38. viz.

1. In respect of his Covenant with David, touching his Seed and Throne. Here note, I. A Profession of the Psalmists Resolution, 1. To sing the LORD's Covenant-Mercies towards David and his house for ever, (however it were at present beclouded with afflictions.) 2. To make known Gods faithfulness to him to all Generations, ver. 1. II. A Confirmation of his Faith in Gods Covenant with David, and of this his professed Resolution of Praising God continually hereupon, by sundry Reasons or Arguments. Which are drawn, 1. From Gods everlasting Mercy. 2. From his firme unchangeable faithfulnesse, vers. 2. 3. From his Covenant with David; whereof note, 1. The manner of its Sanction, by Gods Oath, verse 3. 2. The Matter of it; Gods perpetual establishment of his Seed and Throne, (this had its chief accomplishment in Christ and his Kingdom, Luke 1. 32, 33, 69. Act. 2. 30. and 13. 36, &c.) ver. 4.

2. In respect of Gods wonderful Power. Whereby he is fully and exactly able to make good and performe his Covenant and faithful promises to David, and to relieve his distressed Family to the uttermost, though never so low at present. This Power of God is asserted, 1. From the testimony of the Heavens; The Heavens shall confess thy marvellous-work, h. e. The Fabrick of Heavens shall confess thy marvellous Power and Act in Creating and Governing the World Or, Heavenly Creatures, Angels and godly men, shall confesse thy marvellous Power and Act, in per-performing thy Covenant, restoring thy afflicted, &c. and they shall confesse thy faithfulnesse in the Church of Saints, *vers.*5. 2. From the incomparable excellency of God, above all the Angels in Heaven. Above all Sons of Mighties, Princes, Potentates, &c. on Earth; Or, Angels in Heaven, ver. 6. 3. From the dreadfulnesse of God, (viz. in his judgements upon them that believe not his All-sufficient Power, as Numb. 14.) and therefore to be greatly feared and reverenced by all his chief Creatures, his Saints, &c. which may be understood of holy men, or Angels, ver. 7. 4. From the unparalleld evidences of his Power and faithfulnesse. Generally hinted, verse 8. Particularly evidenced; (1) In his Ruling the Raging Sea at his pleasure, ver. 9. (2) In his beating down Rahab (that is, Pharaoh and the Egyptians, as Psal. 87. 4.) and scattering his enemies, &c. vers. 10. (3) In his Soveraign Right over Heaven and Earth. They are his. (4) In his Creating the whole World and all therein: The North, and Right-side, viz. The South:) The West, and East t, vers. 11, 12. (5) In the might of his Arm; strength of his Hand, high exaltation of his Right-hand, *ver.*13. 5. From sundry Essential Attributes of God, Justice, Mercy, and Truth: whereby he is able and willing to make good his Covenant, advance Davids dejected Kingdom, and suppresse the enemies thereof, *ver.*14.

t The North] Which God hath stretched out over the empty-place, Job 26.7.—The Right-side] that is, the South, (as the Chaldee Paraphrast explaineth,) so called; because, a man standing with his face to the East (as they were wont when they prayed) the South is on his right hand. So the East, is called Kedem, before: And the West, Achor, that is, behind, Joh 23. 8. *Isai.*9. 12. It seemed that this turned to Superstition and Idolatry, that men prayed towards the East; Therefore God so ordered his Tabernacle and Temple, that all worshipped there, with their faces to the West, Ezek. 8. 16. *Exod.*27. *Numb.*3. Hermon] Another fair Mountain Eastward, without Jordan, called also Shirion, See Psal 42.6. and 29. 6. By these are meant the East and West-parts, answerable to the former, North and South: As the Chaldee Paraphrast saith; Tabor in the West, and Chermon that is in the East. H. Ainsworth in his Annot. on Psal. 89. 13.

3. In respect of Gods benignity and care over his Church and people: especially in the Kingdom of David, and Christ Here, 1. His Church and people are described; A people that know the joyful sound, viz. Of the Trumpet calling to Solemn Assemblies wherein they were to have communion with God. 2. Their happinesse is asserted; O the blessednesses of the people——. 3. This their happiness is explicated, by the sweet fruits and effects of enjoying Gods ordinances upon the joyful sound, viz. (1) walking on in the light of Gods Countenance, ver. 15. (2) Constant gladness in God's Name. (3) Exaltation in his Righteousnes, *vers.*16. 4. All this is illustrated by the Causes thereof, viz. (1) The LORD being the glory of their strength. (2) His favour, exalting them, verse 17. (3) Their Shield (in Davids and Christ's Kingdom) being from him. (4) Their King (of Davids Race, especially CHRIST himself) being of the Holy One of Israel, ver.18.

4. In respect of Gods singular favour to Davids Kingdom and Seed; and especially to Christ and his Everlasting Kingdom, principally intended therein. In both, Gods great care and love to his Church was Eminently Demonstrated. Here Note, I. The Manner of Gods revealing his pleasure and purpose touching Davids and Christs Kingdome, viz. By Vision to his holy Prophets. II. God's Election and Vocation of David to the Kingly Office, verse 19, 20. III. Gods Promises to, and Covenant with David, 1. To establish and strengthen him, verse 21. 2. To protect him from his enemies power and prevalency over him, *ver.*22. 3. To subdue his enemies and haters, *vers.*23. 4. To be with him by his mercy and faithfulnes, and to exalt his power, *vers.*24. 5. To enlarge his Dominion to the Sea and Rivers, *vers.*25. 6. To accept him in a near and dear Relation to himself, as a Father, &c. his first-born, &c. *ver.*26,27. 7. To perpetuate his mercy to him, and establish his Covenant with him, *ver.*28. 8. To perpetuate his Seed, and his Throne for ever, *vers.*29. This last Promise is further amplified, (1) From a divers fity of Dispensation in case of his Childrens disobedience, viz. Castigation of them with his Rod and Stripes of affliction, ver. 30, 31, 32. (2) From his fixed resolution notwithstanding, Not utterly to take from him his loving-kindness; Not to suffer his faithfulness to fail, vers. 33. Not to break his Covenant; Not to alter his Promise, *ver.*34. (3) From the Adjunct Oath of God for confirmation of his Covenant with David, vers. 35. (4) From Similitude of things durable in Heaven above, viz. The Sun, and Moon, the faithful witness in Heaven to this Covenant of God, ver. 36,37.

II. Prayer to the LORD, is hereupon Pathetically poured forth, *ver.*38, &c. wherein, the Psalmist Complaineth, Expostulateth, Petitioneth, and Blesseth.

1. Complaineth of sundry sad Events to the Kingdom of David, seemingly contrary to Gods former Covenant and Promises, viz. 1. That God had rejected, abhorred, and been wroth with his Anointed, *ver.*38. 2. That God had abolished his servants Covenant. 3. That God had Prophaned his Crown to the Earth, *ver.*39. 4. That God had ruined all his Kingdoms, Defences, and strong-holds, *verse.*40. 5. That hereupon he was spoyled by all passers by, and reproached by his neighbours, *ver.*41. 6. That his enemies were exalted, and rejoyced, *vers.*42. 7. That God had deserted him in the day of Battel, *ver.*43. 8. That God had diminished and made cease his glory and brightness. 9. That God had thrown down his Throne to the ground, *ver.*44. 10. That God had shortned the dayes of his youth, and covered him with shame, *ver.*45.

2. Expostulateth with God, 1. For his hiding himself so long from all this misery upon Davids Kingdom for ever. 2. For the vehemency of his wrath burning like fire, ver. 46.

3. Petitioneth the LORD, 1. To remember, the shortnesse of his time; The vanity of all men; The certain and inevitable Mortality of Man, verse 47,48. 2. To remember and manifest his former loving-kindnesses sworn to David in truth, verse 49. 3. To remember, the reproach of his Servants; His own reproach from all the mighty-people; The reproach of Gods enemies wherewith they have reproached the footsteps of his Anointed, viz. The wayes, life, actions, sufferings, &c. of David, of Christ and his Members, vers. 50, 51.

4. Blesseth the LORD, hoping the LORD will hear, and restore Davids Kingdom. And so concludeth this Psalme (and this third Book of Psalmes) with, Amen, and Amen u, verse 52.

THE FOURTH BOOK,

Viz. OF

PSALMES.

OF the Partition of the Psalmes into Five distinct Books, enough hath been noted already. This FOURTH BOOK OF PSALMES begins with Psal. 90. 1. &c. and ends with Psal. 106. verse 48. Blessed be JEHOVAH, God of Israel from Eternity and unto Eternity: And let all the people say, Amen, Hallelu-jah. So that this fourth Book compriseth in it only XVII Psalmes. Whereof, only seven are Titled Psalmes, having Titles prefixed, viz. Psal. 90. 92. 98. 100. 101. 102. 103. All the rest, viz. Psal. 91. 93. 94. 95. 96. 97. 99. 104. 105. 106. are untituled. Moses wrote Psal. 90. David Penned Psal. 95. See Heb. 4. 7. Psal. 101. See the Title, and Psal. 103. as the Title shewes. Of the Authors of these there's no doubt: who were Penmen of the rest is difficult certainly to determine. But all of them, one as well as another, were Divinely inspired, being indited by the Spirit of God. This Book, considering the shortness of the Psalmes therein, is the shortest of all the five Books.

§. II. The first Version out of the Hebrew.

A Prayer of Moses the man of God.

1. LOrd, thou a our dwelling-place hast been
In b Generations all, the same.
2. Ere Mountains were-brought-forth, or seen c Ere thou the Earth and World didst d frame;
Thou from Eternity unto Eternity dost God remain.
3. Fraile-man to e ruine turn dost thou:
And sa'st, return ye sons of f men.

4. For in thine eyes, a thousand years,
Are g as the by-past yesterday;
And as a watch by night appeares.
5. Them-with-a-flood-thou-tak'st-away,
They are as sleep: Or as the grass
That h sprouteth-up at morning-tide.
6. At morne it flowreth, and i doth pass:
At Ev'n it is cut down, and dryd.

7. For in thine ire consum'd we are
And troubled in thy wrathful-heat.
8. All our iniquities so bare
And plain before thee thou hast set:
Our close faults k in thy faces light.
9. For in thy fury-vehement
All our dayes have-declined-quite:
We as a thought our years have spent.

10. As for the days of our few years,
In them are threescore years and ten;
And if in l strength be fourscore years,
Yet is their m prime but grief and pain:
For it is speedily cut-down,
And hence we fly, and disappear.
11. Who knows the strength of thy o Thy wrath, according to thy fear?

II.

12. To number our declining dayes
So make us know, O thou most high,
That unto Wisdom's choicest wayes
The heart we p closely-may-apply.
13. Yet once again-return-do-thou,
O LORD, how long wilt disappear?
Likewise let it repent thee now
Concerning us thy servants deare.

14. Us in the morning satisfy
With thy kinde-mercy sweet alwaies;
That we may shout triumphantly,
And may rejoyce in all our dayes.
15. Make thou us to rejoyce once more,
According to the days wherein
Thou hast afflicted us full sore,
The years wherein we ill have seen.

The second Version out of the Hebrew, of an easier Tune.

A Prayer of Moses the man of God,

1. O LORD, an Habitation
Thou hast been to us here
In Generation and Generation.
2. Before a the Hills born-were;
Before thou hadst-brought-forth also
The Earth and World abroad;
Ev'n-from-Eternity thou to Eternity art God.

3. To Deaths utter contrition
Thou sorry-man dost turne;
And say'st, ye Adam's sons anon
Unto your dust returne.
4. For lo, a thousand years at last
Are but b before thy sight,
As yesterday when it is past,
And as a watch by night.

5. Them-as-with-flood-thou-tak'st-away,
Ev'n as a sleep they are:
And in the morning-season they
As grass that's chang'd appeare.

6. It in the morning flourisheth
And c sprouteth pleasantly:

At Evening, dead and dry.

II.

7. For, lo, we in thine d anger are Consumed-utterly.
And in thy wrathful-heat we are e Perplexed-suddenly.
8. Thou hast set our iniquities
Before thee in full sight:
Hast brought our hidden-sins likewise
Unto thy faces light.

9. For all our days do f turne-away
In-thine-exceeding-wrath:
We have consum'd our years, that they
Are as a g thought, or breath.
10. The days of our few years, in them

§. III. The Kinde, Penman, and Occaſion of this Pſalme.

This Pſalme (as the Title declares) is A Prayer.

Penman of it, was Moſes the man of God: it being entituled, A Prayer of Moſes the man of God, who can rationally be imagined to be the Amanuenſis of it, but Moſes. And (as Calvin notes) the rather, becauſe even in Moſes times Pſalmes were in uſe [p]. And therefore, Auguſtine and others do cauſeleſly doubt of Moſes writing this Pſalme [q]. And the conceit of Saadia, underſtanding by this Phraſe, A Prayer of Moſes, A Prayer of the poſterity of Moſes, viz. the Levites, by an Eclipſis, is juſtly rejected by learned Expoſitors [r], as altogether needleſs and impertinent in this place, where ſuch an honorifical mention is made of Moſes; ——Of Moſes the man of God. Hierome reſolves better [s], That the ſame Moſes, who in Geneſis wrote of mans condition, is here brought in by the Holy Ghoſt to diſpute what man is, &c.

p Jo. Calv. in Tit. Pſ. 90.
q Aug. Enarrat. in Pſ. 89.
r Sim. de Muis in Com. ad Tit. Pſ. 90. Jo. Calv. ib.
s Hier. in Com. ad Pſ. 89. Tit. Tom. 8.

Occaſion of Moſes writing this Pſalme is variouſly apprehended. Some think Moſes wrote it when he had numbred the people of Iſrael the ſecond time in the Plains of Moab, Numb. 1. 1[illegible]5, 46 [t]. The Chaldee Paraphraſt hath it thus; A Prayer, wherewith Moſes the Prophet of the LORD prayed, when the People of the houſe of Iſrael ſinned in the Wilderneſs, He ſpake and ſaid [u];——Hereupon, ſundry Interterpreters [x], eying the Matter of the Pſalme, incline to follow the Chaldee Paraphraſt: Only whereas the Chaldee ſpeaks more Generally, they point out the Occaſion more particularly, viz. That, when the Spies, ſent to ſearch the Promiſed Land, had returned and made their report of it, all Iſrael murmured ſo grievouſly againſt Moſes and Aaron, the Lord was ſo deeply diſpleaſed, that he ſware, that none of them of that Generation that provoked God, ſhould enter into it, but they ſhould wander in the Wilderneſs, till all their Carkaſes ſhould be fallen there, See Numb. 13. and 14. throughout. Hereupon, at Gods dreadful Sentence of Death upon that whole Generation, they conceive Moſes Penned this Pſalme, As a Form of Prayer wherein the people were to lament their own exceeding fragility, as well as the common mortality of mankind; confeſſing and bewailing their ſins the Cauſe thereof, and imploring the Lord for his Grace and favour againſt their preſent miſery, and for their preſent and future undertakings. But Calvin [y] thinks, if conjecture may have place, it is credible, that Moſes wrote this Prayer, when now the time of his death was at hand, that he might lenify the daily grief under which the people had almoſt pined away, and might refreſh their minds oppreſſed with an heap of evils for forty years together in the Wilderneſs. Therefore he opportunely prayes; Make thou us rejoyce, according to the dayes thou haſt afflicted us, the years wherein we have ſeen evil, ver. 15. I ſee not any inconvenience, why theſe two laſt Opinions may not be joyned together: The Occaſion being, Iſraels many miſeries, eſpecially their great mortality in the wilderneſs; The time of writing this Pſalme upon that Occaſion, being

§. IV. The Scope.

The Scope chiefly intended in this Prayer, is; In deep ſenſe of humane frailty, and of Iſraels great mortality and miſeries in the Wilderneſs, together with the cauſe thereof, their ſins and iniquities, To beſeech the LORD, in the name of Iſrael; To inſtruct them in the beſt improvement of this their frailty unto wiſdome; To returne to them with wonted favours, and make them rejoyce according to the long time of their afflictions; To reſtore them and their children from diſtreſs; To accompliſh his Covenant with them, in ſtabliſhing their great work which they were about the taking of the promiſed land into poſſeſſion. Now theſe things throughout this Pſalme are ſet forth with ſuch abundance of elegant Rhetorical figures, metaphors, and ſimilitudes, adorning the Pſalme as the ſtarres the ſky 2, that many things therein are the harder to be underſtood, though the ſtrain be the more ſtately and lofty.

2 Difficile & obſcurum eſt hoc carmen propter figuras & ſimilitudines varias, necnon genera loquendi ſublimi poeſi digna, quibus, ut cœlum ſyderibus, diſtinguitur atque ornatur. Sim. de Muis in Arg. Pſ. 90.

§. V. The Analyſis, or Principal Parts.

The Title of this excellent Pſalme manifeſts, 1. The kinde of it; A Prayer. Many Pſalmes are Prayers: but four are ſo ſtiled, viz. Pſal. 17. 86. 90. 102. 2. The Penn an of it, deſcribed. (1) By his Name; Moſes. (2) By his Office Prophetical; The man of God, i. e. The Eminent Prophet of God, or Seer. See 1 Sam. 9.6,8,9,10,11.

The Pſalme, or Prayer itſelf, contains

I. A Preface, wherein Iſrael (now in great miſery in the wilderneſs) acknowledgeth, 1. Gods peculiar providence and protection to them in all former Generations, eſpecially in dayes of Abraham, Iſaac, Jacob, Joſeph, &c. when they had no fixed dwelling, God himſelf was their Habitation, Houſe, &c. ver. 1. 2. Gods eternity, before Hills were borne, Earth or World brought forth, ver. 2. Comfortable conſiderations to afflicted, dying Iſrael.

II. A Lamenting Narrative, General and Particular. 1. More General, Of the common fragility and mortality of mankinde. The Complaint touching mans general fragility is, 1. Propounded; Thou turneſt man to contrition, &c. wherein note, (1) The Subject of mortality; Sorry-man, Adam's Sons. (2) The Author of it; Thou. (3) The manner of Gods effecting it; Turneſt —Sayeſt Returne. (4) The frail and mortal ſtate whereunto God brings them; Contrition. —— Returne, viz. to duſt, ver. 3. 2. Expounded and Illuſtrated by many Compariſons and Similitudes. Mans fraile life being reſembled, (1) To yeſterday when it is paſt: though a thouſand years long, yet its no more in Gods ſight. (2) To a watch in the night, (which was but three houres long, ver. 4. (3) To a ſwift flood. So God carries us ſpeedily away. (4) To a ſleep. That indiſcernably and ſwiftly paſſeth. (5) To Graſs, which in the morning ſprouteth, flouriſheth and groweth up: In the evening is cut down and withereth, ver. 5, 6. II. More Particular, of the ſingular fragility, mortality, and miſery of Iſrael in the Wilderneſs, (eſpecially for their murmuring, refuſing to go into the Land of Canaan, and to ſubdue their enemies, Numb. 14.) This Complaint touching Iſraels particular fragility, ſets forth, 1. The efficient Cauſe thereof, viz. Gods Anger, and wrathful heat, ver. 7. 2. The procuring Cauſe thereof, viz. Their own iniquities, and ſecret ſins ſet in the light of Gods countenance, ver. 8. 3. The exceeding vanity, brevity and vexation of their life through the wrath of God. Being moſt elegantly, (1) Stiled; The turning-away of all their dayes. As a man turns away his face. (2) Reſembled, to a Tale told, or a Meditation, As ſoon forgotten almoſt as told, ver. 9. (3) Computed, or caſt-up, to 70 or 80 years at moſt, ordinarily. (4) Aggravated, by the moleſtation and ſorrow attending upon 80 years of age. (5) Illuſtrated by two Similitudes, viz. Of ſudden cutting-down of Graſs, &c. And of a Birds ſpeedy flying-away, ver. 10. 4. Iſraels general ſtupidity under Gods ſevere judgments: not knowing, conſidering, laying to heart, &c. the power of Gods anger, or his exceeding wrath according to his feare, his Word, Pſal. 19. 9. the rule of his feare, ver. 11.

III. Certain Petitions hereupon preſented to the LORD for ſundry bleſſings. As, 1. For Gods inſtruction of them ſo in the ſpiritual Art of numbering their dayes, that they may apply their hearts to true wiſdome. Here note (1) The Tutour. (2) The Scholar. (3) The Leſſon. (4) The ſingularity of inſtruction deſired; So teach. (5) The end hereof, ver. 12. 2. For his returning unto them favourably, and that it might repent him touching his ſervants ſufferings, ver. 13. 3. For ſpeedy ſatisfying them with his mercy, that they might rejoyce all the remainder of their dayes, ver. 14. 4. For gladning them, proportionably to the dayes and years of their affliction and miſery, ver. 15. 5. For Gods manifeſtation of his peculiar work and glory upon them and their children, viz. in protecting, ſaving, and ſhowing mercy to them according to his Covenant and Promiſes, ver. 16. 6. For Gods pleaſantneſſe and ſweet favour towards them, in ſtabliſhing and accompliſhing the great work they were about, viz. of entering Canaan, ſubduing their enemies there, and inheriting their land, as God had covenanted, ver. 17.

§. III. The Kinde, Penman, and Occaſion.

This is the Pſalme, out of which (as Auguſtine hath noted) the Devil took the boldneſs to tempt our Lord Ieſus Chriſt, (Mat. 4. 6. Luke 4. 10, 11. with Pſ. 91. 11, 12.) And he ſaith, Let us hearken, that we may be inſtructed how to reſiſt the Tempter: not preſuming ming in our ſelves, but in him who firſt was tempted, leſt we ſhould be overcome in Temptation; for to him Temptation was not neceſſary. Chriſts Temptation, is our Inſtruction. Afterwards he ſaith; ——Therefore Chriſt was tempted, that a Chriſtian might not be overcome by the Tempter p.

p Pſalmus iſte eſt de quo Dominum noſtrum Jeſum Chriſtum tentare auſus eſt. Audiamus ergo, ut poſſumus Inſtructi reſiſtere tentatori, Non præſumentes in nobis, ſed in ipſo qui prior tentatus eſt, ne nos in Tentatione vinceremur: Illi enim tentatio non erat neceſſaria. Tentatio Chriſti, noſtra doctrina eſt. Aug. Enarrat. in Pſal. XC. p. 988. C. Tom. 8. ——Ideo tentatus eſt Chriſtus, ne vincatur à tentatore Chriſtianus. Aug. ibid. p. 1097. D. Tom. 8. Basil. 1569.

§. III. The Penman, Occaſion, and Time.

This Pſalme, as touching the kinde of it, is Doctrinal, and Eminently Conſolatory. The whole Doctrine of it is moſt comfortable to every one that truly believes in God, and relyes peculiarly upon his All-ſufficient protection; againſt all dangers and diſtreſſes. I may fitly ſtile it;—The Saints Cabinet of Comfort under Gods Protection againſt all feared or felt affliction. It is an Untituled Pſalme in the Hebrew, as many others are. See Pſal 1. 9. 4. and therefore we cannot be ſo certain who was Inſtrumental Author or Writer of it; eſpecially the New Teſtament and other Scriptures being wholly ſilent herein.

Penman is variouſly gueſſed at; and but gueſſed at. The Hebrews think it was Moſes q, So Ezra, and others. And their Reaſon is; becauſe Pſal. 90. being Entituled A Prayer of Moſes, all the Pſalmes following till Pſal. 101. (which is Entituled A Pſalme of David,) make no mention in their Titles of any Penman at all: whence they judge it probable that all theſe Pſalmes were written by Moſes. But the inſufficiency of this Reaſon is eaſily evinced by that conſideration of Sim. de Muis r, viz. That in Pſal. 99. 6. there is mention of Samuel, who was born long after the death of Moſes. Therefore at leaſt Pſal. 99. was not written by Moſes. Moſt Writers think, David was Penman of this Pſalme. The LXXII. according to the moſt Ancient Roman Vatican Copy, hath this Title prefixed; Τοῦ αὐτοῦ τῷ Δαυὶδ which the Vulgar Tranſlation renders; Laus Cantici David: The Praiſe of a Song of David. Likewiſe Davids name is prefixed to this Pſalme, both by the Syriack, Arabick, and Æthiopick Verſions s. Our later Writers alſo ſundry of them incline to this Opinion, As Mollerus, Muis, &c. And all things well conſidered, eſpecially the matter of the Pſalme agreeing ſo fitly to the times of David, that ſeems to be moſt probable.

r Sim. de Muis in Arg. Pſ. 91.

s In Bibl. Polyglott. ad. Pſ. 91.

Occaſion, as divers think t, of penning this Pſalme, was that dreadful Peſtilence ſent upon Iſrael from Dan to Beerſheba, upon Davids numbring the people, whereby 70000 men were ſlain in three dayes ſpace: but when the Angel was lifting up his hand to deſtroy Jeruſalem alſo, the LORD ſtopped his proceedings upon Davids Sacrifice and Prayers. See 2 Sam. 24. and 1 Chron. 21. throughout. This is the more likely, becauſe all the paſſages, phraſes, and words of this Pſalm ſo exactly agree to that Hiſtory.

§. IV. The Scope.

The Scope herein intended is, 1. To teach us the compleat ſecurity and ſafety of the Faithful under Gods All-ſufficient protection againſt all evils and dangers 2. And thereupon ſweetly to encourage all Gods people entirely to reſt and rely upon Gods ſole protection in greateſt ſtraits and perils whatſoever. This Doctrine and Conſolatory Encouragement is here repreſented, in ſuch a Confluence of Promiſes, and with ſuch Elegant Splendour, and Curious Ornament of Words and Phraſes; that this Pſalme is not without juſt cauſe accounted as A precious Gemme among the Pſalmes; and a Poeme of ſuch ſurpaſſing Elegancy, that ſcarce another may be compared to it u. It is a rich Cabinet of Jewels, a Golden Chain of ſtately Promiſes, And a very Shop of choiſeſt Cordials, to Gods people, againſt all felt or feared Calamities.

§. V. The

§. V. The Analysis, or Principal Parts.

In this sweet Consolatory Psalme, Consider;

I. An exellent Doctrinal Position, touching the state and security of Gods faithful people; Their state and condition is, to dwell in the secret (i. e. the Tabernacle, Temple, Church, &c.) of the most High, trusting there in God as his Refuge, Covert, Hiding-place. Their constant protection and security thereupon under the shadow of the Almighty, ver. 1.

II. A Profession of Faith and Affiance in God, in the person of any or every true faithful servant of God. Wherein note, 1. The chief Object of his confidence; JEHOVAH. 2. The ground of his Confidence, Partly, The LORDs All-sufficiency, set forth in three words; (1) Safe-hope, or Refuge: (2) Fortresse, or Strong-hold: (3) God. Partly, his own peculiar interest in this LORD; My Refuge, my Strong-hold, my God. 3. The Resolution of his Confidence in him; In him will I trust, ver. 2.

III. The compleat Protection and safety of every such faithful soul thus confiding in God, is assured by heaps of sweetest Heart-reviving Promises to him, for his compleat Defence against, Support under, Deliverance from, and Triumph over, all imaginable straits and dangers. Which Promises are laid down in Expressions most Elegant, Emphatical, and Comfortable, verse 3. to the end. This his All-sufficient Protection of the faithful, is Described, Illustrated, and Confirmed, very Pathetically.

1. Described, 1. By the Deliverance promised, from Fowlers Snare, and Pestilence of woful evils, ver. 3. 2. By the Defence promised, under the Metaphor of the Fowles wing covering her young. Which is further illustrated; Partly, by the trust of the faithful in this Divine Defence, as the young under the Feathers of the Dam. Partly, from the strong Reason of this his Confidence, viz. Gods Truth, compared for the sureness and safety thereof to a Buckler and Shield, ver. 4.

2. Illustrated notably, 1. By distribution of Perils, viz. By Day or Night, from fear of which he promiseth to secure the Faithful, ver. 5, 6. 2. By an instance or supposition of the greatest and most overwhelming Calamity, from which he shall be secured, ver. 7. 3. By comparison of the unlike condition of the ungodly, ver. 8. 4. By description of the fulness of Protection from evil, which shall ensue upon full affiance in God, ver. 9, 10. 5. By the Instrumental Means, or Administring Causes of the Faithful persons safety, viz. Gods good Angels, and their exact custody, ver. 11, 12. 6. By his Triumph even over the most terrible and dangerous evils or enemies imaginable, ver. 13.

3. Confirmed and further Amplified by sundry Promises propounded as by God himself, speaking in the first Person. These Promises of Gods Protection, are, 1. Laid down in variety of sweet Expressions; I will deliver him, I will set him on high, &c. 2. Amplified; (1) Partly, by certain moving Causes as it were inclining the LORD to protect him, viz. His Cleaving to God: Knowing his Name: Calling upon him. (2) Partly, by the Adjunct benefits or advantages that shall result from that Divine Protection, viz. Gods honouring him; Satisfying him with length of dayes; Making him his Salvation, ver. 14, 15, 16.

§. 3. The Kinde, Penman and Occasion.

This Psalme is of a mixt Nature, being Doctrinal, Laudatory, Prophetical, and in a sort Hortatory. Penman of it is not certainly signified here or elsewhere in Scripture. The Chaldee thus paraphraseth; An Hymn, a Song, which the first man Adam said for the Sabbath day q, The Antient Hebrews ascribe it to Moses, as was noted formerly r: But their ground is not cogent. Some attribute it to David s, who (as is supposed) foretells here the destruction of King Saul, verse 7. but his own advancement to the Throne, verse 10. And that David wrote this Psalme, when Saul had justified and cleared David (now vexed and pursued by him about four years, 1 Sam. 24. 18. and 26. 18, 21. from all imputation of Treasonable or Seditious Practises against the King. Thereupon, David rejoycing that God had thus vindicated him, and that King Saul had so cleared him, and openly professed that the Kingdom belonged of right unto him, wrote this Psalme and destinated it to the Churches use on the Sabbath-dayes. Others t think this Psalme was not Penned upon this, or any such like singular Occasion: But rather (as the Title not obscurely imports) for the Common use of the Church in the praises of God every Sabbath-day. And Sim. de Muis reports that R. Kimchi saith; This Psalme was antiently sung in the House of the Sanctuary on the Sabbath-day. And to these latter I rather incline, because of the Title, and Subject-Matter of this Psalme, which seems so excellently suited and accommodated to the Sabbath-day, and the worship and Meditations then to be exercised touching the works of God. Yet I will not peremptorily exclude, as improbable, the forementioned particular Occasion: but leave every one to his own Judgement therein.

§. IV. The Scope.

This Psalme's intended Scope is; To Instruct and direct the people of God how to Sanctifie the day of Sabbath. 1 Not onely by an Holy Rest (as the word שבת Sabbath signifies) viz. from our own works, wayes, words, and wills u; according to Gods own example of Resting from all his works on the Seventh day from the Creation, blessing and Sanctifying it, and commanding it to be kept holy to him x; which was a Token of his mercy unto, and of his Sanctification of his People y. 2. But also by an holy imployment and exercise therein both Morning and Evening, viz. 1. By confessing to him, 2. Singing Psalmes to his Name, 3. Shewing forth Gods Loving-kindness and faithfulness, 4. With Meditation, verse 1, 2, 3, 4. 5. Rejoycing in and Praising God triumphantly, For his great Works, More Generally, verse 5, 6. For his Judgements upon the Wicked, verse 7 to 11. and his Mercies to the Righteous, More Particularly, ver. 11. to the end.

u Exod. 20. 10. Isaiah 58. 13. Heb. 4. 10.
x Gen. 2. 2, 3. Exod. 20. 8.
y Neh. 9. 14. Exod. 31. 13, 14.

These were some of the Holy Exercises, wherewith this day of Holy Rest was to be Sanctified, As this Psalme imports. But there were many other Holy Imployments for the Sabbath, as other Scriptures informe us z. And therefore Augustine, not without cause, condemns the Jews for their Resting on the Sabbath for Trifles, Sports, &c. But commends the Christians for Resting unto Religious Exercises, Saying; Behold this is the Sabbath day, This the Jews celebrate at this time with a kinde of corporally languid, fluid and luxurious idleness: For they Rest unto Trifles: and when God hath commanded the Sabbath to be observed, they Exercise the Sabbath z The Sabbath day was sanctified, by an Holy convocation or Assembly of the people, Levit. 23. 3. Offering of Sacrifices, Numb. 18. 9, 10. Singing of Psalmes, as this Title shews, with 2 Chron. 26, 27. Reading and expounding the Scriptures, Acts 13. 15. and 15. 21. Praying, Acts 16. 13. Disputeing, conferring, meditating of Gods word and works, Acts 17. 2. and 18. 4. And doing works of Mercy to them that were in need, Matth. 12. 2, 7, 8, 11, 12. *Hen. §. V. The Analysis, or Principal Parts.

The Title sets forth, 1. The Denominations of this Psalme, viz. A Psalme, A Song. See on Psal. 30. §. 5. The Analysis. 2. The special use for which it was designed; For the day of Sabbath.

The Psalme itself, which is chiefly Doctrinal and Laudatory, contains

I. A Doctrinal Proposition, tacitly but forcibly exhorting and exciting to praise the LORD, and his Name. This duty of praising the LORD, is, 1. Commended generally, from its singular goodnesse, pleasantnesse, &c. II. Described generally, 1. By its Acts; wherein it exerciseth and showes itself, viz. Confessing to the LORD; Singing-Psalms to his Name; Shewing-forth. 2. By its Object and Cause of this Prayse, viz. The LORD, His Name; His Loving-kindnesse; His Faithfulnesse. 3. By its adjunct time, set forth by Distribution of Morning and Nights: denoting all set time, and in some sort a constant continuation of time, but especially on every Sabbath day, in Gods solemn worship: In the morning, (think some b) from the third to the sixth houre of the day, See 1 King. 18.26,29. Nehem. 8.3. Acts 2.15. declaring his loving kindnesse. In the nights, i. e. every night; viz. from the ninth to the twelfth houre, 1 King. 18 36. Acts 3.1. Deut. 16. 6. Nehem 9 3. shewing forth his faithfulnesse, ver. 1, 2. 4. By its manner; upon, or with musical Instruments: Among which Higgajon (which some count a Musical Instrument) is by some interpreted, A solemne sound; or, Meditation; or, Meditated-Song, ver. 3.

b Joan. Foord in Expos. Psal. 92. ver. 2.

II. An Illustration of this Doctrinal and Hortatory Proposition, by the cause and matter of this Divine Praise to be performed to the LORD: viz. The Work and Acts of God, ver. 4. &c. The Works of God are described here, 1. More Generally: 2. More Specially.

1. More Generally, ver. 4. Where, by Gods Work and Acts of his hands, I see not any cogent Reason why we may not understand, Gods Works more generally considered (as sundry c writers do:) viz. His works of Creation, Providence, Redemption, Sanctification, Salvation, &c. In all which Gods loving-kindnesse and faithfulnesse most eminently shine forth: And all which works of God are most suitable matter of Meditation, and Prayse, on the Sabbath-dayes. Consider well, Gen 2. 2,3. Exod. 20.8. to 12. Nehem. 9.14. Deut. 5.12,13,14,15. Exod 31.13,14,15. Ezek. 20.12. Heb. 4. 1. to 12. Now these works of God are illustrated by a doub'e effect, that (duly considered) they had upon the Psalmist, and will answerably have upon every godly person, viz. 1. Making him rejoyce thereupon. 2. Quickening him to triumph therein, ver. 4.

c Joan. Calvin. Com. ad Psal. 92. 5 Hen. Ainsw. Annot. on Psal. 92. 5. Hen. Moller. in Prælect. ad Psal. 92. 5.

2. More Specially, Gods works of Providence, ver. 5. to the end. Gods works of Providence and Government over the World, especially over man-kinde, are illustrated divers wayes, viz. I. By their Adjuncts. As, 1. Their admirable Majesty and Greatnesse. 2. The exceeding depth of his Thought therein, ver. 5 3. Their unsearchableness, in respect of this their greatnesse and depth, to a brutish fool sh man, viz. to every carnal unregenerate person, ver. 6. II. By their Distribution in regard of their Subjects, viz. 1. The Wicked: and 2. The Godly. 1. Gods works of Providence towards the wicked, are set forth; (1) Partly, By their great Prosperity wherein God suffers them for a season, to spring up as Grass, and flourish. (2) Partly, By their perpetual destruction, for which they are prepared by their Prosperity, ver. 7. (3) Partly, By the eternal constancy and immutability of Gods Nature and Will, opposite to the mutable state of the ungodly, He is eternally most high, can crush them at his pleasure, ver. 8. (4) Partly, By the Causes of wicked mens Perdition and Dispersion, viz. Their Enmity to God. Their being workers of iniquity, ver. 9. 2. Gods works of Providence towards the Godly, are delineated most Elegantly and prophetically, by the effects or fruits thereof upon them: viz. (1) Their horne exaltation, as horne of an Unicorne: that is, Their power and greatnesse, above their enemies. (2) Their Annoynting with fresh oyle, or green oyle, pointing out their joy, gladness, prosperity, &c. Or, as the Hebrew phrase may be rendred, mine-old age shall be annoynted with fresh oyle, ver. 10. (3) Their beholding the contrary hand of God upon their Enemies, and hearing his judgment upon the wicked rising up against them. These three are laid down promissorily, as to the Person of the Psalmist, but proportionably may be applyed to every godly person, ver. 11. (4) Their flourishing condition, especially in spirituals. Elegantly prophecyed of, and Described. 1. Partly, By illustrating Similitudes, of Palme-tree, and Cedar in Lebanon, ver. 12. 2. Partly, By the cause of this their flourishing: Their Plantation in the House of the LORD, in the Church, there partaking the soul-enriching Ordinances of God, ver. 13. 3. Partly, By the Constancy of their flourishing, and fruitfulness even in grayness, ver. 14. which fruitfulness is Amplyfied, by one eminent End thereof, viz. The shewing forth thereby, the LORD'S uprightness, or exact righteousness for, and his protection or defensiveness of his People, as their Rock, ver. 15.

PSALME

Psalme XCIII.

§. I. The Summary Contents.

The 1. Majesty, 2. Power, and 3 Holynesse of Gods (or, as some think *, of Christ's) Kingdome.

* Fran. Junius Hen. Ainsworth Jo. Foord. Hen. Moller. in Psal. 93.

§. II. The Version out of the Hebrew.

1. THe LORD doth reigo, he-hath-put-on Himself high-majestie;
The LORD hath fortitude put-on,
Begirt-himself-hath-hee:
The world is stablished also Lest it should-moving-start.

a Heb. From then. 2. a From ay thy Throne is stablish'd: Thou
From everlasting art.

3. The floods have-lifted-up, O LORD,
The floods lift-up their voice:
The swelling floods with one accord
Lift-up-their-dashing-noise.
4. The LORD more mighty is by farre
On high, from whence he saves, b Then many waters voices are,
Then Sea's most-mighty waves.

b Heb. Before. or, Above.

5. Thy Testimonies marvellous
c Most faithful are always:
Pure holynesse becomes thine House,
O LORD, to length of dayes.

c Heb. Are faithful vehemently

§. III. The Kinde, Occasion, and Penman.

This untituled d Psalme is, as to the Kinde of it, Landatory; setting down in very few words much eminent matter of Divine Praise. Some (as hath been noted §. 1.) account it also Prophetical: in reference to the Kingdome of Christ. e Kimchi, Rasi, and other Hebrews referre this to the time of the Messiah. The Greek Version of the LXXII. as also the Latin Vulgar Version have this Title prefixed f; For the day before the Sabbath, when the Earth was founded, The Prayse of a Song of David. But in the Hebrew, no Title at all is prefixed to this Psalme.

d See Psal. 1. §. 4

e Sim. de Muis in Arg. Ps 93.

f Apud Bibl. Polyglott. in Ps. 93.

Penman of it is not expressed here, or elsewhere in Scripture: But probably it was written by David, because (as one g well observes) the beginning of it, The LORD reigns—— is a phrase used in another untituled Psalme of David, viz. Psal. 96. 10. which Psalme was part of that which David delivered into the hand of Asaph and his brethren to thank the LORD, at his bringing the Ark into the Tent which David had prepared for it, See 1 Chron. 16. 7.——23.——31. The Greek, Latin, Syriack, Arabick, and Æthiopick Versions ascribe this Psalme to David h. So do also some of our later Writers.

g Sim. de Muis in Arg. ad Psal. 93.

h Bibl. Polyglott. in Ps. 93. fin.

Occasion whereupon, and time when this Psalme was penned, is hard to define. One guesseth i, That David might write this Psalme, when he was now annoynted King over all Israel, 2 Sam. 5. 1. Or when he had subdued the Nations, of which See 2 Sam. 8. 1. whereupon he might acknowledge the Majesty, Power, and Sanctity of Gods Kingdome, who had so exalted him. This may suit well to the matter of this Psalme: but it is only a probable conjecture.

i Jo. Foord in Expos. Psal. 93. ad init.

§. IV. The Scope.

The Scope herein intended, is; To Praise and magnifie the LORD, for the Majesty, Power, and Sanctity of his Kingdome. Which is done in few words, but very effectual.

§. V. The Analysis, or Principal parts.

In this Psalme,

I. The Kingdome of the LORD, both in Naturals and Spirituals, is affected; The LORD reigneth.

II. The Sufficiency of the LORD unto this his Kingdome and Regal Government, is described: And this in regard of, 1. His High-Majesty. 2. His Fortitude. The abundance, and prepared readinesse of which his perfections, are set forth under the Metaphors, Of putting-on, or being cloathed, and girded therewith, ver. 1. in the beginning.

III. The LORD's Kingdome and Government is further Illustrated and Amplyfied, 1. By the effect thereof, viz. His establishing the world immoveably, ver. 1. 2. By the Adjunct, the eternal stability or foundation of it: evinced from Gods own Eternity, ver. 2. 3. By Comparison of the most tumultuous impetuous commotions in the world here below, against the LORD and his people, Metaphorically represented under the Notion of Floods roaring, and lifting up their waves, of noyse of many waters, and of mighty waves of the Sea: with the LORD on high, who is farre mightier then them all, to tame, suppresse, and still them at his pleasure, ver. 3, 4. 4. By the exceeding fidelity of his Testimonies in his Church: whether Precepts, Promises, &c. 5 By the Holynesse of his House, the Church, perpetually to be communicated thereto, according to his Testimonies, ver. 5.

Psalme XCIV.

§. I. The Summary Contents.

The Psalmist, for his own and others support against the oppressive Tyranny of the wicked, 1. Prayeth to the God of vengeances, for justice against the Oppressions of the Atheistical wicked, ver. 1, to 8. 2. Convincingly-Reproveth their Atheisme touching Gods All-seeing Providence, ver. 8. to 12. 3. Comforteth the Godly most sweetly against all their Chastisements, and oppressing Enemies, ver. 12. to the end.

§. II. The Version out of the Hebrew.

And mine Almighty God will bee
For Rock of my-safe-confidence.

23. And he will-back-return (with frown)
Upon them their unrighteousnes,
And in their malice cut-them-down:
The LORD our God will-them-suppress.

§. III. The Kinde, Penman, and Occasion.

This Psalme is of a mixt Kinde, being Petitory, Doctrinal or Reprehensory, and Consolatory. Penman of it cannot certainly be demonstrated. The Greek Version of the LXXII. and so the Vulgar Latin, prefixeth this Title (though there be none in the Hebrew original,) A Psalme of David, on the fourth day of the Sabbath. The Syriack, Arabick, and Æthiopick Version do also ascribe this Psalme to David n. And so do sundry of our later Writers o.

Occasion of penning this Psalme, In the General, was some cruel Tyranny and oppression of Gods people by the insolent and atheistical wicked among them, (probably within, rather then without the land of Israel:) As the current of the Psalme doth palpably evince to any attentive Reader. But in Particular, when and what this oppression was, is very hard upon any satisfactory ground to determine. The Syriack Version saith thus; Of David, touching the company of Korach, and of Dathan and Abiram: but spiritually of Persecution against the Church p. But why this Psalme should be thought to treat of Korach, Dathan, and Abiram, there seems to be no Reason at all from this Psalme or any other Scripture. One thinks this Psalme was set forth, when the Ark was brought up into Sion q: but gives no Reason for this his Opinion. Another thinks it was written by David in the dayes of Saul: 1. Because, he foretels his own deliverance, but the destruction of Saul and his followers, ver. 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23. 2. Because, he complains of his being forsaken by the great ones of Israel, ver. 16. 3. Because, he acknowledgeth the LORD to be alwaies present with him in danger, and to deliver him from present Death, ver. 17, 18. 4. Because, the LORD favoured not Sauls enterprizes in the Persecution which he suffered, ver. 20, 21. r Thus he. But its more safe to rest in the General Occasion, which is evident and certain: then to be peremptory touching the Particular, which is doubtful and uncertain.

§. IV. The Scope.

The Scope of the Psalmist herein is; To support and comfort himself, and other the afflicted people of God, against the Tyrannical insolencies and cruel Oppressions which proud atheistical ungodly men did, or might exercise upon them: by flying unto God by Prayer for justice against them; and by declaring the vigilancy of Gods Providence, The blessednes of Gods people under his Chastisements, and the security of Gods afflicted under his Protection.

§. V. The Analysis, or Principal Parts.

In this Psalme, in order to this intended Scope, are three Principal Parts: viz.

I. Prayer. Wherein he intreats the LORD for justice against the cruel and wicked Enemies of his People: and that upon many considerations, ver. 1. to 8. In this Prayer, I. His Petition or Request is propounded, under a double Metaphor, viz. of the clear rising or shining forth of the Sun; and of a Judge's ascending and shewing himself on his judgment-seat, ver. 1, 2. II. This his Petition is urged by many cogent Arguments. As, 1. From the Nature and Office of God, being A God of Vengeances, and The Judge of the Earth. And therefore one from whom exact justice and recompences may be expected againſt his peoples cruel oppreſſours. 2. From the Nature and Properties of his peoples Enemies. Being, 1. Proud, ver. 1, 2. 2. Wicked, ver. 3. 3. From the wretched carriage and Deportment of theſe proud wicked Enemies, laid down by way of pathetical Lamentation; viz. (1) Inſolently triumphing for a long time together, ver. 3. (2) Belching-out hard ſpeeches. (3) Haughtily boaſting themſelves, ver. 4. (4) Cruelly breaking in pieces Gods People, and afflicting his Heritage, ver. 5. (5) Bloodily murdering the poor helpleſs Widow, Stranger and Fatherleſs, ver. 6. (6) Obſtinately encouraging and confirming themſelves in all this their wicked villany and cruelty, by their blaſphemous and atheiſtical denying of Gods All-obſerving Providence, ver. 7.

II. Doctrinal Conviction and Reprehenſion. Wherein he ſharply Rebukes theſe wicked and cruel Oppreſſours for their Atheiſtical Preſumption, and Security. 1. Charging them juſtly with bruitiſh and fooliſh ſtupidity in denying Gods Providence. 2. Admoniſhing them to apply themſelves to true underſtanding and wiſedom herein, ver 8. 3. Refuting their impious and blaſphemous Atheiſme, By certain pregnant effects of Gods Power and Providence: As, Planting the Eare; Forming the Eye; Chaſtizing the Heathen; Teaching man knowledge. From all which, he clearly, and by way of pathetical convincing Interrogations, concludes; That, God not only hears all their wicked words, Sees all their wicked and cruel deeds, And will correct them accordingly and that more leverely then he doth the Heathens, ver. 9, 10. But alſo knowes all their thoughts, and the vanity and frivolouſneſs of them, ver. 11.

III. Conſolation. Herein he comforts himſelf and all Gods afflicted and oppreſſed People, againſt the inſolent cruelties of all their Enemies, many wayes: viz. 1. Pronouncing them admirably bleſſed under Gods Chaſtiſements, accompanyed with Gods teaching them out of his Law; O the bleſſednesses of them, &c. When Correction and Inſtruction, Nocuments and Documents ſ go together, ver. 12. 2. Declaring their deliverance and Reſt from the dayes of Adverſity, till mean-while the Pit be digged for the wicked. And this is noted as one eminent end and effect of Gods teaching, ver. 13. 3. Confirming both the bleſſed-ſtate of Gods afflicted-ones, and the certainty of their deliverance, &c. (1) By ſundry ſweet Promiſes; Partly, of Gods not rejecting or Deſerting his people, ver. 14. Partly, Of judgments returning unto juſtice, (when the godly are delivered, and the wicked puniſhed; judgment ſeeming to be ſevered from juſtice, while the godly were afflicted, and the wicked ſpared t.) Whereupon all the upright in heart ſhall more cheerfully follow after him, after God, thus reconciling judgment and juſtice by his Providence and Diſpenſation. The Hebrew ſeems better rendered, after him, then after it, ver. 15. (2) By the Example and Experience of the Pſalmiſt: who experimentally found; 1. That, when ſtone would appear for him, in his deepeſt dangers and oppoſitions of evil-doers, yet the LORD was his aid and ſuccour, ver. 16, 17. 2. That, when his foot was in danger of ſlipping, the LORD's mercy upheld him, ver. 18. 3. That, when multitude of perplexed-thoughts were within him, yet Gods comforts delighted his Soul, ver. 19. 4. That, when the wicked moſt powerfully, politiquely, unanimouſly and cruelly ſet themſelves againſt the righteous, God would not own them, have fellowſhip with them: but rather became his Defence, and Rock of his Refuge, viz. His All-ſufficient Protection, ver. 20, 21, 22. 5. That, God will recompence upon the wicked at laſt their own iniquity, and will moſt certainly (for the phraſe is pathetically doubled, and an Argument from Gods Relation to his people inſerted) cut them off in their own wickedneſs, ver. 23.

§. III. The Kinde, Penman, and Occasion.

This Psalme is in the Hebrew, (as many others, See Psal. 1. §. 4.) without Title. Though the Greek Version of the LXXII. and the vulgar Latin have this Inscription; The praise of a Song of David o. The praise of the Song (said Augustine) signifies both Mirth, because it is a Song: and Devotion, because it is Praise p. The Syriack; Of David, &c. The Arabick; Of David, A Benediction and a Song. As to the Nature of this Psalme, it is of a mixt Kinde: being Hortatory, Laudatory, and Prophetical. Hortatory, inciting both to the worship of God and obedience to him: Laudatory, praising God for his Greatness, in creating the world; for his Goodness, in adopting the Church: Prophetical, having a Prophetical aime at Christ, and eminent tendency to him, who is the LORD, and the Rock of our Salvation; that is, our most strong Saviour, ver. 1. For the Apostle Interprets this Psalme of Christ, Compare ver. 7. to the end, with Heb. 3. 6, 7, &c. 14. 15. and elsewhere, their tempting of the LORD, is Interpreted to be their tempting of Christ, Compare ver. 9. with 1 Cor. 10. 9. And the whole Current and Subject-matter of the Psalme is such, as may most fitly be accommodated to Christ, who is to be praised and worshipped for his Greatness in Creating the world, and for his Goodness in adopting his Church, and whose voice or word is obsequiously to be obeyed, lest he shut us out of his eternal Rest in Heaven. Kimchi and other Hebrew-writers think this Psalme is to be referred to the future times of the Messiah.

o Bibl. Polyglott. in Psal. 95.
p Laus cantici & hilaritatem significat, quia cantus est: Et devotionem, quia laus est. Aug. in Enarrat. Psal 94.

Penman of it, is not here expressed; but the Apostle, alledging this Psalme, referres it plainly to David; Again he limiteth a certain day, saying in David, To day, after so long a time; as it is said, To day if yee will hear his voice, harden not your hearts, Heb. 4. 7. And elsewhere the Holy-Ghost is asserted to be the Author of it, (as he is of all Holy Scripture;) Wherefore as the Holy-Ghost saith, To day if yee will hear his voice, Heb. 3. 7. with Psal. 95. 7, &c.

Occasion of Davids Penning this Psalme, is variously apprehended. One thinks David wrote it, when he took in hand his martial expedition against those many forreign Nations in Syria and Arabia, from Euphrates to Egypt, and from the Mediterranean to the Persick Sea, 2 Sam. 8, &c. and that by this Psalme he encouraged his Army in God against his Enemies q: But this seems too much forced, and restrictive. Another rather referres this Psalme to the time of Davids bringing up of the Ark from the house of Abinadab, or Obed-Edom, 2 Sam. 6. 1 Chron. 13 and 15. and 16 r. But this satisfies not: because upon this Occasion David delivered other Psalmes to thank the LORD into the hand of Asaph and his Brethren, 1 Chron. 16. 7, to 37. I like Calvin's judgment herein best of all: who saith; This Psalme agrees to the Sabbath day, wherein we know sacred Assemblies were had for praising the Name of the LORD. For here he exhorts not every godly person to praise him privately, but in the Publick Assemblies. And to this end he spreads before them singular matter of praising God, with incitements to worship and obey him dutifully s. And therefore this is an Excellent Psalme to begin the Solemn Worship of God withal in Church-Assemblies on the LORD's-day-Sabbaths.

§. IV. The Scope.

The Scope of the Holy Ghost in this Psalme is, To exhort and incite the Church of the Jews Immediately, and in them all the Christian Churches and People of Jews and Christians Mediately; 1. To Praise the LORD, even the LORD Christ, joyfully, for his Greatness in creating the World: 2. To Worship him reverently for his Goodness in Adopting and accepting his Church: 3. And to hearken obsequiously to his voice and word in this day of Grace and Salvation had in this World, lest otherwise they come short of his Spiritual and Eternal, as Israel of old did of his Typical, Rest. Compare Heb. 3. 6, 7. to the end, and 4. 7. &c. with Psal. 95.

§. V. The Analysis, or Principal Parts.

In this choice Hortatory and Prophetical Psalme, The Holy Ghost by David sweetly and forcibly Exhorts and incites Gods people solemnly, 1. To Praise, 2. To Worship, and 3. To Obey the LORD, even the LORD Christ.

I. To Praise the LORD, O come let us sing joyfully unto the LORD, &c. He invites to great banquets of exulting (said one) not to the World, but to the LORD t. Now here, I. The Object of this Praise, is described, 1. By his essential Name; JEHOVAH. 2. By one speciall Attribute of his goodness to his people; The Rock of our Salvation, i. e. Our strong Saviour, ver. 1. II. The Acts of this his Praise, whereunto they are exhorted, are set forth in sundry choice expressions; As 1. Singing-joyfully, or Shouting-joyfully. 2. Shouting-triumphantly, or ringing-out, &c. 3. Preventing his face with Confession. That is, readily, speedily, chearfully, as it were, meeting the LORD, anticipating him with Confession, viz. with confession of Praisers, not of Penitents u. 4. Shouting-triumphantly, or ringing out to him with Psalmes, ver. 1, 2. III. The Arguments inciting to this divine and triumphant Praise of the LORD, even the LORD Christ, are drawn, 1. From his divine Majesty and the greatness thereof, Which is illustrated by Comparison, ver. 3. 2. From his Efficiency, in Forming and Governing the World, intimated Synechdochically by mentioning some special parts thereof, As Deeps of the Earth, Heights of the Hills, Sea, and Dry land, in which his greatness is most conspicuous, ver. 4. 5.

Psal.* 94. Tom. 8.

II. To Worship the LORD our Maker most reverently. Here also note, 1. the Acts of Worship incited unto, viz. 1. Adoring. 2. Bending-down, 3. Kneeling before his face. 2. The Arguments urging hereunto, which are drawn from his singular Goodness to his Church and people. He being 1. Their Maker. 2. Their God, viz. Their Covenant God. 3. Their Shepheard: and they the people of his Pasture and Sheep of his hand, ver. 6, 7.

III. To obey the LORD, hearkening obsequiously to his voice, his word, &c. Here, This Obedient hearkening to his voice, his Word, is, 1. Propounded, 2. Illustrated, 3. Urged. I. Propounded; If ye will hear his voice. II. Illustrated, 1. By the Adjunct Season, wherein this Obedience is required; To day, viz. In this day, Season, or time of Grace during the preaching of his word in this life, ver. 7. compare Heb 3. 6, 7. &c. and 4. 7. &c. 2. By the opposite impediment to this obedience, viz. Hardening their Hearts, which is dehorted, verse 8. in the beginning of it. III. Urged. §. III. The

§. III. The Kinde, Penman, and Occasion.

This Psalme is of mixt Kinde; being Hortatory, Laudatory and Prophetical. Exhorting unto the Praises and due Worship of God the LORD; yea, to the declaring of the Kingdom and Judgment of the LORD Christ in all the World, among Gentiles as well as Jews. That it is Hortatory and Laudatory, is palpably evident, by the phrase, forme and matter of the Psalme, all along. That it is also Prophetical, Prophecying of Christs Kingdom and Judgment, and of the Calling of the Gentiles from vain-idols, to serve and praise the Living God, is evident; 1. From the Persons, who are here exhorted to praise the LORD, and among whom they are exhorted to praise him, viz. All the Earth, ver. 1. 9. Ye Kindreds of the People, ver. 7. —— Among the Heathen. —— Among all People, ver. 3, 10. which plainly imports the Conversion of the Heathen, the Calling of the Gentiles from vain-Idols to the true God, verse 5, &c. For, how shall they call on him, or praise him, on whom they have not believed? or how shall they believe on him, on whom they have not heard? &c. Rom. 10. 14 &c. As Calvin well argues [m]. 2. From the Occasion of the Penning of this Psalme. It was penned by David, as is evident, 1 Chron. 16 7. —— 23. to 34. And this, upon Occasion of his bringing up the Ark of God from Obed-Edom's house with joy into the City of David. Then on that day David delivered first that Psalme there recorded (whereof this 96. Psalme, a few words only changed, is a chief part) to thank the LORD into the hand of Asaph and his brethren, 1 Chron. 16. 1. —— 7. —— 23. &c. Now the Ark of the Covenant was a special Type of Christ: as I have elsewhere sufficiently manifested [n]. As therefore the Gentiles (often overcome by so many miracles wrought by the Ark, and now brought to his place) are exhorted to praise, feare and worship the LORD, because of his glorious Power and Presence with his Ark: So much more to magnifie him for Christ the true Ark of God, which should propagate his Kingdom far and near, to subdue all the Nations of the Earth unto himself. So its a Prophecy of Christs Kingdom throughout the world. 3. From the Matter or Grounds of Praise here recited: all which do excellently agree to the LORD Christ, viz. Evangelizing his salvation, vers. 2. His Glory among Heathen, His Wonders among all People, vers. 3. His making the Heavens, &c. vers. 5. His Reigning and Righteous judging in all the World, vers. 10, &c. 4. From the mention here of a New Song. Which imports (thinks Calvin) unwonted and extraordinary grace [o]. As in the Lords extraordinary and wonderful raising up of his Church, they are called to sing a New Song, Isa. 42. 10. And Rasi was of opinion, that whersoever we reade of a New Song, that place is to be understood of the future, and that this Psalme is to be referred to the times of the Messiah [p]. 5. Not only Kimchi, Rasi, and other Hebrew-Writers; but also Hierom, Augustine, Junius, Calvin, Mollerus, Ainsworth, Sim. de Muis, and other both Ancient and Modern Writers judge this to be a Prophetical Psalm touching Christ and his Kingdom over the Converted Gentiles. It is much of the same Argument with Psal. 47. And one [q] thinks, these four Psalmes next following, are of the same Argument also with this 96th. Psalme. And indeed the phrase, language, current, and matter of them seems very Homogeneal.

Penman of this Psalme was David, 1 Chron. 16. 7. as hath been noted.

Occasion of his writing it, was his bringing up of the Ark, &c: as is evident, 1 Chron. 16. 1, 7, 23, &c.

§. IV. The Scope.

Davids Scope in this Psalme, is; 1. More immediately, To exhort pathetically the Israelites duely to celebrate the Praises of the LORD for his many Excellencies, To Worship him, and to spread abroad of the Kingdom of Christ among the Gentiles. David being singularly transported with zeal and joy in the LORD, at the bringing up of the Ark, an eminent Type of Christ. 2. More mediately, To prophecie cie of the calling of the Gentiles from vain-Idols to the true and living God, and of the propagation of the Gospel and Kingdom of Christ throughout the World; which Prophecies are tacitely, but obsevably, comprized in sundry Exhortations of Jews and Gentiles, duly to praise, worship, fear, and declare him: And are concluded with an Elegant Invitation of Heaven, Earth, and the Creatures therein (by a kind of Prosopopeia) to celebrate the LORD Christ for his Kingdom and the singular benefits thereof unto Mankind.

§. V. The Analysis, or Principal Parts.

In this un-tituled Psalme, we have an excellent Prophecy, of the calling of the Gentiles from vain-Idols to serve and praise the true and living God, and of the Propagation of Christs Kingdom from the Jews to the Gentiles throughout the whole world. This is laid down in Form of an Exhortation to the Jews to preach the LORD's Salvation, Glory, and wonders shewed in Israel, unto the Gentiles: that they forsaking vain-Idols, might praise, worship, fear, and serve the true God only, acknowledging and celebrating his Benefits and Kingdom by the LORD Christ. This Exhortation is, 1. Proposed. 2. Enforced. 3. Amplified.

I. Proposed, ver. 1. to 4. Wherein consider, 1. The persons who are exhorted; All the Earth, viz. all the Land of Israel [c]. 2. The duties whereunto they are Exhorted, viz. (1) To sing a new Song to the Lord. Singing, being thrice Pathetically mentioned. (2) To bless his Name. (3) To Evangelize his Salvation day. Especially his Salvation by Christ, verse 1,2. (4) To declare his Glory and Wonders, (viz. revealed in Israel,) among the Heathen, among all peoples, ver. 3. Therefore Christs Salvation and Gospel was to be preached among all the Heathen.

[c] Jun. Annot. in 1 Chro. 16.23.

II. Enforced, ver. 4 to 7. And this by sundry Cogent Arguments, drawn from 1. Gods greatness. 2. Gods praiseworthiness. 3. The LORD's dreadfulnesse above all gods, verse 4. This his dreadfulnesse is demonstrated by the vast disparity betwixt him and all other gods. All they are vain-Idols: But the Lord made the Heavens, that is, the World. Synechd. This should move all the Heathens to turn from Idols to the true God, ver. 4,5. 4. The LORD's Majesty, Honour, Strength, and Beauteous-glory in his Sanctuary, ver. 6.

III. Amplified hereupon, vers. 7. to the end. And here, I. The Jewes (or the Gentiles thus preached to and instructed by the Jewes [f]) are incited, 1. To give the LORD his Names due glory, &c. 2. To bring an Oblation, and worship him in the beauty of Holynesse. 3. To fear before him, ver. 7, 8, 9. 4. To proclaim the LORD's Kingdom among the Heathen, ver. 10. beginning. II. The settlement and establishment of the whole world, shattered and shaken by mans sin, is promised in the Kingdom and righteous judgement of the Lord Christ, ver. 10. III. The universal triumph and gladness, as it were, of Heaven, Earth and all Creatures, is in a most Elegant Prosopopeia represented, upon the LORD Christs Presence and Dominion with Righteousness and Truth, among the Gentiles as well as among the Jewes, ver. 11,12,13.

§. III. The Kinde, Penman, and Occaſion.

This Pſalme is without Title in the Hebrew: The Greek Verſion of the LXXII, as alſo the Vulgar Latin have this Title prefixed; A Pſalme of David, when his Land was reſtored [k]. Whence ſome have thought it probably penned by David, when he had conquered the bordering Nations, 2 *Sam.*8. and affixed their lands to his own Dominions [l]. Wherein King David might be a Type of Chriſt, extending his Kingdome to the Gentiles, and ſubduing them by the Scepter of his Goſpel. The Kinde of this Pſalme is Mixt, made up of Doctrine, Exhortation, and Proſhecy interwoven together. But chiefly it ſeems to be an Excellent Prophecy of Chriſts Kingdome: as the former Pſalme was. Yea it is thought, [m] That this Pſalme is but an Appendix to the foregoing Pſalme, and a certain exegetical Illuſtration or Adorning of that paſſage eſpecially; *The LORD reigns, ver.*10. That this is a Prophecy of Chriſt and his Kingdome, is evident, 1. From that paſſage, *ver.*7. Worſhip him all yee gods: that is, as the Greek ſaith, All yee his Angels. All yee Angels of God. Angels are called ſomtimes Gods, *Pſal.*8.5. And the Apoſtle, ſpeaking of Chriſts Supereminency above Angels, ſeems to alledge this paſſage, ſaying; When he bringeth in his firſt-begotten into the world, he ſaith, And let all the Angels of God worſhip him, Heb. 1.6. (Although the very words of the Apoſtle are found in the Greek Verſion of the LXXII. on *Deut.*32.43. yet in the Hebrew there no ſuch thing is to be found.) See the fulfilling of this, Luke 2.13, 14. Mark 1.13. Revel. 5.11, 12. As one hath very well noted [n]. 2. From the homogenealneſs of all the other paſſages in this Pſalme, which are very ſuitable and applicable to the LORD Chriſt and his Kingdome. 3. From the manner of this Pſalmes ſetting forth of the LORD's Kingdom. For, as Calvin well notes, This Pſalme deſcribes Gods Kingdome, ſuch as was not extant under the Law. Whence it followes that it is a Prophecy of Chriſts Kingdome, which ſuddenly ſhined forth by the Goſpel [o]. 4. From the joynt Teſtimony of Expoſitors. As, Auguſtine, Hierome, Calvin, Junius, Mollerus, Ainſworth, Simeon de Muis, &c. who unanimouſly acknowledge this Pſalme to bee a Prophecy of Chriſt, and his Kingdome.

Penman of it, is thought to be David.

Occaſion of his writing it, his ſubduing of his Enemies round about him, as the Greek Title ſeems to hint. But theſe things are uncertain.

§. IV. The Scope.

The Scope chiefly intended in this Pſalme, is; Prophetically to foretel and magnifie the LORD Chriſt's Kingdome: That all may religiouſly and joyfully ſubmit themſelves unto it.

§. V. The

§. V. The Analysis, or Principal Parts.

In this Psalme, to this end

I. The Kingdom of the LORD Christ is Prophetically Declared and Described. 1. Declared and foretold; The LORD reigues. How elegantly and pathetically, as with a suddain eruption of joy and affection! Admirably Augustine; He who stood before the Judge, he who was buffeted, he who was spit-upon, &c. he is risen. The LORD reigns, &c p. This his reign is Amplified, 1. By the sweet effects thereof, joy and gladnesse, whereunto his Subjects are exhorted. Christs reign is his Subjects rejoycing. 2 By the extent of his reign, not only to the land of Jews, but to the many Iles, that is, the Gentiles (compare Isa. 42. 4. with Matth. 12. 21.) who are exhorted to rejoyce in his reign, which they could not do, till he actually reigned over them, verse 1. II. Described, very figuratively under sundry Metaphors: shewing that as it were all Creatures in Heaven and Earth yeild Testimony and obeysance to Christ Reigning, and that more gloriously then at the giving of the Law in Mount-Sinai, Exod. 19. Deut 4. & 5. His Reign is described, 1. By his inaccessible and incomprehensible Majesty; The cloud and darknesse round about him. 2. By the righteousnes of his Throne, (1) Towards his own, verse 2. (2) Towards his Enemies. To whom he is as a devouring fire, verse 3. 3. By his power and terribleness to the whole World: So that the most strong and senslesse Creatures quake and melt at his presence, verse 4. 5. 4. By the universal conspicuousnes of his Righteousnes and Glory, verse 6.

II. The consequent effects or uses of this Kingdome of the LORD Christs are represented, 1. In regard of all Idolaters: They shall be confounded. 2. In respect of the Angels: they all shall worship him, verse 7. 3. In respect of the Church, Typified by Sion, and the people of God. (1) They shall observe and acknowledge the LORD's judgments and righteous administrations. (2) They shall rejoyce and be glad at the hearing thereof, verse 8. These consequent effects are all amplyfied by the reason why they should ensue from this Kingdom of the LORD: which reason is drawn from the LORD's incomparable excellency and supereminent Majesty above all in Heaven and Earth, (as Eph. 1. 20. 21. 22.) ver. 9.

III. Finally, An Hortatory conclusion is annexed. Wherein consider, I. The Persons exhorted; The Lovers of the LORD. A periphrasis of Christs true Saints and Subjects. II. The Duties whereunto they are incited, viz. 1. Hating of evil. This Duty is urged, (1) From the LORD's constant Protection, or keeping the Souls of his Saints. (2) From his delivering them out of the hand of the Wicked, verse 10. (3) From his preparing for future, Light and Gladnesse, i.e. Soul-refreshing Comforts after troubles for the just and upright in heart. (ἐν δικαίοις) The same thing in several expressions as Esth 8. 16.) this is Elegantly set forth in the Similitude of Sowing Seed, Which comes not up till afterwards, verse 11. 2. Rejoycing in the LORD, their King. 3. Thankfull confession at the remembrance of his Holines, who is the Author of all good, and the Averter of all evil from his Saints, verse 12.

p Dominus regnavit] ille qui stetit ante judicem, ille qui alapas accepit, ille qui flagellatus est, ille qui conspitus est, ille qui spinis coronatus est, ille qui colaphis cæsus est, ille qui in ligno sulpensus est, ille cui pendenti in ligno insultatum est, ille qui in cruce mortuus est, ille qui lancea percussus est, ille qui sepultus est, ipse resurrexit: Dominus regnavit. §. 3. The Kinde, Penman and Occasion.

This is the only Psalme, that hath meerly this Title; מזמור Mizmor, A Psalme. The sense of this word hath been formerly explicated [m]. This Psalme is of mixt Kinde, being Hortatory, Laudatory, and Prophetical. Hortatory and Laudatory, Exhorting Jews, Gentiles, and all Creatures to praise the LORD for his Salvation, &c. Prophetical, foretelling the marvellous victoriousnesse of Christ our King over his and our Spiritual enemies by his own power, so working our Salvation, and revealing it to all the Nations of the World: So that both Jews, Gentiles, and all Creatures are incited to triumph with praises in the LORD's triumphs. It is evidently of like Argument with the two Psalmes foregoing. Yea, not only the Matter, but the very words and Phrases are many of them the same with those in Psal. 96. which further confirmes; that as that, so this, is Prophetical also. And most Expositors do account it A Prophecy of Christ and his Salvation: and so interpret it. As Augustine, Hierome, Junius, Calvin, H. Mollerus, Ames, Ainsworth, Sim. de Muis, &c.

Penman of it, is most probably supposed to be David, because it so notably agrees with Psalme 96. both in Matter and Expressions: which 96. Psalme was Penned by David, See 1 Chron. 16. 7.—23. &c.

Occasion of Davids writing this Psalme, is not particularly any where laid down. But possibly it might be some wonderful and glorious victory given by the LORD unto David and Israel over their enemies the Heathen-Nations about them, as those recorded, 2 Sam. 8. which were great matter of peace and joy to Israel, as this Psalme imports. But in this Psalme David reaches higher, under these Types and Shadows of his Victories, to celebrate Prophetically the most glorious and wonderful Spiritual Victories of the King Christ over his Spiritual enemies for the Salvation and surpassing Consolation of all his among Jews and Gentiles [n]. And this New Song, imports not any vulgar or ordinary, but an exquisite and extraordinary occasion of Mercy and Salvation: such as is peculiarly found in Christ our Saviour [o].

§. IV. The

§. IV. The Scope.

The Scope herein especially intended, is; To incite both Jews, Gentiles, and all Creatures in their kind to rejoyce and praise the LORD triumphantly; for his marvellous Salvation wrought for his people against their Heathenish enemies: but most of all for his miraculous Victories over all our Spiritual enemies by Jesus Christ and his Kingly power, for the Salvation of both Jews and Gentiles, throughout the World.

§. V. The Analysis, or Principal Parts.

The Title prefixed, contains only the Denomination of it; A Psalme.

The Psalme it self contains a threefold Exhortation to joy and praise, especially in reference to Christ and his Victorious, Salvifical, and Righteous Kingdom.

I. Jews are Exhorted. Where note, 1. The Excellent Duty Exhorted to; Singing a new Song to the LORD. A new Matter calls for a new Song, said Hierome p. II. The Grounds or Reasons of this Duty. More Generally, because he had done wonders. More Particularly, because, 1. The LORD, by his own meete power, had wrought Salvation and got him the victory over his enemies; Sin, Death, Hell, Satan, &c. especially, ver. 1. 2. The LORD hath made known this his Salvation. 3. He hath revealed his Righteousness in Christ, to the very eyes of the Nations, ver. 2. 4. The LORD hath remembred his Mercy and Truth to the house of Israel, (sweetly accomplishing them in Christ and his Kingdom. 5. All the ends of the Earth have seen the Salvation of our God. God hath made it known, there's the Cause: all have seen it, there's the Effect, vers. 3. These the wonders which the LORD hath done.

p Hieronim. in Comment. ad Psal. 97.

II. Gentiles are Exhorted. Where consider, 1. Who are Exhorted; All the Earth. All the Nations of the Earth. 2. What they are exhorted to do; To expresse and testifie all manner of joy, and thankful praises. This is laid down in an heap of Pathetical expressions full of Elegancy. 3. To whom all this joy and praise is to be peculiary directed; To the LORD, to the King JEHOVAH, ver. 4, 5, 6.

III. All Creatures are Incited also (by an elegant Prosopopeia) in their kind, to rejoyce and triumph in the LORD Christ. Here we have, 1. An Enumeration of Creatures incited to all possible acts of joy and triumph. Sea, and its fulness. World, and its indwellers. Rivers and Mountains 2. The acts of joy, and expressions of triumph required from them, Metaphorically, Roaring, Clapping the hands, Shouting-joyfully together, verse 7, 8. 3. To whom, or in whose presence these exultations are to be performed; Before the face of the LORD. 4. The Cause or Reason of all this, (1) Because the LORD comes to judge the Earth. He is Judge of the World. (2) Because, he will judge the World and people therein with Righteousnesse and uprightnesses; that is, most righteously and most uprightly, ver. 9.

§. III. The Kinde, Penman, and Occaſion.

This Pſalme, as many others, (See Pſal. 1. §. 4.) is without Title in the Hebrew. Though it be intituled, A Pſalme of David: by the Greek Verſion of the LXXII. by the Vulgar Latin, and by the Æthiopick Verſion [i]. The Kinde of it is mixt: being Hortatory, Laudatory, Prophetical and Conſolatory. Hortatory, inciting Gods People to Praiſe his Name, ver. 3. To exalt him and worſhip before him, ver. 5 9. And this Exhortation is recited as the Burden of the Pſalme elegantly in three diſtinct verſes, viz. ver. 3, 5, 9. Laudatory, Praiſing and magnifying the Majeſty and matchleſs greatneſs of the LORD's Kingdom in Sion, in his Church: As alſo the benefits of his Kingdom, doing Judgement and Juſtice, hearing his Peoples Prayers, forgiving their ſins, &c, Prophetical, under this Kingdom of the LORD's, and the benefits thereof, pointing out Chriſts Kingdom, and the ſpiritual advantages thereof to his Church: The LORD ruling therein, and ſhewing theſe favours thereunto, in and by Jeſus Chriſt, to whom hee hath committed all judgment, John 5. 22, 23. For, as divers obſerve, This Pſalme is of like nature to Pſal. 96 97, 98. which are Prophetical. Auguſtine, Hierom, and many our later Writers interpret this Pſalme of Chriſt [k]. It is Conſolatory alſo to the Church of God againſt the Croſs, and all her potent violent enemies under Satan: They rage againſt her, and the Saints, but the Lord Chriſt reignes, to Protect his, and deſtroy their enemies, ver. 1, &c.

i Bibl. Polyglott. in Pſ. 99.

k Hen. Moller. in Arg. Pſ. 99. —— Fran. Jun. in Annot ad Pſ. 99.

Penman of it cannot certainly be determined upon. But probably David wrote it: for the Language is like his, Compare ver. 1. with Pſal. 96. 10. and 93. 1. and 97. 1. The Greek, Latin, Arabick, Syriack, and Ethiopick Verſions [l], referre it to David. So doth Hierom [m], and other Writers.

Occaſion of the Pſalmiſts writing this Pſalme in particular is not evident. It ſeems to be penned upon ſome ſuch like Occaſion as the three former Pſalmes. But, as Calvin notes, herein this Pſalme differs from them, that its only directed to the Jewes [n].

§. IV.

§. IV. The Scope.

The Scope herein is, To exhort and incite Gods Church and People, from the Majesty of the LORD their King, The benefits of his Kingdome, and the Example of Fore-fathers, To praise his Name, Exalt him, and Worship before him at his Holy Hill, ver. 3, 5, 9.

§. V. The Analysis, or Principal Parts.

In this Psalme is laid down elegantly, as the burden thereof, a threefold Exhortation, for substance the same, but in variety of Expressions. As,

I. An Exhortation to Confess the Name of the LORD: To confess it with praise, ver. 3. This Exhortation is urged, 1. From the LORD's Kingdome. Amplyfied, by the vexation of his and his peoples enemies thereat. 2. From the Presence of this King in his Church; sitting between the Cherubims. Illustrated, by the Earth's shaking thereat, or being moved with indignation or fear, ver. 1. 3. From the LORD's greatness, and matchless Highness in his Church over all people in the World, ver. 2. 4. From his Names Greatness, Dreadfulness, and Holyness, ver. 3.

II. An Exhortation, to Exalt the LORD, and to Worship at his foot-stool, ver. 5. This is briefly but forcibly pressed, 1. From the eminent righteousness of this King the LORD, set forth in three Expressions; (1) His Strength (whereby he is able to execute judgment for his own against his and their enemies) loveth judgment. (2) Hee hath established righteousness: i.e. Lawes and things most righteous. (3) Hee hath done judgment and justice in Jacob, in the Church, actually, ver. 4. 2. From his Covenant-Relation to his people; Our God. 3. From his Holyness, ver. 5.

III. An Exhortation to Exalt the LORD, and Worship at the Hill of his Holyness. At Mount Sion: in his Church, &c. ver. 9. This is enforced, 1. From the Example of Fore-fathers worshipping the LORD: whereof three eminent persons are mentioned, Moses, Aaron, and Samuel, who as Priests and Intercessours were wholly employed in Gods Worship, and especially in calling upon the LORD. And therefore the highest and greatest should not disdain nor despise Gods Worship. 2. From the LORD's gracious Acceptance of their worship performed to him, (1) Answering them; and speaking to them, in the pillar of cloud, his will and pleasure: (They keeping his Testimonies and Decree which he gave them,) ver. 6, 7. (2) Pardoning and taking away their sin: yet taking vengeance of their Practises and Inventions. That, for their and our comfort: This, for their and our Caution, ver. 8. 3. From the LORD's Covenant-Relation to his people; our God. 4. From the LORD's Holyness. Who therefore is to be sanctified by his peoples holy worship of him, ver. 9. Now all these Exhortations, and Arguments enforcing them are very applicable unto our LORD and King Jesus Christ.

§. III. The Kinde, Penman, and Occasion.

This Psalme is Hortatory and Gratulatory. It Exhorts unto thankful Gratulation and Confession of praise unto the LORD: and this from sundry cogent Motives. It is very short, but very full and sweet: short in words, but full and sweet in Matter. A few verses (said Augustine) bigg with great things f. It Exhorts hereunto, not only the Church of the Jewes, but all the Earth, ver. 1. Whereupon some think this Psalme to be in a sort Prophetical, and indited by a Spirit of Prophecy, foreseeing and foretelling the calling of the Gentiles into one Church-body with the Jewes, by Jesus Christ g. For, till all the Earth, the Gentiles be called, they cannot (as here is required) confess unto God, or praise him for those spiritual mercies, which are here made the matter and ground of Gods praise. And therefore I see not, why we may not account this Psalme Atacit Prophecy of the calling of the Gentiles unto Christ, as elsewhere upon like ground the Apostle accounts, Psal. 117. to bee: See Rom. 15. 9, 10, 11. So that both Jewes and Gentiles should with triumphant cheerfulness sing this Psalme of Confession and Praise in their solemn Assemblies.

Penman of it is supposed to be David, because the Matter and Current of it is so suitable to these foregoing Psalmes, viz. 96, 97, 98, 99.

Occasion, seems pointed out in the Title, That it might be used, by the Catholick Church consisting both of Jewes and Gentiles throughout all the Earth, as a Forme of Solemn Confession and Praise to God, for his Greatness, Graciousness, Goodness, Loving-kindness and Truth. The Chaldee, Rasi, and Kabnenaki think this Psalme was written, that it might be sung at Sacrifices of Confession or Thank-Offerings h.

§. IV. The Scope.

The intended Scope of this Psalme, is; To Exhort and Incite all the Earth, all the Church of God throughout the Earth, To Confess unto and Praise the LORD with all possible Devotion, Joy, and Cheerfulness, in their Solemne Assemblies: especially for his 1. Greatness, 2. Graciousness, 3. Goodness, 4. Mercy or Loving-kindness, And 5. Truth or Faithfulness.

§. V. The

§. V. The Analysis, or Principal Parts.

The Title, which is peculiar to this Psalme onely, hath in it, 1. The Denomination of this part of Scripture; A Psalme. 2. The special end and use of the Psalme, For Confession; viz. Thankful confession unto the LORD: As the current of the whole Psalme evinceth.

The Psalme itself contains principally An Exhortation of all the Earth, to confess and praise God. Wherein are,

I. A Description of that Confession to, and Praise of God, whereunto all the Earth is Exhorted. It must be, 1. Compleat in all its parts. As is hinted in the abundance of Hortatory Expressions. Shouting Triumphantly, Serving the Lord with gladness, Singing-joy, Confession, Praise, Blessing, &c. 2. Most zealous and fervent; Shout triumphantly to the LORD, ver. 1. 3. With religious service and observant-worship to the LORD; Serve yee the LORD. Herein especially the essence of it must consist. 4. Most cheerful, joyful, and free-hearted; with gladness, with singing-joy, ver. 2. 5. Grounded on knowledge of God, and of the great causes which we have of praising him; Know yee that—— ver. 3. 6. Solemn, in publique Assemblies; Enter yee his Gates with Confession, his Courts with Praise, ver. 4.

II. A Declaration of the Grounds or Motives, inciting forcibly to this so eminent Prayse of the LORD. And they are drawn, 1. From the LORD's glorious Nature and Greatness; He is God. 2. From his eminent Graciousness to us; He made us: viz. Not only Naturally, by Creation, Gen. 1. 26. but also, and especially Spiritually and Supernaturally by Regeneration, Sanctification, Adoption into Covenant with himself, and other high blessings, &c. As the word [made] elsewhere imports, 1 Sam. 12. 6. Deut 32. 6. Isai. 43. 7. and 29. 23. Ephes. 2. 10. This his making us, is Illustrated, (1) By the Contrary; ולא אנחנו ve lo anachnu, and not wee: that is, we have not made our selves what we are, either in Nature, or in Grace; All is wholly from the LORD alone. Or, this passage may bee an Illustration of Gods making us, by the effect thereof: here being another reading in the Margin; ולו אנחנו ve lo anachnu, and to him wee: viz. appertain. Or; and his wee, viz. are. Either reading is good or suitable enough here in this place. (2) By two choice fruits and advantages resulting from the LORD's thus making us, viz. 1 Our Covenant-state and Relation to God; His People. 2 The LORD's constant care of us, (thus brought to be his by Covenant,) as a Shepheard hath of his Sheep. Metaphor. ver. 3. This verse also may be thus read, with a Parenthesis; Know yee that the LORD he is God, He made us (and not we) his People, and Sheep of his Pasture h. But the sense comes all to one. 3. From the LORD's Goodness. 4. From his Loving-kindness, or loving-kinde-mercy. Amplyfied by its Adjunct, Perpetuity. 5. From his Truth or Faithfulness. Illustrated also by its Adjunct, Constancy, to all Generations, ver. 5.

A Psalme of David.

1. SIng Mercy and Judgment will I;
LORD, I'le sing-Psalme to thee.
2. I'le-wisely-do in perfect way,
When thou shalt come to mee:
[a] I will walk in-midst of mine House
In mine heart's perfectness.
3. Before mine eyes [a] will not propose
[b] A thing of wickedness,
I hate [c] their doing that-divert:
Mee it shall not cleave to.
4. The froward heart from mee shall part,
I will not evil know.
5. In secret [d] who-with-tongue-doth-hurt
His neighbour, Him [e] I'le stroy:
The proud of eyes, and vast of heart,
Him suffer cannot I.

[a] Heb. I will not set or put.
[b] Heb. word (or thing) of Belial.
[c] Heb. the doing of decliners-of-turners-aside.
[d] Heb. who-backbiteth.
[e] Heb. I will cut off.

6. Upon the faithful of the Land Mine eyes shall bee, f That they May dwell with mee: He shall g mee serve,
That walks in perfect way.
7. Within my House sit shall not hee
That doth deceit; Who lyes
Doth speak, shall not establish'd bee
Before my piercing eyes.

8. All wicked of the Land I shall h Betimes cut-down with sword:
For to cut-off i ill workers all
From City of the LORD.

f Heb. for to sit with me.
g Heb. minister to mee.
h Heb. at morning.
i Heb. all workers of iniquity.

§. III. The Kinde, Penman, and Occasion.

This Psalme is Doctrinal. Wherein David solemnly and seriously professing unto God his godly and upright Resolutions for the due management of his Kingly Office and Government, both as to his Person, Family or Court, and Kingdome; notably teacheth, what are the most desirable Properties and Perfections in a good and religious King. Hence, This Psalme setting forth so many choice Excellencies and Duties of a Good King, is justly stiled by some; Speculum Regum, A Looking-Glass for Kings [k]. And indeed herein Kings may behold the beauty of good Kingly Government, lively represented in the principal Vertues of Kings, whereunto all their other Vertues may easily be referred: and contrariwise the deformity of bad Government in the contrary Vices of wicked Princes, such as King Saul was, whose ill administration probably David did tacitly glaunce at in this Psalme. O that all Christian Kings and Princes would seriously study and meditate upon this Royal Psalme, and Resolve to conforme themselves, their Families or Courts, and Government, to this Princely Pattern laid before them therein! Nor need the greatest Prince or Emperour in this world disdain to imitate the Royal Example of King David the first King of Israel of Gods choice, A man after Gods own heart, one of the choicest of all Israels Kings, and an eminent Type of Jesus Christ the King of Kings k Sim. de Muis in Arg. Psal. 101.

Penman of this Psalme was David: as the Title shows. Thirty three Psalmes have this very Title prefixed: as I have formerly showed [l].

l See the Preface before the Psalmes. §. VI. numb. IV.

Occasion of his writing it, is not particularly noted here or elsewhere: But it may probably be gathered from the Psalme more Generally, That after David was Annoynted King over all Israel, applying himself religiously and conscienciously to the well-administration and Government of the Kingdome, he solemnly, in the integrity of his heart, Professeth and promiseth before the LORD, to behave himself in his Person, Family, and Kingdome, as is expressed in this Psalme. Calvin thinks [m], this he wrote before he came to the Throne, after he was Annoynted. But because he mentions here his Government in the City of God, ver. 8. which was Jerusalem, where he reigned not, till he was Annoynted King over all Israel; its probable he wrote not this Psalme till then.

m Ioan. Calvin. in Arg. Psal. 101.

§. IV. The Scope.

Davids Scope herein intended, is; Solemnly and sincerely to profess unto the LORD his religious and conscientious Resolution touching the well-governing of himself, his Family or Court, and Kingdome: and therein to propound himself a Pattern of a Good King to all in Regal Authority; Laying down before them the chief Vertues and Duties wherein they should especially imitate him.

§. V. The Analysis, or Principal Parts.

In the Title are signified, 1. The Denomination of it; A Psalme. 2. The Penman of it; David.

The Psalme itself hath in it, Davids Profession or Promise of his Good Government. Touching which note two things: viz.

1. A General and Summary Proposition of his good Government intended, ver. 1. Where note, 1. The two great Points or Acts of good Government are mentioned; Mercy, and Judgment. Some referre these two to Gods Government, in Mercy over his People, in Judgment over the wicked [n]: but they are rather to be referred to Davids Government. 2. Davids thankful acknowledgment of God, as the fountain of these, for which he resolves to sing Psalmes and Praise to him.

n Aug. in Enarrat. Psal. 100. cum Ioan. Calv. Com. ad Psal. 101. 1. Joan. Foord in Expos. Psal. 101. in Analys.

II. A Particular Explication of this Propoſition, Unfolding wherein his Good Government intended ſhould conſiſt. And this in reſpect of 1. His Perſon, 2. His Court and Family. 3. His Kingdome.

1. In reſpect of his Perſon, He Reſolves and Promiſeth, To walk in a right way or courſe of life; I will do wiſely in a perfect way. This his perfect and upright way is deſcribed and illuſtrated, 1. By its directing Cauſe, Wiſdome or Prudence. 2. By its mooving Cauſe; Gods viſiting, or coming to him to call him to an account. Some make this, The aſſiſting and helping Cauſe. 3. By the eſſential manner of a good life; the integrity of his heart. 4. By the Subject-place wherein; In midſt of his Houſe. Privately and Publickly, ver. 2. 5. By his eſchewing and utter abandoning of all contrary evils. This is gradually laid down; (1) He will not intend or ſet before his eyes any word, or thing of Belial, of diſſoluteneſs or wickedneſs. §. 3. The Kinde, Penman, Occasion, &c.

This Psalme is in the Nature and Kinde of it, A Prayer: as the Title expresseth it. A very mournful, yet comfortable Prayer: Penned, either by the poor-afflicted, when he was overwhelmed; or for the poor-afflicted, when he should be overwhelmed, &c. as the Title declares the use of it.

a Fran. Jun. in Annot. ad Psal. 102. 1. Joan. Foord Expos. Psal. 102. tit, Sim. de Muis in Arg. Psal. 102.

Penman of it is by sundry Interpreters a supposed to be Daniel: though hereof they can give no cogent grounds.

Occasion of writing this Psalme, (whether by Daniel, or some other Prophet) seems to be the extream afflictions and miseries of the Jewes through their being carried captive into Babylon, as seems not obscurely to be hinted in verse 23. thinks Junius in his Annotations thereon.

And the particular time of writing it, was doubtless a little before the seventy years of their Captivity, foretold by Jeremiah c. 25. 12. and 29. 10. were accomplished, and their promised deliverance was now at the doors: As verse 13, 14. do notably evince. And as at that time Daniel afflicted himself, and Prayed for the Captives Restauration, Dan. 9. 1, &c. So it may be thought about the same time Daniel or some other Prophet wrote this Psalme b as a Forme of Prayer to be used then by the poor-afflicted Church of God, for the Reparation of the Temple, and of Jerusalem; as Calvin hath noted c. And its an Excellent Prayer which Gods Church and People may use, in lamenting the Churches ruined and miserable condition, and imploring her Deliverance, Restitution, and Reformation.

§. IV

§. IV. The Scope.

The Scope intended in this Prayer, is; 1. To direct the Church of God (deeply distressed in Babylon, but now near the time of her deliverance thence according to Gods Promises,) earnestly to importune the LORD for her deliverance, and for an happy Restauration of the Temple and Jerusalem[d], verse 13,14, &c. 2. And consequently, To instruct the Church of God in all after times, (by this Example) how to behave her self towards God in her deepest miseries and persecutions, trusting in him and flying to him by earnest Prayer for Restauration and a thorow Reparation of her Ruines. 3. Yea to teach every poor-afflicted Soul how to poure out his Meditation before the Lord in his deepest overwhelming afflictions. Title.

d Quisquis ex Prophetis fuerit Author Psalmi, certum est, eum dictasse precandi formam pro Templi & Urbis reparatione. Jo. Calvin in Com. ad Psal 102.1.

§. V. The Analysis, or Principal Parts.

The Title sets forth, 1. The Kinde of this Psalme; A Prayer. 2. The use of it; A Prayer of the poor-afflicted: or, for the poor-afflicted, i. e. A Form of Prayer, fit for the poor-afflicted Church to use, or which any poor-afflicted person may make use of. 3. The Season of such use; when he shall be overwhelmed, and shall poure out———.

The Psalme it self contains 1. The Preface. 2. The Substance of the Prayer. 3. The Conclusion.

I. The Preface. Wherein he earnestly craves Audience from the LORD. Here note, 1. The vehemency and fervency of his Prayer. Partly signified by the Effects, viz. His crying and calling. Partly, illustrated by the Cause thereof, viz. Distress upon him. 2. The LORD's Audience begged, is described, (1) By the Nature of it. It consists, in Hearing, in letting his cry come unto him, in not hiding his face from him, in inclining his ear to him, and in answering him. (2) By the adjunct speedinesse of such Audience, *ver.*1,2.

II. The Substance of the Prayer hath in it, 1. A Pathetical complaint of present miseries. 2. An earnest request or Petition for relief, urged by sundry Arguments. By all which the Petition for speedy Audience is notably enforced.

1. A Pathetical complaint of the present overwhelming miseries, upon the poor afflicted: These are declared, 1. By their parts, viz. (1) The outward Consumption of his flesh, *ver.*3. (2) The inward burning up and withering of his heart; aggravated by the sad Effect thereof, his forgetting to eat his bread, *ver.*4. (3) His deep groaning, whence his bone cleaves to his skin, ver. 5. (4) His extream desolation and solitarinesse. Represented by three Similitudes of three Solitary Birds. *ver.*6, 7. (5) His enemies constant Reproaches, madness, and swearing against him, verse 8. (6) The extream meanness and mournfulnesse of his condition, verse 9. 2. By their Cause. Gods indignation and wrath having brought all these distresses upon him. God having lift him up, and cast him down, *ver.*10. 3. By the sad result and fruit of all these miseries upon him, viz. The decaying and vanishing of his life and strength, ver. 11. 4 By their contrary, and sufficient remedy against all this frailty and misery, viz. Gods Eternity, verse 12. and his Mercy, verse 13, &c.

2. An earnest Petition for mercy to Sion, laid down by way of assured and comfortable perswasion that God had heard according to the former request, and would have mercy upon Sion, ruined, desolated, &c. thou wilt restore the Temple and City, and bring back thy Captives. This is excellently illustrated and confirmed, 1. By the Adjunct Opportunity of time. The promised time of deliverance being come, *ver.*13. 2. By the earnest desire of Gods people the Jewes, longing for the Re-edifying of the Temple and City, verse 14. 3. By the Effects hereof upon the Heathen, and Kings of the Earth; thereupon fearing God, *ver.*15. 4. By the Effects hereof upon and towards Gods people, when he shall build up Sion, &c. For, then; (1) The LORD shall appear to them, and among them, in his Glory, *ver.*16. (2) He shall demonstrate, that he hath actually heard the Prayer of the destitute and desolate, verse 17. (3) This Proceeding and Providence of God shall be left upon Record to Posterity, and people that shall be hereafter Created shall for it praise the LORD, *ver.*18. This their recording of Gods Acts, and praising him, is illustrated; Partly, From Gods gracious proceeding herein, viz. Looking down from Heaven to the Earth: To hear the groans of the Captives, and release the Sons of Death, designed for Death, or nigh to Death, *ver.*19,20. Partly from Gods end herein intended, viz. Declaring hereby his Name in Sion, and his praise in Jerusalem, *ver.*21. which is illustrated by the Adjunct time when God shall thus be magnified, viz. when People and Kingdoms (that is, either the people of the Jewes out of all Kingdoms: or Jewes and the Kingdoms of Gentiles, which was fulfilled in dayes of Apostles, *Act.*2.) should be gathered together at Jerusalem, or into one Church body, to serve the LORD. *ver.*22.

III. The Conclusion of the Prayer, is Petitory. Wherein, 1. A great and grievous affliction is commemorated, viz. That which befell the Jewes in their being carried to Babylon, ver. 23. 2. A Petition thereupon presented, deprecating imminent ruine, is declared, verse 24. beginning.

3. The Argument whereby this Petition was urged, is signified to be drawn from Gods Eternity and unchangeablenesse, verse 24. This Eternity of God is proved, (1) Partly, because God was before the Worlds Creation, verse 25. (2) Partly, because God shall remain after the Worlds Consummation, ver. 26, 27. 4. The sweet Consolation received from God upon this Praying to him is Celebrated: viz. Assured perswasion of the Continuance of his Servants Children, and of their Seeds establishment before the LORD, ver. 28.

§. III. The Kinde, Penman, and Occaſion.

This Pſalme is moſt Sweet, Deſirable, and Comfortable: As the choice Matter thereof clearly evidenceth. The Kinde of it is Laudatory and Euchariſtical: wherein the Pſalmiſt highly tranſported with zeal of Gods Glory, moſt thankfully bleſſeth and praiſeth him for his many remarkable Benefits. And he provokes himſelf, the Angels, Hoaſts, and all works of the LORD to bleſs the LORD; Circularly returning again to the Provocation of himſelf unto this Duty, verſe 1.——22.

Penman of it, as the Title ſhowes, was David. When he wrote it is altogether uncertain.

Occaſion of his writing it, in the General; were the Lords manifold and eminent Mercies to himſelf, and others of Gods people, which here he thankfully commemorates and celebrates. But what theſe Mercies, manifeſted to him, were particularly and individually; and when they were actually imparted to him, is not eaſie to determine.

It is a pleaſant and profitable Obſervation which Junius [a] hath touching this 103. Pſalme and the four following Pſalmes, viz. 104. 105. 106. and 107. viz. That theſe Pſalmes are on purpoſe joyned and ſet together, that in one Context the Church of God might have Arguments of Gods praiſes; Ordinary and Extraordinary. 1. Ordinary; In reſpect of Gods Adminiſtrations ordinary, (1) Towards the Church and People of God, in Pſal. 103. (2) Towards all Creatures, in Pſal. 104. 2. Extraordinary; In reſpect of Gods Diſpenſations extraordinary; viz. (1) Towards the Church, by Benefits, Pſal. 105. by Chaſtiſements, Pſal 106. (2) Towards all, by eminent Providences, in Pſal. 107. And unto this Diſtribution, The Matter of theſe five Excellent Pſalmes doth ſo admirably agree, that I may juſtly ſtile them, The Churches Cinque-Ports of Thankfulneſs. Or, The Churches five-fold Directory or Platform for Divine Praiſes. A little Pentateuch of Praiſes.

[a] Fran Jun. in Annotat. ad Pſal. 103. 1.

§. IV. The Scope.

Davids Scope intended in this 103. Pſalme, is; 1. To incite himſelf, and all his inwards, to all poſſible thankfulneſs to the LORD for his many choice Benefits heaped upon him, &c. 2. As alſo (himſelf being wholly unable to praiſe the LORD enough) to provoke the Angels and all the Creatures of God to praiſe the LORD together with him. And in theſe Arguments of Praiſe, are comprized ſingular Grounds of Conſolation to Gods people touching Gods tender-mercies in remitting their ſins, and allaying all their Chaſtiſements, verſe 8. to 20. The Pſalme is an Excellent Platform of praiſing and bleſſing the LORD for his peculiar Mercies upon them that fear and obey him, and keep Covenant with him: which any Child of God may ſweetly make uſe of, for enlarging his heart in true thankfulneſſe.

§. V. The

b See the Preface before the Psalmes, §.VI. The General Partition, &c. numb. IV.

§. V. The Analysis, or Principal Parts.

The Title indicates David, to be Penman of this Psalme; of David. Nine Psalmes, (viz. 25. 26. 27. 28. 35. 37. 103. 138. 144.) have only this Title without any other addition at all in the Hebrew b, wherein we are to understand a Psalme, or Song, or Hymne, &c. of David, according to the Nature of it.

In the Psalme it self. David layes down four things, viz.

I. A Preparatory Excitation of himself unto the due praises of the LORD. Wherein note, 1. The Principle, or Efficient Cause of this Act of praising God, viz. His Soul, and all his inward Faculties and Affections. Synechdochically, his whole man. 2. The way or manner of his preparing his Soul and all his Inwards to this Act, viz. By a reflection upon himself with much zeal and fervency, The Incitation being doubled. 3. The Formal Object of this blessing and praise; The Name of the LORD's holiness. 4. The Meane and manner of this praising God, consisting especially in the due Commemoration of all his benefits, ver. 1,2.

II. A Gratulatory Commemoration of some choice Benefits for which the LORD is to be praised: which Benefits are most rich Cordials to the sincere Saints of God. These Benefits seem to be of three sorts, viz. I. Such as had respect to David peculiarly. As, 1. Remission of all his sins. 2. Healing of all his sicknesses, verse 3. 3. Redemption of him from mortal dangers. 4. Eminent Communication of all good things to him; Crowning him with loving-kindness and tender-mercies, ver. 4. 5. Donotion of such blessings as conduced to the sweetning and prolonging of his life. Renewing his youth, as the Eagles, ver. 5. II. Such as concerned the Church and People of God more Generally. As, 1. Righteous vindicating of all oppressed ones, and exercising judgement for them, ver. 6. 2. Notification, or Revelation, (1) Of his wayes: His Ordinances and Lawes, to Moses. (2) Of his Acts: His Eminent Providences, to the sons of Israel, ver. 7. 3. His most gracious and compassionate dealing with his own people that fear him, &c. This is set forth, and most sweetly illustrated, (1) Partly, By the Fountain of such his dealing with them, and deportment towards them, viz. Gods blessed Nature, described in four of his Essential Attributes; Tender-compassionateness, Graciousness, Long-suffering, and Loving-kindness ver. 8. (2) Partly, By some Principal Acts of Grace and Mercy expressed towards them, viz. Moderating and abating their afflictions, and his displeasure therein towards them; For duration, not alwayes chiding, ver. 9. For degree, not dealing according to sins desert, ver. 10. Remitting their iniquities, and removing them as far from them, as East from West. Which Attributes and Acts are illustrated by Emphatical Similitudes, ver. 11,12,13. (3) Partly, by the moving Causes inclining the Lord to such compassionate deportment towards his people, viz. 1. The Extremity of humane fragility, Exactly known to the LORD. This is Elegantly described, ver. 14,15,16. 2. The opposite constancy and Immutability of the LORD's Mercy to them that fear him, keep his Covenant: do his Commandments; and to their Children, ver. 17,18. III. Such as concern all Creatures, viz. The LORD's Supreame and Universal Dominion over all, ver. 19.

III. An Hortatory Provocation of the Creatures to blesse and praise the LORD together with him, viz. 1. His Angels described, (1) By their Power. (2) By their Obedience to his Word. (3) By their readiness to that Obedience, ver. 20. 2. His Hosts. That are his Instruments to do his Pleasure, ver. 21. 3. All his Works in all places of his universal Denomination, ver. 22.

IV. A Circulatory Reflection again upon himself, exciting his Soule, as in the beginning of the Psalme, to blesse the LORD. A thankful heart thinks it can never be quickned enough unto thankfulness, ver. 22. latter end.

Psalme CIV.

§. I. The Summary Contents.

The Psalmist, 1. Incites himself to praise the LORD, ver. 1. 2. Declares many Causes why he should so praise him, viz. His wonderful Works, (1) Of Creation, ver. 2. to 27. (2) Of Gubernation of the World Created, ver. 27. to 31. 3. Concludes this his Meditation of Gods Praises, ver. 31. to the end.
